MOVES LIKE TIME, the unicameral legislature moves along, hoping to justify its course. Its members are advised, coaxed, spoiled and sometimes even reasoned with to persuade them to do what individuals or groups think they should do.

As a cure for this uncertainty, we would presume to suggest that each member counsel with himself more profoundly and seriously and consider both immediate and far-reaching consequences of any proposed legislation rather than trying to figure out how many future votes could be won or might be lost.

The measure to cancel back interest on taxes paid between now and December 31, 1938, is likely to be objected to only by the fellow who paid interest prior to this date.

The teachers' pension bill was so dismembered and disfigured in committee that its parents did not know it. What is left in effect means that a teacher may contribute five per cent of his or her salary, and then at the age of 60 may retire with a refund of the total amount paid plus three per cent interest earned by the state's investments.

The legislators bucked the committee out of the way in the matter of the bill to legalize investment of school funds in bonds to refund the indebtedness due on the Nebraska state fair grandstand debentures.

As a consequence, legislators will find when they have finished and are ready to embark for their respective home niches that they have done some things they shouldn't have done, and left undone some things they should have done.

IN A RADIO speech Monday night, Senator Carter Glass, old-time democrat of Virginia, attacked the administration movement to enlarge and manifestly to control the supreme court.

Senator Glass closed with these words: "Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg thought the Civil War was a test of whether a government of the people, by the people, for the people should perish from the face of the earth."

The map of Nation's Business shows a spot covering northeast Nebraska that would be fearfully disquieting if we were not conversant with the resources and resilience of this area.

stricken parts have raised considerable small grain. With corn gone, we were entirely out of luck. Accustomed to abundance, we were very susceptible to pains accompanying failure, and our ill concealed emotions were doubtless easily apparent to any having in hand the business of making surveys.

The Oklahoma legislature is considering a measure to make newspapers prove whatever they publish. Thus, a newspaper accused of distorting facts would have to accept the burden of proof.

Nation's Business reports that the government printing office in Washington turned out 862,754,462 pieces of printed matter during 1936—nearly double the number of pieces issued in 1935.

The Iowa legislature has passed a law to abolish the sale of Fourth of July fireworks. Dead, maimed and fire losses prompted the legislature to conclude that Iowa people can be just as patriotic without as with the use of dangerous explosives.

Iowa club women voted 44 for and 433 against changing the supreme court. Club women are usually students of history and economics, and so in the light of their knowledge and logic they would be expected to uphold the country's traditions.

Wayne and vicinity will join the music fans during the district contest held tomorrow and Saturday. The two days will furnish a music festival of a high order, and everybody will be interested in the series of events.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: As if the automobile had not already complicated our way of living enough, we now find the trailer working radical changes in the life of the nation.

Obviously there are some great advantages to this system, particularly where the work is seasonal. Harvest hands, for instance, can follow the season as it advances from the south to the north.

The development of the new system of trailers for laborers has come about very gradually but the system is here and it is apparently here to stay. In some sections farmers are already advertising for spring workers and specifying in the ads that those applying for work must be provided with trailers.

Sioux City Journal: Washington is not and never has been blind to the fact that new taxes are necessary if the federal government is to function as it ought to do.

Here is the picture legislators in Washington are studying: There will be a call for not less than $1,500,000,000 as a relief fund. (It may go to $2,000,000,000.)

If the administration program is carried out—and no leaders suggest abandonment of anything—more taxes will have to be levied, or the national debt will be increased because of borrowing.

Dictatorships. An article in the Reader's Digest, condensed from the New York Times Magazine, points out dangers in one-man rule and alarming tendencies in that direction in this country.

Lace and marquisette or sheers are lovely this year, with their new peasant skirts gathered to snug little bodies, or their pleated skirts swinging from the tight little waists.

Casual types, favored by many women, are showing the newer and lower waistlines, and definitely slim skirts in which fullness is often concealed in pleats.

Embroideries And Applique Brighten New Spring Frocks. "Little jackets," with nipped-in waists, flaring peplums or short box boleros, give an air of "little girls" naivete to spring frocks.

It's Up To The Individuals. Omaha Journal-Stockman: While the country awaits the action of special committees and congress on the farm tenancy problem, general discussion of the faults and virtues of the present tenant system continues.

Wealth and Fame. To one looking out over a world of human endeavor, it may appear that the chief objective of men is to acquire material wealth and fame.

ANNIVERSARY. On Good Friday, 1917,—just twenty years ago—the United States entered the World War—a war to make the world safe for democracy.

Missing The Issue. Lincoln Journal: Three senators devoted much effort, utilized much time in the senate and filled a great deal of space in the Congressional Record the other day, defining "packing the court."

opinion expressed by these three men that the term is intended to imply that someone, by some particular action, causes justices to be on the bench who otherwise would not be on the bench.

The issue appears to be whether packing the court with justices who think as does the appointing official and whose reaction to all issues are similar to his own is a proper thing to do, and the best thing for a democratic government.

Senator McKellar in his address said: "President Roosevelt's proposal, if adopted by congress, will give a liberal president the opportunity of appointing liberal judges on the bench."

It is an easy matter to find precedent for appointing men who were politically in line with the appointing power, but it is just as easy to list appointments to the high bench of men of opposite political belief to that of the president.

Wealth and Fame. To one looking out over a world of human endeavor, it may appear that the chief objective of men is to acquire material wealth and fame.

To the materially minded, to darkened mortal sense, wealth and fame may mean merely perishable gold and personal glory, while to the spiritually enlightened they mean something far greater.

Since God is infinite good, spiritual and eternal, can that which has only a material or temporal existence be truly good? If wealth is good, it must be of God; therefore, it is not material but spiritual, not temporal but eternal, not uncertain and perishable but certain and imperishable.

Now the word "fame" is defined, in part, in our dictionaries as "lofty (or exalted) reputation derived from great achievements."

throughout all Syria" (Matthew 4: 23, 24). No spiritual achievements can be greater than those of the master Christian.

All will agree that power is resident in Truth. And we learn through Christian Science that God is Truth, and that God is substance. Hence, genuine substance, including wealth, honor, and potency, is purely spiritual; therefore eternal. The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 468): "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay."

He who possesses a true understanding of God and of man's relationship to Him, and sincerely strives to live the divine precepts, is vastly richer than he who may have gained great worldly possessions or mere personal popularity.

Mrs. Eddy wrote (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, pp 283, 284): "Lured by fame, pride, or gold, success is dangerous, but the choice of folly never fastens on the good or the great." Indeed, it is not sinful to express abundance or to be known and loved. Such achievements, however, should be the fruit of Christianly scientific demonstration.

as of Douglas county, sensed the danger when he warned "we are going crazy on government." Nebraska taxpayers have benefited from lower taxes in the past 4 years, not only through lower property taxes, but in the absence of a state income or general sales tax, which many neighboring states have enacted.

Mounting tax tolls inspire demands for new sources of tax revenue, such as a state income tax or a general sales tax. Unfortunately, as the experience of other states has shown, such new sources of tax revenue often result only in an increase in the amount of tax money collected and spent without relief to any particular group.

Therefore, it seems important that increased efficiency on the part of tax-spending agencies, plus curtailment of public activities, not absolutely necessary, should be the first answer to the increasing tax trend.

Hats Add Note

Of Gay Style In Hat Modes

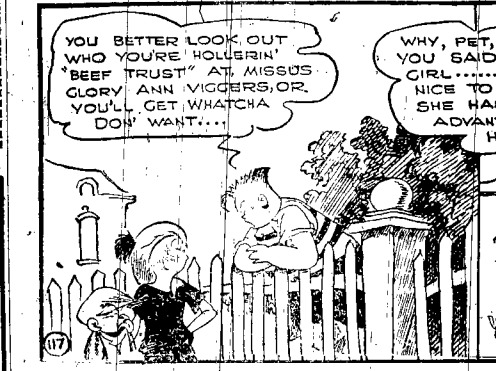

"If your hat is a Spanish sombrero it's big news," says Paris. To be quite right, it should have a roll whether in Breton or bonnet; and to be less derrier, it must have a gay dash of color.
As always, women this spring wear the latest fashion pews in their heads. High crowns continue their parade, but brims are slowly usurping the fashion highlight...

Flaring gently away from the softly fluttering curls of today's coiffure, the bonnet is the real Easter fashion. Topped with girly sprigs of flowers, often with girly ribbon streamers at the back, the bonnet is neither quaint nor "girly-girlie." But it's definitely youthful and beautiful, as a frame for the face as it poses at the back of the head.
Not content with the new hatward tilt of the Easter bonnet, fashion now poses amusing "dunce caps" and even high tiques on the back of the head. And to further the backward movement, small bunches of ribbons are posed at the low hairline.

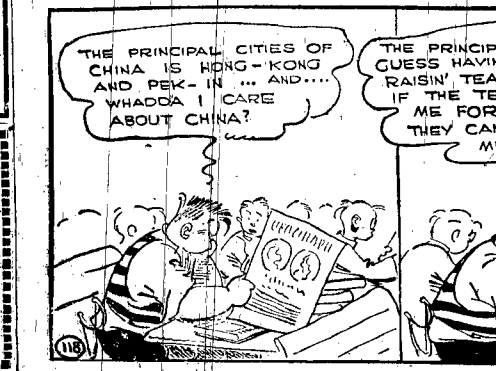

Flowers in Colors Gay. Wear a flower on your hat, or a bright colored straw hat, and you'll be a leader in the spring parade. Paris delects in the leghorns, in new fluttering styles, shows purple bellows. Agate, vibrant orange, green or red. Shiny, like her reddish tangerine brim hats, so smart are they with dress street clothes.

Between The Devil and The Deep. Nebraska Farmer: A vision of unorganized farmers, struggling to climb the ladder of success, prosperity again, is the chief shadow at the present time.

Femine Frills

In Spring Modes

Sponsoring frilly furbelows for necklines of spring suits, Patou shows a range of lovely feminine blouses for his private clientele. Butterflies and bows trim neckline and sleeves, giving a young look that is welcome contrast to the severely plain suit collars.
Lace, tucked net, abbequed marquise, and many sheer blouses are suggested by Paris this spring. And, to change the entire suit costume, a bright silk shirt with impeccable white waistcoat gives a different effect.
"Ladylike Lingerie." Embroidered blouses revive the beauty and femininity of 1911 and "gay nineties" inspiration. For the real lingerie blouses is here again! Dainty in batiste, exquisite in organdie or mousseline de soie, it is tucked and lace-trimmed and exquisitely embroidered.
Coronation Embroideries. Following the theme uppermost in the London designer's mind these days, blouses often adopt coronation motifs. Printed blouses have been shown this spring, but never still are the coronation embroideries, designed with this theme in mind.

Red Cross Plans Rehabilitation As Waters Recede In Flood Areas

With practically all rivers and streams back in their normal banks once more, and with the return of more than 96,000 families to their homes from the emergency refuge camps established by the Red Cross during the emergency phase of flood relief work in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, according to word received here this week by Mrs. E. W. Huse, plans are being rushed for the rehabilitation of 214,782 families whose homes and personal property were damaged, in many instances ruined, by high water.

"While this number of families has already registered with regional offices of the Red Cross asking for assistance in getting established once more, there will probably be a further increase in numbers when our workers are able to reach all flood sufferers," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the Red Cross, points out.

Admiral Grayson said that the Red Cross had been assisting 1,300,000 persons during the widespread flood emergency, and that the number of families already registered for assistance represented 966,564 individuals.

"The accounts of the suffering and the sufferers" have receded from the front pages of the newspapers," Admiral Grayson said, "but our greatest work lies before us. We must begin the task of helping the victims who are unable to help themselves in the work of rehabilitation. This will include assistance in the repair and rebuilding of damaged homes, furnishing these homes, replacing lost clothing and other necessary personal belongings, the Red Cross trying in all possible instances to help the family return to normal living conditions with a feeling of security in facing the problems of the future."

The national Red Cross chairman, who has directed operations of relief workers from headquarters in Washington, emphasized the fact that the Red Cross regarded the rehabilitation period as the most important in connection with disaster relief. He described the methods used by Red Cross relief workers in assisting the families, pointing out that relief was always given on a basis of need rather than from the standpoint of losses suffered by the families.

"Although a person may have suffered heavily in the disaster," Admiral Grayson said, "if his financial condition is such that he can stand the loss, without unreasonable hardship, he is not a proper applicant for relief. However, if his resources are limited and he is unable to borrow or otherwise secure

Driver Bets His Life In High Speed

"You Bet Your Life" when you drive at high speed, writes the author, Harry Barsante, of a safety booklet which reviews America's automobile accident record.

The author reveals that although the total number of deaths caused by careless actions of drivers dropped the past year, the number caused by exceeding the speed limit went up. Many times the pedestrian is a fault and once in a great while the finger of guilt points to the engineer who designed the highway, but in three accidents out of every five the blunder is made by the man behind the wheel. Other deaths showing carelessness were caused by driving on the wrong side of the road, not having the right-of-way, cutting in, passing a standing streetcar, driving off the road way, failing to signal and improper signaling.

Drinking is another menace to safe driving. The safety author writes: "The thinking driver does not drink. He needs no evidence other than his own conscience to tell him that driving when his reactions are numbed by alcohol is a cardinal traffic sin. 'It takes a clear head to win the give-and-take game of modern traffic,' he concludes.

The author points out that driving should not be a gamble. "Do you ever take an occasional chance in traffic, either walking or driving?" he asks. "You never expect to lose, do you? But you might. For you are eleven times as likely to be killed or injured in an automobile accident this year as the holder of a sweetstakes ticket is to win even a small prize. You are 32 times as likely to lose your life as the holder of a sweepstakes ticket is to win a major prize. When you gamble in lotteries your stake is a few dollars at most, but when you gamble in traffic 'you bet your life'."

HERE IS WHY WE CAN MAKE THIS CHALLENGE

More mileage is an assured fact with D-X or D-X Ethyl, because, as an exclusive feature, these modern motor fuels contain a special high heat-resisting lubricant which provides needed lubrication to upper cylinder parts not adequately lubricated by crankcase oil. (See cross-sectional diagram of motor at right.) This extra upper cylinder lubrication makes engines run faster and cooler, decreases wear and increases mileage.

And Diamond 760—the pioneer 100% paraffin base, heat-resisting motor oil—insures complete, safe, long-lasting lubrication... actually costs less per mile!
