

Use Of City Auditorium — Equality Depends On Individuals—Need Of More Chivalry—Looking to Seed Corn — Coming Soon — Santa Claus' Personal Habits.

Some doubt and much anxiety were felt over possibility of having the new municipal auditorium ready for presentation of The Messiah Sunday night. One obstruction after another caused delay, and as the time limit approached, the fever of anxiety grew. Putting down seats was hindered by a broken drill, but the work was completed late Saturday night—35 seats not anchored according to the plan, but sufficient for the initial performance. Workmen were at their task day and night, and city officials and others were looking on and kidding every possible aid, hoping for success, but fearing failure. The man in charge of installing stage equipment worked like a Trojan to make a presentable showing Sunday night, and he succeeded. Determination not to disappoint expectations won, and the spacious structure was the scene of its first public performance.

A few more weeks will be required to finish the building. All the seats will have to be taken up to drill more holes for additional fasteners. More curtains for the stage will have to be hung, and other things will have to be done. On completion of the auditorium, it is proposed to have a formal opening with a suitable program, as the mayor informs us. An inspection of the building reveals no lack of size, comfort or convenience. Heating, lighting, acoustics and power supply will have been carefully looked after. All the stage is visible to every one of the 1,500 seats. Accommodations for the women's club, city council, basketball groups and janitor's family are strictly modern. A wonderful building—long needed for many purposes—its amply worth the effort and cost.

Equality Soon Passes. A story in a current magazine of the experience of the 170 families taken from Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin to Alaska to be given a new start in life by the federal government emphasizes the fact that equality does not long remain so. Equal opportunities do not mean equal energy, determination and economy. Some apply themselves earnestly and vigorously to the task of improving grants made by the government. Others are indifferent and careless, and soon need help from neighbors or more help from the government to exist. With different dispositions—some alert and frugal, others unconcerned and wasteful—there cannot be equality under a government that stands for initiative and independence, and an attempt to force equality would destroy the spirit of enterprise and lower the standard of achievement. The Alaska experiment will be interesting in its revelation of inequalities even a short time after all started on an equal foundation.

Courtesy to Women. Where's the old spirit of chivalry? Time was when men were uniformly courteous to women. A man would give preference to women in all matters of civility. It was the rule to be polite and considerate to a woman even if one did not always feel that way. We have noticed a marked change. We have found human bipeds of the masculine gender who show less courtesy to women than to men. This tendency smother's fine qualities—qualities that used to wield a powerful influence for courage and high-mindedness. Discourtesy to women would seem to be an acknowledgment of her superiority in some fields—fear that she is crowding man out of incalculable niches. A man who mistreats a woman is either opposed to her advancement or has become calloused to instincts of manly respect—dead to the age-old practice of trying to ease the pathway of the gentler sex. Equality of the voting privilege, equality in most occupations should not cause men to hurt themselves—to lower their ideals by a practice of discourtesy to women. A revival of old-time chivalry would seem in order.

Testing Seed Corn. As we are informed, the late corn crop is of such uncertain germinating qualities that unusual care should be exercised in selecting next year's seed. Seed must be tested to be sure it will grow, and the wise farmer will not overlook this important precaution. Combining Corn Show. It is now proposed to hold a corn show in the new municipal auditorium in Wayne next Monday. As proposed, the show will be for corn of northern Nebraska, and this means that specimens from the stream of this year's crop in Nebraska will be exhibited here. Latest approved methods of testing corn for seed will be demonstrated, and lecturers from the agricultural department at Lincoln will be on hand to explain what they know and think. In this place, farm area where corn is the chief crop, getting together to exchange ideas is of great importance. It is (Continued on page four)

FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR STUDENTS TALK FOR KIWANIAN

Two Reports Of Committees Given Monday At Noon-day Meeting. Following noonday luncheon Monday at Hotel Stratton reports of committees were given. Prof. O. R. Bowen gave a report of the financial state of the county as compared to other counties in the state. Wayne county taxes are extremely low and the county in a good financial state, according to Prof. Bowen. He suggested that a whole meeting be devoted to the financial report next year as a great deal of material is available and time allotted the report is not long enough to permit a detailed account, which would prove very interesting. Raymond Bowers, guest of the club, reported on scout work in Wayne, for E. E. Galley.

Raymond Bowers introduced members of his debate class who were present to argue the state question, and told something of the work of the class. Mr. Bowers said that debate had been important since the beginning of time, and that all important questions had been settled by debate. In telling of the work of debate students this year Mr. Bowers stated that his group had won five out of eight decisions in the Fremont tournament and seven out of eight in the tournament at Norfolk. In the debate before Kiwanians Harold Wright and Durward Sevy had the affirmative and Bud Bornhoft and Marian Jean Dienst the negative side of the state question: "Resolved that socialized medicine should be adopted and financed by the states."

Durward Sevy presented his argument from the consumers' point of view and from the standpoint of doctors and nurses. Many of the doctors are unable to afford medical attention as it is at the present time—this is not lack of intelligence but lack of money. Doctors give a great deal of charity care and this is unfair to them. People are degraded by getting free aid, yet clinics in cities which are free are overcrowded, while the doctors' offices are empty of patients. Bornhoft took up the argument by stating that the affirmative side had shown that only 31 states were in need of adopting state medicine while it was necessary to prove that every state should feel the need. He stated that Sevy had quoted doctor's incomes as very low, giving depression incomes. In contrast Bornhoft quoted depression figures. Wright then took up the argument by asking if the country was to have a medical system that falls downward in every depression. He stated that a code of ethics should be worked out wherein medical care would be paid by the state. In his argument he added that the negative objected to administrative control although bookkeeping would be the same with an audit sent in to state officers. Money for payment would be collected through taxation.

Marian Jean Dienst stated that doctors did not desire the adoption of state medicine and that they are willing to give care to people who need it and are unable to pay for it. Teachers' salaries are not the same in depressions and the same would be true in medicine. A code of ethics for states is impractical. Taxes have already been raised to the limit and the only one left to raise is the property tax. After the presentation of arguments Dr. Walter Bentback spoke, stating that state medicine is one of the evils sure to befall the country.

It was decided that there would be a Kiwanian meeting next Monday because of Christmas activities. Dr. R. W. Casper reported that Young Business Men's club had requested help from the Kiwanis club in arranging program for the Saturday following the corn show to be given in the city auditorium, January 9 and 10. Dr. C. T. Ingham turned the matter over to the agricultural committee.

At the Monday meeting J. J. Steele was a guest of Dr. S. A. Lutgen; Rev. L. W. Gramly of C. O. Mitchell, and George Bornhoft of B. W. Wright. Couple Is Married Sunday Afternoon. Mr. Jay W. Lush, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lush of Plainview, and Miss Bertha E. Schroeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Schroeder of Bloomfield, were married Sunday at 2 o'clock at the Grace Lutheran parsonage in Wayne, Rev. H. Hopmann performing the ceremony. Miss Ella and Miss Edith Schroeder of Bloomfield, and Miss Ocea Lush of Plainview, sisters, accompanied the couple. Mr. Lush is in the hatchery business in Plainview, Mrs. Lush has been employed at the R. L. Larson home and store here. Mr. Lush is a nephew of Mrs. Bertina Hood of Wayne.

NUMBER THIRTYSEVEN

THE HERALD FOR CHRISTMAS WILL SATISFY FAMILY

AN appropriate supplement to a Christmas buying would be a year's subscription to the Herald which would give the family satisfaction every week. The cost is but a trifle in view of the savings insured by keeping track of buying information—taking advantage of low prices advertised in every edition. Besides the continued story and comic strip in serial form, already started, the Herald will begin another new feature the first of the year—publication of a calendar of events happening during corresponding weeks in the past. The contest feature, started last week and appearing on another page in this paper, will interest you. If you are not a subscriber, start the year off right by becoming one now.

WAYNE SERVES HOLIDAY GROWS

Festivities Arranged Are Well Patronized By Visitors Here. About 1,600 visitors were served Saturday afternoon at the city hall, arrangements for the free lunch made by the Young Men's Business club as part of the Christmas festivities in Wayne. A large number was served lunch again yesterday and the courtesy will again be extended guests of the city Saturday afternoon this week. Santa Claus gave candy to about 700 children last Saturday and to an equally large group yesterday. The Kiddies are invited to visit Friend Santa again this Saturday afternoon at his house on Second and Main streets. All children will be admitted free to the picture show at the Gay Theatre and are sure to enjoy Richard Dix in "West of the Pecos." Shows will begin promptly at 2:30 and at 4 o'clock. It is requested that children living in Wayne attend the second show. All children up to the age of 13 will be admitted to the show free of charge.

The Wayne Municipal band played selections on Main street Saturday and Wednesday for holiday visitors. The band will play again Saturday afternoon this week. Main street is gay with colored lights at intersections and on the two large Christmas trees at intersections. Windows in Wayne business district are well with seeing and are inviting to the holiday shopper.

Y. W. C. A. Has Chapel Hour

Miss Helen Toy And DeWayne Gramly In Recital At College Monday. Members of the Y. W. C. A. had charge of chapel program at Wayne State Teachers College auditorium yesterday morning. The Y. W. was assisted by the Y. M. C. A. and by their sponsor, Mrs. H. D. Griffin.

Miss Helen Jones read from the Scriptures. Members of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. gave a series of tableaux of the Nativity. Music for the tableaux was furnished by Miss Kathryn Greenslit, Miss Harriet Lamson and Miss Jeanne Wright. A reading, "The Other Wise Man," was given by Miss Lucille Baker.

Miss Helen Toy and DeWayne Gramly appeared in a piano recital Monday evening at the college auditorium. A large group was present and enjoyed the recital selections. Miss Toy and Mr. Gramly are students of Prof. A. G. Carlson. David Sanders, pupil of Prof. Clifford Bair, favored the audience with vocal solos.

To Have Faculty Party. The faculty party postponed from December 10, will be held this evening at the college calisthenium. Committee in charge includes the following: Chairman, Dr. Kathryn Hagan; Mrs. A. G. Carlson, Mrs. C. R. Chinn, Miss Verna Eifelson, Prof. J. R. Keith, Miss Mary Mienle, Mrs. J. Q. Owen and Miss Jessie Stephen. This will be a Christmas party and gifts of canned goods will be brought for the poor.

Vacation at the college will begin this Friday and school will resume January 6. Classes will be held January 11 to make up for added time given during the holidays. Gayle McGee placed third in the old-line bratery contest Friday evening at Kearney. College debaters who went to Kearney Saturday for the Inter-collegiate Forensic association meeting, were unable to complete debates there because of the message received by Miss Florence Drake concerning the illness of her mother. Wed at Parsonage. Mr. Thomas M. Holliday of Orchard, and Miss LaNora K. Dobbin of Page, were married December 14 at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. Fay C. Mills performing the ceremony.

PLAN MEETING ON CORN SHOW

Proposed Event And Finances To Be Discussed This Week At Session. It is planned that a meeting will be called for the last of the week to discuss the advisability of holding the proposed corn show in Wayne's new auditorium the middle of January. The meeting will be to discuss finances for the show, if business men of the community favor the plan. J. J. Ahern and August Biermann were appointed some time ago as a committee to look into the matter of holding the corn show. Most of the good corn grown in Nebraska this year is in the Third congressional district of which Wayne is the center and a suggestion has been made that the event be a district show, to attract visitors from surrounding territory. The Omaha Grain Exchange has promised to prepare and send several exhibits of different grades of corn so that farmers may familiarize themselves with grades one, two, three and four, as they are recognized by the exchange. The state agricultural school will furnish interesting and educational exhibits and will send lecturers and experienced judges. August Biermann, Mayor M. L. Ringer, T. S. Hook, J. J. Ahern and William Weber spent several hours at the agricultural college in Lincoln December 11 discussing means of making a corn show a success. Afternoon and evening shows are proposed for the corn show. It is planned that merchants of the city obtain demonstration booths for the display of merchandise at the auditorium in connection with the show. Exhibits of the corn show to be attractively arranged in the center of the auditorium.

RURAL SCHOOL MADE SUPERIOR

District Near Winside Is One Of Fifteen Rated Highest In State. School district No. 21, four miles west and one south of Winside, has been approved as a superior standard school and a program observing the occasion will be held soon. Miss Chloe Baldrige, director of rural education in the state superintendent's office at Lincoln, was here Friday and she and Miss Pearl Sewell, county superintendent, visited the school. Miss Baldrige making final checking. Miss Baldrige will come for the program. Only 15 rural schools in Nebraska are superior standard and this is the first to attain the honor in Wayne county. A standard school requires 75 points and a superior one requires 95. Fred Ulrich is director, Ervin Ulrich moderator and Aug. Merriehew treasurer in the district. Miss Marjorie Miesfeldt is instructor.

Baby Beef Clubs Are To Be Formed

Wayne county will have four 4-H baby beef clubs, according to plans made December 10 when those interested met at the court house. Young folks will get their calves by January 15 when the organization will be completed, leaders chosen and the season's work started.

Many Children Attend Story Hour

Story hour was held Saturday afternoon at the city library with 60 children in attendance. Stories were told by Miss Mary Ellen Gilliver, Miss Jeanne Palmer, Miss Maybelle Petersen and Miss Elizabeth Wentworth. The next story hour will be Saturday, January 4, when tales will be told for older children.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE PROGRESSES

Miss Pearl Sewell has reports on the Christmas seal sale from 15 schools of the county and the amount totals $90.21. This is about one-fourth of the schools. Money from the sale is used for health work in the county. Is Named President. After 16 years as president of Northwestern Bell Telephone company, W. B. T. Belt was elevated to chairman of the board of directors Monday. Arthur Lowman, former vice president, succeeds him as president. Both are Omaha men.

Establish Office In Resettlement

Object Is To Help Debtor And Creditor Come To An Agreement. "New life is being instilled into the government's efforts to help end the tragic story of farm foreclosures," said L. R. Leonard, fieldman for the regional farm debt adjustment office at Lincoln, who is in Wayne recently. The resettlement administration has established permanent office at the court house in Wayne with H. M. Ochsner supervisor and Dick Fanske assistant. Efforts are being made to bring debtor and creditor together in a friendly atmosphere to work out a voluntary agreement benefiting both parties. The committee for Wayne county is composed of Rollie W. Gay and Geo. Berres of Wayne, Chester Hansen of Wakefield, and W. E. Roggenback of Wisner. "Depressed farm debtors or creditors who desire help in reaching mortgage or debt adjustments are invited to call on any member of the committee," Mr. Leonard states.

Corn Loans Made Only To Signers

Entrance In Two-Year Program Is Required To Get Money. Persons obtaining corn loans are required to sign corn-hog contract for the next two years, according to explanation made by Agent Walter L. Moller. The loan is available through the AAA and only those who have cooperated in the past program and who agree to sign the future programs are eligible for the loans. The new program is signed for two years to save expenses. A producer may drop out of the contract after the first year by making application not later than April 1, 1937, to the local allotment committee. If the producer is in compliance then on both corn and hogs, his contract will be cancelled. The Nebraska seed corn problem for next year is said to be the most important since 1917. Germination tests are urged to take the guessing out of the problem. Bars are usually unsmooth. If the ears are rubbery and easily twisted, or the kernels are loose on the cob; if the kernels are dull, dark or badly discolored; if the hulls of the kernels are blistered on both the back and germ sides; and if the germ, instead of being waxy and cream color, is dark yellow, brown or otherwise discolored.

Funeral Rites Held Saturday

Jay E. Wilson Of Winside Passes Away Wednesday At His Home. Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 at the Hixson funeral home for Jay E. Wilson who died at his home in Winside Wednesday evening, December 11, aged 75 years, 6 months and 4 days. Rev. F. C. Mills had charge, and committal was in Greenwood cemetery with Winside Odd Fellows conducting rites. Mr. Wilson had undergone an operation in Wayne and was recovering when his condition took a turn and he passed away. Jay E. Wilson was born near Green Bay, Wis., June 7, 1860. At the age of 8 years he came with his parents to the vicinity of Early, Iowa. In 1883 he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie M. Ridley of Mapleton, Iowa. To this union were born three children, Willie, who died in infancy, Elsie J. of Winside, and Mrs. Elsie Maxon of Billings, Montana. In the spring of 1925 he came to Cuming county, Neb., where he broke prairie and suffered the hardships of the early settlers. On April 30, 1889, Mr. Wilson married Miss Helene LaPote. To this union were born two children, Hiram A. of Carroll, Neb., and Mrs. Rosa L. Neary of Dalton, Neb. In the spring of 1897 the family moved to the vicinity of Winside, Neb., where Mr. Wilson farmed until the spring of 1910 when he returned from the farm and moved to Early, Iowa. There he lived for two years, returning to Winside where he lived until his death. Besides his wife and children, Mr. Wilson is survived by one brother, George S. Wilson of Early, Iowa, and seven grandchildren. All of the immediate family were here for the funeral. Pallbearers were George Davis, Peter Iversen, Sam Reichert, Clint Troutman, Peter Jensen and Martin Jensen.

RITES ARE HERE AND IN NORWALK

Mrs. Blanche Drake Dies At Her Home In Wayne On Saturday. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Baptist church for Mrs. Blanche Drake, mother of Miss Florence Drake of the State Teachers College. Dr. H. D. Griffin, Rev. M. C. Powers and the Beckenhauer services were in charge. Oscar Olsen sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Crossing the Bar." The active pallbearers were Alvin Giese, Clynford Hansen, Gayle McGee, Raymond Reising, Robert Sexton, Donald Springer; honorary pallbearers were Royal Barnell, Elmer Bertson, James Brock, Waldo Johnson, James Walton and Llewellyn Whitmore. Edith Horstman and Marguerite Meyer took charge of the flowers. After Donald Springer had offered prayer at the home, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Lucile Baker and Harriet Malone accompanied Miss Drake to the church. Soon after the services Miss Drake started with her mother's remains for her former home, Norwalk, Ohio. Dr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Powers and Mildred Hill took her to Sioux City. She spent an hour in Chicago with her cousin, Miss Nellie Manchester, who has visited in Wayne. John Drake, who is now an assistant at Ann Arbor, met her at Toledo, Ohio, and accompanied her to Norwalk. He will return to Wayne with Miss Drake for his Christmas vacation. Funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Drake at Norwalk, Ohio, Wednesday, December 18, before interment in the family cemetery. Blanche Adriance was born in Bronson township, Huron county, Ohio, May 17, 1866, the younger daughter of Jacob Adriance and Maria Snyder Adriance. She passed away quietly at 6:30 Saturday evening, December 14, having lived 69 years, 6 months and 27 days. As a little girl she lived for a time with her parents on a farm near New Rutland, Ill., after which she (Continued on page seven)

CONDUCT RITES IN CITY TUESDAY

Mrs. D. B. Huffman Passes On Saturday Afternoon At Home Here. Mrs. D. B. Huffman passed on Saturday afternoon, December 14, at 5:15 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. N. Johnson, in Wayne. Christian Science services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 from the Hartman funeral home in Fremont with Mrs. Mary Hunter of Fremont, and the Beckenhauer service in charge. Committal followed in Ridge cemetery in Fremont. Mrs. Huffman had been failing in health for six months and had been ill for four weeks. Mrs. Huffman, whose maiden name was Miss Elizabeth Marshall, was born in Whitefield, Ill., April 22, 1866, and was thus aged 69 years, 17 months and 22 days. She grew to womanhood there and taught school until her marriage to D. B. Huffman at Lecon, Ill., September 7, 1887. The family resided in Illinois until 1910 when they came to Nebraska, locating at Fremont. Mr. Huffman died at Fremont June 24, 1929. Since then Mrs. Huffman had made her home with her daughter and came to Wayne with the Johnsons three years ago. Mrs. Huffman is survived by her daughter, Mrs. LaVerne Johnson of Wayne, and son, V. M. Huffman of Wakefield. There are five grandsons. Mrs. Huffman also leaves a twin sister, Mrs. F. S. Pierce of Harrisburg, Neb., who was here this fall, and an older sister, Mrs. Anna Nighswonger of Langrange, Wyo. The V. M. Huffman family of Wakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Johnson went from here for the funeral.

LOOKING TO NEW YEAR WAYNE HAS SOUND ASSURANCE

LESS than two more weeks and 1935 will be whisked away, and another twelve-month will begin. Events of the year will be reviewed, and plans for the future will engross attention. If the New Deal will adopt policies encouraging rather than threatening business and industry, needed confidence will soon swing the country far out of the economic doldrums, despite large and often useless public expenditures. A national election does not usually augur well for improved times, though conditions having apparently hit bottom, they are not likely to be influenced even by presidential uncertainty to stay down. Locally, the prospect is reassuring. The year has seen many improvements in the town and surrounding territory, with promise of making Wayne a more advantageous trade center. As a town to which to go for education, society and business, Wayne is becoming more and more attractive. Looking ahead, the community has every reason to feel confident.

ANNUAL BANQUET WILL BE TONIGHT

D. H. Cunningham Presides At 4-H Dinner Program In Wayne Church. About 100 members, leaders and friends will attend the annual 4-H banquet and program at the Presbyterian church this Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Christmas motif will be carried out in table decorations and favors. D. H. Cunningham of Sioux City, will preside at the after-dinner program. L. I. Frisbie of Lincoln, state club leader, and R. A. Turner of Washington, D. C., will speak. Charles Robinson and Tom Kirby of Sioux City, are invited to attend and will speak briefly. T. S. Hook will give the welcome. Music and other features are planned by 4-H members. There will include the following: Song, Mildred Christensy; song, John Ruhlow; duet, Betty Gray and Elsie Dangberg; musical reading, Betty Gray; reading, Leland Herman, colonial dance, Wide-Awake workers club, concertina number, Meta States rope spinning demonstration, Allen Spittiger, gold medals for champion club work will be awarded by Walter Moller to Leozin Baird and Donald Baird, the former for home economics and the latter for beef club.

DEBATORS WIN IN SEVEN DECISIONS

High School Argumentation Class Ranks High In Norfolk Tourney. Wayne high school debate class won seven decisions and lost only one at the debate tournament held Saturday, December 14, at Norfolk. The teams were accompanied to Norfolk by their coach, Raymond Bowers. In the first round of the debate tournament Marian Jean Dienst and Bud Bornhoft had the negative side of the state question and won from Madison. In the second half of the first round James Kingston and Durward Sevy had the affirmative and won from Dewitt. In round two, Gerald Wright and Franklin Simonin debated for Wayne on the affirmative side of the question and again won from Dewitt. Marian Jean Dienst and Franklin Simonin debated for Wayne in the second half of round two, negative side, and won from Sacred Heart of Norfolk. In the third round Durward Sevy and Robert Kingston debated for Wayne on the affirmative side and Madison forfeited to Wayne. Wayne McMaster and Beverly Canning had the negative side of the question in the second half of round three and lost to Blair. Marian Jean Dienst and Bud Bornhoft took the negative in the first part of round four and won from West Point. In the second half of the fourth round Durward Sevy and Gerald Wright had the negative for Wayne and won from West Point. In a non-decision debate Beverly Canning and Robert Wright debated the negative side of the question with Emerson. Assembly Enjoys Program. Members of the music department of the Wayne State Teachers College furnished an enjoyable program of musical selections Thursday, December 12. Before the program Miss Anna Geisler introduced two graduates of Wayne high, Elaine Gildersleeve and Louise Heidenreich, who were the two highest on the honor roll of the teachers college. HALL PACKED FOR ORATORIO

Christmas Feature In New Auditorium Attracts Crowd Sunday. Wayne's new auditorium was packed to capacity Sunday evening for presentation of "The Messiah," Handel's Christmas oratorio, by a robed chorus of more than 100, an orchestra of 43 pieces and soloists, for the community Christmas feature sponsored by Wayne Business and Professional Women's club, Sioux City, Norfolk, Wakefield, Carroll, Concord, Winside, Bancroft, Dixon, Meadow Grove, Battle Creek, Pierce, Wisner, Pilger, Laurel and Randolph were represented in the audience which was estimated at nearly 2,000. The auditorium seats 1,500. Additional chairs and benches were used and some of the people were required to stand. The robed chorus, with the soloists and accompanist in front, sat on the spacious platform. At the back hung cream-colored curtains in the center of which in large silver letters were the words, "Noel Messiah," and at either side were three tall lighted imitation candles. A blue top curtain hung at the front. The orchestra sat on the main floor near the platform. The soloists, chorus and orchestra brought the message of the birth of Christ, the saviour, in a most appealing manner. Prof. John P. Keith, conductor, Mrs. Albert G. Carless, accompanist and coach, Prof. Clifford Baird, chorus master, deserve much credit for success of the program. Prof. Bair, tenor, who has sung with Metropolitan in Chicago, Carlo Norrbom of Sioux City, leading basso cantate, Miss Adell Sudik of Wahoo, well known soprano, and Miss Alice McGregor, alto, prominent at the college, were soloists and each an artist. The chorus and orchestra also added much to the musical production. In behalf of the business women's club, Miss Genevieve Kingston, president, presented flowers to the soloists, accompanist and director. She expressed appreciation to all who had helped in the oratorio and to Mayor M. L. Ringer and others who had worked so unselfishly to enable the club to have the program in the auditorium which is not yet quite completed. The new building, one of the best in the state, furnished an ideal setting for the Christmas feature which was the club's second annual presentation of "The Messiah." Rev. Dierring gave the invocation and also invited the audience to give the club a silver offering to help defray expenses. The costs of the program amounted to about $135 and the offering covers about $100 of this. The club will make up the difference. Singing in the chorus were: Sopranos: Mrs. L. W. Ellis, Mrs. C. F. Dienst, Mrs. R. W. Casper, Esther Dewitz, Dorothy Wisda, Mrs. W. S. Conant, Theodora Carlson, Mrs. C. T. Carlson, Mrs. Edna Davis, Mrs. Lloyd Morris, Mary Esther Perdue, Dolores McNatt, Mabel Hurstard, Beah Bornhoft, Evelyn Noh, Sophie Mills, Elsie Birchard, Mary Cook, Inez Perry, Mildred Ekstrom, Helen Kellogg, Mrs. Gayle Childs, Mrs. E. E. Melby, Mrs. Norval Hinds, Charlotte Rasmussen, Minnie Denker, Lenora Blacketer, Mary Widman, Rose Holub, Faith Marie Ade, Ina Ruth Jonson, Hilda Hattig, Gwylfa Jones, Mildred Paulson, Ruth Heidenreich, Louise Rickabaugh, Harriet Lamson, Kathryn Greenslit, Virginia Erickson, Velma Ebinger, Fern Moran, Ruby Fredrickson, Mildred Moses, Arlene Borin, Ruby Egger. Altos: Alice McGregor, Mary Ellen Gulliver, Ruby Hanson, Mildred Besure, Nina Mae Neilson. (Continued on page seven)

Yankton Wins In Friday Game

Wayne High School Team Makes Good Showing In First Contest.

Coch Robert Gibb took nine Wayne high school basketball players to Yankton Friday evening to open the season. Yankton winning by 24 to 10. The game played in Yankton's new high school building was fast and clean. Each team employed fast breaks. Only five fouls were called.

The Wayne team led at the half by 7-5, but was unable to keep up the pace the second half and Yankton stepped away to win. For the Yankton team, Hollworth led the scoring with 17 points, while Nelson, for Wayne, garnered 5 points for the losers. Coach Gibb was well pleased with the showing of his team against the strong Yankton club, and feels that the boys will develop into a fair basketball machine.

The next contest in which the local boys will engage will be an alumni game to be played on January 3 at the new auditorium. Many of the former "alums" will be back.

IN THE Saturday Evening Post, Will Durant, well known author and lecturer, traces the rise and fall of freedom among peoples of different countries.

During mentions how Russia, Italy and Germany are virtually ruled by arbitrary kings called by other names.

The author has been profoundly disturbed by the clamor for experiments that threaten American freedom—the cry for more freedom that would mean less freedom, though he is encouraged to believe people of this country have independence too deeply rooted to permit it to be snatched away.

Reasonable concessions by conflicting groups would frustrate threats of a changed and liberty-destroying order.

These are tasks for a generation, but they do not call for greater understanding or mettle than can be found within our frontiers. It should not require more genius to save our civilization than was needed to establish it.

Former President Herbert Hoover attacked the New Deal at St. Louis Monday night, analyzing President Roosevelt's Atlanta speech whose extravagant claims were shattered and bold inconsistencies were pointed out.

Mr. Hoover explained that the depression was broken in mid-summer of 1932, but that, following the election, stories "of what the incoming administration proposed to do in violating campaign promises and tampering with the currency, precipitated the bank panic of March, 1933.

What that, following the election, stories "of what the incoming administration proposed to do in violating campaign promises and tampering with the currency, precipitated the bank panic of March, 1933.

The crisis enabled the administration to put on a big show and afterwards to dramatize the way the country had been snatched from abysmal ruin.

Reasoning logically, as most persons outside the New Deal inner circle reason, Hoover cannot understand how a leading banker could have suggested in March, 1933, an indebtedness of fifty-five to seventy billions if the country were already in the red as the president claimed.

Mr. Hoover showed mounting extravagance and waste, multiplying bureaus and increasing armies of government employes, with inefficiency in handling problems of relief.

The former president's knowledge of public questions and of the government's trend is a valuable contribution to current thinking.

Others will join in showing up weak spots—danger points—and leading the public to conclude wisely.

There is so much harping about politics being corrupt that young persons are likely to be led to believe one cannot take an active part in shaping public policies without becoming tainted.

Certainly there are high-minded individuals with high purposes in public life.

Politics has to do with the science of government, and while it attracts some with purely selfish motives, it draws many others who are sincerely interested in fashioning a better democracy.

Some of the best minds in the country have given themselves over to politics—trying to improve, at the same time, the course of government.

Young persons are needed in politics, and they should learn to differentiate between the good and bad, and to understand that greatest rewards of popular respect go to those who take the high and noble course.

The Dallas, Texas, Journal notes that federal bureaus are in such conflict that their only value lies in neutralizing efforts and accomplishing no harm aside from piling up expenses and adding to the tax load.

"One bureau is spending money to get the farmers to produce less," says the Journal. "Another bureau across the street is spending public funds to teach the farmers to produce more."

One bureau is trying to get business and industry to enter into trade agreements restricting competition. Another bureau is spending money to prevent the restraint of competition.

And it would seem that consistency has ceased to be a jewel.

Numerous government bulletins relating to the activities of different bureaus, bearing strong propaganda flavor, and sent to the newspapers of the country every week, could be largely curtailed without decreasing popular knowledge.

That is one way to save public expense. It would also cut down the frequency of emptying the editorial waste basket.

The conviction of "Grocer" Norris on a charge of perjury in connection with his filing for the senatorship some years ago for the purpose of bewildering voters and defeating Senator Geo. W. Norris sets a precedent that will tend to discourage fellows who might be inclined to pull pre-emptory tricks.

Whether different brands of government are called communism, fascism or nazism, they are all equally undesirable, and no true friend of our democracy will try to saddle any one of them on this country.

If Senator Geo. W. Norris decides to run for reelection, we hope he will follow the consistent course of running on an independent ticket. This would harmonize with his independent activities in public life.

lowing were elected: Chester Hansen, president; A. W. Dolph, vice-president and Mrs. Orville Puckett, secretary-treasurer.

Austin Bressler and Orville Puckett were elected delegates to Winside. Chester Hansen is the county delegate to Nebraska in February, and Jerry Turner and A. W. Dolph are local delegates to Omaha.

Willie Adams, Sam Karlen, Robert Munderloh and a man from Begger, were speakers. The next regular meeting will be at Chester Hansen's.

CHRISTMAS.

In the measure that Christmas stimulates kindness and good fellowship, peace and good will, it is a boon to the world.

The star that revealed new hope centuries ago, is still seen through shadowy circumscription. Brushing aside man-made dogmas and rites, mortals meet on one common ground to observe and heed the Golden Rule, and earth's rival enmities are shamed by memory of the Nazarene's gentle, forgiving spirit.

Bestowal of gifts must express more than material values to Christianize human values. The more one catches the breath of the ancient, far-away Judean hills, the more one imbues and imparts the real meaning of Christmas—the beginning of a new era—the birth of a more rational conception of life and destiny.

Whatever may be the advance in spiritual understanding, revelations that started in Bethlehem and ended on Calvary will continue in perfect accord. In this day when darkness sometimes seems to dominate, the life bequeathed by the sacred manger strengthens one to stand the trials and sorrows of Gethsemane.

Notice.

I wish to state that all highway laws will hereafter be strictly enforced. Cars and trucks must not exceed speed limits—for the former 50 miles an hour and for the latter 35 miles per hour—and they must be properly equipped with lights and brakes, observe stop signs and other rules of the road. The highways will be patrolled.

We want to be just, but the only way to be just, the only way to prevent accidents and save lives, is to enforce the laws. A. W. Stephens, Deputy State Sheriff.

Better Housing Chairman Named

Demonstration Is Planned By Wayne Committee The Coming Spring.

Better Homes in America, an educational institution for public service of national scope, has recently been taken over by the Purdue university where it will function in cooperation with the Purdue housing research program.

Mrs. E. J. Hüntener has accepted the chairmanship of the Wayne Better Homes committee for the 1936 campaign, which will culminate in the observance of National Better Homes week, April 26 to May 2.

Better Homes in America is not a new organization, although heavily located at Purdue university. It was initiated in 1922 by Mrs. William Brown Meloney in response to suggestions made by President Harding in an address in Akron, Ohio, in 1921.

The aims of the movement are to emphasize the importance of the home in our national and community life, to encourage thrift for home ownership, and to give helpful suggestions regarding the selection and building of the home, its equipment and management.

Better Homes campaigns will be carried on in the future as they have been in the past. The national office will be located on the campus of Purdue university at West Lafayette, Indiana, and from this office will emanate suggestions, plans, bulletins and letters of assistance and encouragement to each of the many local committees throughout the United States.

The necessary preliminary work for a comprehensive home and community research program in rational living is now under way. This fall the Purdue housing research project is undertaking the erection of eight or ten experimental houses of different types, built under a strict cost analysis.

Better Homes in America, as a result of its transfer to Purdue university, will this year participate in the larger advantages to be derived from functioning in cooperation with the Purdue housing research program. This program is dedicated to study and research in home and community problems, and will place particular emphasis on the medium and low income groups.

Likes Montana After Farming For Many Years

Valier, Mont., where Earl Gossard has been farming 1,500 acres for the past 18 years, is in a fertile valley 90 miles north of Great Falls and 60 miles from Glacier National park. Mr. Gossard is here visiting over the holidays with his sister, Mrs. Clarence Sorenson, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gossard of Norfolk, before he leaves for California to visit his brothers, Ted, Kelly and Leonard, for the rest of the winter.

The territory around Valier is level. Some of the land is irrigated and other is not. In the irrigated sections, alfalfa, oats and barley are raised and the crops are high in grain. About 84,000 acres are under irrigation. The summer fallow method is used on other land. Mr. Gossard likes this method by which half of the land is plowed and is left idle and the other half farmed. The fallow ground thus gathers and holds moisture and is planted to crops the following year.

Mr. Gossard raises wheat and the crop averages 25 bushels to the acre and often as high as 50 bushels. All farming in Valier vicinity is done with power machinery. Mr. Gossard has two tractors and combine outfits and he and two other men farm the 1,500 acres alone.

Cattle raising is also important at Valier. Many farmers raise grass feeders and ship them to corn country in the fall for finishing. Others fatten the cattle on barley and ship direct to market. Many turkeys are raised near Valier, Mr. Gossard reports.

A lake joins Mr. Gossard's land and trout fishing is good there. The trip to the mountains and park is an easy drive. Montana has improved its highways much in the past five years, Mr. Gossard reports, and makes travel easy to these places of interest.

Apprehend Youth On Check Charges

Eugene Kinkaid, 22, of Randolph, who was sent to the state reformatory last week from Dixon county where he was found guilty of cashing a forged check at the Hanson clothing store in Wakefield, will be charged with the same offense in Wayne county after he serves his time. A check was cashed at the B. L. Stark store in Wayne also.

Gloves and cap were bought at Wayne and remainder of the check, $18.75, taken in cash. Gloves were bought at Wakefield and cash taken for the difference. The gloves were found, one pair hidden in the Wakefield jail and the other discarded near the depot in Wakefield.

Sheriff J. H. Pile and other officials located the property. They also found in Sioux City the Peterson car taken from Wakefield at the time. An Indian youth, who had been with Kinkaid, was found with this and he was taken to federal court in Omaha Friday to answer the charge.

Industry Cannot Be Coerced. Omaha Journal-Stockman: By this time it should begin to dawn on our statesmen and economists that the weak spot in the recovery program lies in the fact that commerce and industry can neither be coerced by drastic regulation nor repealed by flattery. Business responds quickly and easily to natural laws but apparently refuses to take orders from anyone. Methods of doing business may be strictly circumscribed by legislation but business and industry cannot be forced into activity by any law.

Labor is reluctant to admit that industry cannot be driven into activity by the state or any other agency and William Green, president of the powerful American Federation of Labor realizes the fact. Burdensome restrictions and heavy taxes have been imposed on business and the constant menace of further restrictive legislation and higher taxes has slowed down the commerce of the country and checked expansion. In any program for recovery, jug handled laws and repressive bureaucratic control must be avoided if there is to be a hearty cooperation from business and industry.

President Green announces that the October survey of industrial conditions disclosed a total of over 11,650,000 unemployed men and women and adds: "These figures are a clarion call to industry. They show that unless industry, in cooperation with labor, is willing to face this problem and provide work for the unemployed, society will be forced to take some other means to give these millions their rightful chance to earn their livelihood."

It is this manifest lack of cooperation that threatens to wreck the proposed industrial conference in Washington. Industry and business cannot be straight-jacketed and the sooner this fundamental fact is appreciated the sooner business will pick up and labor find employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hinrichsen and LeRoy Meyer were at Will Meyer home, Miss Ruby Hinrichsen visited Sunday evening in the Geo. Hinder's.

Recipes

Christmas Pudding. (Mrs. H. C. Caspey) 1 pound raisins 1 pound sultanas (white raisins) 1 pound sugar 1-2 pound currants 1-2 pound citron, lemon and orange peels 1-2 pound almonds, blanched and cut fine 1-2 pound flour 1-2 pound bread crumbs 3-4 pound beef suet chopped fine 6 eggs 1 cup milk Juice of one lemon and rind grated and cut fine 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon of each, ginger, cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon This will make three or four good sized puddings. Mix well. Put in greased molds. Cover with wax paper and tie cloth over it tightly. Boil in steam or five hours or more. Store in cool, dry place. When want to use boil for an hour or more.

Ham Sliced with Apricot Caramel Sauce. 1 slice ham, 1 inch thick 2 tablespoons fat 1-3 cup sugar 3-4 cup hot apricot juice 1-3 teaspoon powdered cloves 3 marshmallows, cut in small pieces Apricot halves. Gently saute ham in fat until delicately browned on both sides. Cover and cook slowly for 45 minutes, or until tender, then remove to a baking pan. Place sugar in saucepan and brown lightly over a very low flame. Add hot apricot juice, stir well and cook until mixture is smooth. Then add cloves and marshmallows and stir until marshmallows are dissolved. Pour sauce over ham and bake in a very moderate oven, 300 degrees F., for 45 minutes, basting frequently. Remove from oven and arrange apricot halves on top of ham. Baste with sauce, return to oven and bake 15 minutes longer.

Cider Spiced Prunes. 1 pound uncooked prunes 2 cups apple cider 1-3 cup brown sugar 1 cup water 4 three-inch sticks cinnamon 1 teaspoon whole cloves. Wash prunes, combine with cider, water, sugar and spices and cook in covered kettle for twenty minutes. Remove from the stove and let stand covered over night. Next morning cook forty minutes. Serve hot or cold with meats.

Mince Meat Filled Cookies. (Mrs. J. H. Pile) 9-ounce package of mince meat 1 cup water 1-3 cup lard or crisco 1-3 cup butter 1-2 cup brown sugar 2 beaten eggs 1-4 cup evaporated milk 3 cups flour 2 teaspoons baking powder 1-2 teaspoon salt Cook mince meat in 1 cup of water until thick. Let stand until quite cold. Cream lard and butter with brown sugar and eggs. Add milk and stir in baking powder and salt sifted together. Roll quite thin and cut with 2 1-2 inch cookie cutter. Arrange cookies on board and place small spoon of mince meat on them. Cover with second cookie and crimp edges together. Bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees.

Baked Carrots. (Mrs. J. H. Pile) 3 cups cut carrots uncooked 12 crackers crumbed 2 teaspoons of minced onion 3 tablespoons of melted butter 1-4 teaspoon pepper 4 tablespoons grated cheese Boil carrots until soft. Reserve 2-3 cup of liquor and drain remainder. Mash well and stir in crackers, onions, butter and pepper. Place in greased baking dish. Pour liquor over top and cover with cheese. Bake 15 minutes. (As a rule Mrs. Pile uses more carrots and butter than recipe calls for.) Serves six.

Sausage Stuffing for Turkey. (Sufficient for stuffing 10-pound bird.) 1-4 cup butter 1 medium sized onion, cut fine 2-3 cup celery cut fine 1 pound sausage 8 to 10 cups soft bread crumbs 1-4 teaspoon powdered thyme 1-4 cup parsley, chopped fine Salt and pepper to taste Melt butter, add onion and celery and saute gently for 3 minutes. Add sausage and saute, stirring constantly, for five minutes, or until sausage is completely browned. Cool slightly, then combine all remaining ingredients. Pack lightly into turkey. Skewer or lace opening.

Giblet Gravy. Pour off liquid in pan in which turkey has been roasted. From liquid, skim off 6 tablespoons fat; return fat to roasting pan and brown with 6 tablespoons of flour. Add 3 cups stock in which giblets, neck and tip of wings have been cooked; or if preferred, 9 cups of milk may be substituted for the stock. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add giblets, cut in small pieces, heat well and serve hot.

Almond Sweet Potato Balls. (Serves Six.) 4 or 5 sweet potatoes Salt and pepper to taste 2 tablespoons butter 1 egg 1 tablespoon cold water 2-3 cup almonds, bleached Fat for frying Cook sweet potatoes until tender and then mash. Season to taste.

Add melted butter and form into balls. Beat egg and to it add cold water. Dip sweet potato balls in egg, then roll in chopped nut meats. Deep fry in fat heated to 350 degrees, until balls are a delicate brown. Turn while frying.

Ham Sliced with Apricot Caramel Sauce. 1 slice ham, 1 inch thick 2 tablespoons fat 1-3 cup sugar 3-4 cup hot apricot juice 1-3 teaspoon powdered cloves 3 marshmallows, cut in small pieces Apricot halves. erry Finn," will be given Thursday, January 9, at the city auditorium. Miss Leone Westover is directing the play. In a speed test in advanced typewriting class given recently by L. F. Good, commercial instructor, Ruth Judson had 72 words per minute in a ten-minute period. Geraldine Gamble typed 71 words per minute. Maxine Barrett plans to be back in school after the Christmas holidays. Maxine has been ill for several weeks. A Christmas tree has been decorated for the assembly room and one for the lower hall.

Tell Christmas Stories. Eighth graders are telling Christmas stories this week. The best story-tellers will go to other rooms and repeat their stories. These will be chosen by vote. In art class the eighth grade is working on Christmas cards, posters and wood cuts. First-aid kit, won in the seal sale contest, has been received by the eighth grade. Pupils who won pencils for selling a dollar's worth of seals are: Esther Mariele, Lyle Seymour, Wilmer Ellis, Reva Barnes, Alice Mae Foster and Norman Caspey.

Will Have Christmas Party. The seventh grade is planning a Christmas party for Friday this week. Paul Petersen, Buddy McNatt, Dorothy Smolky and Betty Pile are of the refreshment committee and Shirley Powers, Margie Pich, Donald Denbeck and Jimmy Thompson are on the entertainment committee. The party will be given after the noon hour. Christmas carols will be sung in the lower hall before dismissal Friday afternoon.

Have Perfect Units. Dorothy Ahlvers and Betty Meister had 100 percent all last week in the fifth grade for all parts of unit 15. Children in the fifth grade wrote original Christmas verses and stories. They received readers called "Fact and Story" and are enjoying the new work. In spelling the "Speed-Aways" are ahead of the "Speeders" and grades at the end of the week will determine the winning side in the contest.

Make Christmas Boxes. Third graders made Christmas gift boxes last week, decorating the covers with paper cut-outs. They also made Christmas trees of construction paper, each child decorating his own tree. This week the grade made color charts of Christmas candles. The youngsters finished work on the scene for the miniature theatre. Santa Claus is watching the children asleep in their bed in one corner of the theatre room and is standing by a decorated Christmas tree. The grade is dramatizing the poem, "The Night Before Christmas," and will have group reading of Christmas stories this week.

Make Santa Claus Castle. Children in the second grade are making a castle for Santa Claus this week. The castle is made of paste board and will have turrets and towers when completed. Last week they made booklets with their posters, the three wise men, Christmas calendars and Santa's reindeer. They also wrote their own stories to put into the booklets. Children made a crepe paper mural for one of the windows in a scene of the three wise men journeying to Bethlehem. Make Christmas Booklets. First grade made booklets illustrating the story of "Why the Bells for Christmas Ring." Last week they dramatized the story of "Santa Claus and the Mouse." Kindergarten plans a Christmas party for Friday afternoon this week. The children will bring popcorn and this will be popped at the party, and eaten in front of the fireplace in the room. Little folks finished their Christmas rites the first of the week.

Children returned to Ohio, living in Hartland township until her father's death when she was 8 years old. From then until her marriage, she and her mother made their home with her older sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Angus McDonald. Deceased received her education in Norwalk rural and public schools, and Western Reserve Normal school. She held her first teaching position at the age of 15, and was an instructor in mathematics and other subjects at Western Reserve Normal school before her marriage at the age of 22 to Sterry A. Drake, January 16, 1889. To this union was born one daughter, Florence Marie Drake, instructor in the Nebraska State Teachers College, Wayne.

Although the greater part of her life was spent near Norwalk, Ohio,

East Drake resided two years in East Cleveland with her husband and daughter, and since the death of her husband December 19, 1927, she had resided with her daughter one year each in Sioux Falls, S. D., Springfield, S. D., and Iowa City, Iowa. The past four years she made her home at Wayne, where she has taken a warm, friendly interest in her new friends made mostly through the church, the faculty of the college and the students, many of whom she has welcomed into her home.

Mrs. Drake became a member of the Baptist church at the age of 14, and throughout her life took an active interest in the better things. For seven years she was treasurer of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and for a number of years was president of the Women's Missionary society of the Huron association of the Baptist church in Ohio. In spite of delicate health for several years past, she had continued her active interest in the work of her church; her last service being to take charge of the subscriptions to the denominational periodicals at the request of her pastor, and she had just finished the task more successfully than has ever been done in the local church.

Mrs. Drake endeared herself to the students and displayed a keen knowledge and criticism of their work, particularly in their forensic and dramatic endeavors. She welcomed into her home her nephew, John Drake, during his college course at Wayne State Teachers College. She was a natural homemaker, a loving wife, and a devoted mother.

Christmas Drama To Be Presented

Young people of the Baptist church will present a Christmas drama Sunday evening, December 22, at 7:30 at the church. This drama has a modern setting connected with the Christmas story. It depicts how the war destroyed "peace on earth, good will toward men." The scene is in a chapel between enemy lines on Christmas eve. The anchorites, portrayed by Miss Beulah Johnson, is at prayer when the composite soldier, Lester Hinzman, enters for prayer and sees a vision of the Christmas story. The enemy soldier, portrayed by Raymond Combers, then comes to take the composite soldier captive. The anchorites pleads with him and prays for the prince of peace to bring lasting peace to the world. The Christmas scene is portrayed in pantomime by 15 young folks, and a chorus furnishes appropriate music.

Masonic Lodge Elects Officers

Appears In Recital.

Mrs. Grace Keyser presented a group of boys in piano recital at her residence studio last Thursday evening with mothers and friends as guests. The program was as follows: "Silent Night," Betty Orr; "Chatter Box," Ketterer, Jack Wright; "Merry Hunting Party," two pianos, Warren Noakes and Billy Orr; "Climbing" and "Tumble Bugs," Bob Wright; "Jolly Blacksmith," Paul Petersen; "Guard Mount," Billy Orr; "In Uniform," Leonard, Billy Hawkins; "Home on the Range," Bob Wright; "June Caprice," King, Warren Noakes; "Gaily March," two pianos, Warren Noakes and Paul Petersen. Several mothers responded with informal talks about the work, and a social time closed the evening. Mrs. Keyser plans a general class recital in January.

Wayne Woman's Club.

Wayne Woman's club met Friday at home of Mrs. R. B. Judson. Mrs. G. W. Costerson, Mrs. G. W. Crossland, Mrs. Willis Noakes and Mrs. W. B. Vail assisted. Word from radio station WJAG, Norfolk, stated that programs for Third district Federation of Women's clubs are being broadcast the first and third Tuesday of each month at 11 a. m. Mrs. E. M. Laughlin planned the Christmas program. This included a reading, "The Tree of Life," by Keen Abbott, read by Miss Muriel Hanson. A brass quartet, Adell Eddy, Frank Gamble, Arvid Davis and Stanley Johnson, played "Fragments from Stephen Foster," by Geo. Gault. A woodwind quartet, Beatrice Mill, Stanley Davis, Mary Jane Grosvenor and Prof. John R. Keith, played "Fugue," arranged by Prof. Keith. This quartet and Ruth Schumacher played in a woodwind quintet, their selection being "The Christmas Melody," by Prof. Keith. Walking rehearsal of "Flaxlux," by Faith Vilas, included the following cast: Azariah, Mrs. D. S. Wightman; Father Ambrose, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen; Nellie, Mrs. L. F. Good; David, Mrs. V. H. Green. The story portrayed the unkindling of faith in an embittered man and brought the Christmas message of peace and good will close to hearers. Christmas theme was carried out in luncheon. The December 27 meeting of the club will be cancelled because of its closeness to Christmas. The next gathering will be January 10 when a tea is planned at the club rooms in the auditorium. At that time a play directed by Mrs. Wightman will be given.

Accession New Books Of Variety At City Library

Variety to please every reader is provided in the list of new books received at Wayne city library. Mrs. E. S. Blair has accessioned the following:

"Will Rogers, Ambassador of Good Will," by P. J. O'Brien, describes Rogers' boyhood, circus, vaudeville, follies, stage screen and radio performance and his tragic flight. "The Apocrypha" is in revised version. "Mark Twain, the Man and His Work" is by Ed. Wagenknecht. "Anglo-Saxon Poetry" is selected and edited by R. K. Gordon. "Famous Cathedrals and Their Stories" by Edwin Rayner, shows the beauty, romance and colorful history of the world's greatest cathedrals.

"Was I Murdered?" by James Hilton, author of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," is a mystery with puncture-proof plot and an exciting climax. "Mexican Maze," by Carleton Beals, tells of 15 years of war, revolution and peace in Mexico. "Salamina," by Rockwell Kent, tells of adventure and romance in Greenland. "Trailing Cortez Through Mexico," by Harry A. French, is a thrilling account of the prince of vagabonds on the real Cortez trail.

"Discovery" gives Richard Byrd's story of his second Antarctic expedition, a story of sights men hardly dreamed of and which they never before witnessed.

"The Pony Express Goes Through," by Howard Driggs, is a pioneer story of the American west.

"The Right Thing," by W. O. Stevens, advises young men how to be decent though modern. "The Correct Thing," also by Stevens, is a guide book of etiquette for young men.

"Life with Father," by Clarence Day, is about home life and is well worth reading aloud in every home. "Radio," by John Langdon-Davies, tells the story of capture and use of radio waves. "Mark Twain's Wit and Wisdom," by Cyril Clemens, contains 125 of the humorist's stories.

"Over African Jungles," by Martin Johnson, tells of explorations amounting to 60,000 miles of travel. "The Sky Is Red," is by Jean Milner and tells of revolution and religion, giving a stirring challenge to Protestantism.

"Old Jules," by Mari Sandoz, won the Atlantic Monthly $5,000 book prize for 1935. This is a story of an American by adoption, an extraordinary personality, a spirit as fierce and tenacious as the American eagle.

"The Beautiful Derelict," by Carolyn Wells, is a Fleming Stone detective novel.

"The Narrow Corner," by Maugham, tells of a fugitive from life and a girl whom men loved to their destruction.

"No Moon But This" is by Helen Partridge and is a novel that brings content and romance.

"Jungle Gold," by Rex Beach, is a story of one of the last frontiers, the banana country of Central America.

"Edna His Wife," by Margaret Barnes, is a romance of ever changing times.

"General Bessley's Puzzle Box," by Oppenheim, tells of royalists, gangsters, gamblers, spies.

"It Can't Happen Here," by Sinclair Lewis, tells what would happen if America had a dictator.

Will Issue Plates After First Of Year

New 1936 automobile plates will be available after January 1 at office of Treasurer J. J. Steele. A new law requires that property taxes on cars be paid before licenses are issued. As car engine numbers are to be placed on the receipts, Mr. Steele asks that each bring the auto plate certificate when calling for new plates.

FINISH DRIVE IN RED CROSS

Will Distribute Baskets To Families Of Needy At Christmas.

Wayne county's annual Red Cross roll call brought in a total of $373.94, C. M. Craven reported Friday at meeting of the board. Half of the sum, $186.97, was sent to the national headquarters and the other half remains here for relief work.

The drive included 350 memberships, 330 from Wayne, 19 from Carroll and one from the rural districts, making $350 received from these. Other cash contributions amounted to $12.48 from Wayne and $11.46 from outside of Wayne. These, $23.94, brought the total to $373.94. Last year's roll call brought in $321. Demands on the Red Cross have been considerably heavier this year than last, due partly to the $200 sent for flood relief in southern part of the state. Mrs. R. W. Ley was in charge of making, filling and sending 25

Christmas bags for soldiers in hospitals. These bags, which include combs, stationery, needles, buttons, etc., were sent to New York and from there will be distributed to soldiers in different states. The chapter will send Christmas baskets again this year to local needy families and Mrs. A. C. Thompson has charge of these. About 40 baskets will be needed, it is thought, and these will be packed at the relief office December 24. Persons having gifts of clothing, food or toys are asked to leave these at the relief offices in the Ahern building.

Mexican Fiesta Is Sponsored By A. A. U. W. Branch

Gay and colorful was the Mexican fiesta sponsored by International Relations group of A. A. U. W. last Thursday evening when 108 members and guests gathered at the Presbyterian church. "I strive neither for gold nor honor but that the truth may be established in the world." This Dr. Mary Honey, group chairman, quoted from a Greek monk in explaining the purpose, and added that the international relations group sponsors such a gathering each year in the hope that "love and understanding may ultimately bring world peace."

Miss Beulah Rundle, A. A. U. W. branch president, introduced Miss Ruth Paden who spoke on her summer's sojourn in Mexico and showed lantern slides to illustrate. Virginia's day is observed in Mexico, began Miss Paden, on December 12 when a pilgrimage is made each year to a sacred shrine. This religious festival has come also to be a social one.

Mexico was described by Miss Paden as a country of wooded hills and plateaus presenting beautiful views. Improved roads make travel easy. Streets in cities are, however, narrow and paved with rough stone. Homes are principally of white with red tile roofs, typically Spanish.

Mexico is rich in gold deposits. The largest cathedral in the western hemisphere with its 35 shrines shows the wealth of the precious metal, as also do other prominent buildings.

Mexico's two volcanoes, the early Indian temples on hilltops, and the market places which are in every city and village were described by Miss Paden. In early times twigs used to be placed in canals and flowers grown on these to form the floating gardens. Now the natives ride in canals in canoes laden with flowers. They sell the flowers and sing for visitors.

Bright Mexican sombreros, baskets, pottery, rugs, etc., were displayed in the room. A miniature scene depicted the wiseman and camels. Red, white and green pennants, also bright colored table covers and programs carried out the Mexican idea. Girls serving the Mexican dinner were in white and red. Young women carried bowls of flowers and candied fruits as favors for guests, and Mexican peddlers presented them with peanuts and Mexican candy. Dr. Kathryn Hugganir, in costume, sang Spanish numbers. Mrs. Albert G. Galsburg played for her. Miss Jessie Hanson sang a Christmas carol at opening of the program.

International Relations group sponsoring the affair included Mrs. G. W. Costerian, Mrs. W. F. Dierking, Miss Ida Fisher, Miss Anna Geisler, Dr. Honey, Mrs. Virginia McCain, Miss Paden, Miss Rundle, Miss Stella Traster, Miss Mary Walker and Mrs. F. W. Nyberg.

Many Changes Noted By Native On Visit In Wayne

Many changes in Wayne were noted by C. E. (Doc) Russell who stopped here Friday for a brief visit when he was enroute from his home at Lakeside, Wash., to New York for a trial. This was Mr. Russell's first visit here since the family left 35 years ago. Mr. Russell is the only son of the late S. B. Russell who served Wayne county as clerk in the 90's. The Russell family came to Wayne in about 1880, before the railroad was established, and they resided here until 1900 when they were among a group of 42 chartering a special train to Washington to locate in the fruit region. Among others who left in the same expedition west were the families of G. A. Benson, Ira Richards and Mr. Schultz. Henry Goll later went from here to the northwest and his eldest son, Henry, jr., is now located at Wenatchee. The Wm. and Henry Miller families are others who went to the Pacific northwest, and Mr. Russell reports them doing well.

C. E. Russell, who was born in Wayne in 1885, now owns and operates an apple orchard at Lakeside. He reports that he grows lots of apples but the marketing of the crop is a problem.

Mr. Russell's parents died in the west. His five sisters have established homes on the Pacific coast. Mrs. Eleanor Rogers, Mrs. Mae Hardenburgh, Mrs. Elizabeth Henry and Mrs. Nellie Davis are at Lakeside, Wash., and Mrs. Helen Barlow is in Los Angeles.

Mr. Russell and his wife, also the latter's sister, Mrs. Pell, and Mrs. Pell's daughter were here Friday on the trip east.

SECURITY ACT IS PROPOSED

Ethiopia Disapproves Peace Proposal—Other News Of World.

Miss Perkins, secretary of labor, explained a new social security plan Saturday, declaring the need for "good and steady wages for workers and fair prices for producers of farmers." Her seven-point program includes: Regularity and stabilization of industry, wage payments and rates on highest possible level consistent with keeping conditions healthy, hours short enough to preserve human values of workers, thoughtful management, expansion of industry in direction of human needs, civilized relations between workers and employers, and systematic method of providing individuals with income after they are disabled.

Prince Ernst VonStarhemberg, Austria's powerful vice chancellor, called Austrians to lead Germanic nations in a startling challenge to Adolf Hitler. The hope is to restore to power Archduke Otto who is living in Belgium. "There is only one way to solve the question of pan-Germanism," he said, "and that is to give the leadership to the Austrians. The Hapsburg line should be restored in place of Hitler."

CHRISTMAS IN OTHER LANDS DESCRIBED BY WAYNE PEOPLE

Holidays Differ In Foreign Countries With Santa In Many Roles — Spirit Of Yuletide Universal.

Christmas is an almost universal celebration although customs of other lands differ widely from those of the United States. The Santa Claus of the country, known and loved by children, is no dearest to them than the like character of other countries.

Christmas In Italy.

In Italy, says Mrs. Bill Parenti, Christmas day is not the day of gift-giving but of church worship. Gifts are exchanged on January 6 which is the anniversary of the day the infant Jesus began to walk. About 95 per cent of the population of Italy is of the Catholic faith and on Christmas the altars of the churches are lavishly decorated with ornaments of gold and silver. The statues of Mary, Joseph and Jesus, used at the altar of the church are draped in gold and silver robes. High mass and midnight mass are celebrated in the church.

The "Befana" day or January 6 is the Italian holiday which corresponds more to the Christmas day in America. The Befana is the same character as the Santa Claus of the United States and is pictured as a little, old woman—very tiny and very old and wrinkled, with a happy, smiling face. She is dressed in a dark gown and wears a white shawl and apron.

Trees are used on the day of Befana, and then only in the parks as a community affair. Christmas trees are very seldom used in the homes. Gifts are placed on the community tree and little children are given numbers, gifts on the tree corresponding with the paper slips.

Thus each child is assured of receiving a present. On the night before Befana day the children place baskets under their beds to receive the gifts from the old woman. Notes, telling her the things they most desire, are placed in the baskets; sometimes the children write excuses to her explaining why they are slow at writing their letters. The Befana plays queer tricks on the youngsters of Italy—sometimes their baskets disappear from under the beds and it takes a great deal of searching to discover where she has hidden them. At other times they may decide to leave the baskets right where she found them, so the children always take the first look under the beds.

Young girls and young boys receive Christmas gifts on the night before December 25—the Befana day is only for little children. Growth folks do not exchange gifts. Toys, candy and clothing are found in the baskets from the Befana—gifts are no such the same as here. There is no singing of Christmas carols in Italy although the day is chosen by the lovers for singing to their sweethearts.

Customs differ slightly even in the same country, says Mrs. Parenti, who spent her childhood in the village of Lucia in the southern part of Italy where it is warmer than in the northern part. Sometimes there is snow or rain on Christmas day and sometimes the day is warm and sunny.

There are elaborate feasts on Christmas day, on the Befana day and also on New Year's day. The Italian New Year is one of the events of the year—band concerts are held all night long. No one sleeps and it is a time of great gaiety and merriment.

Children of Italy appreciate every little thing the Befana brings and love the good woman adoredly.

Christmas In Sweden. The Christmas festivities in Sweden continue for 13 days, beginning at 12 o'clock noon, December 24. For a week before the holidays housewives are busy in their kitchens making Christmas cakes, cookies, sauces and all kinds of breads.

Mrs. August Nyberg recalls the beauty of the homes in Sweden, on Christmas eve. Three candles were placed in each window in every home. The candles were again lighted at 4:30 in the morning of Christmas day, everyone rising early to go to the 5 o'clock services. Children always begged the older people to wake them in time to get dressed for church. In Sweden there is always snow on Christmas day, and the early walks to church through the frosty air were something to be remembered for long afterward. People coming in from the country, always came in sleighs and horses were decked with bells for the holiday. Church bells began ringing at 4 o'clock and were tolled every ten minutes until services started.

In the large stained glass windows the churches, seven lighted candles were placed. There were usually five or six chandeliers hanging from the ceiling and candles were placed in these. Services were held in the soft glow of candle-light and were very beautiful and impressive.

The Santa Claus of Sweden is called "Gul Tomte," and is a purely imaginary character, never given any definite form as is the Santa of America. Gifts are placed under the Christmas tree by Gul Tomte for children and for grown-ups. Christmas trees were decorated with ornaments of colored paper when Mrs. Nyberg was a child in Sweden, although ornaments may be purchased for decorations nowadays. Children all helped with making the paper ornaments for the tree and thoroughly enjoyed their part of the preparation. Trees now used in the churches in Sweden are now although this has only been done in recent years.

For each of the 13 holidays, relatives gather at the different homes, festivities beginning at 11 o'clock in the morning and lasting until 11 at night. Relatives from a distance arrive Christmas eve. The season is a time for feasts and merrymaking, with dancing and many games of the country.

Christmas In Germany. Germany is the birthplace of the Christmas tree which is the symbol of everlasting life. For this reason the evergreen tree is used. Lights placed on the Christmas tree carry out the idea of "Christ, the light of the world." Rev. H. A. Teckhaus explained, "The gifts exchanged at Christmas time have their origin in the phrase, 'God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son.'"

In Germany the Christmas season begins four weeks before the holiday and all during this time, red lights are placed in the windows at night. On the last Thursday before Christmas gifts are given from door to door through the town, singing their Christmas carols. The four weeks prior to the holiday are very busy ones. Parents are busy preparing gifts for the children and children make gifts for their parents. Girls knit or sew on articles and the boys make gifts of wood.

The little folks believe in Kris Kringle or "Christkind" meaning the Christ-Child, to whom they attribute all good things of the season. As the children grow older their parents explain to them the story of the first great gift to mankind. The Christmas spirit is felt throughout the country and no one is forgotten. Those who are more fortunate take baskets of food and gifts to the old and the poor.

St. Nicholas comes on December 5 with his huge sack of gifts. The presents are left in a closed room of the home and left untouched until Christmas eve. On the evening of December 5 the little folks are given candy, nuts and gingerbread and on this night they say their little poems and prayers for the good saint.

On Christmas eve old and young go to church where the Christmas story is dramatized in dialogues or tableaux. The churches are decorated with evergreen. The younger children recite little poems and sing their carols after which the pastor gives his address.

The home celebration is sometimes held Christmas eve but more often early in the morning. There is never a home in Germany without its Christmas tree. Germany has two holiday feast days at Christmas time—December 25 and 26. Preparations begin for days beforehand for the huge dinners. For the four weeks before Christmas, stores are crowded with shoppers and sightseers. Windows and streets are decorated in a very elaborate manner.

The "Krippe," miniature replica of the village of Bethlehem at the country round-about, is present in all churches and many homes. The showing of the Krippe is legendary in Germany, some of the most elaborate being as large as 12 by 15 feet. Rev. Teckhaus told of one in particular which he had seen in a cloister, every building, tiny animal and human statue made by the patient monks. The scene depicted the village of Bethlehem with the stable, wherein lay the Christ-Child, with the Virgin Mary and Joseph leaning over the sheep. On a small scale were shown the houses, barns and market place of the village and much of the country with small valleys and streams. In one part of the valley were the shepherds, "keeping watch over the flocks by night," with the angel appearing to tell the story of the birth of Christ. In another part of the scene were the wise men with their camels journeying toward Bethlehem. Scenery for the Krippe was very vivid and figures extremely lifelike.

Hundreds of people came each day to see this particular Krippe. Rev. Teckhaus stated, "The value of the Krippe is in making the story of the first Christmas more vivid and impressive to the people."

Christmas In Russia. When Joe Smolsky was a lad in Russia, Christmas day was observed January 6, twelve days after the observance of the holiday in America. The Christmas was a time of great merrymaking with dancing and dining in private homes. Farmers of the country gave three weeks to the time of gaiety.

"The Christmas-time in Russia," said Mr. Smolsky, "was a time of many bells and much sleigh-riding. The horses drawing the sleighs were fitted with collars of large and small bells."

For three weeks after January 6, the air was filled with the sound of bells. These three weeks in Russia were also the marriage season when many nuptials were read. Christmas eve was the time of feasting and a twelve-course meatless banquet was held in all the homes. Fish was served at the dinners instead of meat.

On Christmas day was held the "Procession to the River Jordan" when all members of the Greek Orthodox church journeyed to a river or lake near the town for the ceremony of water. If there were lakes or streams near the town, they were fitted with the way to the town well, which was an open pit about 10 feet across. The water in the town wells never froze in winter and was always very cold in summer. On Christmas morning the church bells tolled the hour for the procession to start.

Celebration of Christmas began Christmas eve and continued through New Year's day and the Day of Three Kings, which is one week after New Year.

The Russians are fond of music and much of it is heard during the weeks of festivity. Feasts are held each day.

Children are faithful to old St. Nick who brings their Christmas gifts. The Christmas tree is as prevalent in Russia as America but when Mr. Smolsky was a lad, trees were not decorated and were used more as a symbol of the season.

Christmas In Holland. Christmas holidays in Holland are both December 25 and 26 and Santa Claus comes to visit the children December 6, says Mrs. J. G. Kyl. The Kyls lived in the country of windmills and canals until 1906 when they came to America.

The gift day for the children of Holland is in commemoration of the birthday of Santa Claus or St. Nicholas, Spanish saint. The Santa Claus of Holland is pictured much the same as the Santa Claus of America except that he is always accompanied by Peter, his black hunchy man who carries the pack and assists the saint in distributing gifts.

Christmas trees in Holland are kept in tubs outdoors until the beginning of the holidays when they are brought into the homes and churches and decorated for the Yuletide. Each home has its potted tree which furnishes a spot of green for the garden all the year around. No gifts are given on Christmas day except to the poor who are remembered then because of the birth of Jesus.

In the inland city of Leewarden, Holland, where the Kyls lived, there is usually snow at Christmas time and skating on the canals is an all-winter sport.

Services are held in the churches on Christmas eve and at that time the children are given preference over the grown-ups in the programs. The high, sweet voices of the little folks ring out in Christmas carols throughout Holland on the evening of December 24. The carols are much the same as in America and "Holy Night, Silly Night" is always a favorite. There is no Christmas observance in the schools—the holidays are kept sacred to the homes and churches.

Christmas In England. The traditional English Christmas pudding—dear to the heart of every good British subject—is made in large quantities at the end of November. Mrs. H. C. Capsey explains. The pudding made for the Christmas feast has not only the pick of all the ingredients but pieces of silver are stirred into the mixture—when the pudding is served, luck goes with the portions containing the money. When mother has the pudding ready to turn into the molds for steaming, each member is invited to the kitchen to give a stir for luck, and to make a wish.

On Christmas day the pudding is reheated and turned out on its platter. A sprig of holly adorns the top and over the steaming pudding is poured a small quantity of brandy. Just before serving, the brandy is lighted and the pudding carried triumphantly to the festal board, with tiny blue flames licking its glossy brown surface.

Mince-pies for the Christmas pies is also made in November, bottled and set away to be made into the individual pies always served at the Christmas dinner. Mince is never used in the making of the true English mince-pies—ingredients are chopped fruits.

The British have two holidays at Christmas time, December 25 and December 26. The second holiday is called "Boxing Day." Mrs. Capsey believes, had its origin in the coming of the postmen for their Christmas boxes. The postman gives a sharp rap at the door and is presented with his Christmas box. On other days when the postmen raps, it means that he has extra letters for the household and is unable to get them into the letter box at these times he raps twice.

Boxing day in England is a much of a holiday as Christmas and is accompanied by a like feast. During the holidays, candy, apples, nuts, oranges and tangerines are never absent from the dining room.

The Santa Claus of England is called Father Christmas and is dressed just as the Santa Claus of America. There is always the ritual of hanging up the Christmas stockings on Christmas eve—youth and old enjoy seeing what Father Christmas has left in the stockings. In the holiday season parents plan to take their children to at least one pantomime in a good theatre. Children's pantomimes include "Babes in the Wood," "Dick Whittington and His Cat" and "Alice in Wonderland."

Caroling is one of the Christmas traditions in London, loved by each and every one. Groups of singers go from door to door singing their Christmas songs and when the occupants of the houses hear them, they always go to the doors with offerings of money. Sometimes the caroling is done by church choirs and by the poor. Children also go about in groups singing the beautiful hymns of the Yuletide.

Manila, P. I., Nov. 14.

Thirty-six years of occupation by Americans has given the Philippines more than can be written. Thirty years ago this writer was here. There have been many changes. The greatest change is the sanitary situation. The water is gone from the moats around the old walled city and the old moats are public golf courses. The old walls still stand and the business houses in the walled city look about the same as they did thirty years ago. The lizards still sing from the walls; the people eat the same rice and fish; the old carabao is still in use, but the old carabao is used outside the city because this water buffalo, the Philippine beast of burden, has been transplanted by the automobile truck. This is most true in the city but out in the country the carabao is still in use and will be used forever. They can't do without this faithful animal in the Philippines.

Cock fights continue on Sunday and they raise much money with the great lottery games. There is an "old times" club here. Members are those men who came in 1898 and never went back home. They ask many questions. Young people talk English but the middle aged, the aged and many of the merchants talk Tagalog only. There must be much education during the ten year transition period to make Americans feel that their work here has been completely successful.

An American named A. W. Ralston, an uncle of Henry Ralston of Norfolk, who is head of the Manila Machinery Company, seems to have the right slant from the industrial viewpoint. Speaking about how Philippine independence will affect the foreigners who run the industrial work here, he says that those industrialists who will tolerate the Filipinos and "play with them" will get along. Those who won't may have to suffer. Mr. Ralston is highly thought of here. He owns several mines and remembers the days when he lived at Schuyler, Neb., and played ball up and down the Elkhorn valley against Scribner, Dodge and other teams. Incidentally he is one of the few Nebraska men who whipped Joe Stecher when they were boys together in Nebraska.

Ben H. Berkenkotter, of Petersburg, Nebraska, has made and lost several fortunes here. He is still going strong and his associates just released the story that he sold his latest gold mine in Benguet province for two and a half million pesos. That means one million twenty-five thousand good American dollars.

Sister S. M. Bridgettine, who is superintendent of nurses at St. Paul's hospital here is the daughter of Mrs. J. Mills of Dixon, Neb., and is said to be one of the most efficient trained nurses in these islands. Her position here is one of great responsibility; she is said to be an expert in training Filipino girls to become graduate nurses.

We have now visited many sugar haciendas, many rice farms, many coconut oil factories and the cordage factories. Many of us have learned where much of our cordage and coconut oil comes from and much of the legislation which will come up before our insular affairs committee will receive more intelligent consideration. We Americans have asked many questions which have been answered in various ways. Time and again we have secreted ourselves away from appointed guides and have taken old-timers into our confidence and have gone out and made personal investigations which were not interfered with by certain officials.

November 15, 1935. Today we witnessed the inauguration of Manuel Quezon as the first president of these Islands and the birth of a new nation. Most of those who are leaders of the government of the United States were here mingling with those who are to be the first leaders of this new republic. Serious minded Filipinos admit to us that from now on they are practicing how to run a government. They say that they realize that there are foreigners here who do not believe they can make the step grade. They admit that many of their own people don't know what it is all about. That many of them believe that independence means independence from all taxation—but they feel that their leaders, by bringing together the two major parties into a coalition have made a real step toward a program of educating their people to learn what sacrifices they will have to make to earn their independence. These leaders admit that this is their task for the next ten years.

Hong Kong, China.

The Chinese women do much of the work on the cargo boats in the bay and American women in the delegation are amazed to see little women handling cars or the rudder of clumsy craft. However, the men work here too. They unload terribly heavy loads from the boats. These cargo boats bring much of the heavy merchandise from the wholesale houses on shore to the boats.

An American woman called my attention to the fact that blocks of wood are tied to the backs of the boy babies on the cargo boats. She saw no wooden blocks tied to the backs of the girl babies. Boy babies are more valuable in China.

Many banks are located in Hong Kong. It is declared the safest place for Chinese money. Safer than in other parts where the racketeer war lord can get it. So the rich Chinese up country send their money and valuables to Hong Kong. The British flag, they tell us, is safer. So many rich Chinese have their money, send it

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

SYNOPSIS

As Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the Far North, a plane lands at the emergency station in it are Burton Ramill, millionaire mining magnate, his daughter Lilith, and his nephew, Huxley, and mining engineer, their superior and toward Garth is lessened when they examine some ore samples he is carrying. Believing him to be only an ignorant prospector, the men offer to make an air trip to Garth's claim, although they refer to the platinum-bearing areas as merely "barbaric."

relay of the London metal market report. The announcer started to give the last quoted price on platinum: "Refined platinum, per troy ounce, twelve pounds, seven shillings and..."

Through the wire gauze of the big rear window he saw Miss Ramill reclining on the heated pillows of an unmade berth. The sheet at her elbow held tinned and package foods and a wine bottle. Garth laid down his rifle and back on the floor near the cockpit.

"Wait till you reach one of our muskewampas, Miss Ramill. You'll call this heaven. But why the flying suit? Going to pilot the bus?"

Had Garth taken the same load, either he or Huxley would have had to return for the other two cases. He hoped three cases together and stowed the thirty-gallon load upon the back. As if the pack had been feather-weight, he went down the steep slope with the smooth gliding step of a moose via weaver.

"How else? Or does the gentleman imagine he can find my prospect without a guide?"

Out at the end of the wharf, a dog wag and tail lowered his heavy pack upon the plank with out a fur. As he straightened up he saw Miss Ramill step down from the cabin. She had donned her leather pilot trousers and jacket but held the helmet in her hand.

"Quite so. He and your father can go there, or the other place—and you with them. You're not only a selfish snob. You're a brainless fool to fancy a southern pilot can back-trail a canoe route through uncharted forest and muskewampas."

"Oh, you mean what they call fly dope. But I see none of the sticky or smelly mess they tell about. Your face looks clean."

"The girl's blue eyes flared with outraged pride and vanity. Garth smiled. He had paid her back in full for her arrogance. It was worth waiting over until another season for his fortune, up in that hidden valley of the Rockies."

"You do? By the way, in the North we say chechacos, not tenderloin. As for the froggie, it's no fancy. Years ago, Seton remarked the fact that mosquitoes never stung frogs. I—er—I know a man who experimented and who finally obtained experimentally the substance indicated by the sign of frogs. Too bad I've run out of the dope. There are plenty of ponds where we are going. You'll have to keep behind your nets—or take to grease and pitch."

"Don't be all day, Garth. Cast off the lines. Sorry, Lilith, that I'm not into hair your company."

EARLY DAYS IN COUNTIES

Mercury Takes Big Dip in December—Other News Happenings

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for December 18, 1919: Miss Meta Koepke of Winside and Ferdinand C. Voss of Hoskins, were married December 16, 1919. Harry Suchl and Miss Clara Dammle were married December 17, 1919.

WINNERS NAMED IN PASTURE CONTEST

fire. The building was worth about $300. The children's books, also a new stove and the coal pile were burned. We never saw in Sioux City on circus day more crowded streets than there were in Ponca on Tuesday afternoon but the crowd excited little attention as the town is used to such large groups. up into the cabin or help ship the steps. Women's rights did include courtesies in return for insults. He cast off the tail mooring line and swung aboard, with the coiled rope and his rifle. As the plane drifted clear, the breeze swayed its head off from shore. Huxley paused a moment to jerk out a question: "Route?"

For answer, Garth pointed westerly. Huxley set the propeller whirling with the self-starter. With rapidly increasing headway, the plane skimmed out on the river. Rifle between knees, Garth settled down upon the cockpit seat at the pilot's elbow. Huxley was first to speak. When the plane soared above the west bank of the great river, he leaned close to shout a repetition of his question: "Route?"

At his sign to bank, Huxley frowned but brought the plane around in a wide curve. Very soon, however, from the refueling station, Garth sighted the small swamp stream on which he had begun and ended his trip into the unknown. This was a familiar point of departure. From it he again directed the pilot to the westward.

Somewhat under an hour later, the swamps and low ridges ended at the upthrust of an eastward thrust mountain range. A near view of the barren peaks showed Garth to twist the course about on a sharp angle to the southward. Those mountains had not appeared any too familiar. The difficulty of finding landmarks recognizable from the air had not lessened. For days on his trip in and out, he had traveled through dense forests of spruce, that shut off almost all wide views, even of the mountains.

The westward rise of the country had by now forced the plane up another thousand feet. Higher slopes ahead called for still more altitude. The jagged skyline reared a thousand feet or more higher than the plane. Huxley started to climb. Until within a mile of the sharp cliffs he ignored Garth's advice to lessen the angle. This was the plane swept past an out-jutting peak on the right, Garth signed towards the gap between it and the main mass.

The highest point of the pass was more than half a thousand feet lower than the plane. Huxley pushed the stick forward and shot down for the gap on a long slant. The monoplane soon dove in between the towering precipices and steeply pitched side slopes of the immense cleft. A little more, and the cleft crooked to the north. The plane banked around the turn. Below the head the cleft widened in the neck of a glacier. Farther down the expense of snowice pinched into a narrow gulch. The cutch ran down into a deep mountain-rimmed valley. From the rough bed tumbled a stream of milky glacier water.

Garth noted mooring dots on the tundra and white specks up on the rocky slopes above them. But Huxley saw neither the carbon nor the mountain sheep. He had at once spotted the lake in the valley bottom. He angled on down as if to plunge into the silvery sparkling ripples of the lake. The monoplane swooped above the upper shore and drove on towards the lake and for a discharge. ## VACATION IS PLANNED HERE

Belden Wins Basketball Game Friday - Other News Of Week.

CONCORD

(By Miriam Huse.)

Concord school will have next week at Christmas vacation. A holiday is also planned New Year's day. This Friday afternoon at the last period, the school will have a Christmas party with exchange of gifts.

Belden defeated Concord in a hard fought basketball game Friday evening by 11 to 9 at Concord. The team played Waterbury Tuesday evening at Waterbury. Friday evening, Dixon comes to Concord to play.

Intermediate Room.

The room has a Christmas tree. Fourth grade made clay figures of the manger, Mary, Joseph and the angels. Pupils are studying Christmas in other lands.

The pupils will have a party Friday. Gifts will be exchanged. The losing side in the contest will bring candy for a large bag of candy which like the Mexicans, will be called a pasado.

Primary Room.

Primary room pupils are working on a Christmas program to be given in assembly.

Third grade language pupils have been learning to write letters. The meaning of Christmas is being stressed in the room. The pictures, "Virgin and Child" by Murillo and "Madonna of the Chair" by Raphael are being studied.

Plans are being made for a Christmas party Friday afternoon. Monitors for the week are Joan Clark, Hazel Nygren and Dean Fredrickson.
