MAKING CHECK IN THIS COUNTY

Compliance Will Entitle Contract Holders To Second Payment.

More checks on corn-hog contracts are expected at any time in the office of Agent G. H. Liggett.

Checking of compliance on corn-hog contracts is under way and about 15 percent of the work is complete.

Second installment is about 15 cents per bushel on corn and $1.00 per head on hogs.

Wayne, Neb., August 27, 1934. Gentlemen: Thank you for your proposition to employ the Herald as a medium for a series of advertisements from your store this fall.

Because of the growth, several modifications have been made in the original plans to check compliance.

Romance is Wrecked. A couple of cooling doves, one a Moslem farmer, 92 years old, and the other a maiden of 82, both natives of Jugoslavia, and both old enough if not too old.

Cold Follows Heat. Following four months of weather so hot and dry that old-timers have had to scratch their heads to recall a parallel, near frost came last week to remind inhabitants that autumn cold is in the offing and that the time approaches when artificial heat will have to be substituted for artificial ways of keeping cool.

Many Remedies Hard on Patient. Trying to raise chickens was one of our early experiences, and the only way we can excuse tampering with eggs before time to hatch and destroying a lot of prospects by opening the shells to hurry the process is on the ground of youthful folly.

Company Holds Reunion in Wayne. Annual reunion of Company I of the 35th Infantry was held at Wayne park Sunday with 36 veterans and their families attending.

Resigns Position in Wisner School. With resignation of Miss Jean Davis as teacher in Wisner school, is announced her engagement and approaching marriage to Clyde Anderson of Kansas City, Kan.

Has Broken Nose. While at play Sunday evening, little Joan Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Jones, was hit in the nose with a baseball and the nose broken.

Prof. I.H. Britell, Wayne Educator Passes Away At Home Monday

Prof. I. H. Britell, prominent educator and head of physical science department at Wayne State Teachers College since 1910, passed away at his home in Wayne Monday noon, August 27, after several weeks' illness, aged 68 years, 3 months. Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 from Wayne Methodist church with Rev. H. C. Caspey and the Beckenbauer service in charge. The body was taken to St. Edward where Masonic funeral was conducted at 5:30 in Evergreen cemetery, St. Edward lodge having charge.

Prof. Britell had been failing in health for several months, his illness due to high blood pressure. He was obliged to discontinue his classes last June and went to Rochester, Minn., for benefit of his health, returning to rest at home after his family was assured that all possible had been done for him.

Prof. Britell's record of service and the influence of his high ideals will furnish inspiration for many years in the lives of the large number with whom he came in contact in school, church and other circles.

FAIR IS ON IN DIXON COUNTY

Concord Is Entertaining At Annual Festival During This Week.

Dixon county's annual fair opened at Concord Wednesday and continues today and Friday. The festival promises to be one of the best staged from the standpoint of displays and program.

Concord band opened the program Wednesday afternoon, and Concord and Ponca met in baseball. The band played again last evening and motion pictures were shown. The day was given over mainly to entries and general preparation.

Judging of exhibits started this Thursday morning, doors being opened at 11 this morning for inspection of displays. Ponca band plays this afternoon at 1. Ed. Lusinski of Platte Center, speaks at 2. Laurel and Newcastle play in baseball. Free attractions will intersperse races and other events.

Ponca band opens the evening program at 7. Allen talent presents entertainment, and motion pictures will be shown.

Wakfield Legion band opens the Friday program at 1 p. m. Prize livestock will be paraded at 1:30. Waterbury and Maskett meet in baseball at 2, and winning teams of the first two days meet at 3:30. Free attractions will be shown and races scheduled. Wakfield band opens Friday evening program at 7. Karl Stefan of Norfolk, speaks Friday afternoon at 2. Allen talent entertains at 8, and motion pictures will be shown at 9.

Dixon County Agent Grett M. Duhn is at the fair giving demonstration on forage crops. Horseshoe pitching, stock show performances, riding devices and concessions also enliven the grounds.

PRIMARY FAINTLY REFLECTED PARTY LINES IN STATE

THE primary serves as an eliminating contest, and so survivors of the late primary now face the election which comes November 6. In the nominating contest in which a voter makes all selections from one party ballot, the alignment does not necessarily indicate party strength. A republican may decide to help the democrats nominate one candidate and so votes the entire democratic ticket, or a democrat may have a special friend on the republican ballot, and then he decides to list aside accustomed party affiliations long enough to help out his friend. If republicans and democrats were about equal in number going into opposing camps to help make nominations, the republican party in the recent primary scored an old-time majority in Wayne county. Over the state, the vote on the United States senatorship put the democrats in the lead. The November election will more clearly reflect opinions touching New Deal performances during the last eighteen months. Voters will have one ballot, and they may freely jump from one party candidate to another. Candidates for United States senator and for congressman will definitely indicate the state's position on national policies. Since the primary, candidates of both parties have been recuperating. The month before election, campaign activities will be renewed in earnest.

FAIR IN COUNTY BEING ARRANGED

Schedule Entertainment And Displays For The Wayne Festival.

Wayne county Fair and Agricultural association plans its annual fall festival and program for September 12, 14 and 15, and arrangements are well under way for the exhibits and entertainment. Officers of the association are H. J. Miner, H. B. Craven, R. W. Ley and W. E. Von Seggern. Directors are Phil Damm, Wm. Biermann, Dr. Wm. Hawkins, Frank Erleben, Simon Strate, H. S. Moses, C. H. Morris, Ivar Anderson and G. W. Albert.

Exhibits promise to be outstanding this year, especially in livestock where reservations have come from several counties. Department superintendents are: Horses and mules, Ben Beckenbauer; cattle, Geo. Peters; swine, W. H. Neely; sheep, C. H. Morris; poultry and pet stock, Chris Tietgen; bees and honey and farm products, Wm. Biermann; domestic products, Mrs. H. J. Miner; women's department, Mrs. E. W. Huse; fine arts, Mrs. F. L. Blair; horticulture, D. Hall; school exhibits, Miss Pearl Sewell; pig and calf club, Dr. Hawkins; poultry club, Mr. Tietgen; clothing club, Mrs. Huse. Entries will be made Wednesday, September 12, and until 10 on Thursday. Judging will start Thursday, Mrs. Jas. McEachern of Lincoln, will judge the women's departments. Other judges are not yet definitely decided.

Children's day is Thursday, September 13, when races will be conducted for the young folks. Omaha Stock Yards six-horse show team will be a feature each afternoon and evening. These Clydesdale geldings, averaging a ton in weight, present maneuvers which show remarkable training.

Sioux City Junior Legion drum corps will be here Friday and Saturday for afternoon and evening performances. Vaudeville is planned each afternoon and evening, and fireworks and revue each evening. Baseball games are scheduled each afternoon, also horseshoe pitching contest. Wayne band furnishes music for each day.

The 4-H club members will have about 80 calves at the fair and prize winners will be paraded Saturday afternoon. Dairy heifers, which are being brought to Wayne for starting 4-H dairy herds, will be distributed Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds.

The fair board plans a radio program from 2:30 until 3:30 Sunday afternoon, September 9, by Dr. J. G. W. Lewis in charge. WIAG, Norfolk, time and the Wayne Herald remote control apparatus are being contributed for benefit of the fair.

Farmers May Have Loans For Feed

Farmers with 10 or less units of livestock are eligible for FERA feed loans and may secure these about September 1 by applying at Agent G. H. Liggett's office in the court house.

TWO ELECTED TO COLLEGE STAFF

Normal Board Sets Budget Requirements For Year At Lincoln Session.

Two new faces will be numbered among Wayne college faculty this year as result of action taken at state normal board session in Lincoln Monday. Dr. Rolla V. Cook of Elwood, Ind., was selected as temporary head of the physical science department, and with the death of Prof. I. H. Britell, it is quite probable that the position will become permanent. Miss Ruth Pearson of Hershey, will be sixth grade critic teacher.

Dr. Cook has had 10 years of experience as head of physics department at Bethany college, Bethany, West Va., and also served as assistant at the University of Indiana, Bloomington. Miss Pearson, who takes place vacated by Miss Velma Brown of Westington Springs, S. D., was connected with the college for a number of years in language department. She resigned to go to Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., as dean of women, and has since taken her master's degree at Columbia university.

Dr. Cook attended the board meeting Monday, Wayne college's expenses as listed in the budget report are: For maintenance, $385,270.60; cash, $60,000; library funds, $6,600; total $451,770.60. Dr. Cook reported that the college had been advised it would have to pay $86.25 stamp tax on its dormitory corporation bonds. The board will inquire into this before passing as it would affect other bond issues. Contract for gas was renewed with the Peoples' Gas company of Omaha for heating and cooking at a maximum cost of $9,600 for the year, the same as last year.

Former Students Elected. Two former Wayne college students were named to faculty positions at other teacher colleges in the state: Dr. Walter D. Albert, A. B. '28, will be associate professor of physical science at Peru. He is one of the Wayne graduates to receive scholarship in physics at state university. Since leaving Wayne, he completed work on doctor's degree at Lincoln. Dr. V. C. McKim, A. B. '25, will teach geography at Chadron normal. He has received Ph. D. degree at University of Nebraska, and taught in the Philippine Islands after leaving here.

FERA Work Important. A large number of students will benefit from the student relief funds available this fall. About $1,350 will be distributed monthly under present arrangements, and this will probably amount to about $10 for each student approved. Arrangements are being made to have some of the students work under county relief committee, and some will probably be assigned to the city library. Under government regulations, students may do any public work needed, but not private.

Indications are that registration this fall will be about the same as in former years, says the president.

Girls Want Work To Go To School

Wayne Business and Professional at Women's Placement bureau has names of girls who wish to earn board and room while attending school, also names of girls who wish to go steady housework. Any homemaker who can employ a girl either way is asked to notify Mrs. F. W. Nyberg at the Herald office.

Happy Reports ACCORDING to Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury department at Washington, who made a speech Tuesday night, the nation's deficit of $6,000,000,000 will be taken care of in a considerable measure, by the government's policy of gathering in the country's gold at $20.67 per ounce and then raising the value to $35 an ounce. The profit of $14.33 on every ounce of gold demanded from owners everywhere in the country has raised the huge sum of $2,800,000,000. How owners of the gold pan out in the transaction is not explained. Also a comfortable increase in revenue is made in buying silver. Morgenthau explains other ways of handling the country's finances to dematerialize annoying deficits, and change loss to gain. First thing we know the government will be able to show a profit from the depression. More it spends, the more it will have, and if the depression hangs on long enough, we will have a surplus instead of a deficit. We are reminded of the stockman who said he would take care of the loss on a shipment of cattle by marking up the value of his land.

Also an address by Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, pointed out that the government's recovery measures had succeeded in speeding up recovery faster than any other nation and faster than any previous record in this country. He says this has been done in such a manner as to "strengthen our democratic institutions of self government and to insure the perpetuation of our constitutional safeguards of individual freedom." Then we have been entertaining a lot of needless fears.

Among other encouraging reports of the day is one from a Huron, S. D., editor who says South Dakota is staging a remarkable come-back after the drouth. He says farmers were ready for this drouth and planted drouth-resisting crops. The editor says the state is fixed better for feed than it was last year.

These reassuring reports not only deepen repugnance of the administration's halo, but modify reports of devastation that have floated in from the north, altogether making us more sensible to reasons for feeling better. If we can't respond to absent diagnosis and absent treatment and admit that we are cured when we are cured, preferring gloom to high spirits, we will just have to suffer.

Liberty League FORMATION of the American Liberty League at the instance of leaders from both major political parties, is avowedly intended to combat radicalism. It will seek to uphold the constitution and to protect the public against the impositions of left-wingers. It may strengthen President Roosevelt in avoiding surrender to unsound positions.

David Lawrence, well known authority on economic subjects, devotes a page in a recent issue of the United States News to discussion of the need and purposes of the League. He points out that business, already regulated, only wants a square deal. He says the left wing is blind to some things, and declares that the league is an "inevitable response to the challenge of the left wing." Defending many American groups against crippling efforts, Mr. Lawrence says in part:

"For there is a greater sense of social responsibility in business today than ever before.

"There is, moreover, no group of business men of any substantial number in America who want to see human rights disregarded.

"There is no group that believes in the exploitation of human beings.

"There is no group which wants to see any human being starve.

"But there are groups, yes, hundreds of them, who honestly believe it is cruel for a political-minded set of men to waste public funds, to take property without due process of law, to confiscate property without just compensation and to ignore the plight of the millions of men and women who want work but cannot get it because the economic mechanism is kept from functioning by the sabotage of irresponsible radicalism."

Man and Nature PRESIDENT Roosevelt is quoted as saying the drouth has moved up by two years the expected time for disposal of surpluses that have glutted the American market. Certainly, the drouth is not considered an administrative achievement. Doubtless the administration did not expect so much help from nature, and many will wonder if nature has been trying to aid or punish architects of the crop curtailment plan. Some may think nature was in league with the administration and just got to going and couldn't stop. Others may suspect that nature was repaying and thwarting an attempt to regulate usual laws of reproduction.

the president is said to have declared that we must put an end to drouths and the effect of drouth. Thus, if nature leans too far either way, the administration at Washington will pull the other way, and if nature is not disposed to heed the program arranged by the professors, a new bureau may be set up to take over such celestial facilities as have hitherto determined atmospheric conditions, and thus with a gesture, new triumph would be won and new glory would be captured, and nature could cuddle up in some remote corner and suck its thumb, the while thinking of its remissness. Isn't it wonderful to have leadership so overflowing with wisdom and power that both leak simultaneously out of every pore?

Be Sure Of Facts WE wish critics would be sure of their facts and not indulge in insupportable extravaganzas. Senator Schall had plenty of ground on which to criticize the administration's whims without charging a dark and diabolical scheme to supplant existing news services with one established by the government—a charge that probably cannot be proved. A critic weakens his position when he draws on his imagination. The administration already has a good-sized service for the newspapers, pouring out volumes of propaganda designed to explain and uphold the government's different experiments. Newspapers may use much, little or none of the propaganda as judgment suggests.

Commenting on the Schall criticism the Lincoln Journal says: "Senator Schall would be getting down to actual cases if he would battle this propaganda machine instead of fighting windmills. He is battling a crudely formed figment of his imagination when he fights a government operated news bureau which might displace established privately operated bureaus.

"On the other hand the senator registers a hit when he charges that every measure enacted by congress at the administration's instigation had a little censorship in it. Generally speaking this censorship was ineffective and has been gallantly fought by the nation's press but the hint and threat have been there, regardless."

Code For Weather IN response to a real need and to aid the administration's code makers, the editor of the Omaha Journal-Stockman has fixed up a code for the weather which he suggests will remove a lot of worries over the elements. In fact, a well working weather code would fix crop production about as the Washington professors would have it. Here is the code proposed:

"Summer temperatures—Not to exceed 90 degrees in May, June and September, and 95 degrees in July and August.

"Winter temperatures—From November to March, not lower than zero any day, and not as low as zero in more than 40 hours in any week.

"Moisture—Rainfall not to exceed 1 inch per week, nor to be less than three-fourths inch per week, throughout the year. No snow shall be in excess of six inches, and wind accompanying snowfall shall not exceed 7 miles per hour, nor blow more than 40 hours a week.

"Humidity—At any time the moisture content of the air is so great as to cause physical discomfort and too profuse perspiration, it shall be precipitated immediately as rainfall, even though it cause a rainfall for the week in excess of one inch."

Editor Is Regular EDITOR W. F. Cramb of the Fairbury Journal, who is a Jeffersonian democrat of the old school, evidently thinks in opposing the New Deal, he is staying with the democratic party, whereas the New Dealers have left the party and kicked over its traditions. He believes in the coming election in Nebraska no man who pins his faith unqualifiedly to the New Deal will win either a place in congress or in the United States senate. Editor Cramb mentions the defeat of Shallenberger by Binderup for the democratic congressional nomination. Shallenberger is said to have swallowed the New Deal in its entirety. Binderup offered sharp criticisms. The Fairbury editor says Nebraskans do not want to be represented by rubber stamps in either house, adding that there is no reason why a democratic congressman should repudiate the democratic platform simply because the administration has done so. He thinks Nebraska will be found against the socialistic program arbitrarily substituted for the democratic platform without consulting the public.

When we think we are bad off in crops or in business we should go and see how other sections have fared or how other individuals are battling against untoward fate. This part of Nebraska is more fortunate in agriculture than most other parts. Shortage here is so unusual that it hurts worse when it happens. If we are asked to help less fortunate areas, we will better appreciate our own advantages. Sharpening of contrasts is similarly needed to relieve the individual's depressed feelings. Finding out how others are managing on curtailed incomes tends to take the ebony hue out of gloom and self-pity. The way to do is to buckle down to one's task, make the best of conditions and look ahead with more plans and stiffened resolutions.

It costs nearly a dollar to vote by mail, and thus those who vote in that way have a profound respect for the privilege. The one who pays to express himself, does not look lightly on the electoral franchise. He knows why he is voting and the ones he is voting for.

Sioux City Journal: New York city's relief bill is $6.37 at every tick of the clock, or $201,000,000 for the year. That makes it appear that employment is still around the corner.

OUR METTLE.

Are we not just as smart, have we not just as much foresight as the pioneers who laid the foundation for America's social structure? With multiplied advantages, cannot we emulate their courage and equal their endurance? We have conveniences undreamed of by the groups that came to settle a new country. Their frugality would now be regarded brutal self-denial. What they considered an occasional luxury is now demanded as a constant necessity. We had been surlifered and spoiled, and the economic collapse found us determined not to forfeit any of our pleasures and leisure even though our footing became insecure. Where wisdom advises us to get down to brass tacks and use our inherited powers to rebuild on a solid foundation, cutting garments according to the cloth and making the most of what we have. Inspired by the things our forefathers accomplished with little to do with, we should not become panicky, should not surrender to the hobgoblins of fear. We cannot expect everything just as we want it, and when we want it. We must re-charge our philosophy with the purpose and resolution of the pioneers—be not dismayed, and slowed down because the prospect of receiving much for little effort has at least temporarily vanished.

School Opens Monday Morn

glene, physical education for girls. The six lower grades will have several shifts in teachers. Miss Eva Glimsdal of Winnetoon, will teach fifth grade in place of Miss Louise Eggert. Miss Mary Kile of Creighton, kindergarten teacher last year, will have fourth grade. Miss Hazel Reeve of Brock, will continue with third. Miss Ruth Ross of Wayne, with second and Miss Colia Potras of Lyons, first. Miss Minnie Will who has been on leave of absence due to illness, will return to the kindergarten.

Several improvements have been made in the school building during the summer. Floors were done over throughout, and new rubber treads added to stairways to cut down noise and preserve the steps. New seats have been installed in fourth grade room, and chairs and tables placed in second, in place of seats. Basement halls have been re-decorated and floor oiled. The new automatic Iron Fireman stoker is now installed in furnace room.

The superintendent is holding regular office hours from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. preceding opening of school and requests parents and pupils who have problems to discuss or who wish to make special arrangements, to meet with him. Rural pupils are to register for high school work Friday and Saturday, August 31 and September 1. Parents may come to make arrangements on these days or before.

Any Wayne persons who wish a high school student to work for board and room, are asked to get in touch with the superintendent. A number of young folks will be unable to attend unless some such arrangement can be made to help with expenses.

School hours have been set as follows: For sixth grade and above including high school, opening at 8:40 a. m., and classes until 11:55 a. m.; for fifth and below, opening at 8:55 a. m. and closing at 11:50 a. m.; afternoon classes begin at 1 p. m. and last until 3:30 p. m. in grades.

DROUTH.

A writer dipping into the history of heat and drouth spells finds the worst drouth happened in Babylonia between 3,000 and 2,000 B. C. That was so far beyond recollection of our oldest inhabitants that they cannot dispute it. It seems that ancient drouths caused many wars of conquest. When little could be raised and food shortages threatened, an afflicted populace would rise up in arms and precipitate a war of conquest on some more fortunate land. The ancients didn't have Red Cross or other welfare organizations to ask for aid. They just sallied forth and helped themselves, employing the means of warfare in style at the time. It seems that drouths have always occurred at regular intervals in large areas in different parts of the world, and while irrigation and modern means of conservation give large advantage over the experience of the ancients, the notion was and in many quarters still is that the food surplus of fat years should be saved for the needs of lean years. To this of course professors in Washington will not agree, feeling confident that they can snatch from their experimental laboratories a formula by which they can regulate and direct the laws of nature. But in a period of normal production and of universal plenty, people are found to have been the healthiest and most contented.

Wayne Teachers Off To School

Among the Wayne young folks who leave to accept teaching positions are the following: Miss Grace Kiker goes to Homer this week to teach seventh and eighth grades. Miss Helen Swanson goes to Battle Creek Friday or Saturday to teach intermediate grades. Mr. and Mrs. Myron Brockway and children who had spent several weeks here with the J. G. Millers and A. E. Gildersleeves, left Monday for their home in Glenwood Springs, Colo., where Mr. Brockway resumes next Monday his music instruction in the school there.

Cyrus Jones is coach and science teacher in Cosasco and he and Mrs. Jones go there this week.

Miss Maxine Rhoades leaves this Thursday for Lemmon, S. D., near which place she teaches again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Eickhoff and daughter go to Pilger this week. Mr. Eickhoff to resume his teaching there.

Buy Corn Fodder In Dixon County

Representatives of the State Emergency Relief Administration are now contracting to buy baled corn fodder in Dixon county, according to Greth M. Dunn, county agricultural agent at Ponca. Offices for receiving contracts will be located in Wakefield, Allen, Emerson, Ponca and Newcastle and possibly Dixon.

The State National Bank of Wayne will receive applications from this section of the county. Farmers interested in selling this fodder are urged to get in touch with the nearest receiving office.

Baled corn fodder is a new product. Many farmers will wonder if they can afford to cut and bale this fodder for the price that the relief association will offer. It is estimated by the buyers that the costs will be about as follows: Cutting, $1.00 per acre, baling, $1.50 per ton, and twine about 20c per acre on corn yielding two tons per acre. You must keep in mind that the above figures are estimates only and that the cost will vary from this figure to some extent.

This road is all ready for gravel and when gravelled will be a good road and as bold a road as any in the county. The bulk of the labor cost on this road has been supplied by relief grain to farmers, 6,943 hours of 1.53 bushels of wheat shipped into the county last winter having been used on this road, as well as 3,500 hours of FERA labor. ### The Clyde Omans Have Interesting And Scenic Tour

The wonderfully abundant westland with its rich fields intermingling with barren mountain ridges, its wealthy ore veins beneath and its cooling waters provided an interesting vacation for Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Omans of this city who returned home Tuesday after eight weeks' absence.

Leaving here by motor on July 2, the Omans visited their daughter, Mrs. Jason Gorst and family at Worland, Wyo., and then the Omans, Mr. and Mrs. Gorst and Marjory Fern started off for the great northwest. And a grand trip it proved to be—a gay one, too, for there were the two Omans bubbling over with fun, and a pert little granddaughter at the noticing age who found new wonders at every turn.

Excellent roads all the way, all Wyoming roads being oiled and gravelled and well kept up. Then into Montana to Three Forks where the Galeson, Madison and Jefferson rivers meet, and become the muddy old Missouri. Through Butte, Anaconda and Great Falls, each one tied up by strikes. Butte's mines, Anaconda's great copper industry and Great Falls' refineries idle. At Great Falls the Omans had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prescott, the former Mrs. Omans's nephew and the son of the True Prescotts of Wayne. Then on to Glacier National park with its beautiful highway leading through the center from St. Mary's to Benton. Close enough to some of the great masses of ice and dirt and gravel to chip off a bit. Then down the west side of Flathead lake, which lake has one of the longest shorelines of any lake in this country, excepting the Great Lakes.

Dry farming was good in the section from Great Falls to Glacier park, the wheat looking promising. Each little valley had been irrigated and every available flat land been put into use. Plenty of hay, too. Their route crossed Idaho at its narrow neck-like point, then into Washington where they were with another daughter, the Lynn Tuttle of Clarkson. A pleasant 10 days here, fishing and picnicking and visiting.

The Palouse country south of Spokane is a great wheat country and produced a fairly good crop, even in this year of barrenness. Straw stood four feet tall but ended in tiny heads. It was scorched, yielding only average of 20 bushels or less.

The Nezperc (Pierco-nose) Indians across the border in Idaho had a colorful ceremony in honor of the 100th anniversary of Jason Lee's coming. Jason Lee was a great missionary and his teachings must have left a deep impression on these natives. They're exceedingly devout, the Nezperc tribe, and hold themselves superior to other tribes in intellect and attainments. At Lapwai, the celebration took form of a great barbecue and the Omans and their family attended. Quite a different type from our Sioux and Winnebagos—they speak excellent English and make interesting baskets, pottery and leather articles, coloring the leathers very beautifully by smoke-color. Mrs. Omans acquired a water-tight basket meant to carry fresh water from the streams, its firm body and being of pine tree rods. A woven bag was made of corn husks woven on yarn warp.

For the feast the Indian cooks bent down and plucked into cone shape and placed the beef on this, kindling a fire four feet below. And it was pretty well cooked through, too.

Great pink-checked peaches in this country and out-size watermelons. A two-acre field on Tuttle property produced 40 tons of watermelons and was expected to yield 20 more. But when you consider that some of these plump melons weighed as much as 50 pounds, you realize that this is not out of proportion.

Bidding good-bye to the Tutties, the visitors started homeward on August 27, driving north from Lewistown to the Palouse country and following the scenic spiral highway around the mountains, driving nine miles to cover a three-mile distance "as the crow flies." This is a remarkable highway, smooth, safe, winding. At Pullman, Wash., they inspected the state agricultural college, then went across the state border to Moscow, Ida., where they found another big institution, the state university, just 12 miles distant.

Then on north through Potlatch where the Weitehauser Lumber company has its huge lumber mill, and on north along the east shore of Lake Coeur d'Alene, near was a beautiful government forest reserve, its proximity to the big saw mills surprising the travelers. At Kollig, Wallace and Milten, Ida., they found immense ore mills. The highway led on over Lookout Pass and the Camel's Hump, and on to Missoula, Mont. Then Butte and Three Forks, and they had doubled back on their western route.

Spell Of Yukon Is A Reality. Visitor Finds. The spell of the Yukon which inspired Robert Service and others to write about Alaska is an indescribable something that does come over one in visiting that part of the country, Miss Lettie Scott found. It's a calm satisfaction that overcomes one while riding through that seemingly leisurely, beautiful region. One must experience it to appreciate it, Miss Scott adds, and it does bring a most restful feeling to people of the middle west who are accustomed to a busy, hurried life.

Miss Scott, in company with a sister, Miss Mittie I. Scott of Chicago, left July 2 for Alaska. They went by train through the Canadian Rockies and enjoyed stops at Lake Louise and Banff, seeing glaciers at these places in mid-summer. From Vancouver, B. C., they sailed for a 25-day trip to Alaskan points with Fort Yukon as destination. They left the ship at Skagway and went by railroad to Carcross, taking a side trip to Lake Atlin and then going by train to White Horse.

The party took Canadian river boats at White Horse and sailed to Dawson where they changed to Alaskan boats and continued down the Yukon river to the north to Fort Yukon, eight miles beyond the Arctic circle. They then came to Nenana and by rail to Fairbanks where they witnessed gold mining and also visited the university which is the farthest north in the world. Not only Alaskans, but people from all parts of the world attend the school which is very progressive. Mining and agricultural experimental work are among the college specialties. The party visited McKinley park and then went by railroad to Seward. The longshoremen's strike on the western coast made their boat two days late reaching Seward, giving them this extra time for sightseeing.

People in Ataska told Miss Scott they had not felt the depression. The traveler is inclined to conclude that the reason they had not is that their standards of living did not require what most people in this country are used to. Most of the whites there are government employees and they are paid regularly. One old timer to whom Miss Scott talked did say, though, that he used to get $100 for hay and only $30 now. Most of the towns which were boom centers, appear very temporary. The frame buildings and wooden sidewalks have been seen, but are dilapidated now.

The visitors found Alaska a most attractive country. Flowers are large and of wonderfully deep, rich colorings. Tomatoes and other vegetables are of great size. Perhaps the sun, which shines day and night in the summer, is responsible for this. Things grow fast during the short summer period. Temperature reaches 78 in the shade at Fort Yukon in the summer and about 78 below in the winter, the natives report.

At Fort Yukon the travelers saw the midnight sun. Weather was clear to favor their vision. The sun, which is in the north from that point, set in a beautifully colored sky at 11:30 on July 22 when Miss Scott was there and it rose again at 2:30. The big ball seemed to dip below the northern horizon for a couple hours. At midnight Miss Scott found it light enough to read without artificial light. It is on June 22 that the sun is in the sky day and night in that far northern point.

A number of glaciers were seen by the party, these big masses of ice being beautiful sights.

The party sailed from Seward to Seattle and the Misses Scott visited Mt. Ranier national park and then went to Portland. They went to Grants Pass and took a bus through the red wood forests to San Francisco, visiting Yosemite park near there. They continued on to Los Angeles and returned to the Grand Canyon national park. In New Mexico they made a side trip to visit the Isleta Indian pueblo village, one of the oldest in existence. The remainder of their trip was through Kansas and to Omaha.

The Misses Scott stopped in Fremont and Miss Beulah Scott accompanied them to Wayne Saturday, visiting in the H. G. Since home until Tuesday when they went to Foster, Plainview and Niobrara. They returned here and will leave Saturday for Fremont. Miss Lettie Scott comes back next week to resume her teaching.

Frazier-Lemke Farm Mortgage Law Provisions Are Explained

The Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium law, as passed by congress and signed by President Roosevelt, is of interest to middle-westerns. The Kansas City Star presents provisions of the law as follows:

(s) Any farmer to obtain the acceptance of a majority in number and amount of all creditors whose claims are affected by a composition or extension proposal or a plan of reorganization, may amend his petition or answer asking to be adjudged a bankrupt. Such farmer may, at the time of the first hearing, petition the court that all of his property whether pledged, encumbered, or unencumbered, by liens or otherwise, be appraised, and that his exemptions as prescribed by all state law, subject to any liens thereon, be set aside and that he be set aside and that he be allowed to retain possession of any part or parcel or all of the remainder of his property and pay for same under the terms and condition set forth in this subsection (s).

(1) Upon such a request being made in the petition or answer, at the time of the first hearing, appraisers shall be designated and appointed. Such appraisers shall appraise all the property of the debtor at its then fair and reasonable value, not necessarily the market value at the time of such appraisal. The appraisals shall be made in all other respects, with right of objections, exceptions, and appeal, in accordance with this Act: Provided, That in case of real estate either party may file objections, exceptions and appeals within one year from date of order approving the appraisal.

Possession Remains in Debtor.

(2) After the value of the debtor's property shall have been fixed by the appraisal as herein provided, the referee shall issue an order setting aside to such debtor his exemptions as prescribed by the state law, subject to any existing mortgages or liens upon any such exceptions to an amount equal to the value, as fixed by the appraisal of the value of such exempt property as is covered by any mortgage or lien, and shall further order that the possession under the control of the court, of any part or parcel or all of the remainder of the debtor's property, shall remain in the debtor subject to a general lien, as security for the payment of the value thereof to the trustee of the creditors, if a trustee is appointed, such a lien to be subject to pledges or encumbrances, such prior liens, or encumbrances, shall remain in full force and effect and the property covered by such prior liens, pledges or encumbrances shall be subject to the payment of the claims of the secured creditors holding such prior liens, pledges, or encumbrances up to the actual value of such property as fixed by the appraisal provided for herein. All liens herein on livestock shall cover all increase, and all liens on real property shall cover all rental received or crops grown thereon by the debtor, as security for the payment of any sum that may be due or past due under the terms and provisions of the next paragraph, until the full value of any such particular property has been paid:

(3) Upon request of the debtor, and with the consent of the lien holder or lien holders, the trustee, after the order is made setting aside to the debtor his exemptions, shall agree to sell to the debtor any part, parcel or all of the remainder of the bankrupt estate at the appraised value upon the following terms and conditions, and upon such other conditions as in the judgment of the trustee shall be fair and equitable:

"a. Payment of 1 per centum interest upon appraised price within one year from the date of said agreement.

"b. Payment of 2 1-2 per centum of the appraised price, within two years from the date of said agreement.

"c. Payment of an additional 2 1-2 per centum of the appraised price within three years from the date of said agreement.

"d. Payment of an additional 5 per centum of the appraised price within four years from the date of said agreement.

"e. Payment of an addition 5 per centum of the appraised price within five years from the date of said agreement.

"f. Payment of the remaining unpaid balance of the appraised price, within six years from the date of said agreement.

"Interest shall be paid on the appraised price and unpaid balances of the appraised price yearly as it accrues at the rate of 1 per centum per annum and all taxes shall be paid by the debtor.

"The proceeds of such payments on the appraised price and interest shall be paid to the lien holder as their interests may appear, and to the trustee of the unsecured creditors, as their interests may appear, if a trustee is appointed.

May Consume or Sell Property.

(4) An agreement having been reached as provided in subsection (3), the debtor may consume or dispose of any part or parcel or all of said property whether covered by the general lien to the trustee, if a trustee is appointed, or subject to pledges or prior liens or encumbrances held by secured creditors, provided he pays the appraised value of such part or parcel or all, as the case may be, to the secured creditors, as their interests may appear, and the trustee of the unsecured creditors, as his interests may appear, if a trustee is appointed, or he may put up a bond approved by the referee in bankruptcy that he will make payments, as provided for herein, of any property so consumed or disposed of.

(5) In case the debtor fails to make any payments, as herein provided, to any or all of the secured creditors or to the trustee of the unsecured creditors, then such secured creditors or the trustee may proceed to enforce their pledge, lien, or encumbrances in accordance with law.

(6) If any secured creditor of the debtor, affected thereby, shall file written objections to the manner of payment and distribution of debtor's property as herein provided for, then the court, after having set aside the debtor's exemptions as prescribed by the state law, shall stay all proceedings for a period of five years, during which 5 years, the debtor shall retain possession of all or any part of his property, under the control of the court, provided he pays a reasonable rental annually for that part of the property of which he retains possession, the first payment of such rental to be made within six months of the date of the order staying proceedings, such rental to be distributed among the secured and unsecured creditors, as their interests may appear, under the provisions of this act. At the end of five years, or prior thereto, the debtor may pay into the court the appraised price of the property of which he retains possession: Provided, That upon request of any lien holder on real estate, the court shall cause a reappraised price, if acceptable and the debtor may then pay the reappraised price by acceptable to the lien holder, into the court, and thereupon the court shall, by an order, turn over full possession and title of said property to the debtor and he may apply for his charge as provided for by this act.

If the debtor fails to comply with the provision of this subsection the court may order the trustee to sell the property as provided in his act; provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall apply only to debts existing at the time this act becomes effective.

"Nebraska, Dream of the Pioneers" Will be Presented at State Fair

Thousands of Nebraskans will witness the production of Mrs. S. A. Lutgen's pageant, "Nebraska, Dream of the Pioneer," next Monday for this effective historical drama will be presented in the stadium at state fair grounds on Labor day. The pageant was written for the state convention of Federation of Women's clubs at Hastings last year, and depicts accomplishments of the state in the past 60 years. Because of the time span, the pageant has been much in demand for jubilees. The pageant will also be shown September 6, old settlers' day.

It's in two parts, the first telling of the courage required of pioneers, the second of the fulfillment of their dreams. And here's what those Nebraska folks will see when the curtain rises on the big outdoor stage Monday evening. For the prologue, bent little Abbie Deal with lighted lantern in her hand just stepped out of Beas Streeter Aldrich's novel. She's the prologue, and tells how dreams, faith and work have enabled the pioneer folks to conquer their fears and realize their dreams.

First part brings John and Mary, pioneer couple seated on a wagon wheel before a plum thicket, come to the wide prairies to make a home. To them come six symbolic figures, three adverse and three helpful. Solitude advises them to go back, but Hope appears and tells them that everything is before them. . . . everything is still possible. Drudgery comes with bent back and furrowed brow and warns the couple that no pioneer band has ever escaped her and that "ragged toil will sour the wine of Hope." But Opportunity contracts this discouragement by pointing out that on the plains, there are no fences, either social or in reality, to bar their progress. Pestilence, garbed in bright red and bearing the death sign, suggests drouth, prairie fires, starvation, want, Indians, grasshoppers and recalls the bleaching bones scattered all along the way. Mary recoils, would turn back, but then comes Fertility in flowing green robe who tells them that while all these troubles must be fought and overcome, she can bring to aid her helpers, the natural things of the prairie. And in they come, the cunning little breezes, sunbeams, raindrops, grasses, sun-

Off To School Again Faithful Alarm Calls

When the school bell rang for the last time in May and you happily tucked the faithful alarm clock away with the remark, "We don't need you this summer because we are going to sleep as long as we want to," you hardly realized that vacation would pass so soon and you would be winding Big Ben to go on duty again. But when the bell opens the school term next Monday the youngsters who anxiously discarded books last spring will just as anxiously answer its call.

And young men and women who have spent the summer attending school, traveling and otherwise preparing themselves to serve even better, are interested in returning to instruct the young folks. Wayne supplies a goodly share of trained teachers—due to advantages offered at Wayne State Teachers college—and these instructors are going into their work soon.

Among those going from Wayne to teach is Miss Harriet Craven who will do fifth grade instruction in Norfolk. Miss Craven went to Norfolk Wednesday and school opens Monday.

Donald Anderson, who attended the university in Lincoln this summer, returns to Coleridge for his fourth term this week. He teaches in high school and does coaching, his work starting next Monday.

William Lerner, who instructs in social science and does coaching at Clearwater, goes there the last of this week. He studied at Wyoming university in Laramie this summer.

Miss Hildegard Berres begins her fifth term at Chadron next Monday, going Saturday. She instructs in Latin.

Miss Faye Brittain and Miss Mary Ellen Wallace teach in Omaha again this year. Their school term opens September 10.

Miss Eulalie Brugger begins new work this year in the intermediate grades at Hoskins. She will go there the last of the week and school opens Monday.

For the fourth term as sixth grade teacher in Franklin, Neb., Miss Dorothy Capsey leaves this Friday to begin school duties next Monday.

English in high school at O'Neill will be new this year for Miss Blanche Collins who goes there this Friday to begin duties Monday.

Robert Gulliver teaches his first term this year. He goes to Yutan this Thursday and will next Monday begin instructing in industrial arts and high school music. He will also do coaching.

Abundant Trees Are The Pride Of Early Settler Of Altona

"If I had my way every 160 acres would have 10 or 15 acres of good trees," said William Splittgerber quite a few years ago. Some laughed at him, saying they didn't want trees—they weren't productive—wouldn't bring in any money. But Mr. Splittgerber loved trees and he planted many on his acres southeast of Altona. Today they surround his little home, the cool leafiness providing shelter from the heat of summer, and protection from winds and snow in winter. Elm, hackberry, cottonwood and black walnut are his favorites. He planted 20 sycamores many years ago but these did not grow out of their native summer climate.

Back in Germany which the 79-year-old farmer left as a young man, not a wee twig was allowed to remain in the forest but was carefully gathered up and used for kindling. But when he came to this country, in 1881, crossing westward on the Baltimore and Ohio, he was amazed to see great woods in Ohio being cut down and burned, with no thought for future conservation. He's rather dubious about this proposed tree belt to extend north and south across the country, and enjoys a good chuckle over it.

Since his wife died on Christmas day, 1932, Mr. Splittgerber has lived on alone in the little house among the trees. His quiet retreat is shared by his dog, "Barney," a friendly brown fellow. Sometimes it's pretty lonesome, especially when it's dark and rainy outdoors, but sunshiny days he enjoys outside under the trees.

Served In Army. Northern Germany was the Splittgerber's home prior to coming to America. Here William attended school for eight years and received a good elementary education. You can tell that when you see his excellent handwriting—steady and clear in spite of 79 years' passing. School extended from October 1 to May 1, with hours of 8 to 11 in the mornings, and 1 to 4 in afternoon. In summer months the older children, over 12 years, had classes from 6 to 8 o'clock, which would seem terribly early to our young folks here during the vacation months. Younger ones had school from 8 to 10 o'clock. Afternoons were free, but most children worked during the summer. In the Splittgerber's section, tobacco was raised and girls and boys helped to pick it during the summer. The plants were put into the ground by hand, workers on their knees digging the holes, placing the plants and smoothing the ground around them. Hard work for a youngster, you may well believe. For three years, from 1876 to 1879, William served in the army. It was partly in rebellion against this compulsory service that he came to America and entered into an entirely new life, fighting new obstacles and seeking to understand a different language and different people.

In Germany there was just one language—but here he encountered an entirely new one. He hired out to an English-speaking farmer in order to learn the language. There was no time for schooling, for study, except what he could learn from books and newspapers. His time belonged to the soil. How well he used his energies is shown by his ownership of many acres of good Wayne county land.

The family came directly to Wisner, then bought the Wayne county land now farmed by the family. Living at first in the house occupied by the Paul Splittgerber family, Mr. and Mrs. William Splittgerber moved in 1904 to the little house in the trees, and their son, Paul took over the active farm work. William Splittgerber was married on June 26, 1886 to Miss Caroline Alvers of near Wisner. George and Sophie Thies were the witnesses, and Rev. H. Wehling read the lines. Two children were born, Paul, now married and living on south part of the farm, and Mrs. Walter Putz.

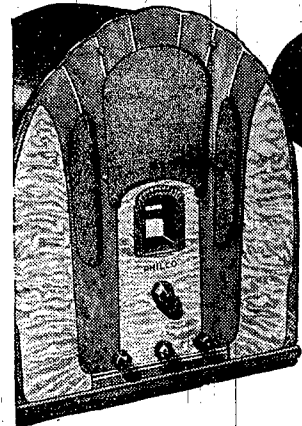

Hard times there were, but few crop failures. The fall of 1882 was memorable for after plowing his
