

Asked Next Tuesday on Proposal to Issue Bonds Municipal Hospital—Every Qualified Elector Urged to Share in Results—Babson Optimistic—Production Control.

After the excitement of the state corn husking contest next Monday, Wayne citizens are expected to settle down to consideration of local subjects preparatory to voting at the next day on the question of issuing bonds to build and equip a municipal hospital.

A sufficient number of petitioners asked the city council to call the election, and action was therefore mandatory. They call for the election proposals an issue of $33,000 in bonds at a 4 per cent, and provides for a sinking fund to pay interest and principal as they become due.

Chief promoter of the proposed hospital expresses confidence that earnings of the institution, often drawing business that now goes elsewhere, would amply take care of the bonded indebtedness and other costs.

An Example From Past. When the late, esteemed J. M. Pile pioneered in educational work here, struggling with private capital to pilot along the old Nebraska Normal college, the legislature was not asked to put up another school.

Present Hospital Holdings. If more than present hospital accommodations are demanded, the right way would seem to be to figure out a feasible plan—with use of private or public funds—to absorb present hospital holdings and save from loss the one who has pioneered in this field.

To Build Rivalry. Like the state starting a school to compete with the privately owned Nebraska college, the employment of public money against any established institution makes the venture more serious.

Strong for Improvements. Personally, we are strongly in favor of both public and private improvements to keep the community moving forward—some times disposed to venture farther in piling up tax burdens than discretion would advise.

Business Improving. Economist Roger W. Babson reports business fortyone per cent above what it was in March, 1933. He says it is seventeen per cent above a year ago and nineteen per cent below normal.

Case Is Appealed. The case of Miller & Stirtz against Howard Pitzer, in which the county court found for the plaintiff, was appealed to district court by Mr. Pitzer.

KIWANIS TRIBUTE TO MR. BRESSLER

O. R. Bowen Gives Eulogy—E. J. Hunter Speaks On Country's Youth.

Prof. O. R. Bowen gave the Kiwanis memorial tribute to John T. Bressler, Monday following noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton.

"John T. Bressler was born over 60 years ago," stated Mr. Bowen, "and lived over one-half of the life of our country, 16 years before Nebraska became a state and 20 years before the Union Pacific was completed."

"The past 66 years has been the greatest period in history, Mr. Bressler was a pioneer in the midst of the growth of the country—nothing conquered the pioneer spirit; there was no state or federal relief in those days.

Mr. Bowen concluded his tribute with this statement: "It must be satisfying to look back over a well-lived, full life. The Kiwanis motto is 'We Build' and Mr. Bressler was a real builder."

Following the eulogy, Edwin Melby, high school music instructor, sang "Lead Kindly Light." He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Melby.

Prof. E. J. Hunter was speaker for the Monday meeting. He spoke of the new ideas on education discussed at the state convention meetings for teachers.

The only manufacturing industry in North Bend is the Studelohk automobile enterprise. Youthful applicants at the plant are not taken for jobs unless they are skilled along lines which will make them valuable to the company.

Mr. Hunter predicts that in the next 25 years population of Nebraska will be doubled. He concluded the speech by the statement: "Our public schools should give the youth of country something which they can use for the first few years they are out of school."

Club members decided to change the time of meeting next Monday from noon luncheon to 6:30 dinner because of the state cornhusking contest.

Delightful Weather and Productive Land Are Found In Hawaiian Islands

Hawaiian climate is so ideal that after a time one yearns for a rainy day of any change that will vary the remarkable weather. This was the experience of Lieut. and Mrs. Ralph N. Woods who visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Gordon Nierenberger, southeast of Wayne from Sunday until Wednesday when they were enroute from their Hawaiian station to Fort Sill, Okla., where Lieut. Woods will be in the demonstration battalion with the field artillery. Mrs. Woods is the former Miss Grace Johnson of Wayne. She and Lieut. Woods have spent two years at Schofield barracks, on the island of Oahu. They recently came through the Panama canal and went to New York, driving from the east to Villisca, Iowa, to visit Mrs. Woods' mother, Mrs. Jennie Johnson, who accompanied them to Lyons and Wakefield. They left Wednesday for Gering to see Lieut. Woods' folks and then continue to Fort Sill. Mrs. Johnson returned to Villisca from here.

Oahu, the island on which is located Honolulu, is third largest of the Pacific group. Honolulu is a very modern city, similar to southern California cities. Many palms, flowering trees and shrubs make it beautiful. Grass grows luxuriantly and is green the year round, as also are the trees and shrubs. Buildings in the city are not more than four stories high but otherwise are like American cities.

Only when ships dock or leave port does Honolulu take on the festive Hawaiian air. It is then that the islanders wear Hawaiian attire and bring leis as greeting or farewell as the case may be. On these occasions the Royal Hawaiian band and singers furnish music at the dock. Native boys follow the boats and furnish an interesting sight as they dive for coins dropped by those on shipboard.

Temperature on the island remains practically the same the year round, varying from about 50 to 90 degrees. The sun shines most of the time and one is glad when an occasional rainy day comes, also when the rainy season of January and February arrives.

Oahu is most highly cultivated of the islands, all the land excepting the mountains being used. American capital controls most of the production as well as business firms, hotels, etc. Cane and pineapple are the principal crops, these being raised on large plantations. Most of the sugar cane is shipped to the United States for refining and much of this country for canning. Some factories are maintained on the island. Cocoanuts, avocados and papaya are plentiful, and fishing is a large industry as well as a great sport. Tuna fish are canned for shipment.

The tourist business is one of the most important on the islands. Some permanent and many temporary homes are maintained by Americans. Shirley Temple maintains one of these homes. The islanders cater to wants of the travelers in every way possible.

Japanese, Portuguese, Koreans, Filipinos and native Hawaiians form the principal part of the population, the Japanese making

Auxiliary Honors National Officer

Mrs. C. E. Wilson, president of Wayne Legion Auxiliary, was hostess Tuesday afternoon at a tea given by the local Auxiliary in honor of Mrs. O. W. Hahn who has recently been appointed national rehabilitation chairman. Auxiliary women from Wayne county and members of other Wayne organizations were invited, about 125 attending. Mrs. Hahn left after the tea for Indianapolis to attend a meeting of national officers and she may go from there to Washington, D. C.

Talisman roses decorated the serving table in the dining room, and bronze and white chrysanthemums were about the home. Miss Lenora Blacketer and Miss Enid Presser furnished violin music. They were accompanied by Mrs. H. A. Welch who was in charge of music.

Mrs. Wilson headed the receiving line which included Mrs. Hahn, guest of honor, Mrs. Robert Armstrong of Auburn, department president, Mrs. Clyde Krause of Newman Grove, department committee woman, Mrs. A. L. Swan, state finance committee woman, Mrs. C. Orr, newly appointed state chairman of legislation, Mrs. Gertrude Brune of Tekamah, district president, and Mrs. E. E. Gailey, county chairman.

At the door were Mrs. J. C. Johnson and Mrs. E. J. Hutmeyer; in the living room, Mrs. W. D. Hall, Mrs. Harry McMillan, Mrs. John Harrington and Mrs. G. H. Liggett; in the dining room, Mrs. Frank Heine, Mrs. L. W. McNatt, Mrs. E. R. Love, Mrs. J. M. Strahan, Mrs. A. L. Jacobsen and Mrs. W. R. Hickman; pouring from 3 to 4, Mrs. G. W. Crossland and Mrs. H. C. Casper; pouring from 4 to 5, Mrs. A. A. Welch and Mrs. Charles Ash; pouring from 5 to 6, Mrs. W. H. Phillips and Mrs. W. S. Bressler; in charge of the kitchen, Mrs. F. G. Dale, chairman, and Mrs. G. A. Renard, Mrs. K. N. Parke, Mrs. A. W. Ross and Mrs. E. W. Huse.

Among those here from out of town were Mrs. Armstrong of Auburn, Mrs. Brune, Mrs. Ernest Jacobsen, Mrs. Schroeder and Mrs. Schaeffer of Tekamah, Mrs. Krause, Mrs. Walter Hanson, Mrs. Eggett and Mrs. Johnson of Newman Grove, Mrs. Wm. Wrobel and Miss Winifred Collins of Carroll, Mrs. Virginia McCain of Winside, Mrs. Jacobsen of Tekamah who attended college here.

about 55 percent. A few whites live here but the chief white population includes the army and movie people and other wealthy Americans who live in the islands. Very few of the original native population remain. They retain hold on affairs by requiring that only those with some Hawaiian blood may hold office. Governor of the islands is appointed by the United States president.

Laborers live in villages, some on the plantations which they farm and others at location conveniently connected with their fields by train. Different nationalities do not mingle. The Japanese have their own village. The Koreans have their own. Plantation owners provide free medical care and schools for the workers. When NRA plan was worked out in the United States, it was tried in the island but failed because the workers live under such different requirements. Rules applying in this country did not fit the laborers who made their homes in shanties and whose diet is rice and fish. The plan was thus abandoned.

Highways are being built on the island and one paved road now circles the land, this being 150 miles in length. One organization in Oahu promoted the plan of forbidding any highway billboards. When one goes from the United States to the island, the whole country, free from these unsightly boards, appears like one great park. The kind of stores is also controlled of the island, the exclusive shops being given preference.

The island of Hawaii, about 200 miles from Oahu, is less settled. There is located the world's largest ranch, the Parker holdings, with 430,000 acres. Cattle are raised and fed for market. Some sheep are also raised. The cattle are fine Hereford stock. They are raised on grass and finished on a protein grain which grows to height of about two feet. Lots of oats is also fed. The cattle are well finished but not so well as the corned animals of the middle west. Much of the beef is sold for army use. When they are shipped, the animals are tied to a raft, five on each side. They swim to the steamer where a hoist lifts them from the raft to the ship. Only a few hogs are raised on the island. Some hogs, sheep and goats which were turned loose on the island years ago have become wild and inhabit the mountain sides.

Experiments are being tried in providing stock feeds from native products. Exterior of pineapples is ground and covered with a molasses substance, this used as substitute for wheat bran. Beet pulp is also fed when mixed with this molasses. Experiments are being tried with cane pulp.

One of the new uses found for cane is the making of wood. The pulp, treated chemically after the juice has been extracted, is pressed into boards which will not warp, shrink or expand.

Honolulu has two daily papers printed in English and other papers in languages of the inhabitants. Each of the large papers has its radio broadcasting station. Reception of radio from the States is usually blurred by roar of the ocean. Mrs. Woods was invited to breakfast one morning to hear an afternoon football game in Philadelphia. Operas presented in the evening in this country are received there about 8 in the morning.

Volcanoes on the islands are dome shaped rather than cone shaped. They erupt occasionally and lava pushes out through the sides rather than erupting from a crater as most volcanoes do. Earthquakes are quite common though seldom severe on the islands. When earth tremors are felt volcano eruptions usually follow.

The field at the Nydahl farm, which averaged about 50 bushels to the acre, was prepared with six standing and four down rows alternating, Mr. Nydahl, Walter Carlson and neighbors preparing the plot. Contestant chose the ground by lot and began at west edge of the field, working east and then returning.

The Nydahl farm grounds and buildings were ideal for the contest.

Judges were Paul Splittgerber, C. W. Albert, C. H. Morris and Harry McMillan.

Weather was excellent and a crowd estimated at 2,000 attended the contest. Much interest was manifested and it is hoped that the husking bee an annual affair.

talent to many public enterprises. He was influential in persuading the state to buy the Nebraska Normal college and convert it into the Nebraska State Teachers College in 1910.

Mr. Bressler was an active member of the Presbyterian church and always served in official capacities. He was trustee until a few years ago when he resigned because of failing health.

Fraternities have played strong part in Mr. Bressler's life. He was the last charter member of Wayne Masonic lodge No. 120. He was member of the Royal Arch and Commandery at Norfolk and was a 33rd degree Mason. Mr. Bressler joined the Blue lodge at West Point in early days and transferred to Corinthian lodge No. 83 as charter member when this was formed at LaPorte. When Corinthian lodge was moved to Wakefield Mr. Bressler became a charter member of No. 120 here. He took the York rite degrees at Blair and transferred to West Point and later to Norfolk where he was charter member. He took the Scottish rite in No. 1 in Omaha and retained membership there. Mr. Bressler was elected 33rd degree Mason at Washington, D. C., and received the degree in No. 1, Omaha, being the only man in north Nebraska to hold this honor. He had held offices in the local lodge. He was a member of Nebraska Veteran Free Masons and was presented the 50-year badge January 9, 1927. He was a charter member of Wayne Eastern Star lodge.

Bressler and East parks in Wayne were gifts of Mr. Bressler to the city, as also was part of Winside's city park.

During the World war, Mr. Bressler gave his son into service for his country. Mr. Bressler also served as Wayne county appeal agent, chairman of the council of defense and fuel administrator.

During the depression years Mr. Bressler enabled many farmers to refinance land mortgages and save their homes.

Mr. Bressler's life is so closely interwoven with development of Wayne and Wayne county that his influence will live for years to come.

Mr. Bressler married Miss Julia Fair at the Fair homestead near Dakota City on July 21, 1880, and the latter has been a most efficient helpmate during the 55 years of their married life. Besides his wife, Mr. Bressler is survived by one son, John T. Bressler, jr., of Wayne and four daughters, Maude, Mrs. O. A. Harker of Puryear, Tenn.; Ruth, Mrs. A. T. Claycomb, Kate, Mrs. W. E. Sees Teacher Friend Of Blind Children

Mrs. S. A. Lutgen who appeared on the Sixth district teachers' convention program at Lincoln Thursday and Friday last week, was scheduled on the rural section whose president was Mrs. Viola B. Shepherd of Bridgeport, teacher of the Wayne woman when she was in the grammar grades at Sterling, Neb.

The story of Helen Siefert, blind, deaf and mute child who was befriended a year ago by Mrs. Shepherd, will be remembered by many Wayne people who were much interested in the plea for funds and in the welfare of little Helen. Mrs. Shepherd has been county superintendent of Morrill county for 12 years and it was largely through her efforts that Helen Siefert was sent to an eastern school to receive her chance for an education.

Mrs. Shepherd is now attempting to raise a fund for Elmer Lemre, 8, of Bridgeport, who lost his sight and hearing in a fire when he was a baby. A fund of $800 would enable her to place the boy in an institute for the blind and deaf where he would have the opportunity of learning something of the world in which he lives, and which is now only silence and darkness.

Mrs. Shepherd taught children in the best growing district of Nebraska before her election as county superintendent of Morrill county.

C. E. Osborn who was selling cars in this vicinity in 1921, has moved back here from Fremont and has entered the service of Louis's Motor Company.

Mr. Bressler built himself a little shanty from this siding on the homestead which cost about $14 to acquire. To prove up on the land he was required to live on the place five years and break the prairie. Mr. Bressler bought a yoke of oxen and used these to till the hard ground. Nearest neighbors were two miles away. Closest trading posts were West Point, Fremont and Sioux City. After proving up on his homestead in Leslie precinct, Mr. Bressler went to LaPorte, then the county seat. He was elected county treasurer in 1877 and reelected in 1879. At conclusion of his terms, Mr. Bressler and D. C. Patterson decided to establish a bank and they opened the first financial institution for the new county, the Logan Valley bank. Mr. Bressler was president and Mr. Patterson, cashier. Neither had any money but deposits came in and the institution grew. When the railroad missed LaPorte in 1881 and the county seat was moved to the present site of Wayne, the bank and its 16 by 16 frame building were also moved and set on Main street about a half block north of the present First National bank. In 1882 the Logan Valley bank bought out the Wayne County bank and moved into the building of the latter. The year 1885 brought reorganization of the bank into the First National bank of Wayne, which now has more than 50 years of service to its record. In 1890 the frame building was replaced by the present brick structure. Mr. Bressler was chairman of the board at time of his death, and his son, John T. Bressler, jr., is president.

Mr. Bressler was interested in political affairs during his long residence in Wayne county. In 1894 he was elected state senator, representing Wayne, Pierce, Madison and Stanton counties. In 1896 he was delegate to the republican convention in St. Louis which brought about the nomination of Wm. McKinley for presidency. Later Mr. McKinley offered him the post as secretary of agriculture which Mr. Bressler declined. The president did persuade him to serve as government director for the Union Pacific railroad in the spring of 1897. Mr. Bressler attended all republican national conventions from 1888 with exception of 1924 and 1932. He was personally acquainted with all presidents of the United States from Abraham Lincoln to the present with exception of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt.

In Wayne, Mr. Bressler served as mayor in 1910, school board member, chairman of Greenwood cemetery board and in several other capacities. Mr. Bressler served on the cemetery board since its organization in 1882. He inaugurated the perpetual care plan, and was instrumental in securing graves drives in the cemetery. He gave generously of his time and Vote THE referendum to ascertain the sentiment in regard to the AAA brought endorsement of the program by considerable majorities of farmers who voted. The Norfolk Daily News points out that only one-third of the farmers entitled to vote exercised the privilege, and wonders why a question of such importance was passed over indifferently. The News also mentions that "pop" meetings were held in many communities, and that Secretary Wallace issued warning in advance that if the control program were not endorsed, farm prices would bog down to low levels. The Lincoln Journal says AAA agents were busy holding meetings in advance in Lancaster county and explaining to farmers the value of the control plan. The Omaha Journal-Stockman accepts the result as the verdict of the corn belt, though qualifying conclusions with the suggestion that "conditions surrounding the referendum were one-sided and unsatisfactory to a fair expression of farm sentiment." The Sioux City Journal thinks those who voted for the AAA were influenced in a measure by a feeling against advantages hitherto held by the tariff-protected industrial east.

What is thought by the farmers who did not vote, will not be known. The government may be expected to go forward with its program under the assumption of overwhelming endorsement. Whether Secretary Wallace and his partners will be smart enough to avoid compulsory measures like the potato and cotton amendments and make the program uniformly optional remains to be seen. If, as suggested, any influence were used to persuade farmers in advance, it was a shortsighted policy and not consistent with the high-voltage wisdom supposed to be possessed by Washington bureaucrats.

Pioneer Passes THE passing of John T. Bressler, whose experiences and achievements are given in a justly liberal review in today's Herald, belonged to that sturdy pioneer stock that pushed back the frontier and bequeathed to succeeding generations a tilled and proved country. He came when Wayne county was raw prairie, and he was one of those who converted it into cultivated farms and dotted it with groves and comfortable homes.

This departed pioneer helped forge mid-western civilization. The mark of his constructive hand is found on the circles of church, education and business and all the activities that contributed to wholesome community growth. His long life was closely identified with the welfare of Wayne from the time the native sod was tilled for the first structure. His life was a part of Wayne's life, and Wayne was ever the idol of his soul.

Mr. Bressler's influential part in public affairs only diminished when the infirmities of age reduced his strength. The story of his life is the story of mid-western progress in which he filled many important places. He knew poverty as understood by all in the early days, and he knew the plenty that came with industry and development. Memory of his stalwart character and long life of useful service will always be linked with the history of Wayne. The community shares in the loss suffered by a devoted family.

Syracuse Couple Marry Last Week

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reuter Visit Wayne Relatives Several Days

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reuter of Syracuse, Neb., who were married Wednesday, October 23, came here that day and visited the former's aunt, Mrs. Louise Brune, and other relatives until Monday when they returned home. Mrs. Reuter is the former Miss Marie Schlander.

Relatives of the couple honored Mr. and Mrs. Reuter at a cocktail dinner and a 10 o'clock luncheon Sunday at home at Mrs. Brune's. Besides the Reuters and Mrs. Brune, the group included Mrs. Henry Valhamp, Mr. and Mrs. August Wittler, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Valhamp, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Valhamp and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hele. Mr. and Mrs. August Valhamp, the former of higher-in-law of Mr. Reuter, and Mrs. Laura Others diverge sharply from the course which custom and tradition, if not the constitution itself, have charted. In the aggregate, they probably constitute a record in law-making not only in point of volume but in far-reaching effects they will have upon our ways of living and working." That magazine makes this observation in one paragraph:

"It is becoming more apparent that payment of the debts contracted in the name of recovery are being demanded, not in money alone, but in the surrender of long standing personal prerogatives and curtailment of individual freedom of action. Business men are awakening to the realization that more and more of the decisions they are called upon to make must be subjected to the scrutiny of a far-off administrative government agency and that the courses they may take must fall within the area circumscribed by regulatory government guide posts."

The Chester, Iowa, News-Advertiser has gathered information from somewhere to the effect that there are 25,551,569 radios in private homes of this country. Comments the News-Advertiser: "That is more than double the number of telephones; more than the number of passenger automobiles in use and about a million more than the number of homes that are wired for electricity; and a surprising feature is that it has practically all developed in the past 14 years. At that, the estimate may be correct, for the radio has become very popular; prices have been greatly reduced, and the American people like to be entertained, and it supplies a vast amount of entertainment with an expenditure of a very small amount of money."

Cases of law violations in connection with the open season for pheasant hunting have been reported. Notwithstanding that shooting on highways is unlawful and dangerous, one person shot across a public road Sunday not far ahead of an approaching car of travelers. Also hunting after sundown which is contrary to law, has been reported. The open season holds dangers even if all the rules are strictly observed.

We are told that the Red Cross will have a force on hand at the state corn-husking contest next Monday to act in cases of emergency. However, it will not be advisable to get hurt or sick in order to use the emergency service. But in the event of accident or sickness on the ground, the world's greatest relief organization will be present and equipped to do its part.

Speaking of Halloween which has often slipped from harmless gaiety to inexcusable lawlessness, the Omaha World-Herald says: "But not much can be said in defense of young people, or parents, whose idea of amusement is to let the air out of other people's tires, tear down fences around other people's houses, and steal anything that is not locked up."

The Baker's Side Of It.

Omaha Journal-Stockman. Public and political protest against the proposed increase of a cent in the price of a loaf of bread in some of the eastern cities was a topic of discussion at the meeting of the American Bakers' association in Chicago and President Henry Stude had this to say of the business:

"The baking industry by its very nature is in the public interest. Wheat in Kansas is but a few kernels at the top of some straw until it is converted into food and put upon the American table. The conversion with all its attendant problems and responsibilities is in the public interest. Every man-hour in the bakery is many less woman-hours in the kitchen. We did more to give the housewife an abundant life than all the politicians—and at considerable less cost."

"The American baker saves the average housewife each week enough time to go to two movies, a card party, and a trip to the country in the car."

As to the price of bread, Mr. Stude had this advice for the bakers:

"If your price is too high, you can't sell it. If your price is too low you can't pay your bills. And if you can't find a middle ground upon which to do business you are in the wrong business."

NERVES.
The nervous system behaves about as it has been received and trained. One person has inherited too many sensitive nerves to be comfortable, and another not enough to avoid dangers and escape intolerable inertia. Sensitive nerves are essential for quick perception and large achievement. Too active, they throw one out of balance and cause more trouble than an army of jiggers. Duller nerves make one miss the train, stumble over the family cat, treat obligations indifferently and do or fail to do other things that show lack of normal sensibilities. An average assortment of nerves, kept under control and free from extremes, prevents the distress of flightiness or the one hand and blundering stupidity on the other.

Under the AAA. Mark Sullivan thinks the AAA—though popular in some quarters as a relief measure—would mean, if long continued, retarded farm production and the fashion of communism in Europe. The fate of the NRA—plainly interfering with constitutional rights, and definitely handicapping recovery—caused Washington bureaucrats to soft-pedal other attempts at regulation. But compulsory potato control slipped through congress with sufficient teeth to remind people of the extrajudicial to which the AAA might go if allowed unimpeded liberties.

Miss Helen Mabbott sang "Put on Your Own Purple Bonnet" and "Alice Blue Gown," and in a group joining in the chorus were Mrs. Jacobsen, Mrs. Berg, Miss Bradford, Mrs. Peterson, Miss Brown and Mrs. Mabbott. All were in old-fashioned costume.

FAITH.

Space which we know exists is quite as far out of reach of the finite mind to understand as is the life which lies beyond what we prefer to call transition. As things we see cannot be fathomed, so we may well have confidence that mind—finest creation of all—survives perishable matter and goes on and on, maintaining itself unimpeded by earthly barriers, unfolding more and more fully, more gloriously than ever. The faith that lends old age to welcome freedom from infirmities and look ahead with assurance, should be an inspiration to those who are forced to surrender the young and middle-aged—forced to be content with the memory of character. Joyfulness. Lack of definite proof is made up in considerable measure by reasonable deductions based on a combination of faith and known but unproved phenomena.

The month of October rallies us to a commemoration of four hundred years of the English Bible. On Oct. 4, 1535, there came from an unknown press the final sheets of the first printed English Bible, in the text prepared by Miles Coverdale, later Bishop of Exeter. In the four centuries since 1535, the English Bible in its successive translations has molded, as has no other book, the very life of the English-speaking people of the world. It has far surpassed the circulation of any other book in any language. This anniversary of the English Bible gives the Christian churches a splendid opportunity to emphasize the true value of the Bible and to sound a clear note of allegiance to its imperishable truths and its infallible precepts.

Red Cross Wars on Carelessness In Home or While at Work on Farm

THE American Red Cross is throwing the weight of its entire organization behind a continuing campaign to combat the negligence and lack of knowledge in the home and on the farm which last year claimed nearly 40,000 lives and injured millions.

According to safety experts most accidents can be prevented. Every Red Cross Chapter and Branch will play a part in this large-scale humanitarian operation, and have mobilized to meet the challenge.

Recipes

Baked Parsnips.
Scrape off pare; cut in lengthwise slices removing hard core if necessary. Place in a baking dish, add one-tablespoon butter to each 1-4 pound of parsnips, cover with hot water or stock. Bake in a covered dish, about 30 or 40 minutes or until tender, removing cover toward close to evaporate moisture until the juice is rich and thick.
Parsnips and carrots may be baked together after the fashion just described; it will be found that both seem milder and richer in flavor than usual. The same is true of combinations of parsnips and sweet potatoes, parsnips and celery, parsnips and white potatoes, parsnips and onions. Milk or water may be used.

Thin Fritter Batter for French Fried Onions.
1 cup milk
1 cup flour
1 egg
1-2 teaspoon salt.
Beat salt and eggs well together, adding flour and milk gradually rolled in egg and crumbs or cornmeal. Add seasonings before rolling in egg.

Seasonings may include mustard or sugar if desired. Cooked slices may be sprinkled with parsley or cheese, or savory browned onion or celery. Slices may be served on the platter as a border around meat or omelet. Fried tomatoes simmered in cream are very good. They are often fried or broiled with bacon and shredded green peppers, and may be used to make sandwiches.

Wayne Welcomes You. Nebraska Farmer: May we pause for a moment amid the seasonal excitement of football and world series baseball to remind our readers of another great sporting spectacle, and one that belongs to agriculture. — the annual state corn-husking contest, Wayne county and its county seat town of Wayne, with various farm, town and civic groups cooperating will be hosts to the huskers and their followers, on the Oskar Reinhardt farm, Monday, November 4. This great battle of the bands will be held at 11 a. m. and continue for 1 1/2 hours and 20 minutes as 30 or more enthusiastic athletes struggle furiously up and down their hands vying to see who can throw ears the fastest and cleanest. The reward will be $200 in cash prizes, divided among the five high huskers, and the right for the winner and runner-up to represent Nebraska in the National contest in western Indiana on November 8.

Weather being favorable, the state contest in Wayne county will attract from 15 to 20 thousand husking fans and the event will be well worth seeing. In addition to the contest, a splendid program of entertainment and exhibits will be offered through the efforts of the participating groups. The Reinhardt field and farm is admirably situated to handle a large crowd and to display exhibits. A feature of the

To The Orient With Congress

On Board The Portland Rose, Boise, Idaho, Oct. 12, 1935. Conductor got off the train at Cheyenne. He's deadheading back to North Platte. Tells us he will retire in a few years. He bought a farm last week. It's located south of North Platte. Has a lake on the place and some running water. He thinks when he retires he's going to harness that water, have his own water power plant, a few pigs and cows and invite his friends to come and see him and after he retires he will live happily ever afterwards on his own farm. This conductor says he got the farm so cheap he's ashamed to tell what he paid for it. He says lots of railroad agents, operators, conductors and even printers always want to have a farm and have something of their own for their old age, but most of them just stay in the printshop or on the railroad and never get a farm.

Talking about water power: We had a lot of copies of the North Platte paper on board the train. The front page is full of glowing stories about how Nebraska will have a TVA of its own through the combining of the present or perhaps future PWA water power and irrigation projects. Folks on the train read this report with interest and feel that the days of cheaper electric power are here. We are the only congressional party on this train and we are bombarded with telegrams and special letters from the Commercial club and business men at Spokane, Wash. They tell us not to stop off in Seattle too long and they want us to come to Spokane, and at their own expense they will take us all around the Grand Coulee. The telegrams are grand, but Nebraskans representing farmers who are asked to reduce their crops are not interested in spending five hundred million dollars of taxpayers' money to put thousands of acres of desert sands into production through irrigation, so we are not going to the Grand Coulee.

Mrs. Benham and her daughter, of Albion, Neb., got off the train at Payette. With these Nebraskans we look with great interest in the irrigated lands. The apple orchards are beautiful around Boise; the apples so heavy on the trees that the orchards look like lumber yards, due to the large amount of timber needed to hold up the branches which are so heavily loaded with apples.

The conductor tells passenger to get up at five-thirty tomorrow morning. The train will be close to the Bonneville dam. That's about forty miles from Portland. The PWA is doing a lot of work there with a gigantic power project. It's one of the new show places for the train crew to point out.

Portland business men are competing with Seattle business men to attract visiting congressmen and senators to stop in their towns. Telegram from the Kiwanis club at Seattle wants to hear all about the third Nebraska district for a feature for their monthly meeting October 15. That's the day before the steamer sails for Japan. The Nebraska congressman will tell the Kiwanis club of Seattle all about Nebraska.

There are beautiful roses, red ones at each table in the dining car. All literature in the club car would indicate that these roses are the product of Portland. Conductor tells us that all the roses going west are bought from a big florist in Council Bluffs and that the roses going east sometimes come from Portland.

From Pocatello, Idaho, fresh trout are featured in the dining car. They loaded fresh trout on the train there and every passenger is told about it.

Passengers on the train are starting to talk about the Philippines and Japan. An army officer on the train who has spent many years in the Orient ventures the remark that the Philippines will never go out of American hands.

Portland, Oregon: Frost has not yet hit this country. Roses are in bloom in the parks. Although this climate is more moderate than in Nebraska, the hillsides are turning into fall colors. The trees are bright red, gold and yellow.

The Duwamish valley is still green with miles of vegetables, mostly grown by Japanese gardeners. They are harvesting cabbages and carrots. Trees are filled with apples. They sell for 69 cents a box—the winter variety.

Many herds of Holstein milk cows throughout this valley.

Railroad men here say they are not getting the silk shipments from Japan that they used to. One of the biggest shipments of silk came into Seattle a few weeks ago but it didn't all go over the railroads to the east. Some of it was unloaded into other boats and sent down through the Panama canal. Railroad men say much of the silk is now going direct from the Orient through the Panama canal. They say it's cheaper to send the silk by water than to unload it in Seattle and send it overland by rail. Notwithstanding that, quite a few silk trains are going through from this port.

Seattle, Washington: The President Grant, the ship on which the congressional party sails to the Orient, is in dock being loaded. Congressmen are told they can put their baggage on board but can't take possession of their staterooms until Wednesday morning, October 16.

Seattle newspaper men are asking every senator and congressman this question:

"If the presidential election was held today would Roosevelt be re-elected?" They also want to know how strong Borah and Lovden are in the middle-west—whether Senator Norris would run for President? If Norris is going to run for the senate again? If Norris will run for governor?

They seem to be interested in Senator Norris for many reasons. One is that this part of the country is municipal light and power minded. The town of Tacoma has the cheapest light and power rates in the country. They sell electric power from their own plant for one cent per kilowatt. Seattle rates run from two to five cents per kilowatt.

A man named Burke Taylor, who used to live at Lincoln, Neb., and who is manager of several big buildings, says he has a seven-room house all run by electricity. His average bill is around six dollars a month. Arlo Vopni, a Union Pacific telegraph operator, has a six-room house and runs it all by electricity and pays about $4.00 a month.

The good ship President Grant sailed out of Seattle harbor today with practically every leading department of the House and Senate on board. About twenty-seven congressmen and eighteen senators and their wives, and some distinguished people are on board. They are bound for the Philippine Islands to present there on November 15, to help inaugurate the new commonwealth. The party is headed by Vice-President John Garner and Speaker Joe Byrnes.

The Philippine government is paying all of the railroad and steamship traveling expenses and many of the party after the ceremonies in the Philippines, are going to continue on around the world, most of the traveling expenses being paid by the Filipinos. Some estimates are made that the expense to the Philippine government will run close to four hundred thousand pesos, which is about two hundred American dollars.

Twenty-two prominent newspaper writers and publishers are also on board the ship as guests of the Philippine government and invitations to the newspaper men were issued through Francisco Delgado, junior commissioner from the Philippines, with the assistance of a prominent eastern publisher.

On Board U. S. S. President Grant October 19, 1935.

Members of the party and their wives are wondering why and wherefore some other senator or congressman has a better stateroom. A lot of the members have staterooms without bath and find that some members who are not members of the insular committee have rooms with bath. Rank and seniority had time served in the congress seems to have had much to do in making up the seniority list and the assignments of the best rooms. So even here on the high seas on board a boat bound for Manila the rank, seniority and the minority and majority party power predominate.

A lot of Seattle newspaper men are on board the ship and will say goodbye in Victoria, B. C., the first port of call.

Delayed letters are opened. Many of them come from souvenir hunters. Somebody in Fremont wants us to collect matches in every town and country we visit. Two stamp collectors want stamps. They tell us you can buy stamp collections cheaper in Japan than anywhere else. A lot of letters ask for the inaugural stamps from the Philippines. They want the envelopes and stamps sent direct on the day the new commonwealth of the Philippines is inaugurated. That date is set for November 15.

Seattle and the Puget Sound country is having good business. There are some vacant buildings but very few vacant houses. Last year the business there was at a standstill because of the lumbermen's strike. The strike is now over and the mills are running overtime. The boat shipments from Alaska are helping business. Business in Alaska is good due to the big price of gold.

Secretary of War Dern has preceded the party and will join the party in Manila. General Douglas MacArthur who has been loaned to the Philippine government to train their new army has also gone on ahead. Roy Howard, of the Scripps-Howard newspaper syndicate is reported to have also preceded the party and may meet them in Japan.

Your Congressman will be sure of a Rip-Van-Winkle when he arrives in the Philippines. It was about 30 years ago when he first landed in these Islands. The islands have been expensive to American taxpayers. Japan can set on the lower tip of Formosa and see our Islands. Maybe she wants them—maybe she doesn't. But does America want to keep them?

Many Americans who have business in the Islands say America should keep them. Officers of the Army and Navy who have had a lot of fun there say the Philippines can never rule themselves and that eventually they will lose the islands if we give them back to the natives. Idiot-minded Filipinos say that soon years of Spanish rule will be enough to bring them to freedom. They can sing the Star Spangled Banner in three languages—but they always follow that up with their own national anthem in their Tagalog language. Their flag of three stars representing their three big islands—the rising sun and with red, white and blue colors will fly under our own flag.

There's a new organization being formed in Seattle and other Pacific coast towns. It is called "The Cincinnati organization." The one in Seattle has been going strong for over a year and has elected several members to the city council. Talking to one of the members of this club, he explained it this way:

"The Cincinnati is a non-political organization so far as party is concerned. We have Democrats and Republicans in our club. It is organized for the purpose of putting hard working, honest men into public offices. Whenever we back a candidate for any public office, he or she must give us a sworn affidavit of all his earthly goods. We must know just how much money he or she has when they enter office. They must also give us a sworn statement of just how much money they have when they leave the public office to which they have been elected."

This member of the Cincinnati of Seattle says that eventually the organization will spread to all parts of the United States and when it does most of the city governments will be working for the taxpayers and eventually most of the towns and cities will be on a self supporting basis and taxpayers will be happy.
