

FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR

UNEQUAL WEALTH AFFECTS SCHOOL OPPORTUNITIES FOR NEBRASKANS

Dr. Anderson Favors Help For Rural Districts in Educational Field.

"Inequalities of Educational Opportunities in Nebraska" was the subject of the address given by Dr. J. T. Anderson before women of the state convention of A. A. U. W. at the closing session here Saturday afternoon following luncheon in the Presbyterian church parlors.

Inequalities between states, between counties and between districts exist in education, Dr. Anderson began. The largest factor responsible for these inequalities is unequal distribution of wealth. Some states, Nevada for example, spends $136 per pupil a year for education. Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia spend from $22 to $25 a year. Revenues are likewise at great variance because of difference in wealth of districts and states.

Differences of opportunity also exist between city and rural schools. City schools, which have more funds available, provide better equipment, higher standards of trained leaders, a varied curriculum, libraries, recreation facilities, health aids, longer terms. In contrast the rural school is often not able to meet high standards, to secure best trained teachers and to offer advantages in course of study or modern equipment.

"Too often," Dr. Anderson continued, "the great value of the rural school in national progress is forgotten." City schools have 11 million pupils in comparison to 13 million in rural schools. City teachers number 338,000 as compared with 475,000 in rural districts. Though the rural schools have more pupils and more teachers, the salaries paid city teachers total over one billion while those to rural teachers are only 700 million.

Valuation of school districts vary greatly. In Cherry county one school district has a valuation of $213,000 per child and another $23,632. Burt county has one with $239,000 and another with $3,500. Levy for schools also varies. Cherry county has some districts with a tax of 21 mills and others with 2 mills for school.

Unequal distribution of wealth and unequal taxation are big factors in making differences between educational opportunities. A larger unit of organization was one of the means suggested by Dr. Anderson as a possible remedy. Larger units would provide more funds for each unit, resulting in improved schools. Federal support could also help. Dr. Anderson suggested a possibility of the federal government subsidizing states which in turn would subsidize districts unable to give proper support to education. Extra means of taxation might be employed to raise school funds.

In closing Dr. Anderson quoted from Horace Mann who said "if our educational system is good, let us improve it; if it is bad let us reform it. Look ever upward. Do not rest content when your attainments are inferior to your own capabilities."

Miss Bethel Andersen, accompanied by Miss Hazel Reeve, sang two solos.

Mrs. H. K. Painter of Minneapolis, expressed appreciation of the Nebraska branch work and complimented the women on the intelligence with which they are meeting their problems.

Mrs. Arthur Smith of Lincoln, introduced Mrs. H. D. Griffin, who presided.

Women of the church served dinner from tables decorated with cut flowers.

FROM FAMILY COW TO THE SANITARY BOTTLE IS STORY

DELIVERING milk and cream in sealed bottles has come a long way from the town herd and the family cow. Time was when some one with leather lungs and an unpurged fund of profanity would elect himself the community's herdsman, leasing a nearby pasture and beginning his work as soon in the spring as height of the grass would permit. Early every morning the cow owner would relieve his possession of precious lactical fluid and then turn the animal into the street to join the herd. The herdsman whose voice was usually supplemented by a horn, could be heard rounding up his charges long before he arrived, and his language—sonorous but senseless—seemed to be understood better by the cows than by the populace. From day to day the herdsman watched the animals browsing on the verdure of hill-sides and ravines, and when nightfall approached, he would pitch his voice high and in a jumble of words that only a cow could comprehend, command his charges to fall in line for a return to town and to home stalls. The leader's tremendous voice, used with and without horn accompaniment, heralded the returning herd. Then a cloud of dust, animated by charging hoofs, could be seen, and then more or less orderly distribution of the community's milk supply.

SPECIALIST IS SPEAKER HERE

Dr. Palmer Findley Brings Message On Health To Wayne Group.

"Seventy-five percent of the cancer cases can be cured if discovered in time," stated Dr. Palmer Findley of Omaha, nationally known obstetrician and gynecologist, when speaking Monday afternoon at the auditorium in Wayne, on the subject of "Preventive Infection and Cancer." The public meeting was sponsored by the Nebraska Medical society, and Mrs. P. L. Briggs presided.

Cancer is not new. It has been found in human life since the beginning of the race. Cancer is also found in animal and plant life where careful breeding eliminates the disease. Doctors feel that it could be eliminated from the human race in the same way.

Cancer is on the increase at the rate of two percent a year and if this percentage continues, cancer will in 100 years rank first among the diseases. Post mortems have shown that 10 percent of the cancer cases escaped notice. Dr. Findley thinks that at least 75 percent of the cases can be cured. They must be discovered in time and must be treated properly. The medical profession has cut the T. B. death rate from 200 to 157 and pneumonia rate from 180 to 134, and it is felt that the same can be done for cancer. Methods of prevention have removed the dread that formerly attended smallpox. The medical profession has organized to give the public enough knowledge of cancer so that people may be suspicious of its presence and take steps to cure it. Dr. Findley served as state chairman of the movement for 21 years.

First in importance among diseases causing death are those affecting the heart, kidneys and blood vessels. The increase in these is due to the strenuous life persons live. When a man reaches 50, state Dr. Findley, he should do 25 percent less physical labor than he did at 40. His mental powers, however, function well on past 70 years and he can keep up his mental work.

Second in importance among diseases is cancer. Dr. Findley has found it in all ages of men and women from 6 months to 96 years. About half the cases occur in women between the ages of 45 and 50. When one reaches older life cancer grows very slowly.

General physical examinations should be taken once a year by all under 40. Dr. Findley advises, and twice a year by those over that. The doctor can then find any cancerous growth. If checked in (Continued on page two)

SENIORS CHOOSE CLASS SPEAKER

Rev. Guy B. Dunning Gives Baccalaureate Sermon For Wayne High.

Rev. Guy B. Dunning, minister at the Christian church, was chosen baccalaureate speaker at the meeting of the Wayne high school senior class Tuesday. Rev. W. C. Heidreich and Rev. F. C. Mills will assist. Baccalaureate exercises will be May 16 at the city auditorium.

Dr. Hunter of Nebraska Wesleyan university, spoke at a general assembly Wednesday. The day was celebrated as Health day in connection with National Health week.

A special convocation was held Monday morning when Supt. E. W. Smith presided to tell the students about the music contest at Hastings in which Wayne high placed first in class B. He commented on the fine spirit of the participants and the cooperation of the groups. He paid tribute to E. E. Melby, music director and Gayle B. Childs, who was in charge of transportation and tickets. The school will retain the cup for one year as it does not become permanent possession of a school unless it has been earned for three consecutive years. Mr. Smith urged the students to make their goal the permanent possession of the cup.

Bethel Brown of Lincoln, reentered school Monday and will be graduated with the class this month.

Marjorie Grid returned to school after being absent for three weeks following an appendix operation.

Miss Hazel Cooney, senior, underwent an appendix operation Thursday.

Name Wayne Lady To State Office

Mrs. H. D. Griffin Is Elected First Vice President Of University Women.

Mrs. H. D. Griffin of Wayne, was elected first vice president of Nebraska division of the A. A. U. W. at its convention which closed in Wayne Saturday. In this office Mrs. Griffin will serve as chairman of education for the state. Miss Dorcas Hoge of Grand Island, was reelected treasurer. On the nominating committee were Dr. Mary Honey of Wayne, Miss Martha Fulton of Omaha, and Miss Louise VanSickle of Lincoln. Other state officers hold over. They are: Mrs. Arthur L. Smith of Lincoln, president; Mrs. Olen H. Joder of Peru, second vice president; and Mrs. Oscar A. Drake of Kearney, secretary.

Miss Ida Fisher, chairman of credentials, reported 70 delegates from 10 branches.

Nebraska division passed resolutions favoring non-partisan administration of state assistance activities and opposing present set-up of such activities. "We favor the reorganization of this committee in accordance with the plan previously drawn up, providing for a non-party board of public welfare to be appointed by the governor. And we believe that the child welfare as presently constituted is satisfactory. We are opposed to the inclusion of the activities of the welfare bureau in the work of the state assistance committee."

The association also resolved to continue support of projects abolishing child labor, to support world peace, to maintain high standards of education, to exert every effort to improve the educational status of women gained by years of effort shall not be lost, to promote extension of kindergartens and to cooperate with school boards, to keep the membership alert to oppose curtailment of appropriations for free library service.

Appreciation was expressed in the resolutions to Mrs. G. W. Cos-Allegera Wilkins of Lincoln.

MUCH BOOTED AND PRAISED WEATHER IS ALL POWERFUL

TO THE Weather—Dear Weather: We had assumed you had no feelings, though when you caused a devastating drought and cut crops below bureaucratic figuring in Washington, we suspected resentment which indicated a good deal of feeling. You are probably praised and discussed and cursed more than any other power in the world. You are held responsible for crops. You are blamed for grasshoppers when the elements are dry and for cutworms when they are wet. If the ground is void of moisture, seeds sprout feebly if at all; if too wet, planting is delayed and thoughts of soft corn sweep through the cerebral contents. You are the cause of many fears, often groundless. By going to one extreme, you take us through deepest valleys of despair. By going to the other extreme, you carry us high into clouds of delight only to let us down to reasonable levels as we contemplate the usual assortment of evil possibilities. Right now you stand well with the populace—better than for several years—and you have encouraged farm communities to put old-time spirit into activities. But whether you are praised or blamed, you do not seem to care a darn.

DISTRICT LODGES MEET IN WAYNE

Emerson Is Chosen As Place For Next Convocation Of Odd Fellows.

Thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Northeast Nebraska I. O. O. F. association, held in Wayne Wednesday, was attended by about 100 from 17 lodges. Emerson was chosen the place of next year's convention and officers of the district were named as follows:

Henry Plantenberg of Emerson, president; Otto Beble of Belden, vice president; and Rostoe Pierce of Emerson, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting opened with registration at the city auditorium at 1 o'clock. After business, Grand lodge session was held. School of instruction followed.

Banquet was served at 5:30 at the Methodist church parlors by women of the church.

J. E. Brittain gave the welcome at the evening program. Grand Master E. W. Price of Litchfield, Grand Treasurer J. T. Fletcher of Orchard, and Grand Secretary E. S. Davis of North Platte, gave addresses. Deputy Grand Master Roy Bätler and Grand Warden Geo. B. Nelson were to be present. Degree work opened at 8 with Van Bradford, chairman of degrees for lodge No. 118 Wayne, supervising. Emerson presented the initiative and first degrees; and Hartington gave the Second and Third degrees.

Rebekaahs served midnight luncheon to the men.

A. E. Davison, O. S. Roberts and G. A. Lamberson served as district officers the past year.

Wayne lodge officers are: Albert Watson, noble grand; Fred Bilson, vice grand; C. A. Lamberson, secretary; and J. J. Steele, treasurer.

Chairmen for the convention were the following: Registration, J. J. Steele; reception, W. H. Bue-ton; decoration, Anton Olson; hall, Albert Soules; banquet, I. E. Ellis; entertainment, C. C. Petersen; and degrees, Van Bradford.

Wayne club had two of the seven members lost this quarter in this division. Wayne was fourth in achievement for this year. A large number of points is given for inter-club meetings.

Dr. Pierce suggested that the clubs not disband for summer vacation but maintain some kind of meetings. Norfolk club has outside meetings with Dutch lunches. Once a month the wives of men eat with them.

mouth and this is thought due to irritation from the hot stems of pipes or other smoking. More women are developing cancer about the mouth since they have started smoking. Persons over 45 experience chronic indigestion and loss of weight. X-ray can find the disease in its early stages.

The digestive tract is the most common place for cancer to develop. The womb is the second most common place and 90 percent can be remedied if women have an examination after childbirth. Prevention is the removal of the cause and the cause is irritation. The fact that negroes very seldom have cancer on their skin leads doctors to think that sunshine is important in killing the disease.

The human body is made up of cells, each with a definite function. The cancer cell has only one function; that is growth. This lawless group of cells grows and destroys as it grows. No substance, not even bone, resist it. Doctors can cure 75 percent by early, proper care and they are working on new methods of prevention and cure.

The disease is not hereditary and not contagious but greater care should be taken by a family if one should have the disease.

Dr. Findley advised persons to go to the best institutions and if they do not know which are best, write to the medical schools and they will give the information.

On account of the approach of Mothers' day Dr. Findley spoke of this as a proper time to promote the movement to lower mother mortality. In this connection Dr. Findley stated that pain is normal at childbirth and doctors who make labor easier by Caesarian operations are increasing the mortality rate among mothers.

Dr. Findley urged cooperation to lower mortality among mothers. Dr. Findley was guest speaker Monday evening when doctors of northeast Nebraska gathered at the auditorium.

The program closed a series sponsored in Wayne. This and other health work have been financed through social security. A report from Washington states that public health activities have been increased in 46 states; sanitary engineering facilities increased in 42 states; social disease control has begun in 34 states; laboratory research into the cause and cure of disease improved in 34 states; industrial hygiene was promoted in 19 states; and more efficient methods were introduced in 24 states for the correction of vital statistics. In addition tuberculosis control has been made effective in southern states; public health nursing was extended in 16 states; better health education was extended in 15 states; hygiene facilities were taught in eight states; rodent plague control was stressed in six states; and cancer control was promoted in five states.

Accident Costs Relay Team Wins

Invitation College Meet Will Be Held Friday On Wayne Track

An unfortunate accident in the Sioux Falls, S. D., relay Saturday will probably cost the Wayne relay team 15 points this season. Tegeler pulled a muscle when he was running in the 440 yard relay. This cost the relay team a win in that relay and affected the team's record in the 880-yard and mile relays. Tegeler was in the lead by three yards in the 440 with only 40 yards to go when he had to stop on account of pulling a muscle. His record is 3 seconds faster than others and if he had been able to run, Wayne would have taken the other relays. Nankton placed first in the 880 with 1:29.9 and Wayne was third with 1:30.8. Wayne also made third in the mile relay. Tegeler will not be able to run this week and likely not in the state conference meet at Kearney next week.

McCrain placed first and Brad Jordan in the broad jump. McCrain was third in the 100. Retzlaff took first in the high hurdles, and Linkenfer was third in the 400.

An invitation college meet will be held here Friday afternoon at 2:30. Wayne, Omaha, Morningstar, Kearney, Buena Vista, Western Union, Peru, and perhaps Southern Normal of Springfield, S. D., will compete.

A copy book of orders was received Tuesday to put the college track in good condition for the meet.

Coach W. R. Hickman takes the team to Kearney May 14 for the state conference event.

DEMOLAY CHAPTER INITIATES TWICE

Demolay chapter went to Pendora Wednesday evening to conduct initiation at Masonic hall for Leslie Walden, Clark Werke and Dale Tuttle. Last week Tuesday initiation was held here for Darrrell Johnson, Harold Johnson, George Brock and William Neely.

Settlement Made.

Settlement has been made in the action between C. H. Hendrickson and the John T. Bressler estate.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Dienst and sons of Lincoln, were here Saturday and Sunday.

To Attend Science Meeting In Lincoln

Dr. James E. Brock will preside at a joint meeting of the Nebraska State Science Teachers association and the Nebraska Academy of Sciences in Lincoln this week-end. Others from Wayne who will attend are Dr. R. R. Stuart who will give a paper before the biological section, Miss Louise Wendt, whose students will give a demonstration, and Gayle B. Childs, who will speak before the science teachers. Prof. C. B. Chinn, Prof. F. G. Dale and Prof. A. F. Gulliver also plan to attend.

Dr. Brock and Donald Hicks, student at the college, will present a joint paper before the physics section and Dr. Brock will also speak before the mathematics division.

Transferred To Lincoln.

Elmer Lessman left Monday of last week for Lincoln where he has been transferred. Mr. Lessman is employed in the traffic survey department coding trucks. For the past year Mr. Lessman has been road man for the department with headquarters in Norfolk. Mr. Lessman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lessman of Wayne.

Mrs. M. B. Surber of Pendora, was here Tuesday for P. E. O. guest day. She visited Mrs. Prudence Theobald.

Wayne City Library News

A book of interest to Wayne county people and Nebraskans throughout the state is the new book recently received at the Wayne city library entitled, "A History of Centennial, Expositions and World's Fairs, also the Fundamental Principles of Successful County and State Fairs," compiled by George Jackson of Nelson, Neb., former secretary of the Nebraska State Fair.

Some of the factors which Mr. Jackson discusses in his book are: The Place of Agriculture, The Young Man in Agriculture, Fairs and Expositions, The Butometer, Fairs Are Educational, Home Racing, County Fair Programs, International Associations of Fairs and Expositions, Influence of Fairs and Expositions, Satisfying Programs, Purpose of World Fairs, Centennial and Expositions, Fairs from an Intelligent Viewpoint, Rules Governing the Handling of Exhibits for Expositions and Fairs and Amusements in Flight of National Fair Ground Stands.

In speaking of how to have a successful fair, Mr. Jackson writes that it is in the making all the year round. "There are a thousand and one ways in which the heads of departments and every individual member of every committee can get ready for the next fair while the present one is in progress. It is the fair which has alert committee members which keeps getting bigger and better every year."

The entire book is filled with valuable information in regard to fairs and is written in a plain manner.

Ground Is Soaked By Spring Rains

Northeast Nebraska is well conditioned from the April and early May rains. The ground is in excellent condition for corn planting, and the moisture has been of special help to small grain, potatoes, and gardens.

The gauge at the State National bank of Wayne show 2.71 inches of moisture for April. Closing day of the month brought much of it, the 23rd giving .77 and April 29 giving 1.2. Rainfall Sunday and Monday brought the May total to 7.8 of an inch, 37 Sunday and 42 Monday. A shower fell Tuesday evening and this rain was heavy near Altona and toward Wakefield. Another heavy shower fell Saturday afternoon in Wakefield vicinity.

The rains which have come as steady drizzles to do-see most possible, have been general over this section of the state and in the Rosbud section of South Dakota.

Assessors Finish In Two Precincts

Strahan and Winside assessors have completed their reports which are now in the hands of County Assessor L. C. Gilder. The work was first to be completed last week. Miss Hildagard Berres is compiling the figures.

Strahan precinct, with C. H. Joffe as assessor, has tangible property valuation of $154,585; intangible class A, $22,000; intangible class B, $700. Real estate assessed last year, is $1,752,150. The total for the precinct is $1,929,433.

Winside, assessed by David C. Leebhart, has tangible property valued at $36,665; intangible class A, $11,730; intangible class B, $7,110. Real estate is $228,275, making the precinct total $283,770.

Home Managers Learning From Grizzly Bears

Young mothers may learn a lesson or two in training their youngsters from grizzly bears, says Belle J. Benenley in the May issue of "The American Girl," official publication of the Girl Scout organization.

Benenley, a secretary of the San Diego Zoo in California, tells how grizzlies are taught to keep their babies of helpless and excessive to protect their progeny against the wolf and coyote. She says that the mother of a grizzly bear is a very good mother.

Benenley tells of an amusing incident in which a grizzly bear mother was so good that she would not let her cub go to the other side of the river. She would not let her cub go to the other side of the river.

Looking DISCUSSING the future of politics and the republican party, Odgen L. Mills sees the need of a militant organization to combat the New Deal which he says is no longer representative of the democratic party. "Today, everywhere," he says, "individual liberties are being curtailed and destroyed. Democracy and self-government are scrapped. Individuals are once more the pawns of arbitrary rulers, whose policies are determined by nationalistic aims, with war as their ultimate and supreme weapon. Greater and greater rigidities undermine the flexibility and adaptiveness of economic systems. Planned and controlled economies emerge."

Speaking of the political trend in this country, he says this in the course of his talk:

"We have seen the government undertake to control production in agriculture, manufacturing and mining. We have seen it attempt the regulation of prices, wages and conditions of labor. We have seen it determine the volume and flow of credit. We have seen the arbitrary debasement of our currency. We have seen the federal government enter the field of private enterprise in competition with its own citizens. We have seen a whole body of new legislation intended to establish a planned economy."

"And having seen all that, we do not need the president's declaration that he has created 'new instruments of public power'—that the federal government is responsible for the solution of the problems of the individual—to know that we are face to face with a new philosophy; or that a new political party has been born."

"What is equally important is that, for the time being, the American people have accepted this new political philosophy; and have charged the national government with full responsibility for the economic conditions under which they live and work."

"For want of a better name we may call this new party the New Deal party. While it has taken over the name and organization of the historic democratic party, it has nothing in common with it. In fact—and as every democrat knows—it repudiates every major article of the democratic faith."

Hard Task THE Valentine school took the spotlight this week when the superintendent was decorated with eggs flung by angered students, because, as reported, the head of the school did not get along well with three favorite teachers who resigned. Besides giving the superintendent an omelet dressing, the army of students exploded firecrackers and torpedoes in class rooms. Finally the superintendent resigned, and peace and order were restored. Schools are not easily managed. Teachers are sometimes overly temperamental and sensitive. The superintendent has to keep his eyes on four distinct and equally commanding groups—parents, teachers, students and school board. Too often a teacher's meritorious work is neither rewarded by appreciative words nor by generous policies, and so he or she becomes nettled and wants to quit. The superintendent is a sort of buffer between frequently conflicting elements. He often takes the blame for something projected by a single mind—perhaps a single-track mind—essaying the role of school board leadership. And the task is made more difficult if said mind has an inordinate emotion of superiority founded on brief and unimportant teaching experience in the dim and distant past.

Editor W. F. Cramb has returned to his Fairbury Journal after a few months of travel in Mexico, and he has resumed the task of dissecting the administration at Washington. While he was gone he furnished his newspaper with a series of articles descriptive of his travels. He expresses preference for travel writing, but he thinks it is less important at this time than discussion of public tendencies in the hope of keeping private affairs from being caught irrefragably under the heels of a centralized bureaucracy. While Editor Cramb was gone, some one stole 95 bushels of prime wheat from one of his farms—taken by some one who doubtless tired of waiting for successors of the late Huey Long to get around to redistribute the country's wealth.

Major victories in the state music contest at Hastings bring gratifying honors to the music departments of the Wayne city and college high schools. This record of achievement fits harmoniously into the background of an outstanding school community. It furnishes advertising of the right sort. It is to a center with such aspirations and accomplishments that people wish to bring their families for cultural values and wholesome home-making.

One objection to a "Be Kind to Dictators" week, suggested by the Sioux City Journal, is that the speed with which dictators function and take possession of everything and everybody would leave us in a helpless state of surrender before the end of the week.

J. M. Soden, pioneer farmer southeast of here, says the season is starting off just right to insure normal crops. Moisture in April to prepare the ground, and then sufficient dry days between showers to plow and plant give agriculture the best possible beginning.

An anonymous letter writer is both manevolt and cowardly. He has a fiendish desire to hurt some one, but is too cowardly to come out into the open and expose himself to deserved attack.

Spain's slaughter of helpless innocents in the clash between two equally abhorrent systems of government should be a sufficient example of what democracies should sternly avoid.

Bob Burns of the radio, screen and newspaper has a record number of uncles. He reveals a new one every day.

Norris—and Burke.
 Omaha World-Herald: When President Roosevelt made his demand for executive control of the supreme court, Senator Norris said at once that it was "dangerous." Now that the bill to make that demand effective nears a vote in the committee, Senator Norris says: "I have never seen any merit in this proposal. And the more I have thought about it, the less merit I see in it."
 Must Senator Norris, too, be recalled, along with Senator Burke?
 Or will he be spared because, though he deems the plan dangerous and without merit, he may still support it with his vote as a personal favor to Mr. Roosevelt?
 We are afforded here a rather striking illustration of what a personal government is. By the same token, Senator Norris, by a favorable vote, will be helping along in a pretty long stride toward it. The merits of the measure do not count. It may have none. It may be dangerous—dangerous to the people and their free, constitutional, representative government. Nevertheless, if the leader wants it, let him have it.

 When and if that rule prevails, democracy will have surrendered. And the totalitarian state, under executive domination, will have been established on its ruins.
 George W. Norris will have rendered his greatest and most lasting service to the American people if, believing the judiciary bill to be dangerous and without merit, he joins with his colleague, Edward R. Burke, in opposing it with his voice and vote.

MOTHERS' DAY.
 Recurrence of Mothers' day finds the children of mothers not so securely or happily situated—not so well protected—as one would expect from the long unfolding shields of civilization. Mothers and their children are being ruthlessly slaughtered in Spain—stark madness unparalleled since the cruel tyranny of the Roman brute called Nero. Mothers and their children are not faring so well in other parts of dictator-cursed Europe as their mutual love should command. Like religion and faith in immortality, mother love is a steady and uplifting influence, and it must so continue to preserve highest and best values. Love for mother is most deeply felt when she has passed out of sight, surviving only in memory. Mother's love, always genuine and constant, searches eternally for reasons, understanding and sustaining courage if a son or daughter has gone ahead—beyond reach of personal communion and accustomed fellowship. Love by mother and for mother is the greatest single force in the world, but in late years it seems to have had a hard struggle against multiplied forces of evil.

Rain
 by a non-resident organization, was inconvenienced by suspension of light and power and threatened water shortage, according to the Journal of that place which says fifty-six towns altogether in the area were similarly stripped of service. Manifestly, no town in a circuit is better off than the one worst off. All of dozens of communities served by a central plant are subject to any weak link in the chain. A municipally operated plant with no outside hazards—undisturbed by accidents elsewhere—is the one most likely to be depended on for uninterrupted service.

Is Contest Judge.
 Prof. and Mrs. J. R. Keith went to Hays, Kansas, Tuesday morning. Prof. Keith is to judge a music contest. They will be gone the rest of this week.

Undergoes Operation.
 The youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans of north of Winside, underwent an operation for appendicitis Wednesday noon in a Wayne hospital.

Mrs. O. S. Spillman of Norfolk, was a Tuesday guest of Mrs. E. W. Smith.

"The Massacre."
 Sioux City Journal: The Chicago Tribune daily runs a sketch of a gruesome "clock" under the standing caption, "The Massacre." The hands of this clock move steadily and relentlessly from day to day, recording the number of persons killed and injured in traffic. In last Thursday's edition of the Tribune the death band of its "clock" showed the figure 277, and the injured numbered 6,380. This "clock" records the casualties in Chicago since the first of the year.
 In Thursday's edition of the Tribune was this headline on page 1: "Chicago Auto Massacre Is Biggest in U. S." The article that followed called attention to the fact that in the first three months of the year 196 persons had been killed in that city. The "clock" showed that, up to April 29 traffic had killed 81 more.
 This does not mean that Chicago has the highest automobile death rate. Los Angeles traffic kills 47 in every 100,000 in a year. Chicago's rate is 22.5. New York's is 10.2, the lowest for any large city in the country. Cleveland's rate is 28.3, Buffalo's 28.7, Baltimore's 25 and Detroit's 23.8.
 Safety council officials, according to the Tribune, estimate that this year the total traffic deaths for the nation will reach a new record, with about 38,000 killed. It is a massacre, nothing less.

SCARCITY
 We heard a fellow who is in a position to know, say a serious scarcity of carpenters and other skilled workers exists locally and generally. An apprentice was one who worked for his board while he learned a trade. We mention apprentice in the past tense because, like the dodo, he is quite extinct. Skilled mechanics in all lines have become increasingly scarce until demand far exceeds the supply. With economic recovery calling for more and more highly specialized workers; to make up for several years of lagging improvements, builders will search in vain for enough qualified men. Skilled mechanics are not unwillingly among the idle and of the millions out of work, it is doubtful if one among them capable of setting a lathe or saving a straight line could be found. The individual quoted is "anxious to see higher institutions of learning teach more mechanics and develop more persons; to meet the structural needs of the country. Latin is good to develop the mind as psychology is desirable to satisfy the soul, but more important than either for practical purposes is a knowledge of doing well the things that the public demands."

Birth Record.
 A son weighing 8½ pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carster in near Wayne, Tuesday May 4, in a local hospital.
 A son, William Horace, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Horace Southwell of Gering, Neb., Tuesday, April 27. Mrs. Southwell was formerly Miss Pauline Judson. This is the third child in the family.

What We Need Is A Crop.
 Omaha Journal - Stockman: Opinions of leaders of the department of agriculture to the contrary notwithstanding, it appears that it will be to the advantage of the United States to produce good crops of grains and other foods and feeds this year. That makes the situation a good deal different from what it was the last time that this country was fortunate enough to raise crops of average size or better.
 Back in 1933, when we did produce heavily, we and the rest of the world already had liberal grain reserves on hand. Big yields merely helped to force lower an already deflated price level. The farm board had been proved a failure at relieving the market of the bearish pressure of surpluses, and the AAA later to be discredited, was grasped as a drowning man clutches at a straw.
 But times have changed. America's own grain reserves have long since been depleted, and we have become liberal importers of grain and of live stock. Nor is the rest of the world too well off for supplies. Argentina, which produces its corn during our winter season and upon whose stores we have drawn heavily these last few months, reports a seven per cent decrease in its current crop. Most of any surplus that it does have will be needed between now and the time that corn is harvested in the United States.
 Despite their nationalistic programs, with self-sufficiency as a goal, European nations like Germany, Italy and France have been forced to go to the rest of the world for wheat, and prospects for the new crop there and in Russia are not regarded as favorable. England, always an importer, is buying more heavily than usual as a part of its program of increased preparation for national defense.

Outlining it all briefly, domestic needs are larger than usual, since in addition to supplying grain for the coming year's consumption, we require some surplus to restore our depleted reserves. Beyond that lies the strong probability that any additional surplus we produce can be used abroad. In view of our own immediate need for feed grains and the other outlets already named, the likelihood of our producing enough grain to unsettle the market seriously seems remote. Present levels may not be maintained, because they are famine levels, but there is every reason to believe that all the grain in 1937 will find outlet at profitable figures.

World Events
 President Roosevelt is on a fishing trip to the Gulf of Mexico. Shirley Temple, screen actress, entertained 160 children in Hollywood for her 8th birthday.
 Quintuplets, five sons, were born to a Chinese woman. All the children are normal and healthy.
 The Ohio river, again out of its banks in three states, went back to its channel the last of the week. Officials in Washington have been asked to spend $2,500,000 for planting trees throughout the nation.
 A declaration making all Ireland an independent and sovereign state will meet opposition from Ulster and England.
 The new neutrality bill signed by President Roosevelt, broadens restrictions against trade with nations at war.
 Japanese immigration, which has been heavy the past four years to South American countries, has been largely halted by the nations.
 Al Jolson and friends spent $35,000 on a gold mining expedition at Deadwood, S. D., but stopped operations when no gold was produced.
 Mrs. Wallis Simpson's divorce was to become final Tuesday. It is rumored that she and the Duke of Windsor may be married on May 12, coronation day for Edward's successor.

An amateur radio set in a Colorado school picked up word that a transport plane was nearly out of gasoline and could not find the landing field because of a dust storm. The teacher who heard the report rounded up 1,000 automobiles, had them circle the air field with their lights turned on and the plane landed safely.

College Societies
 The Etiquette club will have a banquet May 14.
 Kappa club plans a party for members at the Woman's club rooms this Friday evening.

First state meeting of the Women's Athletic association was held in Omaha Friday and Saturday with Eloise Hasch, Twila Gildersleeve, Margaret Moller and Ruth Leafstone representing Wayne college. Mrs. A. V. Teed accompanied them.
 The committees for the junior-senior prom to be given May 21 are as follows: Decoration, Lucille Baker and Loyola Saltzman, co-chairman, Allan Hull, Ralph Korff, Edith Horstman and Robert Clements; gates and tickets, Mary Alford, chairman, Betty Towns, Muriel Hanson and Mary Walte; bids and advertising, Montreville Davenport, Leon Alford and Warren Lamson.

Newman club plans early morning communion at St. Mary's church and breakfast at Hotel Stratton Thursday or Friday this week.

Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary political science fraternity, held its annual banquet and initiation Monday evening. Dinner was served at the college cafeteria. Oscar Olsen, vice president, had charge of initiation, and certificates were presented by Dr. J. R. Johnson, secretary to the 12 candidates: Roy Luther Giamly, Prof. L. F. Good, Mae Westopal, Jeanne Wright, Helen Voth, Gertrude Schmidt, Marion Gilmore, Earl Anderson, Ruth Wagner, Elora Heflinger, Lela Boc and Virginia Leprone. Other guests at the banquet were Mrs. Good, Mrs. Giamly, Mrs. O. R. Boyer, Mrs. H. H. Hanscom and Mrs. J. R. Johnson. Oscar Olsen gave the welcome, and Rev. Giamly responded. Jeanne Wright gave impressions of being a Pi Gamma Mu member. Prof. Bowen presented a history of Delta chapter.

Meeting Daily Needs.
 Everyone has daily needs, and in many cases they are numerous. Thus, everybody people are engaged in devising ways and means of meeting these needs.
 Food, clothing, and shelter are generally considered to be the most important daily necessities. Throughout the ages, humanity has worked to cultivate the soil for crops, to weave material for clothing, to build homes for shelter and repose and ships for transportation. These and other methods of supplying the needs of mankind are constantly being increased in scope. In their turn the world's busy workers receive payment with which to buy these necessities, so that the so-called law of demand and supply may be carried out.
 But sometimes this so-called law does not seem to be working properly. On the one hand there appears to be unemployment, stagnation of trade, poverty; and on the other, such a surplus of food that there is no longer any demand and little return for it. Then, too, a sudden decrease in value of stocks and shares, or rents from houses or lands, may bring a sense of insecurity and even, at times, lack to the one who has relied on a settled income for the supply with which to meet his needs. In this maelstrom of material living everyone needs to find a reliable source of supply, one which cannot possibly fail, because its basis is indelible material, not limited.

In that most wonderful of all sermons, the Sermon on the Mount, our Way-shower, Christ Jesus, said (Matthew 6:24), "No man can serve two masters," clearly showing that we cannot put our reliance on matter and material methods and still avail ourselves of the true and enduring substance which does not fail. Illustrating the need for simple trust in God, he said (Matthew 6:26): "Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them." Evidently the Master discerned humanity's fear of limitation and the consequent anxious hoarding of material things. He continued: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."
 The kingdom of heaven, the reign of harmony for each one, is ever at hand, because our Father, Mother, God, the only source of real supply, is omnipotent and omnipresent. No longer, then, need anxiety or fear assail us regarding the necessity of meeting today's or tomorrow's needs. When we turn wholeheartedly to God, and realize man's inseparable oneness with Him, with all good, we can be certain that our need will be supplied. We shall begin to see that our real need is to know and demonstrate more and more of our God-given freedom, health and happiness. Encouraging us along this pathway of right thinking, Mary Baker Eddy says in "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany" (p. 186), "Rest assured that He in whom dwelleth all life, health, and holiness, will supply all your needs according to His riches in glory!"

 What an unspeakable comfort, what a loosening of heavy burdens, for all those whose family, business, or career needs daily care! When one seeks first the constant supply of spiritual ideas, of wisdom, intelligent, loving-kindness, cooperation, and purity, through quiet, unselfed contemplation of the spiritual nature of man as the child of God, every right endeavor will be abundantly blessed for the benefit of all. To such a one there is no insurmountable barrier of lack, unemployment, or stagnation; for he is proving the truth that each idea of divine Mind is ever engaged in true activity, where the enduring qualities of Mind are being joyously expressed.
 Then let us array our whole thought on the side of good, of abundance, and not waste time thinking of failure or evil, since it has neither place nor opportunity for expression in God's harmonious plan for each of His children. No one is left out of the Father's loving care. With joy and gratitude we can prove the truth of Mrs. Eddy's tender words on page 307 of "Miscellaneous Writings": God gives you His spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies. Never ask for tomorrow; it is enough that divine Love is an ever-present help; and if you wait, never doubting, you will have all you need every moment.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Are To Reargue Case In Court

Rearguments on the Hoskins bank case will be presented in the Nebraska supreme court in May by Robert R. Moodie, West Point attorney, without further compensation. Moodie, employed by the state in previous work on the case, was relieved of his duties by Attorney General Richard C. Hunt as an economy move. The case in the Hoskins State bank receivership, involves a test of Governor R. L. Cochran's plan to discontinue judicial receiverships and place all such bank work under the state banking department. Previously, Senator Frank J. Brady of Atkinson, chairman of the legislature's appropriations committee, reported Moodie received $25 a day while in West Point and $50 a day in Lincoln for work on the case. *****

Diversity Marks State Resources

Lincoln, Neb.—How many Nebraskans realize that the altitude of their state ranges from 825 feet at the extreme southeast to a high of 5,340 on the rim of the northwest border, and that there are at least 350 distinct types of soils within the state? Probably a greater number are aware that Nebraska temperatures range from as low as 40 below zero to as high as 115 degrees above, or if the surface one inch of soil is taken into consideration, as high as 150 degrees. In other words, says Dr. George E. Condra, dean and director of the conservation and survey division of the University of Nebraska, this state does have an unusually diverse physical makeup, which is not appreciated by the greater number of people who live here. In a recent bulletin entitled "Conservation of Land and Water Resources of Nebraska" Dr. Condra points out that Nebraska also has three climatic belts—humid, sub-humid and semi-arid; fourteen topographic regions, twelve ground water regions and five soil subdivisions, namely: Silty soil, mixed soil, sandy soil, loamy soil and clay soil. "The area of Nebraska is about 77,320 square miles or about 49,484,800 acres," according to Nebraska's conservation expert. "The mean annual rainfall according to the United States weather bureau is about 22.98 inches or putting it another way 96,907.711 acre feet, which would cover a strip of land one mile wide the length of the state to a depth of 518 feet at the east end and 259 at the west." "Counting those with areas of fifteen acres or more, Nebraska has more than 2,300 lakes, marshes and artificial reservoirs. Of this number, however, around 1,000 of them went dry during the severe droughts of 1934 and 1936. The combined area of the intermittent lakes and marshes of the state is about 230 square miles; that of the more permanent lakes about 163 square miles and that of the permanent streams about 495 square miles. In other words, the maximum area of the surface waters in Nebraska, not including floods, is about 890 square miles. The two recent droughts reduced this combined area to about 300 square miles." Dr. Condra says the water surface of the state has been increased considerably within the past few years by the construction of reservoirs and dams in connection with various water power and irrigation projects. He estimates that when these are filled, the irrigation and water power now under construction or authorized for construction will add about 42,600 acres of water surface to the state. In the opinion of Dr. Condra, nature gave Nebraska, in the sandhills, the most ideal water storage area in the great plains region. The amount of ground water here is more than 500,000,000 acre feet, which is equal to about five hundred times the capacity of the Pathfinder reservoir. Briefly then, Nebraskans should take pride in the state's many fine resources and its diverse physical makeup. The well known university song, "There is No Place like Nebraska" becomes the more real as one acquaints himself with the statistics accumulated by the conservation and survey division. *****

Farm Tenancy A Problem.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Legislation proposed by congress to improve the farm tenancy situation and the condition of farm tenants is so confused and confusing that there seems to be little prospect for action at this time. The reason for this seems to be that the farm tenancy problem varies widely in different sections of the country. According to an extensive study of the situation by W. W. Shaker for the National Association of Manufacturers, of the 2,865,135 persons listed in the 1935 census as farm tenants there were 1,833,475 in the county, 638,445 in the west and 395,235 in the north according to the report. These figures comprise 53 percent of the southern farmers, 24 percent of the northern farmers and 36 percent of the western farmers. "In the north," says the report, "one-third of the tenants operate farms owned by their parents, grandparents, brothers or sisters. The percentage would be higher if it included those renting from more distant relatives. In other words, less than 15 percent of farm operators in that entire area are tenants on land owned by others than close relatives. "The net result of this analysis would indicate that tenant-operators in the true sense do not account for any more than 24 percent of all farmers, that about one-third of these are closely related to the land owner, so that not more than 15 percent are independent tenants. This into three sub-divides naturally into a group which amounts to 5 percent of the total who are tenants through choice, a second small group which may represent 5 percent of the total who are tenants through misfortune of limited capacity, (marginal farmer types) and a third group who may represent the remaining 5 percent who are tenants because of youth and who, presently in the natural course of events will become owners." According to this exhaustive analysis of the best available statistics it appears that farm tenancy problems are not the direct outgrowth of the depression years but rather they are due to conditions affecting different districts and different crops. In some sections the situation is admittedly acute and in others it is not at all alarming. It is the widely varying conditions throughout the country that render intelligent remedial legislation extremely difficult but it is to be hoped that a thorough airing of the situation in sections where the problem is acute and the condition of tenants deplorable and discouraging, will result in measures being taken to afford relief and create a better citizenry. *****

Early Settler Dies On Sunday

Rites For Charles Busby Are Conducted Here At Presbyterian Church.

Charles Busby, 73, early resident of Wakefield community, passed away Sunday at his home in Wakefield after a couple days' illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from the Presbyterian church with Rev. W. Byrd Ray and the T. C. Hypse service in charge. Burial was in the Wakefield cemetery.

Charles Busby, son of Thomas Busby and Mary Knight Busby, was born at Arcadia, Wis., June 17, 1863. He was one of 11 children, seven boys and four girls.

Mr. Busby came to Wakefield in 1882. He taught school before coming and for a time afterwards. He married Miss Mary Weston of this community on February 9, 1887. After their marriage they lived on a farm for 20 years. Upon moving into Wakefield town Mr. Busby was active in the organization of the Farmers' Elevator of which he was manager for about 30 years with the exception of 3 year he spent in Canada.

Mr. Busby had served as a member of the city council. He was township treasurer at the time of his death. Being a member of the Presbyterian church, he served four different terms as a trustee and was in his second term as an elder of the church.

Decensed is survived by his wife and six children, Miss Lyle, Lloyd, Eyrton and Clifford, all of Wakefield, Milton of Camrose, Alberta, Canada, and Clarence of Safford, Ariz. He also leaves six grandchildren, Marvin and Berhard Busby and Jack and Bobbie Busby, all of Wakefield, Mickel and Mary Busby of Safford, Ariz., two sisters, Miss Florence Busby and Mrs. Mary Childs of Wakefield, and two brothers, Thomas Busby of Wakefield, and Wm. Busby of Arvada, Colo.

All of the children except Milton from Canada were here for the funeral.

Meat, the most

Not Yet Proved.
Omaha World-Herald: Leo Swanson will serve as land commissioner for two years more despite the fact that his office was abolished by the people through constitutional amendment. In signing the bill Governor Cochran says that now all three branches of the state government have overridden the vote of the people. He approves it reluctantly, lest "conditions might be worse." But he insists that the principle involved is whether the vote of the people for a change in the constitution will be respected.

The trouble is that the governor of Nebraska has little or no influence over the unicameral legislature. Neither has any political party. There is no organized and responsible body of the people to which any legislator owes fealty. No member is bound by any party platform or pledge. And within the legislature there is no acknowledged leadership that dares assert itself or could do so successfully.

The situation is made to order for organized pressure groups. It is made much easier for John Hopkins and Tom O'Connor to go to Lincoln and mold the legislature to their will and selfish purpose than for the great body of people of Nebraska to make their influence felt. Combinations of groups, by log-rolling and horse-trading, can operate quite as effectively as under the bicameral system, and without needing to cover so much ground.

Change is not always reform. It is not always progress. There is something still to be said for the old system of party government, party responsibility, party leadership, and for the checks and balances, the compromises and agreements, that distinguished two-house legislatures.

Nebraska's first unicameral legislature stands well above the average of its predecessors in point of ability, character and experience. It has been spurred by a desire to make a good showing for the next system. It is succeeding only very moderately. We feel quite sure its venerable grandfather, Uncle George Norris, would have been moved to tears if not to profanity could he have witnessed the success of the new system.

Wakefield Wins In Randolph Meet
Wakefield won the track meet at Randolph Wednesday afternoon. Other standings in their order were: Pierce, Bloomfield, Randolph, Wayne, Plainview and Hartington.

Points won by Wayne high were: Eugene Johnson, first in broad jump, 18 feet 7 inches; second in high jump, 5 feet 5 inches; third in 440. Fred Gildersleeve won fourth in the 220 and the relay team won fourth. Misfortune followed the Wayne team in the relay when Gerald Wright fell, being crowded in going around the track.

The javelin conference record was broken by Erb of Bloomfield, who threw the javelin 155 feet. A boy from Randolph broke the high jump record by jumping 5 feet 9 inches.

In Plain Words.
Lincoln Journal: Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who typifies the genuine democracy of the south in his adherence to states rights and precedent, left nobody in doubt as to why he believed that the president, in championing the packing of the supreme court, was aiming at a deadly blow at the most cherished institutions of the country. In very plain words he said that the scheme reflects the fury of its proponents against the supreme court for certain decisions asserting the rights of the states and individuals and private business under the law and "prohibiting the proposed invasion of these by ill digested congressional legislation and incompetent academicians."

The senator did not stop there; he added: "That is precisely what it is all about. Had the judicial decisions sanctioned these rankly unconstitutional measures who believes there would have been this unprecedented attempt to flank the constitution by putting on the bench six judicial wet nurses to suckle the substance out of the opinions of jurists whose spirit of independence keeps pace with their profound knowledge of the law."

A deliberate attempt has been made by those who favor this attack upon the system of checks and balances which has made past progress possible in this nation to bring the issue, but Senator Glass makes it plain. For the remainder of the debate there should be no further effort made to claim that any other reason exists for the proposed change than a desire to force the subservience of the judiciary to the executive department of the government.

The fact is now undisputed that practically all of the new deal laws that the supreme court invalidated could have been rewritten to conform to constitutional requirements. This would, of course, have shown the executive department of some of the powers given therein and would have given recognition to constitutional rights, but the administration would have none of this. It wants the law interpreted as it wants it written, and it is now engaged in an effort to secure a court that will do that. Senator Glass has made this fact plain beyond any contradiction.

Be Careful.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: Just in case it may have escaped attention of some adults who become careless in the performance of familiar but potentially dangerous farm tasks, attention is called to a recently completed junior department prize letter contest to promote farm safety.

All the familiar precautions were recited, including such items as being careful with fire, the need for watchfulness in handling male animals, sows with young pigs, cross cows, and the like and a good many others such as covering holes, driving carefully—and that applies to teams as well as automotive vehicles—and similar items. To the list, so far as adults are concerned, might have been added the need for constant attention in working with farm machinery: Discs, harrows, tractors, grinders, mowing machines and corn shellers all have been known to cause serious and even fatal injury frequently enough to warrant treating them with a great deal of respect.

Industries known to be dangerous have made admirable safety records in recent years by training their men to take ordinary safety precautions. They find that a little time spent in being careful is repaid many times over if it means freedom from delays and costly medical fees and hospital expenses which even ordinary accidents involve. On the farm, where medical and surgical attention often are not readily available and where loss of time can be so costly, especially in busy seasons, safety cannot be too strongly stressed. It is to be hoped that the juniors will not only remember their own safety lessons when they grow up, but that they will call the attention of their elders to the fact that safety pays.

A Challenge To Labor.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: Are unions just to be collective bargaining agencies to put employees on an equal footing with the owners of business in conferring on such matters as wages, hours, and working conditions? Or are they to be beyond the law, able to flout the courts and due legal processes with impunity, and empowered to confiscate property, deprive other men of jobs and prevent the public from getting needed goods whenever they wish to do so?

These are some of the questions that have been raised by recent labor developments. They are serious fundamental questions and they have brought wrinkled brows not only to employers, investors of capital, and serious-minded citizens in general but also to the more conservative and responsible elements in the ranks of labor itself.

Members of trades and crafts in this country always have been good citizens. They have struggled to make themselves better workmen, and by legal means, have endeavored to better their financial condition so that they could own homes, enjoy some of the comforts and pleasures of life along with its drudgery, and educate their children to be good, freedom-loving, law-abiding members of society.

Laboring men like these are both natural and praiseworthy, and so long as they keep pursued honorably and with regard for the rights of others, labor has enjoyed public support and sympathy.

But labor, or at least its more conservative element, is worried lest the present course of its radical and along with it, the opportunity to build solidly and substantially for the future.

The time was when capital, too, was ruthless when it recognized no rights but those of property and might. But that time is past. Today, employers, or at least the majority of them, are honestly seeking not only their own welfare but that of their workers as well. Today, as never before, labor has the opportunity to work in partnership with capital in building solidly and constructively for the future not only of a few selfish interests but for the future of the country as a whole.

Will it grasp that opportunity, and the responsibility that it entails, sensibly and use it wisely? Or will it, as some other interests have done in the past, usurp and abuse power beyond that to which it is entitled and, in so doing, bring down the whole economic system in the wreckage that must follow continued strife and warfare?

That is the real challenge which the favorable decision of the supreme court on the Wagner labor act has presented to labor. On the manner in which it is met depends to a large extent, the future of industrial America. How will labor meet it? That, like other momentous questions, is one to

To Honor Students In Music Contest
In recognition of the fine achievement on the part of the school's music department, the board of education of the Wayne city schools is making plans to honor music contestants and teachers at the city auditorium next Monday night. Details are yet to be worked out, but this much can be said at this time:

The music students and contestants who were eligible for the state contest are invited, along with teachers, to be the guests of the community at a dinner to be followed by a program and entertainment.

The program and entertainment features will be open to the public at about 8 o'clock. Further announcements will be made through the school and through bulletins.

Summer Wedding Announced at Party
The engagement of Miss Leila Adams, teacher at Battle Creek, and Mr. E. E. Werner of Grand Island, was announced Saturday at a May breakfast. The marriage will be in late summer. Both formerly taught at Carroll and both are Wayne college graduates.

Hot Breads.
It has been said that "if bread is the staff of life, hot breads are gold headed walking canes." This is not at all hard to believe if the hot breads are golden brown, crusty, and not tunneled. Why not make a specialty of certain tempting hot breads, perfecting your preparation to a point where they will melt in your mouth? Time ceases to cause worry when one has a good recipe and learns the quick bread method of combining ingredients.

Following is the general method for mixing doughs and batters. It can be applied to almost every quick bread recipe.

Sift dry ingredients, beat egg, add liquid to egg, add dry ingredients and add melted fat. Mix lightly, do not beat.

It is convenient to have a standard, basic muffin recipe to vary in a number of delectable ways.

Standard Muffin Recipe.
2 c. flour
1-3 c. milk
4 t. baking powder
2 T. fat
1 egg
1-2 t. salt
2 T. sugar
Follow above directions for mixing. Bake in muffin pan for 20 to 25 minutes at 425 degrees F.

Plain muffins may be varied by using part graham flour, bran or cornmeal (not more than 1-2). Berries, chopped dates or raisins, are sometimes added, or a spoonful of jelly or jam is placed on top of the muffins before baking. Griddle cakes and waffles belong in our group of quick breads. Following is a waffle recipe that is inexpensive and good.

2 c. flour
2 c. milk
2 eggs
1-2 t. salt
3 t. baking powder
2 T. melted butter
Follow general directions for mixing hot breads except beat yolks and whites of eggs separately. Add beaten egg whites last. Waffles too may be varied by adding chopped nuts, shredded pineapple or a bit of orange juice and rind.

Chicken Liver.
2 large chicken livers
2 pimentos chopped, and juice
2 hard cooked eggs
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika
Chop the cooked livers with other ingredients and mix well. Spread on buttered whole wheat bread.

Ham and Pimento.
1-2 pound boiled ham put through food chopper
2 pimentos and juice chopped
2 ounces tomato soup
1 green pepper chopped
Mix ingredients and spread between slices of buttered white bread.

Pickle Sandwich Filling.
3 hard cooked eggs
1 cup puffed raisins
1-2 cup chopped sour cucumber pickle
1-3 teaspoon salt
Mayonnaise
Wash raisins, drain, cut or chop. Chop eggs, add raisins, pickle, salt and moisten with mayonnaise. Spread on buttered whole wheat bread.

Egg Salad.
Hard cook 4 eggs and chop yolks

Biscuits have a definite place in many homemakers' meals because they are inexpensive and when properly made are delicious to taste.

A standard biscuit recipe is: 2 c. flour, 1-2 t. salt, 4 t. baking powder, 3-4 c. milk (scant), 1-3 c. fat.

Combine the sifted dry ingredients and cold fat by blending with a fork. Add milk to form a soft dough. Turn dough onto the lightly floured board and knead it vigorously for 20 seconds. Roll on pat out lightly 1-2 to 1 inch thick. Cut and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F) from 12 to 15 minutes.

A quick method of cutting biscuits is to square the rolled-out dough and cut into small squares with a sharp knife.

Biscuits may be varied in a number of ways. Some interesting variations are:

Cream scones—Double amount of shortening in biscuits, and add 1 T. sugar and 1 egg. Use cream in place of one-half the milk. Cut in squares, brush top with egg white and sprinkle with sugar.

Cheese biscuits—Add 1-2 c. grated cheese just after working in the shortening and blend well. Proceed as for regular biscuits.

Oatmeal biscuits—Substitute 3-4 oatmeal for 1-2 c. white flour.

Urges Loyalty To State Youth

Opportunity Lies Ahead For Nebraska Youth Dr. Dienst Says.

"Loyalty to schools is loyalty to children. Every generation sacrifices for the succeeding generation. We owe an obligation to posterity and to the country. Nebraska has never failed and we will continue to carry on in the interest of our children and their future citizenship. The spirit of the pioneers was to build a civilization. Let us keep their confidence. Each of us has an opportunity for service in our own community. Let us show future citizens that life does have possibilities." So spoke Dr. C. F. Dienst of Lincoln, deputy state superintendent, in addressing the Nebraska division of A. A. U. W. here Saturday morning on "Public School Service in Nebraska." "Helping youth into citizenship is a task too big for teachers alone; it is a task for the manhood and womanhood of our generation. Education is not an emergency issue; it is not the accomplishment of a single task; it is the continuing, broadening, developing program of human improvement for democracy. Every day offers opportunity for conquest of new worlds and achievement of nobler personality."

Nebraska has 85,567 in rural schools, 143,856 in city and village grade schools, 78,532 in high schools, 6,350 in private colleges, 2,437 in state colleges and 6,532 in the state university. These are heirs to attainments and accumulations of the past. "These are the ones who will carry on where the present generation leaves off. If we fail them or they fail us, our efforts are in vain. 'Short sleeves to shirt sleeves' is an American adage. Can it be that parents have too often robbed hours of character while heaping up for them an heritage of things?" questioned Dr. Dienst.

"This procession of youth is not a parade to a playground. It is a march over the battleground where our generation has struggled against terrible odds, to the more strenuous fields of the future. These youngsters are volunteers in the school procession because they have faith in themselves, faith in education and faith in the future. Let us rejoice that they can do it with a light heart and the confident step of youth. We are tremendously proud of the ones from our own homes for they are the reincarnation of our better selves."

"What are we doing in our schools to match the investment of precious days of youth in preparation for the future? Out of 37,935 in our high schools, 2,869 are working on problems of agriculture; and yet Nebraska is an agricultural state with 200,000 of her 500,000 in gainful occupations listed in agriculture. We have 143 boys enrolled in all-day trade courses, and 2,896 girls in home-making departments. Ten thousand girls have no opportunity to prepare for the responsibilities of home. One-third of the students in high school are studying foreign languages. Even more serious than the lack of opportunity for practical preparation is the restriction upon the vision of our young people. A study shows that 43.7 percent of high school students are interested in professions whereas only 7.8 percent are actually engaged in these lines. We need a vitalized curriculum," Dr. Dienst stated.

"We must keep before ourselves and our youth the dignity of labor. We must have people with best professional training but no one dares neglect the skill of hands in his preparation for service. The Master was a carpenter." Dr. Dienst read Arjuna Morgan's poem on "Work," which closes with this line, "Thank God for the splendor of work."

"Teachers have borne the brunt of cuts in school costs," Dr. Dienst explained. The average yearly salary of 5,091 women teachers in rural schools last year was $467.93, so it is not surprising that one-third have no more than high school training. And teachers and government employees are the only ones left out of the program for social security. No organization and no community can help its children more effectively than by giving justice to the teachers of children.

"These conditions result largely from lack of financial support. Property valuations have been decreased from three to two billions. The bill for liquor in Nebraska is nearly as much as the bill for public schools. Our people do have money for what they want to buy."

"Loyalty to schools is loyalty to the children of Nebraska. Each generation realizes its dream in the progress of succeeding generations. In the presence of obligations to posterity and country our people will carry on in the future as they have in the past. The immediate job is to search out the truth of conditions as they are, keep faith in one another and make

Funnyboners And Victor Arden On Popular Program

For musied novelty and humor in the "Diamond D-X Program" heard on 24 leading radio stations throughout the central states, the Funnyboners, as their name implies, offer new and amusing vocal arrangements. This clever trio has been a comedy hit on many Columbia network programs, with their own humorous style of entertainment. They were a favorite feature of the Oxydell program on the network's four consecutive years. The Funnyboners have made innumerable personal appearances in picture theatres and have appeared on local stations in many parts of the east at various times in the last several years—scoring immediate hits and winning many loyal friends who will be pleased to know that their favorite trio will now be an important part of the "Diamond D-X Program."

The new show, under the direction of Victor Arden, is sponsored by Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation and Diamond D-X dealers in connection with the D-X Double Challenge campaign in which $100,000 in prizes is being offered.

plans for a program of citizenship worthy of our state and nation.

"The history of Nebraska is a record of triumph over difficulties. The people of this state have planted more trees this spring than in any previous season. Senator Geo. W. Norris pressed a Ray at Washington a week ago to release curbs of power through 150 miles of transmission lines in another rural electrification project. These incidents tell the story of the will to win a finer and better civilization in Nebraska regardless of difficulties."

"This week the nation honored two Nebraskans with places in the Hall of Fame—J. Sterling Morton and William Jennings Bryan. Each came from humble homes. Each knew the strike of defeat as well as the joy of victory. Each forged out the opportunities of his state and circumstances of his time through faith in the eternal goodness and abiding place in the memory of a grateful people. In their experience is the inspiration and assurance of the youth of Nebraska."

Firmness Need In Government

Democracy Must Take Care To Avoid Reactionary Movements

Democracy must be firm to avoid committing suicide," stated Dr. David Fellman of the University of Nebraska, Friday evening in addressing about 100 attending the A. A. U. W. state convention. "University Women and Social Change" was Dr. Fellman's topic.

One of the most revolutionary things in history is the freedom of women, Dr. Fellman began. Women had to fight for their present social, moral and economic status, and Dr. Fellman believes they will have to fight to maintain this position because of the reactionary forces at work in government.

Dr. Fellman quoted from history to show that subordination of sex is natural. Women's emancipation has only come about in the last century. The first declaration of equal rights was made in the "Declaration of Sentiments" at Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848. Something has happened in recent years, explained the speaker, "the give women the position they enjoy. The change marks a revolution in social arrangements, and men as well as women live in a different status. Women have a right to live their own lives, to think as they please, to be educated and to have an independent existence. Whether or not they will be able to maintain this status is the question Dr. Fellman raised.

In reactionary movements of government, Dr. Fellman showed that classes which rise during one period, go down in a reactionary period. Since freedom of women rose during the creation of democracy, will they lose this freedom if government changes from democracy to another form?

Today half of the world is free and half is slave. One half believes in reason and the other half believes in force. The crisis of the modern world is spiritual. The choice is between freedom or dictatorship.

The revolt against reason is the most significant thing in modern life, Dr. Fellman believes. In Germany, Italy and Russia this revolt has taken dangerous form. Hitler is not interested in education to discover the truth but his aim is to produce political soldiers. Work of scientists, musicians, artists and others is cast aside unless it helps make the state more powerful. One of the first commandments in Italy is "Mussolini is always right." The only beauty, the only glory, the only world hygiene is war, according to the Italian viewpoint. Hitler warns that any who desire peace should patronize his who desire peace should patronize his who desire peace should patronize his

All reason and justice are abandoned in legal procedure in the dictatorships, Dr. Fellman showed. "What is not prohibited is permitted." And judicial deal with individuals as they please, sending them in exile to Siberia or disposing of them in other ways. Men are slaves there, Dr. Fellman stated.

Hitler believes he is God himself and refuses to allow his people to kneel to a God who pays just as much attention to other nationalities as to his.

Can women be free in such states where the main purpose is to prepare for war? When Hitler went into power in Germany he dissolved all women's organizations but some put up a good fight and it is the women who are now doing the most criticizing of the dictator. Hitler's doctrine is that women are servants of men; men are servants of the state; and Hitler is the state.

After four years of dictatorship in Germany, more women are working, they are employed for lower wages and their conditions of work are worse. Their average weekly wage is $7 to $8 for 45 hours. The men's average is $11 to $15 for the same hours. Women's conditions has thus become worse under the dictatorship.

Prices are high in Germany. Lard is 45c a pound and is used in place of butter which is much higher. Pork is 43c to 55c a pound. Other foods are similar. The diet is mainly bread, potatoes, cabbage, oleomargarine and sausages made from horse meat.

Where life is free women are free. When dignity, respect, loyalty go out of the government, the status of women suffers.

The American situation shows some disturbing signs, Dr. Fellman pointed out. The tendency to suppress free speech and free press, the "southern justice," black legion, vigilantes, and the Huey Long, Father Coughlin and Dr. Townsend movements are disturbing, Dr. Fellman thinks. Any of these habits could become generalized and do away with democracy. They are dangerous. In schools the stress on athletics and on "collegianism" or social side of life and the tendency to make all colleges train for trades are also alarming to Dr. Fellman. Education's principal aim is to pass culture from one generation to the next.

Though all these movements are seen as possible dangers in this country, Dr. Fellman believes that America will be held steady in its democratic government by the fact that most of the people do not favor or reactionary forces and that this nation does not covet territory. "We have wealth and need only learn how to manage what we have. But it is time for democracy to be firm in its principles. We must be bold in government activities or democracy will commit suicide. Women's function and obligation is to defend free America."

Dr. Mary Honey presided at the program which followed dinner served by the Methodist women at the Woman's club rooms. Sweetpeas, tapers and nutcrackers decorated the tables.

Dr. Honey introduced Mrs. H. K. Painter, Mrs. Thomas Aron, Miss Doris Palmer, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Miss Martha Fulton, Mrs. G. H. Joder and Miss Dorcas Hoge.

Wayne and Lincoln branches presented skits Friday evening at Neihardt hall where visitors were guests.

State Convention Is Well Attended

Local Committees Active A. A. U. W. Meeting Here Last Week

Seventh annual convention of the Nebraska division of the A. A. U. W. opened at Wayne Friday noon with delegates and visitors present from Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Scottsbluff, Peru, Kearney, Auburn, Crete, Blair, Broken Bow and Wayne.

Noon luncheon Friday in Neihardt recreation room opened the convention. Sweetpeas and nutcrackers in pastel colors decorated the tables. The college cafeteria served.

Mr. G. W. Costerian, convention chairman, introduced Dr. Mary Honey, local branch president, who welcomed the visitors. Mrs. Honey introduced Mrs. H. K. Painter of Minneapolis, Mrs. Thomas Aron of Crete, and Mrs. Arthur Smith of Lincoln.

Mrs. B. W. Wallace of Kearney explained that Nebraska has raised $378.15 for fellowships this year. Kearney leads in per capita pledges. Grand Island branch has 1,000 books in a rural library project. Kearney branch conducted a contest to determine the most distinguished citizen and a woman teacher was named.

Mrs. John Bath of Omaha, explained that Omaha has had A. A. U. W. for 30 years. The city has 23 women's organizations with 24,000 members and she feels that all should unite in backing movements.

Mrs. Thomas Aron of Crete, explained that Nebraska will likely be second to realize its pledge toward $40,000 for fellowships.

Mrs. W. F. Dierking told about the Wayne branch posters. Twelve of the 13 branches sent posters.

Miss Palmer Talks.

Miss Doris Palmer, exchange professor from England, spoke on "Exchange Teaching." She expressed admiration for the American woman who has an insatiable will for improvement. Exchange teaching provides a personal contact that assures more sympathetic understanding. American and English women are the most emancipated in the world and they should work together, Miss Palmer believes.

Germany does more for her youth than any other country, Miss Palmer explained, but the aim back of it is to benefit the state. Miss Palmer told of a visit to a German labor camp. The camps which used to be voluntary summer recreation centers are now compulsory training camps.

In Germany and Italy the position of women has gone back 100 years. Miss Palmer hopes that women here and in England can work together to keep the freedom and liberties of democracy.

Mrs. Painter Speaks.

Mrs. Painter, in speaking on "Practical Support of Education," explained that the A. A. U. W. has been organized 56 years for the purpose of supporting education. The organization has a powerful national educational force. The organization supports a fellowship fund to provide advanced research. The women can also be a valuable force by studying local educational problems and promoting worthwhile movements.

Real American culture is developing in the middle west, Mrs. Painter believes. She urged the women to take an interest in qualifications for teachers, local school finances, etc.

A panel report of the national convention held in Savannah, Ga., was given by Miss Louise VanSickle of Lincoln, Mrs. Painter, Mrs. Aron and Mrs. Amos E. Henely of Omaha. Miss Mary Talbot, 80, was honor guest and proved that "we never grow too old to learn." One of the speakers said "women must give as well as receive to develop themselves."

Tea for Visitors.

Women of the Faculty club entertained at tea Friday afternoon. Sweetpeas and candles decorated the table. Mrs. O. R. Bowen, Mrs. H. H. Hahn, Mrs. H. H. Hanscom and Dr. Isabel Rust presided. Mrs. A. G. Carlson played the piano and Miss Helen Pearson the violin.

Local committees named by Mrs. Costerian are the following:
Registration, Miss Beulah Rundle, Mrs. Raymond Cherry; Rooms, Mrs. H. D. Griffin, Mrs. T. S. Hook, Mrs. J. R. Johnson; Hospitality, Miss Lenore Ramsey; Mrs. W. F. Dierking, Miss Marie Hove; Mrs. J. The only midget twins in the world are Shirley and Dolores Curtes of Oakland, Calif. The girls, who are 13, measure 28 inches tall and together they weigh 20 pounds, less than their 3-year-old sister. The girls are slow at studies but, they like to dance.

A Seattle little girl 6 years old was missing and the family secured bloodhounds to search for her. The mother was letting the hounds get the scent of her clothing so they could trace her when the child walked in the door and asked, "What are those funny dogs doing here?"

"It was all my fault. I was hungry and told daddy so and I was so sick. Please won't you let him come home." This note from a 9-year-old Omaha boy, written to the judge in behalf of his step-father who broke into a grocery store, changed the man's sentence from a term in prison to a parole.

Frederick Snite, Jr., son of a wealthy Chicago family, was stricken with infantile paralysis in China a year ago while on a world tour. He is paralyzed below the neck. The young man lives in an iron lung and preparations are now under way to let him travel home in his iron lung. The trip will cost $50,000.

The Nebraska fair association this week received $2.50 from a western Nebraska man who said his family saw the 1929 fair without paying. The family slept in their car on the fair grounds and thus were there before the ticket man appeared in the morning. The man wished to clear his conscience by paying the amount.

Mrs. Richard Owens let her 2-year-old son sleep in Harold Dickman's car, which was roomier than hers, when driving from New York to Chicago. In the traffic at Cleveland the two cars lost each other. Dickman went to the police station in Cleveland and Mrs. Owens rushed to Chicago. Police told Mr. Dickman was trying to entertain the boy in Cleveland and she hurried back there.

Lord Marley, deputy speaker of the English house of lords, visited the Omaha stockyards last week and said his two suppressed desires are to visit the Indians and to be a cowboy. The Omaha men mounted him on a horse, gave him a 10-gallon hat and a bandana so he could be a cowboy. The English lord rode around the stock yards yelling, "Yippe-e-e."

For Virginia Radecke, 17, Blair, Neb., high school senior, April 27 stands out as the day of days. It was then that she received contract for a Chicago radio station. The same day she found that her violin which she thought was worth $10, was valued at $375 for it was a Cremona. And on the same day the school superintendent granted her permission to be graduated without further study so that she might go to Chicago.

United States Is Leader In Use Of Telephone

Figures are now available as to telephone usage in every country in the world at the beginning of 1936. A report just released by the chief statistician of the American Telephone and Telegraph company shows a total of 35,028,582 telephones in the world as of January 1, 1936. This number is within one percent of the peak reached the beginning of 1931, and on the basis of partial data of growth since the beginning of 1936, it is estimated that there are at least two million more telephones in service throughout the world at the present time.

The United States, with only six percent of the world's aggregate population of slightly over two billions, had one-half of the world's telephones, or 17,423,871, on January 1, 1936. Europe, with over 575 million people, had 12,757,283 telephones, or 36.42 percent of the world total. Next to the United States, Germany had the largest number of telephones, 3,269,952, followed by Great Britain with 2,551,117 telephones, France with 1,441,273, Canada with 1,208,810 and Japan with 1,131,748. These five countries, together with the United States, account for 77.8 percent of all telephones in the world.

Sixtyone percent of all the world's telephones are owned by private companies, operating chiefly in countries having the largest number of telephones in relation to population. For example, the United States, which has never known other than private operation of its communication facilities outranks all other countries with 13.69 telephones to each 100 of its population. Next in rank comes Canada, with 10.99 telephones per 100 population and 84 percent of its telephones operated by private companies. Third in point of telephone density is Denmark, with 10.64 telephones per hundred population and 96 percent under private ownership. Among countries where the telephone service is operated as a government monopoly are Great Britain, Germany and France where the telephone density is 5.44, 4.87 and 3.38, respectively. It is only a fraction of that prevailing in the United States.

The world's leading cities in point of telephone development are Washington, D. C., and San Francisco, where they were more than one telephone for every three people. Then there were Stockholm, Sweden; Denver; Vancouver, B. C.; Los Angeles, Seattle and Omaha.

Telephone Calls.

Twenty-five billion local and long distance telephone calls were completed in the United States during 1935. This figure is equivalent to nearly 800 conversations each second during the day and night; it also is equivalent to 197 calls for every man, woman and child in this country. Elsewhere in the world, the annual calling rate average per capita is estimated at 12.5, or less than 6 1/2 percent of the frequency with which the telephone is used by the American people.

BELL SYSTEM AGAIN GOES INTO ACTION TO RESTORE SERVICE AFTER $300,000 STORM DAMAGE

Latest Damage Brings Total For Northwestern Bell and Subsidiary Companies To More Than $550,000 During Past Winter

More than 400 men have been busily at work restoring telephone service in Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Northeastern Nebraska and Eastern South Dakota, swept by a disastrous storm April 24 and 25. About 3,500 poles and thousands of miles of wire went down; cutting off Wakefield, Emerson, and Yankton and scores of other towns from telephone communication with the outside world. It is estimated that the damage to telephone property will reach nearly $300,000. The major part of it is in South Dakota where 2,500 poles were broken off or blown down.

The damage resulted when sleet and heavy wet snow, accompanied by a high wind; stuck to the wires. In some places ice formed on the wires two inches thick.

The damage from this storm and that suffered by the Northwestern Bell Company and its subsidiary companies, the Tri-State and Dakota Central telephone companies, in other major storms this past winter totals more than $550,000. On March 23 another storm damaged telephone property in South Dakota to the extent of about $250,000.

At the same time men were being mobilized, carload after carload of poles, wire, crossarms and other materials and supplies required to make repairs, were being rushed from Western Electric warehouses in Minneapolis, Omaha and Chicago. In an effort to restore telephone service at the earliest possible moment many of the repairs are being made on a temporary basis. Permanent replacements will be made later. Snow drifts and blocked highways are hampering the men in their work and making it difficult to bring in needed supplies.

The prompt and thorough manner in which we were able to attack the job of restoring the service in this latest emergency, as in preceding ones, is the result of this company's being a part of the nationwide Bell System. The resources of the Bell System in men and supplies were instantly available to us, as they always are in such an emergency. Standardized methods and materials used by all Bell System companies make it possible to restore service with utmost speed.

The Bell System is organized not only to meet emergencies but also to provide at all times the best service at the lowest charges. The Bell Laboratories contribute research and development. The Western Electric Company manufactures and stores equipment. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company operates long distance lines interconnecting the regional operating companies, such as this company, and coordinates their operations for nationwide service.

Government Must Spend Less or Tax More

President Roosevelt today sent a message to the House of Representatives, telling members that the incomes taxes are producing $267,200,000 less than his former estimate for the fiscal year 1937, and he indicated that the deficit we are now creating must some day be paid by the taxpayers of the states or the debts owed to the government will have to be repudiated. At the same time members from both sides of the aisle are calling attention to the fact that the government collected a little over four billion dollars and being very generous, distributed to the states two billion dollars, while it does not have by four and one-half billion dollars enough to pay the regular government expenses.

One member has gone over the files and found that some of the new proposals that are now before the House, run to a total of $16,254,000,000, while another member who has added up the total of those proposals before the House and those that are being proposed, finds they run close to 150 billion dollars. They bring this to the attention of the membership in an argument that some of the useless spending must end right away or the government will be bankrupt. It is also argued that the only possible sources of revenue are a general sales tax and also the lowering of the income tax bracket, so that those earning around $500 a year may be finding themselves in the position of having to pay income taxes.

While the administration is agitating bringing a new tax bill into the House during the session of congress, both democrat and republican leaders declare that it is a question of either spending less money or taxing the people more to pay the ever growing expense of government. According to a record now in the hands of members, it is shown that the federal government collected from the state of Nebraska during the fiscal year of 1936, $9,405,075.89. However, the grants by the government to the state amounted to $23,170,211.15.

Millions for Traveling Expenses

One department of the government spends $4,600,000 a year for traveling expenses of officials and employees, according to a charge to the members of the House who tells members that the travel expense of government employees is one of the big spending items. The statement was made following the president's message on cutting appropriations.

Majority Party Fight

Which branch of our government is to blame for gigantic useless expenditures? It was debated on the floor of the House today. Congressman Dies, a democrat of Texas, who brought on himself the enmity of the administration for his resolution against sitdown strikes, was tongue-lashing the House for useless expenditures. Suddenly John O'Connor, democrat, of New York, who was defeated by the southern bloc for majority leadership, asked the Texas not to blame the legislative branch for all of the spending. He called attention to the fact that much of the spending legislation was sent to the executive branch from the executive branch. Here we have a real fight among the majority party. There are four spots left from the fight for long leadership—an echo of the anti-lynching bill debate, and also some suggestion that some members may have spoken out of turn on subjects which may have embarrassed the administration.

Conservatives To Fight Waste

Our national debt is figured to total today $34,839,471,252.58, but when everything is taken into consideration, some members can figure our debt is closer to 40 million dollars, and because the taxes are not producing the expected totals, some members fear that unless some of the useless spending is stopped now, the credit of the federal government will be seriously impaired. From now on you can expect conservative minded democrats and republicans to fight together against government waste on the basis that every dollar saved from waste, means one less tax dollar needed.

"Railroad" Big Appropriation

Notwithstanding the fact that the president's message on cutting federal expenses has been presented, and that members on both sides of the aisle have talked in favor of cutting appropriations, the southern leaders, who had profited by a recent appropriation and those in California who had also profited by a gift for an exposition, voted with the New Yorkers an appropriation of $5,000,000 for the New York world's fair in 1939.

This is an outright grant out of the treasury for a fair to be held in New York. Members who opposed it had no chance of recording their vote against it. They were not even allowed to debate it, because no debate was allowed on the resolution, and it passed while some members were writing an amendment to it. By the time they had their amendments written to it, the bill had officially passed.

Members of the House living in districts which had profited by money from the federal government for expositions, did not want to go on record as voting against the bill, when they had helped "put across" appropriations for their particular fair or exposition.

President Roosevelt today sent a message to the House of Representatives, telling members that the incomes taxes are producing $267,200,000 less than his former estimate for the fiscal year 1937, and he indicated that the deficit we are now creating must some day be paid by the taxpayers of the states or the debts owed to the government will have to be repudiated. ## Federal Credit Structure Cause For Worry

Serious thinking members—both democrats and republicans, seem to agree that the "economy" talk seem to agree that the federal credit structure is the real cause for worry. They believe now that the two big pieces of legislation for which members are waiting are not half so important today as is the credit situation in our land. The supreme court bill and the government re-organization bill may continue to be the major pieces of legislation which will hold congress in session until next fall, but the president's message telling the legislative branch of the government that it has a duty to perform on cutting expenditures has suddenly awakened a lot of members who have been indifferent to expenditures of billions of dollars from the federal treasury.

Members are suddenly talking about the outstanding government securities amounting to around 35 billion dollars not even taking into consideration the HOLC, Federal Land bank and other bonds. They are worrying over the gold and silver situation. They wonder how long we can continue to buy gold and silver which foreigners are bringing us. They know that the world price for gold is $26 an ounce and that we pay the foreigners $35 an ounce for it. They know that the foreigners take our paper money for this gold and that many of them buy our government securities and sell them at big profit and go back home for more gold to us. They also know that Russia developed new mines and Russia is taking out the gold at a price of three dollars a How much gold the foreign have in sight, no one knows, members know that Uncle Sam to keep on buying this gold silver. How long we can continue doing this is problematical.

Time and again members both sides ask what will happen to our banking structure if government securities go down or fifteen percent. They know Federal Reserve bank is but the government is doing everything possible to hold up the price. They know that there have been big sales of government bonds that most folks hold the large percentage of these bonds. T all of the resources of the government are at work to stabilize the price of government securities known and a guarantee are given by bank reports that these securities will not go below par.

But what is worrying some these people is that new iron will have to be printed and the fear inflation is very close; their fore-mud of the worry; therefore that sudden demand by member of both parties for elimination of useless appropriations. That, to is the reason for so much prediction that when a new tax bill demanded there will be a demand for the "last bill" tax—meaning a general sales tax. Time and again members indicate that the tax on lower incomes will be asked for. All of which indicate that no matter how much the government spends, the man in the street or the man with the small income—the ordinary consumer will pay the bill.

Library Service Is Of Great Value

Miss Chloe Baldrige Urges
Good Reading Available
For All Children.

The educational program of the A. A. U. W. was stressed in the Saturday morning session of the state convention in Wayne. Miss Martha Fulton of Omaha, education chairman, presided.

Miss Chloe Baldrige of Lincoln, in speaking on the rural library project, stated that the aim has been to provide "good books and good magazines for every school and every home."

The best part of every man's education is what he gives himself, Miss Baldrige stated. That is the reason the free public library is so important. It gives nothing for nothing and helps only those who help themselves.

The late Calvin Coolidge urged the use of libraries to keep up education after one is through school. Theodore Roosevelt acclaimed the library as one of the best influences in America. W. J. Bryan regarded the library as one of the most important developments of modern times.

Forty million people do not yet have free public library service and this is one of the great needs, Miss Baldrige explained. Other suggestions she made were the following: Making more use of library facilities; making surveys of materials children are reading; acquainting the public with provisions of the law which allows a levy to raise $5 a year for each teacher in a county; this money to be used for library books; working out brief addresses, playlets and games, which may be loaned to rural and town groups; calling attention of the public to the bulletin which stamps approval or disapproval of reading material; making a study of standards to be considered in selecting children's books; cooperating with the state committee in requiring librarians to be efficient leaders in helping the reading public; and listing names of best motion pictures.

Miss Baldrige reported many books and magazines distributed, Wayne branch giving 707 magazines for the work in this county.

Miss Fulton led discussion in which it was decided to continue the library work and establish county library service if possible.

Mrs. Gayle Potter of Lincoln, chairman of the speakers' bureau project, led suggestions in this work which aims to provide exchange of programs between branches and also to provide talent for community groups wishing programs presented. She repeated a quotation from the national convention which stated that "a woman cannot go forward unless she gives out as much as she receives."

Mrs. Arthur Smith reported a plan to bring a speaker from Washington this fall for mid-western branches.

Vigorous support of A. A. U. W. aims was urged by Mrs. Smith.

Convention Guest In Wayne Is An Outstanding Figure

One of the outstanding figures of the state A. A. U. W. convention held in Wayne last week-end was Mrs. H. K. Painter of Minneapolis, northwest central section director.

Besides being mother of three children, two of high school age and one in junior high and being very active in club work, Mrs. Painter has found time to write a book, recently published by the University of Minnesota Publishing company, entitled "Minnesota Grows Up." In writing this book, Mrs. Painter remarked that she tried to write a history book interesting to children. The artist who illustrated the book used clever sketches, according to the author, and carried out a given theme in all the drawings. This book, which is being adopted by several schools, was written for children from the ages of 7 to 11. At present Mrs. Painter is working on a United States history of junior high level.

Besides being very active in A. A. U. W. work, Mrs. Painter is a member of the National Foreign Policy association, Birth Control League, secretary of the state-wide Citizens' committee in Minnesota, member of the Board of Women Voters, president of the Minneapolis Council of Parent-Teachers, member of the graduate council of Mount Holyoke college and one of three nominees for trustee of Mount Holyoke college.

Mrs. Painter was responsible for the pictorial map which was made of the United States and sold by A. A. U. W. members for the fellowship fund. She had previously made such a map of Minnesota.

The work done by the Citizens' committee on public school finance is particularly interesting to Mrs. Painter. The organization works out a program whereby it interprets the needs of a school to the community. At present the mailing list is 4,600. This is a state-wide organization.

Mrs. Painter addressed the convention delegates Friday on "Practical Support for Education."

Mrs. Sarah Silvers and Miss Josephine Silvers moved from 1008 Pearl street to an apartment in the Roy Langemeier home at 719 and Main. Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Silvers moved to 1218 Main. The Silvers and daughter vacated.

Early Students Of Wayne Form
Club In West

A "get-together" of former Wayne college students, April 24 held at the home of Mrs. Harry Miller in Long Beach, Calif., was enjoyed last week. After it was learned how many Wayne students are in southern California, the group decided to organize for regular meetings. Mrs. Miller, the former Miss Ella Piepenstock, was chosen president, and Miss Leona Lyons was named secretary.

In the reunion group were Dr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Paul of Santa Ana, Mrs. Guy Lewis who is the former Miss Madge McManigal, of Hynes, Mrs. P. J. Barnes, the former Miss Nora Junge, Miss Lyons, Rex Hoover and Mrs. Miller of Long Beach.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul attended the Nebraska Normal college in Wayne in 1893. The former said that when he enrolled in the school and paid the tuition fee, then $10, he told the late Prof. J. M. Pile that he wanted to find work to earn his way. Prof. Pile gave him employment at his home. One of his duties was to accompany the three Pile children to the circus.

Dr. Paul recalled that school was conducted in the frame on Main street when he came and the first brick building was put up while he was here. Dr. Paul and Charles Bright occupied the "highest" room for sleeping quarters. The former rang the bell and finally taught several classes. Dr. Paul explained that he was offered a good position on the faculty but he and another student, Miss Clara Lewis, decided to marry and go elsewhere to teach. Later Dr. Paul attended dental college. His three sisters, Edith, Gladys and Genevieve, and his brother, Frank, who resides at Broadwater, Neb., were also registered at Wayne normal.

Rex Hoover attended Wayne college in 1910 when the school was bought by the state and the educational plant was enlarged.

Mrs. Miller, who belongs to a kitchen band which has played in a good many nearby towns, showed the former Whyte students her brilliant red deal with teaspoons as buttons and high major flat to match. The guests insisted that she play a tune on her instrument which resembles a French horn. The horn is composed of a dish pan, funnel, egg beater and several other kitchen articles. Mrs. Miller also read "Jiggs and Maggie before St. Peter at the Golden Gate," which was a "scream." Mrs. Miller and her husband plan a visit to Wayne a little later in the season while on a long trip.

Mrs. P. G. Barnes and husband also plan a visit in Wayne later. M. C. Jensen was unable to be with the group because he was on duty at the Central fire station, but said that he and his family are going to Wayne county during his vacation.

Mr. Smith of the firm of Smith & Tutthill, Santa Ana mortuary, lived as a young man at LaPorte when that town was Wayne county seat.

Miss Lyons writes that she will spend the early part of May at Ventura with Miss Susie Harris. Miss Lyons was there recently also, making the trip by bus over the Roosevelt highway through Wilmington, San Pedro, Redondo, Santa Monica and Oxnard. The Harris home is in the green foothills overlooking the town of Ventura and the Pacific. From there one can see a small pier. One is only for flat cats to transport oil from the nearby oil fields to the big tankers which dock far out. Pipes beneath the ocean bed are used for the oil. A circle of five buoys designates the places for different oil firms' boats to anchor. This procedure takes several hours. The harbor has never been deepened and there is no bathing beach.

The entire orchard at the Harris place was frozed, though the avocado trees were protected by gunnybags and they were smudged. Tiny shoots are coming up from the roots and these will be grafted to later.

Miss Lyons reports that weather in California has been like summer the past few days.
