

Of New City Auditorium - Worthy Woman's Club Figures in Improvement - Wayne-Pierce Highway

According to plans, the new city auditorium will be formally dedicated on Friday of this week.

Wonderful Structure. As frequently stated, the auditorium is wonderfully satisfying in both capacity and finish with no convenience omitted, and it will serve many purposes eminently well.

Result of Long, Hard Pull. The struggle to get the improvement involved a long uphill pull, and city authorities who stuck to the task for more than three years, satisfying government red tape and surmounting local obstacles, deserve medals for distinguished perseverance.

Accomplishments Exact Price. Any desirable improvement or any progressive organization has to contend with interfering obstacles.

Organized Enterprise. The Wayne Woman's club which had a community house of its own some years ago, contributing the bulk of its sale proceeds to the new municipal building, has had its tribulations.

An Unpleasant Incident. Speaking of gratuitous annoyances to worthy and constructive public effort, we are reminded of a playfully engineered suit against the Woman's club a number of years ago following differences of opinion over a janitor's wages.

Adding to Appropriateness. The long time—over three years—required to wrest reality out of dim and doubtful prospect makes an elaborate dedication doubly appropriate, and if this line of reasoning is good, there ought to be a whole of a dedicatory performance aimed at the Wayne-Pierce highway when hard-surfacing is planned.

Road Needs Urgent. Speaking of the need of more hard-surfaced highways leading to Wayne, we have been informed that inhabitants in and around Concord and Dixon cannot understand why they have not been provided before now with at least gravelled footing in reaching Wayne.

Liking One's Work. No matter what one is doing he ought to train himself to enjoy it, as he would enjoy a game or working out a puzzle.

PLAN TO ENTER DEBATE TOURNEY

School Argumentation Class Accepts Invitation For Fremont Meet.

Members of the Wayne city school debate class will go to Fremont for the debate tournament sponsored by Midland college, dates to be January 30, January 31 and February 1.

Cyc club will meet Thursday evening for a business session. The club will sponsor two more plays before the close of the school term.

Basketball game scheduled here for Friday evening with Bloomfield has been postponed until Saturday evening because of the dedication program at the city auditorium.

Delbert and Dale Alderson will leave the Wayne high school at the beginning of the second semester and will move to Denison, Iowa.

A group of taxpayers bent on blocking the undertaking like making leaves along the road-side or enumerating and cataloging a bushel of beans, the city could not afford to brook defeat and some delay was required to reason with obstructionists and persuade them to clear the track.

The eighth grade art class is making scrap books of the various types of architecture studied this year. In arithmetic the group is taking up the study of insurance; students have brought samples of application blanks, policies and premium books in connection with the study.

Fifth grade made snowflake design from colored paper for art work last week. Color charts will be made using the designs the children cut. Elaine Benhark and Betty Franzen are on the clean desk committee for the week.

The fourth grade room is preparing a scrap book in connection with the geography project. The journey across the United States via the Lincoln highway has progressed as far as Ohio.

Rodney Foote is a new pupil in the first grade, coming here from Madison.

Kindergarten brought playthings to school the first of the week for the toy shop. The children made cloth toys for the shop and also modeled animals from plasticine.

DR. DIENST IN KIWANIS TALK

City School Head Addresses Club Members At Noonday Session Monday.

Dr. Charles F. Dienst addressed Kiwanians Monday following noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton.

Dr. Dienst in addressing club members, stated that he had been in Wayne only four months and had enjoyed his stay here. Looking about the room Dr. Dienst humorously observed that he "saw enough former board members of the city school to make up a board if the present one refused to hold out."

Dr. Dienst told of studying the old records of the high school in preparation for the coming golden anniversary celebration.

Dr. Dienst mentioned that in every public building and in almost every business house in Wayne it is possible to see former students of the Wayne school.

Dr. Dienst made an appeal to members present for a continued broader interest in the school and in the young men and young women who must make their own way in the world.

CITIZEN ADVISES PULL FOR LARGER POPULATION HERE

A WIDEAWAKE citizen expresses anxiety for an increase of a couple thousand in Wayne's population. We would have to have more families coming here to trade and more revenue-producing industries to justify the suggested growth.

More hard-surfaced highways extending into areas thus far not accommodated would develop trade volume. A factory to can corn, tomatoes, beans or other things raised in this section would give employment.

A milk condensing plant would be an all-year revenue producer. All needed to bring institutions here to support an increased population is a united and determined pull.

We are reminded of two California towns—Modesto and Turlock, the former united, the latter divided. The Turlock neighborhood offered a more desirable field for a Borden's milk factory.

The town fought over a site until the company took the institution to Modesto, some ten miles distant. Turlock had long been slated for a needed federal building, but bitter division over location has postponed the improvement indefinitely.

With fewer natural advantages, Modesto, with everybody pulling in the same direction, is moving steadily ahead, while Turlock, sulkily and enviously, is dragging anchor.

Wayne has made gratifying growth the past year. More rapid growth in the future, made easier by improved economic conditions, depends largely on the development of a sound basis for it, and this may be had through unity of purpose and action.

Seventy-five members of the organization were present. The new club rooms are probably the most outstanding headquarters for any woman's organization in Nebraska.

Furnishings recently purchased and installed in the room are very attractive, the color scheme drawing the separate parts into one harmonious whole.

All past presidents of the Wayne branch of the club were in attendance at the Friday meeting and gave a complete history of the club since its organization March 21, 1919.

The program chairman, Mrs. C. C. Herndon, presented the speakers who talked covered hardships and progress of the club over a period of 17 years until the present time when its goal, the beautiful club rooms, was reached.

Past presidents who spoke were Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis, Mrs. E. W. Husc, Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh, Mrs. C. Shultheis and Mrs. E. E. Gaikry.

Mrs. F. L. Blair presented the club with a tapestry, "Spring," by Cordt, a gift for the rooms from Mr. and Mrs. Blair. Mrs. S. A. Lutgen responded for the club, suggesting that Mrs. Blair be made a life member of the club, the suggestion receiving unanimous affirmative vote from club members.

Mrs. Lutgen as vice president of the Third district, introduced Mrs. McDuffie and Mrs. Mimer, who in brief talks congratulated the club women for their worthy achievement.

A play, "Boosting Bridget," directed by Mrs. D. S. Wightman, was presented by the following cast: Bridget, Mrs. F. S. Berry; Jane Brewster, Mrs. Hobart Auker; Harriet Gordon, Mrs. Wightman; Rowena Brewster, Mrs. E. E. Gaikry; Mrs. Hastings, Mrs. Willis Noonke; Mrs. Emily Applegate, Mrs. E. J. Huntemer. The play was a humorous skit and parts were well taken.

The club rooms were built as a part of the new $73,000 city auditorium. The main room is 29 by 29 feet with an adjoining kitchen. Walls are of soft cream. Venetian blinds at the windows repeating the same color and a decorative stripe of maroon. Draperies are of maroon with figures in tan, blue and rust. Keynote for the floor covering is taupe with figures in green and maroon.

Living room suite is in dark green with two occasional chairs, one in blue and one in rust. The room also has a refectory table with six matching chairs upholstered in maroon. Light fixtures are opalescent with amber trim. It is planned to add a grand piano to room furnishings at an early date.

Kitchen is completely equipped with a hundred-piece set of china and silver, also necessary cooking utensils. The room has built-in cupboards and work table. A coat room adjoins the main club room.

Hostesses for the Friday tea were Mrs. Herndon, Mrs. Hobart Auker, Mrs. M. H. Sublette, Mrs. G. A. Galt, Mrs. L. A. Fenske, Mrs. J. R. Keith, Mrs. L. A. Fenske, Mrs. J. H. Huntemer and Mrs. D. J. AAA Is INVALIDATION of the AAA by the United States supreme court is accepted by some as a blow and by others as a boon to the cause of agriculture. Opinions vary as to continued value of the plan.

The plan of left-wingers in control of administration policies has from the start seemed bent on directing private affairs, including those of agriculture and business, and benefits were often offset—sometimes more than offset—by the overruling of private judgment and the imposition of obstructive restrictions.

Into a Snarl COMMENTING on the supreme court's decision against the AAA, the Omaha Journal-Stockman says:
"It will probably take some time for congress and the country to grasp full force and effect of the decision.

Preserving Liberties The AAA proved more helpful as a drouth measure than as a crop-reduction plan. It furnished needed cash for crops that wouldn't be raised, and in that way it proved a boon to distressed agriculture.

As To Pa's GOVERNMENT departments show an insatiable thirst for information. Here is an impulse reported by the Grand Island Independent:
"Ever eager to entrap elusive facts, Secretary of Labor Perkins has devised a survey (employing 4,500 persons) to learn how incomes of pater-familias are expended.

devote her official efforts to trimming down his taxes—for instance, by not conducting extravagantly futile surveys like this one.

A congressman from New York is reported to have introduced a measure proposing a constitutional change permitting the government to take over farming, business and industry. This is the very thing the antics of administration bureaucrats have led people to fear.

A survey contacting 5,000 persons representing 122 occupations in twenty-two states showed that 85 per cent considered statements made in newspaper advertising more reliable than those made by men elected to public office.

The Hearst newspapers show consideration for both taxpayers and deserving soldier veterans by urging payment of the bonus from the $4,880,000,000 put into the hands of the president to circulate for relief as his judgment might suggest.

Senator Edward R. Burke defeated the expectations of some politicians by refusing to back down on his recent stand against the left-wing performances of the administration, according to a letter from him made public this week.

National guarantee of bank deposits, predicted and urged by the late William J. Bryan forty years ago, had been in the offing for a long time and ready to materialize at any time, and its realization under the present administration marks it as one outstanding and deservedly permanent achievement.

The two major broadcasting companies—the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system—have decided to bar politics from use of their facilities until after party conventions have been held.

The president's Jackson day speech indicates that he is willing to lay aside party lines and accept the votes of all persons excepting possibly those whom he characterized in his former fireside appearance as the elements of "intrenched greed."

The Omaha Journal-Stockman is not encouraged to believe a progressive and consistent farm program capable of resisting attack, as a substitute for the departed AAA, is in the making because it is in the hands of the same old crowd that framed the outlawed plan, and that voluntary offers of assistance from other sources have been refused.

Just common horse sense reasons that accumulated processing taxes should find their way into the United States treasury to be used in making due benefit payments to producers. That would come nearest putting such taxes into channels where they rightfully belong.

Some persons who favor Dr. Townsend's old-age pension plan want the age at which the government harvest may begin reduced from 65 to 60. Doubtless there are also those hovering around 50 who would have the age of dependence pushed back to that point.

The president urges retention of ideals, and we would remind him that freedom from arbitrary bureaucracies and cultivation of the spirit of independence are among them.

PUNISHMENT.

For a year the Hauptmann case has been played up by the newspapers and radio. Sensational stories are broadcast on an assumption of popular demand. Speculating on the guilt of the defendant—a reflection of flaunted facts—furnishes a basis for much conversation. If an eye for an eye is to be exacted, the execution is attended by too much publicity, to say the least, to be a fittingly harrowing detail.

Dedication

On how he can improve the product and how he can better serve those who are looking to him for service. A few simple rules inspire content, and if they do not bring success, they certainly wipe out ground for regret or apology.

Food And Drug Act Explained

Dr. Guy G. Frary, South Dakota Chemist, Is Wayne Speaker.

Food and drug regulations that will protect consumers as well as manufacturers were explained by Dr. Guy G. Frary of Vermilion, South Dakota state chemist, who addressed Wayne branch of A. A. U. W. and guests at Neihardt hall Thursday evening.

The national food and drugs act was passed in this country in 1906 and was a result of efforts started in 1879. The legislation now before congress seeks to extend the protection. The object is to safeguard public health, to maintain morals in trade and to assure purity of products and honest labeling.

FARLEY.

President Roosevelt is charged by Laurens M. Hamilton of New York with attempting to inflame class distinctions and hatreds. Hamilton is mentioned as a great-great-grandson of Alexander Hamilton—a fact which may or may not lend significance to his words. As to trying to incite class bitterness and to make some groups think they are ruthlessly oppressed by other groups, we think the president's cries are feeble in contrast with those of Postmaster-General James Farley.

The Washington management of private business and vote accordingly. Farley goes farther than the president in trying to egg one group against another. Administration forces do not realize and would not admit that the essential of confidence is liberally flanked by assurance that the socialistic setup is on the way out and that government interference with citizen rights is hearing an end.

BEAUTIFUL CANADIAN VALLEY HOME OF FORMER WAYNE GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Robertson Homestead 320 Acres of Crown Land In British Columbia Four Years Ago.

Four years in the wildly beautiful Nasko valley, British Columbia, Canada, have made it home to Mrs. W. L. Robertson, the former Miss Stella Libengood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Libengood of near Wayne. The Robertsons have pre-empted or homesteaded 320 acres of crown land and are one of the 13 white families in the valley. At ten years the crown deed to the land is given the homesteaders. In pre-empting Canadian land, the homesteader must live on it at least five years and must erect $1,500 worth of improvements, these to include $500 for house, $500 for cow and horse barns, $100 for porches and $400 for fencing. Land which may be pre-empted in Canada is called wild land and as much of this may be taken up as the homesteader desires providing all requirements of the government are met. Much of the Nasko valley land was covered by lakes and these were drained. The lake beds were found to be covered with sphagnum peat moss, beneath which are deposits of oil. The sphagnum moss is fibrous and some of the fibres are as long as three feet; the moss is used in this country for wrapping nursery stock. It is rich in lime and is fed to chickens. Under the moss of the former lake beds is found a layer of peat about six feet deep. It has not been found necessary to use the peat for fuel since the valley has a wealth of natural timber but it may be used in future years. From six to eight inches of graphite lie beneath the peat beds and under the graphite is oil. It has not been discovered how much oil is in the deposits since roads are such that it is impossible to bring in the necessary machinery.

Nearest Town 80 Miles. Quesnel is the nearest town to the little colony in the Nasko valley and is 80 miles away with the foothills of a mountain range between. The Nasko lies between the Cascade and Rocky mountain ranges. Trips to Quesnel are made about four times a year for staple supplies. The trip is long and arduous and Mrs. Robertson goes only once a year; three days are required to make the journey and it is necessary to take camping essentials. The Robertsons drive a team of horses and wagon to Quesnel for their supplies. Few of the people in the valley have cars; roads are too rough for anything but a heavy duty truck or light delivery machine. The distance to a trading post is so great that gasoline becomes a problem. The Robertsons have named their homestead "Three-Point ranch." There are three pointed mts on their land and at the base of these are warm springs making an ideal potato raising location. The seasons are almost too short in British Columbia for the raising of potatoes but the presence of the warm springs keeps the frost away from the Robertson's field and the vegetables grow to huge sizes. Potatoes are planted on Victoria day, which is May 24 and must be out of the ground by September 20.

More Hours of Daylight. Through the summer season there are three hours more of day- light in the evenings than in Nebraska. It is light until 11:30 in the evening and day breaks at 2:30 in the morning. Winter days are much shorter than here, darkness coming at 4 in the afternoon and light at about 8 in the morning. The Robertsons have successfully grown turnips, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower and peas on their land and these are sold to the Indians in the valley. The Indians are of the Coastal tribe but have been mixed with Chinese, the present day race bearing little resemblance to their forbears. They are a very poor class of people but are honest and a pleasant people with which to deal. All Indians of the valley are of the Catholic faith and have a traveling priest who visits them and holds mass about once in three months. Father Thomas is 85 years old and travels from one outpost to another in all kinds of weather. The Robertsons have five cows on their ranch and one team of horses and feel that they are only starting in this raw, new country. They have experimented with a number of crops, some thriving and others failing to grow. Wheat and oats are planted in the Nasko valley but are cut as they go into the milk stage and used for stock fodder. There is a great deal of wild hay and Mrs. Robertson says that on their own 320 acres, they could cut as much as 160 tons if there were any need for it. They sell some to the Indians and keep enough for the winter needs of their own animals. Roads are too poor to permit taking out produce but farmers in the valley are looking forward to the day when the government will begin improving the road system.

Country Is Beautiful. "It is a beautiful country," Mrs. Robertson declares. "In summer the wild flowers bloom everywhere. The Nasko river flows just a short distance from our home and any time of the day in the warm months I can look out of my cabin window and see deer and moose standing in the pools trying to keep away from the deer flies." The Nasko river is a crystal-clear stream, swift and deep and it abounds with mountain trout. The country is thick with natural timber, mostly pine, cottonwood, three kinds of willow, Balm of Gilead, which is a sister tree to the cottonwood and prized for the making of ointments. Mrs. Robertson's nearest woman neighbor lives three and a half miles down the valley. The valley people do not often get together. In summer all are busy with work on their ranches and winter days are so short and snow so heavy that little visiting is done. When asked if she wasn't very lonely Mrs. Robertson replied wistfully: "Oh, yes! Sometimes I get so lonely I talk to myself and to the dog and cats and any other animal around. We do a lot of reading, though, and magazines and books travel up and down the valley until they are worn out. I've read books and magazines new ten years ago and enjoyed them as much as the very latest editions."

Will Improve Ranch. Mrs. Robertson explained some of the improvements they expected to make on their ranch in future years when roads were improved enough to bring in machinery. There are five springs and a waterfall on the homestead and Mr. Robertson plans to use the power for electricity for the house and farm yards. The spring water will also be piped to the buildings. The Robertson home is a long cabin and a snapshot of it proves it to look just as a north wood's home should. The homesteaders never lack for fresh meat in the Nasko. The woods are full of moose and deer and the trout may be taken from the streams at any time. The only time the moose and deer are not killed is during the running season or breeding season, from October 15 until November 15. The only stipulation made by the government is that the wild game not be wasted. During the summer months very few of the wild animals are killed because of the difficulty of preserving meat. In the winter, deer meat is dried and smoked over smudge fires in a tepee.

Many Berries In Woods. There are many wild berries in the Nasko valley. Small honeysuckle strawberries are found in early summer. The Saskatoon is delicious if eaten raw but cooking destroys all flavor. The berry is dark blue in color and contains many tiny seeds. There is an abundance of raspberries and blueberries which make fine jams and jellies. The blueberries are of two different types, high and low bush, latter having a pronounced banana flavor. "And," added Mrs. Robertson, "wherever you find blueberries—you will find small black bear. I had quite an experience while bringing home our cows one afternoon. I was walking along with my dog when suddenly I heard a snort in the bushes beside me. I looked and there was a black bear. He was just a young one but I was frightened. The dog creed the bear and I was afraid to call him away and start home so I just stayed there with Joker until a neighbor happened along and shot the animal."

Three kinds of cranberries grow wild in the Canadian woods, the high bush, low bush and jackpine. The low bush berries are the same as the cranberries popular in the United States at Thanksgiving and Christmas time. The high bush berry is too tart for sauce but makes wonderful jelly. The jackpine berry is also used for jelly. Cranberries do not ripen until after the first frost.

The iron drawback to the Nasko summers is the presence of a small black fly which attacks both animals and humans. Wherever the fly bites, a lump appears under the skin. The fly seems to poison. Animals come to the farm buildings for protection when the flies become very bad. It is necessary to build a smudge fire to protect the animals from the vicious little insects.

Winter Is Severe. The winter of 1934 and 1935 was an abnormal one in the Nasko valley. The first heavy snow fell November 15 and was eight inches deep. On December 12 the thermometer went to 12 degrees below zero and on Christmas day registered 67 below. On New Year's day there were more inches of snow fell. Seven or no blizzards in the valley because of the protection from heavy timber and the mountains. There is very little wind, and snow never drifts. The continued cold puts a hard crust on the snow and makes snowshoeing ideal. Mr. Robertson does a great deal of trapping during the winter and gets many fine pelts of mink, weasel, coyote, lynx and fox.

Deer herd together both in winter and summer. One never sees moose herding together except during the mating season—the mother and calf are seen together until the calf is old enough to care for itself. Elk are often seen in the valley but they are seldom killed for meat because of the unpleasant wild taste.

The nearest school from the Robertson home is 35 miles away but there are only three white children in the valley. They are not yet of school age and the problem of school has not yet needed to be solved.

Mrs. Robertson is spending the winter here with her parents but expects to return to her valley home in the spring. "There is something about the country that pulls you," said Mrs. Robertson, "something that make you want to go back and I'll be ready to go home again."

NEW UCC 6% FINANCE PLAN

Any New Ford V-8 Car Can Now Be Purchased for $25 a Month with Usual low Down Payment

This $25-a-month time-payment plan enables you to buy a New Ford V-8 car through your Ford dealer on new low monthly terms.

After the usual low down-payment is made, $25 a month is all you have to pay for any type of new car, including insurance and financing.

Your cost for this extension of credit is only one-half of 1 per cent a month on your original unpaid balance and insurance. This plan reduces financing charges for twelve months to 6 per cent. For example, if you owe a balance of $400 for your car and insurance, you pay $24 for the year of credit; if the balance is $200 you pay $12. Your credit cost for one year is the original unpaid balance multiplied by 6 per cent.

UCC plans provide you with insurance protection at regular conference rates. You have not only fire and theft insurance, but $50 deductible collision and protection against other accidental physical damage to your car.

The Universal Credit Company has made these plans available through all Ford dealers in the United States.

While Attending the Pavilion Sale, Fill Your Car With Diamond Oil and D-X Gasoline — Our Station Is Convenient.

With loud snorts of alarm, two cow moose, a calf, and a young bull heaved up among the willows less than a dozen yards apart. They started to plunge forward out of the thicket. Garth's first shot dropped the calfless cow with a bullet through the head.

With the two skins and all the meat ashore, he took a dip in a clear pool and washed his buckskins. As he sloshed out of the willows in the wet garments, he saw Miss Ramill staring through her headnet at the eight big legs.

"Ah, indeed!" "Yes, I'll let old Mother Nature spank you till you come to your senses."

"Better save your energy," he advised. "You'll need it all, unless your pride stoops to the squaw work of camp-fire tending. Smoke drives off insects. For another thing, no wolf, wolverine or lynx, or even a grizzly will venture close to a fire. Think that over, Mr. Ramill, you have your patent lighter."

"I'm tired, boy—and hungry as a shark. Could eat all the rest of that liver."

"Not now. You'll need, so some work, and then get another skin. Call this valley one of those physical culture sanctuaries where the tired business man is worked and dieted back into condition."

Notice To Creditors. The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss. The Matter of the Estate of Adolph Pfisterer, Deceased.

Creditors of said estate are hereby notified, that I will act at the County Court Room in Wayne County, on the 31st day of January, 1936 and on the 1st day of May, 1936 at 10 o'clock A. Witness my hand and the seal of said County Court, this 9th day of January, 1936.

"Very well. Put me on them."

Obedient to directions, the big man stretched out flat upon the snow-covered moss. Garth turned about to pull the moosehide and what was upon it into the shade of a birch.
