

FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR

ART IS THEME OF COLLEGE TALK

Dr. Jacobson Of Oklahoma Addresses Wayne Students Tuesday Afternoon.

"Art is the integral part of life in every age and every country," stated Dr. Oscar Brouse Jacobson of Norman, Okla., who spoke at Wayne college Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Jacobson is director of the fine arts college at the state university in Norman, where 680 are enrolled in this one department with 13 art and 20 music and eight dramatic instructors.

Dr. Jacobson showed how art represented life from earliest times to the present. Climate and politics are reflected in the life of France and this in turn affects art.

The speaker complimented Nebraskans on their state capitol, stating that many come long distances to see this piece of art which is expressive of the life of Nebraska.

State Art Meeting: The Nebraska State Art Teachers association convenes in Wayne April 24. Miss Martha Pierce is president, and Miss Maude Curley secretary-treasurer of the association.

Prof. Keith will serve as instrumental critic and Prof. Russell Anderson as vocal critic at the Knox county music festival in Verdigris March 19.

A mystery play was given by the Wayne college dramatics class Wednesday evening. Miss Florence Drake was in charge of the production.

Prof. Ray Hickman was in charge of the convocation Wednesday morning. His talk was entitled "Models."

The second issue of the alumni news will appear this month. It is planned to publish another one before the close of school.

Word has been received from Miss Margaret Schemel, exchange instructor to England, that she will have a three-weeks' Easter vacation which she is planning to spend at the Riviera.

BASKETBALL MEET STARTS IN WAYNE WITH HIGH HOPES

THE DISTRICT basketball tournament beginning in Wayne today and lasting over Saturday, will attract many high school students and others.

Championship trophy is a bronze plaque mounted on a walnut background. These are uniform in all district events. The runner-up receives a silver basketball figure mounted on a pedestal.

Indications point to an especially interesting tournament because of the large number of strong teams. Wayne Prep, undefeated this season, is rated as strongest.

Preparations being made now are for asking bids on grading and structures. Hills will be cut down and the road widened. It was planned to ask bids on the work this March but the time has had to be delayed because the new gasoline tax bill is still pending in the legislature.

Geo. Koster is here working with Engineer T. C. Cunningham in making the preliminary survey relative to the right-of-way.

Receive Quotas In New Program

Wayne county quota for soil depleting base acres and the quota for corn acres, have been received in the 1937 soil conservation program.

That Wayne county farmers participating in the 1937 program will earn part of their payments by planting trees was indicated by the fact that many applications have been filed for trees.

Wayne county will be well represented in the annual pasture contest which is part of the soil improvement program. Cash prizes again total $1,500.

Canadians Are Honored Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Crampton, Miss Nina and Grant Crampton of Manitow, Manitob, Canada, who are spending this week with Mr. Crampton's aunt, Mrs. A. McEachen, were guests of honor Sunday when Mrs. McEachen and William McEachen entertained at dinner. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. James McEachen and sons, Jimmy and Edmund, of Lincoln, Supt. and Mrs. Howard McEachen and sons, Billy and Dickey, of Neligh, Dr. Esther McEachen and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Loder of Omaha, Miss Gertrude McEachen of Albion, George A. McEachen, Miss Helen, Bob and Don McEachen. The Cramptons have been on an extended trip and are visiting Wayne relatives until the last of this week when they go to Bancroft.

Plan For Program By Grade Pupils

Grades of Wayne city school are planning a program at the auditorium Friday evening, March 12, when the newly organized drum and bugle corps will be featured with the rhythm band, little colonial dancers and other numbers.

HOLD TOURNEY AT AUDITORIUM

Sixteen High School Teams Enter Competition Here For Three Days.

One of the 16 class B basketball tournaments in Nebraska is being held this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the new city auditorium in Wayne, 16 high school teams being entered.

Fremont Building Dedicated Monday

Fremont's new auditorium was dedicated Monday evening when Governor R. L. Cochran and Dan Stephens were principal speakers. The building is like Wayne's, only larger, and cost $132,000. The program was attended by 3,000, among them Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Blair of Wayne. Mayor M. F. Ringer had special invitation to be present but was unable to go.

Outdoor Easter Service Planned

Ministerial Association Arranges For Sunrise Union Program.

The Wayne Ministerial association met in regular session at St. Paul's Lutheran church on Monday, and laid preliminary plans for a community sunrise service on Easter morning.

In spite of greatly reduced farm income, taxes have increased in the past few years," according to Frank G. Arnold of Fullerton, president of the Nebraska Taxpayers' League, who addressed between 80 and 100 at the city hall in Wayne Saturday afternoon.

W. H. O'Gara of Laurel, ex-speaker of the house at Lincoln, spoke briefly in support of the work being done by expert leadership of the state federation. C. D. Haskell of Laurel, treasurer of the state league, told of methods of financing the work of the county taxpayers' leagues.

J. J. Ahern expressed opinion that a taxpayers' league is of value to the community and state. He stated that he feels that good beginnings have been made. F. S. Berry commended the purposes of the state league and its unselfish motives.

Miss Margaret Meyer, sister of the bridegroom, and John Gradert, brother of the bride, attended the couple.

The bride wore a grey crepe dress with accessories to match. Her attendant wore a primrose and white carnations. The bridegroom wore a grey suit and his attendant a blue suit.

The couple are living on a farm south of Wakefield where Mr. Meyer is employed by Dan Lamb.

Program Is Given For Nebraska Day

Wayne high school students heard a Nebraska day program put on by the ninth grade civics class Monday in the assembly. March 1 marked the 70th anniversary of Nebraska's statehood.

The Wayne county association elected directors to fill vacancies on its board as follows: Louis Gubels for Sherman precinct; S. J. Hale, Hunter; John Grier, Wildard; Martin Ringer, Wayne First ward.

Dr. J. G. Lewis, secretary of the county organization, is invited by the state league to represent Wayne county this Thursday at Lincoln in discussing with the agricultural committee measures pending in the legislature.

GRAVEL LAYER IS GREATLY REDUCED ON THE HIGHWAYS

HIGHWAYS hereabouts have little gravel left after a tough winter, and they will generally need resurfacing to be put in shape for the coming year. Copious rains which are due and expected, would convert many road stretches into impassable mud.

Heavy snows removed from the highways took much of the gravel. Cars and especially trucks have caused annoying ruts in spots. Considerable work and expense will be required to bring the highways back to a condition that will not remain one of snow barriers and the efficiency of snow plows. The way gravel disappears from roads during a snowy winter is an argument for the more expensive, but more permanent concrete or oil road.

ROLL OF HONOR IS NAMED HERE

Honor roll has been compiled for the first six-week period of second semester at Wayne high school.

High raters follow: Seniors, Blaine Auker, Alice Baker, Wilma Baker, Elvira Schroeder, Betty Wright, Gerald Wright, Hazel Capsey, Dwaine Dunning, Verona Hahlbeck, Eugene Johnson, Lillian Larson, Margaret Mau, Delores McNatt, Dorothy Mattingly, Rudenick Peck and Dorothy Heidenreich; juniors, Faye Sandahl, Betty Blair, Betty Helen Ellis, Roberta Baker, Mildred Ringer, Beverly Canning, James Kingston, Helen Osborne, Ruth Lundberg, Dorothy Lutt, Leland Preston and Robert Wright.

Married Saturday At Sister's Home

Miss Florence Jeffrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeffrey of Wayne, was married to Mr. Vernon W. Van of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van of Griswold, Ia., Saturday noon at the home of the bride's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Soderberg, in Wakefield with Rev. W. Byrd Ray, Presbyterian minister, officiating.

The bride, who was dressed in dark blue crepe, wore white accessories and carried a blue and white snappers and baby breath. The couple was unattended.

Following the ceremony, luncheon was served to the immediate relatives and Rev. and Mrs. W. Byrd Ray. The bride's colors of blue and white were carried out in table decorations.

Give Out Checks In Soil Program

About $50,931 in 1936 soil conservation program payments were distributed in Wayne county the past week. The county committee was in Winside Saturday, Carroll Monday and Wayne Tuesday to give out checks. This is about one-third of the amount to be received.

Deaths On Wednesday. Mrs. S. W. Cissna's mother died Wednesday at Dunlap, Iowa, and funeral services are to be Friday. Mr. Cissna took Mrs. Cissna to Duplax Sunday.

BOOSTERS COME TO VISIT WAYNE

Tribe Of Yessir Provides Program For Large Group Gathering Here.

The Tribe of Yessir of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, visits Wayne Thursday, March 18, when a banquet and program are planned at the auditorium.

Omaha will bring a speaker and an entire program of musical and humorous entertainment. The Tribe of Yessir "ritual" will be presented.

About 100 Omaha business men will arrive by special train Thursday at 4:30 p. m. They will visit business houses until 6:30 when Carl Nicholaisen serves dinner at the auditorium. The program starts at 7:10 and each member holding a ticket has a lady's complimentary ticket. This entitles a lady to come to the 7:10 program. The special train leaves for Omaha at 9:30. Promptness will be observed.

The Tribe of Yessir has visited 45 Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri cities in the past five years.

F. B. Decker, L. E. Brown, Harold Preston, Dr. R. W. Casper and Armand Hiscox are in charge of ticket sales, and they state that none will be allowed to obtain tickets after next Wednesday.

The Inter-club Relations committee of the Wayne club, including G. B. Sanberg, C. L. Pickett and W. R. Hickman, will visit clubs of nearby towns to invite them to Wayne for the occasion and to promote ticket sales.

Other towns invited to send representatives are Allen, Altona, Beemer, Belden, Carroll, Coleridge, Concord, Dixon, Emerson, Hartington, Hoskins, Laurel, Norfolk, Pender, Pier, Pilger, Randolph, Sholes, Stanton, Thurston, Wakefield, West Point, Winside and Wisner.

Woman Is Chosen To Hall Of Fame

Mrs. W. B. Bowers of Chicago, sister of Miss Martha Pierce, has recently been named a member of Chicago's Hall of Fame. Women of the city who have given some outstanding service for the civic life of the city are chosen. Mrs. Bowers, whose husband is a physician, has led a movement of the Martha Washington Women's club in purchasing an old mansion and converting this into an institution to help crippled children. The house provides 20 beds, and children from poor families are given every care until they are cured or until all possible is done for them. Then others are admitted. Chicago recognizes the work as outstanding.

Instructor Given Promotion In Work

Richard Kyl, shop and manual training instructor in West Point high school for the past eight years, has been elected to a similar position in the Harlan, Iowa, school and will move there the last of this week to accept. The Harlan position is a substantial advancement. Mr. Kyl is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Kyl and Mrs. Kyl a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spahr of Wayne.

er Rate Suggested as Payne to Beautify To Local Nominations Hartington Youth Honor — Inexperience Individual Makes Good — Heredity and Environment — Dr. Townsend — Less Government Meddling Needed.

Wayne's city water rate is fixed at twenty-five cents for the first five gallons with a sliding scale that drops as low as twelve cents, determined by the quantity used. It has been suggested that lower rate would encourage water conservation in preventing trees and lawns. The attentiveness of a community depends to a considerable degree on trees and grass-covered, and flower-bedded yards, and these require plenty of water as well as much effort. Dead trees and browned lawns testified to lack of moisture last year. If cheaper water is needed to beautify the town, we hope the council will be able to figure out a way to provide it.

Increased Interest. Attendance at municipal convention and caucuses Friday evening was larger than usual, and the interest manifested was reassuring. Results were generally satisfactory.

Holding rival meetings and naming two groups of candidates is a sound public policy will spring into reality when an issue develops definitely, and people are aroused to take sides.

The Editorial Winner. The Hartington Herald reports that the winning editorial in the late contest sponsored by the Nebraska Press association was written by Walter Stevens of Hartington. We understand the young man is a graduate of the Hartington high school and is a reporter for the Cedar County News. While we question the appropriateness of injecting New Deal politics into a non-partisan contest, the young man deserves to be congratulated over the way he handled his subject. The $25 which he receives as reward, will justly stimulate his future endeavors.

In Far Away Oregon. We have been reviewing a section of a Klamath Falls, Ore., newspaper giving the newspaper history of Klamath county. We were included during a four-year period beginning in the autumn of 1899. We sold to a man named Smith, and we understood at the time a lawyer with political ambition backed the purchase. Smith was a timber cruiser without previous newspaper experience, to have made good. We were most favorably impressed at the time by his evident integrity and candor, and we are glad to learn thirty-four years later that our appraisal was correct. He is mentioned in the report as a fellow of outstanding honesty. It seems the lawyer was disappointed in politics, and so he quietly faded out of the newspaper picture.

The years have changed Klamath Falls from a small frontier hamlet to a thriving city of 10,000; the timber industry a large contributor to its growth and activity. From two feeble newspapers thirty-four years ago has evolved a daily metropolitan equipment and service. Our short-time acquaintance, Smith, who appears to have clung to the newspaper field, reflects in a photograph in the lately published newspaper history the time personality which we admired thirty-four years ago.

Shaping Character. Heredity or environment—which is the greater force in "shaping character"? That used to be a favorite subject for debate, but it has never settled. It was considered and discussed enough, however, to show that both are largely influential. It has been shown that heredity may be quite overcome by favorable environment, and that the influence of poor surroundings may be materially fortified by fortunate inheritance. But handicapped by both heredity and environment, one is certain to be headed in the wrong direction with a powerful lot of interfering social welfare work needed if he is to be kept from ruin.

Convicted of Contempt. Dr. Francis E. Townsend, extravagant old-age pension advocate, has been convicted of contempt of the house of representatives because he walked out in the course of a hearing which involved a plan. If he had thought and expressed contempt for the house, many have and do, instead of contemptuously leaving a house in session, he could have escaped the perils of prosecution.

To Hold Prosperity. A Washington columnist justifies the president's anxiety for a shorter working day and fixed minimum wages on the ground that he must in that way preserve property and prevent recurrence of a depression. The columnist says eight million unemployed and industrial and agricultural problems still unsolved involve a major task in keeping economic conditions at the present favorable level. Training School Has Good Record

Basketball Team Champions Of Conference—Other School News

Winning thirteen games, capturing the Northeast Central conference title and averaging 20 points more than their opponents, is the record of the Wayne college training school basketball team for this year. The team has averaged 37 points a game while the opponents have averaged 17.

The local team is the only team to enter the basketball tournament here this week which has gone through an undefeated season. The tournament will also find three seniors playing their last games: Quentin Whitmore, Russell Whorlow and Jean Huotener. Two juniors play on the regular team. They are Harold Jordan and Bob Hickman.

Further honors go to the team in wins over two class A teams, Pierce and Wisner. Pierce is the Northeast Nebraska conference winner.

Raymond Cherry is the coach. A record of the teams defeated by the champions and the scores is as follows:

Wayne	opp.

Wayne Second Team Enters Tournament

In a basketball game preliminary to the tournament of second teams, Wayne high school second team defeated the Hartington second team by a score of 23 to 19 in a game played at Hartington Tuesday evening. Hartington was leading the local team by three points one minute and a few seconds before the final whistle. Two baskets were made 30 seconds before the end of the game.

The semi-final and final games in the tournament will be played at Pierce March 8 and 9. Wayne will meet Wakefield in the semi-finals. Teams to be represented at the tournament are: Wayne, Wakefield, Pierce, Plainview, Hartington and Bloomfield.

Those making the trip to Hartington Tuesday were: Harold Fitch, Lyle Seymour, Bus Ellis, Melvin Sals, Roy Corvill, Bill Jones, Harold Johnson, Kenneth Petersen, Blaine Auken and Melvin Hurlburt.

Helps Toward Future Hog Profits

Omaha Journal-Stockman: It is a well known fact that on the basis of prevailing feed costs, hogs can't possibly be making their growers and finishers much money, even under the most favorable of circumstances. Yet there is also a general belief that, sooner or later, the reductions noted in the hog supply in the past two or three years can't help putting producers who stay in the business in a position to cash in on their foresight.

Either through cheaper feed costs, higher market prices, or both, hogs will eventually become the mortgage lifters that they have been in the past.

Even in favorable times, however, there is more to the business of raising hogs profitably than may appear on the surface. For instance, take the matter of the varying productivity of individual sows. Research work carried on at more than one of the state agricultural colleges has shown that this item has an important bearing on profits and losses.

At Iowa State College, for example, it was found that the amount of pork produced per litter at the end of 56 days on a group of farms varied as much as 131 pounds. Average size of litters also differed a good deal, ranging from 4.9 pigs in one instance to 7.2 pigs in another.

A check of records kept by a group of Minnesota farmers produced similar results, in that it showed the heaviest litters at weaning time to be from heavy milking sows which produced a large number of pigs at weaning time. In one herd of nine sows, weight of litters at six months of age ranged from 800 to 1,705 pounds.

On the basis of both these tests, it was recommended that by selecting breeding stock from the most thrifty and rapid-growing litters, and thus perpetuating these characteristics, cost of production could be materially reduced.

Another suggestion, based on experiments, to which attention may profitably be paid, is that larger and thrifter pigs are produced when brood sow rations contain an ample proportion of protein. Pigs from sows that had received approximately 16 percent of protein in their rations were 15 to 20 percent heavier at birth than those from sows whose rations contained only 10 to 12 percent protein. Moreover, 90 percent of the heavier pigs were strong and vigorous, while more than 50 percent of the light pigs were classed as "weak."

Here is an idea on which most breeders can still cash in with this year's crop of pigs. As to the selection of prolific breeding stock, that too can begin as soon as the spring litters are farrowed. The main thing now is to leave no stone unturned which will add to next season's hog profits.

Mixing Farm Problems

Lincoln Journal: It has been observed in the past that on several matters different departments of the new deal administration have been working in opposite directions. It has remained for Secretary Wallace to present this phenomenon in policies fathered by himself. He admits it, and says he will have to do something about it later.

When the AAA was put to death by supreme court decree, the secretary evaded the plan of getting subsidies over to the farmer by offering cash premiums for reducing production temporarily by soil-building or conservation policy. The farmer was told that if he would set aside a portion of his acreage for legumes, thus removing it from production of grain crops, he would be paid handsomely therefore. As this is what every good farmer plans in his farm program, the offer was eagerly accepted.

In his annual report Secretary Wallace commends himself for thinking up this idea, but admits that when the rejuvenated soil is put back into cultivation production will be vastly increased. On this point he says:

"Unless the foreign as well as the domestic demand for American agricultural products revives, the rehabilitation of the soil through soil-conservation programs will combine with other factors in the agricultural situation to confront the country again in the near future with the absolute necessity of establishing a good adjustment between production and market requirements. A permanent agricultural policy should achieve soil conservation, consumer protection and crop control together."

The secretary is vague and indefinite as to how, in the face of the supreme court decision, the centralized government can again resume control of production. Perhaps he is hoping that the packing of the supreme court will secure a decision that it can be done. The problem is serious, as a mere statement of it shows. Soil conservation increases production and increased production means lower prices to the consumer. Control of acreage reduces production and increases the price to the consumer. It is bad enough to try to ride the two horses of increased and decreased production at the same time, but the difficulty of the task is added to when at the same time the attempt is made to protect the consumer.

Not Ready For Short Week

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: When the Lewis union and General Motors signed a peace treaty ending the sit down strike in the corporation's plants, the question of the shorter week was left in abeyance. It was one of the several objectives of the workers when the strike was called and it still is. Taken up in Detroit by the corporation officers and representatives of the unions Thursday, the shorter week again has been left in abeyance. General Motors officers contented themselves with saying they were "not ready" for it.

The theory of the 30-hour week was discredited at the Detroit meeting, but no progress was made, unless General Motors executives feel that they were successful in postponing it. C. E. Wilson, a corporation executive, suggested that "in five years" from now "we may take it up again."

Attention now will be centered on whether the Lewis union will be content to wait five years for the short week to be discussed. It is believed they will insist upon it being discussed and settled before any such lapse of time. Possibly, they are pinning their hopes to federal legislation that would give them the five-day week and the six-hour day by law.

It is certain that Mr. Wilson in saying neither General Motors nor the country was ready for the 30-hour week was correct, if the labor idea is to have it prevail in all industry and all business. For there are some concerns that could not operate a month if the 30-hour week were forced upon them, increasing their overhead expense when they barely are breaking even, or making so small a profit that it could not be called good business.

On the other hand, there are enterprises that could go on the 30-hour week and survive, making profits sufficient to satisfy good business demands. Just which industrial concerns could do this The Journal makes no attempt to say, but it is surely certain that some profits are on such wide margins that it could be done.

Homey Martin, one of the conferees representing the United Automobile Workers of America as president, said the union's demand for the short week was "an endeavor to shorten the hours to a working day which will enable the automobile worker to enjoy his wife, his children and his leisure time." It is suspected that Mr. Martin missed the real reason for the shorter week by the proverbial mile. The only sensible, practical reason for the 30-hour week is not that. Rather it is for the one purpose of permitting the spread of employment through the distribution of jobs.

Is That the Brake Lining We Smell?

(Saturday Evening Post) It is interesting to find Donald R. Richberg, General Johnson's successor as administrator of NRA, telling the National Retail Dry Goods Association that "we cannot permit private concentrations of property to regiment our lives into the service of the money masters, nor can we permit the governmental power to regiment our lives into the service of political masters."

This is the first warning of the dangers of an overweening government to come from a New Deal spokesman, to our recollection. If Mr. Richberg knows this, we may hope that other New Dealers know it.

As we have a Government of balanced powers, so have we a society in balance. The United States fares best when an equilibrium is maintained between business and Government, motor and brake. When the economic power upset that equilibrium, the Saturday Evening Post fought for its restraint and better brakes in Washington. Now the brakes are dragging, the motor laboring. It is the Government that is all-powerful, and heady with that power.

Europe knows, if we have forgotten, that the greed for power is more dangerous even than the greed for money. The economic determination-of-history theory has yet to explain a Napoleon. Or shall we say a Huey Long?

We still have our choice of returning to the conventional sense rules of the road or of trying to drive with our brakes hard on. The latter means an overheated motor, burnt-out brake lining and a tow car to the next garage. Or we can go back to oxcart economics and an oxcart population.

Democracy Must Be Taught And Lived If It Is To Survive Trying Times

Over 10,000 teachers, attended the National Education association meeting in New Orleans last week. Dr. J. T. Anderson and Miss Lettie Scott of the Wayne State Teachers college were present.

Dr. Anderson, who attended the joint meeting of the American association of Teachers Colleges and the department of superintendence of the N. E. A., felt that there was a different note through the message this year as compared to last. According to the college president the general theme of the discussions was "Peace and Continuing Democracy." Teachers were united in the idea that if democracy is to continue schools will have to prepare youth for democracy and society will have to produce it.

Another point which was brought out, remarked Dr. Anderson, was that if the United States is to stay out of war, one must be alert to teach the principles of peace and practice peaceful negotiations with neighboring countries. War is caused by propaganda and economic profit of munition factories.

Miss Scott and Dr. Anderson were both very much impressed by southern hospitality. Representatives at the convention were constantly being cared for and shown a good time. Miss Scott told of the breakfast given for the association members by the New Orleans teachers. The breakfast was served under what is commonly called the "dueling mugs." The city teachers were dressed in costume and sang welcoming songs. Special entertainment was provided throughout the entire breakfast. The 6,000 guests were escorted from their respective hotels and following the breakfast were taken to the various meetings.

According to Miss Scott the keynote of the convention was "integration." Three outstanding educators whom she heard speak on the subject were: Dr. John G. Flowers, director of integration at the state teachers college at Montclair; Dr. Vernon A. Carley, director of teacher training at Stanford university and Dr. W. E. Peik, professor of education at the University of Minnesota.

Miss Scott also did some sight-seeing while in the south. She visited in the old French district, Old French restaurants and shops are interesting. Some of the restaurants, according to Miss Scott, look very old and shabby but the interior is beautiful.

New Orleans is also the home of the first skyscraper in America—it is four stories high.

The St. Louis cathedral in Jackson square where George Washington Cable did some of his writings was also visited by Miss Scott.

Miss Scott was surprised at the sentiment in the south for Huey Long, particularly in Louisiana, his home state. Many of the people feel that he was a villain and should have been killed long ago, while others think of him as the saviour of his country.

The school system of New Orleans is very interesting. Mr. McDonough has endowed many of the schools. The story is told that Mr. McDonough, disappointed in love because he was not of a royal family, made a great deal of money. At one time he made the statement that with this money he would make his name last longer than that of a royal family. He left his money in a trust to endow schools, making the stipulation that they were not to be co-educational. From Baltimore to New Orleans this money has been used to endow more than 50 schools.

While in New Orleans, Miss Scott talked to H. R. Best, former superintendent of Wayne high school, who is now teaching in the east and who sent greetings to his friends in Wayne.

March has come in like a lamb alright but we are letting that there is kind of cold weather left in the old month. Better not let those coal bins get too low.

A pious and uncommonly homely lady was accosted by a staggering drunk. "Lady," he said, "You're the homeliest person I ever saw."

"And you sir," replied the lady, "are the drunkest man I ever saw."

"Mebbe so, lady," countered the drunk, "but I'll be okay tomorrow."

Pleasant Trip Is Experienced By Wayne Party

Texas is a land of beauty and has a wonderful climate, according to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erleben and Miss Esther who arrived home Friday from San Antonio, Texas, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Baker and 6-month-old Lewis, Jr. The Erlebens enjoyed good roads, fine weather and moderate temperature on this, their first vacation. Most of all they enjoyed little Lewis, Jr., and just about agree with the baby's parents that he is about the cutest little fellow they ever saw.

The Erlebens left Wayne February 5 for San Antonio to visit the Bakers. Mrs. Baker being the former Miss Frances Erleben. A snow plow had opened the road to Norfolk the evening before and the Wayne party took advantage of the opportunity to get started. They stopped in York to call on Rev. H. Hopmann and family who like their new home but have pleasant memories of Wayne. They also called briefly at Oklahoma City on Mrs. Kunkel, mother of Mrs. Walter Brackensiek. The Erlebens found Oklahoma City a prosperous place with many oil derricks, these often being on the back yards of city lots. Roads in Oklahoma and Texas are good and wide.

The Erlebens arrived in Texas Sunday afternoon at 4 and found Mrs. Baker and little son on the porch waiting for them. Temperature was 83, a great change from below zero, and Mr. Erleben wished for a nice snow drift to cool off in. San Antonio is a beautiful city of 294,000 and has numerous points of interest. Many of the buildings are new and are kept neat and clean. Five U. S. army posts are located there, San Houston, Randolph, Kelley, Brooks and Bullis fields. The Erlebens were at Kelley field February 17 when Robert Theobald of Wayne, was graduated. They also called on Mrs. S. R. Theobald and Mrs. M. S. Hallam in the city. Foremost among the historic spots in San Antonio is the Alamo, built in 1718, and called the "Cradle of Texas Liberty" for it was there that 173 men gave their lives in a battle with thousands of Mexicans. Brackenridge park is another place of beauty and interest.

About 40 friends of the school district met at the Mrs. Peter Miller home Wednesday evening to help the teacher, Miss Clover Busby, celebrate her birthday. Games and contests were carried out. The visitors served lunch after a most pleasant social time.

Celebrate 20th Anniversary

Because of the snowblocked roads, Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Lund were unable to celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary on February 8. On Sunday the following enjoyed a cooperative supper with them: Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Lund, the Ben and Emil Lund families, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fredrickson, Mr. and Mrs. Lavert Fredrickson, Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Fredrickson and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Fredrickson and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Packer and Mrs. Levisus Packer and Dixie Lee spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Allen Salmon. Miss Lizzie Loberg and Dena Marie Kalkofen of Wayne, visited at the Gilbert Linn home from Monday until Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Backstrom were Monday dinner guests at Jerry Turner's. They also visited her mother, Mrs. Ben Carr. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Young and son, Paul, and Miss Martene Nelson of Randolph, spent Sunday evening at the Gilbert Linn home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson of Concord, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Erickson, reminding them of their fifteenth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Jess Brownell and son and Miss Nina Anderson spent Wednesday afternoon at Hjalmer Lund's. Mrs. Brownell and Jimmie returned to their home in Sioux City Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Johnson and Adeine, Miss Nina Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lund and Gwendolyn spent Friday evening at Hjalmer Lund's, helping Doris celebrate her birthday of the previous day. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Packer, Mr. and Mrs. Levisus Packer and Dixie Lee were Sunday dinner guests at W. C. Ring's. The latter family moved to Pender on Monday where Levisus will operate a cream station.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Miller entertained at Sunday dinner: Rev. and Mrs. Gerdes and children, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wulter, Verna and Clarence, Herman Robit, Mrs. Miller, Erna and Arnold, Miss Gertrude Wolter and Bill Klein of Battle Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lessner, Bonnie Ann and Dale.

the Scriptures' (p. 518):

"The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good."

Not always does it seem easy to obey the Golden Rule, for mortal mind may argue that it is useless for one to go out of his way to serve his neighbor. Yielding to selfishness or the false sense of self, one may argue thus: "I have not the time to do this or that for my neighbor," or "I cannot afford to do it," or "It is none of my business anyway." Whatever the false argument put forth, it should be met by a prompt denial, knowing that one can do whatever love leads one to do for others.

"But I have no opportunities to serve my neighbor," says one whose environment seems cramped and limited. Let such a one look about him with a seeing eye and he will find many helpful things he can do. Beginning early in the day he can give a cheerful greeting to those who greet the morning sun; and a kindly word of encouragement to members of the family before he leaves in the morning will help wonderfully to make their day's duties lighter. On the way to the office or shop he may perhaps express many a courtesy toward fellow commuters. Then again, a little assistance may show a new employee how to do his work more easily and skillfully. And so on through-out the day there will be found many opportunities to serve his neighbor.

The happy results of applying the Golden Rule in everyday affairs is illustrated in the following incident recently related to the writer. Circumstances had made it impossible for a family to keep up their payments for the purchase of a small dwelling. It was therefore arranged that they should remain in the place for a time, with the understanding that they were to cause no extra legal expenses when the time came to vacate the property. The family were to leave the place in mid-summer so it seemed almost useless for them to put in a garden, or to plant flowers and shrubs.

Distressing the matter among themselves, they reached the decision not only to put in a garden, but to plant flowers and shrubs to make the place as attractive and beautiful as they could, thus helping the owner to dispose of the property. Much real joy was expressed by the members of the family in the beauty and order which prevailed as a result of their decision.

When the appointed time approached, the holder of the contract called upon the family to get their signatures to the necessary papers which he had prepared. When he saw the loving care which had been bestowed upon the yard and garden, he was so impressed with the unselfishness manifested that, instead of having the papers signed which he had brought with him, he made out others setting forth an agreement whereby the family retained their little dwelling on terms which were satisfactory to all. Thus, in lovingly applying the Golden Rule they found themselves greatly blessed bond members. As we let God, good, govern our every thought, we shall no longer think it a burden to serve our fellow men, but shall find such joy in so doing that we shall welcome every opportunity to practice the Golden Rule.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Human Rights
 HUMAN rights and property rights are so interdependent that neither can be hurt without hurting the other, according to the Omaha Journal-Stockman which publication quotes this from a recent radio address:

"Take a man without a house, suffering the hardships of rain and cold. He sets to work and constructs himself a shelter. In it he is warm and dry. He lives, and he lives happily. Another man comes along and destroys that shelter. He no longer lives happily... perhaps cannot live at all. Which have been destroyed—his property rights or his human rights? Obviously both. The loss of one meant the loss of the other. So much for one kind of property."
 "Now suppose a man has a horse. With the aid of his horse, he is able to draw logs to a mill, where he sells them and receives the money with which he provides himself with food and shelter. Someone steals his horse. He can no longer haul logs to the mill. So he cannot secure the means of providing himself with food and shelter. Which have been taken from him? His property rights or his human rights? Again, obviously both."
 "Now take the man who owns the mill to which the logs were brought. An enemy burns it down. No longer can he turn the logs which are brought him into lumber. No longer, then, does he receive money with which to provide a house, food, heat, and other needs of himself and his family. Which have been destroyed—property rights alone, or human rights also?"
 "In his mill he had a helper. When the mill was gone, the helper's job was gone, too. Gone with it were his means of livelihood, his hopes of advancement. Surely his human rights were violated when those property rights were destroyed."

Supreme Court
 THE implication that judges cannot think clearly or soundly at 70 or over is resented by those who respect experience and seasoned judgment. It is manifestly not so much a movement to dislodge supreme court judges on account of age as it is to fill their places with men who could be depended on to decide questions in agreement with the administration.

Harry L. Hopkins expressed the purpose when he said in a radio address that the complexion of the court had to be changed to secure social legislation planned by the administration. Hopkins also said the president did not want to be a dictator, but wished to strengthen democracy by freeing congress from being hampered by the supreme court.

A congress that is obedient to the president's every will could not reasonably be appraised as fully democratic. Its voice echoes the voice of the president, and the only power that prevents one-man government is the power still possessed by the supreme court to hew to lines laid down by the constitution. If the constitution is wrong, it should be changed by the people, not by a subservient congress.

The floor of the United States senate was enlivened by an exchange of charges between advocates and opponents of the president's supreme court remodeling plan. Senator Robinson, democratic leader, complained that unfair propaganda was being used to defeat the administration's idea, and Senator Burke of Nebraska pinned a similar charge on White House circles, notably on Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator. It is doubtful if the combined forces of opposition could match the New Deal machine in dishing out propaganda. The machine is well organized and amply financed.

The sit-down variety is the latest in strikes. An Oklahoma stenographer staged a sit-down strike all on her own hook, but she was persuaded to take a vacation and transplant her sitting. A nation-wide sit-down strike of Woolworth employees is threatened. This would involve 2,000 stores. We can see how the sit-down fashion holds advantage to employers over the common kind because there is less likelihood of disorder. One cannot fling rocks and clubs and engage in other violence while sitting.

Annual moving day, March 1, found considerable favor from the elements. Introduction of the month was mild with roads generally cleared of snow if not entirely free from bumps and ruts. Sometimes many changes are made in farm neighborhoods at the beginning of March. Some leave, others come. Old acquaintances are separated, and new ones are formed. But memories cling, and past events are recounted through coming years.

In his Columbus Telegram, Edgar Howard very properly likens the waste of water to the waste of food products, deploring the waste of every sort as inexcusable, and pointing with fine zeal to the Quaker an an example of thrift. But we could find in his sound line of reasoning no reference to the Wallace bureau's pig slaughter and other waste in order to regulate nature and control production.

If party designations were to be omitted in filings for state and county offices, as has been proposed, and no convention helps were adopted, the primary machinery would be still further complicated, and voters would be plunged still deeper into mystery in trying to make intelligent selections. The primary is a pleasing theory, but its operation has largely proved it to be a guessing contest.

Assurance of a hard-surfaced highway through Wayne directly south to No. 8 definitely and pleasingly sets at rest the outside reports, current a few years ago, that the improvement would miss this town a couple of miles.

If the fact that March came in like a lamb means that it will go out like a lion, we will not be displeased if the rippling exit appears in the shape of heavy rains.

A Case of Repudiation.
 Lincoln Journal: Congressman Pettengill not only refused to obey the direction of the Indiana legislature that he support the president's court packing plan, but he gave a very excellent reason why he should not do so. The congressman recited what perhaps most persons have forgotten. That is that in the platform of the democratic party adopted in Philadelphia last year the pledge was made that the party "would seek such clarifying amendments" as might be necessary to enable the states and the congress, "each within its proper jurisdiction" to take appropriate action with respect to handling present day problems.

Mr. Pettengill clinched the argument by saying that the proposal of the president is a "strange impeachment" of the good faith of the party platform, when within 90 days after the election that pledge is repudiated. He concludes that it is plain that every member of the democratic party has as much right to oppose this measure as he would have had as a member of the committee on resolutions if it had been presented for acceptance or rejection.

This fact also disposes of the argument put forward by several senators who have taken the stump in an effort to influence public opinion in favor of the proposal that when the people reelected Roosevelt as president it constituted a mandate to the supreme court to alter its position on the constitutionality of new deal measures. For not only was it not an issue in the campaign, but the Roosevelt party had gone on record as proposing submission to the people of clarifying amendments. One might as well argue exactly the contrary, namely that the people voted for the amendment process, which is all that opponents of the plan are asking.

The administration is now dangling the fleshpots before labor and the farmer, as it did in the campaign, but still the tide of public opinion runs against it. Seventy-five percent of the bar is opposed, and the last computation showed that of 75 leading newspapers that supported the president in his campaign, including the Scripps-Howard chain, only 20 are supporting the court proposal. Centralization of all power in one man, the president, is a challenge to liberty and democracy that has aroused men as no other question has done in years.

No Lack of Confidence.
 Omaha Journal-Stockman: Reports of the satisfactory demand for live stock, machinery, grain and rough feeds at the farm sales now being held out in the country add another bit of proof to the already impressive mass of evidence of the country's confidence in the future of farming and live stock industries. Especially active is the outlet for purebred breeding stock, the good prices being paid for registered animals being a tribute to the growing recognition of the need for quality in live stock production.

Additional signs that stockmen and farmers of the country are not inclined to sell agriculture short include the improved demand for land, the urgent call for stocker and feeder animals, and the widespread interest in the adoption of up-to-date methods and practices. Drouths, hot summers, cold winters, insect plagues, and occasional crop failures failed to smother the enthusiasm of the pioneers who settled the middle west, and apparently their descendants have not lost this ability to withstand and surmount adversity.

Travel By Trailer.
 Arlington (S. D.) Sun: It was not sufficient that the world should be placed on rubber tires, and travel should be made easy. Now the move has been put over for people to live in the trailer, and if you are a member of the upper crust you will have to adopt the plan of such an existence. The argument in its favor is that when you become tired of one spot you may seek greener pastures; that the modern trailer has every convenience of the home, and you can go and come as you please. If that be all you wish in life all well and good. If the desire to satisfy wanderlust is your only aim, buy a trailer. But if you are old fashioned enough to know what a real home is, we suggest that you value what you have and be satisfied. California offers climate, but nothing else; the high-ways offer a change in scenery, but nothing else. The world needs more stability, and less of the roaming tendencies.

What are we going to do with the in-between years if life begins at forty and old-age pensions at sixty-five. Winston-Salem (N. C.) Journal.

MERIT.
 It will not interrupt the currents of wholesome progress to get back to the merit system around which our fabric of independent achievement has been woven. In labor union groups the tendency has been to go so far in demanding equality of wages without regard to inequality of producing ability that the premium on merit has often been removed. Individuals put into scheming for equal rewards the time and effort that should be devoted to improving service, so that compensating benefits may be increased. The tendency has been to get as much as possible for as little as possible, and the result has been to lower standards of efficiency and destroy the spirit that wishes to excel on the strength of merit.

Then in time the country could learn from experience, rather than from hearsay, that prosperity had arrived.

A Soil Gangster.
 Omaha World-Herald: Within the past few years there has been noted a rising tide of apprehension over the bindweed menace on Nebraska farms. It has been growing both in volume, and extent until this year it has been made a matter of legislative interest. A bill is pending aimed at eradication of this noxious plant.

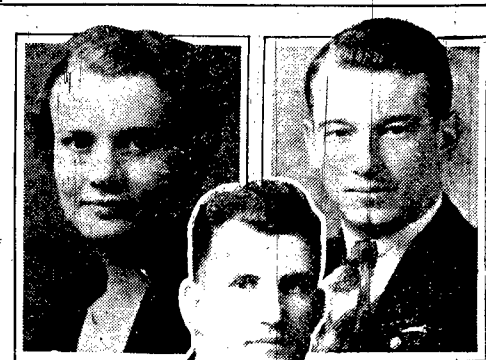

Nebraska has much company in distress over the threatening and possessive character of this weed, so much company that a national bindweed conference has just been held in Chicago. The cocklebur has long been the symbol of weedy nuisance on the farm, but it never was bad enough to provoke a national conference over what to do about it. The farmer could, if he had a mind, fight it single-handed. But the bindweed is a gangster. It has definitely established itself as public weed enemy No. 1. The conclusion is being reached that if it is to be successfully fought, the fight against it must be made on a united front.

Facts brought out at the Chicago conference are that it has spread into 30 states, that two million acres of land west of the Mississippi are so badly infested as to result in practical abandonment of farm usefulness, that control bills are being pushed in Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Montana and Wyoming, as well as in Nebraska. Efforts are being made to enlist the interest of the federal government to the extent of having bindweed eradication included as a feature of the soil conservation program.

To agronomists this week is about what an outbreak of anthrax or hoof and mouth disease is to the experts in animal husbandry, something that calls for stern co-operative repressive measures under informed leadership. It is evidently an importation from Europe which, like the English sparrows, finds conditions in this country exactly to its liking. Its strong point is persistence and practical indestructibility. Ordinary means

FOR ECONOMY.
 The Nebraska Taxpayers' League is undoubtedly on the right track in opening ways for public economy and reduced taxes. The federal government has set an example of wild public spending in recent years, and it needs a league or some other organization to awaken slumbering instincts of frugality. Washington headquarters will need more and more revenues from taxes to meet mounting costs. The Nebraska league is pursuing a course that may well be imitated generally. The league is behind a number of measures now before the legislature. One is to provide for the recall of county officers. Another proposes a county budgeting plan. A constitutional amendment is asked to make possible a manager form of county government. One bill provides for uniform accounting and auditing in all counties of the state. Basis to legalize a commission form of county government is proposed. The idea is to shut off extravagance, close leaks in spending programs and enforce policies of economy along all lines. Regular audits in all branches of public service and due publicity in everything involving tax money are deemed of utmost importance in the course of sound business. The system of handling public affairs must be just as carefully followed as that of handling private affairs in order to relieve tax burdens.

WAKEFIELD STUDENT IS ONE OF FIVE HONORED AT MIDLAND

ELLEN PAULSEN, JOAN LYMAN, GEORGE KOESTER, SYLVEA WASSUM, MILDRED PETERSON

Fremont, Neb.—Selected by the faculty on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership and possibilities for future usefulness to business and society, these five Midland college seniors will be listed in the "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," a book published annually by the University of Alabama. Besides being a leader in campus activities for four years, each of the five is an honor student scheduled to receive a degree "with praise" at the June commencement exercises. Miss Paulsen is from Omaha, Koester from Allen, Lyman from Wakefield, Miss Wassum from Tekamah and Miss Peterson from Fremont.

of cultivation, sufficient to keep down other weed growths, seem only to stir this one up to fresh efforts. But the bindweed can be killed. There are two approved methods, both of which are costly either in money or time and labor. One is by chemical treatment. The other is by intensive, continuous cultivation. To be effective, however, either or both these methods calls for mass action. That is the reason why conferences are held and legislation is deemed necessary. This is one of the farm problems which is made more difficult of solution by the growth of farm tenancy. It needs no great prodding to induce owner farmers to fight this kind of vermin, but a tenant who doesn't expect to remain for more than a year or two isn't likely to care much about it.

Open Gambling.
 Lincoln Journal: Arizona, like Nebraska, is facing the issue of open gambling. There a law is being considered to remove the bars against gambling. In Nebraska the proponents of slot machines hope to propose a repealing amendment to the constitution eliminating the prohibition against gambling. This section was amended in recent years to permit parimutuel betting, and that seems to have been the opening wedge. The Arizona Star recently published an interview with a business man who has spent all of the years of his life in Tucson. He recalled wide open gambling which Tucson and Arizona were beginning. Then the business men as a rule were opposed to gambling but were slow to move to abolish it. Now, the sentiment is said to have changed with most business men openly opposing gambling, and only the very liberal and sporting element of the people of that city favoring it. Herbert Drachman, a pioneer citizen who was interviewed, said of conditions when Tucson was a wide open city: "Licensed gambling does not bring prosperity to any city." "Tucson tried it once and should know." "It was only after licensed gambling had been forbidden and Tucson was the first town in Arizona territory to ban it, that the real growth of the community began." "In those days there were many who came to this country for their health. Their small funds would disappear over the tables and they would be faced with taking charity and in many instances would commit suicide. Small salaried clerks and working men faced the same situation. To continue to play they had to fail to pay for the necessities of life for themselves and families. Despite the large license fees paid by the gambling halls, the community suffered."

That is the story of conditions everywhere gambling exists. Wherever men may lose their wages in a few minutes in the hope of gaining money without working, poverty and tragedy follow. Children are poorly cared for, wives are neglected, labor cannot be depended upon, homes are lost and the charity burden grows and grows. Nebraska will be better off if, instead of permitting more gambling, it moves to suppress what it has now.

Style Notes
We attended the Spring Fashion Exhibit of Women's Wearing Apparel and Dry Goods in Omaha this week. Several hundred visiting merchants were privileged to see a grand display of Spring Fashions provided by Omaha wholesalers and eastern manufacturers.
In addition to the Omaha displays, there were three floors of exhibits at the beautiful Paxton Hotel. It would have required visits to many cities and weeks of time to have seen all the lovely new Spring merchandise which could be observed here in a few days time.
Salesmen were all busy taking generous orders. Nebraska women will soon appear in the cream of the latest styles.
Omaha is to be congratulated for its enterprise in making it possible for Nebraska merchants to choose their Spring merchandise from such an extensive assortment of the nation's best and newest merchandise.
You won't have to go away from home to get a choice of all that is correct and up-to-date in Spring wearing apparel. The same styles you could find in the city stores will be here for your selection. And you'll enjoy many advantages in doing your shopping here at home. You will have more time to make your selections—you will get exclusive styles because we do not buy duplicates in Ready-to-Wear and you will certainly find prices lower.
It is high time now to be selecting your coat, suit and dress. Easter is early this year. Just a few weeks away.
Come now and have first choice of all the new things.
The style picture in coats, suits and dresses for Spring shows great variation of styles. No one particular style predominates. Garments are of short or medium length according to the purpose for which they are required. Materials vary from tweeds that are most useful for all around wear to soft wooly fleeces in bright shades for sports wear. You hear the word "Swing" mentioned often when you are looking at styles in either coats, suits or dresses. The swing idea is developed by flaring the coat or suit jacket or dress from the waist line instead of from the shoulders as was done in the swagger styling of last season. Ballerina coat styles with tucking or pleating at the waist and flaring skirts are in vogue because of this Ballet dress resemblance.
But shorter length suits and coats also are in much favor.
That is one nice thing about modern styles if your figure is not suited to the swing idea. You'll find garments that are becoming in other styles equal as authentic.
Young people are particularly attracted by the suits with jackets caught in at the waist and flared in swing style to about knee length.
Lots of prints are shown in the new dresses and those distinguished by new patterns in the silks resembling bouquets spaced at wide intervals are quite popular. There are charming styles in plain silks too. Many of them revealing open-work shoulder and puff sleeve treatments.
Thistle—we used to call it Ashes of Roses, is one of the popular new Spring colors in dresses.
But you can see all these new style ideas and try them on at our store now. We have a carefully selected assortment of the latest styles in Ready-to-Wear for your selection at this time. And new things arrive daily. You'll be pleased with prices.
$19.75 to $29.75
You have exceptional garments to choose from. You will be greatly surprised at what style and values we offer you in coats or suits for $10.00 DRESSES
In nice quality are $7.95 and many attractive styles are to be had at $4.50 and $5.95.
The sooner you come the surer you will be of finding just the garments best suited to you in style and price.

Agricultural Notes

(By Walter L. Moller)

Cattle prices in 1937 are expected to average about 10 to 20 percent higher than in 1936 as a result of the reduced slaughter supplies and probable improvement in consumer demand, the bureau of agricultural economics in the U. S. department of agriculture predicted this week. The advance in prices of better grades of slaughter cattle which began in late 1936 are expected to continue or at least be well maintained in the first half of 1937.

Supplies of the better grades of grain-fed cattle probably will be curtailed considerably in the next six months because of the current short supplies of feed grains. Wayne county farmers were informed. For the year as a whole, inspected cattle and calf slaughter is expected to be smaller than the record high slaughter of 1936 but larger than the average for the 10 years, 1924-33.

Much Bindweed Progress

With the general public sold on the danger of further bindweed infestation, Nebraska is making a great deal of progress in eliminating the pest. Research work is pointing toward newer methods of eradication and legislation is being formulated looking to the destruction of the pest.

A bill is now before the unicameral legislature in Lincoln which is expected to be passed which would attempt to eradicate the bindweed. There are rumors, which have not been verified, that congress is going to introduce a weed bill this session calling for surveys and eradication.

Much has been done on bindweed eradication research in Nebraska. Dr. F. D. Keim of the college of agriculture, informed the Wayne county farm bureau this week of preliminary results received on a bindweed experimental farm near York. Work there and elsewhere indicates that times and elsewhere indicates that times between cultivations can be lengthened. Instead of cultivating every three or four days, it can be done every seven or ten days with satisfactory results.

With careful management, it also seems possible that after the land has been summer tilled, fall rye can be planted the last of September and matured during the late fall and early spring and then plowed up again about the first of May and summer tillage continued. If weather is at all favorable, two seasons of thorough cultivation get rid of the pest, with exception of a few seedlings.

Chemical studies are also being continued in Nebraska. Sodium chlorate still costs 8 or 9 cents per pound but this method is too expensive on large areas. Certain arsenical sprays are being used and appear to have possibilities.

Eliminate Dust Storms

"Man made" dust storms must be "man controlled." That's what agronomists for both the Nebraska agricultural college extension service and the soil conservation service believe. Use of proper farming practices can do much to rid the skies of dust clouds that damage crops and impair the health of all breathing animals, they say.

Farming practices recommended to check the movement of wind-blown soil include contour farming, strip cropping, crop rotation, the returning to grass of land subject to severe wind erosion, prevention of over-grazing, the protection of cultivated land in early spring months by plant cover or crop residues and the addition of organic matter to the soil by plowing under plant residue instead of burning it.

Properly treated soil is soil that stays home. It is soil that does not turn day into night in cities hundreds of miles away from the farm where it has been centuries in the process of formation.

Hatching Eggs. Experience of poultrymen at the Nebraska college of agriculture has led them to adopt the following practice regarding the hatching of turkey eggs: For the first 24 days the eggs are placed in one of the incubators having a force draft system of ventilation; for the critical period of the last four days of incubation, the eggs are transferred to a still air type of incubator. Reports from growers outside who use the still type of incubator is that better than average hatches are being secured.

Farm Tenancy Proposal

Proposals for both state and federal action to establish security of the farm homes were included in the recent report of President Roosevelt's committee on farm tenancy which was submitted to congress. Two Nebraskans, Director W. H. Brokaw of the agricultural college extension service, and Fred Wallace, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, served on the committee.

Recommendations listed asked for greater opportunity of farm ownership. The committee recommended that a Farm Security Administration be set up under the U. S. department of agriculture with a farm security corporation affiliated as a legal instrument. This joint agency would be empowered to purchase and improve farms to be sold to farmers who demonstrate their integrity, industry and capacity for ownership.

The second group of recommendations stressed the need for improved conditions of the farm tenancy system. They put emphasis upon state action to introduce security of tenure into present landlord-tenant relationships. Attention was also given to the need for better living and working conditions among farm laborers.

Additional credit facilities, the committee said, are needed to prevent small owners from being deprived of their farms by foreclosure. In order to discourage speculation of land, a capital gains tax was recommended that would take a large percentage of the unearned increment received from the sale of land within three years from the day of purchase.

Feeders' Day In April

Feeders' day, the annual livestock event looked forward to each year by Wayne county farmers, will be held at the Nebraska college of agriculture at Lincoln on Friday, April 16. Prof. H. J. Gramlich has notified Agricultural Agent Moller. Outstanding Nebraska livestock producers and national figures in the livestock industry are expected to appear on the program.

Farmers here will be particularly interested in the final molasses test results which will be made public that day. Experiments have been conducted with hogs, sheep and cattle.

Destroyed by Roads

Omaha World-Herald: The legislature is getting ready to grant 40 Omaha and Winnebago Indians permission to sue the state for damages caused by the building of a road through their land in northeastern Nebraska.

We haven't any notion as to the amount of damages, if any, a jury may award the Indians, but the claim stems directly from the river nature of white man and red, and sums up the story of the conquest of the latter by the former.

It was Columbus, if we remember our history, who was seeking a new pathway to India—and found America. Then the Indians' troubles began. The white man needs a road to make his civilization endure. So he found navigable streams, or built canals to the west; he blazed trails through the wilderness; he laid steel tracks to new frontiers; he followed ox teams and prairie schooners until rutted paths marked the westward course of his empire.

Always the Indian resisted those trails, those roads, for the foresaw in them his doom. He needed only the stars and sun to guide his feet. To him a beaten path was a danger, for it opened the way for his enemy to find him. He would pass through the forest and leave no trace behind. He would move across the prairie grass and only a child of nature, like himself, could detect the sign of his passage.

But the white man's ox-cart ruts gave way to beaten roads, and they in turn to steel and concrete, and over them came the thousands and tens of thousands and millions who brought goods and chattels, made houses of wood and brick and stone, tilled land, leveled forests, tunneled into hills, built cities, and the Indian's day was done.

He makes his final, despairing gesture. In the dull formality of the white man's courts of law he seeks damages in money, as a final trifling recompense for the injury that has been done him. It is a fitting anticlimax to the story of the conquest of a continent.

President Roosevelt is urging new wage and hour legislation at this session of congress.

Through an agreement between Carnegie-Illinois Steel company and organized labor, a strike was prevented Tuesday.

Early Physician Of Wayne Passes

Dr. E. Bradford, about 77, early physician in Wayne, died Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at Rock Island, Ill., according to word received by Mrs. Winifred Mann. Funeral services will be Friday afternoon at Rock Island.

Dr. and Mrs. Bradford came to Wayne from Rock Island as a bridal couple in about 1887. They were active in the Methodist church. The family returned to Rock Island after a few years.

Dr. Bradford leaves his wife and one son, Glenn, of Rock Island.

Scouts Give Play

Beginning scouts of Lily of Valley troop gave a play, "How the Landless Made Friends with the Bees," Wednesday. Taking part were Nan Nicholson, Evelyn Soronson, Joan Jenik, Dorothy Ahlvers, Bonnie Kugler, Doris Jean Rockwell, Catherine Lerner, Betty Franzen, Agnes Mattingly, Betty Meister, Dorothy Nelson and Barbara Johnson. Tenderfoot pins were earned by Betty Meister, Doris Jean Rockwell and Evelyn Soronson.

Program Is Given For Nebraska Day

and Kenneth Gamble. There will be a district tournament March 19 in Wayne.

After a three weeks' absence the following pupils have returned to school: James Ahern, Lucile Reeg, Arnold Reeg, Evelyn Noakes, Darrell Johnson, Robert Baker and Ronald Greenwald. Howard Beitz had pneumonia but is improving nicely.

The Pep club cheer leaders have new white sweaters, trimmed in blue letters, and new white megaphones. Betty Strahan and Jim Kingston will have the honor of wearing them.

The seventh grade had a debate on the question, "Resolved: That the president's court proposal should be adopted." The affirmative was upheld by Barbara Heine and Mildred Ann Mau, and the negative, which won the argument, by Wilma Heidenreich and Robert Anderson. The chairman was Barbara Hook. The second debate was, "Resolved: That sitdown strikes are justifiable." With Mildred Ann as chairman, Elaine Rhoades and Barbara Hook upheld the affirmative and Charles Piderit and Robert Bentback the negative.

In the seventh grade eight members have had perfect attendance for the last six weeks. They are: Paul Petersen, Dorothy Smolksi, Betty Ann Zepin, Patty Mills, Dewayne Lindsay, Lawrence Lass, Shirley Witte and Robert Witte.

Henry Ley spoke to the eighth grade arithmetic class on the Federal Housing act, Tuesday, February 23. This is one of the methods studied by the students in the project, "Financing My Home." A committee composed of Leah Jean Caawce, Robert Anderson and Charles Piderit, interviewed Mayor Martin Ringer Tuesday, March 2, to learn how to make out a contract, a warranty deed and a mortgage. The committee will act as the Wayne Real Estate company.

Each student will buy a home and the necessary papers will be drawn up. The art class is making wood-carved plaques. The seventh grade finished a unit in water color. The first study was of a geranium plant which Paul Petersen brought to school.

The sixth grade language class is studying the carnivora order of animals. So far they have had stories of the skunk, badger, weasel and the wolfybrine. Every one student takes charge of the opening exercises. This student must plan his own entertainment. Carol Nicholson's basketball team won the girls' junior high school tournament Tuesday the girls went on a two mile hike. The pupils on the honor roll are: Dorothy Ahlvers, Dorothy Casper, Lily Hansen, Joane Jenik, Bonnie Fay Kugler, Elizabeth Meister, Dorothy Nelson, Nancy Nicholson, Doris Rockwell, Opal Penn and Rodney Love. The seventh graders who have had perfect spelling booklets for the past two weeks are Bonnell Grier, Myla Thomas, Paul Petersen, Duane Lindsay and Betty Pile. Sixth graders who have been neither absent nor tardy during the six weeks' period are: Bob Wright, Doris Rockwell, Nancy Nicholson, Hazel McPherran, Rodney Love, Robert Lass, Bonnie Kugler, Lily Hansen, Betty Franzen, Robert Einung and Dorothy Casper.

The following in the fourth grade received an excellent rating in number drill 9 in arithmetic: Bob Birdsall, Jerome Reiners, Richard Sala, Carla Wright, Lois Zepin, Richard Sala, Jacqueline Wightman and Lois Zepin ranked as sixth graders in a reading test for comprehension and speed. Some of Longfellow's favorite children's poems are being read. Pupils are completing their booklets about famous men of February. Attractive window boxes of tulips of eggs shells are being made this week.

Third graders are studying Stevenson's poem, "Travel," before starting a project on Japan. By the use of the globe, the children are outlining a trip to Japan, part of which will be made by airplane. The boys will make airplanes and ships to use for transportation. They will list the important cities and rivers that they will need to know. Pictures will be cut free-hand to illustrate the trip. Before starting the trip they will also list the things that they want to know about Japan. The gold stars in penmanship were awarded to Norman Rockwell, Elizabeth Bonowitz, Milton Hoefs and Wilma Reiners.

The second grade had two birthdays this month. Thomas Sanberg who was 8 years old February 24, and Patty Hook who was 7 years old February 25. This class is starting a unit on courtesy. Pupils are following a pattern from Washington's rules of proper conduct.

The first grade had four pupils who were neither absent nor tardy the last six weeks. They are: Richard Reeg, Bobby Bathke, Marilyn Shuck and De Voe Reikofski. Pupils are finishing the flag that was started during the month of February, learning what the colors stand for, who made the first flag, etc. They will dramatize the story of the first flag at the auditorium March 12. The class is making a store and bringing different things from home to put in the place of business so they can sell their articles and make change. The purpose of this store is to teach the children more about their numbers.

Kindergarten is going to build a clock which will be constructed from Patsy Smith Hill floor blocks. A large one will be made for the room and each child plans to make one. Grandfather clocks, tin army clocks and coo-coo clocks are being planned. Some will be made from paper pie plates. Students are doing this in order to learn to tell time. From home they are finding pictures of clocks about which they tell stories and sing songs. As Easter is drawing nearer they have started to make bunnies out of wall board, which will be painted white with pink ears and pink eyes. Easter songs and stories are playing a big part in their school life at present.

This class will give the dance of the "Mmuel" for the program to be given at the auditorium March 12. Children will be dressed in colonial costumes which the mothers are so graciously making.

Dr. Russell's Theory.

Sioux City Journal: Observers who make the mistake of putting too much dependence in the America that was, of ignoring today's trends in government and economics, may make another in reaching the conclusion that it can't happen here when men like Dr. William F. Russell, dean of Columbia university's teachers college, warns against revolution. Speaking before the National Education association in New Orleans, he has said that a liberal democracy can save the country from both fascism and communism. He said, too, that "what we need is not attention to the left or right, but education for the middle of the road."

It was Dr. Russell's thought that solution of the problem lay in the hands of the liberals. So if liberalism fails the country will be split into two camps, fascism and communism, and, using his own words, "civil war, bloodshed and tyranny will result." The need, as the Columbia educator saw it, was "a league for democracy, an association to counter and modify laissez faire (let it alone) a great army of Americans imbued with the spirit of men of old who believe in seeking the answer in investigation, reasonability and knowledge."

There is not an informed person in the United States who is not aware of the fact that a great change has come in the handling of our governmental, economic and social affairs and of the additional fact that an even greater transformation is coming. We shall not go

Velma Rooke

THIS may look like a lot of brass for one little girl but Velma Rooke, trombone player, is really a striking violet. Velma, one of the southern beauties on Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm" musical program heard Mondays over NBC at 4 p.m. (E.S.T.), haila from Jacksonville, Fla.

When Velma slides the trombone to seventh position it outmeasures her height—five feet two inches. She has been with Spitalny's all-girl band since it was organized three years ago. Velma started her musical career at an early age and is equally talented on the piano, saxophone and trumpet. The "Hour of Charm" is sponsored by dealers of the General Electric Company back to new year days. We shall not go back to pre-Roosevelt days. A definite turn in the road was reached after the depression began. And there's no back tracking to come.

Dr. Russell is but one of many who has warned against revolution. We already have had revolutions of a kind. But the kind of revolution to which he refers is one of violence. Complacent Americans will say that could not come. They are thinking of the America of 50, of 25, of 10 years ago, not of the American of 1933 to 1937.

Adjustments are to be made. Some of them may be made the hard way. That will depend upon the attitude of one element and the behavior of another. If as a nation and people we finally decide fairly to investigate, to be reasonable and to acquire knowledge of our affairs, as Dr. Russell has suggested, we may develop an attitude that will influence behavior. Already law enforcement in some instances has broken down because of too great liberalism. Unless we find a course closer to the middle of the road we may travel over some perilous and distressing detours. And that is what loyal Americans wish to avoid.

Special Musical Ability Is Shown By Little Boy Bobby Bergt, 6, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. Bergt of Schuyler, showed unusual ability in music for a child of his age. His father is a nephew of the late J. G. Bergt of Altona. Norma and Elman, older children in the Bergt family, also have musical talent but Bobby seems to be specially favored. At the age of 4 Bobby began playing the violin and he is a member of the class of 12 which his father instructs in Immanuel Lutheran church. Recently Rev. Bergt was busy and turned the violin class over to Elman, 13. Later Elman took ill and Bobby called the class together. He kept five seniors of 10 and 11 years of age after class because they did not do quite well enough to suit him. Bobby led the 40-piece church band as drum major when he was 5, and he recently played the full pipe organ accompaniment for the primary Sunday school singers. He plays the mellophone with the Schuyler Junior Legion band.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Have Observance For Their
Forty-fifth Year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Meyer were honored on their 45th wedding anniversary Thursday, February 23, when relatives and friends came to their home for a social evening. Luncheon was served by the guests. A large, decorated wedding cake was brought by Mrs. Arthur Meyer. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer received many gifts.

Attending the anniversary party were Mr. and Mrs. Meyer's six children, Mrs. Wm. Victor, W. H. Meyer, Arthur Meyer, Louis Meyer, Marvin Meyer and Mrs. Ernest Grove, and their families, August and Louis Roebber, brothers of Mrs. Meyer, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer and family. Mr. Meyer, a brother of W. A. Meyer, was a guest. The Roebbers and Fred Meyer were among guests at the wedding 45 years ago. Others present Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Roebber, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Krallman, Geo. Wischhof, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wischhof, Jr., Alvin Rastede, Miss Brudigan and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Echtenkamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, the latter formerly Miss Dora Roebber, were married February 25, 1892, at Immanuel church northeast of Wayne the late Rev. Carl Gutknecht. Mr. Meyer rented the farm which he bought in 1895 and this was the family home until six years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Meyer moved into Wayne. Mr. Meyer is now on the home place.

Witnesses at the wedding 45 years ago were Miss Dora Brämmer, now Mrs. Aug. Slahnke of Pukwana, S. D.; Miss Minnie Roebber, now Mrs. Geo. Brämmer, Henry Roebber and Henry Meyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyer were born in Germany and their birthdays are both in October. Mr. Meyer was 67 October 20 and Mrs. Meyer was 65 October 31. Mr. Meyer was 11 years old when he came with his parents to this country and settled in Washington county, Neb. Mrs. Meyer was 5 when her parents arrived in this country and located in Cleveland, coming to Washington county two years later. (Mr. Meyer visited Wayne vicinity in 1882 and liked this section so he came here in 1884 to farm. Mrs. Meyer came from Washington county to this vicinity in 1885.

The neighborhood northeast was sparsely settled when Mr. Meyer arrived. Sloughs in the fertile prairie produced such tall grass that horses could not be seen when they walked through. Mr. Meyer likes northeast Nebraska and as encouraged about its future.

Typical Girl Scout Is Modern Girl

What is a girl scout made of? Like all girls, she has some of the sugar and spice attributed to them in the old nursery rhyme. But what are the qualities without which a girl is not a scout?

This was the question that Lawrence Wilbur had to answer, when he undertook to paint the composite portrait, poster, which is the symbol of the girl scout twenty-fifth anniversary celebration, which begins throughout the U. S. on March 12. Mr. Wilbur had painted girl scouts before, so he knew just what he had to find.

"Any pretty girl wouldn't do," said Mr. Wilbur. "In fact, even a raving beauty wouldn't suit, unless she had character, youth and zest for living. Unless, in short, she was a modern girl."

Mr. Wilbur is a great admirer of the modern girl. He finds her healthy, vigorous, intelligent and feminine.

"Styles have changed in adolescent ideals," the painter declared. "The rough and ready tomboy fopper no longer rates. Neither does the girl who assumes sophisticated airs and clothes out of keeping with her age and interests. The girl of today has her feet on the ground. She wants to be her own age, to savor every bit of life, and to develop herself, physically, socially and personally."

That is why the girl scout is a typical modern girl, according to Mr. Wilbur. She has self-assurance without being forward; sensitivity without being self-conscious. Where did Mr. Wilbur find her?

"Right in the heart of the world's greatest city. A girl scout loves the country, but she does not need to live there to be healthy. You can find a girl scout anywhere."

Council Oak Wins In Benefit Game

The Council Oak defeated the Creamery in basketball by a score of 16 to 15 Thursday evening in a milk benefit game at the auditorium.

Receipts totaled $23.95. Expenses for hall rental will be deducted from this, the remainder of which is to be used for the milk fund to provide milk for needy families.

Special entertainment was provided by the Wayne Municipal band, under direction of Prof. F. C. Reed, which gave a concert preceding the game. Bessie, the cow, was featured between halves.

NUMBER FORTYEIGHT

Noted Pianist Makes Debut In Germany at Early Age

Possessing a natural talent and a charming personality, Miss Lucie Stern, 22, noted pianist who presented a concert at the Wayne State Teachers college Friday evening, began making public performances at the age of 6.

Miss Stern was born in Riga, Latvia, and later her parents moved to Germany, where she studied under good musicians, making her first appearance in Berlin. She came to America on a tour at the age of 10 and played with the Philharmonic symphony at Carnegie hall where Joseph Hofmann heard her and took an interest in her musical ability. She studied for four and one-half years with Mr. Hofmann and made many appearances with outstanding symphony orchestras during that time.

Miss Stern's mother, who was with her in the States and who always tours with her, wanted to return to Europe and they went back where they made appearances on the continent. She recently returned to this country following a tour in the Scandinavian countries.

Enthusiasm over American audiences and the interest that the people in this country show in classical music, Miss Stern declared that she liked to play before American people. "Musical environment is important in developing a taste for classical music," the pianist declared, "and European countries, which are older than America, have this taste and show more of an appreciation for higher type of music, but it is developing in this country."

Reversing the usual order of study, Miss Stern received the most important part of her study in America, while most Americans desiring to study classical music go to Europe. She expressed a belief that the American music is developing to such an extent that it should not be long before musical debuts in solo work would be made in America as is being done by the Metropolitan opera company.

During her recent trip in Scandinavia, Miss Stern arrived a few days before the date of her concert so she attended a violin concert and a piano concert given by people of good reputation throughout the musical world and noticed that the Scandinavian people are very cool toward these musicians. "It is much easier to play before English people than Scandinavian, as they are less critical," remarked the pianist.

Saturday morning Miss Stern answered questions of students who interviewed her on music. Upon being questioned on the merits of American jazz music, she said that it had value as dance music but is unsuitable for concert music.

Miss Stern has never practiced scales or exercises. In her studies under Mr. Hofmann, technique was something which was left to the student to be developed rather than assigned. However, Mr. Hofmann does not take pupils who are not already artists. Miss Stern is of the opinion that students vary in rhythm, others in touch, and what exercise may be suited for one would not apply in another case.

The pianist has appeared with such leading symphony orchestras in Europe as the Amsterdam Concertgebouw, the New Queens Hall orchestra of London and the Berlin and Vienna symphonies.

From Wayne, Miss Stern left for the southern states appearing in Texas, Missouri and Kansas.

Season of Wins For College High

Wayne Basketball Team Defeats Pierce Here Friday Night.

Wayne college high school basketball team kept its season's record clear of defeats when it won over Pierce, a class A school, here Friday night by score of 32 to 11. Wayne took an easy lead over the opponents and during the first quarter was leading 11 to 1. The end of the half showed the score 15 to 5 for Wayne.

Quentin Whitmore was high point man with a total of 15 points.

The line-up included Harold Jordan, Jean Hnutemer, Russell Whorlow, Quentin Whitmore, Bob Hickman, LeRoy Anderson, Howard Whorlow, and Don Strahan.

Winners Chosen In Speaking Events

Speaking contests were held at the college last Thursday when Robert Sutton placed first among the boys and Lucile Baker first among the girls in extemporaneous speaking events, and Donley Feddersen first and Oscar Olsen second among the oratorical entrants. The four represent the school at the state contest at Nebraska Wesleyan, Lincoln, March 11.

Miss Lenore Ramsey had charge of the extemporaneous speaking contest. Students entered were Robert Sutton, Durward Sevy, Harvey Podoll, Lucile Baker and Lavern Rundquist. Rev. J. A. Whitman and J. M. Lockard served as judges.

Miss Florence Drake was in charge of the peace oratorical contest and entries were Basil Anderson, James Carey, Alvin Giese, Donley Feddersen, Julia Giese, Warren McGonagle and Oscar Olsen. Feddersen's oration was "Crumbing Walls," and Olsen's was "Contrast and Contradiction." Rev. F. C. Mills was judge.

Name Committee In Dixon County

C. H. Gibbs of Newcastle, heads the Dixon county agricultural conservation committee. Clyde Jones of Allen, is vice chairman. Ernest Peterson of Wayne, is committee member, and Wymore Wallin of Laurel, is alternate member. The Concord precinct committee includes Wymore Wallin, A. E. Mills, Frank Reynolds and W. D. Stalling. On the Wakefield precinct committee are Walter Gross, Jewell Killion, Jerry Turner and Orville Wendel.

Wayne Ramblers Win Over Stanton

Wayne Ramblers, town basketball team, played at Stanton Friday evening defeating that team by a score of 48 to 44. Kenneth Dowling was high point man with a total of 14 points.

Those making the trip were Dave Triles, Kenneth Dowling, Melvin Brown, Bud Bernhoff, Murray Penhollow, Elmer Harder and Willis Penhollow.

Eastern Visitor Sees Green Grass And High Waters

Although not in the flood area, Geo. W. Fortner, who arrived home Thursday from a six-week vacation in Pennsylvania, saw a great deal of high water, especially east from Columbus, Ohio, to Pittsburgh, Penn. This was due to the numerous rains which have been falling in that section of the country this winter.

Temperatures were mild, the mildest that have been experienced by citizens in that territory. The lowest temperature during Mr. Fortner's visit was 20 degrees above zero, and two weeks ago the mercury climbed to 70 degrees. "It was as enjoyable as typical California weather," commented Mr. Fortner.

Lawns were very green throughout the east and in Washington, D. C., where Mr. Fortner and his nephew visited the United States congress, it was necessary for people to mow their grass. While in Washington, Mr. Fortner talked to Congressman Karl Stefan, representative from the Third district in Nebraska.

Mr. Fortner visited the large steel mill in which he formerly worked as a child in Berwick, Penn., where his brother lives. The mill now covers over 100 acres of ground and some of the shops are a half mile long. The shop, which was closed for a time, is now operating but not on full force. Business conditions as a whole are not reported to be very good in that section of Pennsylvania.

While he was gone, Mr. Fortner visited relatives in Columbus, Ohio, Lebanon, Penn., and spent several weeks with his brother at Berwick, Penn.

Leases Station South Of Wayne

Jack Denbeck leased the Harold Knudsen service station south of Wayne and took charge Sunday. His son-in-law, Val Darling, will operate the business. The Knudsen plan to move to Coleridge where Mr. Knudsen owns another station.

Outstanding Club Members Picked

Outstanding work in the Wayne county baby beef club was done the past year by Donald Baird, Leland Herman, Gene Baird and Muriel Sydow, according to selection made by leaders at Lincoln. The first named receives a trip to club week program in Lincoln this spring. Beryl Nelson was picked by the Sioux City Stock Yards for a free trip to club week because of her work in the swine club.

APPROVAL GIVEN TO NEW BUILDING

Official approval has been given for a new school gymnasium at Concord, the building to cost $8,500. Plans call for a 46 by 70 foot structure to be built on the site of the old frame building which has been used for the gymnasium. Some of the lumber in the old frame will be used. WPA furnishes $75,000 and Concord residents pay $1,000.

present expenditures in this country are running at the rate of about $1,000,000,000 annually for military expenditures. Our naval expenditures have increased to the point where today the budget calls for approximately $600,000,000; that is an increase from $297,000,000 in 1935 to $570,000,000 in 1937. The army will ask for about as much as the navy. Many of those who are anxious for more economy believe that we should have national defense, but they are asking the membership of the House not to appropriate money for anything that is not necessary for national defense and that is not effective. Thirtyfour Millions for Franking. A lot of questions are coming in about the great franking privilege which members of Congress have. The amount of money spent by the government to take care of congressional franking runs around $750,000 a year according to the most accurate figures this office can secure, but that amount is a drop in the bucket compared with the expenditures of government departments using the franking privilege. These departments using the franking privilege are expanding so fast that space in this town cannot be found for them. WPA is said to have about 5,500 people working on publicity, and every department of the government has paid publicity agents who are covered up some way or other. It is stated that expenditures for governmental departments using the frank have increased from an average of about nine million dollars over a period of four or five years ending with the fiscal year 1932; nine million dollars to four million dollars in 1933; to 23 million dollars in 1934; to 31 million dollars in 1935; to 32 million dollars in 1936 and if the department spends at the same rate for the rest of this fiscal year up to the first of January there will be spent an average of 34 million dollars a year for franking privilege. Every organization of the government is sending out all sorts of pamphlets, pictures and history of operation of various departments, under the franking privilege, which costs the taxpayers millions and millions of dollars. They figure if one department has the right to use the franking privilege, other departments have, and they are using it in great style. Gets By On Name and Card. The desperate methods being used here to get into the so-called "social swim" in Washington are amazing. Some of the people even change their names in order to make them sound impressive so they can get in the "social swim." One newspaper man tells us of a lady who has been here for several "Maritah Martinay." He says this lady comes from his home in a western state and her real name is "Mary Martin," but "Maritah Martinay" on a highly embossed card and handed to a uniformed butler looks much better. He says she is "getting by," but when she meets him she blushes, because he used to go to school with her. Relected At Beemer. Miss Doris Nelson who teaches commercial in the high school at Beemer, was relected for next year. Wayne City Library News Four new books were received at the Wayne city library this week from the International Mind Alocve. "Spanish Tragedy," by E. A. Peers goes to the heart of the Spanish situation setting forth conditions and influences which have led Spanish people to the present condition. The English author asks people to "cease taking sides in conflicts and try to understand the situations." "A Way Farer in Norway" by S. J. Beckett deals with a nation which is free from international strain and stress. Norway is described as to geography and shows the freedom of a loving independent people. "Yang and Yin" by Alice T. Hobart is a novel showing the problems faced by foreigners who settle in China and the reactions of the Chinese. "What the International Labor Organization Means to America" by Spencer Miller, Jr., describes the work done by the International Labor Organization. It also contains a collection of addresses by distinguished groups of scholars and students of industrial and economic problems. The constitution of the organization is included with documents affecting membership of the United States. Two books were presented to the library from a library patron, "Arctic Village" by Robert Marshall deals with the life of Eskimo people and "Claudius, the God" by Robert Graves tells of the life of the Egyptians in A. D. 41. It gives an interesting insight into the early Christian church. "The Man Who Caught the Weather" and other stories by Bess Streeter Aldrich have been compiled into one book. Another new book is the "Country Kitchen" by Della T. Lutes which is a story of a country family of the 1870's with the kitchen described as the important room of the house. Read the Herald want column.

Miss Minnie Will leaves today or Friday for Atlanta, Georgia, to visit her sister. Mr. and Mrs. Don Beaman spent Sunday in Wisner visiting at the home of Mrs. Beaman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dewitz. MOTHER OF WAYNE LADY HAS BIRTHDAY Mrs. Margaret Brown, pioneer Stanton county teacher, mother of Mrs. Eva McIntyre of Wayne, celebrated her 84th birthday March 1. Mrs. Brown, whose maiden name was Miss Margaret Kenney, began teaching in Stanton county in 1869. She has six children. Legislative News and Views Six Nebraska senators, sitting as a committee on public health and miscellaneous subjects, dealt merciful and sudden death to Senator Comstock's "mercy death" bill, unanimously and instantaneously as soon as the hearing room could be cleared of advocates, a lone objector and the largest crowd of spectators assembled thus far this session in any public committee hearing. This came to an end for this legislative session at least, the further that accommodations for introduction of the revolutionary measure of permitting persons suffering from an incurable disease to apply for and secure, with all things regular, at an accredited hospital, administration of something that would put them to death. The bill, bearing the reputation of being the first of its kind ever introduced in an American legislature, found some few friends among the clergy of Lincoln when it came to hearing. Dr. Inez Philbrick, physician and one-time affiliate with the University of Nebraska, led the argument for the bill and admitted she helped firm in her stand during the long examination by committee members and her counsel several times were applauded. The scriptures were referred to and there was a difference of opinion on one of the Ten Commandments, that declaring: "Thou shalt not kill." Senator Regan of Columbus expressed doubt as to the legislature's right to change the Commandments; Senator Pizer of North Platte averred they might be amended, and Dr. Philbrick retorted: "You can interpret them." Senator Miller, also a doctor, asked Dr. Philbrick if she would object to making the state prison warden executioner under the act, to which the advocate said: "I would, I object also to considering this proposition in other than serious vein." Dr. Miller said later he was not serious in asking the question, adding that euthanasia, in some form, will come in time, but that it is premature. The senator-doctor added that many present-day so-called incurable ailments will in time be recognized as curable. Backing Dr. Philbrick were several Lincoln ministers; the lone dissenting voice was that of a Lutheran pastor from near Lincoln. Declared he: "According to the scriptures, God only can give life and God alone can take it away." Dr. Philbrick, replying, said: "The world was took the lives of ten million men. Did God take them? Our courts constantly condemn men to death for the good of society. Suicide is not condemned in the scriptures." Dr. Philbrick added, "Thou shalt not kill" has been changed in revised editions to "Thou shalt do no murder," she declared, asking the senators to be reminded of the words: "Blessed are the Merciful." "We knock them into insensibility with morphine for months and I think we are criminals when we do it." Dr. Philbrick declared, in speaking of modern day methods of administering to suffering and incurable patients. Prophecies of active water transportation on the Missouri river up as far as Omaha and Sioux City were made freely by friends of a bill that would allow dikes and villages to erect dock boards to construct and manage public wharves. The Omaha chamber of commerce brought word that the Missouri would be navigable to Omaha within a year and possibly by late fall this year. It was deemed probable that the Platte and Elkhorn may some day be developed to accommodate river shipping. The bill being considered was LB95. It was said that the construction of the Fort Peck reservoir in Montana assures adequate water for the Missouri even in dry years. Railroads voiced no protest in committee hearing after an amendment was added protecting their right-of-ways against use as dock points. Change in rules that permits passage of bills three days sooner was adopted unanimously by the senate. They were recommended by John N. Norton, chairman of the rules committee. Committee of the whole, long a contention, remains intact. A measure that threatened for a time to be controversial, LB6, passed the senate 31 to 7. It provides that counties shall add to the state levy a tax sufficient to pay for the care of indigent patients in state hospitals. The bill was signed by the governor. Governor Cochran appeared before appropriations committee, explaining his recommendation for about $13,000,000 for the Nebraska assistance program for the coming two years. The increasing number of aged persons receiving assistance would be offset by decreases effected by reinvestigation and "if we get a crop," he declared. "If we don't get a crop," added Cochran, "we don't know where to get the money. The people hardest up will be those paying for the program."

He has been superintendent at Pender for eight years. J. M. Huey, 82, of Randolph, was presented the Jordan medal for being a member of the Masonic lodge 50 years. A petition is being circulated in Norfolk seeking a special election to vote on issuing $95,000 for a city auditorium. Harlan Jackson and Miss Esmerance of Wisner, were married July 3, 1936, and have just announced their wedding. Ice breakers were installed near the bridge at Pender to prevent recurrence of damage to the bridge such as resulted last spring. Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Dimmitt of Wisner, celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary February 20. The former is 76 and the latter 75. Mrs. G. C. Westrope, 67, of Bolden, died Wednesday last week. Her husband and one daughter, Mrs. F. R. Root, of Bolden, survive. John Schram's store at Bekken, was robbed of about $1,000 worth a liquor last week. The safe was turned over and the bottom caved in. John Peterslagren, 70, died of a heart attack Wednesday last week.

when he was walking in the yard at the home of Mrs. Johanna Ahlers in Pender. Gus Bremer of Stanton, topped the Omaha cattle market with Angus steers bringing $13.75. Heriman Pohlman of Stanton, received $13.85 another day on the Omaha market. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stage of Laurel, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, February 23, at the home of their niece, Mrs. L. H. Hepp, and husband, at Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Julia Frances Head, 79, resident of Randolph 35 years, died in a Sioux City hospital Thursday as a result of a broken hip suffered February 10 when she fell. She is survived by eight daughters, and four sons. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beyerler, sr., long time residents at Newcastle, on February 21 observed the 55th anniversary of their marriage. An entertainment was given the couple at the home of a granddaughter, Mrs. M. S. Bennett. Fire destroyed the house and its contents on the Gillman farm two miles east of Laurel, Neb. Hanson, tenant on the place, discovered the blaze when he returned from rounding up his horses which had strayed. The Laurel fire department responded, but the blaze had gained too much headway to stop anything. H. L. Johnson of Rose Hill community was run over by his car. While backing the car out of his garage, it slipped off the cement driveway into the mud. He hitched a team to it to pull it back. The team became frightened and ran away. The machine ran over him and pinned him to a barbed wire fence. Several of his ribs were broken.

Debt Increasing Rapidly.
The big appropriation bills are beginning to come into the House and in answer to many questions as to how much money will be spent this year it can be stated that according to the budget, which was sent to the House, the estimated expenditures for this fiscal year are $8,480,000,000. Since that time we have had a deficiency appropriation bill involving $1,000,000,000 and another one is in the offing. Without taking anything else into consideration the present situation calls for estimated appropriations of $9,480,000,000, leaving a deficit for this current year of approximately $5,000,000,000 on the basis of expenditures. The national debt is $34,500,000,000 and government guarantees of $5,000,000,000 and probably a little more will make the debt about $40,000,000,000. This gives some idea as to the speed with which we are running behind. As near as any of the experts can figure it here our deficit on the basis of expenditures is approximately $4,000,000,000 greater than a year ago.

Print More Revenue Stamps.
How fast will our tax revenues be raised? That is a question that also comes up frequently. As indicative of the way in which they have been raised attention is called to the estimates carried in the present treasury department bill, which is now being debated in the House and which calls for the printing of 138,081,159 sheets of postage stamps and also for 142,004,047 sheets of internal revenue stamps, and for the first time in the history of the United States the number of revenue stamps estimated to be required for the operations of the government exceeds the number of postage stamps. That will give you some idea of the way we are progressing in increasing the tax burdens of the people and which is the one way indebtedness must be paid and one way the expense of the government must be taken care of.

Armament Race Increases Debt.
Uncle Sam is not the only heavy spender. Most of the other countries are spending a lot of money. Our original foreign loans were around $10,145,000,000. We have had principal payments amounting to $757,000,000. Great Britain and France are heavily indebted to us. However, these countries are staging great armament building programs. Great Britain's program calls for $7,000,000,000 and now Great Britain is asking us for a loan of $2,000,000,000. Other countries are also in a great race to build armaments. Uncle Sam's

Rites Are Conducted For Mrs. Henry H. Johnson On Sunday

Mrs. Henry H. Johnson, resident of near Carroll four years, died Friday morning, February 26, in Wayne where a daughter was born to the Johnsons Tuesday, February 23 by Caesarian operation. The Beckenbauer service of Wayne, took the body to Ponca Saturday. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday afternoon at the English Lutheran church. Burial was in Ponca cemetery.

Mrs. Johnson, whose maiden name was Miss Helena Steffen, was born at Ponca July 9, 1903. She grew to womanhood at Ponca and was married there to Henry H. Johnson. The family lived in Dixon county until four years ago when they came from Maskell to the Fred Bartels farm north of Carroll.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband, three daughters, Dorothy, Buddy Dee and the infant daughter, and one son, Barry. She also leaves three sisters, one in Sioux City, one in Houston, Texas, and one in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartels were among those who went to Ponca Sunday for the funeral.

The Ray Harmeiers of Wausa, plan to stay with the Johnson family.

Former Student In Project Work

Loren Porter, who was in school here about six years ago, writes from Crofton that he is planning to enter project club work this season. He has a heifer and a mare, both of which he received for Christmas from Mr. Morr. The heifer, which weighs about 500 pounds, is valued at $30. The mare is worth $50 and weighs 1,000 pounds. The heifer is a Brown Swiss, and the mare is half thoroughbred. The project work starts this spring and continues a year. He trades Mr. Morr milk from the heifer for feed for both animals. He will feed silage, corn, oats and straw. Loren expects to learn how to care for animals in his project so that he can become a good farmer. He will keep records to show all expenses and income.

THE OLIVER ROW-CROP "70"

Just a light touch on the steering wheel turns the new Row-Crop "70" completely around. It's the easiest tractor to operate you ever saw. Every control's right at your finger tips—and you have steering and gear shifting like an automobile.

This is Oliver's new 6-cylinder tractor that has caused so much talk. There are two "70's"—one designed solely for regular gasoline—and the other to get the utmost fuel economy out of kerosene or distillate.

With either one you'll get unusually great power with light weight—and great speed. Under ordinary soil conditions, you can plow with two 14-inch bases at over 4 miles an hour! That gets the work done quicker and gives more spare time for other things.

The Row-Crop "70" comes from the tractor factory of the founders of the tractor industry. You'll want to see this latest, modern tractor at once—with its complete line of mounted listing, busting, planting and cultivating equipment.

WITH YOUR ENGINE OIL-PLATED AND DON'T WORRY

OIL-PLATING differs widely from other lubrication in this plain way: It remains lastingly fastened to pistons, bearings and other parts, even when they are not in motion. This is made possible by the Conoco Process—patented—which gives Conoco GERM Processed oil its strong attraction for all working parts, so that they become durably Oil-Plated.

Oil-Plating is not like any lubrication that merely goes on-and-off. Once GERM Processed oil covers the parts it never leaves them bare of Oil-Plating. . . . Never when the pistons race thousands of strokes a minute. . . . Never on any hills, despite any load. . . . Never as you park a dozen times.

So it's nothing to you, when engineers blame more than half of all engine wear on "dry starting." Nor need you worry over all the rest of the annual Spring oil scare. Whether your car is new or old, you can make your long runs . . . hit your high speeds . . . enjoy your hot sunshine. Oil-Plating can take it, for Oil-Plating really becomes a long-lasting part of your engine, as you change to long-lasting Conoco GERM Processed oil. Continental Oil Co.

Betty's Nature Study

Lenore P. Ramsey.

Betty had put her doll to sleep and covered her well and then set the doll baby-carriage in the sun carefully shading her "baby's" face. Then she settled herself in her little rocking-chair to read until dolly's nap was ended.

Suddenly mother heard a piercing scream. Running out onto the porch, she found Betty crying and screaming.

"Stop your crying, Betty, and tell me what's the matter." "Look at old Bobbitt, Mother. She's hurting her baby. O, make her stop. Please stop her."

"Why, child. That's the way a mother cat carries her babies. She won't hurt it." Betty looked at her mother hardly knowing whether to believe her or not.

"Didn't you ever see a cat carry her kittens? Every boy and girl has seen that surely." She laughed, and had to turn you loose with the animals. Now what's the matter?" Betty's face again.

"How could I know I didn't know as much as other girls as big as I. Don't laugh at me, Mother."

"Silly. Mother wasn't laughing at you because you didn't know how animals carried their babies. Honey, child, if people started crying because there were things they didn't know, everybody would be crying."

Jimmie came around the side of the house and seeing Betty in tears, went up to her and patted her. "Don't cry, Betty. Mamma, what's the matter with her?"

Mother didn't answer that question but sitting in a chair she told that cats, tigers, and many animals including dogs carried their babies by catching their teeth in the scruff of the baby's neck.

"Birds don't," piped in Jimmie. "No, but sometimes eagles and other birds encourage the baby bird to fly by pushing it from the nest; then the older bird swoops down under it, catching it on her back and flying back to the nest."

"Birds can't carry eggs, though, can they?" asked Betty. "I think

I heard Daddy tell Jimmie that birds left their nests and eggs if people bothered the nests."

"That's true, I believe, Betty. Although if not bothered, birds will build nests very close to where people live, walk, sit, and talk every day."

"Once a man by the name of Audubon who liked to watch birds, study them, and paint their pictures using their exact colors for the pictures."

"O," interrupted Betty, "we have an Audubon society at school. We study birds and we promise to stop people who try to harm birds."

"Your club was named for the Audubon of whom I was telling you. Mr. Audubon told some of his friends he saw one kind of bird carry its eggs."

"Tell us about it." "I believe Audubon called the bird Chuck will's widow. You see, as soon as the sun goes down the bird begins to cull. 'Chuck will's widow, chuck will's widow.' Some boys told him that Chuck will's widow moved her eggs. Audubon found a nest hidden in a small hollow in the ground. He moved the eggs in the nest and the next day the nest was empty. He found another nest, picked the eggs up and then put them back. After that he hid to see what would happen. The night was so dark and the birds so quiet he almost missed seeing what the birds did; just before daylight he saw the father and mother bird flying from their nest. He looked. The nest was empty. He hunted and hunted but couldn't find those birds or their eggs."

"Are there any Chuck will's widows around here?" "No, those birds live in the southern part of the United States. Birds around here leave the eggs and nests and don't come back if anyone disturbs the eggs; so we are careful not to touch any nests we find around our trees and shrubs. Now, I must get Daddy's lunch."

"Thanks, Mother, for telling us about the birds, and I'll try not to be a cry-baby until I'm sure I have something to cry about."
