FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1936.

NUMBER TWENTYFIVE

IS BEING HELD IN LONG BEACH

Officers Leave For The West To Bring Treasurer For Hearing.

Following word from Long Beach, Calif., officials Sunday night that Arthur T. Cavanaugh was being held there after identification by a former Wayne resident, Sheriff J. H. Pile and County Attorney Burr R. Davis left Tuesday by automobile for the west to bring Cavanaugh here to face charges; preferred in a complaint filed by the county attorney Monday. In telephone conversation with Pile Sunday at midnight Cavanaugh said he would waive extradition. The officers plan to be back early next week.

The complaint charges Cavanaugh with converting to his own use public money belonging to school district No. 17 of the city of Wayne. One count charges that June 30, 1934, he kept the sum of $1,856.25, and the second count charges that September 20, 1935, he kept $1,576.80.

Following an audit of school district accounts which revealed the discrepancies, Mr. Cavanaugh went away September 7, and left his car at Grand Island, and sent word to his family to get the machine there. Someone who had heard of the school fund deficiencies and who recognized Mr. Cavanaugh, notified Long Beach officials. The Long Beach report said Mr. Cavanaugh had admitted his identity and was quoted as explaining that there must have been some misunderstanding over the school accounts.

Campbell, Bryden & Kolzow, Lincoln accountants, are now auditing Wayne city records. The work will require at least a month.

WAYNE MEN VISIT LINCOLN AND GET GOOD ASSURANCES

This is a practical route. A growing college adds to the need of more tributary hard-surfaced roads to this point, and the north and south highway proposed will be of great service both to students and other travelers. The good news is emphasized by the governor's advice to the state engineer to hasten work on the road with prospect of some headway yet this fall.

ELGIN SCHOOL HEAD SPEAKS

Supt. Valdemar Peterson Addresses Kiwanians On Constitution.

"The constitution of the United States was not handed down on Mount Sinai by the Lord God of Hosts. It is not revealed law. It is no final cause. It is human means. The system of government which it provides can scarcely be read at all in the stately procession of its simple clauses. Yet its broad outlines are there sketched with deft strokes. Through long unfolding years it has been tried in the crucible of men's minds and hearts. It lacks alike perfection and perfectibility. But it has been found good—exceptingly good. It is not to be worshipped. But it is certainly to be respected. Nor is it to be lightly altered, even if it were possible. The unit that it serves or should serve is not society but the individual. As we slowly move from individualism to collectivism, as move no doubt we must, hark we the people to remember that men cannot be made good by law, that nothing that is human is infallible, and that governments, whatever their form, are only those who hold the throttle of power at the moment." This was quoted by Supt. Valdemar Peterson of Elgin, Monday in conclusion of his address to Wayne Kiwanians.

The constitution was a compromise in chaotic times when the framers wrote it in 1789. "It ranks above every other written constitution for intrinsic excellence of its scheme, its adaptation to the circumstances of the people, the simplicity, brevity and precision of language, its judicious mixture of definiteness in principle with elasticity in details," was Lord Bryce's opinion of the document.

The constitution is written in generalities providing the legislative, executive and judicial departments of government and defining their powers. The judicial is the most important, stated Mr. Peterson. At various times each political party has objected to decisions of the court. In all 73 acts have been declared unconstitutional. "The supreme court is the living voice of the constitution. . . It must resist transitory impulses and resist them the more vehement they are. . . It must be able to defy open attacks of the other departments of government, and the more flagrant; seductions of popular sentiment."

President Roosevelt charges that the constitution takes the country back to the horse and buggy age and should thus be altered. Mr. Peterson pointed out that it is true that the constitution, written before life was complex, does not provide for all situations.

To answer whether or not the constitution is adequate one must (Continued on page five)

HERALD URGED TO TAKE NO PART IN CAMPAIGN ISSUES

SOME ill feeling develops as the presidential campaign moves towards the final goal. One New Dealer advised us to cut out politics regardless of convictions and restrict the Herald's endeavors to neighborhood news. Thus, this newspaper would have no part in shaping the future of our government. Our adviser would have us smile approvingly at any leadership or any line of policies, no matter how threatening to or subversive of the present social order. The advice is quite in rapport with the president's mild-mannered campaign of late, sharply in contrast with his savage methods four years ago and with his denunciatory speeches during his administration. As clever a politician as the president cannot by exceeding suavity and pious mien persuade us to forget the direction in which he and his satellites have been leading us, nor to be indifferent to the course reasonably certain to be followed in the event of his reelection. In a crisis so serious, a newspaper shirks responsibility if it does not express its convictions, point out possible pitfalls and emphasize the way which it believes best safeguards the future. We may be friendly to democrats and republicans alike without coding the New Dealer whose performance has been clearly at variance with the long-established principles and pledges of both groups.

Lippmann for Landon

A Roosevelt supporter four years ago, Walter Lippmann (above), outstanding economic and political commentator, will support Gov. Alf M. Landon in the November election. Recipes

Turkey Puff.

Mix 2 cups mashed yellow turkeys with 1 cup mashed potatoes. Season to taste with a little sugar, salt, pepper and butter. Add 2 beaten egg yolks, beat until fluffy. Fold two stiffly beaten egg whites. Put in moulds on a greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven until brown.

Sweet Potato Balls.

2 cups mashed sweet potatoes
1 egg
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon cinnamon
1-4 teaspoon cloves
Few gratings nutmeg
3-4 cup crushed corn flakes
8 marshmallows
Beat the egg slightly and add with the spices and salt to the mashed potato. Dust the hands with flour and form the mixture into balls, concealing the marshmallows in the balls. Roll in corn flakes and fry in deep fat.

Lentils and Pork.

1-2 pound salt pork
1-2 cups lentils
1-2 cups pork broth
1 onion
2 tablespoons molasses
1-2 teaspoon mustard

1-2 teaspoon salt
Soak the lentils overnight in 4 cups water and drain. Cut the pork into slices and cook it in 1 pint of water for 15 minutes. To the pork broth add the molasses, salt and mustard. Place a slice of pork and the onion in the bottom of the bean pot, cover with the lentils and then another piece of pork. Continue until all the onions are used, saving a piece of pork for the top. Pour the seasoned liquid over the lentils. Cover and cook slowly until the lentils are tender, about 1-2 hours. If the lentils become too dry add a small quantity of boiling water from time to time.

Carrot Fritters.

1-2 cup flour
1-8 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup milk
1 egg
1-2 tablespoon cooking oil
Cooked carrots
Sift the flour and salt together, add the milk to the beaten egg, and gradually add the liquid to the dry ingredients. Then add the cooking oil and beat thoroughly. Slice the carrots crosswise in 3/4 inch slices. Dip the slices in the batter and fry in deep hot fat or cooking oil for about 5 minutes until a delicate brown. Carrot or parsnip fritters prepared in the same way are delicious served with chili sauce and crisp bacon.

Black Bean Pot.

Use 2 quarts of spotted beans. Soak overnight in salted water. Then place in cast-iron roasting pot, first lining the receptacle with 3-4 pound salt pork cut in cubes. Cover with water consisting of half water and half cooking lard. A sachet of aromatic herbs such as marjoram, thyme, laurel leaves, cloves and whole black pepper may be added and the pot placed in the oven for slow baking. As the liquid is absorbed by the beans add a little dry white wine which is salted for cooking purposes. When the beans are cooked add a water glass to strong coffee which is essential to cut the fatty matter. Before serving add 2 teaspoons dry mustard, 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Bake about 6 hours.

Spanish Squash.

1 squash
1 medium-size chopped onion
2 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes
1 cup grated cheese
1-2 cup buttered crumbs.
Cut squash in cubes, remove seeds. Steam until almost tender, drain well. Cook onion in fat till a delicate brown. Add salt, pepper, sugar, and tomatoes. Put a layer of squash in a casserole, then a layer of tomato mixture and sprinkle with cheese. Continue until all ingredients are used. Cover top with buttered crumbs. Bake in hot oven about 20 minutes or until thoroughly heated.

Squash Fritters.

1 cup grated squash
1-8 teaspoon grated onion
1-2 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1 egg
1 teaspoon melted fat or oil
Combine squash, onion, salt, pepper, sugar and flour. Mix well. Add beaten egg and fat or oil. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased griddle. Fry on both sides until a delicate brown.

Lima Beans and Spaghetti En Casserole.

1 medium onion finely cut
4 strips bacon, finely cut
2 cups cooked dried lima beans, drained
2 cups cooked spaghetti
1 can tomato soup
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash cayenne
1-4 cup mayonnaise
1-2 cup grated cheese
Bread crumbs
Cook the onion and bacon together slowly for 5 minutes. Drain off excess fat. Add the beans, spaghetti and soup and cook 5 minutes. Add the seasonings and mayonnaise. Blend until thoroughly mixed. Place in a greased casserole and cover with grated cheese and bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven for 12 minutes.

Ellen's Fruit Cake.

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 beaten eggs
2 teaspoons soda
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons cinnamon
3-4 cup wine
1 cup sour milk
4 cups flour
Cream butter and sugar, add eggs and the flour sifted with dry ingredients alternately with wine and sour milk. To this mixture add 1-2 pound citron strips
1 pound seeded raisins
1 glass candied cherries
2 cups white raisins
1 cup chopped figs
Candied pineapple
Bake in 8-12 inch pan until done.

Machines Increase Employment.

Omaha Daily Journal-Stockman. The Rust mechanical cotton picker which was tried out recently on a delta, Mississippi farm, has aroused a storm of comment in the south, because it promises to throw large numbers of laborers out of employment. Political bigwigs of at least one state have threatened to support the passage of a law to prevent its use.

If this machine was to prove successful under all conditions in which cotton is grown and was to go into common use suddenly, there might be some excuse for that kind of uproar, for laborers might suffer severely until readjustments could take place. The facts seem to be that the machine is far from perfect, although, like early corn pickers, it does fairly satisfactory work on level land where yields are high. By the time the machine is developed to a point where it will seriously compete with hand pickers, the hand laborers probably will have found other jobs. It may be noted in passing that not all of the corn grown in the Corn Belt is harvested by machinery, although the newer mechanical pickers have a reputation of doing a pretty good job.

Objection to the introduction of labor-saving machines has been heard since the beginning of the industrial revolution, but it hardly can be said that living conditions have been made worse by the changes which have taken place. H. A. Toulmin, jr., of the patent section of the American Bar association points out:

"During the past 50 years, the population of the United States has increased about 200 per cent, while jobs have increased about 300 per cent."

Occupations that have gone out of vogue have lost 800,000 jobs. The new businesses created by invention have given more than 2,250,000 jobs. The balance is undoubtedly on the right side of the ledger in favor of invention and engineering.

"It is needless to say, because it is common knowledge, that the new jobs are pleasanter and better compensated than the old."

The problems arising from the replacement of hand with machine labor, are similar to those which develop from the piling up of any kind of surplus. In this case the over-production happens to be labor, but the solution is the same as if it were wheat. It lies in proper distribution.

A Guest Editorial. (Lincoln Journal)

Caroline Bengtson of Hastings, an occasional contributor to the Public Mind, has written a letter to this paper that deserves careful reading and analysis. It is really a guest editorial of distinction. She says:

"Walter Lippman's syndicated article, 'Landon and the National Union' is historically accurate and most delightful reading."

"This is actually thrilling: 'If this world could be saved by fluent orators this world would be a paradise. As a matter of fact, it is most disordered, most nearly lunatic, where the orators are in the seats of authority.' Father Coughlin swayed congress with 40,000 telegrams, but he ought to be reminded of this statement on half a million postal cards."

"We read recently 'Sweden, The Middle Way' by M. W. Childs. Like Nebraska, Sweden knows that the law of supply and demand cannot be ignored. As Walter Lippman suggests, the way to get results is by de-liberation and compromise. Hasty reforms are always accompanied by very serious errors."

"One presidential candidate is being paraded as a gallant leader, which reminds us of Dictator Hitler, fuhrer. Our schools should put less emphasis on leadership, and more on the old idea of duty and service. The motto should be 'Come, let us reason together.'"

"When leadership is all important, and reasoning is forgotten, the end of democracy is in sight."

Special consideration of what is said in the last paragraph is urged. Miss Bengtson suggests a trend that should be checked.

Freedom Of Press

EARLY in the Roosevelt administration when the government moved in the direction of restricting accustomed liberties, freedom of the press, was threatened, but this threat diminished as it was met by popular and determined opposition. The president early indicated a desire for criticism, but what he really wanted was favorable comment with everything unfavorable carefully deleted.

The president's plea for freedom of thought in his Harvard address recently brought this editorial comment from the Norfolk Daily News:

"But freedom of speech is as important as freedom of thought—freedom to criticize government policies without being thrown off the federal payroll; freedom of the merchant to sell his customers that part of the price he charges them is made up of federal taxes, which Attorney General Cummings says he can't do without risk of a jail sentence; freedom of newspapers to be published without license from federal authority, which the press of the nation had to fight to preserve a couple of years ago.

"Invasions of freedom of thought and of speech come insidiously. They may seem trivial at first, but they serve as stepping stones to further violations of the guaranteed rights of the citizen. It is necessary to be always on guard against the first step along the path that has been followed of late by so many European nations."

Former Governor WILLIAM H. ARD, Is Interviewed

well known commentator who is heard over the radio, broadcast an interview with former Governor Turner of Iowa Friday night. Ex-governor Turner is a farmer and fully understands the problems and needs of agriculture.

Mr. Turner emphasized the trend towards regimentation in the New Deal's farm plans—notably in cotton, tobacco and potato control, all happily ended by the supreme court. He spoke of abundance rather than scarcity as a way to prosperity and content among both rural and city populations, and touched the need of more employment to increase consumption of farm products in these words:

"The unemployed in the cities must be put back to work. The farmer cannot make money trying to sell goods to people who have no money. That's basic. One of the biggest blows to the farmers has been the failure of the New Deal to put the unemployed in the cities back into jobs. That's got to be done. We must also keep the American market for the American farmer. We will cut out the import of things that come in from foreign lands and compete directly with the American farmer and take business away from him. And this goes for the foreign vegetable oils that come in here from Asia and Africa, and take the place of butterfat from our dairy farms. We will put an end to that kind of destruction from abroad."

For Crop Insurance

THE fact that both President Roosevelt and Governor Landon favor some form of crop insurance removes the proposition somewhat outside the realm of party issues. The question of who made the first move in that direction, however, may be disputed. Also whether the proposed plan—diametrically opposed to the administration's late policy of scarcity—is to be tied up inextricably with other government plans, as usually ruled by Wallace and Tugwell, will cause differences, and the weight of preference will usually follow Landon, because of his known policy to ask farmers to surrender none of their rights. Because of past attempts of the Roosevelt crowd to regiment farmers, more suspicion will attach to the present administration's flop to the insurance idea. A practical insurance plan, adopted voluntarily by the farmer, together with a system of storage, to safeguard against drouth and lean years, would seem a feasible way to stabilize agriculture and put it on a par with other industries.

Walk Up And Pay

ATTORNEY General Cummings had been prodded by growing conspicuousness of federal taxes in commodities offered for sale to dig into the statutes to find a law, and he then issued warning that he had found one which penalizes anyone for showing how much of the selling price of a thing represents federal taxes. How far the law operates in that direction the courts would have to determine. However, the attorney general sees partisan politics and an attempt to influence the election in parading the federal tax supposed to be hidden in merchandise, and he expresses the hope that his note of alarm will be heeded. Why an individual should be kept in the dark in the matter of the tax involved in his purchases is a mystery. It is a new idea to command a fellow to walk up and pay the price without asking any questions.

Years ago we were told that every man had his price. We did not believe it then, and we do not believe it now. Many assume—we think erroneously—that anyone may be bought to do the wrong thing or the thing at variance with the best interests of society, as conscience had directed, if the prize were made big enough. If such weakness were the rule, the future of society would indeed be insecure. Sturdy, resisting fiber, able to stand up for convictions regardless of cost, threads the history of development from the start, and without it society would degenerate into veritable human automatons. Some natures, enfeebled by circumstances and lacking inherent courage, may sell convictions, but fortunately they are in the minority.

The Spaniards who are engaged in an internecine conflict to find out the name under which survivors are to be enslaved and goosestepped, are giving an example of war horrors that should be a powerful force behind peace movements in other nations. If faith in immortality and preserved identities is well founded, the Spaniards who are killed, may be more fortunate than those who live to see either communists or fascists gain control. And the contending groups in Spain, with arbitrary one-man governments scattered over Europe, should be sufficient to keep the United States in the soundly progressive middle course.

Publisher Hearst charges that alien communism has come to the support of President Roosevelt in his campaign for reelection, and the president's secretary has issued a statement declaring that the president "does not welcome the vote or support of any individual or group taking orders from alien sources." Hearst replies that he did not say what the president wanted or didn't want, but merely pointed out that alien influences were for him, based on the variety of his surrounding advisers and the record of his administration. Hearst has put the administration on the defensive, and a lively battle over points involved may be expected.

A special senate committee has been investigating campaign expenses in Maine, and the report states that republicans had a larger fund and larger individual contributions than the opposition. The New Deal's contribution of millions to what congress finally decided was an impractical project in Maine was not figured into the New Deal's prelection costs.

Some time ago Editor Howard of the Columbus Telegram warned that if Carpenter and Norris should run against Simmons for the United States senate, Simmons would be elected, and in that prediction Editor Howard showed soundness of judgment which his partisan prejudice does not permit him to manifest during the heat of a political campaign.

Farmers have not forgotten the drouth, but they are not allowing recollection of it to get them down. Their alfalfa and rye are growing luxuriantly, and gardens are making up somewhat for the past summer's disappointment.

Little Pigs to North Carolina.

Nebraska Farmer: At least ten thousand little pigs are assured of a congenial climate for the remainder of their lives. They have been bought by the extension service specialist of North Carolina to be fed there on soy beans and corn. Several thousand more of their kind weighing from 40-70 pounds have been scattered across the country from Utah and California on the west to Georgia and Alabama in the southeast. The reason for this exodus is that there is little or no feed for them at home.

Nebraska welcomes those foreign markets. The one thing more welcome would have been to feed them out to marketable size on Nebraska farms. Might that have been done? Based on last year's acreage for which farmers were paid not to grow corn and at the average yield for the state, Nebraska might have grown 20,000,000 bushels more corn. At fifteen bushels per pig that would have taken care of about 1,300,000 of them.

Let it be said that hindsight is better than foresight. Looking to the future it would appear from the home-grown feeds these pigs are to receive in the South that that region is in a position to get permanently into the hog business. There is little doubt that a good many of these thousands of little pigs will become breeding stock instead of going promptly to the shambles. So while Nebraska grows less corn and other regions grow more we develop a new competitor for the cornbelt hog business.

Crop Insurance.

"Crop insurance would be valuable if a workable plan could be devised that would not be excessive in cost or otherwise objectionable," said Robert Simmons, candidate for United States senator, in a recent speech. "However, the president proposes that crop insurance was to be limited only to farmers cooperating in farm and soil conservation programs."

"Are the benefits of government to be given only to the farmer cooperating with Wallace and Tugwell? Why should a farmer be compelled to submit to other 'programs' of the administration in order to secure crop insurance? Is the farmer entitled to the benefits of one government program only on condition that he submit his own farm to the control of the government and comply with all of its programs?"

SENATOR NORRIS.

Editor W. F. Cram, Jeffersonian democrat who is fighting in the front ranks to substitute Landon for Roosevelt, says he had supported Senator Norris in his previous campaigns, for the United States senate because of his independence, but now he would oppose him because he has gone too far in left-wing demands and because he would install government monopoly—the most powerful and dangerous kind of monopoly. Editor Cram says this in conclusion: "Hence when Senator Norris in his fervor to destroy private monopoly consented to the creation of government monopoly—one-man, all-powerful, centralized, bureaucratic government, he struck a blow at American democracy which blow cancels all the good he has done. We cannot support him while he takes that road to ruin. He was headed the right way once but has gone on blindly until now he is headed the wrong way. He will have to get his votes somewhere else than from a believer in American democracy, the Jeffersonian idea of a simple form of government, with powers resting in the people rather than in the hands of an autocratic few."

suspension may be followed by renewed interest and extraordinary preparations next year. Plans should be made early. Attractions should be secured and the premium list issued months in advance. Early plans awaken early interest, auguring well for final triumph.

Self-Reliance Needed.

Children will grow up to be stronger and more self-reliant men and women if they are taught not to want things for nothing. The earlier they learn to depend on themselves, the earlier will they develop the sturdy character so essential to our democratic institutions. They should not be allowed to grow up with the idea that the world owes them a living and that all they have to do is to go out and collect. Steadily deepened sense of responsibility will put iron into youthful blood and rear a permanent barrier to government paternalism.

AN OLD YARN.

One of Mark Twain's yarns gives his experience in visiting a celebrated fortune-teller. He discovered that she had been eating garlic when she sighed, and as she led him through a dark corridor, she apologized for the absence of light, and he reassured her by asking her to leave another sign so he could follow it. He quotes her as speaking to him in this cheerful way: "Yours was not, in the beginning, a criminal nature, but circumstances changed it. At the age of nine you stole sugar. At the age of fifteen you stole money. At twenty you stole horses. At twenty-five you committed arson. At thirty, hardened in crime, you became an editor. You are now a public lecturer. Worse things are in store for you. You will be sent to congress. Next, to the penitentiary. Finally, happiness will again come—all will be well—you will be hanged. She explained how the flowers were brought to his cell by the community's elite, how hymns would be sung and how, following failure to get a reprieve, he would repent and be converted. He was assured that the preliminary attentions would be adequate compensation for the annoyance of being hanged. The famous humorist wrote the story to emphasize the patronizing attitude often developed in behalf of murderers.

L. F. Good Elected To Place At Wayne College Left By Dr. M. H. Sublette.

L. F. Good has been elected to fill the vacancy in the commercial department at the Wayne State Teachers College left by Dr. M. H. Sublette, who was released to accept a position at St. Teresa's college at Winona, Minn., with a substantial increase in salary. Dr. Sublette taught at the teachers college since 1932.

Mr. Good has been teaching at the Wayne high school for six years. He has his AB degree from Nebraska Wesleyan university, an M. A. from the state teachers college at Greeley, Colo., and has done additional work toward a doctor's degree at the University of Nebraska. He began teaching at the college Monday.

Sufficient NYA allotments have been secured for the college so that 137 students may be provided with work at $15 a month. The work has been divided, however, so that approximately 160 students are working.

Monday, October 5, the Manhattan string quartet will present the first of the entertainment programs at the college. This will be their third appearance in Wayne in the series of lyceum concerts.

Rev. M. C. Powers was the speaker at the Wednesday morning convocation. His topic was "What Next?" He brought out the fact that students attend college so that they are better able to face problems and have the proper vision to see the field of opportunity ahead. "Vision is the most important thing in life," remarked Rev. Powers. "It is the ability to see yourself in relationship to the future," he concluded. The orchestra played for the convocation and class meetings were held at the close.

The football team leaves today for its first game of the season, playing at Aberdeen, S. D., Friday. Thirty players will make the trip.

Nominations of class officers were made Wednesday and elections took place by ballot Thursday.

Crop Insurance.

Lincoln Journal: Some time ago announcement was made that on Tuesday Gov. Landon would make plain his views on crop insurance. The president, with his vast command of publicity mediums, stepped into the scene Monday and announced that he was studying crop insurance and promised that his secretary of agriculture would produce a plan by the first of the year. Crop insurance sounds fine to all persons interested in the land and its produce. A plan which will not be revealed until after election cannot be criticized during the campaign. The whole maneuver was rather carefully worked out.

Gov. Landon, in view of the president's statement, has released two paragraphs of his Tuesday speech for the information of the public. These paragraphs deal with crop insurance. The governor has not worked out all the details of his plan. But he is not vague like the president in his reference to it. He will submit all his plan to the public before election. He may thereby force the administration's hand.

The governor is a most unpredictable person. After the president jumped the gun on him he showed no irritation whatsoever. He was calm and gracious. He even advocated "fullest consideration" of crop insurance and expressed approval for "any well considered approach" to the problem. It makes no difference who originates the plan, the governor contends. The main thing is to obtain its benefits for the farmer.

All the crop insurance plans thus far discussed contemplate the insurance of crops in terms of money. A system of that kind may prove satisfactory to the farmer, but it is no solution insofar as the country is concerned. The country must deal with wealth. The destruction of a crop is a loss of wealth which constitutes a national problem.

By reimbursing a farmer in cash for the crop he loses the farmer is taken care of. But the nation is only a partial gainer. It gains inasmuch as insurance will take care of the relief of farmers who might otherwise become dependent on the nation. That is a substantial gain. But when grain and meat must be imported to take care of shortages, and when insurance money must go abroad to make purchases of seed and feed, then the net gain in wealth is reduced by the extent of the imports.

A crop insurance program, to be complete, should also provide insurance against grain shortages in drouth years or years when other crop hazards take a heavy toll.

Give Student Aid In Local Schools. The National Youth Administration's student aid program will furnish part-time employment to at least nine high school students and 137 college students in Wayne during the 1936-37 school year. Miss Gladys J. Shamp, NYA state director, announced today. The high school students earn not more than $6 monthly at a wage rate equal to that usually paid for the type of work in which they are engaged. The maximum number of hours per week which a high school student may work has been set at 20.

The average earnings for college students will be $15.00 per month with the maximum set at $20.00. In some instances the students may receive less than $15.00 in order to spread the funds to allow more students to participate in the program. College students may work a maximum of 30 hours monthly.

Plan On Meeting At Sydnor Farm. Looking ahead to another cropping year, Wayne county farmers are going to inspect sorghums on September 25 to determine if they have a place in their farming practices. They will gather at the farm of A. G. Sydnor, seven and one-half miles south and two miles east of Wayne for a sorghum meeting.

As a part of a long-time extension program for Wayne county, the meeting has been announced by Agricultural Agent Walker Moller. E. H. Doll, assistant extension agronomist at the Nebraska college of agriculture, will be present to help discuss the various varieties to be inspected. The meeting will start at 9:30 a. m.

The local gathering is one of several being held in some 40 Nebraska counties at this time in an effort to get farmers to study the possibility of growing sorghums. In some areas they have replaced some corn acreage in attempting to insure a good crop of roughage and grain. Acreages of the sorghums have increased rapidly throughout the state during the past year and the 1936 season was regarded as a "critical" one for the varieties. Their differences will be observed at the local meeting.

This contest, the third of the series, is the "rubber" game, Stanton having won the first game 7 to 2, and Laurel the second 5 to 2.

The game will see two of the League's best pitchers in action—Earl Miner of Laurel, the League's Fastball King, and Fred Whalen of Stanton, the League's star "kid" pitcher who has been hurling sensational ball all season.

This game will be well worth seeing—both Laurel and Stanton have fine ball clubs and both will be in there Sunday to "shoot the works." If you like a good game of baseball this is a game you'll enjoy... plenty!

Sowing the Wind

(Omaha World-Herald) 'Tis the common people on the one side and the plutocrats on the other—the latter "trying to save their dividends" in the presidential campaign?

That, in effect, is what Senator Norris copies home to tell his Nebraska constituents. It is the same kind of campaigning that other distinguished leaders are conducting for the Roosevelt party.

No one knows better than he that in his own state of Nebraska millions and millions of dollars of monopoly dividends are scarcer than hen's teeth, and all plumped together they could not carry Red Willow county where he makes his nominal home.

No one knows better than he that in his own state of Nebraska millions and millions of dollars of monopoly dividends are scarcer than hen's teeth, and all plumped together they could not carry Red Willow county where he makes his nominal home.

There is something more at stake in this campaign than whether the fat dividends of monopolists, trust and chain magnates and multimillionaires shall be "saved." If that were indeed the issue we might expect to see these gentry lined up unanimously for Mr. Roosevelt. For the degree of recovery that has been gained, the "abounding prosperity" that exists, is largely theirs. Recovery of dividends far exceeds the recovery of wages and salaries of the common people; recovery of dividends far exceeds the recovery of the earnings of the common people on the farms. Recovery of dividends far exceeds the recovery of jobs by the millions of common people still subsisting on public charity. And in almost four years hardly a finger has been raised in Washington against the monopolistic combines and practices that are crowding small, individual enterprise to the wall, discouraging new enterprise, and holding the wage level near the point of bare subsistence.

It is not chiefly the dividend drawers who are alarmed by this condition and protesting against it. In increasing numbers it is the common people themselves. If Senator Norris has not discovered it, it is because he has spent too long a time on vacation.

True enough, the great body of American business and industry, big and little, is arrayed against Mr. Roosevelt—despite the dividend recovery. And there is a reason for it, that constitutes the outstanding issue of the campaign. Business relishes its dividends. But it yearns also for security in the future. It will not invest, it will not expand, it will not develop new fields, without reasonable hope of a fair return.

And Prof. Tugwell tells it that under the planned economy "it will be impossible to have business operating its own industries"—that we must have a "new constitutional structure"—that we "cannot function in our present economy."

And President Roosevelt tells it that "our industrial plant is built on our last frontier has long been reached... our task now is not discovery or exploitation of material resources or necessarily producing new goods." He boasts of having set up "new instruments of power" that could be used to "shackle the liberties of the people."

The fears thus created, along with taxes not only increasingly heavy but punitive, have caused American business to turn to Governor Landon for salvation. The dread of an intent to establish "a new order" to replace free enterprise, free labor and a free society has closed the door of new and expanding opportunity to capital and labor alike. And the common people, whom Senator Norris apparently regards as mere dopes with dust in their eyes, still devoted to American ideals and traditions, still cherishing individual liberty as dearer than rubies and pearls, in increasing numbers share this feeling.

Bid On Calves For Young Folks

Wayne business men and women have contributed to a fund for bidding on Wayne county 4-H baby beeves at the show in Sioux City today. This practice has been followed for 10 years by Wayne firms so that boys and girls of Wayne county may realize greater returns for their calves.

Guests were: Mrs. Seth Alexander, Mrs. Gerson Allvin, Mrs. O. B. Haas, Mrs. C. C. Powers, Mrs. Geo. Fox, Mrs. Elmer Phillips, Mrs. Herbert Reuter, Mrs. H. W. Winterstein. Prizes went to Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Allvin, Mrs. Harold Quinn and Mrs. Winterstein.

History Repeats. Nebraska Farmer: It is natural, following serious crop disasters, to hear rumors of discontent and desire to terminate to move to a better country. Some have done so in the past to their profit or eternal regret. In any event it is well to take note of certain facts before pulling up stakes and going where grass seems a little greener.

First of all, if there are sections of more favorable climate and surer crop production, it may be taken for granted that others have already leaped of it, and the road to that region will be dusty from the footsteps of hundreds there ahead of you. This means that the mythical golden opportunity may fade away into discomfort, want and privation while seeking some means of a livelihood. On the west coast one can find many people who migrated there because of the more attractive climate and the proverbial rainbow of opportunity, and after weary weeks and months of job hunting are now living in shacks and waiting for a chance and money to move out.

Experiences of the past teach a valuable lesson to those who would go west, east or any direction. The severe droughts of the nineties were followed by a farmer exodus back to "God's" country or to the wife's folks, leaving behind property which could be bought dirt cheap by those who had the courage and means to stick it out. A great many of the well-to-do farmers and business-people in the middle west today profited from the opportunity to buy cheap farms and property sacrificed by those who were not to wait for the inevitable upturn in agriculture and business that followed when the rains came again. History will repeat.

Mr. Norris is "Forced"

(Omaha World-Herald) "We know," says Terry Carpenter, "as well as every citizen of Nebraska knows, that Senator Norris wants to retire... His filing is forced on him by those who are his friends as well as by those who have fought him all his life."

Heading The Signs

(Auburn Herald) Many motorists seem to have the notion that traffic warning signs, including stop signals, are placed in towns and along the highways for the sole purpose of delaying them and in some way interfering with their personal liberty. Because of this attitude they pay little attention to such signs and disregard the real purpose for which they are provided. That purpose is to protect the individual from the results of his own thoughtlessness and carelessness.

For instance, the records show that a great many accidents have happened on curves and hills and so signs reading "Do Not Pass On Curves or Hills" have recently been placed along the highways. They are there to remind the careless driver—not to inconvenience him, but to save his life.

It may be true that Senator Norris really did want to retire. If so, defeat will not be so hard to take. But there are few hungers that can become so consuming and so chronic as the hunger for public office. It has made the senator a candidate again and again when he "wanted to retire."

His record, indeed, is a remarkable one in this respect. He came to Nebraska as a youth in 1885—51 years ago. For a short while he practiced law. Very soon he won an election as prosecuting attorney, and from that time on he has been continuously in public office, for almost half a century. Always until now he has sought election as a republican. He has supported every republican nominee for the presidency, except that in 1928 he threw in his lot with Alfred E. Smith, and since then with Franklin D. Roosevelt. He has coldly withheld his support from candidates of either party below the presidential rank, devoting himself exclusively to the promotion of his own aspirations. And he has pursued this course with amazing success.

Should defeat now come to Senator Norris, it will be due in part to a popular feeling that he is playing fast and loose with the primary system which he so long has championed. He refused to submit his candidacy to the primary voters of either party. Probably his reason is that he considers neither party worthy of his allegiance. He has always held both in considerable contempt, though consenting to use one for election purposes. His support of Roosevelt is wholly personal, as is Roosevelt's support of him.

There is another popular feeling not favorable to Senator Norris. It is the extensively held belief, well supported by evidence, that Mr. Roosevelt and Chairman Farley, and not the 40 thousand Nebraska petitioners, are responsible for his candidacy; and they, more than Lawrence, have "forced" him to run when he was yearning for retirement. And Nebraskans are rather proud of their right and ability to manage their own political affairs. There is proper resentment against being carpet-bagged.

There are tragedies in politics. It may well be that the saddest tragedy that could befall Senator Norris would be his reelection. For in the senate he has been respected for independence and courage. He has occupied a position of influence. But now, an old man, he has become a yes-man to the president. Whatever Mr. Roosevelt is for he is for. And with this his prestige dims and his commanding position will be lost. The Antichrist to his career might be, not his defeat, but the vanished glory that would embitter his fifth term in the senate.

Employment Vs. Charity

(Omaha Journal-Stockman: Out of all the federal relief problems there arises one clear note. And this comes from Utah where the Latter Day Saints announce boldly that the church proposes to carry its own from now on by providing employment for them. The point is not so much that the church is taking over the relief resources that have been handled by the government as that the church thus clearly recognizes the fact that the answer to the problem is work.

It is an inspiring thought that a great religious organization recognizes the distinction between charity and employment. The giving of charity weakens the recipient and destroys his morale while the providing of employment tends to make the recipient more self-respecting and in every way a more useful citizen. Employment builds character while charity weakens it and is destructive of the high class citizenship that this country demands.

Always there will be certain numbers of people—the dependent aged, the afflicted, women and children—who must be helped either at public or private expense, or both. But the best form of assistance for the able-bodied unemployed is work in private industry. Properly encouraged and freed from unwise restrictions and burdensome taxes, industry can provide jobs for the great bulk of the idle who are able and willing to labor for their own sustenance. That is a basic principle of American character and well-being.

rosewater, the fruit in grape juice. Cream shortening and sugar, add well-beaten egg yolks, then spices, grape jelly and chocolate. Next add stiffly beaten egg whites and part of the flour. Roll remaining fruit in the flour, mixing into batter in small amounts. Add nuts; mix thoroughly. Bake in a moderate oven 3-1-2 hours. Place cake in covered tin box and keep until holiday time.

Orange Sherbet. 1 teaspoon gelatine 1 1-4 cups orange juice 1-4 cup lemon juice 1 cup whipped cream 1 cup sugar Soak gelatine in 1 tablespoon cold water, dissolve in heated fruit juice to which sugar has been added. Cool. Pour into tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze to a mush. Fold in stiffly beaten cream and continue freezing until desired consistency, about 3 hours, stirring once after first hour.

Chilled Dessert. Place vanilla wafer on plate, spread with whipped cream and slice of banana dipped in lemon juice. Repeat using 4 wafers to each portion. Top with teaspoon strawberry jam. Chill.

Jack O'Lantern Salad. 2 cups diced apples 1 cup diced celery 1-2 cup nut meats Halves of canned peaches Whole cloves Strips of pimento Lettuce Combine apples, celery and nut meats. Moisten with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise dressing and place a mound of the salad in a nest of crisp lettuce. On the mound of salad place a half canned peach with the round side up, and insert 2 whole cloves to represent eyes, a clove lengthwise for a nose and a thin strip of pimento for a mouth.

Just how the church will go about the matter of providing more employment will be watched with much interest by the whole nation as the sentiment is all one way—it is better to put men and women to work than to put them on charity rolls. The latter, of course, is the easy way but there has been too much of a disposition on the part of all of us to take the easy way out of the difficulty.

Any solution of the problem that builds up citizenship is infinitely to be preferred to a system that tends to increase dependency and it may be that the Latter Day Saints church, in taking over the problem of caring for the unfortunate, may show the way. At any rate, the theory that these unfortunate must be benefited spiritually as well as physically is worthy of the highest consideration by state and nation.

A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "To grasp the reality and order of being in its Science, you must begin by reckoning God as the divine Principle of all that really is... BOBBY THATCHER—Wearing Out His Welcome

AROUND NORTHEAST NEBRASKA

Many inquiries are coming in from graduates of the commercial schools and high schools, asking for positions as stenographers. It should be noted that the civil service had 110,000 applications this summer for positions as stenographers in the various bureaus of the government. While most of the positions are filled through civil service, many are filled in some of the new bureaus through political patronage. However, those with civil service rating seem to have the best chance at securing permanent positions. The advice to these young people is to take the civil service examination and get their name on the eligible list.

Many fine young men are calling at the office every day asking for information regarding possibilities of becoming commissioned officers in the army and navy through appointment to the West Point Military academy, and the naval academy at Annapolis. This information is given to these young men, and many of them are planning to take the civil service examination, which this congressional office offers to all of those interested. This district now has four young men in the military academy, and three in the naval academy. All seven of these young men were appointed through the merit system, after having passed the civil service examination. The last reports from both academies indicate that all of these seven young men are doing exceptionally well.

George Lingenfelter, a farmer living near Plainview, Neb., assisted in giving a party in the beautiful Plainview park recently. The Plainview high school band, which is one of the finest school bands of the district, gave a fine concert, attended by over a thousand people who thoroughly enjoyed the numbers rendered in a highly competent manner. The park commission at Plainview, is eliminating some of the old trees in the park and the planting of new trees will not only beautify the park, but will invite those who come there to enjoy the comfortable cool and shade.

Over the district there are farmers who are filling their silos with corn stalks. In most places there is no corn on the stalks but the stalks will make very good feed. Some of the farmers are even putting Russian thistle into these silos.

If we have a little more rain in this district we will have good fall pastures. If we can pasture up to the first of December it will result in saving considerable storage feed.

Some farmers who have rye and wheat seed on hand, are selling rye seed at a dollar a bushel and wheat seed at a dollar and eight cents per bushel.

Whatever corn is in the field, reasonably matured, will make exceptionally good seed, providing it is properly taken care of. If we have a late fall, all of the corn will make good seed. Otherwise corn should be picked and hung up to dry. This is the belief of most farmers who say that during a dry year all corn usually makes good seed and it is during wet years that we have trouble with our seed. As a result farmers are busy picking this corn, and saving it for seed. All rye, corn, and wheat seed will be of good quality. This is because the grain did not get wet in the shock.

Hay is now cheaper than it was two weeks ago, and farmers are not buying it as readily as they did some weeks ago. Hay is being sold around Norfolk now at around twelve dollars a ton. This drop in the hay price is the result of filling silos with forage.

Farmers are selling off some of their stock, and keeping just about enough to balance what feed supply they have on hand. They are aiming not to keep any stock which they cannot feed through the winter. A hard winter may catch the farmers in a very bad farm condition, and a light winter may bring them through in fine shape.

Inquiries have been received from some of the counties concerning the program of the National Youth Administration, also, complaint that the county quota of NYA school aid is insufficient. Following the time that the matter has been taken up with the state director of the National Youth Administration, the word comes that additional funds have been allowed to help in the drought situation and that notice is being sent to the different counties of increases in the county quotas for student aid.

Twentyseven farmers joined together on a farm near Breslau, in putting ensilage into trench silos.

The feed around Breslau, will not be as plentiful as it has been in the past due to the hot, dry weather we have had. Newspaper reports had it that Breslau enjoyed a full inch of rain recently, but an inspection of the fields there proved that no more than a quarter of an inch had fallen. One field which was taken out of production and which was plowed up in June, was practically dried to a crisp on September 11.

Hardly a weed could be found in that field. The farmer upon this land, is expected to plant it to alfalfa, but because of the dry condition of that particular field, he feels that putting expensive alfalfa seed into the ground will be a complete loss. However, under his soil conservation agreement, he must plant a soil-building crop. KARL STEFAN

ORGANIZES UNIT OF VOLUNTEERS

Jeffersonian Democrats And Republicans To Aid Important Cause.

Wayne county unit of Republican Volunteers was organized with about 100 members Saturday at a rally held in Wayne auditorium, the purpose being to combine the efforts of Republicans and Jeffersonian democrats in promoting the candidacy of Landon and Knox. David J. Hamer, of Wayne, was chosen president. Vice presidents are Mrs. James Hancock of Carroll, Julius Schrodde of Winside, Mrs. Wm. Hugelmann of Wakefield, Henry Langenberg of Hoskins, and Mrs. G. J. Hess of Wayne. Dr. T. T. Jones of Wayne, is secretary-treasurer. Nominations were made by R. C. Hahlbeck, Burr R. Davis, Ray Dilts and E. J. Davis.

T. S. Hook, county chairman of the republican central committee, introduced Paul F. Koenig, Chicago attorney, who addressed the gathering.

It was tax oppression, Mr. Koenig explained, that led people to leave their native land in Europe and come to America. And yet the New Deal has saddled onto the country expenses which will be paid for in several generations to come. Roosevelt has spent more in three years than all the other presidents, during the history of this nation. Before the New Deal, 66 percent of the taxes were paid by the wealthy and now this proportion is paid by the common man and the rich only pay 32 percent. The common man now pays the major part of the expenses in "hidden taxes." On a loaf of bread which costs 10c the tax is 2c. This and other everyday necessities now carry as high as 25 percent of their cost in taxes, Mr. Koenig showed.

When Landon became governor of Kansas, Mr. Koenig explained, the state had a debt of $154,000,000. The debt has been cut to $130,000,000 and taxes reduced 9 percent in Kansas.

Ten million were out of work when Roosevelt went into office and 11 million are now out of work. The speaker quoted Robert G. Simmons when he said that it is his belief that local county officials are better able to judge needy and deserving people in relief work than are officials sitting in Washington and drawing high salaries. He favors handling all the relief work through local officials who know the situations.

The extravagant ways of Roosevelt were contrasted with the simplicity of Landon. Roosevelt's last fishing trip cost $300,000, the speaker stated. This contrasts sharply with Landon's putting on hip boots and wading out into a stream to catch trout.

"We may make a public utility out of agriculture," the speaker quoted from Secretary Wallace. It would then be necessary to have a permit on each field planted and marketing of farm products would be under complete control of the government. The supreme court saved the country from a start in direction of such regimentation.

Agriculture deserves protection from outside competition and from unjust discrimination. Mr. Koenig showed that 60 percent of the eggs used in bakeries of Chicago are powdered eggs shipped in from China. Much of the ham comes from Poland and lots of the bacon from Ireland. Prices the American farmers receive for these products would be much higher; if this unfair competition were stopped. An agreement with Canada allows cotton and fruit to go into that country in exchange for wheat and other grains shipped into this country. This discriminates against northern farmers by flooding the markets with Canadian wheat and thus cutting down the price American farmers get for their wheat.

When Roosevelt took the oath of office he agreed to protect the constitution. During his administration he has, the speaker showed, attempted to change and to violate the constitution which was signed by its writers to give a balance of powers and prevent usurpation of power by any department. He quoted Calvin Coolidge, who seemed to foresee the present crisis, in this "It is natural for man to seek power. Because of this the founders of the constitution provided checks and balances. They placed all officials under constitutional limitation for they were apprehensive that the executive might seek dictatorial powers."

Preservation of the freedom for which the founders established this nation is the chief issue at stake in the present campaign, Mr. Koenig concluded.

Wayne Municipal board, directed by Prof. F. C. Reed, furnished a concert before the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Colson were in Norfolk Tuesday evening for a meeting.

Named Candidate For High Office

Mrs. Lorena Hahn Endorsed For National Presidency Of Auxiliary.

"With genuine pride and affection Nebraska presents Mrs. Lorena Hahn as candidate for national president of the American Legion Auxiliary. Her outstanding service record demonstrates her ability to perform faithfully and well the many duties befalling this high office. Mrs. Hahn has given conspicuous service to the state and national organizations. She is a woman of rare intelligence, outstanding executive ability and strong leadership." In these words the Nebraska Legion and Auxiliary at its state convention recently in Omaha unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Mrs. Hahn of Omaha, formerly of Wayne, for the nation's highest office in the Auxiliary. Two others nominated for the office withdrew their names and Mrs. Hahn was the only candidate for the position when the national convention opened in Cleveland Sunday this week. Election was scheduled for Wednesday or today. Mrs. Hahn went to Cleveland Tuesday last week and Mr. Hahn went for the convention.

Mrs. Hahn's activity in the Legion Auxiliary started about 10 years ago when she was attending a state convention. She was invited to lead the flag salute and she made the ceremony so impressive that she was elected to office. She has served in state and national capacities since.

Mrs. Hahn organized the Clarkston, Neb., Auxiliary unit and served as its first president. In the Third district, which was larger than it is at present, she was president three years. In the state department Mrs. Hahn was rehabilitation chairman in 1928-29; department president in 1929-30; national committeewoman, defense chairman and member of the state advisory board in 1930-31. She served the state two years as convention chairman and three years as member of the finance committee.

In the national organization Mrs. Hahn was chairman of trophies and awards for two years. She served as chairman of membership, divisional chairman of gold star and treasurer of the past presidents' parley in 1932-33. She was national vice president of north-northwest division in 1933-34; historian in 1934-35 and national chairman of rehabilitation in 1935-36.

Member of a pioneer western Nebraska family, Mrs. Hahn, nee Heitler, 38, spent her girlhood in western Nebraska. She was graduated from Raverhaugh high school. Afterward she attended a Catholic academy to which only 25 girls of special ability were admitted. Later she went to the University of Nebraska and there received her A. B. degree. She taught five years at North Bend and Clarkson. She was married 14 years ago to O. W. Hahn and the family includes one son, Billy, 9. Mr. Hahn is junior appraiser for the federal land bank with headquarters in Omaha.

The Drouth Special. (Sam McKelvie in The Issue)

"The president's drouth special was heralded as a purely non-political occasion. Of course every one who knows the Farley machine and its tactics knew that it would not be so. It was a master political stroke handled only as the suave Mr. Roosevelt and his cohorts could do it.

"In advance of the president's arrival at Pierre, S. D., four leading democrats from (Valentine, Neb., were invited to meet him. None of them were farmers, none of them especially informed on drouth relief, and one was chairman of the democratic state committee. This, no doubt, was illustrative of what took place along the entire line.

"Then when the president got back to the white house his first act was to take the public into his confidence by radio about what he saw and what he intended to do. None of it was news, but to the unsophisticated public it was the most powerful vote-getting speech he ever has made.

"So while Mr. Landon pays all the expenses of his campaign Mr. Roosevelt campaigns at the expense of the taxpayers. Can it be that the public will prove indifferent to such deceitful and unjust practices? * * *

"The president's drouth, relief, and reemployment fireside chat was indeed a humdinger. Among other things he said that he had asked every one along the line about whether there were any WPA or PWA projects in their community that they did not approve of. In other words, 'Brother, do you object to the last million we gave you?'

"And as he expected, everyone said, 'Certainly not!'

"But even as he was saying it David Lawrence on a trip throughout the United States reported from Colorado that Pueblo county had received $2,233,096 of federal money for local projects. Among these was a golf course at $100,000 plus. In constructing it a ditch some 4,200 feet long was dug and then re-dug because the first one was in the wrong place. And then there was $210,370 on improvements at the state fair grounds and these grounds are idle all of the year except one week; nor did it matter that it is purely a local enterprise for which the United States, including all of Colorado, will have to pay. Horse barns on those fair grounds are really palatial, each one of the ten units costing about $23,597. That's horse and buggy days with a vengeance! All of that having been done, $50,000 of federal money must be spent improving streets and driveways to the state fair grounds. The roof and extension of the poultry building cost about $25,000.

science enjoyed by others, which allow them to promise all things to all men. He believes in keeping his word. He tempers his own self-confidence with a belief in the ability of other men. There is in Governor Landon a driving force of character that has carried him from a humble worker in the oil fields to the leadership of a great party, a strength of will that held him, in the emergency in 1932 when he first took office as governor of Kansas, to the pledges he made as candidate for governor; and a high courage that could hold the honor of a nomination for the presidency of less importance than his own honest convictions and beliefs. But with these qualities are mingled a sense of proportion and a true sense of humor, that see in every incident of life the relative values of the truth and of the half-truth that honors the efforts of those who came before him and considers his obligations to those who will come after."

Michigan Portents. (Omaha World-Herald)

The wrong in the Michigan primaries was hardly less notable in its significance than that of the Maine election.

Defeat of Senator Couzens for the republican nomination was not unexpected for he had declared his support of Roosevelt rather than for the presidential candidate of his own party.

But "the size of his opponent's majority—more than 120 thousand votes"—reports the Washington bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, "stunned Washington observers, who had counted to regard Couzens as an institution, impregnable and unshakable. His personal and political independence, his numerous philanthropies, his stern integrity and the undebatable altruism of his motives, combined to make him seem invulnerable."

Couzens showed his courage to the end. He did not choose a year when he was not himself a candidate to oppose the presidential nominee of his own party. He gave the rank and file of his party a fair whack at him. And they seized, with avidity, the opportunity to register their disapproval. His eminent standing, his widespread popularity, could not save him. Much as they loved and admired Couzens they stood by their convictions as all good citizens should.

In our own state Senator Norris faces somewhat the same test. Long holding high office at the hands of the republican party, he now for the third time supports the opposition candidate for president. He refused, this year, to submit his candidacy to the primary verdict of either party, holding both in disdain. He presents himself, as a Roosevelt candidate—"Roosevelt is the platform"—against both party nominees for senator. Whether republicans who are for Landon will desert to him in sufficient numbers, whether democrats will repudiate the verdict of their own primaries to such an extent as to give him a chance for election, remains for the ballot box count to determine. But what has happened in Michigan casts a shadow over Mr. Norris' hope of going, in his seventy-first year, for the fifth time to the senate as anti-democratic, anti-republican, and only pro-Roosevelt and pro-Norris.

Another aspect of the Michigan voting is distinctly surprising. The Coughlin candidate for the democratic senatorial nomination, Louis B. Ward, strongly anti-Roosevelt, came within five thousand votes of defeating Congressman Prentiss Brown, administration favorite and ardent new dealer. Ward acts as the Washington representative of the Detroit priest. He made few speeches. During a large part of the campaign he was confined in a hospital. The newspapers paid little attention to his candidacy. The nomination of the administration favorite was regarded as a matter of course. But Ward polled 100 thousand democratic votes and came within an ace of winning the nomination.

And this casts another shadow—this one over Mr. Roosevelt's confidence in re-election.

How great, really, is the Coughlin influence? How great the Lemke and Townsend and Gerald Smith defection of voters who, four years ago, contributed to pile up the huge Roosevelt majority? The numerous polls gave little indication of so great a following for the Coughlin banner as the Michigan primary vote reveals.

Apparently there exist currents and cross-currents in the political waters that run deep—and silently. And evidently it is going to take the count to determine what the result will be in November.

Governor Alf. M. Landon.

Calmly and soberly Governor Landon has told the nation what he believed it needed most—the restoration of confidence, the preservation of equality of opportunity, and the return of competent administration in the field of government.

"Unlike the speeches of many figures in the public eye for the last three and a half years, those of Governor Landon reflect his own thoughts and his own words. He does not believe in elaborate phrases, for he has nothing to hide. He does not indulge in personal abuse, for there is no bitterness in his nature. He does not seek to divide men into classes, for like the majority of our citizens he does not admit the existence, in this country, of the foreign creed of class.

"Governor Landon is not the kind of man that Mr. Farley understood. He is not particularly interested in political manipulation nor has he that flexibility of con-

Passengers in the smoking compartment on my train were arguing about why railroad business is picking up.

A factory owner said it was because of this new free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight. This is door-to-door service with no extra charge added to the freight bill.

A traveling salesman said it was because so many passenger and freight trains now run on faster schedules.

There was a school principal in the group and he said it was because train travel is so much cheaper for passengers. He said passenger fares are at the lowest point in history, with substantial reductions if you buy a round-trip ticket—and no more surcharge for riding in sleeping cars.

One man, a farmer, said he liked something he could depend on, that's why he was traveling by train.

Another man, a newspaper reporter, said people were in favor of railroad travel because it is by far the safest. He quoted a lot of statistics from a book called, "Live and Let Live."

A banker we all know by name said railroad tax payments mean a lot in this state.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.
