

Newspaper Reveals How Russian Communism Deals With Opponents — Weather Experience of Past Inspires Fear — Ninety-Year-Old Doctor to Serve — Price Advances.

Someone has sent us a copy of the Moscow (Russia) News giving a report of the trial of seventeen Russians charged with treason. Of the number, the court ordered thirteen shot and four imprisoned. That would gratify Dictator Stalin.

In the course of the trial it was made evident that a bitter contest was being waged between communism and fascism. Communism is in control in Russia, as fascism dominates Italy, Japan and Germany.

Moscow mobs cheered the impending doom of the convicted traitors. The crowds had to manifest approval no matter how they felt. It was the healthiest thing to do under the iron heel of a ruthless dictator whose word is law and from whose decision there is no chance for appeal.

In the European clash between two equally abhorrent systems of government, the one big-surviving democracy—the United States—looks on with horror and hope—horror on a world supposed to have been made safe for democracy, and hope for enough sense and courage to save itself from sinister influences directed from abroad and calculated to force surrender of traditional freedom.

Good Luck to Sun Spots. Cloudy days with snow flurries and often much wind are common in March, and lack of moisture at this time would cause no uneasiness if we had not had a drought of near-drought during the past few years.

One thing offered as ground for hope is the sun-spot display. Scientists have discovered larger spots than those that decorated the sun during the wet year of 1929.

Northeast Nebraska, long known as an area of unfeeling rainfall and abundant crops, is certainly not going to continue long overwhelmed by drought. Acting on experience of recent years, however, farmers will generally safeguard themselves by more diversified farming.

Oldster on Staff. We are informed by a government department that Dr. H. D. Wood of Fayetteville, Arkansas, who is 90 years old, is one of several thousand doctors who will examine applicants for the citizens' military training camps to be held in the Seventh Corps area next summer.

Before Bidding on Jobs. Printing papers of all kinds have been making so many and such unexpected price advances that we have been warned by wholesalers to ascertain latest stock prices before bidding.

HOW BEN WELBAUM WAS STAR PLAYER IN PITCHER'S BOX

AS THE baseball season opens, we are reminded of the so-called national game forty and fifty years ago, in a clearly recollected period in our youth, we liked baseball better than any other diversion. We were especially delighted when the home team was pitted against a neighborhood rival.

Kiwanis Speaker Visited Germany

Rev. Martin Schroeder Tells Of Hitler Dictatorship At Club Meeting.

Rev. Martin Schroeder of Bloomfield, spoke to the Kiwanis club Monday after the regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton. Rev. Schroeder who has recently been in Germany, told of the government there. The guest compared the ideas of German government to the World-Herald photo contest in which a person is to name an object from a picture of a part of it. The average person cannot form an intelligent opinion of what is going on in central Europe, Rev. Schroeder stated.

"As a chair is subject to gravity, people are subject to imitation," continued the minister. What goes on top of the head is subject to fashion, likewise what goes inside is subject to fashion. The American people are prejudiced against what is going on in Europe.

If the country of Germany were transplanted to the United States, the whole would cover only Nebraska and a part of Wyoming. The population in the United States is 18 persons to the square mile while in Germany it is 360 persons per square mile, continued the speaker.

Standards and ideals cannot be compared in two countries which are so different. In Europe when a person goes from one country to another, even though the distance is as short as from here to Sioux City, a passport must be shown. A person is considered a spy if a passport is not presented. Soldiers are met all the time in the other countries. Rev. Schroeder said that there is also a spiritual difference between these countries as well as physical.

"The Nazi government was inaugurated the day the last signature was put on the Treaty of Versailles," continued the pastor. Hitler made his entry into German government in 1919. In 1923 he was put in prison and released in 1925. National socialism was started in 1932, and given supreme right in 1933.

The speaker said Germany has a dictator whom people seem to like. The minister mentioned the Ohio flood where stricken persons did not question the kind of relief brought to them. They were satisfied with any kind of help with the least possible delay. So, Germany got relief through a dictator, and is satisfied. Germany had always had 28 to 24 political parties most of the time. The country needed a leader who could inspire the rest of the nation to follow him. Hitler is a man who knows nothing of compromise.

Rev. Schroeder explained the state as a shell within which the people move. In the Nazi government everything is reduced to the state. The finances must be handled through the government rather than by individuals. The people of Germany worship Adolf Hitler as their God.

Prof. O. R. Bowen gave the birthdays of the week for national figures as those of Thomas Marshall, Andrew Jackson, James Madison, Chief Justice Taney, Grover Cleveland, Wm. Bryan and Charles Elliott.

Guests at the club were Rev. W. F. Most, Rev. James Whitman and Rev. W. C. Heidenreich.

C. M. Craven was awarded the attendance prize. The attendance Monday was 92 percent.

Granting Power
 THE Omaha World-Herald cannot understand the president's haste to capture more power in view of the report that the depression is practically out of the way. It cannot understand why the president should follow his deprecation of "fear" by throwing a tremendous scare into the populace by demanding immediate action in behalf of his supreme court policy in order, as he suggests, to escape repetition of the 1929 dangers. The World-Herald queries: "One wonders how much power a president must be given to make the world safe again."

In the course of its comment, the World-Herald says among other things: "And suppose, with the supreme court made over, NRA could be re-enacted, so the president would have power over wages, prices and profits everywhere, throughout the republic. Would that make us safe at last, and content?"

"We doubt it gravely. Indeed, we believe Mr. Roosevelt owes the court an enormous debt of gratitude for having, by unanimous vote, voided NRA when it did, as clearly unconstitutional. And that same debt of gratitude is owed the court by all the people."

"Too much power may be even more dangerous than too little power. It is for that reason a written constitution was made, to put restraints upon president and congress alike. And when Mr. Roosevelt declares that 'if Americans cannot trust the congress... democracy will have failed,' he is saying, in effect, the founding fathers were wrong and we do not need a constitution, or a court to defend it."

"He disclaims, indignantly, any intent of placing on the bench 'spineless puppets' who would interpret laws according to his wish. Yet what other purpose inspires his desire to change the court's complexion? Nor can his demand upon the congress to pass a law he desired regardless of all reasonable doubts as to its constitutionality, be so soon forgotten. If a congress may ignore the constitution, why not a court? And, if both did, what limit would be placed upon executive power?"

Teacher Retirement
 THE teacher retirement bill known as L. B. No. 138, now in committee, is reported rocking perilously in the direction of its doom, and sponsors of the measure are now making an effort to have it reach the floor of the legislature for more thorough and general discussion.

Teachers feel they are not overly well paid, and that their work is designed more to enrich youthful minds than to enrich teacher exchequers. They feel the need of a state-wide plan to afford a livelihood after their days of usefulness in the school room have ended. They feel the teaching field at present does not offer sufficient inducements for young and ambitious persons to enter the profession. They believe financial assurance in declining years would infuse more new human values, and also inspire confidence that would stimulate a higher type of service.

Teachers feel the train of social security plans, national and state, has left them standing at the side of the road looking on. On them much of the future of citizenship depends, and they believe some state set-up to which they would contribute, would be only a reasonable safeguard.

What amazes Americans unaccustomed to old-world restraints, is the way the people of Germany—among the most intelligent and industrious in the world—can stand arbitrary rule over their lives. Rev. Martin Schroeder of Bloomfield, who recently returned from a trip to Germany, explained to Kiwanians in Wayne Monday the unhappy plight of the Germans prior to the Hitler ascendancy, and that relief which came through dictatorship, lifted intolerable hardships. That seems to be the reason the German nation is satisfied. Necessities of life persuaded its people to exchange freedom for security, and now they could not change the order if they would, and, from reports, they would not if they could. The speaker indicated that a condition obtaining in Germany, with its limited territory, could not obtain in America with its vast area, boundless resources and traditional independence.

Alfred P. Murrah, aged 33, has been appointed to a federal judgeship in Oklahoma at a salary of $10,000 per year, and doubtless the fact that he is so young and has what seems a long time to go before reaching 70, has led him to declare his willingness to retire at that age. Proclaiming himself a Roosevelt democrat, Murrah evidently sought to fit himself into the president's blueprints by declaring: "I'm going to try to be a human and a natural federal judge. I hope to look more into the philosophy of the law than into its technicalities." Altogether he makes himself very agreeable to Roosevelt requirements, and sets an example for other aspiring young lawyers who want life jobs on federal benches.

As a rule, youth is impetuous. Young persons seldom weigh consequences as seriously as their elders. They often figure the way to win their chance is to upset the old order, not counting the cost of rash disregard of the status quo. They frequently bubble with misguided enthusiasm for change. Thus, it is not strange to find many college students, each eager to lead the world without effort or responsibility, rallying behind cries for government innovations with little thought of the cost that might later be required. Clamor to rearrange the economic system is strengthened by the voice of youth—youth fired by false hope rather than steadiest by practical judgment.

The Easter season—anniversary of the resurrection, the awakening of nature, the revival of hope in things spiritual and material—finds the world still distraught and out of joint. Europe is in an alarming ferment—some parts at war and other parts arming for war. Stressing peace and good will as exemplified by the gentle Nazarene does not find even the United States—beset by an unusual collection of anxieties—overly serene and well ordered. But the more the Easter spirit can be made to be felt by peoples everywhere, undoubtedly the stronger will be the resistance to worldly power and selfish gain.

LIBERTY'S PRICE.
 Change in the economic order is talked so much and conceded so often that those who cling to the democratic form of government as nearest the ideal wonder if the purpose is to draw the country into a vortex of lost individuality and subservient dependence. Progress is essential, but it must be made in conformity with fundamental liberty if the noblest qualities in civilization are to be encouraged and preserved. We are assured that Germany is content within the machine of an all-powerful dictator. One-man rule may mean security at the sacrifice of freedom. Forfeiting initiative which builds courage into character, may be the price exacted for comforts in an emergency. But all peoples who have tasted liberties as guaranteed in America shrink from thought of giving up such advantages by becoming mere automatons in a great government plan. It should not be necessary to surrender free expression and untrammelled action in order to get rid of known evils. It should not be necessary to burn down a building in order to destroy any rodents that may infest it. It should not be necessary in a country of unlimited resources to strangle human values belonging to our democracy and evident in our development from the start in order to give everybody his rightful chance. It is dearly bought security that has to accept it in lieu of precious freedom.

fore quoting price on a job if one should happen to come along. This feverish upswing in paper values seems strange in the drouth area where old prices are still looked at askance. Boom prices are not comforting to territory deflated by no crops and nothing to sell. Asking us to know and feel prosperity is here by telling us to be on the alert for price boosts is a good deal like asking us to fill our stomach looking at the picture of a steaming meal of victuals.

EDITORS.
 Metropolitan dailies have their business managers, and accordingly they follow strict business principles in handling affairs. Writers for the big newspapers are just as sentimental and just as deficient in business sagacity as the country editor, but they do not have to bother with the financial sinews that keep together the institutions by which they are employed. Coolly calculating business heads assume all financial responsibility. They look after revenues and costs, and they measure newspaper features, supplied by artists and authors, largely by what they are worth as business builders. Editors in large centers as well as in rural communities could not often qualify as outstanding financiers. They wouldn't be editors if they could. Disadvantage in the country lies in the fact that the editor is responsible for business success as well as for editorial and news values. He usually underestimates the worth of his products, and the public cheerfully agrees with him. Propagandists, including numerous government bureaus, invite him to donate space often and liberally, which he frequently does, figuring that the public interest transcends need of exactitude in drawing lines of distinction between advertising and news service. He develops as an easy mark as his mind centers more on the good influence of his work and less on what he is going to make out of it. And his lack of business sense is probably of untold value to our civilization.

Dramatics Class To Present Play By Noted Author

Wayne college dramatics class is now rehearsing "A Doll's House," the classical drama by Henrik Ibsen, which will be presented April 14 and 15. Miss Florence M. Drake, dramatics instructor, states that she believes producing this play will be an interesting project.

Ibsen is known as the greatest of those who have contributed to shape the development of the contemporary drama and he is famous for his plays among which are "Hedda Gabler," "The Wild Duck," "The Master Builder" and "Ghosts." The latter was produced by a professional company at the college a year ago. It starred Madam Borgny Hammer, well known Norwegian actress.

Horner Wadleigh Chandler, dean of the liberal arts college at the University of Cincinnati, says the following in regard to Ibsen's works: "In all his plays, Ibsen demonstrated the possibility of dealing with vital problems in the most vivid and influential of the arts, without sacrificing to the enunciation of a thesis any esthetic values. He was interested in preaching from the stage lessons of reform. Yet he was not propagandist like his disciple, Brioux, skimming the representation of character in order to emphasize doctrine. Nor was he a many-sided, all-inclusive genius like Shakespeare, depicting objectively human nature, with all its flaws and aspirations, depths and heights of being. He stood between the two as a dramatist of ideas. He was an artist, yet a moral philosopher, a playwright, yet a thinker."

The college drama group expects to produce "A Doll's House" in its intended Norwegian setting. No attempt will be made to modernize the dialogue, costumes or the play itself.

Special costumes are to be made by the young women of the class. The men will work on the set which is to be used.

An effort is being made toward authenticity in the production. Odd properties and pieces of furniture which are representative of a Norwegian home in the year 1879 are being secured.

Recital Received Well At College
Most delightful was the senior recital given by Dewayne Gramly, pianist, at the college auditorium last Thursday evening.

Mr. Gramly played a program of well-chosen contrasts and high artistic merit. His first two numbers, the Adagio from Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and the "Moderate and Minuet" from "Sonatine" by Ravel served to show the striking difference between the treatment of the "Sonata Form" by composers of the present to that of Beethoven a hundred years ago. Mr. Gramly seemed most happy in his modern group, three pieces by Debussy and one each from Phillip and DeFalla. The concluding number, the first "division" of the Beethoven "C minor Concerto," with Richard Eckley at a second piano, playing the orchestral accompaniment, was delivered in a highly musical and spirited manner. Mr. Gramly responded to several encores and was presented with a gift from the K. M. K. piano club of which he was the first president.

Miss Alice McGregor, contralto, assisted in the program with three songs, one of which was "You" written by Mr. Gramly.

A large audience was in attendance and received the recitalist with enthusiasm.

Mr. Gramly has been a student in the music department at the college during the past three years, with a major in piano under Prof. Albert G. Carlson. Upon receiving his bachelor of fine arts degree in May he plans to leave for New York to continue his musical studies at the Julliard School of Music.

Plenty of Critics: One member who has been here 29 years says that he never gets up on the floor of this "greatest deliberative body in the world" without "tear and trembling." He says that no member can feel he knows more about a subject or question he wants to discuss because the House contains the largest number of the shrewdest critics in the world. With over 270 lawyers in the House it is easy to attract a critic who likes to argue a point. That's their business.

Canned Meat All Foreign: A member here has made a store to store canvass of this town. He claims he tried to buy a can of corned beef which was canned in the U. S. A., or contained American beef. He told members of the House that not a can of American corn beef can be found in town. It's all marketed "inspected and canned in Argentine, Paraguay or Uruguay" or some South American country. Native cattle herders in some of these countries get about 25 cents a week and the beef can be bought down there for around 1 cent a pound, according to the statement of this member.

Make Easter Service Reservations: Sunday in Washington churches as usual bring small crowds. In the big St. Albans cathedral which can accommodate thousands, only a very few people were at the morning services. However, a big church attendance is looked for on Easter Sunday. A lot of the churches have most of their pews reserved and letters must now be sent to the head ushers by people who expect to get into church on that day. As usual, the regular attendance at church services here show a great predominance of women worshippers.

Biggest Controversy Since The League of Nations: The loudest dispute regarding the administration's program is over the proposal to reorganize the judiciary. People here for a long time say this dispute is the loudest since the controversy over the League of Nations. Hundreds of thousands of letters are coming to members on both sides of the House. While most of these are against the plan, the deluge of letters and communications backing the program will be starting to come to Washington within the next few weeks. The plan apparently is being tried in the court of public opinion.

Inlanders Want Sea Food: Everybody coming to Washington goes in for sea food, especially those coming from inland states. So many lobsters are eaten here and elsewhere along the coast that predictions have been made that eventually the lobster will become extinct. However, broiled lobsters of pretty good size can be bought for 35 cents each, at the river cafes.

Washington Building Boom: One member today charged that the government is putting on new employees at the rate of 100 per day. Although that is not correct, there is a rapid growth in the government employee population here. The building boom due to the great demand for rooms and offices is growing fast here. This town has spent fifty-six million dollars in new buildings in the last twelve months. Permits for more than ten thousand family dwelling units were issued in this town in 1936. They expect the 1937 program to be much larger than that.

Try to Bring Out Frazier-Lemke Bill: The Frazier-Lemke farm refinance petition went out the clerk's desk today as also did the petition to discharge the committee which has the farm cost of production bill in charge. Another petition regarding the refinance of home loans was also filed with the clerk. Two hundred and eighteen signatures must be on these petitions before this legislation can come up on the floor of the people's representatives for action. The administration is not in favor of these bills and as a result a canvass among members has started asking them to sign the petitions. Some parts of the Lemke refinance bill are in the new land tenant bill which is soon to come out of the agriculture committee.

Want to Change Capitol Building: The bill asking for four million dollars to change the nation's capitol has come out of the senate committee and will soon be acted upon in the Senate. After that it comes to the House committee. Certain factions in this city are anxious to make the change in the capitol building which were stopped by the House committee last year.

Sugar Cause of Congressional Backlog: Last week the soft coal miners who favored the proposed Guffey coal bill called on nearly every congressional office. This week an organization called the "Progressive Miners" are circulating the congressional offices with arguments "against" the Guffey coal bill. The army of lobbyists is getting larger in Washington. Because of important sugar legislation coming up soon, the town is filled with sugar lobbyists. Members who have been here many years say that during their stay here more wars have been fought over supplies of sugar, or other sweetening agents than for any other cause. The sugar kings of Cuba, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Philippines and other countries are here in full force. They are very powerful. They give great parties, teas, receptions and dinners. They meet behind closed doors and the people behind these doors are among the leaders in this and foreign nations. America is a great customer for the sugar kings. The United States is short in our sugar supply. We produce less than one-quarter of our requirements of both cane and beet sugar. We import about 85 percent of our cane sugar requirements. The foreign sugar kings don't like any member who suggests that no quota be placed on American grown beet or cane sugar. They don't even like any suggestion that the United States do something to increase domestic sugar acreage. The sugar law is about to be acted upon. The sugar kings act first before the proposed law reaches the hands of the people's representatives.

Hire Talent Away from Government: Foreign sugar and sugar bi-products compete with American produced corn and grain. Black strap molasses is rapidly replacing grain and corn in the manufacture of grain and industrial alcohol. In some islands the sugar production is controlled by only a handful of capitalists. American banks in Wall street are directly interested in the sugar production in Cuba. That explains why some members of the farm group are fighting to preserve the American market for the American producer. Ship owners want the job of hauling freight. They are a great help to foreign producers. They go out after the ship freight business. Ship owners, foreign sugar and foreign fats and oils are linked very closely together. They fight together to capture the great American market. They hire the finest legal talent available. That's why many former government employees have quit high priced government jobs to work for private industries. That's why the names of former officers in the army and navy—some who have retired and are getting retirement pay—can be seen on the payrolls of the great trusts who deal in sugar, molasses or oil.

Contest Held In High School: assembly Betty Hawkins played two piano solos. A new student, Frances Kayler from Osmond, entered the high school March 11. The teachers met in the home of Supt. E. W. Smith for a covered dish dinner last evening. Mrs. Smith reviewed a book, "The American Doctor's Odyssey." A meeting for the superintendents and principals will be held in Lincoln March 19 and 20. The conference problems will be "Curriculum Improvements." Supt. and Mrs. Smith, Miss Anna Geisler.

Spanish Customs In Mexico Interest Nebraska Travelers: Bull fights, old cathedrals, Spanish promenades, afternoon siestas and gay "senoritas" provided variety for the four Wayne young men who recently returned from a two weeks' vacation in old Mexico. Walter R. Breglesler, Arnold Lage, Melvin Seymour and Hamer Wilson left Wayne the morning of February 14 and traveled southward to escape the snow-covered fields of Wayne county. In Oklahoma, however, they were caught in one of the worst dust storms that part of the country had experienced in recent years. The dust was so dense that driving was difficult, at times the boys being able to see only 50 feet in front of the car. They traveled in this over 250 miles. Through Oklahoma, Texas and into New Mexico, where the boys saw one of the most inspiring features of the entire trip—the Carlsbad cavern. This huge cavern, 829 feet underground, is a product of nature. One room is 4,000 feet long, three blocks wide and in one place three blocks high. The acoustics in the room are perfect. While the 201 visitors were in this large room, all the lights were turned out and the crowd was asked to face one of the large rocks called "Rock of Ages" while one of the guides sang the hymn by that name. As the boys reported, it was truly an inspiring and thrilling experience. Luncheon was served to the cavern visitors in a large room located 750 feet underground. An "old Spanish custom" which prevails in Mexico is the afternoon siesta from 12 to 2:30 each day when all business houses are closed and all activity is halted. Streets are practically deserted. The heat and the old custom carried over from Spain have made

Miss Maudie Curley and Mr. Childs will attend this meeting. A variety show will be presented April 16. This will be a night of fun for all, old and young alike. The girls' high school gym class will meet Friday of this week and play basketball. Later on in the season soft ball will be played. The girls' athletics class in the junior high has been going rollef skating during period of recreation. Girls divide up in groups of ten and all go different directions. Betty Pile in the seventh grade gave the class a talk on how to become a citizen of the United States. The sixth grade won from the seventh grade in the spelling round. The sixth grade had an average of 98 and 13-14 while the seventh had 95 and 15-16. Jimmy Allen reported on the brass instruments as his choice of special reports. Mrs. R. W. Casper visited the sixth grade Friday, March 12. The ones who had 100 in spelling two weeks as follows: Marcella Brugger, Delmar Fitch, Maxine Johnson, Katharine Lerner, Lois Lindsay, Adelle Loder, Marilyn Stratton and Sally Welch. Those who received 100 per cent this week in spelling are Maxine Johnson and Peggy Tietsoer. The fifth grade has a new student from the training school, Don Steele. Adell Loder moved to Magnet. Nancy Mines received the first orange star in penmanship. Some weeks ago Nancy Mines wrote to Washington, D. C., about some information concerning the weather and what causes different things to happen. The class is studying different products and where they are raised. A map is on the board and pupils draw in just where these different things are being grown. The fourth grade is working on an arithmetic play that will clarify long division. "Captain Look and Company" is the name of the play. The characters are as follows: Jack, Jacqueline Wightman; Captain Look, Richard Sala; Soldier Divide, Fred Elsie; Soldier Minus, Carl Wright; Soldier Bring Down, Patty Love. Fourth grade is working on a courtesy program and good manners. Pupils are compiling a list of do's and don'ts. The "Colonial Twins in Virginia" was read and discussed by the class. The second grade is starting a new unit on Holland. The approach to the unit of work in Holland was made by finding stories in the library and reporting on them. Next pupils will color large figures of Dutch girls and boys. All agreed that a Dutch village would be nice. Third grade pupils are working on a Japanese unit. Grapefruit shells are being shellaced and small Japanese gardens made from them. Japanese parasols are also being made. A Japanese table of objects typical of Japan is being furnished by the pupils. A rack has been constructed for the drum and bugle instruments. The kindergarten is working on their rabbits for Easter. The clocks will be painted and then set to use in the small clock shop.

here are the beautiful Horsetail falls which are 150 feet high. Burpo riding is something else which was new and different but fun to all but Arnold, whose legs barely missed the ground when astride the animal. Swimming in the Gulf of Mexico at Corpus Christi in the middle of February, attending horse races at Alamo Downs in San Antonio, Texas, added to the pleasure of the trip. In Canyon, Texas, is located one of the prettiest canyons the boys saw on the trip. The buildings are of a similar white stone, and of a beautiful architecture. Visiting the Paloduro canyon in Texas the travelers had to ford many streams. In some instances where the water was too deep to ford, the stream was filled with cement to make a crossing possible. Three of the boys returned the first of March after completing the 5,000 mile trip. Hamer Wilson remained in Fort Worth, Texas, where he is employed by the Safeway company.

Spanish Customs In Mexico Interest Nebraska Travelers

This is a part of the regular routine of the country. The general appearance of building structures gives Mexican cities a much different aspect from those of the States. Houses which are built of white stone are set out on the street and are very low. Most are built around a patio or inner court yard. Many palm trees, orange, lemon and grapefruit trees are seen as well as cactus and sage brush. Another Spanish custom carried over into Mexico, which was particularly interesting to the Wayne boys, is the evening promenade. At this time the young people promenade around a square block, the girls on the right of the plaza and the boys to the left. When a young man desires to walk with one of the girls he asks her and if she does not object he falls in line with the girls. While in Monterey the boys attended a bull fight, but could not derive the pleasure from it that the Mexicans do. They reported that before the fight ever begins the crowd goes wild and people throw eggs, sacks of dirt and other things at each other. At the particular fight which the visitors attended six bulls and two horses were killed. The foredoers were exceptionally fine. Mexico is famed for its beautiful cathedrals and churches and the Nebraskaans saw many of these old structures. In front of some they saw a few old carriages which are still being used for transportation and which enhanced the beauty of the scene. South of Monterey is located the longest and narrowest city in the world according to Bob Ripley. "Believe it or not." The town is seven and one-half miles long and three blocks wide. Not far from

Dinner And Program Held In Wayne Friday Night For Group.

An Iowa Association of North-east Nebraska was organized Friday evening when former students of the University of Iowa at Iowa City, their wives and husbands met in Wayne for dinner and program at Hotel Stratton.

The president was empowered to appoint a board of five to interest Iowa graduates from 10 northeast Nebraska counties in the organization.

Irish Holiday Significant Of Work Of Saint

March 17—Saint Patrick's day—signified by the "wearing" of the "green," shamrocks and other Irish sentiment. It is celebrated lavishly in Ireland and in some places in the United States, but few realize the full significance of the day.

Saint Patrick, whose birthplace is uncertain, was born in 387 and died March 17, 493. When he was 16 years old he was sold as slave to an Irish chieftain by some Irish marauders. After a few years he escaped and went to Britain where he devoted his life to the study of the ministry. He returned to Ireland where he did a great deal of missionary work, his first charge being in the territory where he had been a slave.

Life as a missionary was not always easy. One time St. Patrick and his companions were seized and carried off as captives. On another occasion he was loaded with chains and his death was decreed.

The saint established churches in every province in Ireland, "comforted the faithful in difficulties" and consecrated 350 bishops. The shamrock, a plant similar to the clover, is associated with Saint Patrick's day as the missionary used it to illustrate the doctrine of the Blessed Trinity. Green is used as a color of "hope," which is significant of the Irish people. Kilpatrick retains many memorials of St. Patrick and frequent pilgrimages continued far into the middle ages to perpetuate there the fame of his sanctity and miracles. Rev. Wm. Kearns, who visited in

To Improve The Status Of Women Is Object Of Proposed Charter

Economic and legal status of women and proposed legislation for improvement were considered Thursday evening by Wayne branch of A. A. U. W. at a meeting in the home of Miss Alwine Luers. Miss Anna Geisler, and Miss Arlie Sutherland were leaders.

The Women's Charter group just recently convened in Washington to extend to all organizations concerned in women's status invitations to join in presenting the plan before the 1937 League of Nations meeting in Geneva and before the International Labor organization.

Mrs. W. F. Dierking explained the charter as declaring that "women shall have full political and civil rights; full opportunity for education; full opportunity for employment according to their individual abilities, with safeguards against physically harmful conditions of employment and economic exploitation; they shall receive compensation without discrimination because of sex; they shall be assured security of livelihood, including safeguarding of motherhood; and provisions necessary for the establishment of these standards shall be guaranteed by government."

The charter further declares that "where exploitation of women workers exists, such as low wages, which provide less than the living standards attainable, unhealthful working conditions or long hours of work which result in physical exhaustion and denial of the right to leisure, such conditions shall be corrected through social and labor legislation which the world's experience shows to be necessary."

The women feel that if such improvements are reached for them, the result will also better the conditions for all workers.

Miss Geisler explained that 22 of the 48 states have no prohibitory laws regarding the employment of women. Women working in mines is forbidden in a number of states. Women were replacing men in many positions until the depression, when the movement started the opposite way and men began accepting positions held by women.

The United States has 11 million women employed. Miss Geisler reported that two and a half percent of these have organized a trade union to promote shorter work week, higher standard of living, equal pay, cooperation with other trade unions and cooperation to abolish war. It was pointed out that in 77,000 homes of this country women do home work for factories. In some southern states a woman and her children will earn as little as $1 a week this way. Many lace workers in New England earn $6 a week. And a majority of women who are wage earners are supporting families, Miss Geisler explained. It was stated that 85 percent of women teachers have dependents.

Miss Sutherland presided over the part of the program dealing with outstanding women.

Mrs. H. D. Griffin reported on the life of Miss Grace Abbott, native Nebraskan, who is now professor of public welfare administration at the University of Chicago.

Miss Abbott, who was born 58 years ago at Grand Island, was recently named one of America's 12 most distinguished women. After being educated at Nebraska university and the University of Chicago, Miss Abbott spent seven years at Hull house in Chicago and became an authority on immigration. She was in Europe to study immigrants and in 1917 went to Washington, D. C., where she was director of the children's bureau, Child labor, mother's pensions, family and juvenile courts, immigration and social conditions have been her interests. She has studied infant mortality and was influential in reducing infant deaths 50 percent between 1912 and 1930.

Miss Abbott went to Chicago in 1934. The only hanging on the walls of her office is a chart showing child mortality in each state. Miss Abbott's sister, Miss Edith Abbott, is associated with her in Chicago.

Miss Sutherland reported on the life of Mrs. Lillian Gilbreth. After Mrs. Gilbreth had 12 children she found need for study of economics and good management to apply in her home. She learned how jobs can best be done. Mrs. Gilbreth and her husband developed their findings into useful information which they could sell to institutions wanting to learn efficient methods. When her husband died, Mrs. Gilbreth continued in the work and gained national attention for her success. She has been professor of management at Purdue university and served on the unemployment relief commission.

In the business session Thursday Wayne branch voted to present a gift to the outstanding college senior girl at the tea April 8. A basis of standards for selection will be outlined.

Dr. Mary Honey, president, reported that Miss Ida Fisher has been named chairman of credentials for the state convention in Wayne April 30 and May 1.

The fellowship committee, with Miss Helen Eppler, has about $16.

At conclusion of the program Thursday refreshments were served with St. Patrick colors used. Hostesses were Miss Alwine Luers, Miss Lenore P. Ramsey, Mrs. R. E. Anderson, Mrs. T. C. Cunningham, Miss Marie Hove, Miss Doris Palmer and Miss Florence Drake.

The tea for senior girls will be April 8 at Pile hall from 4 to 6.

STYLES IN SUITS HAVE NEW NOTES FOR SPRING AND EASTER

Chopping off the Coachman's Coat, and borrowing the riding coat with its fitted lines and flaring peplum, are just two of the innovations of fashion shown in spring suits. The resulting variety in the suit mode gives every type of woman a chance to "choose for herself."

Double-breasted, yet feminized Coachman coats are shown in three-quarter length with British swagger in tweeds, or youthful "little boy" effect in smoother woollens. The riding coat suit, with short flaring peplum, or longer jacket lines, is definitely a new departure in feminized tailors.

Three Piece Suits Swagger. Popular because of their adaptability in the wardrobe, the three-piece ensemble, suit continues its fashion. It is a basic type around which may be built a complete spring wardrobe. Often trimmed with soft pastel fox that fluffs up about the face in most flattering effect, the topcoat is in casual lines which may be worn with separate frocks.

Another version of the three-piece suit is the tailored type, in which a heavier tweed or herringbone wool contrasts with the simple two-piece suit worn underneath. Short boxy swaggers that fall about two inches above the knees, give a third version ranking in popularity.

Shorter Coat Suits.

Box swaggers and "little boy" reefer coats are the smart, new topcoats used with many of this year's suits. In finger-tip length they have a youthful flare or a straight hanging simplicity that is quite new and chic. And variety is often added to these costumes by wearing a contrasting skirt or under jacket.

Shorter swaggers, too, with or without fur collars, are liked. And the princess line, single-breasted coat is quite popular in either three-quarter or seven-eighths length. Of smart basket weave or nubby tweed, it may be worn with frilly feminine blouses or bright mannish shirts.

Bolero Suits New.

Competing for favor among the young fashionables is the bolero jacket suit, cut to the waist or above the waist length. These often hang in straight Spanish styling, with loose flaring sleeves. Others are in more feminine styling, draped to flare gently from interesting shoulder or yoke lines. They are usually collarless, so that the kerchief or feminine neckline is displayed to advantage.

Cape suits are quite smart, especially with the woman who wants an "extra" suit that is a little different. Capes in plain mannish or military styling, top simple two-piece suits, effectively handled in blending or contrasting woollens.

Corbit home. A box was packed Thursday for the Nebraska Children's home. The club's next meeting will be in two or three weeks with Mrs. Joe Johnson.

MATCHED COLORS DISTINGUISH NEW SPRING COSTUME

Catering to the refined elegance and feminine youthfulness of 1937 fashions, the color wheel gives us a new series of "pretty pastels" and rich-hued dark tones for daytime wear. These contrast with the exotic Mexican or Spanish colors that splash gaiety through the sports mode and give verve to daytime costumes worn by the more daring.

Rosy grays and golden beiges are the season's favorites, and are especially liked with matching accessories of York red, Gypsy yellow, Coronation red, Flemish blue, or one of the gay peasant hues.

Vegetables Color Frocks.

Onion white, mustard yellow, lettuce green, pepper red, and other new colors seem to come from grandma's own garden in the country. But they are equally smart in the city when combined with black, navy or the new "real" browns.

Modest flower colors are here again, too, the violet range, lovely petal pinks, delphinium blues, and rich goldenrod yellows brighten up the prints that are scattered over white or dark backgrounds.

Riotous Peasant Colors.

For that bright dash of color essential with neutral beiges or other neutral colors, fashion turns to the daring colors of Tyrolean peasants, exotic Spanish or Mexican yellows and reds, or the soft "old" colors derived from Persian prints, Chinese embroideries, or Flemish paintings. A more varied color wheel has never inspired spring styles, for it sways from the "Rose Period" of Picasso's time and Queen Victoria's reign, back to today's war-torn Spain and Europe's peasantry.
