FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1936.

NUMBER TWENTYTWO

CLUB FESTIVAL PLANNED HERE

County 4-H Groups And Schools Will Have Fall Displays. Wayne county's first 4-H fair, to be held at the fair grounds September 18 and 19, will take the place of the regular county fair this fall. School exhibits and home economics displays will be included.

Looking Ahead. But mid-westerners have Spartan courage. They know that while good crops are an exception in some areas, they are the rule here. Every venture is uncertain, and with uncontrollable elements to contend with, agriculture is probably the most uncertain. An average reward is usual, and an abundance is occasional, but a near failure like his year's calamity is without precedent.

When Law Steps In. We have never heard of a guardianship for a rich object who had sense enough to resist lavish expenditures to members of his own family. It is when he gets to flinging money outside of the home circle that the law is invited to step in and put him into a straitjacket on the ground of incompetence.

Horrors in Russia. Andrew Smith writes a story of his experience in Russia that should lead anyone to shudder at thought of extending the powers of communism. Excerpts appear in the current Nation's Business. Smith was a devoted member of the communist party in America. In 1929 he went to Russia as a workers' delegate, and over there he was shown only the good, none of the bad, of which there was plenty, as he later found out. He was so delighted with his first impression of Russia as a "workers' paradise" that he decided to move there.

Anniversary Mass Is Held At St. Mary's Church For Sisters. Sisters who were married in a double ceremony September 2, 1911, observed their silver anniversary Wednesday. Rev. Wm. Kearns, the same pastor as 25 years ago, celebrated a nuptial anniversary mass at St. Mary's Catholic church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock.

Silver Wedding Observed Here. A breakfast for out-of-town relatives was served at Hotel Stratton after the church services. A beautiful modernistic bride's cake, cross-shaped with two miniature bridal couples on top, was centerpiece for the table.

Marry On Tuesday At Home In Wayne. Mrs. Lida B. Hartshorn is Bride Of C. S. Stoney Of Canada. At high noon Tuesday at her former home on main street Mrs. Lida B. Hartshorn of Wayne, became the bride of Mr. Cassius S. Stoney of Morris, Manitoba, Canada.

Give Instruction For Compliance. School of instruction for farm reporters was held Tuesday at the court house when Alex. Rabeler, field man, and Ralph Robertson, assistant field man, were here from Lincoln to give instructions in how to check compliance. The work starts soon.

Local Firms To Change Locations. The Peoples Natural Gas company and Georges store will trade locations October 1. Plans are being made to air condition the building to be occupied by the Gas company.

Concert Sunday At Fair Grounds. Wayne Municipal band concert which is usually Friday evenings, will be played Sunday afternoon at the fair grounds for the Farmers' Union picnic.

Directs Yuletide Band. Stanley Davis returned this week from Yutan where he directed the band for a month. He accompanied the musicians to Omaha for a special concert. Stanley goes to Fender this year to teach.

INCREASED TRADE VOLUME DESERVED BY WAYNE CENTER

BUSINESS is better than drought conditions would suggest. People are better off in finances than one sometimes fears. Good prices for milk and poultry products help. Anyone having grain to sell is liberally rewarded. Pigs command string quotations, and will go higher. Farmers are busy filling silos to solve the feed problem. Everybody is getting ready for winter, and needed supplies will be bought. As Wayne is the largest point in a considerable area, with merchandise to satisfy any demand, and with competition sharp enough to insure lowest prices, its trade volume should be drawn from increasingly distant fields. Wayne deserves to become trading headquarters for a wider territory.

Give Employment To Many Students

Wayne State College Is Placing Number In New Positions. Approximately 108 students will be given employment this fall at the Wayne State Teachers College through the National Youth Administration, according to Prof. N. Parke, chairman of the NYA committee.

Farmers Union Picnic Planned. Everyone Is Invited To The Entertainment At The Fair Grounds. Wayne county Farmers Union invites everyone to join in the annual picnic to be held next Sunday at Wayne fair grounds. Entertainment starts in the morning and continues through the afternoon.

EXPECT INCREASE IN COLLEGE ROLL

Nine New Teachers Fill Positions On Staff This Fall. Advance registration for rooms at Wayne State Teachers College indicates that the enrollment this fall will be an increase over that of last year. Redecorating of Terrace hall and the purchasing of new furniture for additional rooms of the boys' dormitory has been necessary to accommodate the new arrivals. Pile hall is practically filled and Neihardt hall is filling rapidly. It looks like a larger enrollment this year and the increase seems to be largely with the boys, commented Dr. J. T. Anderson.

Carl Wright Wins In Golf Tourney

Takes Second Flight Title At One-Day Meet Held In Norfolk. Carl Wright won the president's flight in the Norfolk Country club golf tournament Sunday, defeating Dr. B. R. Farrow of Norfolk 1 up. Maurice Wright won the consolation in this flight, and Jack Morgan played in the championship consolation finals.

CORN DISPLAY IS EXCEPTIONAL

Verdel Erwin Has Champion Baby Beef At Annual Concord Fair. Stalks of corn 14 feet tall and ears of corn well filled and well matured were among the displays at the annual Dixon county fair at Concord last Wednesday to Friday. Most of this well developed corn was raised on the Logan creek bottom land in Concord vicinity. Small grain, vegetables and fruits were on exhibit and the quality and variety were surprisingly fine.

VACATION PERIOD HURT BY DROUGHT DRAWS TO FINISH

Wayne county school exhibit will be on display in the educational hall with Miss Pearl Sewell in charge. All home economics exhibits will be in the agricultural hall. Judging and demonstration contests are planned. A competitive 4-H club livestock shipping loss prevention demonstration for 30 counties in northeast Nebraska is arranged for Saturday afternoon. The Sioux City packing companies sponsor this and the winning team will go to the Sioux City show.

Give Employment To Many Students

Wayne State College Is Placing Number In New Positions. Approximately 108 students will be given employment this fall at the Wayne State Teachers College through the National Youth Administration, according to Prof. N. Parke, chairman of the NYA committee.

Federal Field Worker Visits

Loans Are Being Made On New Construction And Building.

The state field representative of the Federal Housing Administration, J. H. Holland of Omaha, has been in Wayne all week interviewing applicants for federal loans. He plans to remain over Friday and will meet any applicants at the Stratton hotel. So far he has interviewed 55 people and has arranged for possible construction of two new homes in Wayne and has refinanced from 8 to 10 others including some from adjacent towns.

The housing inspector stated that under the FHA plan it is possible to borrow from $100 to $2,000 for repair of any kind of property, and on commercial property up to $50,000 could be borrowed for the same purpose. This was at a cost to the borrower of only $5.00 per $100 a year. These loans do not involve a mortgage but are simply a character loan obligation.

The prospects in Wayne seemed very bright to Mr. Holland because the local lending institutions were cooperating fully with the FHA and the crop prospects for the fall and spring are improving.

Rains Are Heavy In Dakota, Wayne Travelers Find

When Orville Tuskind and his family returned to Wayne Friday from vacationing in the Dakotas they had much to say about a five-inch rain in South Dakota and having to creep at 15 miles an hour over a road with one rut for 100 miles. This cloudburst occurred near Madison, S. D., about a day or so before the Tuskind's came along, but the effects were still evident. When they went slowly through this section on what was left of highway number 81, they found a great many cars stalled along the road and a great deal of water still standing in the fields parched by the summer's drought. Up in the eastern part of North Dakota, Mr. Tuskind thinks that there is but few crops of wheat and potatoes. Around Davenport, N. D., which is his home town, the conditions are much better than many realize. But the section in South Dakota around Yankton and Watertown looked very bad. And as if to add a finishing touch to a successful trip, Mr. Tuskind declared that it was nice and cool, a pleasant sound indeed to Nebraska ears.

Henry's New Fear

(Nebraska Farmer) Henry Wallace, the peerless experimenter, has broken out in a new place. Speaking in Council Bluffs he expressed the fear that use of farm machinery was bringing the American farmer to pauperism. And in order to secure an audience for this statement he credited big business with being responsible for it. Said he: "The impact of technology, if uncontrolled, would in time probably concentrate commercial agriculture in large mechanized units, financed by capital from the cities." This new fear of Henry's arises from the fact that a few insurance houses and loan companies own quite a number of farms in Iowa. Well if Henry or any one else wants those farms they undoubtedly can get them pronto simply by paying less than the companies have in them. No, there is nobody these days who wants a farm on an earning basis, for farming for quite a long while has not been a highly profitable enterprise unless there is taken into account the living that the farmer gets off the farm. While that living income is worth a lot to the occupant of the farm it is not worth a dime to a non-resident owner. Deduct that item and it is doubtful that farming has paid an average of 2 percent on the investment over a long period. There is another class that are buying farms. They believe that as a result of profligate government spending inflation is inevitable and land is the one thing that will have real value when the bubble bursts. That class are not interested in dispossessing the tenant for they are not farmers and will leave the situation much as it is in management and operation. Technocracy—farm machinery—as referred to by Secretary Wallace, is increasing the size of farm units; but that, in the light of present day developments, is as inevitable as the passing of time. The trend toward the use of farm machinery during the last two years has been due in no small part to the scarcity of feeds suitable for horse power at prices farmers could afford to pay. Let Secretary Wallace consider that fact in connection with his program of acreage reduction—planned scarcity. Also let him take into account that the money that goes for taxes can not be used to employ labor and to the extent that the farmers' taxes have risen it is being taken out of the employment of men on the farm just as it is in the factories. There is no threat of commercialized farming in this country but there is a threat of dispossessing farmers through taxation and enclosure of lands for both of which Mr. Wallace's theory of government can be responsible.

Agricultural Notes

(By Walter Moller) Seeding of soil conserving crops on summer fallowed land and on fields where green manure crops were plowed under before July 1, 1936, must be done by September 30. In view of seed shortages it does not seem practical and sensible to require or encourage seedings of grasses and legumes when the chances of getting a stand that will survive the winter are still poor. In some places moisture is sufficient so seedings may be made and a stand strong enough to live through the winter may be secured. If conditions are still too dry the county committee advises that no seedings be made. The American Soybean association meets at Ames, Iowa, and commercial utilization of soybeans will be the principal topic. The use of soybean oil in paints, soybean meal for livestock, soybean flour and other home uses of the crops will be considered. Contour farming has proved beneficial, according to Arthur Holdt of Buffalo county. Holdt farms all his land parallel with terrace lines and finds that the moisture is conserved and the crop is not washed out. To benefit the swine industry Prof. W. J. Loeffel of the University of Nebraska, advocates a seven-point program for hog raisers as follows: Plant rye for pasture as soon as moisture conditions improve to make feed; replace old sows with gilts; keep a few of the best gilts as well as a pig or two for home use; use protein supplements liberally; farrow 1937 spring pigs as late as possible; use rye and wheat steed this fall for spring feed and oats and barley seeded next spring for mid-summer feed. A great shortage of horses and mules is reported in this county. Read the Herald want column.

ment was tried and this year nature again cooperated disastrously. The experimenters are about ready to admit defeat. They know they can't regulate drought, and drought has interfered with their plans year after year. The shortage of agricultural products may become acute this year. Doubt in the minds of the experimenters makes fertile ground for the thought that perhaps the farmers should be turned loose next year to produce all they can.

Soviets Seek Larger Production.

Omaha Journal-Stockman. After several years of skimming, saving and self-denial of foods so that more of the crops of farms might be available for export, leaders of Soviet Russia have come to the point in their planning where they hope to provide an abundance of food for everyone in the nation. Although the new program for a more abundant life for the comrades in the communes centers about a promise of "champagne for everyone," the real meat of the idea is to give Russian people enough of everything to eat and drink. Of especial interest to America is the fact that Soviet heads are not seeking this goal through a controlled production, but are bending every effort to boost crops to the highest possible peak. "Our task is to reconstruct the food habits of the soviet man," A. I. Milyon, people's commissar of the food industry, is quoted as saying in announcing the new program. "We must produce more products, not more variety, before the old custom of having a cabbage soup and mush."

Backing up the food commissar, no less a person than the late Josef Stalin said recently: "Socialism can succeed only at the basis of high productivity of labor, higher than under capitalism; on the basis of an abundance of products and of articles of consumption of all kinds; on the basis of prosperity of cultured life for all members of society." From the reference to cabbage soup and mush, one can readily understand that a kind of living which will represent abundance to the soviets would still be considered a very low standard by Americans. That, however, is beside the issue. The main point is that the Russians are doing more than they have had in the past, and that their method of going about it is diametrically opposed to the prosperity theories we have been trying to work out here in the United States. Beauty In England Fascinates Wayne People On Summer Trip

Great Preparations In Progress For Coronation Of New British King

England—the country of royalty with dukes and duchesses—proved an interesting summer vacation spot to Mrs. H. C. Capsey and Hazel and Norman.

The Caspeys sailed from Montreal May 29 and reached London on June 7. Activities in London all centered around the coronation of the king of England. They were witnesses to the coming of age festival of the 17th duke of York.

Other well-known English places which were seen were: London Museum, Tower of London, London monument of the great fire of 1666, Buckingham Palace and Madame Tussauds wax works.

The return trip was made on the Queen Mary. When one gets on the boat he is given a guide book as it is easy to become lost.

Among people on the boat who held a great fascination for the Caspeys were Jesse Owen, famous athlete who received many honors in the Olympics, and Helen Hayes, movie actress.

Nebraska appeared dry and brown to Mrs. Capsey after the summer spent in England. Only two days was she able to step out of the house without a coat and it rained nearly every day.

The history of Eaton college is both unusual and amusing. Eleven hundred and fifty-eight boys are enrolled in the college at the present and the waiting list is filled up until 1948.
