

Shows Swing Away From New Deal - Corn Crop Gathered - Christmas Plans - Many Turkeys Marketed - Government Crop Control - Improving the Herald - War Prayer.

The Literary Digest's first published figures from its nation-wide poll involving the New Deal appeared last week, and they reveal a considerable swing to the opposition. Partial returns from only five states are given—Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. In the comparatively small number of votes counted, Georgia and Oklahoma still show majorities for the administration, though less than were shown in the poll taken last year.

The Digest's poll is more complete than any attempted a total of 10,000,000 ballots having been issued, and while the number returned so far is not large, it is sufficient to reflect a very marked change in sentiment. It shows that people are beginning to see through wild schemes and unfulfilled pledges, and that they cannot long be fooled.

Corn Picking Finished. The 1935 corn crop is mostly picked and hauled. Farmers have certain times for completing major tasks through the year. Corn is supposed to be planted May 10, sufficiently cultivated by July 4, and threshed by Thanksgiving day. The crop varies this year, not so large as expected in some spots, and greater than expected in others.

Earlier Than Usual. Christmas plans are being made earlier than usual. Local stores have holiday goods on display, and are inviting the public to make early selections.

Wayne County Turkeys. Truck-load after truck-load of Myron Colson's turkeys left for the Sioux City market during the past week to meet Thanksgiving day demands.

Potato Production Increased. One trouble with government planning to regulate agriculture is the way one crop influences another. Not much was thought of restricting potato production until cotton farmers in the south began using ground from which cotton was forced, for raising potatoes.

Making Better Newspaper. Quitting the broadening task the Herald will be able to give increased attention to making its newspaper more interesting.

Mark Twain's War Prayer. The barbarity of the prayer that asked divine aid to inflict tortures in war led Mark Twain to write some time before his death a satirical war prayer which gives strong emphasis to the horrors of deadly conflict.

TWO ADDRESS KIWANIS CLUB

J. E. Brittain And James Stewart Give Messages Monday Noon. The history of Andrew Carnegie's life," stated J. E. Brittain in a paper read by J. E. Siman before Kiwanians Monday.

The Carnegie steel works started in 1873 and went through the panic in good shape. In 1900 the fortune amounted to 25 millions. Mr. Carnegie decided to establish libraries to do the most good with the money and by 1910 had given away most of the fortune. His interest in libraries started when he was a book and loaned farm books.

James Stewart of Cincinnati, Ohio, specialist on interior decorations, spoke briefly. He stated that the depression is less noticeable over the country and prosperity seems to be returning.

Mrs. Alton Rippon Passes In City. Mrs. Alton Rippon of Sioux City, sister-in-law of Mrs. Frances Jones of Wayne, died Sunday after a brief illness, aged 29 years.

Take Active Part In Group Meeting. Mrs. O. W. Hahn introduced the national Auxiliary president, Mrs. Muckelstone of Chicago, who addressed the officers of the organization at their meeting at Grand Island last week.

Young Men's Club Meeting Is Held. Young Business Men's club met last evening at Hotel Stratton for regular 6:30 dinner. Willis Noakes and Harold Preston had charge of entertainment for the evening and Rev. W. F. Dierking spoke.

In Justice Court. A transient giving his name as Geo. Rone, arrested on charge of intoxication, put up a $10 bond for appearance in justice court and failed to appear.

Emergency PRESIDENT Roosevelt is often referred to as sincere by some who have ceased to agree with his policies. It is more charitable to think his intentions are good, though a basis of good intentions cannot be accepted as an excuse for egregious and costly blunders.

The president's manner of treating former President Hoover who pleaded for cooperation—for a word of assurance—between the election and inauguration, to ease frightened industry and business, could have been intended for no other purpose than to sink economic conditions to the lowest possible ebb before appearing as the country's crowned and consecrated savior.

Often during coming months the story of the New Deal's preliminary steps to power and of the spending spree that followed to buy back prosperity will be told in all their impressive details. Ballard Dunn, Omaha editor and publisher, says the depression was conquered in the summer of 1932. He points out that the slowly rising business barometer was stopped when, following election, rumors were afloat that the sound currency and other planks of the democratic platform were to be repudiated, and then fear gripped the country, funds were withdrawn from banks and general panic was threatened.

Whatever his intentions may have been or however sincere he may have been, the record which will be told fully and clearly during coming months will reveal a line of policies manifestly lacking in sound American statesmanship and altogether at variance with fundamental American principles which, among other things, upheld the federal constitution, even though it was fashioned during the "horse and buggy" days.

Ballard Dunn thinks the country's greatest emergency exists right now and that it involves restoring the form of government under which was developed the freest and richest nation ever known anywhere under the sun. It is the emergency that "calls America to rally to drive from Washington those who would turn our splendid civilization into the 'collectivist state.'" Editor Dunn explains: "This is the 'emergency' the republican party must meet. It cannot be met by mere politicians. Statesmanship of the highest order is needed, and courage to drag the mask from the mess of the New Deal."

Townsend MICHIGAN republicans have nominated a man who urged his candidacy on a plea for the Townsend pension plan. This development will be eyed as ominous by both political parties. The idea of saddling billions of additional taxes on the country to pay oldsters larger gratuities than they need is not an encouraging prospect for initiative and enterprise.

a situation in which it will be more and more difficult to prevent a popular and permanent relapse into the arms of widespread government subsidy. "Competence and enterprise cool their heels in the anterooms of authority, while incompetency, under public patronage, thrives and becomes invested with dignity. Even supervision of the new order brings confusion in its maze of cross-purposes. And political patronage contends with socialism for control of the public pay rolls."

In his Columbus Telegram, Edgar Howard expresses anxiety over the kind of platform Governor Landon would run on if he were made the republican nominee for president. It is hoped, as Editor Howard's interest suggests, that party platforms will mean more next year than did the one on which the president was elected in 1932. If the relation of that platform to subsequent performance were to be accepted as a new standard of practice, the subject should be dismissed as not worth talking about.

The kids going bare-legged regardless of weather is attributed to the example set by Shirley Temple, popular juvenile screen star. It should be understood that Shirley lives in a warm climate, and that the leg area which she exposes, is not liable to be fanned by a below-zero temperature. Also those responsible for dressing Shirley or for keeping her too largely undressed have not qualified as supreme in the exercise of sound judgment.

The Nebraska Legislature wound up its special session Monday afternoon, having finished its business of trying to promote social security. This is probably the last session of the two-house legislature. The next session in January, 1937, will have one house, and according to reports from Lincoln, all members of the present two houses expect to become members of the coming one house.

Pinchot Off New-Deal. (Sam McKelvie's Issue) Among the liberals since the time when Theodore Roosevelt gave leadership to real progressivism, none could be considered more devout than the Pinchot brothers, Gifford and Amos. There were those then and since who thought their liberalism was too liberal. The least to be said is that they are liberal enough; but according to a letter Amos recently addressed to Professor Felix Frankfurter, head braintrust adviser to the president, it is evident that the New Deal brand of liberalism is too woosy for him.

"Its effects (reflation) were checked mainly, I think, by the business fear and uncertainty caused by the NRA, with its price and wage fixing, and other measures that balled things up and kept people from doing business, spending, and employing labor." "Roosevelt, with all his kindheartedness, is failing, because he follows no consecutive line, and apparently doesn't think things through to the end. He permits monopoly and price-fixing by big business. Then he comes out for the Sherman law. He tries to set up a 'managed economy, which is impossible without a fine, highly trained, and non-political civil service. But lets Farley smash the civil service whenever it's necessary to strengthen his political machine."

"One moment he's hell-bent to restore the price level and 1926 dollar and reduce to pre-depression size. The next, he's been persuaded that this is 'tinkering with the currency.'" "In general, his policy seems to have been, 'Well, if this doesn't work, we'll find something else.' The only things he has been consistent in are regimentation and a steady transfer of function from Capitol Hill to the White House. Already he has concentrated so much power in the Executive that, in the hands of any but the most intelligent, wise, and scrupulous president, it becomes a threat to democratic government."

THANKSGIVING.

It is hard for a person who is hungry, to feel that food is not the greatest blessing in the world. When the Pilgrims set apart a day for thanksgiving, their efforts had been rewarded by material plenty, easing the rule of privation and hardship. They were engaged in the difficult task of wresting a livelihood from a wilderness, and advantages—laboriously won—thrilled the pioneer struglers to the point of sincerest gratitude.

College Societies.

Try-outs will be made for two one-act plays to be sponsored by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. Funds realized from the plays will be used for defraying expenses of delegates to meetings in Indianapolis. KMK, the new society at the college, which has been formed for the purpose of bringing together those interested in the study of piano music, is planning a piano recital to be given in the college auditorium on December 10.

Friday evening a large number of students attended the gypsy harvest dance held in the college gymnasium. Novelty programs, appropriate decorations, including gypsy wagon and a harvest moon, fumes in magic writings by card and in autumn leaves made the evening one to be remembered. Prize for the best men's costume went to Stanley Johnson and the gypsy queen chosen was Alice Evans. A gypsy dance was given by Barbara Strahan. Music was furnished by Harvey Hodapp and his orchestra.

Sixtythree young women students have registered for the class in first aid taught by Dr. R. H. Loder, Red Cross examiner. The first meeting was held Thursday afternoon, November 21, and the lecture enthusiastically received. In order to accommodate the large number it will be necessary to have extra periods on Thursday evenings.

FOR TOLERANCE.

We can appreciate the forward-looking view of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in discontinuing contributions to any religious denomination with the purpose of sharing the financial burdens carried by any Christian movement regardless of creed. He expresses belief in denominations as an instrumentality, but does not believe they are fundamental, and too much stressed, hamper pursuit of the great Christian essentials. "What gives me pause is the tendency inherent in denominations to emphasize the form instead of the substance, the denominational peculiarity instead of the oneness of Christian purpose," he says. Mr. Rockefeller expects to contribute as liberally as ever to Christian work, but without denominational preferences. He sees that the way to advance Christian thinking and living is to get away from emphasis on denominational lines and put it on activities lending strength to real Christian purposes. In broadening his field of service, he suggests that he is acting in accord with the denomination with which he and his father have long been associated, and which was founded on principles of freedom and tolerance.

CONGRESS

Kobe, Japan, Oct. 30, 1935. What a different Japan that was thirty years ago when we first saw it. Then the mode of transportation was the Rikshaw and the ox cart. The ox cart is still here, but the Rikshaw is used only for tourists who want to be able to say they rode in one. In Shanghai and Hong Kong the Rikshaw is still popular but here it is a thing of the past. Elevated trains, rapid transit bus lines, electric street cars. The street car fare is about two cents. Plenty of airplanes and thousands of taxis and private cars. Yokohama and especially Tokio are modern cities. All buildings built since the big earthquake of 1919. Paved streets and left hand drives similar to England. Taxi fares are reasonable—about twenty-five cents for a ride to any part of the city.

As Seen by a Nebraskan

Speaking of transportation, the Ford car is the most popular. Mr. Ford has a great assembling plant here and half a hundred new cars were assembled to take the congressional party around the country. The Japanese, who are great imitators, are now about to build a car of their own. It will be put out at lower cost than Ford's. We are told that even now the Japanese make a lot of their own Ford patents. They have no regard for anything and make thousands like it. And they ship it to all parts of the world.

What did the Americans see in the first visit to Japan? In Yokohama and in Tokio and here in Kobe? The general impression is that they saw no unemployment because everybody works in Japan. Even the vice-president admits that he was impressed with the industry—the numerous bicycles and the thousands of school children all dressed in uniforms were led by their instructors. Compulsory education here in Japan. There is only four percent illiteracy. Civil service or the merit system only opens the door to college or university education. A millionaire could not buy his son a degree from the University here.

To prove a statement we are told officially that there is a Paris, Japan, a Berlin, Japan, a USA, Japan, where certain pottery and novelties are made. These are shipped to every country in the world to compete with goods made in the countries where this is sold. We find the Kewpie doll made here. We also find thousands of items seen in American stores which are copied here.

Japanese Sea, Japan, Nov. 1, 1935.

All day yesterday was spent on the top decks of this ship going through the Inland Sea. Senators and congressmen, newspaper writers, representative of sugar interests, oil interests, steamship interests, watched from the decks the beautiful islands of the Inland Sea. But they saw something else. They saw a shore line which is lined with warehouses and factories. They saw great cities of factories. They saw thousands of extremely tall chimneys belching forth smoke and manufacturing plants. Congressmen from Pennsylvania, one from Pittsburgh, uttered amazement at the tremendous number of chimneys and smoke stacks of hundreds of steel mills, cement plants, etc. For two hours before the steamer left the straits at the west entrance of the Inland sea these cities of mills and factories attracted the eyes of the Americans. Little attention was given to the daylight bombs of welcome which were sent up from the hillsides by the Japanese. All talk was centered on Japanese industry. The Americans suddenly realize why American trade in the Far East has gone Japan.

Speaking of Japanese factories and mills—the president and secretary of Philippine Chamber of Commerce are in Japan today on a "good will" mission to Japanese business men. The Japanese newspapers carry full column stories about speeches made by these Filipino officials to the effect that the Filipinos welcome Japanese trade. The newspaper report states that the president of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce in a banquet address on Oct. 28 at Tokio called attention of Japanese business men to the fact that the Philippine Islands will never be an industrial country and that the Japanese trade in the Philippines is heavier than Philippine trade in Japan. In this statement the Filipinos are quoted as stating that the Philippine people want more Japanese merchants in the islands and that the Filipinos want more Japanese made goods because they are cheaper. In return he would like the Japanese to buy more Philippine raw products. Americans on board this ship who read these articles.

Baseball is a great sport of here. Boys who had autographs from Babe Ruth proudly show these signatures to visitors. Although everybody works in Japan the boys find a few minutes to play ball in the vacant places at school. But these boys combine business with pleasure. It is uncommon to see a crowd of boys playing ball with several of them carrying babies on their backs. Americans got a great thrill watching baseball practice the other day in Kobe when the youthful pitcher was winding up with his baby sister tied to his back. The baby was sucking back and forth, sideways and every direction as the pitcher wound up and threw the runner out at first.

Discussions with reliable business men of Japan indicate that Japanese business is giving good profits. These statements are confirmed by newspaper reports in Tokio and Kobe. The average rate for 1,250 leading business corporations shows 11 percent profit up to this time in 1935. Only seventy firms in the country showed losses and 198 firms failed to pay a dividend.

High School In Carnival Friday
The carnival held at the Winside high school Friday evening netted $93.74, which sum will be used to buy new suits for the basketball team. The carnival was very successful with a good crowd in attendance.

Reports for the second six weeks of school were given out Tuesday. School was dismissed Wednesday evening for the remainder of the week for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Grammar Room.
Those who had perfect attendance in the grammar room the past six weeks were: John McIntyre, Bernard Hansen, Lester Wendt, Billy Gray, George Hansen, Altie Selders, Ruth Schmode, Etsei Selders, and Raymond Bronzynski.

Those who have been neither absent nor tardy during the entire twelve weeks are: Lester Wendt, Raymond Bronzynski, Etsei Selders and Altie Selders. Billy Gray and Bernard Hansen have been present every day but each had been tardy once.

The seventh and eighth grades enjoyed the third and fourth grades' physical exercise demonstration very much last Wednesday afternoon.

The general geography class is still working on maps of the United States. This week interesting reports were given by Juanita Fisher on wheat, Altie Selders on corn.

The hygiene class has been studying "How to avoid consumption, colds and contagious diseases." Junior Trautwein gave an interesting report on Dr. Trudeau.

Six weeks' tests were given last week.

Sub-Intermediate Room.
At the end of the six weeks physical exercises were given in the way of a program for the grammar room and the intermediate room. Pupils gave a program for them last six weeks and the (Continued on page seven)

ORCHESTRA IS IN PROGRAM

The Wayne high school orchestra made its first appearance in the assembly Monday honoring the 100th birthday of Andrew Carnegie of November 25.

The numbers played were: "Indian Chief" selection by DeLamarter; "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" by Setz; Marimbaphone solos, Betty Blair; "Bells of St. Marys," "Ship Mates Forever," and several encores.

Members of the orchestra are: Violins, Gerald Wright, Mary Grone, Erna Meyer, Opal Granquist, Ardath Johnson, Fannell Mae, Hazel Casey, Alice Mae Fosker, Melvin Sahn, Wilma Heidemann, Annabelle Jensen, Mildred Franzen, Helen Hughes, Wilma Hogewood, clarinet, Don Baker, Beverly Canning, Harold Johnson, cornets, Bob Baker, Norman Capsey, cello, Lilled Ringier; French horns, Marjorie Ellis, Lyle Seymour; oboe, Jean Mines; flute, Catherine Cavanaugh; bass, Ruth Judson; percussion, Marion Vath, Van Bradford; tympani, Wilmer Ellis; trombone, Wilma Baker; saxophone, Robert Wright; viola, Lois Thompson; marimbaphone, Betty Blair; concert master, Kenneth Petersen.

Roy Corryell gave a biography of the life of Andrew Carnegie on the Monday program and Billy Hawkins told of his work, his library foundation fund and his publications.

Sophomores Win Volley Ball. In the first annual inter-class volleyball ball tournament the sophomores romped off with the trophy. In the first round the seniors met the freshmen and defeated them by scores of 20 to 6 and 20 to 7. Also in the first round the sophomores nudged out the juniors 20 to 14, 11 to 20 and 20 to 12. Thus the sophomores and seniors advanced to the finals and on Monday night fought out the championship. The sophomores won by scores of 20-13, 11-20, 20-5 and 20-17. The juniors defeated the freshmen to win the third place position by scores of 20-4 and 20-16.

Tuesday and Wednesday will see an inter-class basketball tournament being run off in the high school gymnasium. The boys will be playing under the supervision of Coach Gibb who will be looking for prospects to make up his 1935-36 quintet. Basketball practice period will start next Monday night and a large squad is expected to report.

Second Period Closes. The second grading period of the school year closed November 22. Pupils received report cards Wednesday, November 27, and will return them Monday following Thanksgiving.

A check on attendance in the high school for the first 12 weeks showed perfect records for the following students:

School authorities call attention to the fact that only one in the group with perfect attendance is on the unsatisfactory list in classes and this student has difficulty in but one subject.

From a high correlation between attendance and class standing it is evident that the surest guarantee of success in school is in the big world outside lies in the habit of punctuality.

Cyc Club Selects Characters. The cast has been completed for the production of Huckleberry Finn, play to be given by members of the Cyc club. They are: Aunt Polly, Maxine Barrett; Ruth Watson, Bethel Brown; Mary Jane, Marjorie Hook; Fred Raymond, Carroll Petersen; Melba White, Betty Wright; Clara Woppinger, Wava Smith; Amy Woppinger, Verona Hahlbeck; Huckleberry Finn, Blaine Auker; John Finn, Durward Sevy; Tom Sawyer, Kenneth Petersen; Peace Kingston, serving as student director; Betty Miller, Ellis is in charge of costumes, and Bob Merchant will serve as stage manager. Geraldine Gamble will have charge of advertising and ticket-sale.

Many High Spelling Grades. In the sixth grade the following received 100 percent for the past week in spelling: Donald Denbeck, Paul Petersen, Myla June Thomas, Hazel and Jimmie Thompson; seventh grade, Robert Benthaek, Marjorie Gildersleeve, Paul Harrington, Wilma Jean Hogewood, Annabelle Jensen, Roland Mahnik, Helen Sevy and Lila Westerhouse. Billy Hawkins had 100 percent in spelling for the six-weeks' period just closed.

Sixth graders made Thanksgiving pictures of pilgrims, using electric for the Pilgrim woman and squares for the Pilgrim men. They also made turkeys with geometric

STATE GROUP VISITS HERE

The state committee on certification of teachers visited the training school in every department Friday of last week. The committee consists of W. A. Rosene, director, President H. F. Martin of Midland College, and Dean B. E. McProud, Nebraska Wesleyan University.

After Thanksgiving milk will be furnished to all pupils in the training school whose parents ask for it on the same plan it was furnished last year.

The following is a fairly accurate estimate of the daily cost of educating a child in the training school as it is at present organized: Teaching, $0.43; care of building, 0.03; administration, 0.03; books and supplies, 0.03; special services, 0.01; fixed charges, 0.04; total 0.57.

The total cost per pupil in the training school for 180 days or for the school year is $102. There are 209 Wayne children in the training school. The total cost of their schooling for one year is $21,318. This may be somewhat higher than the cost of educating children in general, but not much higher. The average yearly cost of educating a child in the country at large is $100.

The training school will be dismissed on Thursday and Friday of this week.

Prof. H. H. Hanscom gave a program of Thanksgiving numbers for piano for convocation in the training school assembly Wednesday morning.

The Junior class of the training school gave their class play, "Polishing Papa," Tuesday evening at the college auditorium.

LOCAL NEWS Mrs. T. M. Gustafson of Wakefield, visited Mrs. Ed. Davies here Monday.

Wm. Wetzel was in Norfolk last Thursday to attend the funeral of his grandfather, Ludwig Wetzel, 81, who died in Long Beach, Calif. The D. C. Crane family of Dixon, moved Monday to Mrs. G. W.

Children in the third grade are starting a Nebraska table and are bringing a produce sack as pumpkins, apples, corn, pine cones and vegetables.

In completing the Thanksgiving pioneer unit which they have been studying, the third grade invited the fourth grade to a party in their room Wednesday before Thanksgiving vacation. They told the stories they had heard on pioneer life, gave Indian dances and showed pictures of the early life of the country.

Jerome Reimers is a new pupil in the third grade.

Have Health Dinner. Children in the second grade had a health dinner party for Thanksgiving in their room yesterday. The children brought part of the food and their teacher, Miss Ruth Ross, furnished the rest and cooked their lunch for them at room. First grade joined them for the party after dinner and played the part of the Indians at the feast of the Pilgrims. The children wore costumes they had made. After dinner they enjoyed games in the basement.

Have Dinner at School. Little folks in the first grade enjoyed having their dinner at the schoolhouse yesterday when their teacher, Miss Coila Potras, planned a Thanksgiving party for them. The youngsters brought vegetables and milk and Miss Potras prepared them in the school room.

Ramona Brouillette is a new pupil who entered the grade Monday. The children made a Pilgrim booklet in which they placed all of the stories and pictures they had collected about Thanksgiving. They wrote the notes which they took home to their mothers telling about the Thanksgiving party.

The room had perfect attendance Monday morning.

Children who had perfect attendance in the first grade for the past six weeks were: Dorothy Assay, I. J. and Ivan Beeks, Paul Brumhall, David Carhart, Yvonne Dunn, Joanne Foster, Roberta Hancock, Billy Heine, Jimmy Liggett, Francis Mitchell, Ralph Shelton, Don Stettin, John Ulrich, Betsy Stanley, Darlene Benjamin and Betty Anne Petersen.

Party in Kindergarten. Miss Dorothy Wisarda and children of the kindergarten had a party in their room Wednesday afternoon. The children used the cranberry jelly which they made, and their own individual nut cups. They also made and decorated their own napkins and doilies.

FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR

Hotel Manager Is Owner Of Racing
Horses As Hobby

E. C. Jackson, manager of the Boyd hotel, recently brought his five standard-bred race horses to Wayne from his ranch near Mitchell, S. D. Mr. Jackson plans to get a trainer for the animals to put them in shape for race events of the summer.

Mr. Jackson has been interested in racing horses for a number of years and has owned horses for the past six years. The animals in Mr. Jackson's string range in ages from 1 to 6 years, and come from the best standard line in the United States.

Horses are considered ready for racing at the age of 2 and if worked judiciously up until that age, make better racers as they grow older. One of the best race horses ever known in this country ran at the age of 17 years. The life of a race horse is ordinarily longer than that of a draft horse, because of such splendid care.

Mr. Jackson has certain diets for his horses the year around and horses must receive exercise each day, to "muscle" them for the strenuous round of the racing season. Racers are pretty hardy as a rule but are protected from cold and diseases which would ruin them for the track. Many ailments may throw the horses' out of training and precautions are taken to keep them in perfect health.

Mr. Jackson expects to have his horses in condition to enter them in races in July. At the present time the animals are housed on the old show grounds in the Lewis barn.

Young Man Fined In County Court

John Westerman of Stanton county, pleaded guilty in county court Friday morning to charge of peeing into windows at the college. Westerman was prowling about Pile hall when Dr. J. T. Anderson caught him and called Sheriff J. H. Pile who took him into custody. The young man was fined $50 and costs of $4.61 which he paid.

To Opera in City.

Prof. and Mrs. John R. Keith and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bressler, jr., were in Omaha Friday evening to see the opera, "Lohengrin," with Goeta Ljungberg of Metropolitan as guest artist. The Keiths sang with the artist when in Chicago.

Stroke of Apoplexy.

T. F. Godfrey of Omaha, brother-in-law of the late J. G. Mines, suffered a stroke of apoplexy last week. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mines went to the city Thursday evening to see Mr. Godfrey and found him improving slightly. They returned Friday evening.

Miss Mabel Dayton spent the week-end in Harlan, Iowa. Mrs. V. L. Dayton of Norfolk, stayed in her home here.

G. H. Liggett Begins Work
In December In Land
Planning Division.

G. H. Liggett who has served as Wayne county agricultural agent since August, 1933, received appointment Friday in the land planning and utilization division of the university agricultural department and begins his new work at Lincoln December 1.

Improvement of farm management practices, this including planning over a long period to preserve soil fertility and prevent erosion, is the object of the division. It is realized, says Mr. Liggett, that adjustment and reduction programs are only temporary and that the future need is to plan for long terms of years. It is in this educational work that Mr. Liggett will be established.

Wayne Man Shoots
Black Hills Deer

Pete Petersen was fortunate enough to secure a deer while hunting in the Black Hills from Sunday until Wednesday last week with his brother-in-law, Dick Siler of Burke, S. D. The two men were near Custer, S. D., and shot two animals near the Needles, famous scenic point in the hills.

Deer are so fleet of foot that the utmost caution must be taken in stalking them. The animals have a very keen sense of smell and hearing and can scent danger easily. Mr. Petersen and Mr. Siler shot the deer in the open when the animals were fleeing from other hunters who shot at them from the opposite side of a hill.

Rifles must be used in shooting the animals and deer must have at least two prongs on the antlers before they can be killed. Mr. Petersen used a 303 rifle for deer-hunting. The animal which he shot weighed about 160 pounds and the one killed by Mr. Siler weighed 200. There were quite a number of hunters in the hills for the open season and deer were quite plentiful. The animal Mr. Petersen shot last year had four prongs on antlers.

Mr. Petersen served venison to customers at his pool hall Saturday.

SECURITY ACT FUNDS NAMED

Federal Amount To About Double State Total.

According to Governor R. L. Cochran's social security program, Wayne county will receive a total allotment of $38,161, of which $23,317 is for old age pensions, within about a year. It is anticipated that federal funds will be about equal to the state figures, and will be additional to the latter. Major funds will be allocated on a population basis. The total allotment includes administrative expense, old age pensions, blind pensions, direct relief and aid to dependent children. Amounts for northeast Nebraska counties and their population ratio in the 1930 census are as follows: Wayne, $38,161 total, $23,317 for old age pensions, and 77 ratio; Dixon, $41,632 total, $25,457 for old age pensions, and 84 ratio; Cedar, $58,978 total, $36,066 for old age pensions, and 1.19 ratio; Cumming, $51,544 total, $31,944 for old age pensions and 1.04 ratio; Dakota, $34,197 total, $20,895 for old age pensions, and .69 ratio; Knox, $68,395 total, $41,700 old age pensions, and 1.33 ratio; Madison, $93,671 total, $57,234 old age pensions and 1.89 ratio; Pierce, $40,115 total, $24,529 for old age pensions and .81 ratio; Stanton, $28,250 total, $17,261 for old age pensions, .57 ratio; Thurston, $37,667 total, $23,015 for old age pensions and .76 ratio.

Wheel Chair With Motor Invention Of College Lad

The ability to make and hold friends, to maintain a cheerful and optimistic view of life and a determination to surmount the obstacle of physical handicap, is the living philosophy of Wm. A. Pfister of Newcastle, freshman at the Wayne State Teachers College, who goes about the campus on his motor-propelled wheel-chair—his sparkling and charming personality earning for him a welcome in every group.

William was born at Newcastle 26 years ago, a perfectly healthy and normal-bodied infant. While still in his babyhood, the dread disease so often leaving its victims with maimed bodies. William was left without the use of his lower limbs. Keen of mind, the boy kept up his school work with his fellow classmates throughout the grades and was graduated from high school in 1927. Having an inventive turn of mind, the lad with the assistance of Norman Murphy, Newcastle mechanic, perfected a motor for propelling the wheel chair which is his only mode of getting about. William purchased a bicycle motor which he and Mr. Murphy mounted on the chair. Many parts for the motor were changed and new ones manufactured to perfect the working of the mechanical device. Mr. Pfister drives an automobile and patented an automatic clutch release about six years ago. Fellow classmates are very kind and considerate, William has found. The lads conceived of the idea of laying planks on the stairs leading to Terrace Hall where they live, to facilitate in knowing the chair up and down. There is always someone ready and willing to assist their less fortunate comrade on stairs and such. In the buildings where William's classes are held, the lads carry him up and down the stairs, to and from classes. William is taking up harmony and is a member of the college band. His real interest lies in mechanical drawing and he plans a career as a draftsman.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL IS HELD

Red Cross Fund Drive Concluded Here On Thanksgiving.

The annual Red Cross roll call in Wayne county will be concluded Thanksgiving day. Response has been good but C. M. Craven, chairman of the drive, does not yet have a complete report. Those in rural districts have been invited to contribute chickens and these were credited to the Red Cross at various produce houses of the county. A report on the cash donations and chickens will be available soon. During the year 1934-35 the American Red Cross saw service in the greatest number of disasters which have occurred during any single year of the 54 years' history of the organization. The Red Cross acted as a relief agency in 128 disasters in the United States and in 30 disasters in insular possessions. In addition, American Red Cross aid was extended to those who suffered in a devastating flood in Poland and a destructing earthquake in India. The year was marked not only by this unusually heavy increase in the number of disasters but also by their geographical distribution from Nome, Alaska, to the Atlantic coast, with 34 states affected. More than 110,000 sufferers were moved by the organization. Also notable the past year has been the cooperation of Red Cross first aid service with the Civilian Conservation corps in training men selected for camps. There have also been notable advances along educational and public health nursing. The assistance of the Red Cross in the Republican river valley flood was especially noteworthy among Nebraska relief projects this year. This flood of May 30 and 31 was the worst in the state's history. The area affected was 200 miles long and from one to three miles wide. Life and property were lost. Red Cross chapters in all affected areas went into action immediately and assisted with rescue work, and with providing food, clothing and shelter. The Red Cross also assisted in rehabilitation which followed the emergency work. This disaster alone called for expenditure of $167,811. One of the many letters of appreciation written by the flood victims to the Red Cross is the following: "I am very anxious to express my sincere gratitude to the National and local chapters of the American Red Cross for the aid they have given me since the flood disaster of May 31st. I was at a complete loss as to what to do after the mud waters had receded, but the Red Cross came to my rescue at once. "I regret it very much that I was not able to take care of my own flood damage. Had it not been for the Red Cross I might not have ever had a home again. Above everything else they treated me very courteous and accommodated me in every way possible. "For all of these things I am very grateful and only wish in some way I could repay the Red Cross for their very kind deeds."

Corn Crop Loans Are To Be Made

High Quality Grain Will Be Required To Qualify For Federal Money.

Much Nebraska corn will not grade high enough to qualify for federal corn loans unless farmers take precaution to handle the 1935 crop in the best possible manner. F. H. Stewart, extension agronomist at the Nebraska college of agriculture, advised Agricultural Agent G. H. Liggitt this week. Reasonable delay in husking, a careful cutting out of rotten ears at cribbing time and storing of corn in well ventilated cribs or in relatively small piles is suggested by the college of agriculture, Stewart says, in order that the corn may meet loan requirements. Presence of a high percent of moisture in much of the corn together with damaged ears and kernels by pests will make it difficult in many cases to have corn which will meet the regulations. Corn must grade No. 3 or better to be eligible for the 45c federal loan. Two factors which are most likely to throw the 1935 crop into a lower grade are moisture content and damaged kernels. No. 3 corn may not contain more than 17 1/2 percent moisture and not more than 7 percent damaged kernels under federal grades. The agronomy department at the Nebraska college of agriculture believes that grading of corn can be greatly improved by carefully culling out rotten ears when the corn is cribbed. Where a high percent of moisture is present in the corn, the building of special ventilators in cribs may be worth while.

Foot Badly Cut In Fall At Home
