

Slaughter in Russia—Rouge Ever Let Up—The Dreyfus Outrage—Reconditioning Wrecked Sleds—Weather Anticipates Tree Belt—Editor Cramb Objects.

Wonder how any American could be so stupid as to support the wholesale slaughter of the Russian people—merely supporters of opposition to communism...

Bold Use of Rouge. Recently a radio speaker explained how certain high society belles made themselves especially charming by artificially reddened lips...

False Accusations. Report of a critical illness of Colonel Alfred Dreyfus, reminds elderly persons of the trial of that French officer on a disloyalty charge forty years ago.

The Dreyfus injustice gave proof of the terrible lengths to which some individuals would go in trying to satisfy envy or revenge.

Free Sled Hospital. Saturday morning over the radio we invited the youngsters to take their sleds to R. R. Smith for free repairs...

Treb Belt Gets Results. Either plans for the proposed tree belt have already commenced working in the weather, or the weather is smart enough to figure out that we can't wait for moisture until a lot of new-born trees have been matured across the continent.

COUNTY FARMERS HEAR SPEAKERS

W. W. Derrick And Paul McMill Address Feeders Here Monday.

W. W. Derrick and Paul McMill of Lincoln, held a feeders' meeting in the court house at Wayne Monday, a number attending. The necessity of feeding a protein supplement with present roughness was explained to the farmers.

It was brought out by Mr. Derrick that proteins are necessary to keep the animal's body built up in the proteins used even in moving about, and that silage or fodder do not contain enough protein to do this. He recommended one pound of cotton cake or tankage per day for cattle that are being maintained or horses that are not working and two pounds a day for milking cows or work horses.

The cumulative total of rental and benefit payments received by farmers participating in the wheat, cotton, tobacco and corn-hog adjustment programs of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration reached $421,697,389 up to November 1. In addition, disbursements of $169,389,731 were made for removal of surplus agricultural commodities. Of this sum approximately $139,381,000 was in direct payments to farmers for hogs, drought cattle and sheep. Of the rental and benefit payments paid, wheat farmers received $108,669,557; cotton growers $126,786,379; corn-hog producers $159,668,557; and tobacco growers, $16,572,652. Processing and related taxes collected up to November 1, totaled $550,981,419 and included the following: wheat, $158,328,178; cotton $178,608,763; tobacco, $27,595,345; corn, $7,029,938; hogs $145,034,586; paper and jute $10,901,615; sugar, $21,646,684; peanuts, $363; cotton ginning tax (under Bankhead act) $41,605; tobacco sales tax (under Kerr Smith act) $269,065; and unclassified, $645,173.

FERA Buildings Are Progressing

Wayne's three FERA shelters are taking form rapidly, and Work Director William S. Conant states these will be ready for occupancy about January 1. Men on the FERA roll not employed on the shelters are assigned to the crew straightening the road leading to Wayne's airport.

In Shoes, Hoskins, Carroll and Winside communities, men are working out relief granted through county funds by shoveling snow off the roads and re-opening the mail routes. Some of these routes have been closed over a week.

H. R. Jobst of Norfolk, district engineer for the FERA, was in Wayne Wednesday consulting with Mr. Conant. Farmers interested in control of gullies on their land, or in building earth dams, are asked to get into communication with Mr. Conant.

ROGER BABSON IS REPORTED SAYING TRADE IS BETTER

ROGER W. Babson, known as an expert economist, who gathers facts touching the trend of business and who is optimistic if not always accurate, is quoted as saying that conditions are markedly improved and that nothing can happen in Washington to stop the upward swing. It would seem that the depression had run its course and that recovery on a sound basis is now due. Certainly prices are blessed with normal prices, are now rewarded with liberal market prices. Dollar corn is eminently satisfactory to persons who have corn to sell. Where there is no corn or much of anything else to sell on account of the drought—where, on the contrary, there is a scramble to get feed enough to winter live stock—high grain prices do not ease the road to recovery. If this territory had harvested average crops, we believed we would now share with the most favored spots in the improved conditions described by Babson. We could then appreciate his conclusions. As it is, people in drought-stricken areas feel better and are looking forward confidently.

Testing Of Cows In Progress Long

Silver anniversary of cow testing in Nebraska will be celebrated during the annual Organized Agriculture meetings of agricultural census in Lincoln early in January. Agriculture Agent G. H. Liggott has been informed, Wayne county dairymen have been invited to attend.

Little was known of cow testing in Nebraska before 1908 but today there are 15 dairy herd improvement associations organized in the state with a membership of over 200. In 1929, the peak year, there were 29 associations in Nebraska. Organized on a cooperative basis, with a test on each herd once a month, the practice has been successful in determining "boarder" cows and determining feed costs.

There were 21 herds in the association comprising 435 cows in first association in Douglas county. The results showed how some cows were profitable producers and other were not. It was from this start that the present system of testing started.

Vault Is Completed. Steel was set Thursday in foundation of Wayne's new post office building, and the draining, sewers are in place and tested. The cement vault is completed. Brick and stone for the structure are now in transit. Archie L. Strogg, the resident engineer, has opened an office in room 104 of Stratton hotel.

Syracuse Doctor Comes To Wayne

Dr. R. H. Loder, who with his family moved to Wayne last week, has established offices in the Ahern building, taking over the practice of Dr. Paul Simons. Dr. Loder will maintain nursing service in connection with his practice, Miss Cleo Patterson being in charge of this.

The Syracuse, Neb., Journal-Democrat, has the following in November 30 issue: "Dr. Loder took three years of undergraduate work at the University of Nebraska and is a graduate of Northwestern university. He took his internship in the St. Louis Municipal hospital and has been associated for the past five and one half years with Dr. W. E. Hillis, well known Syracuse and Otoe county physician at the Syracuse hospital, in the practice of general medicine and surgery. Dr. Loder is especially interested in obstetric and pediatric work.

"For the past two years Dr. Loder has been secretary-treasurer of the Otoe County Medical association. He is also the retiring president of the Syracuse Community club.

"In behalf of the doctor and his fine family we wish to say that Wayne is receiving into their community a family that will be much more than just a credit to them in numerous ways, and although our citizens are sorry to see them leave our midst we can but say Wayne's gain is our loss.

"Both Dr. Loder and Mrs. Loder have fitted into our community in such a way that their place will not be an easy task to fill, both staunch civic and church workers, lending their untiring aid to every worthwhile task that has been assigned them and doing more than their share in others, makes their loss all the more felt. They have been an asset to our community as well as helpful friends, and neighbors.

"Dr. Loder is a very capable man in his profession and for years has had the assistance and partaken of the knowledge of one of Otoe county's most able medical men and surgeons, Dr. Hillis, of Syracuse, and this added to his, makes him fully qualified to take care of any emergency that may arise in his profession."

Farmers Are Helped By Credit Group

Omaha, Neb.—Production credit associations, which offer the farmer the cheapest short-term credit he ever had, will be in a position during 1935 to give farmers prompt service of loans for general agricultural purposes.

Organized last spring, the Production Credit associations have established a complete service system and are ready to start "from scratch" with the farmer and assist him in building up and developing.

With associations blanketing the entire Eighth district, including Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming, the Farm Credit administration of Omaha is ready to meet the increasing needs for production credit. Certainly the demand for short-term credit is going to be great, in view of the accumulated need for equipment, fertilizer, repairs, improvements and similar production requirements.

These associations provide the farmer a permanent, economical source of credit—one that will always be ready to supply him credit when he needs it. Organized

President Roosevelt Endorses Christmas Seal Campaign

THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON, November 27, 1934.

My dear Doctor Dumbach: The approach of the holiday season brings again to our thoughts the annual sale of Christmas Seals to aid the nationwide fight against tuberculosis for another year. Although in recent years the death rate from tuberculosis has been halved, this disease still kills about one out of every ten people between the ages of 18 and 40, and it still causes nearly 75,000 deaths in the United States annually.

By new things alone, but by many means of attack, both direct and indirect, tuberculosis must be fought. Fifty years ago doctor Trudeau pointed the way to successful treatment. Sanatorium care is still indispensable. Hence, we need commendable special and general hospitals for tuberculous patients.

For those with early disease, I believe the sanatorium is best for cure; and patients with advanced disease also need a restorative hospital. More beds are needed, especially for tuberculous children. But prevention is even more important. To protect infants and young children and to avoid the infection of adolescents and adults, the resources of every community are taxed.

The task before us is more than a medical problem. Physicians, nurses, and hospitals are only a part of the great defensive force, which must include the hearts of all families, governors and mayors, educators, social workers, school teachers, volunteer workers, charity organizations, pure food experts, and the forces of the United States Government. The National Tuberculosis Association and its local branches give competent leadership.

By wise arrangement, the responsibility for the sale of Christmas Seals is best done. The money is spent locally by one of the residents of each city, town, or county. It is part of wisdom for each locality to assume its due share of relief and responsibility.

The need is urgent; the cause most worthy. Very sincerely yours, Franklin D. Roosevelt

Dr. Frank Dumbach, President, National Tuberculosis Association, 1000 First National Bank Building, New York City.

President Roosevelt's endorsement of the nation-wide Christmas Seal campaign that is conducted from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas by the 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations, inserts (upper right) shows the seal, which commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the sanatorium movement in this country. The one room cottage it depicts was the first American sanatorium for modern treatment of tuberculosis. It was constructed in 1884 by the late Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, father of the sanatorium movement, and was the forerunner of the 600 institutions in the United States today.

as a unit of the Farm Credit administration, the associations make loans on a conservative basis for constructive, self-liquidating purposes.

Through the ownership of stock in the association, amounting to $5 for each $100 borrowed, the farmer is entitled to an active part in the management. Regardless of the amount of stock a borrower owns, he has the right to one vote at association meetings. Each association is operated at cost for the benefit of its members. There is no profit.

The present interest rate is 5 per cent. When payments are made on the principal at any time before maturity, interest stops.

This permanent, cooperative credit system for agriculture has been set up on a nationwide basis. Each association may eventually be owned and controlled by the farmers belonging to it.

The local associations, usually consisting of several counties with a central office in charge of the secretary-treasurer, have been set up and are being supervised by the Production Credit corporation of the district. For example, the Production Credit corporation of Omaha supervises and advises all associations in this four-state district.

Loans of the short-term type are made for general agricultural purposes, including the producing and harvesting of crops; the breeding, raising and fattening of live stock, and the production of poultry and live stock products.

Although the associations were just getting into full swing last spring when production needs were the greatest, more than 5 1/2 million dollars has been loaned during 1934 to 3,700 farmer-borrowers in these four states.

To The Right
AFTER experimenting on the American public for nearly two years in the name of an emergency, some of the left-wingers, close to the administration, are now turning to the right which is encouraging sign. Mr. Richberg who succeeded General Johnson at the head of the NRA, evidently thinks that bureau is more of a nuisance than a help, and General Johnson in a recent interview indicates a belief that it has been a tremendous flop.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce makes this observation:
"Mr. Walter Lippmann, once so ardent a lover of New Deal theories, comes back from a stay abroad and announces to his public that the pale flower of planned dictatorship has faded and that something— one hardly knows what—ought to be done about it. Professor Moley, original 'brain trust', tells the congress of industrialists in New York that there is no substitute for the capitalistic system. Mr. Richberg, high mogul of the NRA since the but slightly lamented departure of General Johnson, tells the same audience that NRA has failed gloriously in many ways, but that the best of it should be gathered up on a dustpan and saved for posterity.

"Here are three of the most zealous of the zealous in the early days of 'planned economy.' Now they are perceptibly changing their tune for one which better fits the spirit of a free people. Mr. Lippmann apparently learned about the aims of democracy by examining at first hand the dictatorships of Europe. Mr. Moley has learned about the complexities of business and the sincere desire of business to clean its own back yard from his many meetings with business men, on their ground previous to the business-government jubilee begun by the American Bankers' Association. Mr. Richberg has been growing less radical daily since he took more to frequenting the sphere of business and less the halls of unionism.

"Here are three men, originally radical, who are willing to let in a little of the light of reason. If they see that they have erred slightly in judging business men, they are frank to admit it and to call upon business men to help them keep their own thoughts straight. Such men are of great help in advising the executive of a great nation. Those who hold to their ideas as a matter of principle, regardless of sense of judgment, cannot hold and do not deserve high place."

A Shorter Work Day
W. J. CAMERON'S talk during the Ford hour recently was devoted to a shorter work day. He mentioned reduced hours of work as a social improvement—"not demanded but created." He referred to the long day put in by grandfathers to do the same work now requiring much less time. He says "share the work" plans fail as recovery means—fall even in an emergency. The short day will be adopted as it becomes feasible or possible to do so. He says there is plenty of work to be done in the country, and blames the mental attitude towards money as responsible for delay in doing it. He explains:

"Perhaps we need a rational conception of money—perhaps we need to think of money as a cog in our transportation system. As long as we regard money as the chief commodity of commerce—as long as we grow wheat and build houses and manufacture goods in order to buy dollars, as if we lived by dollars!—work will be hampered. A dollar is like a postage stamp that moves a letter from sender to receiver; the function of the dollar is to move goods from man to man. Value is in the letter, not the stamp; value is in the goods, not in the dollar. If postage stamps prevented letters from moving, we would soon revise our postal system. When dollars retard exchange of goods and restrict employment, should not money engineers adopt the same course? That is our view."

Party Trends
IF national administration forces will move farther to the right, thinking before acting and paying less heed to the crazy notions propounded by adolescent theorists, the country will be able to recover a safe and soundly progressive course without waiting for a change of pilots. Policies of government should be made so practical that half the people will not lie down in the belief that they cannot go forward on account of the faulty judgment of the other half. The masses, rather indifferent to party labels, cast the balance of support with the leadership that offers greatest promise of doing the things they think ought to be done at the time.

We believe the ruling masses got more than they expected or wanted in the way of government interference with private affairs, and that they will grow more averse to the prevailing regime unless traditional liberties and individual rewards are better safeguarded. Therefore, the president will be wise to counsel more with older and more experienced members of his party and less with unfielded upstarts who have more ambition than sense. Then people, regardless of party affiliations, would feel more secure and get into their respective harness for the onward pull without fearing governmental barriers.

On the other hand, the republican party is no more nearly dead than 13,500,000 voters who supported it in the late elections would suggest. But it is the opinion of careful observers that the party must cut out mossbackism and mix new blood and new leadership with rationally progressive policies to be ready to take over and handle public affairs when those now at the helm pile up more blunders than the masses think they ought to stand. The republicans cannot rest on laurels won in the Civil war. The party's illustrious course through succeeding years accumulated some barnacles that hindered its good purposes. The spirit of safely wrought change must be fused with the seasoned judgment of party conservatives.

Both major parties may adopt practical policies that will leave no chance for dangerous radicals to gain power and undo the democratic model fashioned by patriots for more than 150 years.

Some radicals line farmers up with a movement to kill capitalism. Then wouldn't a farmer be opposing himself? Owning a farm and directing its production would seem to belong to capitalism. A farmer doesn't just toil. He thinks and plans, ordinarily handles his own business and makes or loses as fortune permits. Isn't such independence of action tied into the capitalistic system? In so-called big business there are doubtless abuses under capitalism, but to strike down the rewards of capital—prevent the gains gathered under individual initiative—would seem to strike a blow at proprietorship all along the line. Radicals in labor and other groups are always after the farmers, because of their numbers, to help pull radical chestnuts out of the fire.

The Kiwanis club of Lincoln is about to bestow its thirteenth honor medal on a Nebraskan who has given distinguished service. This year Dr. Addison E. Sheldon, secretary of the Nebraska State Historical society, has been chosen for the honor. That he is eminently deserving none will question. He has collected and preserved the history of the state, and in preserving it, he hands to posterity an imperishable legacy. The Kiwanis club of Lincoln acts with satisfying wisdom from year to year in recognizing outstanding service.

England has a "brain trust" to help shape the course of government, but its members are tried statesmen who are not given to uncertain experiments. That kind of a "brain trust" or advisory board—not theorists snatched from colleges, but experienced and non-partisan—to flank every American administration would cause less disturbance in handling government affairs.

According to reports, persons on relief out in the Scottsbluff country cannot drive automobiles. If a fellow can afford to run a car, he is expected to paddle along without help from the public treasury. Just as government paternalism is getting to be popular some authority comes along and takes the joy out of it.

Making Progress?

Industry and Labor: 1. "How's things on the farm, Cy?"
"Purty good, I guess; I won't know for certain until I hear from Washington."
"Hear from Washington?"
"Yep. They keep the books. I get a quarterly report on how I've been doing."
2. "How's crops, Cy?"
"Everything looks purty fair, although I wouldn't know very much about 'em?"
"You wouldn't know much about 'em?"
"Nope. I don't bother with details no more. You see the government's got a brigadier general, a retired naval officer and a couple of college professors. They've taken all the responsibility off my shoulders."
3. "Got the old farm paid for, Cy?"
"Shucks! I don't worry about the mortgage no more. Uncle Sam looks after that. I don't even know what the mortgage is. Some day when the government men are around, I'll ask 'em just for fun."

An Unusual Situation.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The shortage of feed crops in the Middle West is leading to some very unusual and uneconomic situations. For instance, many stock farmers are shipping in cattle and hogs by truck and shipping corn, hay and other feeds back to the farm. Never before have such conditions confronted farmers and they do not know exactly how to meet them. Most men who can do so are buying feed in the hope that live stock prices will later improve and let them out whole. They do not want to stop present losses by selling everything off because then they would be out of business entirely. The situation once more demonstrates that frequently we are compelled to do what we must, not what we would like to do.

No Royal Road.

Atlantic (Ia.) News-Telegraph: Humanity is always seeking some mysterious and miraculous method to attain well-being, some short cut to affluence. Some plan by which the slothful and the indigent, the stupid and the lazy, the mediocre and the ignorant, the improvident and those with little ability or wit can, by waving some magic wand, attain the rewards which await industry, thrift, intelligence, ability and ambition. This has been the cry of the ages.

WAR.

Before wreckage of the other war has been removed, while nations still struggle under the burdens exacted by that other conflict, war clouds are again gathering thick and fast in Europe, and another giant blow at civilization seems impending. Yugoslavia and Hungary, fired by the killing of the former's king, would seem to be choosing up sides for a general clash at arms. Jealousies and intrigues have been rife, and the flaming disagreement between Yugoslavia and Hungary threatens to be used as an excuse to release hitherto pent up international hatreds. The masses in Europe are not consulted and have nothing to say. They are aroused by rival leaders, and they are expected to be glad to fight and die for something they do not understand. As for the United States, it has not forgotten sacrifices of the former war into which it was drawn. It has not forgotten its losses in men and treasure, the wealth it loaned without repayment. It has not forgotten the broken firesides, the anguished mothers and fathers, the orphaned children. Tears of distress mean nothing to war lords thirsting for more power. The United States knows it is still fighting to release itself from the tentacles of the last war. It has been too recently fooled—knows too well the cost—to be persuaded again to join in a revel of blood to make the world safe for democracy.

Ruthless

tempting these former sturdy and self-reliant farmers to part with their live stock, leaves those who do not follow this course, a heavier burden of taxation to carry. For with less live stock there is less property to tax, hence whatever livestock remains must be taxed that much heavier. It is obvious, I think, that the whole system of relief is tearing at the vitals of American production of wealth. American business, American self-reliance, American liberty of action, American manhood. We are rapidly becoming a nation of emotional neurotics, dodging the truth and using our energies and talents to wrest created wealth from those who still have some little property left from a world wide depression and the courage and self reliance to go ahead unaided, creating more."

IN OLD ROME.

Intrigues and what seem unwarranted executions smack powerfully of experiences in the Roman empire during the century just before the beginning of the Christian era. Cicero was an orator, philosopher and statesman, and his chief plotting enemy was one, Catiline, who was extra smart but wholly void of scruples. Consciences were not much used in ancient Rome, if, indeed, there were any, and it looks as though they are not very commonly employed in these later days in some European countries. Both Cicero and Catiline were fellow-consuls, but Cicero caused the downfall of Catiline by exposing his conspiracy to kill the other consuls and take possession of the government. Catiline's murderous plot failed only through a faulty signal. Catiline was capable of wonderfully constructive service, but he was just fundamentally bad and his idea of winning position for himself was to destroy others. In contrast, Cicero was of fine, noble type and he had high appreciation of public duty. But conforming to the period, he had to fight desperately to escape surrender to miserable treachery. When he turned his ornamental batteries on Catiline, the latter withdrew and fled. Catiline's accomplices were betrayed and executed. Cicero got out with Antony, and the latter's soldiers brought him to a tragic end. The history of Rome was then full of intrigues and betrayals, and we wonder if certain European nations are not now trying to imitate the ways of that early Roman period.

Selected from the Editor's Late Radio Talks

Reports that Karl Stefan, congressman-elect from the Third district, was not a naturalized citizen, and therefore was not eligible to occupy a seat in congress, have caused him to dig up certain legal documents which show that his father became a full-fledged American citizen on October 6, 1897. As Karl was 13 years old at that time, he became naturalized with his father.

Those who expected to object to Karl investing himself with office on the ground that he could not qualify under the constitution, should demand equally as strict observance of that fundamental document in coming acts of congress. The great majority voting for Karl will be glad to know no fault can be found with the basis of his citizenship, but will hope that scrupulous friends of the constitution who raised the question of naturalization, will now become watchful of the constitution as it is buffeted around by the professors and others in Washington. The careless treatment accorded the constitution by recovery experiments in the name of an emergency should lead the Stefan critics and objectors to be on the alert and ready to object.

It looks as though money were losing its standing as a basis for aristocracy. It is not because money is not hard to get that is making it lose caste, but because no one has enough to brag about or feel exalted over. There has come to be a uniformity of possessions or lack of possessions, and also there is a suspicion of the stability of money, prompted by the re-arranging of the dollar's value by Washington authorities, and so money has been deflated as a foundation on which to rear social prestige. Since cash in hand or in bonds can no longer justify a fellow in tossing his head high and feeling overly satisfied with himself, there will naturally develop other grounds on which to base aristocracy. Intelligence has become so common that no great distinction in that line can be reached. I think the thing to do now is to build up an aristocracy of kindness—kindness to one's family, to one's neighbors, to everybody. That sort of an aristocracy would escape cream and cake at the home of Eunice and Dwaime Bjorklund after school on Monday.

R. A. Nimrod and Vern Carlson were in Sioux City Wednesday. Mr. Nimrod consulted an eye specialist. They were lunch guests at the Fred Richter home.

Let your gift of gloves be Hansen gloves. She knows their superior quality and prefers them. Kid Gloves will please her most. Very nice ones may be had at $1.95 and $2.95.

Munsing Balbriggan Pajamas are among our fastest selling gifts. Their clever styling and pretty coloring give them a Christmas air. Their comfort and value recommend them. No one who has ever worn Munsing Balbriggans would go back to outing flannel sleeping wear. Two or three seasons' wear in every suit and they do not fade, shrink or get out of shape. Ladies sizes, $1.95; children's $1.25. One and two-piece styles.

Pretty handkerchiefs are always the most acceptable of the inexpensive gifts. We have a particularly attractive display just now. Pretty ones, 3 in a box, are 35c and 50c a box. A choice selection of fancy linen ones in the popular 12-inch size are each 25c and 35c.

Holiday affairs call for new footwear. It is surprising what nice ties and pumps can now be had at $2.95 and $3.95. We have a selection of over 50 choice styles in both dress and sport footwear for ladies and misses at these moderate prices. Sturdy good looking oxfords for children are $1.50. Gift slippers of soft kid leather with medium heels are the favored style. Black is the color most wanted. $1.95 is the most popular price. We also have a very good quality felt slipper with leather soles and flat rubber heels at $1.45. These come in brown and oxford grey.

Our grocery department has made special preparations for Christmas festivities. See our special grocery ad elsewhere in this paper.

Land Bank Handles Emergency Cases

FRANK A. O'CONNOR

Omaha, Neb.—Nearly 2,300 Nebraska farmers whose lands were in foreclosure or were about to go into foreclosure a year ago have been given a new start in life by the Federal Land Bank of Omaha.

Land Bank records show 2,696 emergency cases where Nebraska farmers, weighted down with old debts, appealed to the Farm Credit Administration for assistance.

Of the total of 2,696 distress cases, loans now have been closed or approved in 2,272 instances, with 22 applications still pending and 402 rejected.

The Farm Credit Administration takes pride in the fact it has been able to serve four out of five of these hard pressed debtors," commented General Agent O'Connor.

Not only has the flow of foreclosure suits been checked, the farmers have been supplied with funds which enabled him to discharge his old debts, retain his lands and re-adjust his affairs on a basis that portends his eventual success in saving his property under this long-term, low-interest program.

Taking the Omaha FCA district as a whole, he said there were 6,349 farm debtors in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming who had appealed for prompt service. In 5,168 of these cases loans have been approved or closed, while applications are still pending and 1,107 were rejected.

Those figures," added the general agent, "reflect only the purely distress cases. During the 18 months since the Farm Credit Administration began functioning, 22,733 land bank and commissioner loans have been made to Nebraska farmers for a total of $82,707,150."

Mrs. Summers will stay here and Dr. Summers will go to Omaha to visit his parents. Dr. Summers will come December 23 from Omaha, bringing Charles Ingham from medical university. The Inghams will have their Christmas dinner on Christmas eve and Captain and Mrs. Summers will go to Omaha to spend Christmas day with the former's parents. The California folks will then leave for Omaha for their home. Practical Gifts Popular This Year. A definite trend toward giving more practical and useful gifts for Christmas is evidenced throughout the country this year. And probably the most popular and steadily gaining in favor because of its universal acceptance is the idea of giving foods for gifts. With so many varied assortments available to suit individual tastes, and because of the fact that nothing is appreciated more than good food, grocers everywhere are finding that many of their customers are solving their gift problems by sending baskets of fancy delicacies, boxes of canned goods, and plain everyday foods. Local Super-Service stores report increased interest in the giving of foods as gifts, and have arranged special assortments to fill every need at prices you wish to pay.

A three-and-one luncheon is planned at the Fowler home for next meeting, each group of three members to secure one new member to make out their foursome at lunch.

Send-Off Given Basketball Lads

Christmas Programs and Art Work Prepared For Coming Holidays.

A pep meeting was held Thursday morning in Winside high school assembly to honor the basketball boys who opened their basketball season that evening playing Sacred Heart team at Norfolk. Verna Spinden, freshman, wrote two songs for the meeting entitled "Boys, boys, work real hard," and "We're the boys of Winside high school." The Winside lads won 21-7, and second team lost to Sacred Heart seconds 15-8. Winside played at Carroll Tuesday evening.

Miss Ruth Schindler was ill and unable to attend classes Thursday. Dorothy Gilland gave a reading before high school assembly Tuesday last week.

Supt. E. D. Clason has asked that all pupils interested in declamatory work see him and they would be given an opportunity to enter this activity.

Hazel Porter was absent since the Tuesday before Thanksgiving because of the blocked roads.

The four girls in advanced algebra class are competing with the 15 boys in a rapidly contest, and so far are on a point ahead.

Girls' Athletic association has taken only a few exercises the past two meetings, spending most of the time on folk steps to the songs "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Polly Wolly Doodle All the Day" and "Captain Jinks."

Boys' chorus, directed by Martin Hentsch is working on "The Dance Song" and "Silent Night." Girls' chorus is practicing "The Dance Song," "Silent Night" and "Christmas Lullaby."

English 10 class has completed "The Song of Hugh Glass."

In Grammar Room.

Donald Juge returned to school last week, fully recovered from his operation. Grammar room had perfect attendance Wednesday. Seventh and eighth graders are making Christmas presents. Eighth grade is studying taxes and stressing problems of the income tax, and seventh grade has dropped agriculture and taken up study of geography of Nebraska. Civics class is studying the three departments of government, and learning how laws are passed in Congress. Seventh and eighth graders are making graphs of spelling grades to see how much they have improved each week.

Fifth and sixth graders are making Christmas cards. For art Friday, both grades made Indian scenes. Fifth grade won in spelling race last week. Larry Davenport was absent Wednesday last week when he went to Sioux City to see his father in a hospital. Miss Theola Nuss read "The Bird's Christmas Carol" to the children. For art on Friday, fifth graders colored bowls of poinsettias, and sixth cut out these Christmas flowers from construction paper to put on the classroom windows.

Third and fourth grade folks are visiting Eskimo land in geography. The children have learned a new Christmas song and are reading all the Christmas stories they can find. After studying rhyming words, they wrote original Christmas verses. This week they are finishing up gifts for mothers. The sand table has a pretty new setting of desert sands, shepherds, the Holy City and the Wise Men. The youngsters enjoyed making winter scenes with white chalk on dark blue paper. Having finished subtraction, third graders are beginning study of multiplication.

In spelling test over 15 new words, the following second graders received 100: Jean Sanders, Peggy Francis, Lennie Mae Boring, Ariene Cary and Donna Granquist. Second graders are saving their daily spelling papers which have 100 score, and these will be placed in booklets. First grade folks cut out bells and wreaths to decorate the room for Christmas. Second graders have made free-hand poinsettias to mount on grey paper.

First and second graders colored Santa Claus faces and these form a border in the room. In test given over subtraction combinations in second grade, Ariene Cary, Lennie Mae Boring, Peggy Francis, Morris Hansen, Eddie Stygers and Donna Granquist scored 100 percent.

Legion in Meeting.

Choruses To Broadcast.

The girls' chorus and boys' chorus from Winside school, about 26 voices in all, will be heard over Wayne Herald broadcast Saturday morning, 9 to 9:30 o'clock. Martin Hentsch directs.

To Decorate Street.

Winside's Main street will take on festive note for the Christmas season. A large Christmas tree will be centered at intersection of Main and Vroman streets, and colored lights will be added.

Enter Boxing Tourney.

Donald Katz, 112-pound boxer who was runner-up in last April's tourney in Norfolk, Lyle Jensen, 118-pounder, and Alfred Juge, also 118, will compete in the Norfolk tournament today and Friday. Coach Gerald Cherry has trained the lads.

Dies In Oregon.

Word has been received here of the death of Matt H. Boyle, former resident here, at Portland, Ore., on November 22. Mr. Boyle was a painter by trade, and edited the Tribune for a time until it was sold to John McCoy. Mr. Boyle leaves his wife, the former Miss Mayme Ecker and a son, Waldon, now on the stage in New York City.

Unhurt in Accident.

Dave Leonhardt had a most fortunate escape Thursday in an accident which practically demolished his car. While driving to Winside from the south, he struck an icy spot about two and one-half miles out, and skidded off the grade into an 18-foot ditch. The car was wrecked but Mr. Leonhardt crawled out through the broken windshield, unhurt.

Town Board Meets.

Winside town board met Monday evening last week for routine business. It was decided to send another sample of water to the Lincoln laboratories for testing, and if sample is satisfactory, to go ahead and dig a 93-foot well. Dr. R. E. Gormley asked that a survey be made of motors which interfere with radio reception, and A. C. Gaebler was appointed to carry out this work. Persons having objectional motors will be asked to purchase condensers.

Plan Ladies' Night.

Winside Lions club will hold ladies' night affair on Tuesday evening, December 18, with Gerald Cherry and Martin Hentsch planning the decorations. Each person will bring a 10c gift. Last dinner meeting was Tuesday evening, December 4, at Trinity Lutheran church, with 23 members and three guests present. Martin Hentsch joined the group. Ollie Smith sang, accompanied by Rev. W. F. Most. Dr. R. E. Gormley reported on investigations concerning motors which interfere with radio reception. The community Christmas tree committee, Supt. E. D. Clason and A. J. Heyne, reported collections of $43 for this purpose. Coach Cherry suggested that Carroll Lions be challenged to a basketball game the following Tuesday.

mel or H. Trautwein as soon as possible.

Luther League social will be on Monday, December 17, 8 o'clock at the church. Velda Christensen, Lyda Jensen and Dorothea Bartlett are hostesses.

All leaguers are asked to make candy and bring to the parsonage not later than Saturday evening. This will be sent to Tabitha home for the orphans.

Evening guests last week in the Ray Perdue home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kyt of West Point, spent Saturday night and Sunday with the J. H. Spahrs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Haas and Carl were Sunday supper guests in the Adolph Claussen home. The Emil Ottes were also there.

FUNERAL RITES HELD ON SUNDAY

L. P. Dixon Passes Away Friday In Omaha After Lingering Illness.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 at Wakefield Salem Lutheran church for L. P. Dixon, early resident of Wakefield who died in Omaha Friday, Rev. Arthur L. Peterson having charge. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fredstrom sang a duet and the former sang a solo. Interment followed in Wakefield cemetery.

Lars Peter Dixon was born in Greena, Sweden, May 18, 1852, and was thus aged 82 years, 6 months and 20 days. He came to America in 1871, first locating in Oakland, Neb. In 1884 he came to Wakefield. Deceased married Mrs. Caroline Josephine Johnson in 1902 and the Dixons made their home on a farm north of Wakefield until 1911 when they moved into Wakefield. Mrs. Dixon died two years ago, leaving Mr. Dixon without the home he valued so much. Unable to care for himself, Mr. Dixon was admitted to Lutheran home for the aged in Omaha a little less than a year ago and received best of care.

Mr. Dixon was of cheerful and pleasant nature. He had great faith in his religion and often quoted the statement, "Christ has not forsaken me unto this day and He will not hereafter." He was a faithful member of Salem church. Mr. Dixon's health failed fast the past year and he had been bed-ridden for several months.

Mr. Dixon is survived by three stepchildren, George Dixon of Sioux City, Henry Dixon of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Bloomberg of Albert City, Iowa. These three, also Mrs. Wilbur of Sioux City, were here from out of town for the services.

MATRON PASSES HERE THURSDAY

PEP CLUB PLANS FOR PROGRAMS

Wayne High Debaters Will Take Part In Coming
Norfolk Tourney.

Pep club committees to plan the rallies preceding Wayne high basketball games, have been announced
by the president, Josephine Ley, to include the following:
Douglas Canning and Peggy Stran-
han, Ardath Johnson and Alice Mae Young, Margaret Jones and Pauline Yocum, Frank Gamble and Peace Kingston, Carroll Petersen
and Geraldine Gamble, James Kingston and Hazel Caspey, Betty
Wright and Blaine Auker, Dolores McNatt and Burdette Hansen, Betty Strahan and Wayne McMaster, Mildred Ringer and Opal Brown,
Harold Caspey and Josephine Ley.

Wayne high will be represented at the practice debate tourney in Norfolk December 15 by six teams,
made up of Gerald Wright, Lindley Keoney, Bud Bornhoff, Joe Smol-
ski, James Kingston, Wayne Mc-Master, Margaret Jones, Duward
Sevy, Geraldine Gamble, Willis
Penhollow, Franklin Simonin and Betty Ellis. Elmer Mortensen will accompany the group.

In spell-bound in freshman English class recently, Robert Baker
was first, Leona Granquist, second, in third period class, and Fern Evans, first, Chester Jensen, second in sixth period.

Committees have been appointed in first year Latin class to arrange a Christmas program for the last period before vacation.

Mrs. S. A. Lutgen came to assembly Friday to tell Christmas stories. Readings are planned for Friday this week, and music by members of the music department,
on the Friday before vacation.

Blaine Auker returned to high school Wednesday last week, having undergone an operation for appendicitis just one week before.

Girl Reserves met Tuesday last week to discuss plans for sending Christmas cheer to a needy family.
The social service committee will have charge. Plans were made for a Christmas party on December 19,
in charge of social committee, Le-
one Coryell gave a reading.

High school art class has started designing of linoleum block
print greeting cards.

Opera Is Success.
Junior high opera, "Up in the Air," given at Gay theatre Thursday evening, was well received and
showed some excellent training.
The crowd was small, owing to severe cold. High school chorus sang between acts.

Eighth grade hygiene students
kept record of all they ate last week, estimating caloric value, to see if they were eating the right foods.

Writing 6 class has written original stories for language, and will put the ten best together in a magazine. First act of the seventh grade play has been rehearsed.

Sixth, seventh and eighth grade art
classes are making potato-block
prints for Christmas cards, and also Christmas wrapping papers.

Lawrence Lass, Betty Jo Gildersleeve, Donald Dean Steinmetz
and Demagene Meyer, fifth graders, were appointed to the bulletin
board committee for the last week,
to display interesting items. At close of the study of mountain
states region, fifth graders discussed the cities in this section in which they'd rather live, and chose Salt Lake City and Chyenne as the nicest.

In fifth grade room, original snow scenes have been made with crayolas. Cereals and grains were discussed in hygiene, and the children brought samples of cereals
from home. Study of the North Central states was taken up this week.

Fourth graders are starting a fascinating new project about Esk-
kimo folks.

Kindergartners, first and second graders have received great
big play-balls for recreation.

Special reports on desert life
were made in third grade Friday
morning, and sketches of camels,
ostriches and other desert inhabitants made.

Second grade folks have been reading about dogs and making reports on these. The children plan to visit the Herald office, in company with Miss Ruth Ross, and then start a little newspaper of their own.

Second graders have a Christmas
toy shop and are bringing toys
from home to "play-sell" in it. Friday they made Christmas bells for a room border. Letters were written to Richard Sala, who broke his wrist during Thanksgiving vacation and has been out of school.

First grade folks pasted pictures
in their health books last Friday,
and cut out some free-hand letters
to paste under these.

Afternoon class in kindergarten
room has made a cunning little toy
house and a depot out of cereal boxes, and also a church. The boys are planning a track for the toy train. A community Christmas tree will be made to stand in the center of toy-town.

The Birth of The Messiah, Savior of Mankind

For many a week, a group of Wayne community lovers of music
has been meeting together, preparing to present Handel's immortal
Messiah as a feature of the Christmas season. Wayne Business and Professional Women's club sponsors
of the oratorio, Kermit Stewart
of Wayne school, directs, and Prof.
and Mrs. A. G. Carlson play double piano accompaniments. And now
evening of the performance approaches, the choruses have rounded off their rehearsals with extra meetings, and the soloists
are ready, and all lovers of fine
music, from far and wide, are invited to come to Wayne next Sunday evening, 8 o'clock, for the beautiful Christmas-story in music.

Not in opera, nor in any other form of music does one composition
stand out above all others as does this oratorio. Many generations
have approved it, as different as were the tastes of the 18th and
the 20th centuries, by this work
both alike have been melted to tears and roused to higher aspiration.

George Frederick Handel began
its composition on August 22, 1741
and completed it just 24 years later. He was a man of 56 years at that time—possessed of a broad and mellow philosophy which resulted from sorrow and persecution—all of which ably fitted him to approach his divine subject. He was a pious man, benevolent, fearless, blunt. These very qualities had made him many enemies in London

so he was glad to escape to Ireland upon invitation of the Lord Lieutenant. He arrived on Irish shores with the newly-completed
score of his Messiah. The Irish so loved music that when the new oratorio was ready for presentation,
the ladies abandoned their hoops
for the first time in any public performance, and men left their swords at home in order to take up less room. Proceeds went to the unfortunates held in the goals because of their debts, many of these dying from want of food.

After this, Handel presented The Messiah annually for benefit of a founding hospital—dedicating his greatest triumph to charity. When it was given in London for the first time on March 23, 1743, George II
was so moved by the sublimity of
the "Hallelujah Chorus" that he rose to his feet at the words, "For the Lord God Omnipotent Reign-
eth," and naturally the audience stood also. This originated a beautiful custom of rising to one's feet at this part.

Groups of all sizes, all nationalities, have since produced The Messiah. When it was put on at the Crystal palace in London, the orchestra numbered 460 pieces, and
the chorus was made up of fully
2,700 singers! From 1791 to 1861
The Messiah was given each Christmas eve in London.

The text is made up literally of the Holy Scriptures from both Old and New Testaments, arranged by one Charles Jennens. It comes as near being sublime, say many, as
the works of man can approach.
The first part foretells coming of The Messiah by prophets, then the celestial announcement heralding
the birth, and reception of the "innings of great joy" by the shepherds
at their vigil. Second part recounts Christ's actual appearance, as each
as the Redeemer and Savior of mankind, treating with his passion,
death and exaltation, and spread
of the gospel through the land.
Part three makes declaration of the truths of Christianity.

Sunday will bring the second presentation of The Messiah in Wayne,
the first being on December 27, 1906, with Mrs. Gertrude Ley directing.

which he visits. This enables officers to keep close check on everyone.

These German officials are very well informed. When Prof. Bair told one he was from a town on the Susquehanna river in Pennsylvania,

the officer said he wondered why
the United States does not build a bridge over the river to connect an airport and munitions dump on an island in the river. Their knowledge of all places seems to be just as minute as this.

Recreation is important in Germany life. Students devote considerable time to gymnastics. Dueling is a favorite sport and the one who shows bravery on receiving a cut is declared the hero. Prof. Bair mentioned that he was challenged to a duel one time when he danced with another man's lady friend.
An officer settled the matter by explaining that customs differ in two countries. Walking is a great pastime in Germany, old and young doing much of this and often going
in large groups.

Men, who are admittedly the head of the household in Germany, have their recreation too. This is generally a game, usually something like pinocle, with a few other men at the club house. The men lunch together afterward. The women have their afternoon coffees. They visit and listen to their children speak and sing and then,
of course, have lunch.

German homes are very comfortable and members of the household are most courteous to visitors,
Prof. Bair added. Strict economy is practiced always. A person
staying in a German home is expected to pay for the heat, light
and water used. Most townspossle go to municipal bath houses but
a household having a bath tub expects the visitor to pay for each bath taken.

People in Germany eat about five
times a day, the speaker stated,

and often six. Only the noon meal
is a heavy one and the others light
lunches.

Dr. Kathryn Hugganir, accompanied by Franklin Philles, sang
German selections at the program
Friday.

Miss Ida Fisher expressed appreciation for books and magazines
brought for circulation in rural school districts.

Miss Beulah Rundle, A. A. U. W.
president, welcomed the guests.
Dr. Mary Honey, chairman of the International Relations group,
presided and introduced those taking part on the program.

Tables for the three-course German dinner were decorated with Christmas trees, miniature Santas
and with tiny white candles in
green and red gumdrop holders.
Menu program folders were printed in German and placecards written in German script.

Mrs. W. E. Back, Mrs. Charles
Heikes, Mrs. Eric Thompson, Mrs.
John Grimm and Mrs. John Kay comprised the St. Paul church committee preparing the dinner. Girls serving were Miss Ruth, Miss Louise and Miss Dorothy Heidenreich,
Miss Margaret Bradford, Miss
Margaret Mau, Miss Margaret
Renz, Miss Ardath Johnson, Miss
Verona Hahlbeck and Miss Lois
Thompson.

The A. A. U. W. group is making special study of Germany and sponsored the German Christmas
dinner as a part of the year's program. In the group are Dr. Honey,
Miss Rundle, Miss Fisher, Miss A.
Lewis, Mrs. G. W. Casterlan, Miss Ruth Paden, Miss Olive Huse and Mrs. F. W. Nyberg.

Injuries Fatal To Little Child

Kenneth McGregors Are In Car Collision On Thanksgiving.

Injuries suffered in an automobile accident early Thanksgiving
morning proved fatal to Catherine Ann McGregor, 6-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mc-Gregor of Loreto, Neb. The infant died December 1 and funeral services were at Niobrara.

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor and daughter were driving south of Creighton Thanksgiving morning. They crossed a narrow bridge and because of dense fog did not see a car on the other side, a collision
following. Mr. and Mrs. McGregor
were cut. The baby was bruised
but did not seem to be injured
otherwise. Doctors think the infant suffered concussion of the brain. The three were taken to Lynch hospital.

Mrs. McGregor was graduated from Wayne Teachers College last spring. His wife, the former Miss Helen Schindler, also attended school here. Mr. McGregor was employed at Merchant & Strahan service station in Wayne while in college. He and his family moved this fall to Loreto where Mr. Mc-Gregor teaches.

Miss Mary Lewis who teaches at Plainview, was a week-end guest of Miss Maude Curley.

GROUP SPONSORS GERMAN DINNER

International Relations Members Have Christmas Meeting Friday.

Germans are Romanticists. They encourage worship of shrines to ideals, asserted Prof. Clifford Bair
in addressing 93 who attended the German Christmas dinner sponsored by International Relations study group of A. A. U. W. last Friday evening at St. Paul Lutheran church.
Germans have always encouraged
Romanticism in art and literature,
and this has great influence on the people. A common sight in Germany, said Prof. Bair, is to see a group of young folks marching and singing as they go to visit some national shrine.

This Romanticism prompts Germany to provide the best in music
and other cultural training at little cost to everyone. Prof. Bair went to Germany to do solo work and character roles in Breslau and found this plan of presenting the best for the public to be a most important part of training and a great help in creating a cultural citizenship.

Along with the training supervised by the government, Prof.
Bair said, is what might be termed a vocational training bureau. Very young children are taken to persons of the bureau often by their parents, the officials testing their abilities and special aptitudes to determine for which vocation a child is best fitted. Children are encouraged in individuality and at early age take part in programs or before clubs.

Schools offer training to all
groups and higher education is provided for specialization, stated
Prof. Bair.

Music Furnished For Herald Radio

J. R. Miller And H. E. Ley Give Talks For Club Friday Morning.

Miss Ruby Hinnerichs played accordion selections for last Thursday's Wayne Herald radio program.

Dedications Thursday were for the following: Geo. Harder on his birthday of December 5, Mrs. Otto Hinnerichs on her birthday of December 3, Mrs. Will Jacobsen on her birthday, Mrs. John Dunklau on her birthday, George Wacker on his birthday, Ernestine Brandieck on her birthday of December 4, Mrs. Charles Brockman of Winside on her birthday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stillman of Decatur, and Mrs. Leland Young of Pender.

Miss Larhyla Whitmore and Mrs. Virginia Lewis played piano selections for Friday. J. R. Miller, president of Wayne Young Business Men's club, and Henry E. Ley, chairman of Christmas festivities which are in charge of the club, spoke. They outlined holiday plans and invited all to attend.

The dedications Friday were for: Mrs. Adolph Hosenan on their wedding anniversary, Mrs. August H. Wittler on her birthday, Mr. and Mrs. August Slahn, on their fifth wedding anniversary, and Mrs. W. H. Kahn of Ord.

Gerald Wallick, playing the saxophone, and Miss Ruth Judson, playing the piano, furnished music for Saturday.

Dedications Saturday were for: Nina Granquist on her 11th birthday, Harry Granquist of Winside on his birthday, Junior Straight on his 19th birthday, Mrs. Carl Victor on her birthday, Gladys Grant on her birthday, Mrs. H. J. Mabeke on her birthday.

WEE KINDERGARTENERS PROVE ENTERTAINING HOSTS TO THE VISITORS AT WAYNE SCHOOL

Strange, exciting moments make up one's life when one is only four or five, and has just been introduced to kindergarten. New friends... a novel experience to the only-child who has played alone... nice big playthings and interesting handwork... jolly little songs to sing, all together, and simple little dances which prove an outlet for excess energy... the thrill of wearing a brand new necktie or carrying a bright kerchief for the first time, and hearing the admiration of one's playmates... the lovely old folk stories and the age-mellowed Mother Goose tales and the fascinating modern tales told by one's teacher which open new worlds to fast-developing minds. Oh, the kindergarten is a thrilling place and all too brief of duration.

Let's listen in on Wayne school's kindergarten groups and follow through the routine... only in kindergarten are children so naive and so lacking in self-consciousness... so entirely absorbed by what they are doing. Miss Minnie Will exercises remarkable tact in guiding the youngsters, for these wee folks, just parted from home, must learn to "take orders" and to work together in groups... preparing for scheduled classroom work of first grade.

Last Friday morning class was somewhat depleted by the intense cold and its resulting illnesses. Only eight little tots, all bundled up under layers of clothing, cheeks reddened, eyes sparkling, straggled in by the final bell. Overlaid and sweated youngsters emerged from their wrappings and sat down at the table with all seriousness.

It's time to begin. "Let's make a circle," says Miss Minnie Will, and each and every one picks up a little chair and forms a semi-circle facing teacher. Lots to talk about today because Christmas is in the air, and there's a certain excitement throughout the grades. They're going to cut out wooden toys—elephants, dogs, cats, wooden things—and they've brought pieces of cloth from home to sew into little stuffed animals for Christmas presents.

There's some dissention. Francis Mitchell wants to save his—he doesn't want to put it on the Christmas tree. Robert Kingston has a little sister who will get his for Mitzl. Billy Heine will make one for Mitzl. John Ulrich has two little sisters so he's going to be mightily busy making presents.

Santa Claus was down-town and had several little visitors from kindergarten. Jimmy Thomas remarks that "you'd better be good" for there's a big white goose up in the air that comes down and gets you if you're bad. Miss Will thinks maybe this is just a little story out of a book. Jimmy saw tree lights down-town and thinks they'll be lit by evening. Loren Kohrt saw Santa Claus' house down-town by the store—"and it's all cleaned up." Miss Will promises the youngsters that when it's nice outside they'll all go down-town and see the toy shops, then make one of their own. Francis Mitchell remembers a pretty blue tree in the popcorn place.

Betty Entertains. Next—a story about Betty's party. Miss Will reads it and someone remembered a poem learned before—"Apple or candy found on the street is not good food for children to eat." Why not? Cause it has germs. And then too, it has poison, someone volunteers. Well, to get back to Betty's party. Little Dog and Pussy Cat came to the party. Little Dog wearing a little linking bell around his neck, and Pussy Cat wearing a big bow. Guess who else came? Well, Brown Potatoes, Green Lettuce, Yellow Carrots, Red Tomatoes, and Raisin Pudding. And all the newcomers joined hands and danced, then Betty and Little Dog and Pussy Cat joined hands and sang "Yes, we know, ho, ho, ho, you are the foods that make us grow." But just then the party folks looked out and there were two newcomers to the gate—Tea and Coffee. No one, not a one, wanted them to come... everyone was very excited... so Coffee and Tea ran away. But Sweet Milk came smiling to the gate and all welcomed her, singing "Sweet Milk, Sweet Milk, we need you to make us grow, and Sweet Milk answered "Children, children, yes I know, you need me to make you grow." Now, wasn't that a nice story?

Robert Kingston then recited clear through the poem about Mistress Mary—have you heard it?—"Mistress Mary, quite contrary, what is it makes you grow? Lots of milk and butter and bread, and all these things make me grow." Robert said it very nicely so Miss Will suggested the children clap for him... this they did, with Robert joining energetically in the applause.

Francis Mitchell was reminded of his cat which loves milk and bread, and John Ulrich volunteered that his kitten was eating bread and milk... and she took a bite of bread and spit it out. But she liked the milk.

Then it was time for handi-craft. Everyone to make anything he wished. Jimmy Thomas slashed readily into a piece of red paper to "make a present." Joanne Foster pounded clay with energy. John Ulrich found the crayons and outlined an orange Santa Claus. "What color is Santa Claus?" asked Miss Will. "Orange." And that's just the color of John's Santa. Robert Kingston drew a complicated picture which defied analysis, and which he refused to explain. One suspected the modern school of art. Francis Mitchell cut out a neat, curly-edged rectangle which represented Santa's house, then glued it over to Loren Kohrt to finish. This was fortunate for Loren had been sitting watching Jimmy not feeling the creative urge. Lucile Last drew a pig which the children identified as such, this being absolute proof of its success. Lucile's pig reminded the children of pigs they had known, and of farms. John Ulrich told of a pig kept at his home which they were going to fatten up and cut off its head and eat.

Miss Will had an inspiration. Let's draw Christmas trees, then go in and show them to Miss Potras' room. Jimmy Thomas turned out a tree in a twinkling—then added colored lights—"electric" ones—with long jagged strokes. John Ulrich's was composed of horizontal lines in green... Loren Kohrt ingeniously spreads his bright colors in thick layers over the green tree, resulting in a coat-of-many-colors effect. The boys are moved to show their pretty trees. And each work of art must be exhibited to Miss Will at frequent intervals during its progress, to receive her warm approval.

Now, time for games. First a musical game... Miss Will at the piano while Jimmy Thomas leads the group into the actions the music directs... without prompting they clap hands and march, skip, ring the bell as the music plays chimes, skip-dance in gay little rhythm, skate, gallop. Then drop-the-handkerchief... Loren starts it off and goes round and round and round the circle till everyone despairs that he'll drop it. Snow-balls is next—to music they pelt each other with imaginary snow balls, emerging breathless and laughing at the end.

Recess the magic word—and eight little citizens-to-be march off for brief relaxation. It's a pleasant place, this kindergarten room. Large, roomy, sunny. Green ferns growing in a fernery, curling tendrils of ivy reaching down from the ivy bowl... a big red Santa smiling on the wall, snow-flake cut-outs, small Christmas trees, wreathes a plenty... bright-colored play-toys and a piano and phonograph. The low, solid tables and comfy chairs are just right size for their wee occupants.

Back for Afternoon. Not content with going to school the morning session, one would want to visit the afternoon class too. And Friday brought 17 kindergartners, also well bundled against the cold. Cunning little folks emerged from warm coats and snow suits—boys in overalls and coveralls, in brown corduroy pants, in long trousers like dad's or short, the girls in little woolen frocks and bright sweaters. Soon bobbed heads were bent over building blocks, designing tottering skyscrapers and other piles which defied analysis, or colored cubes were being strung together in entangling ropes. They're a bit older, a bit more used to group play and to following suggestions than the morning class, for these children have had longer schooling.

"Is mine more pretty than yours?" asks one who is building cathedral spires. The circle forms and Miss Will tells them this is the day the church for toy-town will be built. Joe Lynch reports that he was going to bring the cracker box for the church, but it wasn't empty. Jimmy Liggett wants a cross put on top. Joe Lynch volunteers the use of his scissors and goes to hunt

Breaking Pikes Peak Record A Major Feat

ALONG with the Labor Day excitement involving strikes, horse racing, yachting, baseball and other sports, a remarkable feat of automobile racing was accomplished that day. Two dare-devils of the speedway smashed two former marks in negotiating the hardest and most perilous of all tests of automobile speed and sturdiness, the annual Pike's Peak climb. It is a test calling for the utmost stresses on the car itself and its equipment.

Louis Unser, of Colorado Springs, driving his Shultz Special, using the most modern developments in tires and other accessories, plunged up the steep ascent and finished the twelve mile 2200-foot course in 16 minutes 1 5-10 seconds, thus lowering the former record for open class cars held by Glenn Schultz by more than 45 seconds. Shultz's mark was 16 minutes, 47 6-10 seconds and was considered virtually unbeatable when made two years ago. And a few minutes later Buss Hammond, of Colorado Springs, driving a Ford V-8 broke the stock car record by making this hazardous and difficult course in 19 minutes, 25 7-10 seconds. The former record, "made last year was 20 minutes 5 2-10 seconds. The race was significant in more ways than one. No matter how fast and heavy well built automobiles are, each succeeding year finds them and their accessories a little better in some scientific particular.

Has Narrow Escape In Fire Thursday

Fire which started in the chimney, burned part of the roof of the Homer Wheaton house at Seventh and Nebraska streets, occupied by the Robert Wyles Thursday afternoon. Robert, Jr., 4, was home alone and firemen were obliged to break the door to rescue him. Neighbors saw the roof ablaze and turned in the alarm. Mr. Wylie was at school and Mrs. Wylie had gone down town while the child took a nap. The door was locked, and the little fellow was considerably frightened but was not injured in any way.

Bible class Christmas social is postponed until Second Christmas day.

Ask Bids on Work.

Lincoln, Neb. — Gov. C. W. Cochrane Thursday announced a call for bids on December 20 on federal and state projects to cost approximately $1,420,000.

The federal program, which amounts to $1,300,000, includes 27.8 miles of paving scattered over 17 projects mostly in cities. Other projects are for grading and culverts. The $120,000 worth of state work includes 2.4 miles of gravel, thirty federal and 17 state projects were listed for the letting.

The largest project for which bids were called was 15.7 miles of grading and pavement and eight bridges in Dixon and Cedar counties on United States 20 and Nebraska No. 15 between Waterbury and Laurel.

Bids also were called on 3.4 miles of paving in Richardson county on Nebraska No. 4 from United States 73 west through Verdon.

Rural School

District 81.

Helen Rhudy, Teacher.

New officers for the Good Citizenship club were elected as follows: President, Leona Meyer; vice president, Arlene Soden; secretary, Gene Baird; librarian, Nadine Baird. It was planned to exchange Christmas gifts next Wednesday.

The school room was decorated Friday for Christmas. Santa Claus and holy wreaths were put up for wall decorations. Small bells and stars were put on the blackboards.

Christmas seals are being sold.

Clothing Is Donated.

The recent canvass for clothing made by Wayne Red Cross netted a good amount of articles, including assortment of men's and women's wearables. Included were 118 pairs women's shoes, 52 pairs men's shoes, 47 pairs boys' and girls' shoes, and 37 pairs children's shoes.

Abortion Meetings In Dixon County

Dixon county farmers will have an opportunity to get first-hand details of the federal eradication program of contagious abortion on December 14 when a representative of Dr. A. H. Francis, in charge of the bureau of animal industry in Nebraska, comes to Ponca for an open meeting. The session starts at 8:00 p. m.

The meeting is the first step toward putting the campaign into operation in Dixon county. Agricultural Agent G. M. Dunn is arranging for the educational part of the program.

Under terms of the plan, cattle reacting to the agglutination blood test for Bang's disease, will be eliminated from herds. For disposal of diseased cattle, the government will pay the owner an amount for each animal, except unregistered bulls in accordance with the agreement, equal to the appraisal less the net proceeds of marketing the animal, and less any other moneys received because of the elimination of the animal. In no event, however, will this exceed $20 for grade stock and $50 for registered purebred animals.

The owner, under the plan, agrees to market for slaughter any animals reacting to the test, to continue blood-testing, remove reactors, clean and disinfect premises. Further details of the program will be discussed at the meeting.

Tested Recipes

Sauce for Plum Pudding.

The yolks of 3 eggs
1 tablespoon powdered sugar
1 pint of milk
1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 small wine glasses of brandy

Separate the yolks from the whites of three eggs, put the yolks in a pan, add the sugar, milk and grated lemon rind and stir over the fire until the mixture thickens but do not allow it to boil. Put in the brandy and keep hot until time to serve.

Ham Hash with Poached Eggs.

2 cups leftover ham/chopped
2 cups cooked potatoes
1-2 green pepper minced
1-2 medium onion minced
2 tablespoons ham drippings
1-2 cup diced celery
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-2 teaspoon salt

Melt the drippings and saute the green pepper, onion and celery. Mix with the chopped ham and potatoes, then add the seasonings. Add a little hot water if too dry. Shape into individual molds about 1 inch thick. Saute in drippings until thoroughly heated and slightly browned. Serve with a poached egg on each mold.

Veal Birds.

Spread thin slices, 3 by 7 inches cut from the upper leg of veal with finely chopped ham, roll, pin with toothpicks, brown in skillet turning constantly. Cover and cook 40 minutes over low fire, occasionally turning. Serve with brown gravy.

Carrots with String Beans.

Chose the very young tender carrots and scrape them lightly (and if small enough do not cut them; if large, quarter them, lengthwise. Prepare the beans by splitting them lengthwise and cutting in 2-inch pieces. Cook the vegetables separately, drain well, then mix them and dress with plenty of fresh butter, salt and a pepper to taste.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gattin adopts a baby girl, whom he names "Penelope," in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in divorce. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gattin, except for two Sunday afternoons a month. Gattin and Penelope go to a baseball game. A ball strikes Penelope on the nose and Mrs. Gattin removes her from the hospital, and spirits the child to Europe. Gattin retires from business, while Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for his daughter when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt is a rising young psychiatrist.

"Know anything about her antecedents, her background?"

"I don't know and I can't find out. She won't tell me."

"It may be," Doctor Burt suggested, "that she doesn't know. Has Blethen finished with the case?"

"Yes, sir," he told me not to bother him about her no more."

Doctor Burt indicated his telephone. "Call him up, Chief, and ask him if he has any objection to having me give her an unofficial examination."

McNamara did so. Following a brief conversation, he turned the telephone over to Stephen.

Stephen took the telephone. "Doc, the chief came to my office about that girl he has at the central station. Notwithstanding your report he has asked me, as a personal favor to see the girl. You understand, how- ever."

"Yes, I understand. Burt, she's a bad lot."

"Something the chief said has mildly aroused my curiosity. If you would care to invite me to discuss her case—understand, I have no desire to intrude."

"I'm through with her, Burt. Help yourself, old man. However, take a tip from me and don't let that fellow McNamara sell himself to you. If you do he'll keep you busy. I doubt if any man on earth can run a criminal down as promptly as McNamara; he has a photographic brain and never forgets a face or a fact; but after he's landed a egg in his cooler he develops an abnormal yearning to find out what made him do that way. Mac's a softy."

"Exactly. Thank you, Blethen. Still, a blind pig will sometimes find an acorn, and something he said—Good-by."

Lanny entered. "There's a young woman in the waiting room," she announced. "She said to me: 'Where the hell is that boned-out of a chief gone?' Lanny looked at Dan McNamara severely over the rims of her spectacles. 'Friend of yours?' she queried witheringly."

"Yes," McNamara admitted, "and Doc's new patient. Bring her in and he'll give her the once over."

But Lanny shook her head. "This nut shop is closed for the day," she told him. "Bring her around at one o'clock tomorrow. The doctor has fifteen minutes then."

"Please bring the patient in, Lanny," Stephen pleaded. "And then you might—" he glanced eloquently at their empty glasses. Lanny glared at him so he smiled—and she ceased to glare. But she went on mumbling.

Dan McNamara shook his head sagely. "Nothing wrong with that woman's thinking apparatus," he informed Stephen.

And then Lanny ushered the new patient in. She paused just inside the door, swept the room with a glance and permitted her gaze to come to rest on Stephen Burt, who rose and bowed to her. Instantly the frozen hostility in her glance faded and she smiled. "Reminds me of a gargoyle," Stephen reflected.

"Meet my friend, Dr. Stephen Burt, Nance," Dan McNamara introduced her airily. "Doc, this is Nance Belden, alias Dorothy Case, alias Fay Barham, alias Elizabeth Vernon."

Stephen said politely that he was delighted to make her acquaintance, and Nance replied with acid directness. "Why?"

Whereat Stephen Burt laughed and set a chair for her. Nance slipped herself down in it with a weary sigh, jerked off her jaunty hat and threw it on Stephen's desk. "All right, Steve. Shoot! What's the idea of the big convention? Another fishing expedition?"

"Now, Nance," Dan McNamara soothed her, "you cut out that. You're not talking to Doc Blethen. Doc Burt's a gentleman."

Nance remembered her manners. "My error," she apologized.

From the doorway leading into the waiting room, Lanny gazed upon the girl with frank disapproval. Over Nance's shoulder she caught Stephen's eye and shook her head sorrowfully.

"The old girl's shocked!" Nance laughed softly, without looking around, while Lanny disapproved. "How do you know, Miss Belden?" Stephen inquired.

"Mirror," and Nance Belden pointed.

"Close your eyes," Stephen commanded, "and describe this room to me."

"All right. There are two empty highball glasses on the telephone stand back of you." She sniffed. "Bourbon. The stand's three feet high and the telephone book is in the compartment under the top of the stand. The telephone is one of those combination receiver-mouth-piece things like they use in English stage scenes, and the telephone cord is white. The desk is solid walnut, I think, flat-topped and clean. You have a bronze combination ink-well, pen-rack, and pin-tray. There is a blue crayon pencil and a red crayon pencil and a black gold-branded fountain pen on the pen rack. The fountain pen has green ink in it. I know because on the calendar pad on the desk, which is opened at November 22—although this is the 24th—you've written something with the pen very recently. You're sitting in a walnut swivel chair, brown leather upholstered, and a high back up to your shoulder tops. The chief's chair is an over-stuffed rocker, and if you give him another drink he'll fall asleep in it. On the wall back of you, there is a framed diploma in Latin, issued to Stephen John Burt by Leland Stanford Junior University Medical school, and about four feet from it is the Oath of Hippocrates in a black frame, like the diploma. The print is old English and done in black and red. Across the room, in back of the chief, is a waiting bench, case, built in detachable tiers, and there's a white washstand in the corner close by it. In back of me a door leads into the old lady's den and—here Nance opened her handbag, took out a small mirror, held it up and opened her eyes an instant—"Yes, I thought so. That door is ajar and the old lady is listening to every word I say."

"Now, I'll describe you. You're a darling. You're tall and you haven't started to grow a tummy yet. You're about thirty-two to three years old, your hair is dark and your eyes dark blue, and you have nice teeth, and they show when you smile. You have nice hands and your nails were manicured this morning, but you have a dirty spot on the finger-nail of your right index finger—no, it isn't dirt. It's iodine. Pardon? My error. Do I win first prize, Doc?"

"In a walk, Miss Belden. You are absolutely the most amazing person I have ever examined. You are one in a million—one of those rare persons who not only see everything at a glance but take a mental photograph of it. And remember it. Yes, you win a prize."

"I'll have a highball with you boys," said Miss Belden composedly.

"You'll not, you little—this and that," Lanny countered from behind the door. "The very idea!"

"Then the party breaks up here and now," Miss Belden informed Stephen.

"Lanny," Stephen called, "I hope you aren't forgetting the laws of hospitality."

"Come on, kid," the girl entreated Lanny. "Buy me one and I'll get the chief to do something nice for you in return."

"What influence has the likes of you with the chief or police?" Lanny was emerging with two highballs.

"Who do you drive a car, Miss Lanning?"

Nance Belden whistled sharply to Dan McNamara.

"Get out your card, Dan. Here's the fountain pen. Write as I dictate. Ready? To all traffic officers: The bearer, Miss Rebecca Lanning, has the freedom of the city. She has my authority to park where she pleases and she shall not be tagged. She cannot be arrested for anything except murder and even then she must not ride in the wagon. Signed: Dan McNamara, Chief of Police."

Dan McNamara obeyed, Nance Belden viced the card, blotted it and handed it to Lanny. "Now, you tell me all who's kind to you, Rebecca. I'm some kid, am I not? You bet I'm some kid. Dan knows it and your boss knows it and if, by now, you don't know it, I hope Steve fires you."

"Thank you some kid. I admit it. Thank you, dear. You shall have a highball."

"Have one yourself," Nance suggested grandly. "Let's all be sociable, eh, Steve?"

"Miss Belden—" Steve began.

"Call me Nance," the strange young creature interrupted. "Why all the formality?"

"Have you any objection, Nance, to telling me your real name?"

"None at all. I don't know my real name."

"Who were your parents?"

"I don't know."

"Why did you steal the silk stockings?"

Nance threw back her head and laughed. "Why you silly, I had runs in every pair I owned."

"Poor dear!" Lanny was speaking. Her hand strayed over the girl's jet black shiny bob; her fingers sought a shell-like ear and tucked it gently.

Nance looked up at the nurse, surprise and friendliness shining in her eyes.

"Why, you're sweet, aren't you? Why, you darling?" And she lifted her face for Lanny to kiss. Lanny kissed her. Trust Lanny for that.

"It's too late to go further to night, Dan," Lanny said. "Bring her in at nine tomorrow morning."

"Can't, Lanny." With a bound the excellent McNamara had landed beside Lanny in the garden of friendship, as one might say. "She's due in the police court at one o'clock for sentence. Right away she'll be waited over to the Superior court to the judge that gave her a suspended sentence two years ago. She hasn't made good, so he'll sign the commitment papers, and it'll be some time before we see our Nancy again."

"Has she an attorney?"

"The public defender, that's all." Lanny looked at Stephen. Stephen looked at Lanny. Both nodded.

Modern Holiday Dinner Is Gay

Holiday feasts conjure up visions of the lavish viands of Dickens' day. The "groaning boards" with their wealth of game, roast beef and rich puddings may be seen no more—but the modern holiday dinner still retains the gay and bountiful atmosphere of plenty, essential to the success of such occasions. There are fewer courses, a greater restraint in types of food offered, but the planning of Christmas dinner is still an important event and its cooking a real adventure in cookery. Here is a modern holiday dinner that retains many of the dishes we have grown to accept as part of the grand occasion.

Claret Cup
Mack Pate de Foie Gras Canapes
Roast Beef
Yorkshire Pudding
Whipped Potatoes
Celery au Gratin
Tomato Jelly Salad
French Rolls
Plum Pudding
Coffee
Claret Cup.

This recipe is from an old cook book. One quart bottle of claret, one lemon cut very thin, four tablespoons of powdered sugar, quarter of a teaspoon of grated nutmeg, one liquor glass of brandy, one wine glass of sherry wine. Chill.

Mock Pate de Foie Gras Canapes.
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 cup boiled calf's liver (finely ground)
1-4 cup cooked mushrooms (finely ground)
Salt and pepper to taste

Use the finest knife on the meat chopper for grinding the liver and mushrooms. Combine all the ingredients and blend thoroughly. Spread on canape biscuits and serve with a slice of lemon. This amount makes one cup of spread.

Roast Beef.
Prepare for the oven by dredging lightly with flour and seasoning with salt and pepper; place in the oven and baste frequently while roasting. Allow a quarter of an hour for a pound of meat if you like it rare; longer if you like it well done. Serve with gravy made from the drippings of the pan or with a sauce made from the drippings to which has been added a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce and a tablespoon of tomato catsup.

Yorkshire Pudding.
Beef fat from roast
1 egg
1-2 cup milk
1-2 cup flour
1-4 teaspoon baking powder

Use beef fat from roast to grease custard cups and put in a hot oven to heat. Put remaining ingredients in a mixing bowl and beat with a rotary beater 4 minutes. Pour into cups to 1-2 inch deep and bake 15 minutes. Reduce heat and leave in the oven 10 minutes longer. Turn off heat and leave 5 to 10 minutes or until cooked through. When well puffed baste once or twice with beef fat. Serve on the platter with the roast.

Celery au Gratin.
Cut the celery into small bits and cook in boiling, salted water until tender but not too soft. Drain and place in a baking dish with a rich white sauce, a layer of each and top with the celery, covering with a half inch top of buttered bread crumbs. Bake in hot oven until the crumbs are brown.

Tomato Jelly Salad.
Make tomato aspic and mold in small cups. Just before serving remove from cups and hollow out centers. Fill the cups thus formed with Philadelphia cream cheese, whipped with mayonnaise and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with French dressing.

French Rolls.
Scald 1 pint of milk. While hot, add 1 cup of sugar and 1 tablespoon of butter. When the milk is cool, add a little salt and half a cup of yeast or 1 compressed yeast cake; stir in flour to make a stiff sponge and when light mix as for bread. Let it rise until light, then punch it down with the hand and let it rise again—repeat two or three times, then turn the dough on to the molding board and pound with the rolling pin until thin enough to cut. Cut with a cookie cutter, brush the surfaces of each one with melted butter and fold oven. Let the rolls rise in the pans, bake and while warm brush over the surface with melted butter to make the crust tender.

Plum Pudding.
1-2 pound suet
1 pound cleaned currants
1-2 pound seeded raisins
1-2 pound stale bread crumbs
1-4 pound candied orange peel
1-4 pound citron
4 eggs
1-2 teaspoon grated nutmeg
1-4 teaspoon cloves
1-2 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon allspice
1 cup dark brown sugar
2 tablespoons orange juice or grape juice or sweet cider
4 tablespoons flour

Chop suet very fine and work with pastry blender until creamy; Chop currants and raisins and shred citron and orange peel. Mix fruit and sift over flour. Mix well and add to the suet. Mix and add bread crumbs, yolks of eggs well beaten, spices, sugar and fruit juice. Mix well and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Turn into buttered bowls or molds, filling molds not more than 2-3 full. Cover securely with heavy parchment paper, or floured cloth and plunge into a kettle of boiling water. Boil hard for four hours. Boil again for two and one-half hours when wanted for serving.

Hard Sauce.
Beat to a cream a quarter pound of butter, adding gradually a quarter of a pound of sugar, beat it until very white, add a little lemon juice or grate nutmeg on top. Brandy may be substituted for the lemon juice if desired.

Plain Cup Cakes.
1-2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs yolks
1-2 cup milk
1-4 teaspoon soda
2 egg whites
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
1-3-4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream the shortening and sugar together and add the beaten egg yolks to it. Sift soda, baking powder and flour together, beat egg whites stiff. Add milk and flour alternately to the first mixture and bake in a moderate oven for 20 to 25 minutes. A fudge icing on these is particularly good.

The "Full Life."
Lincoln Journal: When Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser for the agricultural department, made the statement that a moderately "full life" under American conditions would cost $2,500 a year, he did not explain what comprised a "full life." It would have been interesting if he had. The doctor contented himself with outlining the difficulties of obtaining a distribution of income, and a national income of sufficient size to permit such distribution, in order to make that sum possible annually for every American family.

It is doubtful if life can be measured in terms of dollars. There are people who are living full lives now on incomes of less than the sum named. There are others who are not doing so on larger incomes. Undoubtedly, it is impossible to live a full life if the family income is severely restricted. There cannot be much satisfaction in living in such circumstances that one is continually hungry or cold. A certain amount of material comforts are the basis of a full life. But they are not as many or as expensive as one might suppose. A sufficient supply of food, clothing and fuel is necessary. Add to this the comforts of some of the modern conveniences, and the material side of life is well provided for.

In order to round out the full life, however, more is needed. There are certain spiritual and intellectual needs that must be satisfied. A person needs a certain amount of entertainment, amusement and intellectual stimulus. The expense of supplying these needs is not great if the person is himself properly prepared.

Music, art and literature are abundant and cheap. If a person has the capacity for enjoying them, the cost is almost negligible. If a person does not have this capacity, he may spend huge sums for entertainment and yet find life extremely empty. The matter of income scarcely figures. The problem is that of the individual and no amount of aid from any source outside himself will round out his life.

He alone can help himself to the full life, once his material needs are satisfied.

Cookies Make Holiday Complete

Christmas Cookies.
Almost everyone keeps open house around holiday time and the hostess who wishes to be prepared for the unexpected guest sees to it that the cookie jar is bursting with the delectable trifles that fit in so well with afternoon tea or serve so satisfactorily for an emergency dessert. Here are some new cookie recipes—they are easy to make and nearly all economical — try your hand at them this holiday season.

Chocolate Coconut Cookies.
1-1-2 cups flour
1-2-2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup sugar
1-4 cup shortening
1 egg well beaten
3 tablespoons diluted evaporated milk
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

Sift the flour before measuring. Add the baking powder, sugar, salt and sift again. Cut in the shortening. Combine the egg and diluted evaporated milk and add to the flour mixture. Add the melted chocolate. Mix the ingredients thoroughly. Shape into small balls. Roll these balls in shredded coconut and flatten slightly. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a hot oven for 10 minutes.

Ginger Nuts.
1-3-4 cups syrup, 1 pound sugar, 1 pound butter, 2-3-4 pounds flour, 1-2 ounces ground ginger, 1-2 ounces coriander seed, a dash of Cayenne, flour enough to roll out. Cut with a small cookie cutter, form in small balls. Bake in a moderate oven.

Cocoanut Sticks.
2 level tablespoons shortening
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Blend shortening and egg yolks. Add milk and dry ingredients. Knead five minutes, roll 1-2 inch thick, cut in 3 inch strips, 3-4 inch wide and bake 10 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from oven and brush with 1 egg white diluted with 2 teaspoons cold water. Roll in grated cocoanut, return to oven and bake until cocoanut is brown.

Butterscotch Brownies.
Melt 4 tablespoons butter, add slowly 1 cup brown sugar and cook 2 minutes. Add 1 egg, 3-4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, and 1-4 cup broken nut meats. Mix well. Bake in puffed pan. Cut in strips.

Sugar Cookies.
1-2 cup butter
1-4 cup milk
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1-4 teaspoon flavoring

Flour to make a stiff dough. Mix butter and sugar, add milk and slightly beaten egg. Add flour and work thoroughly. Chill dough. Roll out thin, cut with cookie cutter and bake about 10 minutes in hot oven.

Butterscotch Ice Box Cookies.
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups flour

From Ponca Journal for December 14, 1883: Here is a problem which is ripping up the legal fraternity and judges on the bench in this state generally. The anxious inquiry in Dixon, Dakota, Wayne and Thurston counties is where should the vote be cast? The four counties corner at Emerson, a horse could at that place stand with one leg in each county. At Emerson dwells Judge Feauto, editor of the Emerson Echo. His printing office is in Dakota county. He boards in Dixon county. He has his washing done in Wayne county, and he lodges on the reservation in Thurston county.
