SAYS MAINTAIN DUTY ON COCOANUT OIL

(By Congressman Karl Stefan)

A desperate attempt is being made at this time to open the gates of America to a flood of coconut oil, which I believe will ultimately work a hardship on farmers who produce butterfats, lard cottonseed oil, and other fats which go into the manufacture of any kind of soap. Members of Congress are being seized with all kinds of propaganda at this time to pass a bill eliminating 3 cents a pound duty on coconut oil. This bill was passed by Congress last year for the protection of the American producer against the foreign producers of oil. It is my belief that the coconut oil lobby is one of the most powerful in Washington today, and stretches propaganda around the globe like an octopus.

As a member of the Inland Affairs Committee and a guest of the Philippine Government at the inauguration of their new commonwealth, I found myself besieged with coconut oil propaganda from the day I left home to the time I arrived in Seattle and also while on board the steamer on the high seas. I found myself besieged with similar propaganda during the repeal of the coconut oil tax, on the ground that the tax was a discrimination against the people under our protection. I made a careful study of the copra and coconut oil industry in the Philippine Islands, and I also studied the sugar interest in those islands. Personal interviews with people who apparently had a personal interest in the industry indicated to me that a desperate attempt is being made during this session to wipe out the excise tax on Philippine coconut oil and no stone is being left unturned in this powerful lobby to see to it that this session of Congress wipes out this tax, during this session.

We were told in the Philippine Islands that if the excise tax on Philippine coconut oil is eliminated the Philippine coconut oil industry will adulterate the oil being shipped to the United States and make it unfit for edible purposes. I believe this statement is mere camouflage to allay the fears of Congressmen representing the dairy and farm regions.

Careful study during this trip to the far East leads me to believe that unless we as representatives of the American farmers do not protect our products, we shall find ourselves in practically the same position as some of our industrial eastern states find themselves in their futile efforts to compete against the importation of cheaply manufactured articles which are pouring into our country by boatload from Japan. If we eliminate the excise tax, we will have told these farmers who produce butterfat that they must compete with cheaply produced coconut oil from the Philippine Islands and eventually we will have the same condition at our doors as was seen a year ago when boatload after boatload of foreign butter came into our country to compete with butter produced on our farms. This is a warning to Congressmen representing farm districts especially the districts producing dairy products that they are facing one of the richest lobbies this country has ever seen, and whose propaganda is more complete and more determined than any other we have experienced in Washington. The propaganda is carried out in such a systematized manner, and with the help of the greatest corporations in this and other countries. This propaganda is being aided by great financiers and industrialists which even include the shipping interests of this and foreign nations. In my opinion this objective is the enslavement of farmers of America.

I plead with this committee to watch and guard the interests of American farmers in this gigantic scheme, to make the United States the dumping ground for foreign produced coconut oil. If ever America needs the protection in its efforts to keep up the American standard of living, it is now. Unless we begin in this battle against cheaply foreign imported produce, and fight it to a successful conclusion, the program for the maintenance of a real American standard of living for farmers and laboring men has been lost.

It must not be forgotten that four million farmers of the United States milk cows. It must not be forgotten that in 1935 the production of oleomargarine was probably the greatest in the history of our country, and that 42 percent of the products contained in that oleomargarine was and is coconut oil imported from abroad.

Recipes

Roast Spareribs with Apple Stuffing.

Select two sparerib sections that match. Have the breabone cracked so that it will be easy to carve between the ribs.

For the stuffing, fry one-fourth of a cup of diced salt pork or bacon until crisp. Chop an onion, a sprig of parsley, and 2 or 3 stalks of celery and cook in the fat for a few minutes. Then add 5 or 6 tart apples diced or sliced, and sprinkle with one-fourth to one-half of a cup of sugar. Cook until the apples are tender and somewhat candied. Then stir in 1 cup of bread crumbs and season to taste with salt.

Lay one section of the ribs out flat, flesh side down, and spread with the hot stuffing. Cover with the other section and sew the two together. Sprinkle the outside of the stuffed ribs with salt, pepper, and flour. Lay the stuffed ribs on a rack in a roasting pan. Do not add water and do not cover. Use a moderate oven temperature (about 350 degrees F.) from start to finish. Or, brown the roast in a hot oven (450 to 500 degrees) for 20 to 30 minutes, then lower the temperature to very moderate (about 300 degrees) for the finish. Cook until the meat is tender. This will probably require about one and one-half hours. Remove the strings from the roast before serving. Carve between the ribs.

Meat Turn-Overs.

Season chopped cooked or canned meat with onion and celery or parsley, moisten slightly with gravy, or broth, or tomatoes, or chili sauce, and add salt and pepper to taste. Make a rich biscuit dough, using about twice the usual amount of fat. Roll the dough out in rounds, on each round place some of the seasoned meat filling, and fold the edges of the dough together to make turn-overs. Bake in a hot oven (about 425 degrees F.).

Panned Cabbage and Corned Beef.

Heat 3 tablespoons of fat in a large pan, add 3 quarts of shredded cabbage, cover to keep in the steam, and cook for 10 to 15 minutes, stirring thoroughly. Add 1 pint of canned corned beef, separated into small pieces, and heat thoroughly. Season to taste with salt, pepper, and a little vinegar.

Borsch.

(Adapted from a Russian recipe)
2 cups minced raw beets
1-4 cup chopped onion
1-3 cup chopped cabbage
1 potato, chopped
1 turnip, chopped
1 carrot, chopped
2 tablespoons fat
2 quarts meat stock
Pepper
Salt
Sour cream (or 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice)
Brown the vegetables together in the fat. Add them to the stock and simmer until the vegetables are tender. If sour cream is used, add 1 tablespoonful to each serving. Otherwise add 1 tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice to the stock before serving.

Stuffed Peppers.

6 green or sweet red peppers
1 cup rice
A little fat
2-1-2 cups meat stock
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
Pepper and salt
1-4 pound cheese, flaked or grated
Cut off the stem ends of the peppers, remove the seeds, boil the pepper shells 5 minutes in lightly salted water and drain. Wash the rice, drain and dry. Brown in fat, add the meat, stock, cover, and cook until rice is tender. Add the onion, pepper and salt and cheese. Mix well. Fill the pepper shells, place in a pan with a little water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the stuffing is hot and the peppers are tender.

Mashed Sweetpotatoes with Salt Pork.

Bake the potatoes and mash them, season with hot milk and salt. Crisp small pieces of salt pork and beat them into the mashed sweetpotatoes. Brown in the oven. Instead of salt pork, use raisins, if desired, or currants, or nuts, and serve the potatoes on the half-shell. Use a little more salt and some fat in the potato if salt pork is not used.

Baked Carrots and Apples.

Scrape the carrots and split them if they are large. Pare and core the apples and place them in a baking pan. Fill the spaces with the carrots. Sprinkle with salt, a little sugar and spice, and add a little fat. Cover and bake until tender.

Onion Soup with Toast and Cheese.

6 medium-sized onions, chopped fine

2 tablespoons fat
2 pint boiling water
1 quart meat broth
4 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons cold water
Salt and pepper to taste
Toast
Cheese, finely grated
Cook the chopped onions in the fat until yellow, add the hot water, and simmer for 20 minutes, or until tender. Add the meat broth. Blend the flour and cold water, add some of the hot liquid, mix well, and stir into the soup. Add the salt and pepper, and cook for a few minutes. Pour the soup into bowls or soup plates, place on top of each slice of toasted bread, sprinkle the cheese over the bread and soup, and serve at once.

Fried Onions and Apples.

3 tablespoons fat
1 quart sliced tart apples
1 pint sliced onions
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
Melt the fat in a heavy skillet, add the apples and onions, cover, and stir frequently to prevent scorching. Remove the cover, sprinkle the salt and sugar over the apples on onions, and continue the cooking until they are lightly browned. Serve at once.

Scalloped Onions and Peanuts.

6 medium-sized onions
1 cup peanuts, ground (or 4 or 6 tablespoons peanut butter)
1 tablespoon melted butter or other fat
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup buttered bread crumbs
Skin the onions, cook in boiling salted water until tender, drain, and slice. Make a sauce of the fat, flour, milk and salt. In a greased baking dish place a layer of the onions, cover with the peanuts and sauce, and continue until all are used. Cover the top with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes, or until the crumbs are golden brown. Serve from the baking dish. If peanut butter is used, mix it with the sauce.

Molded Cranberry Salad.

1 qt. cranberries
2 c. water
2 c. sugar
1-2 c. finely chopped celery
1-2 c. broken nut meats
1-2 c. sliced stuffed olives
Place the cranberries and water in a sauce pan and boil 20 minutes. Remove from the stove, put thru a sieve or potato ricer to remove hulls. Then place the pulp on stove, add sugar and boil five or six minutes. Remove from fire and cool. Then add celery, olives and

Scalloped Salmon.

1 pound can salmon (2 cups)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1-2 cups milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter bread crumbs
Break the salmon into pieces and remove the bones. Prepare a sauce of the fat, flour, milk, and salt. Place a layer of the salmon in the bottom of a greased baking dish, add some of the sauce, then another layer of salmon, and so on until all the ingredients are used. Cover the top with the buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the sauce bubbles up and the crumbs are brown.

Cream of Tomato Soup.

2 cups tomatoes
2 slices onion
Few grains nutmeg (if desired)
3-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 cup flour
1-4 cup butter
2 cups milk
Simmer tomatoes and seasonings 15 minutes, covered. Strain. Thicken with flour and fat. Add the hot tomato mixture slowly to the cold milk (not the milk to the tomatoes) and heat to boiling point, stirring constantly. Do not use soda because that destroys the vitamin C of the tomatoes. Do not let the mixture boil. Serve immediately.

Liver Leaf.

1 lb sliced liver
2 T. shortening
1 T. chopped onion
1 c. chopped celery
1 T. chopped parsley
2 T. flour
1 c. tomatoes
2 t. salt
1 c. hoiled rice.
Remove membrane from liver, then wipe with damp cloth. Sprinkle slices with flour to which the salt has been added. Heat shortening in frying pan, add liver, cook three minutes on each side.

Returns From City.

Chris Nielsen who had an operation performed on his eye, was able to return from Sioux City hospital Sunday. He is doing nicely. Mrs. Nielsen was in the city with him.

Meat and Vegetable Soup.

Select a beef bone or knuckle of veal and have the bone cracked to get out all the good flavor and nutriment. Wash the bone and be careful to remove any small slivers. Put the bone in a large kettle, cover with water, and simmer for 2 to 3 hours, or until the meat is tender. In the meantime chop 3 or 4 onions and 3 or 4 stalks of celery and add to the broth. Also add a No. 2 can of tomatoes and 1 quart of diced vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, and potatoes. Simmer gently until the vegetables are tender, but not broken. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve the meat with the soup, either left on the bone or ground and add to the soup. Or save the meat to make hash or croquettes.

Bean or Pea Soup with Cured Pork.

Wash one-half pound of dried beans or peas and soak overnight in about 1 quart of water. Wash and scrape a ham hock, put into a kettle, and add water to cover. If the meat is very salty, change the water several times. Simmer until the meat is tender. If convenient, allow the hock to cool in the pot liquor. Skim off the fat.

Best Pictures of 1935.

From an annual poll conducted by Film Daily among the leading critics of the country, the best thirty pictures of the past year, 1935, were as follows: David Copperfield, The Lives of a Bengal Lancer, The Informer, Naughty Marietta, Les Miserables, Ruggles of Red Gap, Top Hat, Broadway Melody, Roberta, Anna Karenina, Alice Adams, The Dark Angel, Imitation of Life, The Scarlet Pimpernel, Sequoia, Broadway Bill, G-Men, China Seas, Escape Me Never, The Scoundrel, Oil For Lamps of China, Becky Sharp, Cardinal Richelieu, The Crusades, Black Fury, Private Worlds, Diamond Jim, The Little Minister, Clive of India, and Steamboat Round the Bend.

The point of interest especially to the management of the Gay and Crystal theatres is that out of the best thirty pictures, we have actually played twenty of these pictures and with four more scheduled to play, making twentyfour out of the thirty best pictures for the past year 1935.

The year 1936 looks just as bright although occasionally we get into a slump where the pictures are not quite up to standard. The holiday slump we believe is over, with the following pictures definitely scheduled for February and March: Magnificent Obsession starring Irene Dunne, Spendor

Hoover FORMER President Hoover proved himself capable of mingling wit with wisdom in his speech at Lincoln last Thursday night and as leader of opposition to New Deal fallacies he won enthusiastic approval. Devoting his talk mainly to problems of agriculture, he said he would change an "economy of scarcity to an economy of plenty." He would have the farmer use his own skill and judgment. To aid agriculture he would restore home markets and increase consumption of food by the restoration of employment. He would retire submarginal acres and retard reclamation projects. He would encourage cooperative marketing and further improve credit machinery.

In passing, Mr. Hoover was pleased to note the New Deal admission that the war rather than his own administration had caused the depression.

From a fund of experience, Mr. Hoover offered these concluding remarks: "In conclusion may I offer a word of personal emotion. It lies far beyond the land of economics. It has spent years in public service in many countries during this most fateful period of human history. I saw as few men the backwash of war upon the common man of these countries. I saw at first hand revolution creeping in under promises of relief and the agonies of war destruction. I have seen the insidious destruction of liberty by propaganda. I have seen suffering humanity sacrifice that liberty, the greatest of all human achievements, for an illusion of security. The farmers of Russia supported the Bolsheviks against the new-born democracy on the promise of the land. Today, they have the choice of Siberia or the collectivized farms. I have seen freedom, the most priceless heritage, torn from children that this generation might escape its responsibilities. I wish to say to you unhesitatingly that our country has been following step by step the road through which these millions of people in foreign countries lost their liberties. Our farmers have had the blessing of individual liberty in greater fullness in their lives than any other part of even our own people. It was the farmers who fired the first shot at Lexington. It must be the farmers of America who defend that heritage. I ask you to stop, look, and listen."

Hogs and Cattle THE Omaha Journal-Stockman notes a decline in cattle prices and a stiffening of the hog market since the supreme court's invalidation of the AAA and elimination of the processing tax. It is presumed a considerable shifting from beef to pork consumption has influenced prices. The Journal-Stockman concludes: "Obviously, then, here is corroboration for the complaints hog producers made a year or two ago that cattle feeders were getting more benefit from the hog processing tax and control program than hog growers themselves. It also shows up the weakness of attempting to regulate production of one crop, or group of crops, without eventually attempting to control all competing commodities not only in our own country but in the entire world. Disagreement among our own agricultural interests over plans for a future national farm program, indicates how little chance of success any attempts at world control would have."

Rule of Reason WITH the approach of the most momentous presidential campaign in the history of the country, people are urged to keep their feet on the ground and be influenced by reason rather than by emotions.

"It is a time, as I see it," said Walter Lippmann, "when the moderate men in both parties must assert themselves against the immoderate men, the angry, excited, opinionated, cocksure men, against the fanatics and the windbags, the daredevils and the clowns, the propagandists and the lobbyists, the publicity seekers and all those who like to fish in troubled waters. In its economic life the country is steadily recovering its balance, its confidence, its courage and its initiative. It has a right, not only a right, it has a great need to insist that its public men shall not lose their heads and get into a purely political mess."

Inflation Dangers ROGER W. Babson, economist, says that inflation is almost necessary to put the country in shape for prosperity, but that it must be controlled and kept aloof from printing-press money to avoid dangers. He says the question of whether government is to continue its spending spree or return to a sound financial basis concerns the public more than any other issue that can be put into any political platform. He concludes that "next November the question of sound federal credit will be placed squarely before the voters of the nation. Their answer will show whether something-or-nothingism has or has not gained the upper hand in the United States."

Editor J. G. Alden of the York Republican presents Arthur W. Thompson, well known livestock auctioneer, as a candidate for United States senator. He is recommended as a man eminently qualified to make a real representative of agriculture. He is not a politician, but he is a student of economic conditions, and he knows farm problems from A to Z. He knows the practical side of farming, and he would come nearer leading the way to legislation giving practical support to our basic industry than any coterie of parlor theorists. Those who know Mr. Thompson—and he is known almost everywhere as a master of the sales ring—will agree with Mr. Alden and second his motion.

Clearing the downtown district of snow is a relief to travelers on foot or in cars, and serves convenience in parking. With snow banks compelling cars to park every way but the right way, fewer can be accommodated. If snow falls at intervals consistent with a normal winter, piling one layer on another, keeping the business section free from snow will be a signal help to trade. Incidentally, snow shoveling gives a measure of employment.

The passage of the bonus bill with assurance of enough strength to carry it over a presidential veto, will be generally approved at this time especially in view of extravagant expenditures for less deserving purposes. Paying soldiers is an obligation in contrast with many payments that represent neither debts nor needs.

A recent national poll showed only 3.8 per cent in favor of the Townsend old-age pension plan, although 89 per cent favored some sort of plan. Most of those who express belief in providing protection for old age, cannot accept the utterly impractical Townsend extravagance.

GIFTS.
One cannot accept gifts without forfeiting a measure of liberty and a good deal of pride. A recipient of donations has an aversion even for the one who does the donating, because of a feeling that he should not have been able to earn or save enough to pass around gratuitously. The American spirit ever asserts its independence. Even unavoidable misfortune makes one shrink from acknowledging the need of help. All men feel that they are on an equal footing with equal rights and equal earning capacities, and they do not relish the idea that they cannot master even extraordinary ills and come out on top. One would prefer to have less and live without style and know that he is paddling his own canoe. Pride in independence and confidence in self are nowhere so largely developed or so firmly fixed as they are in America, and if lovers of democracy have their way, these outstanding American qualities will forever continue as stimulating influences.

SNOW
The campaign will consistently see division over past and threatened administration performances rather than over party lines. Sharply drawn differences over national issues do not mean nor justify ugliness in local elections. The trend of the national government—the preservation of democratic ideals—will engross major attention.

STRAW VOTES.
The American Institute of Public Opinion whose poll of sentiment touching the Roosevelt administration has been in progress, makes a more favorable showing for the central government than the more extensive Literary Digest canvass. Latest report by the American Institute of Public Opinion showed that Roosevelt had regained some of the popular strength lost according to the December report, though the gain comes from states where it is least needed. This poll shows Roosevelt leading in 31 states. On the other hand, the Digest's poll shows that thirty-six states are against the New Deal and twelve are for it. Of 1,907,881 voting so far, 1,195,313 vote "no" and 712,368 vote "yes." The poll shows, as explained by the Digest, "37.34 percent voting in favor of the New Deal acts and policies and 62.66 percent opposing them, as compared with 61.5 per cent majority for the New Deal in the Digest poll of 1934." To keep up courage, New Dealers have a more cordial respect for the straw ballot sponsored by the American Institute of Public Opinion. And the less favorable poll will have a salutary influence on New Deal opponents who will thus not become over-confident and lie down in the harness.

Why Business Hesitates.

The Omaha Journal-Stockman says business analysts are all at sea because they have no way to measure the effect of government spending. It is certain, one of them says, that these expenditures, financed in great part by an expansion of bank credit and therefore adding to current purchasing power at the expense of the future, "are giving business very important support."

But at the same time "nothing is more certain than that business cannot indefinitely be supported by the expenditure of billions in excess of receipts, for such 'prosperity' would end in wholesale bankruptcy and disaster. There can be no genuine recovery except as business recovers the ability to support itself." It is believed that improvement would survive even if the pump-priming operation were checked, because this would undoubtedly stimulate private spending to take its place.

"The great element of uncertainty in the economic situation today, and the chief obstacle to complete business confidence, is the doubt as to the final outcome of its pump-priming experiment. Relief for these fears in all likelihood would bring a resurgence of private activity in the capital goods industries, where recovery is most needed."

Markets Cattle In City.
Oscar Hoeman marketed two cars of cattle in Chicago this week. He and J. H. Brugger left Saturday evening with the stock and arrived home Wednesday.

Prices Arg Fixed By Consumers.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: Many otherwise intelligent and well-posted people still hold the belief that the packer fixes prices of live stock as well as of meat. The packers would undoubtedly like to have this power but as a cold matter of fact, the packer is merely an intermediary in the process of converting live stock into meat. It is the consumer who has most to say in the matter.

In his annual report to shareholders, R. H. Cabell, president of Armour and Company, calls attention to the fact that in the meat packing business the consumer plays a vitally important role in the establishment of prices. After touching on the decreased volume of live stock supplies in 1935 and analyzing the reasons for the shortage of hogs and pork, Mr. Cabell said:

"As was to have been expected, the advance in meat prices met considerable consumer resistance. This was evidenced by boycotts in various communities which affected sale to such an extent that there were times when it was difficult to sell even the short supply currently available. The situation demonstrated clearly that the meat prices rest with the consuming public and that the meat trade has no power on its own account either to raise or lower prices arbitrarily.

"In considering the apparent spread between live stock prices and meat prices, it must be remembered that a steer is not all steak and a hog is not all ham. Under ideally efficient operations wholesale meat prices have to be substantially higher per pound than live stock prices because only a little more than half of the live animal's meat. The actual margins and the actual profits of the meat business are very small compared to the margins and profits of other large industries."

During the last few years consumers demonstrated their power over food prices on so many occasions that packers and other food processors have learned the folly and expense of trying to run counter to popular demand. It simply cannot be done.

Such good satisfaction that we discarded our 35c and 40c patterns entirely.

Another attractive Clearanceville Special — LADIES' SILK BLOUSES at $1.88 — Brown, wine, ivory, black — lovely and new style — all new this Fall.

These CURTAINS marked 48c for Clearance are real buys. Both cottage and long ruffled styles to choose from.

CONGRESS As Seen by a Nebraskan

Members of Congress who come from farm states are viewing with alarm the avalanche of foreign butter coming to our ports. The first shipment to arrive was 4,500 boxes from Argentina. In February there will be 4,500 cases from Northern European countries and 46,007 boxes from New Zealand. Because of this, and a new Canadian reciprocity treaty which went into effect January 1st, Congressmen have started to hold hearings to fight against the importation of these foreign-produced farm products. They feel that it doesn't make common sense to open gates of the United States to foreign produce when this country is planning a restricted domestic farm program. Because of these fears, these Congressmen today introduced in the House of Representatives a resolution urging the stoppage of these imports, especially on dairy products. The Wisconsin Progressives took a lead in this work and were quickly joined by Congressmen from other states. A bill held next Monday morning to push this resolution through the House. Some members stated that they have information to the effect that New Zealand butter is not only becoming a menace to the producers of the United States but also to England and Canada. The New Zealanders can ship their butter 9,000 miles to London and deliver it for thirteen or fourteen cents cheaper than the average cost. If England and Canada do not want foreign-produced butter to compete with the farmers who milk cows in their own land, should we let it come to the United States to compete with the butter of American farmers?

Sunshine Club Meets. Sunshine club met last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Harry Kay. Mrs. Harry Kinder was assisting hostess. Mrs. George Hoguewood was in charge of the lesson. At the business meeting officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Ivo Reed, president; Mrs. John Bush, vice president.

Canadian farmers and cattlemen are taking advantage of the new reciprocal treaty by shipping trainloads of fattened cattle into America. Under this new treaty, the duty on cows weighing seven hundred pounds or more is reduced from three to two cents a pound, and some of the congressional representatives calling the districts don't seem to like this. There are all kinds of farm organizations in this town today. Some represent wheat, sugar beets, cotton, corn, hogs, peanuts, and infact everything that is grown on land. They are making the round of the various congressional offices and telling members of Congress the troubles their particular farmers are up against. Most of these farm representatives agree that the tariff was made for collecting revenue and later protection of farm produce against incoming foreign grown products. The majority of these farm representatives agree that products of American industry are given considerable protection, and that the time has come when the products of the American farmer should be given as much protection as the American manufacturers who, after all, must depend on the farmer for their eventual success. Before this session is over, there will be at least two or three independent committees working toward curbing some of these foreign farm commodities.

Joe Tisthammer, son of Arney Tisthammer, farmer living near Madison, called at the office today. Joe came here last November and is working in the government printing office. Joe remarks that he went into a butcher shop the other day where they charged fifty cents a pound for pork and wonders what the folks at home would think if they had to pay that. He figures about the best place in the world is down on the Tisthammer farm near Madison. Joe is only 19 years old and these boys who work in Washington and do not meet folks from home very often get a little homesore for mother's good cooking and the good old farm atmosphere.

Dr. Dienst In Response.

Dr. Charles F. Dienst, superintendent of the Wayne high school, gave the response to Mr. Brittain's speech: "It is a real joy to connect the dedication of this building with the birthday of Benjamin Franklin," he said.

Dr. Dienst stated that his all-school assembly request for the dedication services of the auditorium had borne fruit—attendance had not been so good in weeks as it was Friday morning following daily check-up. The school did double duty that day, the occasion being the last day of the second semester and the key day of thrift week.

"We need to have the spirit of the pioneers," said Dr. Dienst, "and the courage to accomplish the tasks which need to be done. We want to keep the auditorium in such a way through the years that guests of the city will take home with them a memory of the beautiful building and of the people whose community home it is."

"We must take a pledge to ourselves and to the city fathers," he concluded, "that we will keep the building as nearly like it is now as is humanly possible. It is now up to us to carry on."

Leads Athenian Pledge.

Coach Robert Gibb of the Wayne high school led the student body in the Athenian pledge of loyalty. The pledge is the one taken on by every Athenian youth on reaching maturity.

or cowardice, nor ever desert our suffering comrades in the ranks.

"We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both singly and together. We will serve and obey the city's laws, and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in those above us who are prone to annul or set them at naught."

"We will strive unceasingly, to quicken the public sense of civic duties. Thus in all these ways we will transmit this city, not only less, but greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

The third grade rhythm band from the Wayne public school, under direction of Miss Hazel Reeve, gave star performance. The children wore costumes of red capes, white hats and blue skirts or trousers, and played instruments with grace and vivacity.

"Jolly Coppersmith" and "Glow Worm" were selections for the rhythm group. Lynelle Shuck tap danced as a feature of the band performance. Delmar Dean Davis gave drum major.

Give Sketch of Franklin.

Beverly Canning gave a short sketch of the life of Benjamin Franklin in introduction of a dramatization in which parts were taken by the following: Benjamin Franklin, Billy Hawkins; James Franklin, a brother, Wilmar Ellis; a doctor, Wesley Jacobsen; Deborah, Benjamin's fiancée, Beverly Strahan; Mr. Reed, owner of the print shop, Lyle Seymour; clergyman, Wilmar Ellis. Stage setting for the play was a printing shop in Philadelphia.

Morning program was concluded with the singing of America.

Noonday Dinner Served.

A dinner was given at Hotel Stratton at noon with members of the city council, city officials, E. W. Huse, J. J. Ahern, J. G. Davidson, T. S. Hook, George Grabe and W. E. Leavitt as guests.

Afternoon Program At 2.

The Wayne State Teachers College band under direction of Prof. J. R. Keith opened the afternoon program. Selections played by the college woodwind ensemble, Rev. William Kearns again gave the invocation.

T. S. Hook acted as master of ceremonies and introduced members of the city council, City Clerk W. S. Bressler, City Treasurer, A. T. Cavanaugh, Mayor M. L. Ringer and City Attorney James Brittain. Others introduced by Mr. Hook were: George Grabe, architect; W. E. Leavitt, P. W. A. auditor, and Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, representing the Wayne Women's club.

Mrs. Lutgen gave the "Community House History," stating that every enterprise, completed, represented the culmination of some ideal. The Women's club had long felt the need of a community home and its desire was the seed of the present building. The club was backed by all other organizations in Wayne.

Tells Club History.

In 1919, following the signing of the armistice, Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis attended a meeting of federated clubs in Lincoln and returned to Wayne to bring back home the idea of an open-door club for the town. At the first meeting 100 women attended and about 30 signed for the new club. The first officers of the club were: President, Mrs. Lewis; vice president, Mrs. J. G. Miller; secretary, Mrs. Deville; chairman, Miss Rachel Fairchild, Mrs. I. H. Hahn and Mrs. C. A. Chace. Wayne women who have held the presidency in the club since 1919 and who have been instrumental in the raising of funds for the building of a community home are: Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. E. W. Huse, Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh, Mrs. C. Shulteis and Mrs. E. E. Gaily. Mrs. Huse served in the presidency for eight years.

The group of women, immediately after organization, began looking for a building where meetings might be held and discovered that the opera house was for sale. The sum of $4,500 was paid by the club for the building; contributions came readily from men's and women's organizations in Wayne. Miss Frances Oman held an afternoon musical and tea and realized $80 which was turned over to the club. Mrs. Henry Ley was instrumental in obtaining a sum of $500 which had been intended for a swimming pool project. Money was also realized from a cook book published by the club. In less than nine months after the purchase of the opera house, $2,200 had been paid on the investment. During the presidency of Mrs. Huse, all indebtedness was paid off by the club members.

The building was a great expense to the club owing to its age and to the public uses to which it was put. Paving tax was high. Repairs on the building were constant and in 1930 the building was sold to Miller and Stirtz. The Women's club had the sum of $6,500 on hand at that time. An investigation was made of the federal government building projects and the women decided to offer $6,000 to the city in exchange for a club home. The offer was accepted and resulted in the present building.

Architect Gives Plans.

George Grabe of Fremont, architect for the building, told something of the work of planning to the new, "new" City Hall. His knowledge of the project was in July, 1923 and his bid submitted about the same time. First plans were made for the lot on which the postoffice now stands. It was believed that the two lots in question were very similar, but after surveying the present location it was discovered that the rear of the lot was four feet lower than the front. Plans had to be changed to suit the new location.

"It is an honest building," said Mr. Grabe. "Everything is in plain sight."

A committee named to investigate other enterprises in the state visited a great many buildings and found one which suited them because of its plain which made every seat in the feature sight of the floor. With the exception of the furnace room directly below the stage, there is no basement in the building. There are no steps leading to the building, eliminating the danger of panic in case of fire. The furnace room directly below the stage is heated air into the auditorium, through two registers in the front of the room. A new acoustic feature is the insulating board on the ceiling. The board is soft and absorbs sound and echoes. The total cost of the building and contents, Mr. Grabe stated, was approximately $72,000, 70 percent voted by the city of Wayne, and the remainder furnished by the federal government.

"Mr. Beckenhauer has done a wonderful job in the construction of the building," said Mr. Grabe. "The perfect building remains to be built, but your building is as nearly so as present knowledge can make it. I am proud to have been the architect. On behalf of myself and of Mr. Beckenhauer who is unable to be present, I turn the building over to the mayor and to the city of Wayne."

Mayor Accepts Building.

The mayor responded by thanking all who assisted members of the city council in their task and made formal acceptance of the auditorium.

Rev. M. C. Powers, speaking for the ministerial association of Wayne, stated that the new auditorium was the second in which he had participated at dedicatory services, the first being at Lake City, Iowa.

Rev. Powers said: "The dedication service for a new building brings a joy and a challenge to every citizen—to adults, to grown children and to the very young. The early dedicatory services were of a religious nature and buildings were consecrated to service. Private homes were dedicated to the service of the Almighty and the lives of little children were dedicated to Right and Truth."

"This beautiful building is a monument to the better interests of the community and to the generations yet unborn. There is a close relationship between the economic, the religious, the educational and the social standpoints of a community and a divine purpose in weaving the four together. The community now has a challenge for united effort and it is within the power of Wayne to set ideals for the using the building for the better things of life."

The spirit of cooperation is needed to make a community ideal. A centralized community home will make for a stronger city. There will be a need of sacrifice and a spirit of give and take and citizenship will be improved if projects are carried through in many and womanly ways. There must be square dealing on the part of all to dedicate a building to the noble purposes of American Citizenship."

City Attorney Speaks.

Following the address of Rev. Powers, James Brittain, city attorney, spoke on the "Cultural Possibilities of a Community Buildings." Mr. Brittain's talk will be found elsewhere in the Wayne Herald.

Hon. Edgar Howard, O. C. Beckenhauer, contractor, and J. D. Evans, P. W. A. inspector, scheduled to appear on the Friday afternoon program were unable to be present because of inclement weather.

A reception and open house at which members of the city council were hosts, closed the afternoon evening.

Evening Program Given.

In the evening a concert was given by the Wayne Municipal band, under direction of Prof. F. C. Reed.

Rev. Faye Charles Mills conducted an amateur hour with the following numbers: Collette trio composed of Miss Frances Kiker, Miss Harriet Lamson and Miss Jeanne Wright, Miss Marion Seymour, accompaning; Lynelle Shuck, tap dancing; K. M. C. College music organization; Allan Spittler, rope twirling act; episodes from the life of Benjamin Franklin, junior high students of the Wayne city school; Mrs. Don Springer, vocal solo; Kathryn Greenlit, whistling solo; International Relations club of the college, dramatization of the conquering of War by Peace.

The evening program was concluded with concert numbers by the city band.

The city wishes to thank Dr. Hall of Wayne Greenhouse & Nursery, Geo. Grabe of Fremont, and Rock Hill, Leavitt & Co. of Sioux City, for flowers furnished for the opening. Appreciation is also expressed to all helping in the programs.

J. E. BRITAIN IN ADDRESS

Wayne City Attorney Speaks On Friday At Dedication.

Speech by Jas. E. Britain, city attorney, at city auditorium Friday: Cultural Possibilities of the City Auditorium.

You will note from the title of the subject which has been assigned to me, that I am to speak to you upon such an elusive topic as culture. Before I attempt to say anything about such an imponderable thing let me make a few remarks about the more prosaic topic of city finance. You may have heard the story about the preacher in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." He was an itinerant evangelist and was addressing a group of Union soldiers during the Civil War. The snow was on the ground and the soldiers were not very well housed or clothed, and many of them were suffering from chilblains. The preacher, after attempting to gain their attention for sometime without success, finally said, "Now all you fellows that are suffering from chilblains, I have a good remedy for it. You must get some soft soap and melt it up and pour it in your boots and wear them for 2 or 3 days and next Sunday when I come back here, you will be in better condition to listen to me when I try to tell you how to save your souls."

By nature of things all communities and societies are required to first prepare firm economic foundations before any degree of culture may come to them. You might liken the economic basis to the roots, and the higher values such as art, philosophy and religion to the flower which only comes to the plant after it is firmly rooted in the soil and has grown a strong body. That is the reason why the preacher told the soldiers that it was no use for him to try to make them think of their souls until their foundation of physical health was well established and there is not much use in trying to talk about culture in any community where the firm foundations of financial soundness are not established.

You are not unaware that voices are occasionally heard to say that the building of this auditorium was a mistake; that it will prove to be a white elephant in the hands of the city and that in view of the condition of the city's indebtedness it should never have been undertaken. Let us examine these complaints.

When I returned to Wayne to live in 1923, the bonded indebtedness of this city was more than 800 thousand dollars. This debt was practically all represented by bonds which had been issued to pay for a rather extensive paving program which had been undertaken a few years before. The assessed valuation of the city was then in the neighborhood of two and one-half million dollars. The municipal light plant at that time was housed in an old brick building. Electricity was generated by steam engines at a high cost and the electric light rates were quite high. Times were fairly good and tax collections were regular and the city was making the interest (Continued on page six)

Wayne People Hear Herbert Hoover Talk

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Theobald, Dr. and Mrs. G. J. Hess, and Mrs. O. W. Hahn went to Lincoln last Thursday to hear the speech given by Herbert Hoover at the University of Nebraska coliseum.

The Wayne people were impressed with the exceptionally high type of the crowd as a whole; during Mr. Hoover's speech there were moments when one could almost hear a pin drop—at other times one could feel the air pulsate in response to the appeal of the ex-president's voice. A member of the University of Nebraska faculty was overheard by one of the Wayne party commenting on the difference in the reception Mr. Hoover had in Lincoln, compared with what he might have had a year ago.

The crowd seemed to be with Mr. Hoover in all his statements. The former president was in superb health except for a slight throat disorder which made his speaking voice slightly husky at times. The sincerity of the speaker made a great appeal to the 9,500 in attendance at the coliseum. The Wayne people noted many enthusiastic young folks in the audience.

People who heard Mr. Hoover's talk by radio were puzzled by a rhythmic beat which was of course, inaudible to listeners at the coliseum. The beat was made by the hand of the speaker in stressing a certain phrase by gestures his hands passed to come in contact with the table placed before him. Mr. Hoover seemed to be thoroughly enjoying the snowstorm and spoke of it in connection with his early childhood days in Iowa "when snow covered fences and it was necessary to tunnel a path to the wood house." Mr. Hoover spoke of childhood days as being the "most dependable days of life."

The banquet preceding the program was attended by 500, and the Wayne folks were among those who met Hoover personally at the Lincoln hotel after his address.

MR. AND MRS. G. G. HALLER OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING

Come To Nebraska From Illinois Home Month Before Blizzard of 1888.

A QUART ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Haller quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary Monday, January 20, at their home at 1222 Pearl street, in Wayne.

The Hallers distinctly remember the cold of that day fifty years ago when they rode four miles in a bob-sled to be married by the village minister.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Haller are healthy and attribute it to their regular daily habits of plenty of good food and sound sleep.

The general policy of closing up gaps in main routes and of improving connections to traffic centers is being carried out, Mr. Tilley stated.

The officials favored the same wage scale used a year ago, this being as follows: Single man per hour, 25 cents; man with team, 40 cents; extra horses, 7-12 cents per hour; dragging per mile, 8-foot drag, 40 cents; 9-foot, 45 cents; 10-foot, 50 cents; 12-foot, 60 cents; tractor and grader man per hour, 40 cents; motor patrolmen, 35 cents; bridge foreman, 40 cents; bridge laborers, 25 cents.

Next meeting will be in Norfolk in June.

Countries represented were: Boone, Boyd, Burr, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Holt, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston and Wayne.

Women's Lot Is Hard In Some Other Countries
"The present is a most unusual time in the history of the world and no one can predict the outcome. Never were nations talking more about peace and yet preparing more for war." So began Miss Anna Jennings of Kearney, state chairman of international relations, Saturday evening when addressing Wayne chapter of A. U. W. at home of Mrs. G. W. Gasterman and Miss Beulah Rundie.

Miss Jennings, who has been in library work 32 years and traveled extensively, traveled the past summer in Russia. A few years ago she spent six months in a round-the-world trip.

"Women's condition present, an accurate picture of the country," stated Miss Jennings. In Japan Miss Jennings saw women working in labor. Cooling of the boats in left to women. She watched about 40 women place a rope ladder from a coal lug boat to a large ship and hand baskets of coal up from one to another for a whole half day. Many of the women carried their babies strapped to their backs while at this task.

In China Miss Jennings noted the great difference between upper and lower classes of women. The peasants work in fields and pick up every scrap of food or fuel. She felt that these people were fortunate though in that they do not have to have bound feet as do women of the upper classes. At her request Miss Jennings was shown a bound foot of an upper class woman. When young the large toe was bent beneath the foot and the other toes forced back over this toe, making the foot the most mishapen piece of flesh possible. The foot is then bound in yards of cloth and this cloth binding makes it possible for the person to walk. The old idea is that a girl cannot be married unless she is beautiful and she must have small feet to be beautiful. They walk like sticks, Miss Jennings commented. The custom is as prevalent there as formerly. Women do not know how to use their freedom which they are gradually gaining as men in China do all the cooking, sewing, etc.

Women in India present the most pitiful sights, Miss Jennings noted. Whites and colored people have intermarried and the offspring are cast out by both groups. The people are devout and such revolting things are done in the name of religion. The child marriages and child widows are cruel ideas. Marriage bargains are made for little children. If the husband dies, even before the children grow up, the girl widow is required, as the church widows are, to go to the church each day and pray because she is declared responsible for her husband's death. These widowed children and women wear white robes, and are denied all jewelry, the delight of Indian women. They wait all day and grain is partitioned out to each person each day for their food. Women do the hard work in India also, Miss Jennings noted.

One large building visited was built of stones which women had brought on their backs up hill more than a mile. They carry fertilizer in hampers about the size of bushel baskets. They seldom live to be over 50 years. India is crowded with millions who live in such poverty and filth that it is pitiful. And a teacher told Miss Jennings that conditions are improved wonderfully over what they were 10 years ago.

India is afraid to lose England's protective hand as Japan threatens the orient. The trouble between Italy and Ethiopia is not nearly so grave as the Japanese threat in the orient, Miss Jennings stated in quoting a Chicago writer. The threat is unmitigating China better than ever before.

One thing she is living in Bible times to visit Egypt and Palestine. Miss Jennings stated. People look about as they are described and their habits conform to Bible days. Women still go to the well with their jars for water. They also weave rugs and the best workers earn 50c to 75c in a long day. The Jews are not farmers, a Jewess told Miss Jennings, and the movement to bring them back to Palestine will not attract the ones in this country. Russia proposes to set aside territory in eastern Russia for the Jews from that country and Germany, making a buffer state between Russia and the far east.

Since Turkey has become westernized women seldom wear the veils which always covered their faces. A college which Miss Jennings visited in Turkey has the most gorgeous hangings, rugs and art work ever seen. But amid this the teachers are not allowed to teach the Bible. They do, however, live the teachings of the Bible and the young Turks absorb some of the lessons in this manner.

Women of Russia are closely guarded against hearing about the United States or other countries. Miss Jennings learned one woman who married a Russian in this country and later returned to Russia told Miss Jennings she would give anything to be able to come back home. Women's Lot Is Hard In Some Other Countries
"The present is a most unusual time in the history of the world and no one can predict the outcome. Never were nations talking more about peace and yet preparing more for war." So began Miss Anna Jennings of Kearney, state chairman of international relations, Saturday evening when addressing Wayne chapter of A. U. W. at home of Mrs. G. W. Gasterman and Miss Beulah Rundie.

Miss Jennings, who has been in library work 32 years and traveled extensively, traveled the past summer in Russia. A few years ago she spent six months in a round-the-world trip.

"Women's condition present, an accurate picture of the country," stated Miss Jennings. In Japan Miss Jennings saw women working in labor. Cooling of the boats in left to women. She watched about 40 women place a rope ladder from a coal lug boat to a large ship and hand baskets of coal up from one to another for a whole half day. Many of the women carried their babies strapped to their backs while at this task.

In China Miss Jennings noted the great difference between upper and lower classes of women. The peasants work in fields and pick up every scrap of food or fuel. She felt that these people were fortunate though in that they do not have to have bound feet as do women of the upper classes. At her request Miss Jennings was shown a bound foot of an upper class woman. When young the large toe was bent beneath the foot and the other toes forced back over this toe, making the foot the most mishapen piece of flesh possible. The foot is then bound in yards of cloth and this cloth binding makes it possible for the person to walk. The old idea is that a girl cannot be married unless she is beautiful and she must have small feet to be beautiful. They walk like sticks, Miss Jennings commented. The custom is as prevalent there as formerly. Women do not know how to use their freedom which they are gradually gaining as men in China do all the cooking, sewing, etc.

Women in India present the most pitiful sights, Miss Jennings noted. Whites and colored people have intermarried and the offspring are cast out by both groups. The people are devout and such revolting things are done in the name of religion. The child marriages and child widows are cruel ideas. Marriage bargains are made for little children. If the husband dies, even before the children grow up, the girl widow is required, as the church widows are, to go to the church each day and pray because she is declared responsible for her husband's death. These widowed children and women wear white robes, and are denied all jewelry, the delight of Indian women. They wait all day and grain is partitioned out to each person each day for their food. Women do the hard work in India also, Miss Jennings noted.

One large building visited was built of stones which women had brought on their backs up hill more than a mile. They carry fertilizer in hampers about the size of bushel baskets. They seldom live to be over 50 years. India is crowded with millions who live in such poverty and filth that it is pitiful. And a teacher told Miss Jennings that conditions are improved wonderfully over what they were 10 years ago.

India is afraid to lose England's protective hand as Japan threatens the orient. The trouble between Italy and Ethiopia is not nearly so grave as the Japanese threat in the orient, Miss Jennings stated in quoting a Chicago writer. The threat is unmitigating China better than ever before.

One thing she is living in Bible times to visit Egypt and Palestine. Miss Jennings stated. People look about as they are described and their habits conform to Bible days. Women still go to the well with their jars for water. They also weave rugs and the best workers earn 50c to 75c in a long day. The Jews are not farmers, a Jewess told Miss Jennings, and the movement to bring them back to Palestine will not attract the ones in this country. Russia proposes to set aside territory in eastern Russia for the Jews from that country and Germany, making a buffer state between Russia and the far east.

Since Turkey has become westernized women seldom wear the veils which always covered their faces. A college which Miss Jennings visited in Turkey has the most gorgeous hangings, rugs and art work ever seen. But amid this the teachers are not allowed to teach the Bible. They do, however, live the teachings of the Bible and the young Turks absorb some of the lessons in this manner.

Women of Russia are closely guarded against hearing about the United States or other countries. Miss Jennings learned one woman who married a Russian in this country and later returned to Russia told Miss Jennings she would give anything to be able to come back home. Life is so hard, and that is so hard. Women are said to be equal to men physically and mentally but they are not regarded as equals mentally. Physically they are equals and do much of heavy work. Miss Jennings was told that 40 percent of the heavy workers, 35 percent of the judges, 15 percent of the lawyers and 71 percent of the doctors are women. The country has five million more women than men. They can be judged as fine animals. They are not pretty but strong. They work hard, have headed in carrying lumber, in mixing and carrying concrete, etc. As Will Rogers stated, "There is equality but the women have to like a shovel and pick and to dig it out." The women carry water for the farms and lay the railroad tracks. But they are never seen on the corners. Russia has different dining rooms for different groups, and Miss Jennings stated that it is a wonder that peasants are able to live on the black bread which is their diet.

Finland, Denmark, Sweden, England and other countries present a much more happy picture of women's life. Miss Jennings concluded.

OLD and the NEW—but both built the same inside—Full Malleable Ranges

1935

WHEN folks bought ranges, back in 1903, this MONARCH was the last word in snappy new style.

In those days there was no porcelain enamel—no artistic designs to divert attention from the malleable iron construction and riveted joints that women considered vitally important.

Long life, good baking and fuel economy were the features that housewives insisted on having. And "malleable" ranges gave these qualities as no other range could.

Are these considerations less important today? We believe not.

MONARCH has "Gone Modern" to the limit—but MONARCH has not forsaken the fundamentals of malleable iron construction that insure tight joints, efficient cooking and "Stay Satisfactory" service.

Underneath that beautiful enamel body you will find the same unbreakable malleable iron parts—the same riveted construction that there was 30 years ago.

And the good qualities your Mother demanded in her range are the same ones YOU should demand today.

Buy a beautiful enameled range, by all means—but be sure there are malleable iron parts and riveted joints underneath the enameled body.

Let us show you a MONARCH—and explain how it is made.

payments on its indebtedness and retiring several thousand a year of its bonds out of taxes.

About that time there was a proposal to purchase a Diesel engine for the power plant and when this proposal was made there was an attempt on the part of the Iowa-Nebraska Power company to purchase the light plant. Probably upon the theory that after the more economical Diesel engine was installed, the light plant would make so much money for the city of Wayne that the citizens would never thereafter consent to its sale, but let me say at this point that our mayor and council stood fast and refused to sell the plant and went about its improvement.

A modern Diesel engine was installed at a cost of around $45,000 and the economy of this investment was at once apparent. The council on successive occasions reduced the rates for light and power and the effect of every reduction in rate was to increase the amount of electricity that was used and to increase the gross receipts of the light plant. A new brick building was erected to house the plant out of earnings and the Diesel engine was fully paid for, and any talk of selling the goose that laid the gold egg was forever quieted.

Again, in 1923 and for many years prior and until 1932, the city was accustomed to levy a tax of 3 mills on the dollar for the general expenses of running the city. But in this latter depression year, they were able to cut out this tax altogether and pay general expenses of the city from the earnings of the light plant. A year ago during the Christmas season it was discovered that so much electricity was being used that if anything should happen to the Diesel engine, the stand-by service was not sufficient and a part of the town would be thrown in darkness. During the past year steps were taken to purchase and install another Diesel engine so that this possibility cannot happen. We live in a community that is growing slowly but steadily and the municipal power plant has been a money-maker during all these years and the point I am trying to make is that it would have been the worst kind of economic folly to fail to take care of this business of the city by buying needed replacements and betterments; you tax-payers owe a large debt of thanks to the city officials who have done such a good job of looking after your interest down at this light plant.

Since 1923, the bonded indebtedness of the city has been reduced by more than 25 thousand dollars each and every year so that at the present time it stands at around 430 thousand dollars. The principal part of the tax levy of the city is for the purpose of paying interest and principal on paving bonds and you will note on your tax statement that a levy of 10 mills is made for the purpose of taking care of interest paying bonds alone. If this good record of retirement is kept up for a number of years and we see in 5 years the bonded indebtedness of the city will be greatly reduced, interest payments will be correspondingly decreased, and city finances will be in excellent condition. You citizens and tax-payers by an overwhelming vote registered your desires to issue the 25 thousand dollars in bonds which were necessary for the construction of this auditorium. I will add that the bonded indebtedness of the city at this time is about the same as it was before the municipal auditorium bonds were issued. In other words, 25 thousand dollars of other obligations have been retired the past year which off-sets the 25 thousand dollars in auditorium bonds that have been issued. At the present time a plan is under way to refinance a block of the city's indebtedness at a reduced rate of interest thereby effecting a substantial saving in annual interest payments.

At present the assessed valuation of the city is around $1,000,000 and the indebtedness as we have before stated is about 430 thousand dollars. Men who are familiar with municipal finances in the state have really been surprised to see this steady decrease in the city's indebtedness from year to year. When the mayor and council appeared before the Public Works Administration Board at Fremont they were examined very carefully about this indebtedness and the city's ability to take care of the 25 thousand dollars in auditorium bonds which they proposed to issue. Probably the great selling point which convinced this board of this city's financial soundness and integrity was this very fact that for more than 10 years it had decreased its bonded indebtedness every year and had more than cut it in two since 1923. The secret of success has been as you have probably guessed, the earning power of the light plant and that is why I refer to it as the goose that laid the golden egg.

Twenty thousand dollars have been transferred from the reserves of the light fund to the auditorium fund, a new Diesel engine has been installed the past year and there is still a small surplus left. Possibly with this introduction you can now all feel that the city's financial picture is all right, that you are not headed toward bankruptcy and you can sit back with some degree of comfort to hear about cultural possibilities of this auditorium.

In this community we are only 50 years removed from the virgin prairie and the town is just coming out of the pioneer stage of its development. As you enter our magnificent state capital building you will see a carving in stone of the ox teams and the covered wagons typical of the pioneer who settled in this state. You will note the inscription on one side of the entrance "All honor to pioneers who broke the sod that men might live," and on the other side of the entrance you will note the further inscription "All honor to citizens who build a state that men might live wisely and well." If you will examine closely that stone carving in a low relief of the pioneers with their ox teams and covered wagons, you will note certain books and scrolls and other symbols of knowledge and learning. This sculpture is intended to convey the idea that the pioneers not only brought with them their courageous spirit, but they also brought that priceless something as their heritage from the east which we call culture.

Very early in the history of the state our university was established and very early in the history of this community the college was built upon the hill. I have long had the dream that Wayne should be known as the Athens of Northeast Nebraska. The town is and rightfully should be the cultural center of this part of the state. The word culture is, difficult to define but it includes many things but let me simply define it here as a "proper sense of perspective." The person who has realized that his short life is but a part of a long process of history, that there are certain values in human life that are important and others that are not so important, has this perspective. This knowledge enables him to live a richer and fuller life, than he otherwise would without wisdom and culture. There are many ways of attaining it but it is something which each individual and each community must acquire for himself and itself. No one can give it to you. It may be summed up in the expression "living the good life," but discovering just what the good life is, is a long process and lasts during the entire lifetime of any individual. I believe most men who have seriously considered the problem have agreed that just making a living is not all there is to it, but that a portion of art, philosophy and religion adds considerably to the good life.

The city auditorium will be used quite extensively for athletic activities and exhibitions. It was an ideal of the Greeks that a sane mind could only be contained within a healthy body and all activities which conduce to athletic activities for the many will lead to the improvement of the public health which is one of the foundations of the culture of any community along with its economic stability.

I remember in the days of the old opera house which was the forerunner of this building that many interesting entertainments were offered. William Jennings Bryan spoke there on a number of occasions. It used to be the custom of the business men to promote a lecture course during the winter months. On some of these occasions such men as Sen. Ben Tillman, Judge Ben Lindsey, and Congressman J. Adam Beede spoke. Shakespearean plays were often presented by traveling companies as was also Ibsen and other high-class drama. It is my thought that such attractions as these can be and should be presented in this auditorium in the future.

The auditorium will furnish a community center for all sorts of activity. It will provide a place where all citizens of this community can meet and rub elbows. With better acquaintance, animosities and unfriendly feelings, one towards another, should disappear, and the citizen will get proper sense of perspective that we are all of us members of one large family; hence as do members of one family but in the long run our interests are identical. I think this attitude is typical of any community or nation who claims or aspires to have wisdom or culture in the slightest degree.

I am informed that the committee at the College will no doubt find occasions to use this auditorium for some of their sterling attractions which they bring to Wayne. I am told on account of the smallness of the college auditorium many of these attractions are not advertised simply because it is not possible to find seats for all who might wish to come. There have been many fine attractions presented from the stage of the college auditorium over the past years and if these could be made available to the general public they would be of inestimable cultural value to this community.

No doubt during the political campaigns speakers of national prominence can be secured by the local republican and democratic committees and their appearance in this auditorium will add considerably to the sense of citizenship which all voters must have.

If there ever was any question as to the cultural advantages of this auditorium in this community they were fully answered on the night of the 15th of December last when Handel's great oratorio "The Messiah" was presented from this stage. It has long been a dream of some of the musical minded people of Wayne that this oratorio might be presented each year. A start was made at Christmas 1934 and at that time hundreds of people were turned away from the college auditorium where it was presented. During the past Christmas it was attempted upon a somewhat more elaborate scale with the assistance of the orchestra and you are aware of the fact that at 7:30 there were more than 2,000 people in this building, and that many were turned away and were unable to find seats. I think the presentation of such a wonderful piece of art as the Messiah to the people generally, free of charge, will have the highest cultural possibilities.

But there is another field which appeals to me as having great possibilities. That is in the field of adult education. That is one of the great needs of this community of any community for that matter. As I have told you before, as a matter of education and culture is not a thing which any one can give you. It must be something that you get for yourselves. I understand that an opportunity is given by the Public Works Administration for courses in home economics, general academic courses, such as geography, history and economics, general cultural subjects such as art and literature, agriculture; citizenship and public affairs and many other subjects. This project may be set up locally without expense to anyone other than the expenses of the building and its lighting and heating. The class would meet once a week. It might also be possible to conduct an open forum on civic affairs once each week. It seems to me for the proper development of possibilities of this community center that the mayor should appoint a board of governors of 5 members who should be representative citizens of the community, who should be in charge of the details of developing programs.

It is my conviction that the ideal which inspired a million boys in 1918, expressed in the great slogan "to make the world safe for democracy," ought still to fly from the mast of the American ship of state. But that means two things to me. First, that we keep ourselves out of war by an intelligent control of our government. Second, that we make our democracy such a success in the progressive organization of government to meet and solve our economic and social problems that democracy will be secure in this country and thus provide an example for the rest of the world. We ought never to delude ourselves again with the hope that the world or any part of it can be made safe for democracy by force of arms.

Democracy and civilization demands that education accept responsibility for maintaining peace and neutrality by offering the means by which the mass of our citizens may understand and therefore control the forces which lead toward war. Indications are so numerous that democratic government all over the world is menaced by another world war, that true lovers of democracy ought to work ceaselessly to prevent another cataclysm that will engulf all of us.

But the gaining of that public understanding of the alternatives necessary to keep America out of war is the negative side of our national problem. The positive side is the development of the civic intelligence that will enable us to deal so effectively with our economic and social problems that democratic self-government itself will at all times command the support and confidence of the mass of the people. One thing is certain, and that is that democracy belongs to the people who can make it work. We have a right to expect public education to provide for the social intelligence necessary to make democracy work in our complicated age.

Extensive as our system of public education is, we are not able to provide facilities by which all of our citizens may get at their public problems and thus satisfy the logical and insistent demand of democracy upon education. The question then is: How can we plan to make public education serve as a genuine bulwark of democracy? Let us keep clearly in mind the fact that the greatest enemy of democratic government is civic ignorance. Those who propose overthrowing democracy for some form of dictatorship are powerless to gain adherents if democracy is working reasonably well in its original function, "the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness" for the mass of citizens. We defend ourselves if we try to deceive democracy by gagging its critics as much as we deluded ourselves when we thought we could extend democracy by participation in a world war.

Democracy is a means to an end. The end is public weal. Our job as citizens is to use the means of democracy to gain that end. It ought to be the primary aim of public education to enable us to get such a clear understanding of public problems that we are able to act intelligently with respect to them.

Take for example, in this connection, our modern problem of agriculture. Land is a means to the end of growing things by which process the farmer makes his living. Ignorance and apathy concerning soil conservation brought us to the lamentable state where the forces of wind and water are carrying many of our farms away. We now rush to diffuse understanding of how to protect and preserve that precious top soil. It is a job for public education, and this year a great campaign of education on soil conservation is being planned, using more than five thousand rural high schools as centers for instruction.

But, how much more important it is that we understand how to prevent the winds of demagoguery from carrying away top-soil of our democracy and depositing it where it can no longer be cultivated for free self-government. How much more important that we learn how to prevent the rains and rivers of economic and social mal-adjustment from washing our top-soil of independent and critical citizenship into a sea of chaos. In agriculture we need to plant trees as well as crops which hold soil in place. In democracy we need to plant centers for public discussion in every community such as this. We need a free platform where public issues may be debated as a wind-break against the gusts of emotionalized propaganda.

Let me state as simply and yet as briefly as possible a few fundamental principles and techniques for making public discussion prepare us for a more efficient use of democracy as a means of achieving the American dream.

First, public forums for youth and adults must be led by professionally trained men and women of special ability in working with people of all ages and vastly different backgrounds. The forum leader's role is that of the artist, guide and counselor. Such a leader must be an artist at bringing out the best thought in his audience, playing the views of one person against those of another to the end that all may understand why they think what they think. A forum leader must be a guide with a broad scholarship which equips him to lead the people to the wealth of material on public questions representing all points of view; he must be a counselor helping adults in their quest for understanding of public affairs.

Second, public forums assume that the people of the community of every political affiliation, creed and economic view have opportunity to participate freely.

Third, the public forum insists upon hearing every important point of view on public affairs. As often as possible, especially with the most controversial questions, the different opinions ought to be presented on a given issue in one evening. That is achieved by the panel which sits at the elbows of the speaker ready to challenge and question his conclusions and evidence.

There are just three points which are fundamental to a mass adult education program for citizenship. There are others of equal importance, but I must mention the one big demand of the truly educational forum. It is this: That the democratic rights of free speech, publication and assembly be rigorously practiced and supported. Democracy means freedom of choice. You cannot really be free to choose unless you have opportunity to get a comprehensive understanding of the alternatives from which you may choose.

Far too much choosing is done in our democracy upon the advice of people, publications and organizations with interests to serve which are not readily obvious. It is the function of education to prevent the blind exercise of political power, by offering the people unlimited opportunity to find out for themselves.

I call to your attention as one dangerous tendency indicating a growing distrust of democratic process the fear on the part of many people of free public discussion and the exercise of academic freedom. This expresses itself in the attempt directly and indirectly to institute censorship over the expression of ideas.

Let us be clear on this point and see that the very act of promoting limitations on free speech exhibits distrust in popular government. Such restrictions must be predicated on the assumption that the people are not capable of distinguishing between good and bad proposals. If this is true, the logical position is one which insists that all ideals and opinions should be censored according to the views of some authority. If only such ideas as gain the approval of this authority are permitted circulation, there is no chance for freedom of choice, and therefore no need for an expression of the public will. The authority which assumes to tell us what ideas are true may as well dictate to us on all public policy.

I regard free speech as of primary importance in protecting the right of people to learn. The freedom of the speaker to speak or the teacher to teach is the only means to the achievement of the right of free choice on the part of citizens. And when I use the word "teach," I do not mean indoctrinate. Teaching is opening the avenues to truth and new ideas; it is not taking advantage of a position as a teacher to impose one's personal opinions or choices. The latter is indoctrination or propaganda, not teaching. Let those who want to establish an intellectual paternalism to protect the people from what is considered dangerous doctrine, do so as such control of thinking not in the name of democracy but as part and parcel of a fascist program. Those devoted to democracy will resist such paternalism and intellectual night-locking, but in addition they will serve their cause best by providing for truly free public discussion under impartial management and professional leadership. I believe this great task is a proper function of public education. So as we dedicate this building,

I want to invite all citizens to plan for the fuller use of this edifice for undergirding our self-government with a cultured, enlightened electorate. Let us look forward to the day, and plan for it when this building will be used by several thousands each week, under the guidance of trained leadership, to become a true community center, and may truth and enlightenment increase.

Do You Know Your Proverbs? ... Here are Six of Them Arranged For a Short, Snappy Contest.

Response to the proverb contest which closed Monday, was gratifying but the time was too long, and so we are publishing herewith six proverbs in a contest to run until including next Tuesday, Jan. 28, when $20 will be divided into six prizes. Each one who fails to win one of the cash prizes will be awarded a Gay theatre ticket. This short-running contest enables one to devote a few minutes to figuring out the proverbs and then send in results with no waiting for subsequent proverbs, and thus the effort would, besides stimulating memory, seem amply warranted by the prizes.

A Basis of Entry in This Contest, as in the Previous One, is to Pay a Year's Subscription — New or Renewal — For the Herald.

$20 In Cash and Gay Theatre Tickets To the Winners!

SNYOPSIS

As Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the Far North, a plane lands at the airway emergency station. In it are Burton Ramill, millionaire mining magnate; his daughter, Lilith, and Vivian Huxby, pilot and mining engineer. Believing him to be only an ignorant prospector the men offer to make an air trip to Garth's claim, although they refer to his samples of platinum-bearing ore as merely "worthless." Lilith Ramill, shows her contempt for Garth. Through Garth's guidance the plane soon reaches the claim site. Huxby and Ramill, after making several tests, assure Garth his claim is nearly valueless, but to "encourage" young prospectors they are willing to take a chance in investing a small amount. Sensing treachery, Garth secretly removes a part from the plane's motor. Huxby and Lilith taunt Garth with his "gullibility" but their tone changes when they try to start the crippled plane. Returning to shore, they force Garth to give up the missing part. Garth sets the monoplane adrift and the craft carries it over the falls. He points out to the enraged trio that it is their only hope in guiding the plane out of the wilderness, and to kill him would be fatal to all. Garth begins preparing for the long journey. He insists that the others help. Garth and Huxby must be hardened for the hardships ahead in their toilsome trek to the outpost on the Mackenzie.

Garth Lifted His Rifle. "Put Up Your Hands."

CHAPTER IV

The Whip Hand.

The girl licked her fingers and turned to stare covetously at the pieces of moose dangling in the smudge-fire smoke. She spoke to Garth almost civilly:

"I've no need to rest, like Dad. Do I have to wait for another piece?"

"Certainly not. But you've let the cook-fire go out. Keep this one going and you can use it. Better cut another spit. Mind the knife edge, if you don't want to lose a finger."

She showed she could be deft enough when she chose. One stroke of the knife hacked off a willow twig, two cuts sharpened the end. Grasping the bottom of the uncut second liver, she sliced up lengthwise, all the way to the rawhide thong. She poked the green wood from the rear edge of the fire, piled on dry sticks, and crouched down to hold her spit over the blaze.

Garth had at once begun to make out. It would be needed to sew the moccasins. He was instantly at work, and the girl was still more intently eyeing her meat, when Huxby came striding between the spruces.

The once elegant engineer was smeared with mud from his mid-body down to where the rock-milk water of the ford had drenched the bog slime from his shoes and leather aviator trousers. Snags had scratched his flying jacket and even torn through one sleeve.

"Worst of all, his bare face and neck were a swollen mass of mosquito-bite welts and the bleeding wounds of dead-fly stings. The skin had already begun to fluff and discolor.

At sight of the man's condition, Garth picked up his rifle. Even the most cold-blooded, calculating schemer can be tortured into crazed violence.

Miss Ramill glanced up from her cooking, and uttered a startled cry. It awakened her father from his doze. He sat erect to stare at Huxby.

"My G—d, Vivian, what's happened? You look like something the cat brought home."

"Those d—d pests," Huxby cursed. "Left my headnet. Hey, you airplane thief, fetch me a drink. Jump lively."

Garth lifted his rifle. "Put up your hands. No, don't reach for your pistol. Up with them, or I'll wing you—That's it. Now hold them there while Mr. Ramill takes your pistol. I've had enough of your threatening."

The millionaire looked at Garth's cool gray eyes, and heaved himself upon his feet to shuffle around behind Huxby's shoulder. He pulled open the leather jacket and drew the automatic pistol from its high-slung sheath. Holding the butt forward, he brought the weapon to Garth.

"Keep it yourself," Garth told him. "You can give it back to him soon as he gets over this fly madness. There's your headnet, Huxby. Better stand in the smoke till you get it on."

For the first time since Garth had met Lilith Ramill, she showed consideration for someone else than herself. Her second piece of liver had been cooked enough to be eatable. She tore it in two and gave half to her fiancé.

"It's good, Vivian. Try it. You must be famished."

Her unexpected graciousness calmed his half-crazed mind.

"Why, Lilith—you roasted this yourself! It will taste doubly delicious." He forced a laugh. "But I couldn't take the food out of your mouth."

As soon cook more. There's plenty."

Garth caught Mr. Ramill's hand, took it, and shook his head. "Not yet for us, sir. We'll pack in some more of the meat before the wolves get it."

He laid a mat of willow foliage, sliced up what was left of the second liver, and started off with Ramill.

Though at first stiff, the millionaire did not get out of breath so quickly as before. This was an encouraging sign. That easy climb to the claim and the fast return had been violent exercise for the mine investor. He could not have recovered so soon if his heart had been bad.

But when he opened his cigar case, Garth interposed.

"You have only four left, sir. Better hold them back to taper off gradually. This change of diet is going to jolt you hard enough. No wine or whiskey, either."

Mr. Ramill walked along quite a distance with the cigar case open, his face impassive inside the rosquito gauze of the headnet. When at last he looked up, he closed the cigar case and handed it to Garth. "You're the doctor."

Garth put the case in his shirt pocket.

"All right, sir. You'll get them when they'll do you the most good—and you'll get them all."

Again Mr. Ramill walked along with his gaze on the ground. There were signs the musking swamps were being looked over. He turned and shrewd gaze upon Garth. "You spoke with that young man. 'What's your game?'"

Garth chuckled. "Did you get out a fox, corner a pack of wolves, or trap a crafty old bear?"

The ruddy face of the millionaire purpled. "What is the connection?"

"Nothing insidious," Garth assured him. "I had in mind only the fun of the game."

"So? Well, young man, it's already been admitted that you've so far taken all the tricks. I give you credit for more sense, however, than you showed when you came loose the plane. You had no need to walk up like a duple and pretend to get the drop on me. Easy enough for you to come out of cover with your rifle. Don't tell me you didn't intend to travel afoot to the Mackenzie than fly out in a plane."

"That depends, sir. Perhaps I did not wish to part company with you so soon. Over at the river, I could of course have invited myself to fly out to Fort Smith with you. But that would hardly have given us time to get acquainted. As it is, in the weeks of close companionship to come we may even learn to be friends."

Mr. Ramill frowned. "Is that a taunt, or maudlin sob stuff?"

"Neither."

"Then what's your game? If you think after mooning us here in the woods, a wild wife can win our friendship or gratitude by kidding us out, you're a sadly mistaken young man."

Garth agreed. "It would be a stupid mistake to expect anything decent of your or your daughter or Huxby. But think what fun I've already had, facing that pistol and telling Huxby he dared not use it."

"Fun? You must be crazy!"

"Not at all. I had him sized up. The game was to let him think he had me trapped, then give him the laugh."

"The big man chewed on this. 'That's clear enough. But why waste the plane? Will your next joke be to walk off and leave us to 'doze?'"

"Does it look that way? Two moose make a deal of eating."

As Garth spoke, he pointed ahead at the red chunks on the spruce branches. Almost at the same instant his rifle jerked up. The second shot was followed by a snarling squall. The squall shifted into a shriek that nipped off to silence.

When Mr. Ramill rather hesitatingly followed Garth to the hanging legs of moose, he saw a three-foot, stub-tailed wildcat with black-tufted ears lying under a torn shoulder of moose meat. A second cat, slightly larger, had leaped several yards away before dropping.

Garth drew his knife. "Only a pair of lynx. Not much for two shots. We haven't any cartridges to throw away. But we can use the skins, and the meat will make a change from moose."

He flayed the bodies, bagged the best cuts of meat in the skins, and hung them high. The next move was to see if Mr. Ramill could pack the hide of the cow moose. He made a game attempt to walk off under it, but at once began to stagger. Garth relieved him of the load, and the place of it gave him one of the bagged lynx skins. He himself bagged one of the bull-moose quarters in the cowhide and heaved it upon his back.

"They came back to the camp with Mr. Ramill panting and sweating. Garth swung lightly ahead of him. He slipped off his heavy pack and stood looking at the idle couple on the link bank. They had eaten their fill of liver, and stretched out to rest. No smoke was rising from the embers of the smudge-fire. Flies were beginning to cluster on the moose tongues and other meat."
