SYNOD MEETING OPENS IN WAYNE

Three Will Be Ordained At German Lutheran Convention.

German Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Nebraska, which opened at Our Redeemer's church in Wayne last evening and which continues over Sunday, is being attended by about 100 ministers and delegates.

Loren Wolff of Sterling, Alfred Duis of Lanham, and Wolfgang Goemmel of Sutton, will be ordained at the meeting, the three being graduates of Martin Luther seminary of Lincoln.

The matter of merging Martin Luther seminary of Lincoln, with Northwestern seminary of Fremont will be considered.

Ordination of the three young men is set for this evening when Rev. K. Bieger of Tea, S. D., delivers the sermon in English and Rev. E. Wendt of Scribner, speaks briefly in German.

Rev. E. VonNussbaum of Doniphan, reads a paper Friday afternoon. Committees on the Sunday school and Luther League will report.

Whistle With a Bad Cold. The long, harsh roar of the town's whistle which invites people to start or stop work at certain junctures of the day, aroused a dog to give vent to a series of tremendous barks on Main street Friday noon.

Wayne Men Place In Golf Tourney. Dr. A. D. Lewis placed third in the first flight and Prof. F. G. Dale won the second flight in the winner invitation golf meet Sunday.

SUMMER TERM AT STATE'S COLLEGE OPENS THIS WEEK

BEGINNING of the summer session of the Wayne State Teachers College, with usually large enrollment, reminds one of the importance of the school to the community, and we are also reminded of the value of a live, loyal community to the school.

DEMAND COUNTY INCREASE LOAD

Federal Government Calls County Officials Into Conference Monday.

Wayne county has been asked to make a levy of not less than one-half mill for unemployment relief and in addition, not less than 1.43 mills for a poor relief fund in 1934.

Wayne county officials were told to "do their share" or else be dropped from federal relief rolls. It was explained by federal officials that governmental funds totalled nearly $10,000,000 for relief work in Nebraska during the past year.

Word from Lincoln this week changed all payrolls from 40c to 30c per hour for both men and women.

Report of Wayne Finishes County. With L. C. Gildersleeve's report turned in to County Assessor J. G. Bergt this week, records for the county are complete.

Old-Time Scrap Book Tells Much Of Life Among Early Settlers

Have you, somewhere in the dusty recesses of your attic or library, a long-forgotten scrap book...

Schuyler Fox of southwest of Wayne, has one such scrapbook which originated with his mother...

We read about a new mince-pie steer which has been bred by a Coloradoan. When killed and chopped up, the steer makes fine mince meat...

We find a ticket printed in the ornate, "elegant" type then in fashion...

mean, contemptible cuss turned her loose and let her go home, and it is not the first time the same horse has been turned loose...

Daniel Cook, oldest resident in Wayne, died at the A. S. Miner home at age of 87. Some years before his death he had requested Mrs. Rachel Richardson to preach his funeral sermon...

We learn that in the year 1879, Park hill community in Dixon county was considerably stirred up over poisoning of cattle on the William Park place...

Then there was some trouble over a mail-carrier and some pleasingly frank and expressive editor sums it up very capably thus: "The mullet-headed, bear-eyed damphool apology of a sub-contractor on the mail route between here and..."

A note of the marriage of Mr. H. H. Childs and Miss Blanche Beknap, Elder Merrill officiating, and of nuptials of Mr. H. H. Whipperman and Miss Jessie Wells on the same day...

Here's night life in the '30's. A surprise visit was paid to Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Welbaum in Hunter precinct February 8, 1894. High five was played until 12 o'clock when a heavy supper was served...

No family was more closely identified with the early history of Wayne county than the Hunters. When C. E. Hunter died at Wakefield in 1913 his pioneering days were recalled...

Announcement of the marriages of Mr. Anson A. Welch to Miss Anna B. Davies, and Mr. Frank N. Northrop to Miss Ida M. Ford in year 1885, leads the editor to comment that "the above announcements tell of suits prosecuted by two of Wayne's attorneys in another court than that of the dry and musty law..."

Another wedding—"The much-talked-of and long-expected social event of the season took place at Presbyterian church, March 18 when David C. Patterson and Miss Maude A. Gamble were united in the holy bonds of matrimony..."

Here's a birth record clipped from some local paper of uncertain date—"The past week has been a prolific one. I. N. Fickinger reports that a young lady put in an appearance at his house...

pair of homing boys. Back counties yet to be heard from!" And a novel marriage announcement—"C. I. Blake set up the cigars to the boys last week. Cause why—the boys accused him of having entered into a matrimonial contract which he did not deny. The bride was Miss Hattie Miner..."

A young woman from Homer started the countryside by jumping off a ferryboat plying between Sioux City and Covington. She gave her purse, handkerchief and three tins of soap to her companion who had just taken, to a companion before leaving.

Santa Claus Visits. A newspaper indulges in a little fun with "the boys" along about Christmas time, when the gifts found in the various stockings—"Enoch Hunter was the recipient of several injunctions and a whole cart-load of blank summons."

Wayne was much interested in the Gottlebe Niegenfind case of about 1903—he was the Pierce county man convicted of murdering his wife and her aged father. The convict was administered sacrament before his execution and Bixby in the Lincoln Journal, comments on his 11th hour conversion as follows: "The view from our sad sight is screened, and maybe it is well; we don't know just where Niegenfind will land—no one can tell; perhaps some day he may adorn a bright and shining sphere for now, as true as you are born he's catching hell down here."

A dark chapter in Wayne's history was the murder of DeGrasse W. Britton, prominent among early settlers. A negro section hand picked up a railroad pick and struck him on the head, during a conversation. This was in November, 1890, well within the memory of many of you readers. There were threats of lynching and a rope made its appearance when a crowd of 30 or 40 men went to the jail and demanded the prisoner, but the sheriff had taken him away, expecting trouble. His was the largest funeral ever seen in the county. Mr. Britton came to Wayne in 1881, locating between Wayne and Wakefield. He was county treasurer for four years, and engaged in the stock and implement business. An auctioneer and politician, he was known the length and breadth of the prairie county. A bluff, hearty and friendly man, he said there was no bigger hearted man for miles around. Not a better fighter for what he believed in. And here's a good cross-section of Wayne county's beginnings and adolescence.

Dr. J. J. Long died at Wakefield as result of a hunting accident, his gun exploding when he stooped to pick up a bird. Eugene Perry was also victim of an accident, being dragged to death by a cow. The seven-year-old son of W. J. Perry tied the rope around his waist to control the cow better and she dragged him to the pasture where other cows were grazing. They had a little trouble over at Hartington—a crowd mobbed an alleged wife-beater and several prosecutions grew out of it which greatly agitated the press of this locality. Here's something worth knowing if you're addicted to lock-jaw—smoke the wound with burning wool or woolen cloth and 20 minutes in the smoke will take out the pain and inflammation. Then we read about a Randolph "dude who drove down to the Logan last Tuesday to see his best girl and after supper started to take her out buggy-riding, but as he knows more about a bakery than about horses, he succeeded in getting the team hitched up wrong end to."

E. Fred Bartlett is killed in the battle of Manila, having enlisted under a fictitious name because he feared his father's opposition. J. W. Bartlett had applied to the government to have his son re-enlisted under his right name. January 12, 1888, brought the big blizzard which caused death of Miss Etta Shattuck, heroic Holt county teacher. She was lost during the storm and finally found her way to a haystack into which she crawled and lay for 78 hours before being rescued.

The younger generation was source of much worry then, even as now. Says an editorial writer: "Young girls with trim little tailor van, not to be outdone, trumped Flock's trick with a brand new boy, and now married, tired of playing solo, comes in to report upon the streets without escort or in groups of twos and threes at hours long past curfew time on any night of the week. There's a quick retort and a flippant jest from lips that should be repeating the multiplication tables at home, and a bold glance or brazen stare from eyes that should be veiled in maiden modesty. And most of them have homes that should shelter them after the sun goes down."

Jeffrey's. Harry Lessman of Laurel, called that afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thun spent Wednesday evening of last week in the Carl Frevert home. Miss Luella Pierson went Friday to visit her sister, Mrs. Gurney Prince, at Randolph for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farney and family spent Sunday in the Felix Patefield home near Laurel. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gibson of Omaha, called in the James McIntosh home last Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hamer and sons and Mrs. Hamer's niece, the last of Winside, called in the Ray Farney home Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bush and Anita were guests in the James McIntosh home Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johanson and daughters of Emerson, were Sunday afternoon and supper guests in the Adolph Dorman home. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Draghu and children of Carroll, were also afternoon callers. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Amos Rosacker and son and Ed. Andrews were visitors. Melvin, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson who live east of Wayne, was taken to a Sioux City hospital last week with a severe case of hives. Have you lost something valuable? Use a Herald want ad.

For the many courtesies extended during the state P. E. O. convention in Wayne, delegates and visitors express sincere appreciation through the courtesy committee, Miss Anne Geisler, Mrs. F. A. Davies and Mrs. J. A. Ray. They wish especially to thank Wayne State Teachers College and Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Conn for housing and meals at the school, Mrs. J. R.
