POINER PASSES AWAY ON FRIDAY

Funeral Rites Are Held Monday in Wayne For Mrs. Viola Fox.

Mrs. Viola L. Fox, one of Wayne county's pioneer settlers, passed away Friday, July 20, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. S. Woodward, near Plevna, Mo., aged 71 years, 17 days. Services were held Sunday evening at 8 from the Woodward home and the body was brought that night by the Shelbina, Mo., undertaker to Wayne. Rites here were Monday afternoon from the Presbyterian church with Rev. P. A. Davies and the Hiscox service in charge. Interment followed in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Fox had gone to Missouri three weeks ago last Saturday to visit her daughter and was in her usual health until Friday morning when she was taken suddenly ill with heart trouble. On receiving word of her illness, Miss Nellie Fox, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox and son, C. C. Fox and Miss Elsie Folck left Friday morning for Plevna. Mrs. Fox died at 2 that afternoon, a few hours before they arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward and the Wayne folks drove from Plevna on Sunday night with the body.

Mrs. Fox, whose maiden name was Miss Viola L. Agler, was born in Lee county, Ill., July 3, 1863. In 1870, when she was 7 years old, she came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Agler, to Wayne county, Neb., locating at LaPorte. The Aglers were active in helping establish the new settlement in the prairie, enduring the hardships as well as enjoying the pleasures of the early years here.

Miss Agler was married March 25, 1882, at LaPorte, to Casper A. Fox, and seven children were born to them. Mr. Fox died August 20, 1915. One daughter, Miss Daisy E. Fox, died November 4, 1923, and a son, John Erwin, died at age of 2 years. The surviving daughters and sons are Wm. C. Fox of Wausa, Miss Pearl M. Woodward of Plevna, Mo., Miss Nellie E. Fox, Clifford C. Fox and Earl E. Fox of Wayne. Miss Elsie Folck, a niece, was deceased since babyhood. Mrs. Fox also leaves one brother, John E. TIME REDUCED BY MODERN MEANS TO VISIT METROPOLIS

A TRIP to Omaha from Wayne before the introduction of modern speed required a couple of days at least. Thanks to the automobile, one may now start early for the metropolis, look after a lot of business, while there and get back in time for the noon meal. The airplane further annihilates time for anyone who prefers risking his neck high in the air. The best looking crops between Wayne and Omaha are in Cummings county, and Wayne county is a garden spot compared with the stretch between Fremont and Omaha. Drouth has fixed marks of ruin on the corn. Most of the crop looks seared and beyond the aid of moisture. But the farms around Omaha are not so hopeless as southern and western parts of the state. If northeast Nebraska—the only promising section of the state this year—falls, too, under the blighting influence of dry weather, statisticians will not have a very heavy job in recording this year's production.

Dinner Meeting Held By Fieldmen

About Thirty Gather Here To Hear Discussion Of Moratorium Bill.

Group Five, Northeast Nebraska Fieldmen's association, made up of fieldmen and farm managers for loan and insurance companies, met at Hotel Stratton Tuesday evening, and elected J. O. Besides Mr. Wentworth, J. C. Kiker attended, and R. W. Ley, Fred S. Berry and Herman Lundberg were guests from Wayne. About 30 were present, including members and lawyers from northeast Nebraska, a few from South Dakota and Iowa.

Daniel T. Sullivan of Council Bluffs, lawyer, was after-dinner speaker and analyzed the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium bill, an amendment to the bankruptcy act, discussing its constitutionality and application. The bill presents many new problems, many of them directly affecting the fieldmen. General discussion of crop and financial conditions in their various communities followed Mr. Sullivan's talk.

Pay checks will come direct from Washington to the farmers and these are expected any day.

The Wayne County Corn-Hog Control association has received instructions from Washington that it will be necessary for them to hire between 40 and 50 men to help with compliance work on corn-hog contracts in Wayne county during the month of August. Anyone interested in this work should call at the Agricultural Agent G. H. Liggett's office and fill out an application.

With most corn-hog associations in the state down or nearly down to their quotas and many of the contracts signed and the way to Washington allotment committees and federal and state administrators are laying plans for the first check of compliance with the contracts. Every effort will be made to speed up the second installment checks on corn and hogs and to get them here early this fall if possible.

A state conference of district supervisors will be held in Lincoln August 1, 2 and 3, and another in each of the nine districts August 7 and 8. It is likely that first contracts will be checked by August 13 and will complete the compliance program by September 10.

GOLF TOURNEY OPENS SUNDAY

About 125 Players To Enter Annual Northeast Meet At Country Club.

Officials are making final arrangements for Northeast Nebraska's annual golf tournament to be played off at Wayne country club this Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 29, 30 and 31. About 125 golf players are expected to compete, including several from Omaha and Sioux City clubs, a good delegation from Norfolk, and others from clubs in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa. The meet is open to any interested amateur.

The greens are in excellent condition, cross-cropped, firm and level, according to Frank S. Morgan, tournament chairman, but the fairways have been drying rapidly, in spite of constant efforts on the part of the caretaker.

Players must turn in their qualifying scores by mail or phone to Mr. Morgan or one of the starters, C. A. Orr and Carl E. Wright, before 10 a. m. Sunday. If the qualifying round is played on Wayne course, only the score is necessary, but players who turn in scores made on their home courses should include par also, as scores will be adjusted to the Wayne course and players will be divided into championship, president's, secretary's and probably two other flights, depending upon the number registering.

First rounds will begin at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, and evening rounds will be completed at the first two rounds. Semi-finals and finals in all flights but the championship are scheduled for Monday. The championship finals, 36 holes, will take place Tuesday.

The prize committee has lined up a worth-while group of prizes, four for each flight. Spectators will be welcome to watch the play at all times.

Plans have been made to serve plate lunch on the grounds at noon Sunday, and the golfers' banquet comes that evening. The latter will be served on club house porch, cafeteria style, as the men come in at end of their rounds.

Wayne Instructor Now Sightseeing In Soviet Russia

Kermit Stewart, music instructor in Wayne public school, has realized his desire to see Soviet Russia and when last heard from by Wayne friends, was enjoying the historical beauty of Moscow.

Mr. Stewart left home on June 4 traveling by bus and reaching New York City June 6. Here he made plans for his Russian tour, being advised to include such necessities as chocolate, insect powder, razor blades and blankets, all very necessary and very rare in land of the Soviet. He sailed June 9 on the S. S. Leviathan, after a very colorful and noisy departure from the pierful of well-wishers. By his own admittance, the young music instructor did not feel very well the first two days but after that he got his "sea legs" and found shipboard life most interesting. Many foreigners on board, but an interesting group of young folks going abroad to study art.

As he penned his shipboard letter, he was sitting on deck near a Polish woman, a Czechoslovakian girl and a Russian-born Jew, Mr. Stewart's Scotch-Irish ancestry completing the league of nations. First landing was at Plymouth, England, then on to Havre, France, and by rail to Paris, Berlin, Warsaw and Moscow. It was Mr. Stewart's plan to study music while in Moscow.

PONCA MAN SENT TO FORT PECK AS AGENT YEARS AGO

THE government's work at Fort Peck in Montana, to harness the Missouri near its source and regulate its flow, especially to facilitate navigation, reminds us of an esteemed Ponca pioneer who was called to that distant point to serve as Indian agent in the seventies. When Major N. S. Porter who was prominently identified with the early history of Nebraska, was appointed to manage Indian affairs at Fort Peck, he selected several neighbors for positions on the reservation, and they and their families accompanied him up the river. In the seventies a number of steamers plied the Missouri as far north-west as Bismarck, dodging sandbars and taking plenty of time for the journey. On the day the Porters and their neighbors were to board the steamer, everybody was at Ponca-land to see them off. It was a long way to Fort Peck in the early days, and the going of this group from the small Ponca community left a considerable aching void. A sad crowd was left behind when the steamer pulled away from Ponca landing and began struggling upstream. That was our first introduction to Fort Peck, but later we learned much about the Indians who looked to that agency for advice and support.

Mr. Sorenson assailed our present system of listing possessions for taxation, stating that the merchant who is honest in stating value of his merchandise can't compete with his neighbor who lists only a fraction of his, and is able to get away with it under our loose plan of taxing. Intangible property, especially, goes untaxed in this state.

Real estate now carries 70 percent of the taxation load, which means a penalty on home ownership. Farmers are paying 35 to 40 percent of their net incomes out in taxes—this can't continue if we are to have farm and home ownership.

In closing, Mr. Sorenson urged his listeners to send good, practical men to legislature—men who would work out a fair and usable tax system.

Dr. Lewis spoke, stating that what the league most needed was education about taxation—that best purpose could not be filled by passing sweeping resolutions. What we need is to study and pray for wisdom and intelligence. County Commissioner Frank Erlebe, Louis Thies and Sliman Strate spoke. Next meeting will be subject to call of the directors following the primaries.

Tax Group Meets To Re-Organize (Continued from Page One) general of Nebraska, and now candidate for republican nomination for governor, was principal speaker, talking on the tax situation. Dr. Lewis introduced Mr. Sorenson as a man who captured the admiration of many Nebraskans for the enemies he made and the fights he put up. Said the candidate, "I have driven into the South Platte country and I wish to tell you that your country is the garden spot of the world, compared to southern Nebraska. Around Auburn, Nebraska City and North Platte, everything is burned. It looks like corn would average no more than five bushels per acre. Pastures are gone and thousands of head of cattle are being rounded up for government sale. Many of these are too poor to ship, and are being disposed of by shooting squads. Sherman county has had only two inches of rain since December—not a spear of grass is visible, no hogs nor cattle are on feed. "The year 1934 is bringing a major disaster to our part of the country—1894 was prosperous compared to now. So, until we are out of this depression, there must be radical reductions in government expenditures: There are three ways to accomplish this—to go without many government services we now have—to have those who receive such services pay for them—or to economize in these expenditures." Mr. Sorenson declared for good, substantial salaries for public officials which would enable them to live comfortably and respectfully, the salary sufficient to remove them from temptations. In ordinary times, he would not talk reduced salaries, said the candidate, but these are not ordinary years. Total income of the state from July 1, 1934, to July 1, 1935, will be under $75,000,000, yet taxes during the past year totalled over $75,000,000 for the state. Now we are facing the situation where tax total may be more than income total. Mr. Sorenson favored cutting of all county and state officers' salaries temporarily, but so arranged that these would be raised in proportion to advancing prices, should there be inflation. Urges Consolidation. He favored consolidation of many state departments, citing situation in the state house where the state sheriff's office, fire marshal's and highway department's are each charged with one division of law enforcement, each maintaining large staffs, autos and quarters. There is no reason why government could not be conducted as efficiently as private business, he stated. He pointed out that the state sheriff and his staff are not ordinarily picked on merit, but to repay political debts. Today Nebraska heads the list of states in number of bank robberies compared to number of banks. State offices must be removed from the spoils system if economy is to be effected. We must not only consolidate and coordinate, but we must make people pay for governmental services, too, said the speaker. The coming state primary will cost the state one-third of a million dollars, a staggering sum today, and will be to the interests of some 4,000 candidates for state and county offices. Yet each candidate pays only $10 filing fee. Mr. Sorenson suggested that candidates be required to pay $200 or $300 when filing for state offices. This $500 "odd" candidates for county offices paid

Consistency Humiliated A fellow gives birth to an idea touching economics, and then files for office. This follows some arguing with himself, the reason why a person should take a fetching nostrum to the hustings for consideration being convincingly explained to himself.

Plea For Patriotism SENATOR James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, chairman of the democratic senatorial elections committee, is reported by the Sioux City Journal to have appealed to the nation to lay aside party politics and support the administration on broadly patriotic grounds on account of the depression.

Congressional Elections THE NRA and the AAA have been in operation for over a year, and coming congressional elections will pass judgment on these two major experiments. As pointed out by Mark Sullivan, the geographical distribution of senate vacancies makes improbable if not impossible any republican gains in the senate, whereas chances for increasing republican opposition in the house is likely and important.

One glaring weakness in the NRA is pointed out by the Sioux City Journal. A Brooklyn widow has been supporting herself and children by making artificial flowers at home. The NRA code provides that only crippled women may engage in gainful employment while at home. The NRA has "cracked down" on the widow, and the matter has been taken into court. The unfair point in the code would, if decided adversely to the widow, deny other women the right to make a living while in their homes.

A Lincoln report quotes an authority who is supposed to know that payments in payment of the corn-hog reduction plan ought to be rolling into Nebraska within a week. A. E. Anderson, chairman of the Nebraska corn-hog committee, is reported to have urged first consideration to drought-stricken counties. However, when the flow of payments starts, all whose records have been completed should realize the benefits within a short time.

It is manifestly unfair for any group to select and publicly endorse political candidates, as it is unfair to take a straw vote and try to influence undecided voters one way or the other. The many persons who have filed for offices, have acted in good faith, are spending their money to get acquainted and make known their qualifications, and they should be permitted to reach their goals without unnecessary handicaps.

In a contribution to his chain of newspapers, William Randolph Hearst deflates the sails of General Hugh S. Johnson who impliedly gave credit to the national administration for settlement of the strike on the western coast. Hearst gives entire credit to the public officials of San Francisco and California. As soon as Hearst gets back from London we may expect to hear that he has been invited to dine at the White House again.

The death of John Dillinger, public enemy No. 1, followed betrayal by an underworld companion, and this shows that outlaws cannot trust one another, and that there is no safety in crime. Others in the Dillinger gang are sought and will in time fall into the law's net. By getting rid of crime leaders, the crime wave will become less prevalent and society more secure.

Yards have been published about the corn-hog reduction plan. All the details preliminary to the distribution of payments would seem to have been told. Now, we hope the payments which are past due, will be forthcoming. Since farmers have entered the program and have complied with its requirements, they should not be inconvenienced by further delay.

In any line of work, especially in farming, one must figure results over a series of years to determine success. Planning ahead while taking care of immediate needs, lends stimulus and renews confidence. One may achieve expectations one year and fall down the next year, and so on. It is a term of years that counts in earnings and liabilities.

Hopes that were dashed to the ground in May, were revived by eight inches of rain between June 1 and July 10. Since then hot, dry weather has caused mounting anxiety. Most of the state's corn has been damaged beyond relief. It is hoped this area, favored this year, will be soaked in time to prove an exception to the rule of ruin.

The Omaha World-Herald had a first-page cartoon in a recent edition, well calculated to renew the iron in weakening backbone. It portrayed the pioneer who battled drought and grasshoppers and hostile Indians, but who managed to "pull through," conquering hardships and putting to rout tendencies to despair.

A determined stand to maintain order, with frowning guns as a persuasive influence, hurried settlement of the San Francisco strike. The courageous spirit that imbued the pioneers of California, was evident in meeting modern forces of disorder.

As between temperatures of 70 below in Byrd's Little America and 100 above in the middle west we have imagination enough to prefer the latter.

How's This For Cattle Reduction? Omaha Journal-Stockman: Everyone knows that cattle are being liquidated at an almost unprecedented rate as a result of the drought. Including stock bought by the government with relief funds, many markets reported the largest receipts in history last week.

Even those statements, however, do not arrest the attention like the following comparative figures. Seven leading western markets received 490,000 cattle and calves last week, almost an even half million. The previous week, arrivals at the same points were 367,000, and during the corresponding week of July, 1933, when practically normal conditions prevailed, receipts were 189,000.

In other words, marketings last week were more than a third larger than the week before, and two and one-half times as heavy as they would normally be at this time of year. No wonder the government has decided that it will not be necessary to put on any AAA cattle reduction program for a while at least.

Drouth Complicates Things. Fremont Tribune: It is ironic circumstance that the drouth should cut western wheat production to the lowest point in a generation, just at the time when the government has been spending huge sums in an effort to reduce farm production.

The government's plan has been to increase the farmer's income by persuading him to reduce his acreage. Right into the middle of this program come a great natural catastrophe which knocks the bottom right out of everything. Estimates at Washington are that wheat farmers will suffer a loss of more than $160,000,000 because of the drouth. The only income many of them will get this year will be the AAA benefit payments, made for acreage limitations which the drouth makes insignificant.

The whole wheat problem, like the AAA program, was tough enough to begin with. The drouth simply intensifies the complexity of a puzzle that was already far too involved.

VALUES We are profoundly impressed by the many persons in a community who are quietly helping less fortunate but deserving fellows. We know individuals who are on the alert for jobs for those who need and want work. We know persons who are continually performing helpful services for down-and-outers. In handling private and public affairs we find many who not only gain rests in the welfare brought to the entire community. In contrast, we find an occasional embodiment of misdirected energy, motivated by conceit and proclaimed by persistent prattle, whose gratuitous advice would hinder if it were taken seriously. The one quick to offer free counsel with nothing to back it or distinguish it, but the steady vocal efflux of super-heated air, would be an obstacle if he had any influence. The bird who talks much and says nothing—who tells the community and everyone in it how to run affairs without risking loss of a penny, is the same fellow who wants to send up a skyrocket when he becomes unusual and contributes a penny to save the heathen from perdition. But it is such contrasts that make the army of welfare workers—the earnest and quietly toiling exponents of genuine Christianity—stand out, in the minds of those who know, like a comet at perihelion. A few empty but loud-bipped only accentuate the unostentatious virtues of civilization builders and preservers.

Beckenhauers Have Family Reunion

It was voted to invite the families of the late John Beckenhauer of Wakefield, and the late Will Beckenhauer of Norfolk, to join the league and the two groups accepted. Rev. and Mrs. Walter Hanne of Omaha, were present and the former spoke on his trip to India and Palestine. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer, Mrs. Willard Wiltsie and son and Mr. and Mrs. Eph Beckenhauer went from Wayne.

ALMOST HALLOWED.

We used to be led to believe that destruction of bread or any other food was a sin. Waste of things to eat and sustain life was considered by most persons in the old days little short of wicked. Be that as it may, even under unorthodox thinking—disregarding the almost sacredness that originally clung to food products—it is a fact that nature cannot be regulated. It may be abused, but it cannot be made obedient. In a year of abundance, the surplus should be carefully stored for use in a year of scarcity. But it is doubtful in the best of years that much of a surplus could be found if those who are hungry are properly fed. The manufacture of commodities may be restricted or increased to meet popular demand without threatening indispensable sources of life.

When nature's awards are wrecked, however, there is no certainty that death or some other calamity will not come along and extend the ruin beyond all calculations. Let the average farmer say what he will grow the most of on the least of, and no serious mistakes will be made. He will be quick to adjust his plans to meet inevitable errors of judgment or untoward twists of the elements, and no one understands as well as himself the details of his operations. Enlarging the farmer's market, developing outlets for his products, would help him in the long run more than to try to regulate his production in which nature plays an unknown and decisive hand.

—And More Dogs

Being Several Very Smart Additions To Wayne's Canine Colony.

Since Wayne's dog world was glorified in last week's Herald, several admiring friends of Wayne canines have pointed out to us that their favorites were omitted. Not for the world would we hurt a dog's feelings—we appreciate the humiliation of seeing all one's four-footed companions exalted in print and oneself omitted. So we present a few additions to dogdom and invite any persons personally acquainted with any other canines of distinct personality, to so inform this office. The omission will be promptly corrected.

"Blackie" is a great favorite with children the town over—he's property of the W. T. Horrells. With grown folks he's not so friendly, preferring his playmates from among small folks who enjoy a good hearty romp and aren't over particular about getting their frocks and little suits mussed up.

"Lee," Robert Theobald's water spaniel, belongs to that breed which is specially skilled in retrieving, and is in demand for hunting. "Lee" is a handsome fellow—all soft brown curls, with long, silky ears, and liquid eyes.

Johnny Addison delights in his black-and-white fox terrier, answering to name of "Sheppy." "Sheppy" is a wiry little fellow, full of energy, with numerous tricks in his repertoire.

"Too much cannot be said about 'Mugs,' the Ellis family white terrier. He joined the L. W. Ellis family about 1930 and was a great playmate for the children during their pre-school years. Lately he's spent most of his time with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ellis and is a heap of company for them. "Mugs" greatest asset is her skill in hunting golf balls out at the country club—she works along the fences or frays and uncovers lost balls, bringing them in to drop by Mr. Ellis. But never does she touch a ball which is in play—Mugs is too good a sportswoman for that.

When she wants Mr. Ellis to play ball, she paws him on the arm till he responds, then at his suggestion brings his hat to him. She has a good big collection of balls all her own—about 10—but when given choice will always pick out a most misshapen one, merely a hunk of rubber, which for some dog reason is very valuable to her. "Mugs" diet consists of canned prepared meat, and from a row of canned foods she can pick out her own with unfailing accuracy. She takes her siesta in a flower urn on front porch of the Ellis home. "Mugs" has other tricks, such as jumping through a hoop and "playing dead."

Wayne Lady Visits Stratosphere Camp Near To Rapid City

Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh arrived home Saturday, bringing memories of a most satisfying vacation-land not far distance, and of two great projects which are focusing nationwide interest on the Black Hills. Leaving Wayne July 7, Mrs. Cavanaugh accompanied the R. B. Johnsons to Scottsbluff, then met her friends, the Perry Benshoofs, at Torrington, Wyo. An interesting week was spent on the Benshoof ranch, living ranch life and learning to know the western people. High point of this visit came when Mrs. Benshoof entertained her club of about 40 members, all of whom had taken extension work in home economics from University of Wyoming together. They met for entire day, this closing meeting, and prepared the foods they liked best from lessons of the year. Interesting people, these, not dull or provincial, interested in modern things, most of them well-groomed enough to pass muster in any city. Yet they lived in little ranch homes without modern conveniences, their telephones were merely barbed wire fences upon which they could talk to their nearest neighbor, and they shared in the heavy work which is a ranchwoman's lot. Mrs. Faye Styles, formerly Miss Fern Philbin of Wayne, had charge of the demonstration. The Styles family lives on a Hugo Spitzinger ranch. Most of these ranch properties run from 3,000 to 5,000 acres. Grass looked good and corn was promising. Mrs. Cavanaugh noted stack after stack of Russian stishles which had been cut when young and green, and which the ranchmen told her make splendid food.

Mr. and Mrs. Behshoof and daughter, Miss Inez, and Mrs. Cavanaugh drove to the Black Hills to meet Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Pittinger of Norfolk. They passed through a barren alkali country to which it is necessary to haul drinking water these days, the water not being drinkable. Little snow last winter meant that the water holes were dry and it was difficult to water cattle. Camping at Hot Springs, S. D., overnight, the party went on to Custer and found this town so crowded they had to try four camps before finding shelter. Here was the Coolidge's former home, the petrified forest and the Needles drive.

See Mountain Carving. Near Custer is that famous Rushmore memorial which is being carved out of solid rock in the mountainside, and will be visible for miles and miles around. In a building nearby were 15-foot models of the three figures, Washington looming up, Jefferson a little back, and Lincoln standing out as does the first president. When the Cavanaugh party arrived workmen were chiseling away at Washington's upper lip and looked like mere children from below. When one considers that Washington's nose is 60 feet long, one realizes the great proportions of this monument. Washington's face stands out and part of his hair is completed. Work has been slow for South Dakota is matching the government's appropriations for this monument, dollar for dollar, and dollars are not plentiful in that drought-stricken-hopper ridden country. The shaping is being done by blasting, each discharge removing only a few pieces of the solid gray granite.

From Custer Mr. and Mrs. Pittinger and Mrs. Cavanaugh went on to Rapid City, the Benshoofs turning homeward. Not far from Rapid City will be made that remarkable flight into the stratosphere, which is drawing thousands to the "bow" and will be made soon under auspices of the National Geographic society and U. S. Army Air Corps. It's a natural rock "howl" from which the balloon will rise and the Cavanaugh party was fortunate in gaining access to this. Soldiers protect it from the curious. The balloon is largest free balloon ever constructed, containing two and one-third acres of cloth, and will be over 300 feet from the ground at the take-off—higher than a 27-story building. When fully inflated it could entirely enclose a 11-story cubical building. The gondola, an air-tight hollow ball, was most interesting to the visitors. They saw a shell of Dornmetal, slightly less than one-fifth of an inch thick, remarkable when one considers the pressure upon the gondola when it ascends. It weighs 450 pounds empty.

Two men will go up into the stratosphere, with a third on the outside making observations as far up as possible, then leaping off with parachute. Scientific material which the observers hope to bring back includes temperature and barometric measurements from the earth to "ceiling of the sky," made all in one day, bottling of air samples at different levels, wind direction and velocity, record of sky brightness and sun brightness (the sky becomes dark as one rises, being almost black 30 or 40 miles up), and effects of altitude on radio transmission.

Will Be Heard on Air. The balloonists will talk over radio apparatus daily and this will be re-broadcast by NBC. Liquid oxygen and liquid air will be carried in the gondola to maintain normal atmosphere for the crew. Nearly 7,000 pounds of lead dust will be carried for ballast, to be discharged from bottom of gondola. Flight will be made near dawn on first day when weather conditions are favorable. The balloon will probably drift 600 to 700 miles to the east or southeast, perhaps landing between Sioux City and Omaha.

Around rim of the big rock bowl were numerous red-painted signs bearing names. Mrs. Cavanaugh asked what these meant, and was told that some of the surprising incidents had centered out the parking space and followers of the flight would come pouring in morning of the ascent to park and watch the preparations in the round valley below. Not in years has there been so much activity in the hills, say dwellers there. Lead mine is doing a rushing business with 3,000 on its payroll. Whole blocks of the city are last being condemned as the miners tunnel underneath. Coming home through the Winner country the party found a far different situation. This was where all our generous dirt storms came from this spring—and there's plenty of dirt left up there, little else. At one town they asked for ice, and were told there hadn't been any there for weeks. At Dallas a garageman gave them water from a gallon jug and asked them to be saving as it was hauled 12 miles. No cows or chickens in sight, the orchards dead, and many homes deserted. A judge told them that many farmers were securing government loans on their farms and then were leaving the country. If the government hadn't bought their cattle, the animals would have died in the grassless pastures. Several dry years, grasshoppers last, and this year not even enough raised to feed the grasshoppers. Home through the "badlands" it was only after passing Butte, Neb., that the travelers began to see greenness. They made the trip from Rapid City to Norfolk in one day, reaching the latter city Saturday evening.

Howard Nauseated. Lincoln Journal. The new deal with its planned economy and regimented industry has been doing things to a Nebraska town. It has decreed that Fremont is not approved as a "distributing center." That, for the present, applies to only one industry but it does show what the blue eagle can do to any town or community when it stretches its wings and squawks. The Fremont Tribune, probably taking common note that this is vote gathering times, observes that "Congressman Edgard Howard himself neck deep in the new deal, is frankly nauseated by the Hever Serum case." Neck deep is right. Every democratic candidate for office in this state is "neck deep in the new deal." They must be to secure party support. But what is the Hever's Serum case? That company operates a small business enterprise. It is merely a distributor with customers in Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa and Kansas. But the Fremont Tribune tell about it. "The Hever company is not a manufacturer of serums, but obtains its products at a wholesale from a Chicago laboratory. On July 14, it was notified by the Fidelity Laboratories, Inc., of Chicago that the serum code authority at its meeting in Chicago during the fore part of June, disapproved of Fremont and that as a result it is impossible for the Fidelity Laboratories to continue you as a wholesaler or to ship you any additional serum or virus at wholesale rate." Theodore Roosevelt was the "big stick" on gigantic business, corporations and combinations that operated in restraint of trade. The United States government under Franklin Roosevelt's brain trust, itself operates in restraint of trade. It says who may and who may not remain in business. It drops the heavy hand of regimentation and control on a little business in a Nebraska town and says "get out." And that government word comes down to the small business man thru the head of a corporation supplying the necessities for that business. It is the authority exercised over small business thru a great business corporation delegated to government.

Not only is the little business concerned at Fremont wiped off the map but the city of Fremont, itself, is "disapproved as a wholesale distributing point." The delegation of government power to the Chicago corporation gives the city say to another concern in the same line of business; "get out." And in this way we get government by big business. How do the old time populists and the anti-monopolists and the enemies of "Wall street" and opponents of combinations in business like it?

Former Banker Dies In Lincoln
Louis V. Haskell, banker in Wakefield about 30 years ago, died Friday, July 20, at his home in Lincoln at the age of 82. His death was attributed to the heat, although he had not been very well lately. Mr. Haskell was former state bank examiner. Funeral services were conducted Monday and burial was in Stromsburg, Neb.

Surviving him are his sister, Miss Julia S. Haskell, with whom he lived at Lincoln; two daughters, Mrs. C. R. Easterday of Lincoln, Mrs. Harry P. Ladd of Kewanee, Ill., and two sons, Roswell of Detroit, and Robert of Milwaukee.

Mr. Haskell was born in New York City, graduated from Dartmouth in 1877 and then went to Windsor, Vt., to teach for a number of years. He came to Nebraska in 1888 and was in banking in Stromsburg for 20 years, then in Wakefield. He went to Wagner, S. D., and from there moved to Lincoln 20 years ago.

Save Food Values At Canning Time

Some of the same questions that arise in cooking of fresh vegetables and fruits come up also in canning—so there are two reasons for discussing them just now. Some ways of cooking save food values, and others waste the minerals and vitamins, of which most vegetables and fruits are a very important source. The same thing is true of different ways of canning.

You lose mineral values when you cook vegetables in too much water and drain off the liquid after cooking. Calcium, which is one of the bone-making minerals, and iron, which is a blood builder, are dissolved in this way and a considerable percentage is lost. So with other mineral salts found in fresh vegetables. To avoid this loss as far as possible, cook your vegetables in very little water and serve the liquid with them in the form of a sauce or gravy.

In canning, hot-pack your vegetables and most of your fruits, and fill up the cans with the liquid in which you pre-cooked them. And when you serve the canned food, serve juice and all.

When it comes to saving vitamins, the cooking problem is a different one, and so is the canning problem. In fact, it is different for different vitamins.

We look to vegetables and fruits for a good part of our supply of vitamins. Vitamin A, as it happens, is not much affected by the cooking process. But both vitamin B and vitamin C are affected by heat, and by oxidation. Destruction of vitamin B takes place more readily where there is both heat and water, as in cooking. To save this vitamin, short, quick cooking, at the boiling point or just below, is best.

Vitamin C, however, is more troublesome. It is very easily destroyed by heat and oxidation. That is why nutritionists tell us to make sure of this vitamin by eating some vegetables raw. But for the time being, when fresh fruits and vegetables are out of season, we must use canned ones, and it is important to know how to conserve the vitamins in canning. Right there we get a lucky "break," so to speak because tomatoes, the best of all vegetables for vitamin C, will provide it whether raw or cooked or canned. Tomatoes, unlike the non-acid vegetables, do not lose much of their vitamin C when cooked or canned. Their acidity protects the vitamin C content.

But again there is a "how" to it—with tomatoes as well as every-thing else. To save vitamin C as well as vitamin B, cook as short a time as possible, at the boiling point or just below. As to canning, here are two points that are emphasized by the Bureau of Home Economics:

First: Can fruits and vegetables as soon as possible after you bring them from your garden. If you let them stand around, even in a refrigerator, they lose some of their vitamin value.

Second: Use the hot-pack method, and work fast. The short period before you put the food in the cans drives the air out of the tissues, this helps save food values because air has a bad effect on vitamins. Also, the hot-pack makes it possible to shorten the time the food has to stay in the water bath or the steam pressure canner for processing.

Fruits and tomatoes are the foods easiest to can at home, and they are also better sources of vitamin C than the non-acid vegetables. They are easy to can because they may be safely processed, i. e., heated in the cans to kill the bacteria that cause spoilage either in a boiling water-bath, or in the oven. The non-acid vegetables, such as corn, peas, beans, and in fact all the others except tomatoes, should—to be safe they must—be processed in a steam-pressure cooker, according to the Bureau of Home Economics, because for non-acid foods there is no other way you can be sure of temperatures high enough to kill the bacteria.

Following are directions for canning peaches and plums by methods recommended by the Bureau of Home Economics. Directions for other fruits and for vegetables will be furnished on request to the bureau.

Peaches—Make a thin or medium sirup as desired. Put in one cracked peach pit for every quart of sirup. Boil for five minutes and strain.

Immerse the peaches in boiling water for about one minute or until the skins will slip easily, plunge at once into cold water for a few seconds; remove the skins, cut the peaches into halves and discard the pits. Some varieties of firm clingstone peaches require the lye-solution method for peeling. Peaches may be packed raw, but a better pack is obtained if the fruit is first simmered four to eight minutes. Do not cook until soft. Pack at once, placing the halves pit side down in overlapping layers. Fill up the containers with hot sirup. Process all containers for 15 minutes in boiling water.

Plums—Plums are ordinarily canned whole, and they should be gathered just as they are commencing to ripen. After they are washed prick each plum to prevent the skin from bursting. Fill into jars and cover with boiling medium sirup. Process quart and pint glass jars for 20 minutes in boiling water and No. 2 and No. 3 sanitary or R enamel tin cans for 15 minutes.

Or, if preferred, prepare sauce by cooking the plums with sugar to taste until the sugar has dissolved. The pits and skins may be strained out or not as desired. Fill the containers boiling hot, and process all sizes for five minutes in boiling water.

Recipes

Pineapple Salad. (Mrs. D. H. Larson) 1-2 cups pineapple juice 1-2 cup sugar 1 egg beaten light 1 heaping tablespoon cornstarch Cook all together. When cool add 1 cup cut pineapple and place in refrigerator. When ready to serve, add 1 cup whipped cream, 1 cup cut marshmallows and 1-2 cup cut almonds.

Frozen Dessert. (Mrs. R. W. Hahn) 20 marshmallows cut 2 cups milk Cook until marshmallows are dissolved. Let cool. Then add 1 cup whipped cream and put in refrigerator tray.

Salad Dressing. (Mrs. Paul Mines) 1 tablespoon butter 3 eggs beaten 1-4 cup sugar

1-2 teaspoon mustard 1 teaspoon salt 3 tablespoons flour 1-2 cup vinegar 1-2 cups water

Chocolate Cake. (Mrs. Paul Mines) 2-3 cup butter 4-2 cups sugar 3 eggs, whites beaten and added last 2-1-2 cups Swansdown cake flour 2-1-2 teaspoon salt 3 teaspoons baking powder 3 teaspoon vanilla 3 squares chocolate melted over hot water, to which add 1-4 cup hot water

English Malted Cheese. 1-4 pound American cheese 1 cup rich milk 1 tablespoon butter Few grains mustard Few grains pepper The cheese should be well flavored and rather soft in texture. Cut in slices a quarter-inch thick and place single layer of a deep baking plate. Pour the milk over, because air has a bad effect on vitamins. Also, the hot-pack makes it possible to shorten the time the food has to stay in the water bath or the steam pressure canner for processing.

Baked Plum Preserve. Purple plums Granulated sugar Wash the plums, remove stones and measure the fruit in a half-pint measuring cup. To each two heaping cupfuls, allow a level cupful of sugar and two tablespoons of hot water. Place the fruit and sugar in alternating layers in bean pot or casserole. Cover. Let stand a half hour to start the juices. Place in hot oven and turn on heat. When oven reaches 300° adjust the heat so it remains steady. Continue to cook until the preserve is rich and thick—about an hour. Transfer while boiling hot to sterilized glasses and seal at once with hot paraffin.

Jellied Bouillon. 1 tablespoon gelatin 1-4 cup cold water 2 cups bouillon, soup stock, chicken broth or tomato juice Soak the gelatin in cold water for five minutes, add to bouillon, which have been heated to the boiling point. Dissolve thoroughly. Chill. Break up or mash, and serve in bouillon cups, garnishing with circle of lemon.

Assorted Hot D'Oeuvre. Cheesed Olives—remove pimento from large stuffed olives, fill with cream cheese. Wrap in thinly sliced bacon, and broil on toothpicks. Fish Tidbits—Wrap pieces of smoked fish in thinly sliced bacon and broil on toothpicks. Perfection Tomatoes—Peel medium-sized tomatoes; hollow out. Fill with any desired gelatin mixture containing mixed vegetables, such as cabbage, green peppers and tomatoes. Chill thoroughly to set, then cut in quarters for serving.

Cheese Toast. 1 pound cheese 1 cup milk 2 tablespoons flour mixed with 2 tablespoons water 2 eggs 4 drops tabasco sauce, or a few grains of cayenne pepper A little onion juice, if desired 1-2 teaspoon salt

1-2 teaspoons baking powder Shave the cheese into thin small pieces. Heat the milk in a double boiler, thicken with the flour which has been mixed with the water, and cook for 5 minutes. Add the beaten eggs, the cheese, and the seasonings, and cook slowly until the cheese has melted and the mixture is thick and creamy. Allow it to cool; then add the baking powder.

Toast one side of the bread. Spread the cheese mixture thickly on the untoasted side to the very edge. If the cheese mixture does not come to the edges of the bread, they become brown and hard. Brown the cheese delicately under a low flame or in the oven. The slow heat allows the cheese mixture to heat through before it browns, gives it a chance to become light, and keeps the cheese tender and soft. Too great heat makes the cheese tough and stringy. If desired, place a strip of crisp bacon across each slice of cheese toast. Serve it hot from the oven. This recipe makes enough for 12 to 14 slices of bread. The cheese mixture may be prepared, except for the baking powder, the day before it is to be used. Since the mixture stiffens on standing, heat until soft in a double boiler, let it cool, and add the baking powder. Then spread the cheese on the toast.

Codfish, Spaghetti and Tomatoes. 1-2 pound salt codfish, dried 2 cups spaghetti, broken in small pieces 1 quart tomatoes (sliced fresh or canned) 2 bay leaves (if desired) 1 onion, sliced 2 tablespoons chopped parsley 2 tablespoons olive oil or other fat

1-4 cup chopped olives (if desired) Salt if needed Soak the codfish in cold water to cover for 2 hours or longer—until sufficient salt has been removed—and drain. 1-2 teaspoons baking powder Shave the cheese into thin small pieces. Heat the milk in a double boiler, thicken with the flour which has been mixed with the water, and cook for 5 minutes. Add the beaten eggs, the cheese, and the seasonings, and cook slowly until the cheese has melted and the mixture is thick and creamy. Allow it to cool; then add the baking powder.

Toast one side of the bread. Spread the cheese mixture thickly on the untoasted side to the very edge. If the cheese mixture does not come to the edges of the bread, they become brown and hard. Brown the cheese delicately under a low flame or in the oven. The slow heat allows the cheese mixture to heat through before it browns, gives it a chance to become light, and keeps the cheese tender and soft. Too great heat makes the cheese tough and stringy. If desired, place a strip of crisp bacon across each slice of cheese toast. Serve it hot from the oven. This recipe makes enough for 12 to 14 slices of bread. The cheese mixture may be prepared, except for the baking powder, the day before it is to be used. Since the mixture stiffens on standing, heat until soft in a double boiler, let it cool, and add the baking powder. Then spread the cheese on the toast.

Special musical numbers each night. Come early. All are welcome and invited.

Methodist Episcopal Church. (Rev. Harold C. Caspey, Minister) We are approaching the vacation month of August. Some of our people are now away from home so we appreciate the loyalty of those who are helping to keep up the church attendance and interest in spite of the hot weather. Next Sunday the church school will be at 10, and the morning worship service at 11. The Epworth league meeting at 7 is our only evening service. The solo last Sunday sung by Miss Dorothy Slater, who is directing the choir, was much enjoyed. Women's Home Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Henry Preston on Thursday afternoon next week. board Monday evening at 8 at the church.

Protestant Church. (Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor) Next Sunday will likely be the last before the pastor takes his vacation. Even though the day may be warm, we would urge a large attendance of our people. There will be a timely message and the best of special music. By the time this is over, "Henry's Wedding" will be read and we shall be back in our common every day activities. The ladies' evening whose auspices it was put on as well as those who took part in the play have given much time to it. We were favored with two special numbers at our service last Sunday morning. A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Nangle of Paw Paw, Ill., and a solo by Mrs. Guy Elder of Los Angeles. Both numbers were greatly enjoyed. The three groups of C. E. listened to a most interesting echo meeting of the Young People's conference which had been held at Bellevue. Carroll Peterson presided and each delegate who had attended brought a report. Over 100 were in attendance at the Ladies' Aid picnic held at Bressler park last week. Services for next Sunday are as follows: Sunday school, 10 a. m.; morning worship, 11; all three C. E. services, 6:30 p. m.

Not Two Of A Kind When Money Scarce. You don't, if you know it, serve two dishes of a kind at the same meal—especially not if you are trying to keep your food costs down. The family doesn't need two of a kind, even of the cheapest kind. But the fact is, you may have noticed that the commonest mistakes of this sort come with protein foods and starchy foods—protein the most expensive kind, and starch the cheapest kind. How often you see two protein dishes at one meal! Maybe these are two kinds of meat, or meat and eggs, eggs and fish, meat and cheese, cheese and eggs, meat and dried beans, and so on. And oftener still, no doubt, you see two starchy foods, such as macaroni and potatoes, white potatoes, or sweet potatoes, rice and potatoes, or rice and noodles, or other such repetitions. There is nothing harmful in the double-protein, double starch meal, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, provided you can afford to serve, also, enough of the other kinds of food you need. Ham and eggs are fine together if you can afford them. But in actual food value, when you have to count every penny in order to get the variety of foods the family must have to be healthy, ham and eggs with bread and butter would probably not mean as much to you as ham and cabbage, or eggs and tomatoes, either of which combinations with bread and butter, would cost you less. You are better off with fish and turnip greens, for instance, than with fish and eggs without the greens, because in fish and greens you are getting a greater variety of food substances than in the two protein dishes. To keep your food bill down, it is a good thing to make out a market list at the beginning of each week, says the Bureau of Home Economics, in some such way as this: Count so much for such protein foods as meat, fish and eggs; so much for milk, so much for vegetables, fruits, so much for cereals and breadstuffs, sugar and fats. There are rules to guide you in that you divide your money in five parts and for a sufficient and properly varied food supply at minimum cost, you would spend your food money this way: About one-third for milk and cheese. A fourth or less for vegetables and fruits. About one-seventh for lean meat, eggs or fish. About one-seventh for bread, flour and cereals. The rest for fats (including butter) sugars, coffee, tea, seasonings, etc.

When you plan that way you will find you want to space out each kind of food to make each meal as varied as possible. On the days when you have meat, you won't have baked beans. If you have an omelet you won't need beans that day. But you may want beans on a meatless day or an eggless or fishless day. And if you can't eke out a protein dish for every day in the week, let everybody in the family drink an extra pint of milk; or you might serve the family a milk soup—for milk is a good protein food, besides supplying calcium and several other things. Milk is one thing on which it is not a mistake to repeat. It has food values that fill in almost every kind of gap if other foods run short. It is important, by the way, to distinguish between fat meat and lean when we are talking of food values. There is very little protein in bacon or salt pork, or fat back. They are chiefly fat—therefore energy foods. It is the lean meat that is the protein food—muscle meat, liver, kidneys, and other edible organs of meat animals, poultry or fish. Therefore, when you use salt-pork or bacon with eggs or other protein food, you are not repeating on your proteins. Here is a list of cheap protein dishes, in combination with the kinds of food needed to round out a meal, except for bread and butter and something to drink: Creamed chipped beef or ham, with green peppers. Potatoes with parsley butter or baked potatoes, watermelon. Stuffed eggs or omelet, sliced tomatoes or panned cabbage, ginger cake. Collfish, spaghetti, tomatoes and blackberry pie. Cheese toast, fruit salad or raw vegetable salad, cottage pudding. Fried salt pork, succotash, sliced cucumber, cottage cheese and cookies. Lamb stew, tomatoes, quick blueberry pudding. Liver and bacon, potatoes boiled in skins, cold slaw. Add bread and butter to each of these combinations, and add milk or buttermilk—certainly for the children and maybe for you as well—and you have well-rounded meals with one protein dish, one starchy dish, one leafy, green or yellow vegetable or fruit in the bread or other dessert, fills out your needs as to fats and sweets for the day. Your vitamins and minerals are provided along with your starches and proteins in the bread and meat or eggs or fish, and the vegetables and fruits.

Several Choices To Fit Contracts

Contract signers who have hogs that allowed on their contract have one of several choices in complying on hog numbers, says G. H. Liggett.

If the number is only a few head over, in all probability the farmer has two or three runs that it would be profitable to kill and then by increasing the number of hogs he butchers and butchering them at lighter weight rather than at his usual butchering weight, he will be down to his marketing number. Farmers should remember that they are allowed to butcher for home use in excess of the number allowed for marketing.

If a farmer does not wish to butcher these extra hogs he may give them to charity through regular government channels. The allotment committee feels that practically all farmers in Wayne county can solve their problem by butchering a few more lighter weight hogs.

Demands Purchase Of Cattle In State

Lincoln, July 24—Only immediate action by the federal government in providing funds to farmers for the purchase of feed for their cattle will save Nebraska from the most serious situation in its history, Theodore W. Metcalfe, republican candidate for governor, declared here today.

"The natural forces of drouth and heat," Metcalfe said, "have joined to convert many sections of the state into vast areas of virtual wasteland with the result that the farmer must either sell his livestock or be provided feed with which to buy feed for it. "If the farmers of Nebraska are forced to dispose of their live stock, their chief source of cash income—the sale of butterfat—will be gone.

"There is but one avenue of escape for the farmer," Metcalfe declared, "and that is for the federal government to step into the picture immediately and provide funds for the purchase of feed. If the cattle are fed the farmers can feed themselves but if not, the farmers

OUR COWS AGAIN

Unloading on the ice some of the 700 bales of hay for our three cows and baby bull.

LITTLE AMERICA, AN ANTARCTIC, July 17 (via Mackay Radio): Today I took on a new job, just temporarily—melting snow for water for the cows. They drink 12 gallons of water a day and that means we have to melt several dozen pails of loose snow every 24 hours. With our little stove this is not easy. But, then, none of our work down here is easy so it is all part of the game.

Our three cows and Antarctic iceberg, our baby bull, are thriving on a mixed diet of alfalfa, timothy and clover hay and a commercial grain mixture.

We have almost more milk than we know what to do with but we appreciate its benefits to our health and there is nobody here on the ice who dislikes it. Our cows are producing milk as follows:—Klondike Nira 30 pounds per day (meaning almost 15 quarts), Deerfoot 31 pounds daily and Foremost Southern Girl 33 pounds. And that is considerable milk for 55 men!

The climate here, with temperatures frequently from 50 to 60 degrees below zero, apparently has no effect on our cattle. The body heat of the cows and the bull keeps their undersnow barn reasonably warm even during the coldest days and nights. In their barn, however, we have a stove so that fresh air can be drawn in and passed over it to pre-heat it, so the air in the barn will always be fresh.

The baby bull now weighs about 375 pounds and has all the points of a very good animal. I go in and a fire in a stove some time after he had accidentally spilled gasoline on his clothing. Leland Foss, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Foss, farmers eight miles south of here, was fatally burned when the clothing ignited. The boy died in a hospital here at 6 p. m. Tuesday, several hours after the accident occurred.

Leland spilled the fluid over his clothing when he went to a shed for gasoline to put in the gasoline engine which operates his mother's washing machine.

He is survived by his parents and two sisters.

Republicans Give Talks On Main Street—Club Is Formed In Wayne.

"Let us keep faith with the government, the home, the school and the church, institutions which have made America the land of power and freedom it is," challenged Kenneth S. Wherry, republican candidate for United States senator, who addressed a good-sized Main street audience in Wayne Saturday evening.

Issues are the important interest of voters today, began Mr. Wherry, and the greatest issue is preservation of this great government of ours so that our people may have freedom of speech, freedom to worship as they wish, to own property, to establish a home and to avail themselves of equal opportunities. Constitution of no nation on the earth guarantees more liberty, added Mr. Wherry. "Let us live these principles and preach them—America first. Socialism which destroys the home, church and other sacred American institutions cannot be tolerated. Let us be willing to give all the advantage of America's melting pot, but let us also see that all citizens assume responsibilities of preserving these. Those who would set up socialism or other movements opposed to the constitution should be deported wholesale and forever barred from rights of American citizenship."

Mr. Wherry expressed disappointment of foreign alliances. "We can't settle foreign problems at sacrifice of this government."

"I would never favor cancellation of the war debt," Mr. Wherry continued, "thereby saddling the tax burden on our own people." Recognition of Russia was a measure of cancellation, he added.

"The basic wealth of Nebraska is in the soil. The farmer must prosper, if all are to prosper," Mr. Wherry continued. He quoted figures to show that 12 years ago a rick sold for $32.50 and today for $55. Cattle sold for $8 and hogs for $7.50 then. Now cattle are about $4 and hogs, $2.50. What is the cause? Tariff protects the manufacturer but not the farmer, Mr. Wherry said. The same is true of butter substitutes coming from countries where standards of living require about one-tenth of requirements here. The farmer's market needs protection from such competition.

NRA codes have helped big business. Through them competition is killed and big business prospers. The little business man and the farmer do not fare so well, Mr. Wherry added. He cited the example of the proposed code for livestock sales. Administration costs would make the independent farm auction prohibitive, he added. It would take away this important farmer market. He led us join to prevent such a catastrophe, he urged.

"Let us keep faith with the pioneers, with the boys and girls of tomorrow and with Christianity."

Coming to Wayne from Ord Saturday Mr. Wherry described this a paradise compared with the parched south Platte section. An auction of 4,000 cattle at Ord that day, he said, had no bidders at any price.

C. A. Sorenson Speaks. In his address to the group Saturday evening C. A. Sorenson, republican candidate for governor, urged his hearers to get behind every program to restore agriculture to prosperity. Agriculture is a business and must be managed so that the farmer is able to get cost of production together with reasonable profit. In spite of government destruction of crops and livestock agriculture is still in distress. Those in charge of government do not, the speaker said, understand the importance of agriculture. Many farmers are fooled by politicians who talk nice, but who fail to act to benefit farm sections. And farmers are not organized to push their interests.

To benefit agriculture, he continued, farmers should unite on a program that will help them. Then they should elect to office competent men who are willing to work for this program.

In a program to benefit agriculture Mr. Sorenson would support and encourage strong, well-organized, efficient, farmer-controlled cooperative organizations.

As a second step he would protect the American market for the American farmer. He told that in 1933 the coconut oil imported from the Philippines was 1,750,000,000 pounds, which came duty free and sold for 2c a pound. Each steer has about 100 pounds of fat and each hog, 30 pounds, the non-edible being used to make soap. Congress was persuaded at last, session to place a 3c import duty on the coconut oil so as to protect the farmers. President Roosevelt wants repeal of the duty as unfair to an American possession. Agriculturalists are urged, Mr. Sorenson said, to put every effort forth to maintain the duty to protect the market for fat. The question comes before congress next January. Since Nebraska ships annually 1,300,000 head of cattle and 2,000,000 hogs farmers should be interested in this matter.

Mr. Sorenson's third proposal to benefit agriculture is a new form of mortgage setup. A farmer can't pay a debt unless he has a crop and unless he has a market for his crop. Mr. Sorenson proposed a mortgage payment plan which would use crop shares, thus enabling the farmer to pay more in good years and preventing hardships for him in bad years.

A fourth means of helping farmers the speaker advocated is reduction of surpluses by reduction in acreage. Mr. Sorenson would have the government buy 20,000,000 acres, leave it idle or seed it down and pay taxes on this. Prices of land and farm products, he thinks, would rise. As population increased this land could be resold to farmers.

A fifth way to help farmers, the speaker said, would be to lessen the tax burden. Real estate carries 75 percent of the tax load, he stated. Mr. Sorenson said taxes could be reduced by lowering the salaries of state and county officers, by operating state and county government as efficiently as one would a private business by combining duties and eliminating wastes, by taking state departments out of partisan politics and making merit rather than the spoils system select officials, by bringing the taxing system up to date and preventing unfair listing of property.

Dr. Harry A. Foster, candidate for railway commissioner on the republican ticket, spoke briefly and assured a square deal to all.

Club Is Formed. The candidates attended a republican meeting at the city hall earlier in the evening when a Wayne republican club was organized. T. S. Hook, county chairman, presided, and J. C. Carhart was secretary. Dr. L. F. Perry was chosen chairman and delegated to select his helpers.

Mr. Wherry, in addressing the club, urged republicans to revitalize their interests and activities to enable the republican party to maintain American institutions and have an important part in bringing the country out of the depression.

The welfare of the state and country are more important than the victory of any party or any candidate. Mr. Sorenson told the republican club, Nebraskans should be interested in policies that will help agriculture.

The candidates and a few local men had dinner together at Hotel Stratton preceding the meeting.

Routine Business. Wayne county fair board transacted routine business Friday evening, no new decisions being made. The board meets again this Friday.

To Hear Address By Francis Flood

Travel Writer Will Come To Wayne In August At College.

Wheat and corn-hog allotment committee members of this county are urging all members of the associations to hear Francis Flood discuss the Triple A program on August 4 at the Wayne State Teachers college in the auditorium. Flood is to talk at a series of 21 district meetings all over the state from July 23 to August 4.

The general public as well as members of the control associations is invited to attend the meeting at the auditorium of the Wayne State Teachers college. The program will start at 2:00 p. m.

The effect of the drought on the Triple A programs, the results of the first year of the wheat program, the next six months of the corn-hog program, and the policies behind all the adjustment plans will be among the points emphasized by Flood in his talk.

After visiting practically every county in the world in his world travels, Flood has spent the past year and a half in Washington with Secretary Hugh Wallace and the adjustment administration. He says he has been in the center of the most fascinating activity in the whole world, an attempt to recover from a national depression. If he runs true to form, his talk will be sprinkled with wit and humor about brain trusters, base figures, hog evidence, use of contracted acres, excess pigs, and some of the other items of the programs which have caused no end of discussion during the past six months.

Each meeting will also include a question box period handled by county and state officials of the adjustment administration. Those who attend will be asked to write down their questions during the first part of the meeting in order to handle the question box in an orderly manner.

Corn Loan Period Is Extended Here

Emergency Drouth Loans Are Available Now In Wayne County.

The Commodity Credit Corporation has extended the corn loan notes to September 1, 1934, according to C. A. Berry, inspector.

The notes covering corn in cribs that are in poor shape and which appear inadequate to hold the corn longer period of time, will be liquidated by the Commodity Credit corporation during August.

Any producer who wishes to sell his corn and pay his note before September 1 may do so and is entitled to keep any profit that there is over and above what he owes on his corn notes.

Eligible for Loans. G. H. Liggett, Wayne county agricultural agent, reports that Wayne county is now eligible for emergency drouth loans up to $400 per farm, mostly allowances for feed, made on the following basis: Horses and mules, $4 per head per month; cattle, $3 per head per month; hogs, $1 per head per month; sheep, 75c per head per month.

Applications for these loans should be made through Mr. Liggett's office at the court house in Wayne.

To Check Compliance. Wayne county corn-hog association will use 50 men for inspecting compliance on contracts. Application blanks may be had at Mr. Liggett's office at the court house.

Gets Scholarship At Chicago School

John Kenyon Lewis has been awarded an entrance scholarship to the University of Chicago. The award, valued at $150, covers half tuition for his first year of study at the University of Chicago. Lewis is graduated from Wayne college high school in 1932 and has been at Wayne State Teachers College for the past two years. His record at both institutions has been outstanding. He plans to enter Chicago as an upperclassman working toward the bachelor's degree.

Travelers Bring Reports Of Strike In San Francisco

Four travelers, direct from the San Francisco strike area, stopped briefly in Wayne Thursday morning, having spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Siman at Windsor. Miss Irene Tews, niece of Mr. Siman, Miss Alice Cronkright and Mrs. C. M. Carpenter and daughter, Kathryn Ann, were motoring from the Gate City, going on to Aberdeen, S. D., where Mrs. Carpenter and daughter visited at their former home, the other two continuing on to Minnesota for a vacation. All will return to San Francisco in a month.

Although the strike was not at its worst when they left, San Francisco was already in grip of inactivity, the taxicab drivers, telephone operators, delivery wagon drivers, street car motormen and longshoremen all being on strike. Filling stations were out of gas, boats were tied up in the bay and not even anchored. A ship bearing raw silk from China had sized up the situation, turned around and headed homeward with its cargo. A Masonic convention was in session and had been told by the strikers to break up, the delegates to go home. And they had complied quickly.

Growing out of a longshoremen's strike, the trouble had spread to include practically all laborers of the city—urged on by professional agitators and communists. Even hospitals had difficulty in getting foods, finally gaining certain concessions from the waterfront had resulted in calling out of troops. Machine guns were mounted on the streets and tanks were in evidence. Two men were dead when the visitors left. Strikers numbering 2,000 had entered a large grocery store and looted its shelves. Hunger was facing the population—their sources of fresh food cut off, stocks in grocery stores exhausted, no transportation, no gasoline, no telephones.

The Tews party left San Francisco Saturday noon and must have driven steadily to reach Winside by Wednesday evening.

Early Days In Wayne County

Early days from the Wayne Herald for August 15, 1918:

Cooper Ellis who is in the radio service writes July 3, 1918, from off the coast of France. "Yesterday several ships came in loaded with American troops. It was surely some sight, too. All the bands were playing and everybody was on deck. Two of the big liners were Germany's ships. The airplanes, observation balloons and Zeppelins are thick over here. Fishing boats came along, alongside the ships to look at us. It is hard to get tobacco here and the sailors on board would give them some American tobacco which pleased them greatly. The French are about 100 years behind the states in everything. Their railroad trains look like the first ones that ran over the Union Pacific as pictured in our school geography. They talk about French styles but the only way I can figure it out is that they are so far behind that they think they are new. The French cathedrals are wonderful. You find people living in little stone houses of about three rooms and right in the center of the village is a wonderful church with a great tower all carved with fine statues and other ornaments. Everything seems close together. . . . If you happen to have a lot of time you can make a big box of candy for me. We get plenty to eat and I eat twice as much as I ought to now, but I want something from home."—Coop.

Conditions Improve In West J. H. Kemp Reports On Visit

"General business conditions on the coast are not showing as early or as rapid improvement as the middle west or the east," says J. H. Kemp of Stockton, Calif. "The depression hit California about two years later than in financial and industrial centers and naturally recovery will be retarded about the same length of time. There was marked improvement until the strike started 60 days ago."

Speaking of the strike, Mr. Kemp says the movement started in San Francisco among longshoremen who wanted 30-hour week and $12 minimum wage. The hiring halls, bureaus of employment, have, it is alleged, been the center of graft. Capitalists have controlled them. Mr. Kemp explains, and the labor unions wish to get control. Thus, the movement, starting with good purposes as far as one is able to determine, swept into dangerous proportions when pushed on by radicals.

The strike affected all northern California cities, Mr. Kemp explains. Business was practically tied up by it. The strike is well under control now, Mr. Kemp feels, and normal movement of business will soon resume.

Labor conditions are deplorable in all big centers, states Mr. Kemp, who urges sympathy for these workers.

"The administration policies and President Roosevelt are stronger in California than at election time," Mr. Kemp finds. "The preference is about four to one in Stockton. Relief work and construction program, which dovetail, have helped California improve as well as given work to laborers."

Politics is interesting in California this year, Mr. Kemp states. Several have filed as candidates for governor on both tickets. Upton Sinclair, the writer, has filed for governor on the democratic ticket and appears to have a good chance to win the nomination. If he is nominated, Mr. Kemp adds, he will register far exceeds the republican. Mr. Kemp states, and he feels the confidence in Roosevelt and desire to vote for Sinclair are two factors leading to this large registration.

Mr. Kemp has been chosen head of democratic organization in San Joaquin county. He believes the primary is much more important than the election and would urge each party to pick its strongest candidate to assure choice of the best in election.

Stockton's new port is a big factor in development of the city. The port which was opened a year ago February had freight traffic far in excess of expectations of optimists. And this year's record shows four times the first year. The government spent six millions on the port to open it and another million the past year to deepen the channel, enabling the largest ocean-going vessels to be accommodated. The port has led to establishment of more industries in Stockton. Building in the city was for May third largest on the coast, Los Angeles and San Francisco only being larger. Mr. Kemp feels that Stockton is going to be a favored city when conditions return to normal.

Mr. Kemp is very favorably impressed with the west and is becoming a typical California booster. He tells this story and believes it. Recently an individual applied for admittance at the Peasey Gates. St. Peter asked him where he was from and the individual replied, "California." St. Peter admitted the gentleman saying, "You are welcome to come in, but I don't think you'll like it here."

Mr. Kemp and son, John, who came here together last week, found the trip cool until they reached the Lincoln highway. They traveled the Lincoln highway, coming through Sacramento, Tracy, Cheyenne and North Platte. Irrigated sections in Utah and Nebraska look fine. From North Platte east they found southern Nebraska badly burned with very little prospect for any crop. From Columbus to Wayne the outlook improved and Wayne county is the best they saw on the entire journey.

Farming in vicinity of Stockton is mainly by irrigation. Some grain is grown in the valley, sown in the fall and depending on winter rain. The rains ceased too early this spring and consequently the crop is short.

Mr. Kemp, who was a guest in the T. S. Hook home here, left Saturday evening for Milwaukee to attend the annual national meeting of Northwestern Insurance agents. The meeting convened from July 23 to 25. Mr. Kemp then went to Goshchoon, Ohio, to visit his mother, Mrs. John Kemp. He is visiting his sister and several brothers also. This week, one brother at LaSalle, Ill., and another at St. Louis. He will stop here next week enroute home.

John Kemp is remaining here while his father is gone. Harry Kemp, who left with another Stockton youth Sunday for Chicago to attend the fair, plans to stop with friends in Wayne this week. Mrs. Kemp and Miss Kathryn are spending a few weeks at Silver Lake in the mountains near Stockton.

Miss Kathryn Kemp was graduated from College of the Pacific at Stockton this spring and is prepared to teach English and other languages. John has been given an audition by a radio station there

ALL BROTHERS

Whoever saw a great oak tree With leafy branches growing wide That did not feel within his heart A sense of joyous honest pride, That on this earth where that tree is He, too, may also make his home May dream his dreams and work in peace And last may sleep but need not roam?

Or, who has looked upon a star That beams upon this lonely earth And has not felt a sense of pride And marveled at its splendid worth? Or, who has felt the breezes blow, The lovely drops of summer rain, The snowflake falling o'er the sea, Or has not felt a sense of gain?

Or, who has seen the breath of death Come stealing o'er a brother's brow And has not felt down in his heart That there's a god somewhere, somehow? Who could have seen these wondrous things Without a sense of honest joy? Who could not feel this brotherhood So close - so pure - without alloy?

The Annual Old Settlers Picnic To Be Held Here Next Month.

Undaunted by depression and heat, Winside business men are entering confidently into plans for annual Old Settlers picnic, and will make this the largest and best in history of the get-together. For 32 years former settlers have been coming back to chat with old friends. The picnics originated two miles west of Wayne and were held regularly for a time, but interest soon died out. Then Winside adopted the event and attendance has increased yearly as more and more old-time settlers return, and more recent comers join in the festivities.

Executive committee, made up of H. Trautwein, Tom Pryor and Henry Fleier, met last week and set date of picnic for August 16 in city park.

Committees named are as follows: Finance, H. L. Neely and Charles Miskelt; band, Fred Trampe; baseball, Ed. Granquist and Etzel Wilson; minor sports, J. C. Schmode, Alfred Koplin, Dr. R. E. Gormley and Herman Podoll; dance, Frank Krause, Chris Nelson, Jr., Thorvald Jacobsen, Alfred Petersen and Charles Miskelt; concessions, Fred Wittler; horseshoes, Charles Shellenberg; speaker, Walter Gaebler; advertising, Henry Trautwein and Fritz Dimmel; water fight, Henry Nelson; seating, David Koch, Ed. Granquist and Chris Nelson, jr.; singing, Jean Boyd.

A second meeting was held Monday evening at which time report of the finance committee was given.

A certain man made a great supper and bade many, and they all with one consent began to make excuse. Luke 14. It seems as if this is the easiest thing for folks to do. The excuse in the words of Jesus only brought the greater condemnation. It will do the same for you. Whoever doth not bear his own cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple. Luke 14, 27.
To him therefore that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin. James 14:17.
For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. Rom. 6:23.
Let us not find an excuse for not being in Sunday school or church next Sunday. We know it is the duty of everyone of us to be in church and Sunday school; let us do it.

The famous Dionne girl quintuplets shown above with their mother were kept alive by feeding them every few hours with human milk sent daily from a Toronto Hospital to the small farmhouse in the Canadian north woods where the babies were born. Here we also see one of the nurses just before feeding time taking a bottle of the precious fluid from a modern refrigerator. This was a gift of the Electrolux company which rushed the refrigerator to the Dionne home as a means of protecting the tiny infants' food supply.

See this popular Electrolux refrigerator at the H. H. Hachmeier business place in Wayne.

We also carry a full line of General Electric refrigerators, and Maytag washing machines.
