

Begin Sale For Cripples Soon

Mrs. R. W. Ley To Meet With Committee For Arranging Seal Welfare Work.

Mrs. R. W. Ley, who has been named chairman for the Wayne county sale of seals for the Nebraska Society for Crippled Children, recently appointed the following as a committee to assist her in organizing the work...

Wayne county's quota is 10,000 seals at 1 cent each. The county will get 30 per cent of the funds realized from the sale, also all funds from sales over the quota.

Funds from the sale of seals are distributed as follows: County, 30 per cent; state, 60 per cent; international, 10 per cent. The money will be used to provide sunshine, food, fresh air and medical care for crippled children of the county.

The movement in the state is being sponsored by the following organizations: Altirus, Business and Professional Woman's club, Concord, Continental, Cosmopolitan, Kiwanis, Lions, Nebraska State Medical Society, Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs, Nebraska State Chapter P. E. O., Omaha Douglas County Medical Society, Optimists, Orthopedic Association, Professional Men's club, Quota, Rotary, Shrine, and Woman's Press club.

Miss Helen Ray, who teaches French and commercial at Verdigré, was reelected last week with a raise in salary. Miss Ray was home from Friday until Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ray going there for her and taking her back.

Attends Sessions In Washington, D. C.

Mrs. O. W. Hahn arrived here last week from Washington, D. C., where she had spent a couple of weeks attending an American Legion conference. Mrs. Hahn is national rehabilitation chairman.

Members of the American Legion advisory committee were privileged to see the printing of the first adjusted compensation certificates for World War veterans. The committee was taken into the main floor of the Bureau of Engraving in Washington to witness the printing of the certificates and into the vaults where the United States paper currency is stored.

Mrs. Hahn noted a decided trend in the Legion organization to decentralize the court of appeals and to make it a floating body. This movement, she thinks, would be very helpful to the middle west.

Enroute to Washington Mrs. Hahn stopped in Indianapolis where she outlined a manual on rehabilitation, getting it in readiness for the printers.

Mrs. Hahn will begin her area conference work the latter part of April and will be away from 40 to 60 days at that time. Area D conferences will be held at Milwaukee and at Louisville, Ky.

In April Esquire. An article entitled "Call Me Crazy," written by George B. Anderson, formerly of Esquire, appears in April issue of Esquire. Mr. Anderson has had another article accepted by the same magazine.

Legion Meets Wednesday. American Legion held a business session at the Legion hall last evening.

Church Redecorated. Interior of Our Redeemer's Lutheran church has been redecorated the past week.

Trifling With SHEARING politics at a time when the constitution and our democratic form of government are threatened seems inexcusably short-sighted. A bird in the hand is not worth two in the bush if the future source of supply is to be considered. Temporary relief is not so important as a sound future policy, and it should not be accepted in exchange for liberties guaranteed for 150 years. Millions still on relief—many forced by unavoidable circumstances and many others displaced through lack of personal ambition—testify to weaknesses in the New Deal set-up. Discouraging experience in trying to wipe out unemployment is detailed in the current Literary Digest. As fast as individuals are transferred to private employment from work relief jobs, others are added to the latter, and so relief to the public treasury amounts to nothing. Harry L. Hopkins, administrator of work relief, seems to have figured out how to force relief cases back on states, but did not anticipate the number of others who would appear for assistance. "It is this development which is keeping the relief rolls close to 20,000,000," according to an investigator quoted by the Digest. "It is preventing the business upturn from making the inroads into unemployment that the New Deal had anticipated."

New Deal manipulators have bludgeoned and frightened industry and business, at the same time expecting them to increase employment at advanced wages and curtailed hours. Under enlarged burdens and bureaucratic threats, industry and business have been fearful and hesitant, lacking the assurance needed to absorb the jobless and ease up on public relief rolls. Too many platform pledges have been broken and too many administration steps in the direction of regimentation have been taken to inspire confidence. Hamstringing sources of employment is no way to increase private jobs.

Too Easily THE Saturday Evening Post urges a check on inroads on the federal treasury if democratic institutions are to be preserved, and it blames every political party for weakness in yielding to powerful groups. Says the Post in conclusion: "The trouble here is that one party seems to have very little more sense of obligation in matters of expenditure than the other. The country simply must acquire an increased sense of financial responsibility, while at the same time retaining the essentials of the American system and avoiding a dictatorship. The machinery can be greatly improved without sacrificing its present traditional advantages. This should be done very carefully, but it cannot be done at all unless there is plenty of vigor and courage in the process."

Conviction POLITICS is too often pursued as means to a selfish end. The successful politician seems to be one who never expresses an opinion unless he is certain that he echoes the opinion of the great majority. He feels free to thunder that two and two make four, but when asked about a proposition on which there is a fairly even division of judgment, he will sidestep like a scared colt. A candidate who is a successful politician, conceals definite views if he has any, and sometimes his blank look makes us suspect he hasn't any. Right now this country needs genuine statesmen who can look beyond immediate gain to larger fields of protection—to service that safeguards the future and that does not play second fiddle to small self-seeking.

In the presidential campaign now opening, we find middle-of-the-road and radical republicans trying to get together. On the other hand, we see Jeffersonian democrats and the New Deal variety endeavoring to arrange a united front until after election. Thus, party expediency would be given precedence over political convictions. In the secrecy of the balloting, many on each

Mrs. Lutgen Speaks To Business Club Young Business Men's club met last evening at 8:30 for dinner at Hotel Stratton. Following a short business meeting, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen addressed the group on the history of the painting, "The Last Supper," by Da Vinci.

Three Fines Paid In County Court Nebraska law provides that a commercial truck may carry its capacity load and 20 percent in excess. Guy Sallor, who drives a truck for Ernest Odle of Ponca, was brought into Wayne county court Saturday charged with carrying more than the 20 percent excess. The court found that the 4-ton truck which is allowed to carry 10,000 pounds for every 100,000 lbs. of weight, was carrying 11,000 lbs. Fine of $50 and costs of $4.77 were paid. The truck will be required to buy a $100 li-side will doubtless vote as conscience directs, but why not make affiliations harmonize with convictions and with decisive expression at the polls? Many democrats are openly and bitterly opposed to the left-wing policies as attempted or tried by the administration during the past three years. To be consistent and to help satisfy convictions it would seem they should join the councils of the republican organization. Likewise, many republicans are in accord with the administration, and for them to join the radical opposition would appear the consistent course to follow. Then all would both act and vote in harmony. For this campaign, New Deal and anti-New Deal alignments should, to be true and fair to the future, supplant old-time party designations, or a third party should be formed.

To Remove Glenn Frank A movement is reported to have been started by the La Follette brothers of Wisconsin to oust Dr. Glenn Frank as president of the university of that state, his sin having been unfavorable references to New Deal policies in the course of his public addresses. Since the constitution still guarantees free speech, the only way to punish a fellow who audibly disagrees with authority is to get him out of his job, and apparently that is what the LaFollettes of Wisconsin have in mind. But of course Dr. Frank who is at the top as an educator and lecturer, will rise instead of fall if he retires as Wisconsin's university head.

As explained by a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, the difference between insuring benefits by established insurance companies and those ordered by the federal government is that the former are created by payment of voluntary premiums, while the government finances its plan by taxation. By supplementing private agencies in getting people to look out for the proverbial rainy day, a little compulsion may properly accrue to the advantage of later security.

In his Columbus Telegram, Edgar Howard quite despairs of any chance for republicans to adopt a platform or name a presidential candidate acceptable to Gifford Pinchot, high in so called progressive republican circles in Pennsylvania, and he so advises Pinchot in the columns of his newspaper. But Editor Howard would not feel so uneasy if he could but reflect on the unimportance of platform pledges as exemplified by the experience of the present administration.

The millennium would appear far ahead as one cannot imagine a smoothly running millennium with nations issuing threats and preparing to fight for advantages worth less than the cost of sacrifices, if won, and that ought to be settled on the humanitarian basis of international need. We fear the coming of the millennium which presupposes the universal brotherhood of man, has been indefinitely postponed.

The Norfolk Daily News quotes the finding of the National Industrial Conference board to show that since the NRA was abolished by a ruling of the supreme court, wages have increased more than enough to cover increased commodity costs and justify a slight increase in working hours. Riddance of the NRA nightmare undoubtedly removed a big obstruction from the path of recovery.

Hard times create business and professional abuses as well as arouse cures. The Junior Bar Conference, organized three years ago in connection with the American Bar association, proposes a movement to rid legal ranks of unethical practices. By protecting themselves, the young lawyers will perform a valuable service in protecting the general public.

In order to save democracy, Roger W. Babson, economy expert, says he would disfranchise the big cities. He thinks European cities were responsible for European dictatorships, and that American cities might cause a similar calamity in this country. If voting were restricted to rural communities, Babson thinks our future as a democratic nation would be secure.

We know some persons who are so contradictory in expressing opinions touching public policies that they only get fairly started in one direction when they meet themselves coming back.

Picking the wrong advisers does not shift major responsibility for New Deal weaknesses from the shoulders of the president.

cense instead of a $15 one for such loads.

Another charge of carrying in excess of permitted load was filed against Wm. Brawner of West Point. Brawner also operated a 4-ton truck and carried more than 4,800 pounds. He paid fine of $10 and costs of $4.77. This truck will also need license for heavier load.

Lloyd Marshall, charged with breaking the seal on a gasoline truck before reaching the destination, was found technically guilty in Wayne county court March 12 and paid fine of $25 and costs of $7.37. Sherman Meland of Loreto, Neb., hired Marshall to drive to Kansas and bring a tank of distillate to Norfolk. This Marshall did. When the truck reached Norfolk P. J. O'Gorman, wholesaler at Norfolk, O'Gorman wanted to deliver the gasoline to the tank at Wayne county so that the product would not have to be reloaded into another tank. Norfolk was the destinuation and the tank reached there but the seal was not broken until the tank came to Wayne county. The driver was thus technically guilty, it was ruled.

Will Begin Work On New Bungalow Soon E. E. Fleetwood will begin building a 32-foot bungalow on the lot just north of the Phil March residence as soon as workmen are able to excavate for basement.

CIGARETTES.

After saying that Americans smoke a hundred billion cigarettes a year, an article in a March magazine discusses the damage done to city hotels and stores and other public places by the carelessness of smokers. Mention is made that "the manager of one New York hotel finds that in an average month about 450 of his table cloths are damaged by cigarettes, about 200 napkins, and 150 felt table tops which are laid over the cloths. About 60 good-sized hotels are burned each month in his blankets—holes big enough so that in many cases the articles have to be discarded." Carelessness in handling cigarettes and disposing of cigarette stubs constitutes a growing problem for insurance companies, adjusters' reports showing that seventy-five per cent of all smoking losses are traceable to cigarettes. And women smokers are said to be more careless than men. Driven to look out for safety, hotels may have to substitute asbestos for inflammable materials.

California Sojourn Proves Interesting

A pleasant winter in southern California was spent by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Craven who arrived home Friday and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Miller who reached Wayne Tuesday. The four were at San Diego and enjoyed the exposition at Balboa park. They visited Los Angeles and Long Beach and stopped at a number of other places. The Cravens enjoyed a day with the J. J. Colemans at Pomona and saw many other former Wayne people. They heard Aimee Semple McPherson in her temple. On their return the Cravens drove 2,200 miles. Weather was pleasant in California this winter and there were many flowers. Mrs. U. S. Conn and Miss Ardath are in Long Beach but plan to come by train to Omaha and Wayne soon on business. They have not yet decided where they will locate. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gailey and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carhart are spending most of their time in San Diego and plan to leave about March 23 to arrive home by the first of April.

Petitions On File. Two petitions seeking divorce filed in Wayne district court March 14, are the following: Lillian Jones vs. Theodore R. Jones; and Edna Podoll vs. Donald R. Podoll.

CRAZY.

Just when is a fellow crazy? Some authorities have said that everybody is a little off. Probably the one regarded the least crazy and the most nearly balanced never had an idea and wouldn't know how to express one if he ever felt it coming. The least crazy fellow probably operates like a machine, readily adapts himself to any circumstance, and neither gives nor accepts offense. He plods along contentedly in a narrow groove, and if he accomplishes much which is exceptional, he is not delighted, and if he accomplishes little which is the rule, he is not aggrieved. His agreeably perfect poise modifies the suspicion that he is dumb. On the other hand, the fellow who loses control of a high-strung nervous system until he says a lot of things that others may think but conceal, is considered dangerous as well as a nuisance, and he is likely to be taken into captivity as a safeguard to society. The "nuttness" of an individual is often determined by the extent to which he annoys the public.

on leg muscles for future track work for which Coach Gibb expects a large turnout. The boys have also been learning new football plays for the 1936 football season. Five lettermen will be out for track this spring with a number of likely looking prospects in non-lettermen.

The junior high school basketball team played a game with the Wayne Training school junior high team Thursday evening and won by a score of 17 to 13. Another game was scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Murray Penhollow, James Ahern and Robert Wright went to Lincoln Friday to attend the class A, B and C basketball tournament held there that day and Saturday.

In a post-basketball season tournament, an inter-class event, the senior class won in the finals from the juniors by a score of 30 to 28.

Irma Hinnerichs is a new student in the ninth grade. Irma came to Wayne from the Carroll high school.

Complete Debate Tournament.
Junior high school students completed debates last week Wednesday when Richard Claycomb and James Pile, negative, won from Catherine Cavapough and Beverly Strahan, affirmative, on the question, "Resolved: That English is the Most Important Study in the Curriculum." In a debate Tuesday Patricia Brown and Irma Jean Dunn, negative, argued the question, "Resolved: That swindlers are more harmful to society than murderers," with Richard Claycomb and James Pile, affirmative, in the finals of the tourney.

Eighth grade arithmetic students have made excursions to the banks, post office and telegraph stations learning the safest methods of sending money and the costs of the various methods. Marjorie Thompson and Marjorie Reuter went to the post office to make inquiries; Derrick Johnson, Robert Baker, Richard Claycomb and Jack Penhollow went to the First National Bank; Lyle Seymour, Wesley Jacobsen, Wilmer Ellis and Billy Hawkins went to the State National Bank; Sam Steele, Scott Thompson, James Pile and Dick Ellis went to the telegraph and express offices.

The junior high school declamation elimination contest began yesterday.

completed this evening. Miss Leone Westover will act as judge.

Earn Perfect Spelling Grades.

Sixth grade finished the study of Hawaii the past week and made posters of a scene from the poem. Sixth grade is studying Belgium and the Netherlands as a geography project. The pupils drew scenes of windmills, dikes and canals on the blackboard, coloring them with chalk.

In a good housekeeping contest in the sixth grade Betty Jo Gilderleeve's side won from Lawrence Lass' side. The latter group gave a little party for the winners yesterday.

Letter From Distance.

Rodney Love received the first reply to his letter written to a fifth grade pupil in another state. He received a letter from Franklin Tingey of Centerville, Utah.

Betty Franzen brought a piece of petrified wood to school. The wood was found near Altona. Betty Weible brought a piece which she found in Arkansas.

Irene Phillips is a new pupil in the fifth grade. She came to Wayne from a rural school near Eldon.

Children in the fifth grade made airplanes from construction paper the past week. The planes are strung on cord across two corners of the room and make bright, colorful spots.

The following fifth graders had 100 percent in spelling the past week: Dorothy Ahlvers, Joanne Jenik, Willis Lessman, Betty Meister, Dorothy Nelson and Nancy Nicholaissen.

Thomas Johnson brought a poem to school on the English custom of changing words to make plurals or singulars.

Study Spring Flowers.
Fourth grade is taking up the study of spring flowers. They have written original stories and poems about flowers and bees. In art class they drew pictures of spring flowers and learned a song about them for music work.

Make Bird Color Charts.
Children in the third grade made color charts of brightly tinted birds. In connection with their study of birds the youngsters are collecting books for the reading table.

Jacqueline Wightman, Patty Love, Carla Wright and Patty Ann Jacobsen will finish their spelling project books over the year's work this week.

Third graders are beginning their construction of bird houses this week. Some will be made from tin cans and the children may take one wooden martin house.

The third grade book house was completed this week. For each book read, the name of the child and the book was written on a shingle for the roof. As books were read the shingles were placed on the roof. The book house will be taken to the library this Thursday and will be kept in the children's department for a few days.

Second graders are keeping a daily news sheet on the blackboard. Items appearing in the news are: "We are making Easter bunnies." "We like to study Holland and enjoy our pictures and stories." We are reading "The Dutch Twins" now and learned a song about Dutch windmills and tulips." "We made a house for our play. It was the bear's house and we made it ourselves with our worktable and boxes. We drew and colored the bricks for the chimney. Donna Young brought two black bags for the play for 'Spring' to carry. One is to hold the lightning and thunder and the other is for sunshine."

Wear St. Patrick's Colors.
First graders made little green emblems to wear on St. Patrick's day.

Mrs. Ernest Kohrt visited the first grade Friday and played her accordion for the children.

Donald Nelson is back in school after a month in the country.

Cora Mattingly was 6 years old Thursday and brought treats for the children.

Visit Rabbit Hutches.

Little folks in the kindergarten took a trip to the home of Mrs. Blanche Trumbauer last week to look at the rabbits and hutches.

Mrs. Ernest Kohrt visited the kindergarten Friday and brought Easter rabbit candies for the children. She played her accordion for them.

Kindergartners are making hobby horses for the children who will be in school next fall.

Christian Science Services. The subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches for Sunday, March 22, is "Matter." The Golden Text is from I Corinthians 7:31: "The fashion of this world passeth away." A passage from the Bible in the lesson-sermon is from Nehemiah 9:6: "Thou, even Thou, art Lord alone: thou hast made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all that are therein, and the earth, and all that are therein, and thou preservest them all; and the host of heaven worshippeth thee."

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The fading forms of matter, the mortal body and material earth, are the fleeting concepts of the human mind. They have their day before the permanent facts and their perfection in Spirit appear. . . Mortals must look beyond fading finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things." (pages 263-4).

The Hearst Suit. Sioux City Journal. The suit brought by William R. Hearst, newspaper publisher, to enjoin the senate lobby committee, headed by Senator Black of Alabama, from seizing his telegraphic correspondence, is interpreted as a defense of freedom of the press. Chairman Black and one of his committee members, Senator Milton of Indiana, made light of the suit, obviously in an effort to discourage any notion that the party in power had any intention of interfering with the people's constitutional rights. The Journal did not believe two years ago when there was such an outcry on the part of the press that the administration had considered through NRA licensing an infringement of its freedom. It is not so sure now that there would not be effects of this kind directed toward the press by some persons connected with the administration if they saw an opportunity to get away with it. It probably would be advisable for the press constantly to keep a watchful eye on the regime now in power. The treatment accorded Maj. Gen. Haggood may indicate to some persons how far some of the new dealers would go in any direction if they found the way open. None of which is to suggest that any administration successfully can undertake anything of this kind. It's a dictatorial regime attempted to abridge the freedom of the American press, no revolt in history would equal that which immediately would follow.

Girl Scouting Birthday Held (Continued from page one) has had as leaders Mrs. A. W. Ahern, Mrs. F. S. Morgan, Mrs. Willis Noakes and now Mrs. Stratton, is Mrs. Noakes stated, the first mother-daughter banquet was held in 1929; rallies for awarding merits have been conducted each year; and four years ago a scout camp was established southeast of Wayne, this being conducted by trained leaders each summer for the girls. All girls 10 years old or over are eligible for scouting and Wayne has 48 registered in Oak and Lily of the Valley troops.

Feeders' Day Plans Are Made For April

Nebraska's annual feeders' day will be held at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture on Friday, April 17. Prof. H. J. Grambs, chairman of the animal husbandry department at the college, notified Wayne county farmers of the date through Agricultural Agent Walter L. Moller.

An outstanding event which each year attracts upwards of 1,500 farmers and livestock producers from all sections of Nebraska, the day's activities will be built around experimental results on cattle feeding tests. Some out-of-state speakers will probably appear on the speaking program. Various protein supplements are compared in one test when fed with ensilage in carrying calves through the winter. Soybean meal, tankage and cottonseed are used as proteins. Another experiment compares the practice of wintering heifer calves and yearling heifers on ensilage, both with and without a light feed of corn, and the use of a protein supplement.

Unbalancing Agriculture.

Nebraska Farmer: The 1935 census contains further unmistakable evidence of the injurious effects of the Triple A on cornbelt agriculture. It justifies the criticism that the AAA permitted and encouraged farmers in some sections to benefit at the expense of those in other regions. The case in point is the increased acreage of corn, feed grains, hay and livestock production in southern states as a result of the drastic reduction in cotton growing under the adjustment program. Before 1929, when cotton was really king in the South, that section depended much upon the Middle West for its corn, meat and dairy products. At the same time the Middle West was a good customer of the South in its purchases of cottonseed cake and meal, fruits and vegetables. This normal relationship has been gradually changing since the Triple A was inaugurated, and there is no longer the mutually beneficial balance between the regions.

According to the 1935 census, the nation's acreage of corn harvested for all purposes in 1934 was 10,249,996 acres (10.5 percent) less than in 1929. In the cornbelt the reduction was much greater than for the nation as a whole. In four cornbelt states—Nebraska, Kansas, South Dakota and Iowa—the reduction totaled 13 million acres; 5 million of this 13 million-acre reduction was in Nebraska, where the decrease compared with 1929 was more than 50 percent. Drouth, of course, was a partial factor in this extreme reduction.

But, while the AAA and the drouth were reducing corn acreage in the Middle West, the idle acres of the cotton belt were being planted to more corn. Of the 12 important cotton growing states, the census report explains, corn acreage increased in all except Oklahoma, Missouri and California. Excluding those three states, the increase in corn in the important cotton states was approximately three million acres in 1934, compared with 1929. Not as many but some of the idle cotton acres were planted to wheat and other small grains. At the same time, hay production in the South increased by about three million acres.

In eight southern states the cattle population was larger in 1934 by almost three million head. There were also substantial increases in hog numbers in those states. While the South was increasing production of feed crops and livestock, Nebraska and other cornbelt states were decreasing their cattle and hogs.

Potato production in the South in 1934 was larger by 33 percent than in 1929, and the potato acreage of Nebraska and Iowa was 11 percent smaller. Thus it seems the Triple A has helped to build a formidable competitor of the cornbelt farmer in the production of corn, hay, feed, grains, potatoes and livestock. Instead of balancing agriculture, the result is a trend toward an unbalanced agriculture, at the expense of the cornbelt.

Shall They Be Punished? (Geneva Signal)

One hundred, nay, many persons received direct relief through the Nucleon's county relief office during February, it is shown on a list submitted by the director, E. E. Murphy, to the Express for publication. It should be pointed out that publication of names of relief recipients is not intended to place a stigma on persons who have been unfortunate. The idea, rather, is to let the taxpayers know just where the money went. Uncommonly severe weather during February was responsible for much of the relief demand. Besides fuel, there are a large number of other causes for the granting of doles.

This is all "county" relief and not to be confused with FERA or any of the previous federal efforts.—Superior Express. The above article was completed with a list of all of the persons referred to in the article. Should the county boards of the state follow the example set in Nucleon's county as indicated in the above article, or should county boards and newspapers follow the secrecy plan and suppress all information as to the payment of relief money and pension money? Those inclined to be extremely sentimental and emotional will doubtless suggest that unfortunate people who feel they must accept money from the public treasury for their support, or partial support, or some form of assistance, should not be "humiliated" by the giving to the public any information as to who, where and what. On the other hand, how about those taxpayers who are in danger of losing their town homes or their farms, or their livestock or machinery, or their stocks of goods, because of the ever-increasing rate of taxation, much of this taxation of a hidden nature because it is placed upon everything, absolutely everything, they are compelled to buy? There is very little "humiliation" in accepting what the federal and state laws provide for the assistance of those who need it. There should be none in giving to those who provide the money, through taxation, proper information as to what is done with the money they contribute.

The publication of the truth would put a stop to the circulation of wild rumors. Most rumors have little foundation but they circulate freely until the facts are given to the public. The administration of the law will be facilitated if every citizen is absolutely assured that every step taken by county and other officials in the performance of their sworn duty in administering the federal and state assistance and other laws will be fully set forth in a reliable and decent newspaper for his complete official information.

The personal relations of all county officials with their constituents will be harmonized and made more agreeable if the policy of full publicity is followed. Ignorance is the mother of many evils and secrecy inspires doubt and suspicion. Of course improper use could be made of some of the information to which we refer, but that could not be prevented anyway. It is just a question of the most desirable policy for responsible officials and decent newspapers to follow.

SOIL MEETING HELD IN WAYNE

New Agricultural Program Is Explained To Large Group Saturday.

Two hundred farmers and agents from Stanton, Cedar, Dixon, Pierce, Thurston, Cuming, Madison, Dakota and Wayne counties attended the last of six district meetings held in Nebraska at the Wayne court house Saturday when farm leaders outlined the 1936 soil conservation program and made plans for community educational meetings soon in each county for presenting this.

The program will, according to Agent Walter Moller, bring $23,500,000 into Nebraska as the coming year, about the same as under the AAA. The amount that will be paid Wayne county farmers is also practically the same. The difference is that the new plan transfers planting from major soil depleting crops to major soil conserving crops. Wayne county plans four meetings within a few days when the program will be explained and the new set-up for the county committee temporarily made.

R. A. Spence, agricultural extension supervisor from Lincoln, had charge of the Saturday meeting. He emphasized the necessity of telling producers about the new program before planting time, even though details have not yet been completed.

Fred Wallace, Buffalo county farmer, gave a report of the regional meeting at Chicago and discussed the suggestions and results presented by farm leaders who met at Chicago. Mr. Wallace emphasized the necessity of a balanced farm program on each farm and urged farmers not to plant too much corn. There will be no control on corn acreage, Wallace said.

FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR

THE WAYNE HERALD

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1936.

Nearly 100 Percent Coverage of the county field.

NUMBER FIFTY

and farmers should follow a balanced plan on their farms in order to prevent a recurrence of low corn and hog prices.

P. H. Stewart, agronomist at the agricultural college at Lincoln, explained the results of the Chicago meeting regarding methods of payments. He explained how farmers would receive cash payments for increasing their averages of soil conserving crops. Stewart said there would be a maintenance payment for farmers who have already been following certain desired cropping practices and that there would be a conversion payment for all farmers who cooperate in the soil conserving program in 1936.

Soil Conserving Plan.

Mr. Stewart discussed the recommendations as to crops that might classify as soil conserving and those that might be considered soil depleting. Among the soil depleting crops, which farmers will be urged to cut down, are corn, tobacco, potatoes, sugar beets, sorghums, broom corn, field beans, wheat, oats, rye, barley, flax, mixed grain, buckwheat, cotton, emmer, speltz, soybeans and cowpeas for grain or hay, cultivated truck and canning crops, cultivated orchards, vineyards and small fruits, millets and sudan for hay or seed, hemp and other cultivated hill or row crops.

The program recommends planting of permanent pastures of grass and legume mixtures, hay crops such as alfalfa, sweetclover, clover, timothy, lespedeza and similar crops; perennial hay, clover-seeded crops for pasture rotation; cover and green manuring crops such as soybeans, cowpeas, vetch and rye. The program urges special soil erosion control practices: planting of woodlots for timber; posts, windbreaks and wind life; perennial weed eradication; cultivated summer fallow and wide spacing.

Pay In Two Ways.

Payments in 1936 will be made in two ways, the conversion or participating payment and the maintenance payment for continuing land in soil conserving crops.

"For the sake of example, we will assume that the county average percentage of soil conserving crops is 10 percent, and that the secretary requests for 1936 a change of 10 percent of the crop land from soil depleting to soil conserving crops. We will say that the rate of payment for this change is $6 per acre for conversion and participation and 60 cents per acre for maintenance. The individual farm has 100 acres of crop land on it. Ten acres of it is in soil conserving crop. If this increases his acreage of soil conserving crops to 20 acres, he will receive a grant at the conversion rate which would amount to ten times $6 or $60. If this same farmer increases his soil conserving crops to 15 acres he would receive five times $6 or $30. If he makes no change in his soil conserving crop, he would receive no payment. If he increases his soil conserving crops by more than 10 acres he would receive only $60 for the 10 acres.

"Another farmer might have only five acres of soil conserving crops on his farm under the same conditions as stated above. If he increased his soil conserving crops to 10 acres, he would get $30. If the increase was to 15 acres, he would get $60, and if 20 acres, he would get $60. The same application can be made if he starts from zero.

"If the man under these same conditions already had 15 acres of soil conserving crops and increased his acres to 20 acres, he would receive payment on the conversion rate for 15 acres already in soil conserving crops, and the additional 5 acres, and his maximum payment would be $60. If he increased it to 25 acres, he would receive payment on 10 acres at $6 and 5 acres at 60 cents or a total of $63.

"If a farmer under these same conditions already had 20 acres of soil conserving crops, he would receive his grant at the conversion rate on 10 acres at $6 per acre provided he left the 20 acres in soil conserving crops. He would receive maintenance payment if he added to his soil conserving acreage for serving acreage from 20 to 15, for example, he would still receive payment on the 5 acres at $6 per acre.

"If a farmer under the conditions mentioned above had 30 acres of soil conserving crops and maintained them in 1936, he would receive a grant at conversion rates on 10 acres which would be $60, and also a grant at maintenance rates on the additional 10 acres which would be $6."

The grants of money will be divided between landlord and share tenant as the crops are divided. Cash tenants will receive all of the grants as they received benefit payments under the old program.

A. K. Chestem of Tekamah, district field man, spoke Saturday on the 1935 compliance and helped solve problems which are holding up completion of the program.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Watson, Hostess.

Baptist Missionary society and Aid held joint meeting last Thursday with Mrs. W. H. Watson. The hostess had devotions, and Mrs. W. S. Bressler gave the lesson on "Courtesies of the Road." The Aid planned for a dinner to be served to Young Business Men's club April 1. Guests were Mrs. C. W. White, Mrs. Lydia Falk and Mrs. Winston Swanson. Mrs. Watson served. The two societies have joint meeting April 9 with Mrs. G. A. Wade. Luncheon at 1 o'clock to be followed by election of officers.

D. A. R. Meets Saturday.

Mrs. Clyde Oman, Mrs. Harry Tidrick and Mrs. Mae Young entertained D. A. R. chapter Saturday at the Oman home. Miss Edna Conklyn arranged for a one-act play, "Objections Overruled," which was presented by Miss Olive Barker, Miss Edith Horstman and Raymond Riesting. Miss Mattie Seace played two piano solos. It was voted to propose to the state organization that the D. A. R. chapter sponsor the Santee Indian school in Knox county. The hostesses served from a table attractive with St. Patrick color scheme. Ruth Rieder assisted. The April 11 meeting is to be with Mrs. J. H. Montgomery, Mrs. A. L. Nuenberger and Mrs. H. S. Seace.

PLAYING MOTHER

(By Edith Huse Wightman) "It's raining! It's raining!" yelled Bob sitting up in bed shaking his head and rubbing his eyes.

"Fah, hah, hah," laughed Betty holding a wet wash rag. "That's the time I fooled you, Daddy called and said he had a surprise down in the kitchen for us. You were so sound asleep I thought I would help you out a little so we could see the surprise together."

It didn't take Bob long to get out of bed and dress when he knew there was something in the kitchen waiting for him.

You remember Betty and Bob were twins and lived with their mother and father on a big farm. It was spring and the Jones' farm was a busy place. Betty and Bob were glad it was Saturday so they could stay home and help with the many exciting and interesting things that were happening.

"Where's the surprise?" called Betty and Bob as they came running into the kitchen. "Right here in this big box," answered Betty.

"Betty and Bob expected to see some baby chickens for they knew Mother had set several old hens. Often when they started to hatch Mother would bring them in by the stove until the mother hen was ready to take care of her babies.

"Baa, baaa, baa," came from the box. "No it isn't chickens this time," said Betty. "They don't say 'Baa, baa'."

"It's two baby lambs," said Bob as he and Betty looked into the tall box. "But Dad, you never bring baby lambs in the house. Why didn't you leave them with their mother?"

"Well," said Dad. "Their mother was hurt and couldn't take care of them and none of the other mothers would have them. I think you two children will have to mother them. If you take real good care of them you can have the baby lambs for your very own."

"Oh, goodie, goodie," cried Betty jumping up and down and clapping her hands. Then all of a sudden she stood still. "But, Daddy, just what will we have to do?"

"First," replied Dad, "they must be fed. I have fixed two bottles here with nipples on them just like you would use for a baby boy or girl. You must fill their bottles with milk and a few drops of olive oil and make the lambs drink it. They should be fed out of the bottles about every two hours."

"This is going to be lots of fun," said Betty. "You take the big lamb, Bob."

Betty and Bob each took one of the bottles of milk. It wasn't so easy at first to persuade the lambs to eat but after they tasted the milk they sucked so hard Betty and Bob could hardly hang onto the bottles.

"Whoopee," yelled Bob. "Now see what you've done, you little rascal. My little lamb had been so anxious for the milk that he had pulled the nipple off, covering himself and Bob with milk."

"We will just have to try again," said Dad. "You likely will have several milk shower baths before your babies are grown. This time you had better hang onto the nipple too."

"My lamb has better manners than yours," said Betty. "She took all her milk without spilling a drop."

"I guess you chose the right babies," said Mother. "Betty is always so careful and polite at the table while you, Bob, are just like your lamb. You want food but you aren't particular how you get it."

"Maybe both of us need a few lessons on table manners," laughed Bob. After breakfast Betty and Bob went back by the sheep shed to see how the mother sheep took care of their babies.

"They look like they are all legs," said Bob as he and Betty watched the baby lambs run after their mothers. "Look! There is one with four black legs and a black face. I'm going in where I can get a closer look at them."

Bob was bending over patting the little lamb when suddenly Betty called, "Oh! Watch out, Bob!" But Betty's warning didn't come soon enough. Bob fell a big bump and the next minute he landed on his head in the dirt.

"I guess that mother sheep doesn't like to have you around her baby," said Betty. "Look. She's coming after you again."

Panabakers Spend Three Months At Barstow and Hemet, California

Trips Into Desert Country Are Of Great Interest To Wayne People.

DEATH VALLEY PALACE

Trips into the desert country around Barstow and Hemet, in southern California, were sources of never-ending interest to Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Panabaker who returned to Wayne last week after a three-months' stay in the west. The Wayne people visited their daughters, Mrs. Roy Carter at Barstow and Mrs. Jack Liveringhouse at Hemet.

Barstow is a typical desert town, says Mrs. Panabaker, and summer brings temperatures of 120 and over—not out of doors, but in the homes. They found the winter very pleasant and with the exception of short "spells" of rainy weather, there was sunshine every day.

The Panabakers enjoyed a trip into the Calico Hills just out of Barstow. These hills are a part of a large mountain range and one drives through miles of varicolored rock. The Philip Drive runs through the hills and along a beautiful little valley. There are many mines located in the mountains near Barstow and the Wayne people visited a number of them. They saw borax, steel and sulphur mining and went into old, abandoned silver mines. It was an interesting experience to visit an old mining town, typical of bygone days.

Barstow is primarily a railroad center and there is no agricultural country near the town. The country around it is purely desert; because of its situation on the desert route, there are numerous cabins for tourists in the mountains.

everything the prospector has built—walls are of solid marble. The cook house is to the right of the main building and is a Spanish tile structure as an ordinary dwelling. Farther back are the workers' homes, the machine shops, garages and a miniature gold mine. On the grounds is a guest house which will accommodate a dozen people. The stables are located far up the canyon and between them and the palace is a waterfall and artificial brook with a heavy flow of water. Everything for the buildings and furnishings of the palace and grounds had to be brought into the desert from the outside—a gigantic task.

The palace itself is a magnificent structure. Massive iron gates guard the entrance and the name plate which reads "Death Valley Ranch." Within the palace is evidence of unbelievable wealth—Spanish tiled tables with scenes from Don Quixote... draperies of split, hand-tooled leather... rugs inches thick... hand-carved, beamed ceilings... priceless China... sunken marble baths... a mammoth pipe organ... refrigerating rooms... everything on a massive scale.

The Panabakers brought back with them specimens from the 40-acre Salt Beds in Death Valley. The origin of the great expanse of crystallized salt is unknown—whether it has seeped from under the valley floor or whether it was formed thousands of years ago when the sea receded from the land. "The Devil's Golf Course" is an interesting bit of the valley.

On another drive out of Barstow Mr. and Mrs. Panabaker explored the region of extinct volcanoes. The distance to which the boiling lava traveled in its course down the mountain sides is still plainly seen.

They also enjoyed a trip to beautiful Lake Arrowhead in Arrowhead woods. The view of the lake from "Rim O' The World" drive, with Old Baldy mountain in the distance is wonderful.

Enroute home Mr. and Mrs. Panabaker stopped at Boulder Dam. "It's impossible to believe that a human being could conceive of anything so immense," was the Panabakers' first thought in seeing the dam, Boulder City, which sprung up like a mushroom when the dam was completed, is an attractive town and kept beautifully clean and trim.

At Salt Lake City the Wayne couple visited the Mormon Tabernacle and went through the grounds. A sermon is always given at the noon hour and Mr. and Mrs. Panabaker heard a broadcast of it while at lunch. They were greatly impressed with the size of the tabernacle and with the accuracy of the huge main floor. A guide standing at the front of the room rubbed his hands together, the sound being plainly audible all over the building.

At Cedar City, Nevada, Mr. and Mrs. Panabaker were caught in a mountain blizzard enroute home. They were afraid of being detained at this point but roads through the mountains remained passable. At Fort Collins, Colo., they stopped over a few days to visit Mrs. Panabaker's sister, Miss Mary Stephens. They also visited with Mr. Panabaker's brother, P. F. Panabaker, at Dalton enroute home.

While in the west the Wayne folks had a short visit with Miss Helen Mabbott at San Bernardino and with the Will Hanson family at Los Angeles.

In the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. Legal Notice. To Henry Beuthien, Edna Beuthien, Minnie Mach, Paul Mach, Elizabeth Beuthien, Dora Beuthien Lage, Herman Lage, and all persons having or claiming any interest in the Northwest Quarter (NW 1/4) of Section Twenty-four (24), Township Twenty-five (25), North, Range Two (2), East of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Wayne County, Nebraska, real names unknown.

You, and each of you are hereby notified that The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, a corporation of Newark, New Jersey, as plaintiff, on the 4th day of March, 1936, filed its petition against you, impleaded with Henry Beuthien, et al., as defendants, in the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, the object and prayer of said petition being to foreclose a certain mortgage on the following described real estate located in Wayne County, Nebraska, to wit:

The Northwest Quarter (NW 1/4) of Section Twenty-four (24) Township Twenty-five (25), North, Range Two (2), East of the Sixth Principal Meridian, said mortgage having been executed and delivered by Herman Beuthien and Emma Beuthien, husband and wife, to J. G. Wadsworth & Company, is dated July 28, 1924, and for the principal sum of $10,000.00, and was recorded in Book 45, page 111, of the mortgage records of said county. Said mortgage and the indebtedness secured thereby was assigned to and is now owned by said plaintiff.

You are required to answer said petition on or before the 20th day of April, 1936, and upon your failure to do so, The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, a corporation of Newark, New Jersey, as plaintiff, will take decree and judgment as prayed for in its petition. The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, a Corporation of Newark, New Jersey, Plaintiff. By Fred S. Berry, Its Attorney. m124

Annual Wayne Picnic Is Held

Sixtyfive Attend The County Affair At Long Beach First Of March.

"Sunday and Monday were exceptionally hot, bringing thousands to the beach," writes Miss Laura E. Lyons of Long Beach, Calif., March 9. "Since then it has been quite cool again, and this afternoon it is really chilly in Bixby park for the Wayne county picnic. On this account only 18 came for dinner but 75 came for the afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. L. M. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Owen, Mrs. E. Hickman, Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Sonneklin and their son and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Lute Carter and Stanley, Miss Edith and Miss Josephine Carter and Ruth Mall who makes her home with them; Mrs. May Chace and sisters, Mrs. Anna McLeod and Mrs. Amanda Person; Nathan Chace, Mrs. M. C. Jensen, Mrs.

E. W. Cullen, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Cherry, Mrs. Chase Shaw and Beulah Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Elaine Skenen, I. W. Alter, Eva Alter Hahn, Mrs. Harlan Boyer (nee Dorothy Ellis) and Carmean, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gaertner, Mr. and Mrs. E. Carhart, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gailley, Mrs. Alice Ley, LeRoy Ley, Miss Suzanne Wightman, Mrs. Clara Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Mayne Howard and Joyce, Mrs. J. H. Porter, Miss Nellie Porter, who has supervision of the national biennial nurses' convention in Los Angeles; Lee Porter whose father, Donald Porter, lives in Wayne; F. E. Moses and daughter, Miss Martie, Mrs. Bert Brown, Miss Effie Buffington, Mrs. Ella Piepenstock Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Howard, Mrs. C. A. Grothe, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Craven, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Miner, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Miner and Marilyn and Buddy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ulrich and Gordon, Mrs. Jennie Davis and Lucian, Mrs. Jessie Reynolds, Mrs. Lon Ellis, Maude Grothe Davis and husband, Mrs. Henry A. Brune, Marjorie, Barbara and Henry, jr. Mrs. Alice Ley called the meeting to order and Miss Laura E. Lyons was unanimously elected president of the Wayne County Picnic association. "Mrs. Alice Ley just put an another of her successful entertainments of Friday evening at the community hall in Encinitas. Fine spirit pervaded the crowded hall. This was a Townsend leapear party. Thirty costumed participants were in the grand march. Mrs. Ley wore an old rose velvet gown trimmed with gold lace of colonial days. Two ladies wore their wedding gowns of 40 years ago. Mrs. LeRoy Ley was dressed as a girl of the period. Alice Ley and girl friend were a modern dancing couple. Mrs. Alice Ley conducted a Dutch wedding and she acted as the preacher, wearing a tuxedo and stovepipe hat."

"Admiral Richard Byrd addressed a capacity house of 10,000 at the city auditorium and explained 9,000 feet of films about the south pole region so clearly that we felt we had been on the expedition, minus the hardships. He is an admirable gentleman and lauded his men, and introduced the huskies' master and an engineer. He is still in a weakened condition from those terrible experiences 120 miles south of Little America, but he said he and his scientists had much valuable data for the 22 scientific organizations for which they made the expedition. One thing that amused everyone was the showing an inquisitive penguin trailing around after the boys for some time and then hurriedly leaving to sit on a higher chunk of ice with 50 other birds. Later the one penguin led the whole flock back to investigate the company. "The tremors we have felt occasionally amounted to nothing and were hardly noticeable. The cyclone during the holidays destroyed only one house in Long Beach. The storm covered a small territory though there were high wind and heavy rain. With the adequate drainage here not much damage resulted. In the five-decided mountains some floods prevailed.

What every car owner should know about the Financial Liability law:

- (1) Under this act, if a judgment is recovered against you, you cannot drive your car again nor can anyone else drive it until the judgment is satisfied up to $1,000 for damage to property and up to $5,000 for personal injury.
  - (2) Furthermore, your license and registration may also be suspended for certain violations of the Motor Vehicle laws, unless you can show proper financial responsibility.
- The sensible thing to do is to carry Liability insurance.
- We write liability insurance in good stock companies. If you want such insurance specify "Hartford," one of the largest and strongest casualty companies in the country.
- In case of loss away from home, their policy holders should contact the nearest Western Union office and they will put you in touch with the nearest Hartford Agent. This is very important when a person has an accident away from home. See this office today for further information.

Leo Johnson of Thurston, and Miss Aletha Weddington of Pender, were married in Sioux City last week. Basis and Norbert Maun will operate the Laurel business firm belonging to their father, the late A. E. Maun. Miss Eleanor Olson and Owen Anderson of Wisner, were married March 4. The bride is a former Wayne college student. Herman Andre, 80, who lived alone in a shack near West Point until recently when he was taken to the county farm, was found to have $4,400. Miss Cleo Brogden and Martin Nielsen of Laurel, have announced their marriage of last September. The bride is a former Wayne college student. Lyle Hall, son of the Charles Halls of Randolph, and Miss Bobbie Baxter were married recently. Mr. Hall plays in an orchestra and his wife is a tap dancer. The heavy truck belonging to J. W. Gries of Randolph, was damaged considerably Tuesday last week when the machine struck the James Grier car of Wayne, near Jackson. A wrecker trying to get a car out of the ditch stopped the Wayne machine and the truck accidentally hit the back of the Grier car.

CONGRESS

As Seen by a Nebraskan

The treasury department sold over a billion and a half dollars worth of interest bearing bonds in the twinkling of an eye. The offer was made Monday and Tuesday the books were closed. Nobody knows just who bought these bonds, but apparently they went in big blocks to the eastern bankers who keep their application on file for them at all times. A private citizen wanting to buy these bonds direct from the government has little chance to compete with these big purchasers.

When the forty-million dollar appropriation for the District of Columbia was up for debate a few days ago, there were only sixteen members present on the floor of the house, out of the 435 members.

About a thousand retailers were in town yesterday for a convention which has as its purpose the boosting of H. R. 8442, which is a bill making it unlawful for any person engaged in commerce to discriminate in price of terms of sale between purchasers of like grade and quality, to prohibit the payment of brokerage or commission under certain conditions, to suppress pseudo-advertising allowances, to provide a presumptive measure of damages in certain cases and to protect the independent merchants, the public whom he serves, and the manufacturer from whom he buys, from exploitation by unfair competitors. Many of these independent merchants came from Nebraska. The chain stores are opposed to this bill, which will very likely come up for consideration during this session of Congress.

Policemen tell us that there is no town like Washington in the world today because of the gigantic payroll. The boom is bigger than it was a year ago, with a government payday every two weeks. On Saturdays and paydays, the stores resemble the Christmas rush back home. Nearly every one of the 110,000 government employees are urged by the store keepers to start charge accounts. The credit of a government employee whose pay is sure is good with these merchants who maintain unusually fine collection agencies. A lot of young men and women working for these offices say that everything possible is done to teach them to spend all of their salary in this town.

Members were told today that the president drafted a new work relief bill which will cut next year's relief appropriation about a billion dollars. This indicates that the president is anxious to limit the size of next year's relief program. The reason for that is because the national debt is now at an all time high. Some WPA workers discussing this today feel that it is liable to result in the loss of some jobs, especially those that have to do with irrelevant work, such as tap dancing, etc.

Members of the house ways and means committee today started tackling the job of drafting a new tax bill based on yesterday's message from the President. While some of them are talking for the record about how much they oppose more taxation, they are positive the new bill is going to be passed by this house, but none of them know what the tax bill is going to contain, and that has started discussion on the bill, that this tax bill is going to result in keeping congress in session longer than was expected. The President and leaders hoped that congress could adjourn the last of April or the first of May, but they say that a tax bill will require a lot of time, and perhaps it will be a month before such can be passed.

While the senate is working on the rural electrification bill, the house is taking about three days on general debate for the District of Columbia appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1937. The people of this town want more money and the house committee has cut their appropriation down, which brought a flood of protests from nearly every business organization in this city. Strange as it may seem, this town wanted more money from the taxpayer in face of the fact that they have a three million dollar surplus, and because they have that the committee decided to cut down their appropriation, and let the city commissioners raise additional taxes to meet the future required expenditures. People in this town pay less taxes than any other town in the United States, and both the members of the Democratic and Republican parties on the committee have decided that the people who live here should not have an advantage over the taxpayers in any other part of our country. The tax rate this year is $1.50 per hundred on real estate and only $1.50 per hundred on personal property, and there is no thought in the minds of the committee to increase the tax for next year.

In this town, the gasoline tax is only two cents a gallon. The automobile license costs only one dollar. That would be a dollar per car for a $8,000 Rolls Royce, as well as a dollar per car for a Ford or a Chevrolet, or a dollar per any kind of a truck, whether it is one ton or a five ton truck.

Letters come in indicating that the relief burden is as great, or almost as great as a year ago. Although thousands of heads of families formerly on relief have gone back to work, others have taken their places. Some officials figure that we still have today about twenty-million dependent on money collected from the taxpayers and borrowed against the taxpayer's credit. All of this members are told, means more red ink on federal ledgers every year, which means that there must be some economy and also more taxation, and all of these things are being taken into consideration by the committee which is working on the tax bill which is coming to the house soon. Some members went into the committee room today and found the members are piled up with thousands of proposals calling for various forms of taxation. The biggest demand is a drastic increase in income tax, and the levying of some kind of excise tax.

Lots of crime here. More than last year, we are told. The town's population is about 43 per cent negro. Many holdups and robberies.

Papers are telling daily about negroes holding up pedestrians, autoists and places of business. A lot of panhandlers on the streets. Go downtown almost any hour, especially evenings and you are stopped by men and women begging for money.

Such attendance is inspiring not only for the worshippers, but also for your pastor. Sunday school, too, was exceptionally well attended. And to the visitors and guests who worshipped with us, we extend the heartiest invitation to come again. It was a pleasure to have you with us.

Different because it's alloyed

We don't mean one of those "talking point" differences. We mean a real difference. Alloying Germ Processed oil goes beyond refining and re-refining. After every harmful element is cleaned out, the patented Conoco Germ Processing element is scientifically put IN.

That's what brings you this alloyed oil, with its strange attachment for pistons, cylinders, and all other engine parts—including every known type of bearing. All these parts really become oil-plated!

This oil-plating is extra. It's a plus—added to the tougher, more slippery, heat-beating Germ Processed oil film. You've got this high-durability oil film, sliding on thoroughly oil-plated surfaces, and so you're that much farther from wear and noise.

You're facing hotter days and harder runs. Out with dirty winter oil! Only the Conoco man can change you—quickly—to Germ Processed, the alloyed oil. Continental Oil Company.

WAYNE COUPLE SPENDS THE WINTER AT CORPUS CHRISTI

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hyatt Make Leisurely Trip Through Oklahoma And Texas— Visit Old City of Matamoros, Mex.

"Live here, do you?" asked Bert Hyatt of a stalwart, kinky-haired negro at the edge of a cotton field near Chickasha, Okla.

"Yes, suh," answered the black man, showing gleaming white teeth in a friendly grin.

"Work by the month?" questioned Mr. Hyatt.

"Yes, suh," grinned the negro, and explained that "the boss" paid him $16 per month and rented him six acres of land—taking two-fifths of the crop as rent.

Mr. Hyatt found on his recent trip through Texas and Oklahoma that all of the labor for the cotton plantations is done by negroes. Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt left early last fall for the south, taking their time for the trip and stopping to inquire into anything that interested them along the way. Most of the cotton harvesting was completed through Texas when the Hyatts went through last fall although some was still under way through Oklahoma.

In one field near the town of Chickasha about 40 negroes were picking, dragging long cotton bags through the rows. The Hyatts stopped to watch the picking process and to talk to the owner of the field. Mr. Hyatt asked how much the field was making to the acre and was informed by the owner that it would make him about "ten dollars." Farther south, near Corpus Christi, Tex., they discovered that the rich land made over a bale of cotton to the acre and averaged around $60 to $65.

See Cotton Ginned.

The Wayne couple spent a half day watching the cotton ginning process at Chickasha before continuing their journey southward. The cotton is hauled from the fields in wagons and unloaded by suction pipe which pulls the cotton, the seed and hulls into the gin. The ginning process seeds and hulls the cotton boll; it is then pressed through heavy rollers which flattens the cotton into a thin sheet. These sheets are almost paper thin and as they come from the rollers, are pressed into bales of about 600 pounds each. Most of the negro pickers get 60 cents per hundred pounds for the cotton they are able to pick—some of the slow pickers wouldn't have more than 16 or 20 pounds of cotton in the bags, although a good picker can gather two or three hundreds of pounds in a day.

Mr. Hyatt noticed that there were only two white men in the field where the 10 negroes were picking—one was the overseer or weigher, and the other the owner. Cotton fields through the south run from 50 to hundreds of acres. All through Texas and Oklahoma the Hyatts noticed that the cotton plantations had one large modern looking house in which the white people lived; a short distance from the house were located the huts in which the negroes were housed—rude looking shelters in rows or in the form of a hollow square. The located on North Beach which is really an island, formed through the making of a turn basin for docking ships. The island has quarters for 1,400 people and is mostly given over to summer and winter visitors. The Hyatts apartment was about 400 feet from the water front and they were often lulled to sleep by the sound of the surf breaking on the shore.

Visit McAllen, Texas.

The Hyatts spent some time at McAllen, Texas, an inland town near the border, and stopped at Brownsville and San Benito, Texas. They also visited the city of Matamoros, just across the border in Old Mexico.

"We thought we were being held up in Matamoros," Mr. Hyatt laughed. "Just got into the city and rounded the corner of brick building when our car was mobbed by a crowd of boys—dozens of them. Finally made out from the chattering that they wanted me to choose one of them to drive the car and act as guide through the town."

Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt were much interested in the buildings of the old Mexican city. "Queer looking buildings," Mr. Hyatt commented. "Iron bars over all the windows and little balconies perched over the sides of the houses. The town was built around a central square. We thought the main business houses would be on the square but there wasn't anything but little curio shops and places to eat there."

Mr. Hyatt explained that by walking a block and a half from the square they found the shops—the strangest either had ever seen. The main trading post looked like a huge outdoor porch with canvas over the front. In these open stalls hung meat, looking the worse for exposure, around which flies were buzzing. Dust swirled around the corners of buildings, plastering the meat and covering the food displayed in open boxes. Here and there supposedly fresh fruit and vegetables and any article of food for sale.

Climate Is Pleasant.

While the Hyatts thought the climate in the south pleasant this winter compared with the extreme temperatures of the mid-west, old settlers in Texas declared the winter the worst in years. There were many chilly, damp days when the mist blew in from the sea, but Mr. Hyatt found that as soon as the sun peeped out, the chill was gone in a moment and one could be comfortable out of doors without a wrap. There were only two frosts while the Wayne couple were in the south, one about the middle of November and the other in February. The southern people shivered when the air began to cool, jerked their heads northward, and remarked: "People up there must be gettin' a nahwah." The Hyatts were amused to learn that any chilly weather in the winter was attributed by the southerners to a "norther" in the cooler climates.

"But the sun really takes hold down there when it comes out," remarked Mr. Hyatt. "I've never been there in the summer but they tell me that the breeze from the gulf makes the hot weather real comfortable at Corpus Christi."

NYA Workers.

Geneva Signal: On two recent Saturdays NYA workers made a survey of the number of cars in the business district of Fairbury. A startling discovery was announced: The cars from Washington county, Kansas, outnumbered the cars from Saline and Thayer counties. The figures for February 29 were: Washington, fiftyseven; Thayer thirtyxix and Saline twenty. The information was absolutely worthless. The only excuse for the survey was to provide work for young people, NYA meaning National Youth administration, one of the many federal schemes. Young people should have work if that is all possible but the young people making this survey knew they were merely killing time at government expense. How will it affect their character and their view of their relation to the state and federal governments?

In State Tourney.

Winnipeg, winner of the class B basketball tournament in Wayne, lost to Holbrook in the state meet at Lincoln last Thursday by score of 43 to 34. Snyder, winner of the class C event here, won from Mascot in first round by 35 to 31, and Snyder lost to Thayer in second round by score of 23 to 31.

Bids For Truck.

Proposals will be received at the office of Postmaster J. M. Strahan until 2 p. m. March 21 for the hire of vehicles with closed bodies (screen, panel, etc.), without drivers on an annual basis, for use in collecting, delivering and relaying mail during the year beginning April 1. The vehicle is to be a half-ton truck with 150 cubic feet body capacity, for use 2-1/2 hours a day. The owner will be required to equip and maintain the car. Bids for application may be secured at the post office.

The girl did not turn her astonished gaze away from Garth. "I don't understand, I do. You mean now! You planned it from the first. All that caribou meat and the—"

"Good guess," he broke in. "It has taken a bit longer than I expected to get you out. But in my light birch-bark, I fancy I can make the head of canoe water before the freeze-up. After that, frost and snow will make no difference. I'll have a pair of webbs—snowshoes."

The millionaire spoke in place of his wild-eyed daughter: "But, myna, the cold?"

Garth smiled. "Have you forgotten I told you that I wintered with the Eskimos at Coronation Gulf?"

"The Eskimo dog teams?"

"Some of those teams were reared from wolf pups. I might experiment. There are several wolf families in the valley."

"You're stark mad! If you think you can—"

Mr. Ramill paused. He listened to what Huxby was muttering in his ear. His frown softened out, and he again favored Garth with the smile that did not go up as high as his shrewd eyes.

"Oh, well, my boy, if you're bound to risk your life in foolhardy adventuring, that's none of my business."

"Quite so," Garth agreed. "If our sixty-four day had not fallen through, it would have been your business work on the legal assessment stand. I may as well put in the winter doing the work myself. The metal I sled out with my wolf team should pay enough to buy me a fair-sized freight plane."

The millionaire beamed. "Yes—ah—true!"

Garth smiled back at him. "By the way, I meant to let you discover for yourselves at Fort Smith the heavy surprise I've had all along for you. But since you're so pleased already over my prospects, I'll let you into the secret right now."

"Secret—at Fort Smith?"

"Yes. I forwarded my papers by the southbound Bellanca before I had the pleasure of meeting you and Miss Ramill. My claim has been on record for the past four weeks or so."

Huxby glared with a sudden change from gloating to cold rage: "You lie! You were going out in your canoe."

He was on his feet almost as soon as Garth. His fists swung in blows driven by all the force of his furious anger. Garth sidestepped both, and clipped in a hook to the jaw. Huxby dropped as if hit by a sledge. Yet it was not a complete knockout. After three or four seconds, he sat up, blinking like a dazed owl.

Garth had stepped back. He said, "Apologize, or get up and take what is coming to you."

Huxby stopped blinking. The dazed glare from his eyes. They took on their usual calculating look. He felt the beard on his sore jaw, and replied with cold deliberation: "I withdraw the term."

Arrogant as was the tone, the words were an unqualified apology. Garth turned to Lillith, who stood gazing at him with a peculiar glow in her blue eyes. He spoke as if nothing had happened:

"Some of the ashes are now cool enough for you to use, Miss Ramill. Rub them on as a mud paste till the potash cuts the grease, then scour with sand, and rinse. Better take your ashes in the bucket, and use it for protection while you do your laundering. The skeets and bulldog flies are swarming. You'll find a bit of sand beach just under that clump of spruce."

Without a word of thanks, she dragged the blanket to the edge of the nearest outburst fire and began brushing the fluffy gray wool ashes upon it with a spruce spray. Her father had been gazing thoughtfully at Garth. He took up his empty foxskin bag.

Close upon the cry came the deep-lunged shout of her father: "By the Almighty, you've done it, Garth! We're out!"

Huxby continued to stare fixedly ahead at the mighty flood of the Mackenzie. He was the last to speak: "Out of the muskies; but a long way from out of this d-d North!"

"Long by canoe or even by steamer," Garth agreed. "Not so far, though, by air passage. We can make the emergency supply post by two or three hours' paddling downstream."

"What of it? That fellow Tobin told us planes never stop there, unless foul weather runs them short of gas."

Garth met the suddenly anxious looks of Lillith and her father with a smile.

"All pilots have orders to sight non-stop points in passing. Tobin has a distress signal. There'll be a plane coming south from the Arctic coast within three days—probably tomorrow. You'll be lying in the lap of luxury at Edmonton within a week or 10 days."

The millionaire felt at the grease-and-pitch mat of his month-old beard. He chuckled. "A bath and a barber! Hand over that last, citizen, Garth. Here's where I celebrate."

He opened the gold-mounted case, bit off the tip of the sole surviving flamma, and snipped his patent lighter. It failed to flair. He tossed it over into the water, and turned to Garth, with an impatient command: "Give me a light."

"Only two matches left, sir."

"Enough to light a cigar. Pass them over."

Instead of taking out his waterproof match case Garth took up his paddle. "The rule is never burn your last match until you have to."

Huxby dipped his own paddle. "Come on Mr. Ramill. By his own account, three hours more will rid us of him and his insolence."

"Wait," said Lillith. She pointed to the tank where the pleasant green of young spruces showed among the weathered white trunks of fire-killed birch trees. "It has so much time we'll land there and clean up."

"But—with the post so near, my dear Lillith!" Huxby protested. "That fellow Tobin had any amount of soap."

"All the more reason. I'll not have even a common navy sea me in this condition! The rags can't be helped. But the dirt—! Out burst her suppressed loathing for all the grease and grime that smirched herself and the men. "Mud slime! rancid fat! spoiled meat! Alan Garth, I know that I have to go in dressed like a squaw. But this—this filth!"

He surged the canoe around shoreward with a powerful sweep of his paddle.

"Not necessary, Miss Ramill. A scouring with hardwood ashes and sand will do the work of soap. We can go in sweet."

They landed where an ice jam of some spring break-up had gouged through the muskie mud at the end of the ridge and left a clear beach of glacial sand and gravel. Up over the ten-foot cut bank, Garth started a fire with one of his two remaining matches.

No cleaning could be done until the fires burned out. When Mr. Ramill took off the spits of cooked meat, all squatted down as usual to share the meal. Garth smiled his thanks as he took the slab of hot meat handed to him by the millionaire. The smile hardened.

A sudden change had fallen upon his three companions. He could
