

Free From Old-Time Bitterness—Painfully Apathetic—County Fairs—Neb. St. Hist. Society Oct. 1931

Opening of the baseball season leads us to wonder how prevailing interest in the national game compares with that of early-day communities. We recall the depth of feeling aroused many years ago for the home team and against any rival. Boys of the town made no secret of their admiration for home players nor of their dislike for the opposition.

Modern County Conventions. Kept by primary law from having anything to do with naming candidates, county conventions have become painfully apathetic. Selecting delegates to state conventions, fixing up local organizations and passing resolutions do not excite the fever of interest that gripped the old-time convention which had in hand the business of fanning or smothering the hopes of ambitious individuals.

New Plan Proposed. A Wahoo report announces a new plan to put more life into the Saunders county fair. Accustomed rodeo features will be displaced by a more diversified program including community contests.

Writes From California. Dr. A. B. Cherry, resident of Winside for many years, now living at Pasadena, Calif., and a brother of Judge J. M. Cherry of Wahoo, sends the Herald the following paragraphs from the Los Angeles Times touching the importation of South American corn.

As a forerunner of the 70,000-ton flood of cheap Argentine corn to be brought to Pacific Coast ports during the next three months, the British tramp steamer Harpathian is due at San Pedro from Villa Constitucion, today with 7,600 tons, all for local discharge.

Rains April Broken. Rains varying from a fraction of an inch to two inches fell over Nebraska last week, and they raised the spirits of inhabitants very materially. Some hail in southeastern Nebraska luckily found no crops to destroy.

Burke and Carpenter. Platte county democrats meeting at Columbus endorsed everybody hearing the party label without regard to internal differences.

Red Cross Plans Life Saving Drive

In a drive to safeguard lives at America's beaches and pools this summer, the first aid and life saving service of the American Red Cross will conduct national aquatic schools in 10 states during June and July, according to Mrs. E. W. Huse, local Red Cross chairman. Of the nation's 30 million swimmers, past experience indicates that 8,000 will meet death by drowning unless practical preventive measures are adopted, it is reported. Drowning usually results from carelessness and lack of swimming and small-craft experience. For this reason the aquatic schools will be conducted by outstanding leaders. Only swimmers at least 18 years of age are eligible to enroll and the program will qualify a first-year student as a life guard, swimming supervisor, camp swimming counselor, assistant swimming instructor or volunteer instructor. Three of the 11 schools will be in the midwest. They are at Culliver, Ind., June 11 to 21, at Stillwater, Minn., June 15 to 24 and Eureka Springs, Ark., June 15 to 24. Application may be made to the midwestern branch office of the Red Cross at St. Louis or through the local chairman. The $30 fee covers everything but transportation.

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "The creations of matter arise from a mist or false claim, or from mystification, and not from the firmament, or understanding, which God erects between the true and false." In error everything comes from beneath, not from above. All is material myth, instead of the reflection of Spirit." (page 523.)

CONGRESS As Seen by a Nebraskan

Many letters are reaching Washington from Nebraska indicating dry weather, and members are again starting to crowd around the big weather map which is located in the house lobby, and on which daily weather reports from every part of the United States are shown.

A letter from north Nebraska indicates that there is some moisture in the subsoil and rain is badly needed, and references to that are beginning to be made on the floor of the house.

The new vocational education bill in which so many Nebraska people seem to be interested is held up because it does not conform to the budget requirements. Several senators who are interested in the bill, and the author of the house bill, have visited the administrative offices and talked the matter over with the chief executive. Those who are interested in vocational training will be interested to learn that the appropriation for the new bill may have to be cut down considerably before it gets an O. K.

Originally the bill called for $12,000,000. The house committee on education cut it to $8,000,000, and a minority of the committee recommended it cut down to $3,000,000. However on a compromise, the bill passed the committee at $6,000,000, which is quite an increase in the amount of the same bill of a year ago.

Those who are steering the bill say that they can do nothing further until they get the right kind of encouragement from the administration. The use of federal vocational-education funds to subsidize sweat shops has been made more difficult, if not impossible, by restrictions placed on this appropriation bill by the house committee. By unanimous vote, the committee decided that none of the money should be used for low wage employment—a practice that has been quite extensive. The diversion of federal vocational education funds in several southern states, particularly in Mississippi, has caused the United States Bureau of Education to raise its regulations.

The Government Worker's Council of Washington today sent a letter and a statement to every member concerning the effects of dismissing married persons from the government service, due to the provisions of the economy act of 1932. A section of this act provides that either the husband or wife, or one of them if they are employed by the government, must give up his job.

This act was intended to give a job to some other unemployed person. The Government Worker's Council tells members of Congress that one of the more important aspects of this law is the effect which it has had, and is continuing to have, upon marriage. They claim a survey shows that in some cases, a marriage would not have taken place if such a law could have been foreseen. They claim that divorce is contemplated by others, and that in some cases divorces have already been secured because of the operation of that law.

Many members of congress feel that if a husband has a good job working for the government, and his wife also has a good job working for the government, one of them ought to give up his job so that a jobless man can get a job to support a family. They feel that the jobs should be distributed so as to relieve unemployment.

The labor leaders today announced that there are twelve million unemployed in the country, and that the big question is "How can you put them to work?"

It is doubtful if any new bills other than the ordinary "must" bills will pass or have an opportunity of passage during this session of congress. All attention is being given to the tax bill and the new emergency relief bill, which will follow the tax bill.

Vice President Garner and Speaker Byrnes had a conference yesterday afternoon, and those who watched the two leaders talking things over, guessed that they were talking about early adjournment. All of this, however, is guess work, but members hope to get through before June 10.

The Frazier-Lemke reforestation bill got another set-back today when those working on the bill learned that two more members took their names off the discharge petition. Last week only one more name was needed. Today three more names are needed to get the required 218 names. One member who took his name off has promised progressive members to put it back again.

Many letters are being received from farmers who owe money on their farms, stating that they are getting very little help from the Farm Credit Administration. Some of them who have had their farms appraised for a loan, and find the amount the government will loan them is not enough to take care of the mortgage, have asked for reappraisals. They write that the new appraisal results in appraising the farm for less than the first appraisal.

Many farm group members here are complaining to the administration about this. They feel that a demand for reappraisal of the land brings retaliation against the farmer. This matter has been brought to the attention of the house.

One hundred sailors—enlisted men—who have been going to the naval school at Norfolk, Virginia, have completed their work, and are going home on a thirty day furlough. These young men want a chance to enter the naval academy in order to become commissioned officers in the navy. They had no chance for direct appointment and many of them enlisted and studied hard and won the chance for the free naval school. They will be notified in about three weeks about their grades. If they pass they will be notified to enter the naval academy about next June.

Those members endeavoring to protect American producers against the foreign oils and fats through an excise tax have turned their attention to the senate, where they hope to put an amendment on the new tax bill, for the purpose of continuing an excise tax on Philippine coconut oil. Since the excise tax has been in force, it is figured that it has saved a market for the American producer of fats and oils, to the tune of over two hundred million dollars. The excise tax amounted to around seventeen million dollars. It also resulted in less of the coconut oil coming to this country from the island possession.

The coconut oil kings have gone into the state courts and in some cases have won their case against the excise tax on ground of unconstitutionality. Now it is planned to get an amendment into the tax bill to make the excise tax a revenue measure to be paid directly into the treasury of the United States, thus avoiding any question of the violation of the Constitution. The farm group feels that the American producer would gladly trade seven or ten million dollars for over two hundred million dollars.

KARL STEFAN.

fat, onion and green pepper, both chopped and cook 5 minutes. Brown fat slightly. Add flour, stir until mixed and add strained tomato, 1-2 teaspoon salt, garlic, the veal balls and beans. Simmer 30 minutes and serve sprinkled with chopped parsley.

Rice With Cheese and Olive Sauce. 3 tablespoons butter 3 tablespoons flour 1 cup milk 2 cups grated cheese 1-2 cup sliced stuffed olives Salt, pepper 3 cups hot cooked rice

Make a white sauce of butter, flour and milk. Add the cheese and stir until melted. Add olives and season with pepper and salt. Just before serving pour sauce over the rice. 2 hard cooked eggs may be added to the sauce.

Fish and Vegetable Salad. 2 cups of cold boiled fish 2 Canned salmon or tuna may be used

1 cup mayonnaise 1 cup coarsely chopped celery 1 tablespoon capers or chopped pickle 1 cup cooked peas 2 medium size cooked beets 2 hard cooked eggs

Add to the 2 cups of fish, the celery, peas and capers or pickles. Mix all with mayonnaise, taking care not to break the fish into too small pieces. Pile lightly on crisped lettuce leaves and garnish with alternate slices of cold boiled beets and hard cooked eggs.

Minute Tapioca Cream. 1-3 cup minute tapioca 1-4 teaspoon salt 4 cups milk, scalded 1-2 cup sugar 1 or 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten 1 teaspoon flavoring 1 or 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten Add minute tapioca and salt to milk and cook in a double-boiler 15 minutes or until tapioca is clear.

stirring frequently. Add sugar. Pour small amount of tapioca mixture over egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from fire and add flavoring. Fold a small amount into the egg whites. Add to remaining tapioca mixture and blend.

Jellied Stuffed Eggs. Hard cook the eggs, 1 for each person; chill and cut in halves crosswise; remove the yolks and mash well, add, for 6 eggs, 3 tablespoons of grated cheese, 1 tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice, dry mustard, salt and pepper to taste and melted butter to make a smooth paste. Fill the whites with this mixture and arrange the eggs in a mold or in individual molds.

For the jelly, soak 1 tablespoon of granulated gelatine in 1-4 cup of cold water five minutes; add 1 cup of boiling water, 1-4 cup each of sugar and vinegar and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, also salt and paprika to taste.

Cool almost to the congealing point, then add 1-2 cup of green cut into small pieces, half a green pepper, shredded and 2 tablespoons of stuffed olives sliced crosswise. Pour the jelly over the eggs and set away to chill and harden. Turn out on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise.

Poached Eggs. Fill shallow pan with water; let it come to the boiling point and salt it slightly. To keep the eggs from spreading use muffin rings or a poacher (these are made to hold one to four eggs). Grease the inside of rings and place them in boiling water. Break eggs and slip one into each compartment. Cook slowly, keeping water below boiling point. If water does not entirely cover eggs baste tops with hot water until a white film coats the yolk. Remove eggs with a skimmer.

Schoolmen Have Annual Meeting

Hundred Superintendents And Principals Of Northeast Nebraska Here.

Schoolmen of northeast Nebraska met last week Wednesday afternoon at the college for their annual April session with more than 100 principals and superintendents in attendance. The men discussed means of increasing coordination between high schools and colleges in the state. Prof. J. R. Johnson of the history department of Wayne State Teachers College, was named president for the coming year to take the place of Albin P. Burkhardt, superintendent of the Norfolk schools.

Supt. Burkhardt presided at the afternoon session and introduced Supt. E. N. Sweet of South Sioux City who led round-table discussion. Dr. J. T. Anderson opened the discussion by asking the question: "What can we do to enable a larger percentage of freshmen to succeed in college?" Supt. Wm. Flake of Stanton, introduced the question: "What would high schools like to have colleges do for boys and girls?" Mr. Flake suggested that colleges should not muddy young people by making "birds" for them.

Supt. S. B. Shively gave a discussion on the subject: "Are colleges properly informed as to high school problems?" It is his opinion that the teachers colleges are better informed in these matters than the liberal arts colleges. He stated that teachers' college had more of the attitude of cooperation than other schools. He suggested that perhaps too many teachers were teaching as they were taught, rather than in the way they were taught to teach and that a remedy would be for more high school instructors to be called to teach in colleges during the summer months.

Supt. F. Valdemar Peterson of Elgin, formerly of Wayne, spoke on the subject: "Should high schools be selective in influencing students to attend colleges?" Prof. K. N. Parke of the Wayne college, read a paper on "Why Students Fail." He suggested that inability to read properly and weakness of study habits were common causes.

Dinner was served the schoolmen at the college cafeteria at 6:30, after which Dean F. E. Henzik of the college of education, University of Nebraska, gave the address of the evening. In his talk Dean Henzik stated that high schools were duty-bound to do all in their power to make active, informed and interested citizens of the young people of the country. He suggested that students must be brought to see the larger aspects of life and to become oriented to the normal activities of the home, the business world and the community.

He stressed the fact that there was a great need of training for the increased amount of leisure available to the average citizen of the modern world, that future citizens must learn to play as well as to work. "We must learn to live with ourselves, as well as with others—we must develop the art as well as the science of living."

Stanley Davis, college student, directed a group in musical selections immediately following the dinner.

Wayne State College Opera Is A Success

The opera, "Martha," presented by college students Thursday evening at the city auditorium under direction of Prof. Clifford Bair, attracted a large and appreciative audience. The production was very well done and the leading cast members and the leading vocalists added to the "fair" theme. Orpheus club and Wayne Business and Professional Women's club sponsored the opera and together made about $80 which will be used for future community musical features. The Y. W. C. A. assisted as sponsor.

Solo parts were well taken by Kathryn Greenleaf, Harriet Lamson, Stanley Johnson, Norman Leuthausen and David Sanders. Two farmers were Burton Gifford and Donald Springer, and maid-servants were Mildred Moses, Ruby Fredrickson and Charlotte Rasmussen. Choruses of servants and farmers added to the 18th century English village atmosphere.

Wayne college Little Symphony orchestra, directed by Prof. John R. Keith, very ably furnished accompaniment. Helen Toy was pianist. On the production staff were: Scenery, Wilbur Fortfield, Joyce Schwam, Emmer Bernstein, Lyle Spencer, Royal Barnell; costumes, Alice Schwam, Alice McGregg; dances, Miss Esther Dewitz; physical education classes, masque, Bernadine Brown and dramatic class; stage electrician, Royal Barnell; chorus coaching, Helen Toy, Dorothy Kile, Milo Henkels, Dewayne Gramly; publicity, Reuben Meierhenry; spinning wheels, Mrs. Anna Scheurich; Emil Puls; house manager, Donald Springer; and courtesy, Stratton hotel, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, Mrs. J. J. Ahern, Mrs. C. F. Dienst, R. R. Smith.

Dinner was served the schoolmen at the college cafeteria at 6:30, after which Dean F. E. Henzik of the college of education, University

"We commend the president and the democratic national and state administrations for their interest and effort in behalf of the farmers, an interest and effort never before shown by any other political party and unprecedented in the history of this nation."

"We commend the president and the national administration for their policy of the 'good neighbor' in international affairs and their efforts to expand the foreign markets of the farmers instead of offering them the 'gold brick' of an ineffective, deceptive high protective tariff."

"We pledge ourselves to the following program for the people of Nebraska:

"1. No new taxes or increase in taxes, but rather increased economy and efficiency from taxes now in use."

Thoughts of Mothers' Day

Sunday is again Mothers' day in America when the nation kneels to pay homage to "the hand that rocks the cradle" of the world. Since time began mothers have smoothed the pathways of their children, easing small hurts and kissing the bumps—only one day seems scarcely enough for a nation to pause in retrospection!

"I don't need a special day," says Mrs. Winifred Main, "because every day is Mothers' day for me!" What a wonderful thing to be able to say and how wonderful it would be if every child might make "every day Mother's day!"

"I have never had any worry over my children's behavior," Mrs. Main explained. "I always attempted to teach them the great difference between right and wrong—good and bad, respect for other people's property and the rights of others. I made a special effort to show them the results of disfiguring property, either public or private. I am amply repaid for all that I have done for them—they are loyal enough each and every day without my having special attention on one particular day."

"I think the biggest thing for America now is to come back to the home," declared Mrs. H. C. Capsey in response to the Wayne Herald reporter's query. "Mothers' day means a great deal to me because on that day I plan for my children to be at home. I enjoy the little expressions of sentiment, the letters and small gifts—not the gifts because they are gifts, but because of the feeling which directs each purchase."

Mothers have had their problems with individual children through the ages and Mrs. Capsey believes that from infancy they should be trained in obedience. She believes that children need never do the wrong things if they are trained from babyhood to know right from wrong. "My children have never been dishonest with me—if they say they will do a certain thing, I can depend on them to do it. I feel that parents are to blame if they have difficulty with their children—what the country needs is for more homes to get back to some of the old puritan ways of living. I don't believe in being too strict with my youngsters, but I do expect them to obey me and to be honest."

Mrs. Capsey explained that raising children in a parsonage makes the problem of the mother and father greater because of the necessity of preventing the children from doing seemingly harmless things which might reflect back upon the church. She has sometimes found it difficult to explain why her children are not allowed to do some things which other children do.

"I began from the first to impress them with the idea of right and wrong and I have never had to say 'don't' because they always ask if they may have, or do, a thing. They never bothered the cooky jar without asking me," she smiled. "I think a mother should be at home when her children are there. She should assist her children in choosing their friends, and make her home free to them at all times."

Mrs. Capsey believes that having a good mother helps one to become a good mother, and this in turn may be handed down to the future generations. She believes that one must broaden with modern ways but never become lax, and that home should be home, never just a house.

"Mothers' day always gives me a feeling of insufficiency," says Mrs. Rollie W. Ley. "On that day, more than any other, I seem to feel that I have fallen far short of my ideals of what a mother should be."

Mrs. Ley stated that she had always believed in giving children all the liberty it was possible for them to have, and that they should be allowed to make decisions without being handicapped by a mother's ideas on every subject. She believes in suggesting the more logical way to arrive at decisions but that children should be allowed to develop in their own way. "I have always let my children have a part in making decisions for the family as a whole. They are as much a part of the family unit as the father and mother, and should be allowed a voice in important decisions."

Mrs. Ley thinks that younger mothers will receive a great deal of assistance in raising their children by approved, scientific methods and that they are fortunate in having the benefit of child psychology research and experience. "Mothers' day has always been very important to me in relation to my own mother, but I have never thought what it meant in relations to my own motherhood," says Mrs. E. J. Huntmer. "My mother always seemed so young and so such a pal and I was always so very proud of her."

From the time her children were small Mrs. Huntmer has allowed them to work with her in the home and found that it has made a great difference through their years of growing up. They enjoy assisting their parents about the daily tasks and are splendid help. "I never told them not to do things when they were small," she explained. "I always compromised with them by suggesting something they might do. I have kept the house open for their friends and for any entertainment they might plan."

"One of my problems," responded Mrs. H. S. Scace, "is to keep my youngsters from tackling too many outside activities. Perhaps it is because I cannot seem to make home duties as interesting as all the extra-curricular activities of school life."

Mrs. Scace has always observed Mothers' day and feels that it is a wonderful thing for children to pause and consider what will most please their mothers.

The Wayne mothers with whom the Herald reporter talked, were keenly aware of the sentiment of the day, yet all felt that children were blessings in themselves and that their devotion throughout the year was enough.

The second Sunday in May was set aside as Mothers' day in 1914 when Congress authorized the president to designate the day by annual proclamation. Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, first originated the idea in 1910 and a number of cities of the United States observed it that year.

Too often mothers are taken for granted and it is sometimes too late when one comes to the realization that his best friend is his mother. All the small things that one may do to please her throughout the year are none too many when her years of unselfishness, love and devotion are reviewed in the pages of memory.

Huxley was along at the tracks that led on along the lake shore. The man on the plane peered into the three cockpit. Huxley sighted the cabin plane across the corner of the lake. He shouted and pointed to it, but waited for the second man to come up before starting on along the trail.

CHAPTER XI

Shortly before noon, the four trappers appeared on the moraine. The man who had not been bogged led the way down. Another miner followed, then Huxley. The man who had lost his rifle lagged behind. The two leaders reached the broken moraine wing. Garth saw them round the writing.

Garth jumped down beside the miners, to stare at the offer of reward that branded him for what he was. With a curse, he ripped the tattered piece of fabric from the wing frame and flung it down into the swirling rapid.
