TWO YOUNG MEN DIE IN ACCIDENT

Wayne Car Collides With Truck On Sioux City Highway Sunday.

The highways took their toll of human life again on Sunday evening, snuffing out the lives of two young men from this locality, leaving one young woman near death, and another bruised and suffering.

The dead are John Thun, 32, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Thun of north of Wayne, and Harold Thomsen, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomsen of Wakefield. Miss Ruby Dinklau, daughter of the John Dinklaus of northwest of Wayne, is in semi-conscious condition at Wayne hospital, suffering from brain concussion, face and eye injuries, and broken bones in the head.

The young couples had spent the day at Ponca, then went on to Sioux City, stopping at Riverview park and witnessing a night baseball game at Stockyards park.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bonta of Carroll, were first to reach the scene of the accident, returning from Sioux City with an empty truck. Tom Dunn, Jr., Wayne lawyer, arrived soon after they began to help the injured men and were told to go around on the other side and "see what had happened."

According to the driver of the Foster truck, he had just shifted from low into intermediate when the accident occurred, and could not have been going very fast—no fast enough to get out of the way of the approaching car.

Mrs. Minnie Strickland and Miss Hazel Askerooth of Wayne, brought Miss Bruns to Allen, and then brought her on to Wayne hospital. Don O. Travers, Allen undertaker, came by in a coupe and took Miss Dinklau to that town, and was advised to rush her to Wayne hospital.

Farmers Signing Corn-Hog Papers

Wayne County Quota Is Met And Contracts Are Being Sent.

Corn and hog quotas assigned to Wayne county by the state board of review, were met June 20 by the county corn-hog allotment committee, and the county was approved by the board of review June 25.

Word from Washington, states G. H. Liggett, indicates that the triple A organization there has just finished handling cotton contracts from the south and is ready to work rapidly on the corn-hog contracts from the corn belt states.

Farmers with corn-hog contracts may harvest seed from sweet clover, red clover, alfalfa, or the other common meadow and pasture crops growing on contracted acres, according to an interpretation received in the county corn-hog association office.

Atlas sorgo is now officially considered as a sorghum and can be planted on the contracted acres. Since it is considered as a forage crop, the seed may be harvested if it matures this fall.

Hay raised on contracted acres may be sold or cut on shares, according to another announcement received from the corn-hog section. If the hay is sold, the proceeds should be divided by the tenants and landlords according to their crop share arrangement on other crops on the farm.

Permission has also been granted to plant any of the forage crops in rows instead of broadcasting or drilling them. This will save seed, get the seed planted in moist ground if there is any moisture in the soil, and insure a higher production of forage on the land than if the seed were broadcast or drilled.

Dormitory Report Shows Payments

Pile Hall Corporation Is Financing Building In Third Year.

Third annual report of Wayne State Teachers College Dormitory corporation, made by the secretary, Elva Brockway Miller, shows a payment of $14,616.38 in interest and $27,500 on principal of the $142,500 borrowed from the board of educational lands and funds, leaving a balance of $115,000 still due in bonds which bear interest at 5 percent from July 1, 1934.

Costs of the dormitory were as follows: C. E. Atwater, general contractor, $109,078.79; P. E. Mahmquist, electrical contractor, $5,029.23; E. L. Rodwell, heating and plumbing contractor, $18,044.64; Arthur D. Baker, architect, $6,619.13; and work on grounds, printing, incorporation, walks and insurance, $3,728.21.

First payment on the principal was made January 1, 1933, this being $5,000. Second payment was $12,500 on July 1, 1933. Third payment was $10,000 on January 1, 1934. Interest has been paid at regular intervals.

Under provisions of the statutes a non-profit dormitory corporation was formed to finance J. M. Pile hall. This corporation, with J. J. Ahern as president, C. M. Craven as vice president, Elva Brockway Miller as secretary, Rollie W. Ley as treasurer and Fred S. Berry, is acting under charter granted September 25, 1931. No member receives any compensation and no member is permitted to have any financial interest in the corporation. Neither is any member liable for any debts or obligations of the corporation.

By resolution of the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds, the corporation was authorized to borrow from state school funds not to exceed $150,000 to pay for Pile hall construction. The amount borrowed was $142,500 and bonds were issued by the dormitory corporation payable to the state treasurer with interest at 5 percent. The State Board of Education leased the dormitory when it was completed from the dormitory corporation and the income from the J. M. Pile hall, Nelhard hall, Council hall, Terrace hall and the college cafeteria, is pledged to be used to pay the interest and principal of these bonds from time to time as they become due. All room rent is collected by the college accountant and transmitted to the state treasurer in the same manner as other cash funds are handled. This money is vouchered out from the state treasury on vouchers inspected and approved by the State Board of Education, to pay interest and the face of the bonds. The dormitory corporation has no part whatsoever in handling the funds, except to endorse the warrant when drawn back to the state treasury.

All bonds issued by the dormitory corporation belong to the state treasury and have been in possession of the state treasurer since they were issued. These bonds are not for sale but form a part of the permanent school fund so long as they remain unpaid.

Another "Scoop" . . .

(Which, in newspaper lingo, means "putting it over" on the other fellows — and scoring a hit for the home office. Retail stores "scoop" every so often, too—that's what we've done and that's why we're all excited.)

Deliberate, too . . .

Such "coup d' etats" don't just happen — they have to be planned ahead, every detail given careful attention — then the buying public informed of the fortunate purchase.

It's a Matter of Pride with Us . . .

One of our little conceits, which you must pardon, is to give the Wayne buying public just a little more than expected, and to earn for THE GOLDEN RULE STORE the reputation for ECONOMY BUYING of quality goods.

Notable OGDEN L. Mills made two political speeches recently. One Speeches was addressed especially to the annual meeting of the Association of New York State Young Republican clubs, and in it he mentioned the substitution of the socialistic New Deal for the pledges of the national platform.

Mr. Mills quotes Prof. Tugwell on planning all kinds of production and fixing prices and wages, leaving everything to the government and little for the individual to bother about. Of course the things quoted were presented by Tugwell before he got into the government service and found out how impossible it is to make school room theories dovetail with practical experience.

Mr. Mills says the NRA has added to the burden of the consumer and the small business man, and with limited exceptions, has failed to improve conditions.

In his second speech Mr. Mills recalled the efforts of governments in the past to control industry and production. He called attention to the experience of an old bird by the name of Diocletian who ruled as emperor of Rome 300 years A. D. He fixed commodity prices and wages, and at one time regulated production and markets by ordering one-third of the vineyards of Italy plowed up.

Mark Sullivan would not like to see the obstructive tactics which were carried on during the last half of the Hoover administration repeated during the remaining period of the Roosevelt regime, and therefore while he would have the country reduce the unhealthy large democratic majority in congress, he would not have republicans gain complete control.

Two Young Men Die In Accident

Kindly accept our sincere and heartfelt thanks for all assistance, kindness and sympathy extended to us by our kind friends, neighbors and relatives at the sudden death of our beloved brother, Gustave Spittgerber.

House members seldom discussed and often did not understand measures introduced and passed. It is said members of the so called brain trust were sometimes surprised at the passage of bills they had prepared, and themselves asked for amendments when they discovered impractical provisions.

Lloyd George of England surprises us by criticizing the United States for not getting into the war sooner, and thus reducing the cost in men and money. But George forgets that it wasn't our war. We were not advised in advance, nor were we permitted to act as an intermediary for peace.

Congressman Snell has issued a statement in which he charges the administration with playing politics more extensively and elaborately than any political group within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Administration spokesmen, are to be sent out over the country to spread propaganda in behalf of policies which the same Washington inspiration claims have been enthusiastically accepted everywhere.

The senatorial committee inquiring into Prof. Tugwell's state of mind with reference to democracies and agricultural experience asked him to explain this sentence: "Chance has substituted itself for the anthropomorphic interpretation of history as a casual sequence."

Editor J. S. Kroh in his Keith County News presents the affront to the wisdom of the ages in the man-directed destruction of food products, and then makes this timely observation: "For seven years or longer 'farm relief' has been the football of politicians. They gave us the late shameful Farm Board. It was a failure and cost millions. The present Farm Act, with its acreage restriction program will be a bigger failure. It will cost billions."

Practical persons who cut garments according to the cloth, cannot understand the indiscretions of those who never fail to live beyond their means, who abuse whatever credit is granted and who envy those who are not oppressed by unpaid obligations or hounded by collectors whose confidence has been violated.

Officers have no snaps in detecting criminals or fixing guilt. The policeman or sheriff has to be careful to avoid casting suspicion on the innocent, and thus sometimes investigations unavoidably annoy innocent persons.

The Wayne county allotment committee is now receiving signatures to final corn-hog contracts, and we understand government checks in payment may be expected within a short time.

St. Helena Indian Home Is Dedicated

An Indian home, reconstructed as nearly as possible like the original, was dedicated Sunday at St. Helena where about 800 gathered for the program and inspected the structure. Dr. and Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis and family going from Wayne. Dr. Bell, Nebraska university Indian authority, discovered the dwelling when digging near St. Helena last summer. The house is of tree limbs, is about 23 by 28 feet and is built mostly of the ground. It is on the Wm. Schulte farm. Storage caves for food, utensils and pottery were restored like the original.

Home Is Entered

J. T. Bressler received word that his summer home at Lake Okoboji was entered recently. The Bresslers plan to go there soon.

HONESTY. The assumption that people are usually dishonest at heart, and that those who are strictly honest in practice are so because they think it is good policy does not speak well for the conscience, nor is it the generally accepted belief. The masses are honest because they feel that way. If a man lapses from accustomed honesty—if he does something that does not square with right principles—he takes an irreconcilable conscience to bed with him.

legislature, reduce tax spending bodies and make every dollar buy one hundred cents worth of service and goods. He would also repeal the primary law and have nominations made by party conventions. He says he would so run affairs that he would not have to build up a political machine to secure reelection.

Concert Program Planned By Band

Concert program of the Wayne municipal band at Bressler park Friday evening, June 28, 8:00 o'clock is as follows: March, "Old Comrades," Telke; overture, "The Wanderer," King; German patrol, "Guard Mount," Eilenberg; Spanish serenade, "La Paloma," Yradier; march, "Banner of Democracy," Hayes; vocal solo, "The Bells of Avalon," Cherney, and "My Blue Ridge Mountain Home," Robison, Richard Pinkham; march, "The Thunderer," Sousa; cornet trio, "The Three Solitaires," Herbert, Fern Erwin, Dorothy Hook and Neva Jones; valse from the ballet, "Coppelia," Delibes; selection from "Rio Rita," Tierney; baritone and cornet duet, "Two Little Bullfinches," Eling, F. C. Reed and Herman Eichhoff; serenade, "Love in Idleness," Macbeth; march, "International Vaudeville," Alexander.

Inspect Power Plant.

A delegation of four men from Central City, headed by August Schneiderheinz, mayor, and Ralph Eatough, city electrician, came last week to inspect Wayne's power plant, and a second group was here on Wednesday. Central City plans either to build a new plant or to renew its present power contract.

Accident Victim Better.

William Dick, farmer of Hoskins vicinity who was seriously injured in an auto accident on highway north of Norfolk June 16, is reported as slowly improving in a Norfolk hospital.

CONTRASTS.

How hard are the times? How bad off are we? When I was a boy my summer wardrobe would invoice around $5 cents. Country printers received from $6 to $10 a week, and raised families. The glorious Fourth now approaches. Spending money, the day's capital, entrusted to one boy on the Fourth amounted to from ten to twenty-five cents, and this munificent day justification was carefully dispensed.

Wm. Friener presided at the dedication. St. Helena mayor, Rev. Tieves, Rev. Wm. O'Gara of Laurel, J. P. O'Purvey of Hartington, Mrs. Marie Weekes of Norfolk, and F. D. Radke spoke. Dr. Bell was also present and gave the main talk, saying among other things that this reconstructed home is the only one such known in the United States. The house and caves indicate that these Indians were not nomads, but permanent settlers and perhaps were the first agriculturalists in Nebraska.

Home Is Entered

J. T. Bressler received word that his summer home at Lake Okoboji was entered recently. The Bresslers plan to go there soon.

Kiwanian Picnic Is Enjoyed On Monday

Kiwanians and their families, about 160 in all, attended the close-of-the-year picnic at Wayne country club Monday evening, the group being seated at several long tables in the club house and on porch. Following dinner, sports, races, and games were enjoyed under direction of Coach W. R. Hickman, A. T. Cavanaugh and R. L. Larson. The kittenball game between teams captained by William Beckenhauer and O. Mitchell, ended in fifth inning because of darkness. Fred S. Berry was umpire. This concludes the club activities until September.

Forcible Detainer Action Is Tried

Action in the county court to oust from her house John Ulrich and family, filed by Mrs. Anna Ulrich through her attorney, Russell Bartels, was tried Wednesday and judgment entered for the plaintiff. Mrs. Ulrich charges that her son, Sheriff A. W. Stephens is out of the family. A few days ago Mrs. Ulrich was brought before the insanity commission on complaint of Mrs. John Ulrich. She was judged sane.

College Quartet Invited To Chicago

Wayne State Teachers college quartet has received an invitation to come to the World's fair at Chicago and take part in a week's program. The request came from an official in charge of arranging music. Arthur Rowden of Coleridge, Clement Williamson of Santee, Arlington Prince of Winside, and Robert Gulliver of Wayne, make up the quartet, and Miss Ardath Conn directs. All expenses of the group while in Chicago would be taken care of by fair officials.

Recommendations must be made at least 10 days prior to the meeting.

Dixon County Farm News. Greth M. Dunn, Agricultural Agent.

In submitting adjusted corn-hog contracts to farmers of Dixon county for their final consideration and signature, the county corn-hog allotment committee says it has been necessary to reduce and adjust a number of hogs and corn acres entered by farmers. Reduction in hog numbers will mean a lower benefit payment on hogs to be marketed in 1934, and reduction of corn acres will affect only the number of acres grown for grain in 1934 and in a few cases the maximum number of contracted acres.

The difference between the totals from the corn-hog contracts and the quotas assigned to Dixon county amounted to 7,777 head of hogs and 4,927 acres of corn. This reduction affected practically every contract.

Distribution of forage seed and feed for livestock will be closed this week in Dixon county. Last days when farmers may receive orders from the Allen elevator are June 29 and 30. Farmers are asked to see their precinct committees and make applications before Saturday.

Dixon county has 80 bags of poison bait. Township clerks will make out orders and farmers may get this bait from Mr. Saunders at Dixon. More bait has been promised Dixon county in the near future.

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Dismissed Here

On the application for writ of habeas corpus, filed by Helen Wendt in favor of her brother-in-law, Robert Wendt, Judge J. M. Cherry ruled in Wayne county court last Thursday that the court had no jurisdiction as Robert Wendt is a ward of the state, having never been officially discharged from the state hospital to which he was committed some time ago. The case was thus dismissed.

Early Wayne City Is Aply Described By Writer In 1890

Were you one of the 1,400 hardy souls who made up the population of this northeast Nebraska prairie town in that important decade of development?

For it was then that infant towns were donning their first long pants, but retaining the while many of the gauche characteristics of youth, as well as the virility and resourcefulness which enabled some settlements to grow and prosper while others faded into "ghost towns."

Wayne was ably described by a visitor here in December of 1890, who says "The streets are well graded, lighted by lamps, the sidewalks 12 feet wide, the business blocks solid and commodious, the private residences neat and tasteful, and many of them elegant."

"Among the buildings erected and in process of erection during this year are the opera house, 48x90 with a gallery around three sides, the Wayne National bank, a large two-story brick, beautiful in design and finish, A. T. Witter's store building, the First National bank costing $18,000 which is a solid brick structure on basement of red granite, the post office block, brick with a galvanized iron and plate glass front, and many other edifices worthy of mention. Wayne has a fine jail but as yet the old court house has not been replaced by a new one. It has a good graded school, six church buildings, eight secret and benevolent societies, a lecture bureau, two newspapers. There has never been a fire nor a business failure in Wayne."

(And year 1891 brought the most extensive fire in Wayne's history!) "A good roller flour mill and two creameries run successfully and ship their products east and west. Wayne has more freight business than any other town on the line of this railroad."

College Girls Find Trip Most Interesting

Miss Faunell Beckenhauer and Miss Jeanne Wright who arrived home Wednesday last week had driven to Colorado to Estes park and were in Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. camp there for two weeks. Seven girls went with Miss Beckenhauer in her car. Others besides Miss Wright were Miss Janet Hoffman, Miss Pauline Seiffert and Miss Gertrude Bruhn, all of Norfolk. Miss Mary McKnight of Long Pine. Miss Joyce Rhodes of Sioux City went by train to Loveland, Colo., where she met the other girls. Gerald Cunningham of Tilden, was the only other one from the Wayne State Teachers college who went to the camp.

The girls stopped the first night in North Platte on the way to Estes June 13. The next, noon they were in Denver where they visited relatives. At Loveland they were joined by Miss Rhodes and by 3 o'clock the next afternoon they were settled in their cabin at the Y camp.

The conference was largest this year that it has ever been, 361 being there. All cabins were filled; Nebraska had the largest representation, Kansas was second and Denver University third. Each group of nine had one sleeping cabin and one cooking cabin. The Wayne group had the same cabin that Miss Laura Louise Holmes, now Mrs. Herman Eickhoff, and Miss Francina Limes were in two years ago.

Program for the day included breakfast at 7:15; worship at 8 in charge of Ervine Ingalls of Greeley, this being an impressive hour and on Sunday mornings held on the side of the mountain; the platform gave lectures; from 10 to 12 was for quest groups and the Wayne girls attended meetings on personally and campus problems. Afternoons were devoted to hikes with Meredith Nelson of the University of Nebraska in charge of these. The hikes, were usually 8 or 10 miles long. From 7:30 to 8:30 was informal hour with open discussions of the platform hour; 8:30 to 9:30 was appreciation hour with music the feature and one night a week brought a program of home talent; and at 9:30 dancing, playing cards or other entertainment was optional.

This is the first year that someone has not tried to climb Long Peak. It snowed one afternoon while the Wayne folks were there. On that same afternoon the group went to the great divide and played in the snow. The girls said that it was cold enough all the time to wear a sweater in the daytime. At night it was very cold.

On the way home Miss Beckenhauer and Miss Wright stopped at Greeley to see Mr. and Mrs. Loren Andrews, who were just recently married. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rundell and family in Denver. Mrs. Martha Thiele, William Beckenhauer's sister, was also visited in Denver.

Poet-Laureate Finds Poetry To Be The Gate To Understanding Of Life

It is only as a medium for understanding that poetry interests Dr. John G. Neihardt, Nebraska poet laureate who visited Wayne college last week and renewed friendships dating from his student days on the campus. Poetry, he says, is the burning central core of his interests, but only as it illuminates a larger field does it interest him. Poetry is the great gate to all understanding, it must be defined in psychological terms, not literary. And because it is a medium which enables him to see more of the world, it proves most engaging to the visitor. Otherwise, he would not consider the writing of poetry a man's work. Poetry, as he describes it, is something more august than the pretty, sentimental phrases which are often associated with the term—it is more a widening of vision. That is why, when Dr. Neihardt becomes the poet, he is happiest.

Not only as poet, but as understanding friend to the redman, as philosopher and as student of political and economic affairs has Dr. Neihardt won great distinction. At present he's working to finish "Song of the Messiah" which concludes his epic cycle of the "Indian Wars." The Messiah trouble came in 1889 and 1890, you'll remember, on the Pine Ridge reservation. The story of the dramatic episode was originally planned as part of the "Song of the Indian Wars" but the latter deals with the heroic period in Indian history when the redmen were resisting white comers to the plains, and the former with the spiritual field which followed when the Indians fell back upon spiritual help for salvation. A great theme, most absorbing to the poet. With his two daughters, Miss Alice and Miss Hilda, he went on to the Black Hills Friday and the three will spend remainder of the summer there. Dr. Neihardt will finish his book and continue his contributions to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

It is due to his remarkable ability to get next to the Indians, to gain their friendships and their trust, that Dr. Neihardt can write so authentically of them. In his books he speaks for the red men, attempting to bring them into the understanding of their white successors. The Messiah trouble grew out of the activities of a Nevada Indian who claimed to be a forerunner of the Messiah. A simple man, he was, by no means a fakir. He was an epileptic and had great visions which led him to predict the Messiah's coming. The Indians believed him, believing that Jesus would come again as an Indian, having some the first time to the white man and been rejected, crucified, how he would come to the Indian which will result in re-formation of the entire world." Friends who have conversed much with Dr. Neihardt quote his philosophy in regard to the Indian, which is that the Indians were a race of people fitting in to the natural order of things, put on earth to perform an act and to pass off. He believes all nations will do this—that our present civilization will pass and a new one come, maybe worse, maybe better. This cycle of change has been going on for thousands of years, with nations playing their parts, folding up their tents and passing on.

Was Brilliant Student. Dr. U. S. Conn recalls the poet laureate as a brilliant reader of Cicero, Virgil and Ovid who truly thrilled over Ovid because of the imagery and mythology of the Roman poet. Dr. Neihardt had a natural interest in literature and mythology, and was not particularly taken by science and mathematics, although always leading in scholarship. After college he taught two years and edited a country paper for a time. His first magazine article was accepted when Dr. Neihardt was 20. He reviewed books for the Minneapolis Journal about 12 years. He now holds an honorary professorship at University of Nebraska and is on staff of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Always he was interested in Indians, gaining his first knowledge of them from the Winnebago and Omahas. The redmen feel he understands them, says Dr. Conn, and want him to be their spokesman to the white men. Last time he was in the Black Hills he had a beef killed and invited everyone to a barbecue, about 300 Indians coming. And Dr. Neihardt had "the time of his life!" Dr. Neihardt's wife is a talented sculptress and her work has been shown in Paris. The bust of her husband which stands in college auditorium, is her work. Three daughters and a son complete the family group down in Branson, Mo.

Paul Says to the Colossian

Paul says to the Colossian church, "Christ in you the hope of glory." Glory means praise, honor, admiration, or distinction accorded by common consent to a person. Christ in you means this to each of us; our first thought is to know and do His will.

Paul speaks again to this same church and says, "Christ in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." There are many things we would like to know at this time. We are doing so much guessing. God can and will guide us into all the truth if we will seek Him and let Him be our guide.

God will bless us in proportion as we are faithful to our church. Christ's church is his bride.

Sunday school and church service next Sunday is for you. We will give an account of how we have used every opportunity that God has given us.
