

Spirit Enterprise Must Keep Awake and Progressive—Ponca Knows How to Bring Wet Spell—Harvest Hands Organize—Old-Time Factions.

A progressive community, like a progressive industrial or business institution, must meet one constructive expense after another. Public improvements must be made consistent with popular demand to insure a forward rather than a backward movement. Wayne must go ahead to justify existing investments and encourage new ones. Public enterprise must be supported to warrant private enterprise.

It will be remembered that no forward step was ever taken without opposition. Before the college became a state institution and preliminary to its purchase by the state, it is recalled that citizens took off their coats and dug into their pockets to realize subsequent benefits. Paving was delayed too long to take advantage of lowest costs, but no one would now return to streets of mud or flying dirt. Opposition overcame an earlier paving movement, and thereby largely increased the final investment. The new, lately built, municipal auditorium which was opposed as unnecessary expense, has borne abundant rewards.

Now comes along a proposition to buy at a nominal figure a thirty-five-acre tract adjacent to Wayne on the south to convert into a park. The usual tax bogey is raised. Persons who profess to see no harm in the wild expenditures of the federal government, shrink at comparatively insignificant costs that would enrich and stimulate rural communities. With all its advantages, Wayne has no municipal tourist camp—to the surprise and disappointment of travelers. This could doubtless be included in the proposed park arrangement.

Another local demand is for improved public lighting. As often mentioned, illuminated signs at city entrances should be provided. The business district should be lighted to compare favorably with other forward-going centers. It has been suggested that business houses ought to be granted a sufficiently low electric rate so they could afford to keep their window displays illuminated at night. The council should before long get around to solve the question of better lighting for the permanent advantage of the city.

Advanced goals await alert and daring communities. The slugging whether a city or an individual—invariably dominated by a penny-wise and pound-foolish policy—lets opportunities slip by, and then wonders what was wrong.

Rain Tags Celebration. Ponca has guessed wrong in picking dry weather for its anniversary celebrations. About the only rainfall of consequence a year ago came on celebration days. Again last Friday and Saturday when anniversary programs were scheduled and thousands were on hand to be entertained, a heavy rain storm was provided for each day. This year's fall of moisture was general, and probably those whose plans at Ponca were disturbed, will feel less keenly the disappointment in view of widespread benefits from the moisture. But when drought threatens, it would be well to persuade Ponca to get up a big celebration.

Labor in Farm Fields. Report comes from the southeastern part of the state that harvest hands have organized to establish and maintain a uniform rate of 40 cents per hour with board and lodging thrown in. The organizers say they will do no picketing and will avoid violence, but will quietly try to dissuade men from working for less than the price fixed by leaders. Their extraordinary politeness is doubtless prompted by a knowledge of the farmer's state of mind and a feeling that he will not tolerate interference with harvesting his crop. After battling unfriendly elements of pestiferous insects for a series of years he is now not likely to let outsiders handle his present heightened fortune. In addition, when labor unions begin on agriculture, they will simply speed up use of labor-saving machines.

Destructive Rivalries. In the early days, many towns hindered growth by developing rival factions and cultivating rival hates. If a town did not quit jealous differences and turn to movements for the public welfare, it made no headway; on the contrary, slowly strangled itself into a trance from which no earthly power could arouse it. A stranger slipping into such a town was up a tree in trying to be friendly to one. If he fraternized with one person, he made rivals of that person and resentful. If he befriended one to another, he aroused evidence of jealousy. He had to escape everybody to escape everybody.

PARK ELECTION RECOMMENDED

Council Effects Reduction In Electric Charges At Tuesday Session.

A special election for the purpose of voting on the purchase of the 35 acres of land south of Wayne to be used as a city park was recommended by City Attorney J. E. Brittain at the city council meeting Tuesday evening. A petition is now being circulated asking the council to call the election. Fifty or more signers are needed.

Ed. Perry offers the park to the city for $2,500.

A new light rate, recommended by the light commission, was adopted. The new rate calls for a 45 cents reduction on all bills where 25 kilowatts or over are used by residents. The commercial rate has a $1.44 reduction to all who have used 60 kilowatts or over. Minimum bills will be reduced from $1.30 to $1.00. There will be no discount on minimum bills. The new rate is as follows: Domestic, first 25 kilowatts at .08, excess, .02 1/2; commercial, first 50 kilowatts, .08, next 500, .04, next 450, .03 1/2, next 1,000, .03 and excess of 2,000, .02 1/2.

The rural electrification rate if accepted will be measured at the edge of town. The suggested rate is as follows: First 25,000 at .0225, per K. W. H.; next 25,000 at .0175 and excess .0125. The city is to have the privilege of terminating the contract upon 60 days' notice.

On request of Fred L. Blair, paving payments which had previously been assessed against the quarter block, have been divided for lots as follows: South 75 feet of lot one, block six, $323.21, district number 4; south 75 feet of lot one, block six, $550.95, district number 2; north 75 feet of lot one, block six, $754.15, district number 4; north 75 feet of lot one, block six, $550.95, district number 2.

No action was taken on the paving around the school. Other routine business was transacted.

CROP PROMISE IS MOMENTUM BEHIND PROSPERITY WAVE

ROGER Babson, economist, attributes the present widespread business lull to strikes, uncertainties in congress and threats in Europe. These causes have hurt confidence, and lack of confidence has opposed expected recovery. However, promised crops of unusual abundance will, it is believed, negate obstructive influences and start a wave of general prosperity. Agriculture offers every evidence of coming back stronger than ever, and the present business quiet, probably encouraged by labor disturbances, would seem only a calm before a burst into extraordinary activity. Big crops everywhere will furnish the momentum.

EXTEND SIGNUP DATE IN COUNTY

Board Of Directors To Meet Saturday To Complete County Survey.

The time limit for signing applications for rural electrification has been extended to Saturday, July 3. This decision was made last Saturday when the board of directors met here. Forester Speaks On Need of Trees

Dr. Wheeler Urges More Planting For Conserving Surface Soil.

Dr. H. N. Wheeler.

Dr. H. N. Wheeler of the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture, spoke Wednesday morning at the Wayne State Teachers college convocation hour. Dr. Wheeler, who has been in the forestry work for 32 years, believes everyone should be interested in conservation because the use of wood is important to all throughout life. As one item he mentioned the number of railroad ties used in a year is 130,000,000.

The speaker showed slides and explained how the trees are marked for cutting so they can be sold. Much land is turned back to the states because of delinquent taxes. The land in Nebraska is overgrazed, 6,000,000 acres being used for that now. Grazing land where there are trees kills the trees.

Dr. Wheeler showed slides of lands being ruined by washing. Experiments show that it takes 400 years to build up one inch of good black soil. The Chinese showed the Americans how to terrace land so that all moisture is absorbed. A person may say that he can do what he wants to with the land because he owns it but it is really only loaned while one is here.

It used to be that the farmer who could plant a straight row was considered the best. Now the one who plants in curves around the hills, on the contour, is so judged.

The speaker told what is being done to remedy the situations. Dams are being built by C. C. boys, and trees and shrubs planted along highways and streams to hold the soil.

Reforestation is a big problem that has to be solved. It is not a political problem. Trees grow just as well for republicans as for democrats and the speaker urged planting them.

Two men accompanied Dr. Wheeler to Wayne. They are also in the forest service.

Another report of the railroad showed that the company's operating costs on lines in Nebraska have resulted in a deficit of $1,447,855 in the past 12 years. The loss on operating Nebraska lines in 1925 was $491,957, and the loss in this state the past year was $61,070. DUE CELEBRATION OF INDEPENDENCE COMES ON MONDAY

THE Fourth coming on Sunday this year, it will be generally observed Monday. No celebration in Wayne will lead citizens to go elsewhere or loaf at home. Anyway, people will generally take the day off. Burning powder as an outlet for patriotic joy having been outlawed in Wayne, it will likely cause no accidents here. Swimming and motoring threaten the heaviest life toll despite warnings and precautions. Heat prostrations will be numerous if the weather is hot. Thus, a pleasant holiday may sometimes be turned into tragedy. Those who think seriously about the reason for Independence day will be most concerned at this time about preserving the fundamentals which established and from which a great nation sprang.

In his opinion too heavy loads are allowed on all streets and roads. Safety devices and signs for towns (Continued on Page Seven)

History of District 21.

School in district 21 is located five miles west and one south of Winslow. Records of early years are few. Co. Superintendent D. C. Patterson in 1878, reported that April 16, 1878, had examined Lon Hunter and granted him a second grade certificate to teach in district 3, then including 21.

District 21 was organized November 20, 1882. Those signing the petition were: W. B. Jordan, director; D. M. Garwood, treasurer; J. R. Manning, Wm. Bovee and L. Port. At that time this district was part of 18 which consisted of all Deer Creek precinct, the east half of Sherman, east half of Garfield and six sections in the northeast corner of Hoskins precinct, 78 sections in all. Those signing the petition to let the proposed district 21 out of district 18 were James A. Elliott, John Dugan and James Roach.

Co. Supt. W. B. Weatherbee received notice December 6, 1882, that the district had elected John Dugan director, Louis Ziemer moderator and John Roach treasurer. Six in the district were then of school age.

District 21, organized 15 years after Nebraska was admitted to statehood, then consisted of the east half of Garfield precinct and six sections in the northeast corner of Hoskins. There were 24 sections, the district being eight miles long and three wide.

G. M. Lodge, appointed county superintendent in 1883 in place of Mr. Weatherbee who resigned, reported districts 18, 20 and 21 not having had the required number of months of school and were not entitled to the state apportionment. However, the schools were open the summer of 1883.

The school known as Apex was built in 1883.

Co. Supt. A. A. Welch visited district 21 November 22, 1887, and found five pupils enrolled with Gurney Pittenger teacher. The building was well furnished with desks, maps, books and slate blackboards. Supt. W. E. Howe visited February 15, 1888, when Mr. Pittenger was still teaching, and records a pleasant school room with all nine pupils interested. Order was rated at 99, methods at 90 and proficiency at 95 percent.

M. O. Cunningham taught the term ending May, 1895. To his successor he wrote, "I have attempted to grade the school as near as can be to coincide with the high school at Wayne. Some may seem to be in the wrong grades but with a little extra work on the part of the teacher I think better results will be obtained. I believe many of our country schools are graded too low, if graded at all. Therefore, let us raise the country school grades and in so doing elevate the country school teacher from a financial standpoint as well as social."

Earl Gibson, next teacher, records, "I have made an effort all through the year to follow the Nebraska course of study and, though the grades are somewhat broken, I hope it will be demonstrated that grading the district school is not only feasible but practical. Special effort has been made in the first and second years." Thus the term of 1895-96 showed a movement to abandon the old system of studying by readers.

Highest attendance on record in district 21 was during the term beginning September 7, 1897, when 82 were enrolled, 14 being primary pupils. Miss Lizzie Brown was teacher.

A new school built in 1929 replaced the one which stood 46 years. The school became standard in 1931. It was rated superior January 3, 1936, the only one in the county and among few in the state. A standard school requires 75 points and a superior one, 95. Marjorie Mifield Grubb was teaching her fifth year in the school when it became superior. Neville Troutman was teacher last year.

History of District 16.

School district 16 was organized and a school house was built in 1881. Northside, which was the name for Winslow before the site was moved, was located just south of the school house. For that reason the school is known as the Northside school.

Earliest records have been burned so first facts are hard to obtain. The first treasurer was Warner Starr. One of the earliest school boards was made up of Fred Muhlmeier, moderator; Jesse Hamilton, director, and Warren Starr, treasurer. Among the early settlers of the district are the Carl Bronzynski and Peter Ulrich families, some of whom are still residing in the district. Otto Ulrich and August Bronzynski, two of the present school board, received their education in this school. Mr. Ulrich has been director for 30 years. Mr. Bronzynski has been treasurer 15 years. Otto Stender, other member of the board, has been moderator 13 years.

The first school was a small building 16 by 20 feet. Like many other schools it was very warm in winter months. Some tell that they would sit around the stove with coats and over shoes on and then not be comfortable.

Many pupils attended school only during winter months, helping with farm work in spring and fall. Even as late as 1921 only eight months of school were conducted, one month vacation being allowed for corn husking.

At a meeting in the school May 9, 1886, the Immanuel Reformed church was organized. Services were held in the school and in private homes until the church was built in 1889. A new church

Selfish Ambition

AGITATORS take advantage of labor organizations to satisfy selfish ambition. In years past unions have righted many wrongs done to labor, but the power of organization has often been used, especially of late, to gain autocratic control of industry, exercising authority without assuming responsibility. Many labor union members—forced to become such to get jobs—are satisfied with their employment.

We are told of a metropolitan newspaper plant's recent experience with a professional agitator. Employees were apparently satisfied with wages and conditions. In time the agitator appeared before head managers and informed them that conditions in the plant would have to be changed. The disturber had been working insidiously among employees. Thus, revealing what he had been doing, he was escorted to the door and told to move on and never come back.

Employees need their jobs, and they suffer serious hardship when forced to strike over some trumped up grievance. John L. Lewis has carried the strike business to an extreme that is likely to revert as a boomerang and cause labor more harm than good.

Joyful Frolic

SOMETHING unique in American statesmanship is offered by the three-day frolic on Jefferson island in Chesapeake bay, participated in by groups of senators and congressmen in invitation of President Roosevelt. The announced idea was to give members of the two houses a better opportunity to get acquainted with the president. After four years' experience, the executive seems to have been unable in cramped Washington quarters to get in sufficiently close personal touch with lawmakers to know them and incidentally to cure differences.

If senators and congressmen can be persuaded by a picknicking blowout on the island to abandon convictions and adopt the court-packing plan and otherwise increase one-man power, they are too weak to represent their respective constituencies. At one time they were threatened with loss of patronage if they did not obey the voice in the White House. Now they are feted and caressed on Jefferson island. We refuse to believe fellows big enough to serve in either house can be forced or smiled into forfeiting their own judgment.

Beginning To Wonder

THE Lincoln Journal quotes Arthur M. Hyde, former secretary of agriculture, in emphasizing the trend away from democracy as following the policies of the national administration. Mr. Hyde mentioned a list of New Deal laws framed in conformity with communist ideas, and the Journal closed with this editorial observation:

"The nation has become concerned over the trend. Since the demand of Labor Dictator John L. Lewis that the president lend support to his strikes, followed by some indications that the strikes, if not openly supported have not been officially opposed, the public has begun to look behind the scenes in an effort to find where presidential policies originate and the motive power that pushes them ahead."

Something is reported to have happened to the grasshoppers besides poisoned bran. Perhaps due to wet weather or some other manifestation of kindly providence, the hoppers have been attacked by a fatal fungus growth. Some have diagnosed it as an enemy louse. Anyway, whatever it is, it is said to be putting the pest out of business. If this special fungus or louse variety does not run out or become discouraged, it ought to remove the grasshopper plague for this year and for some future years. More power to the fungi or lice that are pasturing on grasshopper anatomies!

Good faith in both words and deeds is a virtue too little observed in the mad quest for material gain or earthly power. Bad faith bogs one down in the morass of disappointed desires. When a fellow says what he does not mean, or leaves undone what he has promised to do, he destroys confidence and clogs the wholesome currents of civilization.

Often the business man frankly admits that he does not want to express an opinion on account of the possibly adverse influence on trade. Truth is, people like to hear an expression of honest conviction even if they do not agree with it. Any opinion is better than none, and the courage to say what one thinks—if not ultra-sensless—contrasts refreshingly with dodging for cover and saying nothing.

"I wish I could recover the belief that the president really is interested in democratic reforms and not in the establishment of irresistible power personally directed," declared Walter Lippmann in the course of an article dissecting the administration's moves and methods. About the only thing left to attempt in getting a strangle-hold on the country is to muzzle the press. Though discredited by some as highly improbable, it is quite as likely now as was the effort launched some months ago to pack the supreme court.

The mania for free publicity possesses government bureaus and movie stars about equally, we would guess. Propaganda to build up a bureau is given the color of news; to warrant its free passage into newspaper columns. The thought that seems to be uppermost in the mind of an actor or actress is how much newspaper attention a public appearance will win. Favorable limelight is the demand for all depending on public support, and federal bureaus and movie stars would seem to take the lead in that respect.

President Roosevelt laughed and joked with newspaper men when asked if he would be a candidate for a third term, as suggested by Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania. Why try to persuade him to say what he will do? All necessary to do when the time comes is for Jim Farley to explain an emergency which would require an unprecedented third term. Many things have been done in the name of an emergency, and the emergency promises still to exist when the next presidential campaign arrives.

The wheat harvest has begun in Kansas, and the yield promises to be greater in that state than its record crop of 1926. In a couple of weeks harvesting machines will be humming hereabouts, and in the meantime we do not want any hail or other interference.

Boake Carter, newspaper and radio columnist, says that out of 1,000 letters received by him, all but 17 expressed opposition to the tactics of the C. I. O.

Farm Legislation Sidetracked

Lincoln Journal: Secretary Wallace has ordered a well fitting suit of sackcloth and ashes. Party leaders in both houses of congress have informed him that they are too busy at the present session to consider his ever normal granary bill, which also is said to contain a lot of restrictions upon the rights of a farmer to operate his own land as he desires, and that he will have to wait. Mean partisans will doubtless point to this as indicating that the problems of the farmer must await the convenience of congress, but our own notion is that the farmer will be a lot better off if it is never passed. He ought to have time at least to acquire an ever normal granary.

Must Conserve Our Manhood

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Probably no question is worrying the administration and congress right now more than the question of federal relief. How much relief should be provided by the government and how long must this relief be furnished? These matters are also of much concern to the whole country and the attitude of some of our statesmen only serves to increase this concern.

We have the spectacle of the different bureaus and departments disputing among themselves over the question of who is to administer this relief. Hon. Harry Hopkins is out with the statement in which he tells us that governmental relief has now become a permanent institution and that we might as well resign ourselves to the fact that huge sums will have to be set aside each year to take care of those who are on one form of dole or other.

So much for the political side of the problem. The economic side of the matter appears to be equally difficult, the burden on the taxpayers and on the public treasury. There is still another angle of the situation, however, that is really the most important of all, points out the Kearney Hub, and that is the deadening influence of this continued relief on those of our people who are the recipients of the government bounty.

"The average man would much rather have a good job with private industry at wages which would enable him to care for himself and family," declares that journal. "He doesn't like the dole nor the idea of living off the government. But man is a creature of habit. It is more than possible if he remains on relief long enough he will come to consider it a vested right and to believe that the government owes him support. The psychology of the individual changes just as does that of the entire nation, because after all, America, not having embraced communism nor fascism, is still made up of individual units.

"A nation will not lose its chance for progress and permanency so long as its citizens maintain for themselves a character and determination to do for themselves so far as possible and not to depend on governmental paternalism for a living. Once this character and determination is lost, no form of government can remedy the situation. It may regulate and maintain, for the time, a nation of slaves; but it cannot restore a nation of men who have lost their character and courage for individual initiative and freedom."

Of late years the country has become more and more conscious of the need for conserving our great natural resources and it might be well to give some attention to the matter of conserving our resources in manhood. It is this side of the problem that must concern the nation if our splendid heritage is to be preserved.

Welcome June Rise

Sioux Falls Argus-Leader: The return of the customary June rise in the Missouri river is an indication of a revival of normal conditions in this area. In recent years such rises have been conspicuous by their absence.

OLD AGE

Everybody is destined to grow old — finally perhaps feeble and helpless with age. Youth is credited with fire and vigor; advanced age with poise and wisdom. Youth is governed more by impulse; old age by reason. The often suggested notion that an older ought to retire on a stock of experience and infirmities was blasted by Rev. F. C. Mills at the Methodist church Sunday morning. The minister told how some of the world's greatest intellectual endeavors had been accomplished by men after they had reached 70 and 80. He mentioned John Quincy Adams' forceful statesmanship at 81, and Joseph Chamberlain's at 84. Edison did his best work at 80. Tennyson wrote "Crossing the Bar" when he was 83. The sermon encouraged oldsters to stay in the harness and refuse to allow multiplied years to set limits on ambition and achievements. One brief excerpt: "Think of the sunset years as a time of ripeness, vision, perspective. Accumulated wisdom and the widespread experience of the years make old age rich, calm, sensible and discriminating. The essentials stand out from the non-essentials. The young man's boasted 'pep' seems less important than the ripe vision of later maturity."

hateful group bars. This unfortunate state of provincial society—common in the old days, but rare now—is one reason small towns are on the way out and in time will be marked mainly by a widening of the highway and a group of filling stations.

Wheat Ripening Rapidly

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The wheat harvest is rushing north on the wings of hot south winds, which according to experts, undoubtedly are damaging the crop somewhat by premature ripening, but are serving as a measure of protection against black stem rust. Although this is by no means the first time that black rust has visited this region, many farmers are a little puzzled as to how it develops, partly because of faulty observation and partly because they have forgotten.

Black stem rust appears on the wheat plant first as a red rust of the leaves. It next shows up as yellowish blotches toward the base of the stem and these patches usually work toward the head becoming black as the disease develops. The rust simply kills that part of the straw on which it works, and once it develops clear around a stalk of wheat, the head receives no more nourishment and the stalk is dead.

Early cutting is of no practical advantage in handling rust smitten fields, as the heads receive no nourishment not already in the stems when cut, and they would receive that anyway until cut off by the disease. A better quality of straw can be obtained sometimes by cutting rusting wheat on the "green side," but most wheat crops are not grown primarily for straw. The same argument holds against early cutting of small grain which is being ripened prematurely by hot winds. In fact, tests show that small grain often can be increased in yield from two to ten percent by allowing the grain to stand a week or so after it reaches the point where it usually is considered ripe.

Archie Weber and Miss Verna Sporleder of Pierce, were married last week Sunday.

BAD EXAMPLE

The largest department store in Russia is a communist establishment four stories high and covering a block in Moscow. It never advertises and sells merchandise without effort. Nation's Business explains that this big store lacks everything that would suggest modern service. Goods are unattractively displayed, separated from customers by large counters and with chains and fences, and salespeople are indifferent. The business is conducted on a strictly cash basis with no deliveries, no charge accounts and no exchanges. "A woman who needs a pair of shoes, for example," says Nation's Business "takes whatever is handed her, leans against a wall to try them on and is happy to pay for a pair within a size or two of a proper fit." Government stores mean a terrible let-down in modern merchandising methods. No use to question prices or complain about service. People buy things offered and pay prices asked. The prevailing competitive system in this country, carefully catering to popular tastes and establishing price levels consistent with reasonable profit, contrasts sharply with government-run business in Russia. Experience abroad should arouse determined opposition to any attempt to put the government into the operation of American stores.

Wayne City Library News

A book which has just been received at the Wayne library is "Inside Europe" by John Gunther. The author comments on his book as follows: The book begins with Hitler, then makes a tour around him. I have tried to note the impingement of Hitler's Germany on every European country, and to include an analysis of every important European situation. We visit, in a counter-clockwise circle, France, Spain, Italy; make a detour upward to that dominant island, England; proceed through the battered countries of central Europe and the Balkans, finish the circle around Germany with Poland; inspect what we have seen of western Europe at Geneva; and emerge finally in the Soviet Union."

Mrs. E. S. Blair, city librarian, recently visited the Madison library and was greatly impressed by the selection of reference books in that library.

Under Duress

Omaha World-Herald: If the American people are worried over strike developments this year there is occasion for it.

Public concern is aroused, not so much by the fact of widespread strikes, troublesome and expensive as these are. In a period of reviving enterprise, and with labor keenly sensing both its grievances and its greatly enhanced power, the strike wave was anticipated.

More serious reason for apprehension lies in the failure of law to govern when not only private right but public authority is defied and violently assailed.

Early in the year the breakdown of law was in evidence in Michigan, when the sitdown strikers both violated the law and defied the authority of the courts. The law enforcement authorities, including the governor, yielded before the threat of force, out of dread of possible consequences that might ensue if the superior authority of the law were asserted. And so it was under the menace of lawless force that the dispute was at length settled.

A similar situation now obtains in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In the latter state the governor invokes martial law to compel an operating steel plant to shut down out of fear of C. I. O. violence if it continues operations. In the former state the troops are used to prevent mills from resuming operations, also because public authority is fearful of bloodshed if men exercise their legal right to work.

C. I. O. leaders in Ohio telegraphed President Roosevelt that "any attempt to reopen the mill gates will automatically bring terrific violence and bloodshed" by reason, obviously, of C. I. O. attacks on men going to work. The president thereupon telegraphed mill executives his earnest request not to reopen, "in the promotion of public safety and in the interest of a reasonable and peaceful settlement which should be expected and can be attained."

There is no escaping the plain fact—that law and law enforcement agencies have been and still are overawed by force and the threat of force. And this, whatever the merits of the many disputes, is profoundly disturbing. It must be so considered by employees as well as employers, and by all the people who ask only for peace and order under the rule of the law. For if the rule of law were to break down there could be no security for anyone, no rights to be enjoyed, no liberties.

Unquestionably government in all its branches is well aware of the truth. No one can doubt that any official, highly placed and responsible under his oath of office, and his devotion to the republic, is gravely concerned as is the general public. Obviously in the present tense situation there has been made a choice between two evils. It must be that the authorities charged with upholding the majesty of the law believe it is better to compromise, to yield for a time, than to be firm and precipitate possibly a more menacing crisis.

They must know, too, that in that way, long pursued, lies calamity to free institutions. Force and lawlessness are among the appetites that grow by what they feed on. Conditions in other lands teach fearful lessons for all to study.

Gambling Overturn in Texas

Christian Science Monitor: Repeal of the pari-mutuel betting law in Texas is the biggest setback for commercialized gambling in the last ten years. The decisive step just taken by a special session of the Legislature reflects the good sense of the people. By dissolving its partnership with pari-mutuel gambling Texas has punctured the balloon which promoters declared would provide much revenue for the State and sport for its citizens.

Four years of pari-mutuel betting under state supervision were all Texas could stand. The system worked a hardship on people tempted to waste time and money in that non-productive way. Pari-mutuel betting did nothing to encourage the raising of fine horses. Fraud and rumors of fraud have dogged the Texas establishments where commercialized gambling has operated in the name of sport.

Some years ago this newspaper sponsored an extensive study of the scope and nature of organized gambling in many countries over a period of many years. One of the conclusions reached at that time was that if pari-mutuel betting were given a loose rein, the racket would eventually run itself into the ground; that apparently the easiest way to defeat the pari-mutuel system was to let the pari-mutuel system defeat itself. After four years of unbridled exploitation, the "sport" has been played out in Texas.

A significant factor in this sharp overturn was the inability of Texas promoters to entrench themselves financially against the threat of legislative revolt. The huge sums quickly amassed by such anti-social enterprises usually present a serious obstacle to reform. Failure of the promoters to make money in this case is believed largely due to causes the pari-mutuel law was supposed to eliminate—competition from race-track betting in illegal poolrooms.

Human nature is no respecter of state borders. Whatever the record of race-track betting proves for Texas, it proves for other states where the pari-mutuel machine has been legalized. Race-track gambling everywhere has evidenced all the social and economic evils envisioned by opponents of the system. It has fulfilled none of the rosy promises which legislated it into existence. The Legislature's stand in Texas leaves its handwriting on the race track enclosures of some twenty other states.

Repeal in Texas, following closely an official ban on slot machines in Florida, points to an improved sense of social responsibility in local government. Members of the Texas Legislature who supported Gov. James V. Aldred in the campaign against pari-mutuel betting have performed the duty of statesmen by putting an end to a law that bargained away the public morals.

The Bloomfield mill, a landmark of 45 years ago, was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

Stanton band, organized July 1, 1927, by James Johnson plays its anniversary concert this Thursday evening.

Darrell Coburn, 37, resident of Laurel and Allen for some years died in California where he went for his health.

Where the Money Goes: Council Bluffs Nonpareil, the George F. Baker estate amounted to eighty million dollars. This man died recently. The government will take sixty millions of this sum. Heirs will get twenty millions and the government will take slices from these shares.

Fine business! So the man in the street will say on first thought. If he takes a little time to reflect he may find himself in doubt. There need be no concern about Baker. He is out of the picture. There need be no concern about his heirs. They will have sufficient to keep the wolves of hunger from their doors.

What will the government do with this money? Distribute it among the people? If so, how? Will anybody get a dollar of this money without working for it? If so how will they get it?

What would the heirs who would have received this money if the government had not taken it done with it when it came into their possession? They would not have buried it. It would have remained in existence among the people. It might easily have been more valuable to the people as a whole if the government had not decided to confiscate it.

The government gets very little from the Rockefeller estate. John D. beat them to it. He gave it away while he lived. Set it to working for human welfare.

There are many angles to these questions—the distribution of accumulated wealth. Heretofore we have permitted those who gathered fortunes to distribute them by wills. Death is a never failing distributor. But some of our people think this work can be done better by the government. We are due for a tryout of his method from now on for a long time at least.

Faith That Wins

York Republican: Perhaps without knowing it, Mrs. Lizzie Wirt, in her pioneer story in this week's Republican has written an epic on faith that should inspire anyone who thoughtfully reads it. In 1874 the grasshoppers had eaten everything her father had planted, except wheat in the shock and a few potato vines.

"Everybody looked blue," writes Mrs. Wirt. "But father and mother mustered all the faith they had, and decided to stay."

If you can get a picture of the barren prairie of 1874, inhabited by a few settlers who lived in dugouts or soddies, their crops eaten up by a grasshopper invasion, with seemingly nothing but fresh sacrifices and a possible starvation ahead; and then add to that the sight of many neighbor families giving up the fight and starting east in their covered wagons where there was better shelter and food and comfort—then you understand what it took for Mr. and Mrs. Wirt to muster their faith and decide to stick.

Everyone of us who enjoys the bounty this section now bestows on its inhabitants can thank God for the faith of the Wirts and others of their breed who "mustered all their faith" and "decided to stay." The well tilled lands of York and surrounding counties, the comfortable homes, the well supplied school houses and the thickly sown churches, vital as they are, are merely the effects of something and that something is the faith and courage of the pioneers whom neither blizzards, drought nor grasshoppers could scare away.

When everything of their meagre material store seemed gone, the more resolute called on an undiminished store of faith and stayed onto build the present fortunes of the country.

There is something ill fortune and disaster cannot defeat. It is a courageous spirit. It possesses resources and reinforcements that cannot be seen with material eyes. It nurtures hopes and foresees results that are invisible to those of lesser faith. And in spite of everything adversity may pile in their path they keep on their determined way, because they know these things, too, shall pass away.

Recognition for Agriculture

Omaha Journal-Stockman: The farmer, says an eastern story, is the man of the hour just now, for on him and his improved buying power rests the hope for further recovery in the demand for industrial goods. More than that, the increased crops which are in prospect for this year hold the promise of greater opportunity for employment in the processing, transportation and distribution of agricultural products.

As far as it goes, the story is correct. But it might go even farther and say that the farmer has been the man of the hour for the past several years. This prominence first came when depression-shrunk buying power in the farming areas brought to the attention of the nation the need of agriculture for better prices and wider outlets for its goods.

Then came the drought, to advertise further the importance of the farmer in the national scheme. And so well has this been ingrained that business men, here in middle western towns and cities, can get as excited over a good rain nowadays as any overall clad son of the soil, though they may never have had a direct financial interest in a field of corn or wheat in their whole lives.

Like wars, droughts and depressions may be gradually forgotten after their last influence has passed. But for a few years, at least, farmers need have no fear that their importance in the national economic scheme will suffer for any lack of recognition. The only danger of this situation is that they may be smothered with too much kindness in the way of the imposition of a program of regulation and regimentation that will be hard to get rid of after the excuse for it has passed.

California Is Interesting To Wayne Student

"The weather is grand and this is marvelous country but I still like Nebraska," writes Miss A. W. Gunderslev, who is attending the University of Southern California in Los Angeles this summer, in a letter to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Giese.
 "We saw the states exposition building and the rose garden so beautiful with rows and rows of multi-colored roses and in the center a lily pool. Outstanding in the building is a model Boulder dam with running water, etc. In the states building one also finds different kinds of fruits, peaches as large as grapefruit and other fruits in large quantities. Different kinds of corn are found in a cave, and grains, trees, and woodwork are on display just like our fair. We also looked over the campus which has a large stadium and a library that is too beautiful to describe.
 "Saturday morning we went down to a little Spanish-Mexican section called Olvera street. This is the oldest thoroughfare in Los Angeles. It is only one block long and too narrow for cars to drive through. It is lined with homes of all sorts of little pottery stands on either side. We also visited the mission church, 'Our Lady Queen of Angels,' the oldest in the city. We ate lunch at the Spanish street cafe where we had a regular Mexican meal. Everything was highly seasoned but we got quite a thrill out of it. I'm thankful I don't eat every meal like that though.
 "That evening we went to the show and saw 'Wake Up and Live and A Star Is Born.'
 "Sunday's travels resulted from going to Olvera street. Realtor companies sponsor free tours of the city and a woman handed me a ticket for Sunday for LaVerne and me. They came for us Sunday morning about 10 and brought us back about 6 and we really saw a lot. We visited Toluca lake district, Wilshire, Hollywood, Glendale and parts of Los Angeles general city district. We saw the homes of Richard Arlen, Slim Summerville, Guy Kibbee, Lupe Velez, Bing Crosby, Helen Twelvetrees who has 12 little rose trees leading to her front door, Kay Francis, Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler and Al Jolson, Jim Jeffries, Claudette Colbert, Mary Brian, Roy Disney and others. We saw Warner brothers studios which cover 500 acres, Universal studio, Sid Grauman's Chinese theatre, Union airport, Roscoe Turner's flying lion and Forest Lawn cemetery, also 'Wet Kirt of the Heather' and 'Church of the Flowers.' Jean Harlow was buried from the former and in Forest Lawn cemetery we visited the mausoleum where she, Rudolph Valentino, Russ Columbo and other notables are buried. This cemetery is more beautiful than one can imagine. The little churches are exquisite."

Express Opinions On Proposal Made To Purchase Park

The purchase of the 35 acres of land south of town, to be used as a city park has met with considerable approval by citizens of Wayne. Ed. Perry, owner of the property, has offered to sell it to the city for $2,500.

Prof. K. N. Parke, commander of the American Legion and very active in boy scout work, is heartily in favor of the purchase of the land by the city. "There is a need for such a park in Wayne," he commented. "At the present time, there is no place where one can go and cook a picnic meal. It would be well patronized, not only by Wayne people but also by those from surrounding territory, and would ultimately bring trade to this community."
 From the scouting viewpoint, Prof. Parke again feels that such a park with the facilities such as this one provides would be ideal for camping purposes.
 At a recent American Legion meeting, a resolution was passed favoring the purchase of the land for park purposes and the men informed the council of their action.
 Prof. A. F. Gulliver, scoutmaster of the troop at the training school, also sees many advantages in such a park in Wayne. The park is laid out so it is suitable for camping grounds and all camping needs are adequately met.
 Mrs. E. J. Huntmer, president of the Woman's club, is another who favors such a proposal.
 Rev. L. W. Gramly in Kiwanis meeting Monday expressed a desire for Wayne taxpayers to purchase this land believing that such a park would be good for the community. He used Blair as an example of a town with a municipal swimming pool. This pool has been operated in Blair for four years and has proved a wonderful thing for the community. In Blair the park has become a community center for band concerts and the like and is a nice playground for children. Season tickets for children are sold at $2.00 and organizations endeavor to provide means for children to earn them. Several week-day mornings children are allowed to swim free. The speaker commented that Wayne has the same opportunity for such a park and with the present layout could begin at a much lower cost.
 G. B. Sanberg is 100 percent in favor of the city purchasing the park and operating the swimming pool.

Race Meet Plans Are Finished Here

Expect Many Thoroughbreds To Enter Third Annual Event In Wayne.

Preparations are under way for the third annual race meet which will be held at Wayne fair grounds July 21, 22, 23. Many thoroughbreds now racing at the Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha are expected to compete on the Wayne track which horsemen pronounce the best half mile track in the state.

Arthur Cullen, secretary of the state racing commission, will supervise the meet personally. Every horse must be a registered thoroughbred known to him. Every owner, trainer and jockey must secure license from him for an offender of rules can be barred from further racing in the state.

Pari-mutuel betting is checked by Mr. Cullen. The local association acts as stake holder for those who bet. For this service the association is allowed to keep 10 percent of each bet. This 10 percent, together with the gate receipts, provides the money for paying the purses and expenses. The public gets back 10 percent. Mr. Cullen checks the proceeds of each race. If any money is left after the purses and expenses are paid, it is turned over to the local fair association to be spent for improvements at the grounds.

The Wayne county association consists of 75 business men and farmers who are providing racing of thoroughbreds for those who like this sport. The men who bring their horses are interested in the purses and in raising race horses that will sell at a profit.

Six races are planned each afternoon, these to start at 4 o'clock. Wayne Municipal band will furnish music.

$6,000 Fire Damage On Bloomfield Farm

Bloomfield, Neb., June 29 — A fire destroyed $6,000 worth of property on the John Erbst farm two miles south of here about 11:30 o'clock Sunday night, the blaze apparently being due spontaneous combustion in alfalfa hay in the barn.

The barn, machine shed, chicken house and double corchick burned to the ground. Two horses and a colt were burned to death, and another horse was so badly burned it had to be killed. A number of chickens died, and some machinery was burned.

The Erbst family was unaware of the blaze until George Soll, farmer living three miles north of Bloomfield, who had been to Norfolk, saw it while returning home. Bloomfield firemen saved the granary and house. The loss was covered by insurance. The property was owned by Mrs. H. Rohlfis, Bloomfield.

gown of blue Bernberg chiffon over blue taffeta. The gowns had full skirts and high shirred necklines. The shoulder corsage and belt were pink. Each carried a hand bouquet of white daisies, blue delphinium, pink snapdragons, fern and baby-breath. They wore costume bracelets and carried pink lace kerchiefs. Their slippers were white.

Little Junior Mueller, brother of the bridegroom, followed the bridesmaid. In white suit and slippers he carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Miss Lois Roggenbach, maid of honor for her sister, entered next. She wore pink Bernberg chiffon over pink taffeta. Her gown was formal with full skirt and peplum at the waist and with shirred neckline trimmed with grosgrain pink bow at the front. She had a costume bracelet and blue kerchief. Her slippers were white. Miss Roggenbach carried pink roses, white sweetpeas, fern and baby-breath.

Little Betty Mueller, sister of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. She was dressed in white organdy and white slippers and carried an arm bouquet of blue, pink and white sweetpeas, fern and baby-breath.

The bride entered with her father. Miss Roggenbach wore white satin gown. The linen lace which fashioned the square neckline yoke also extended over the shoulders into the sleeves which were full above and fitted below the elbow, ending in a point at the wrist. The collar was of lace and satin roses trimmed the front neckline. The skirt was in princess style with slight train. The bride's veil was long and edged with lace. It formed a halo style cap. Her slippers were white. Her bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses, white sweetpeas, fern and baby-breath. For something old she carried the kerchief which her mother had at her wedding; for something borrowed she wore another's pearls; and for something blue she wore a blue brooch.

Mr. Mueller and his brother Edgar Muller of Seward, who served as best men, wore dark suits with white rose boutonnières. They and Rev. E. J. Moede, who performed the single ring service, entered from the vestry and met the bridal party at the altar.

The congregation sang "O Bless the House Where'er Befall" before the service. After the ceremony Mr. Schmidt played "Walk With Jesus" for the recessional.

About 100 relatives and friends were guests at the reception at the Roggenbach home which was decorated with flowers. Tables at which guests were served three-course wedding dinner were attractive with blue candles and pink placecard favors. Mrs. Ernest Brundick, Miss Twila Bergt, Miss Mabel Schroeder, Miss Frieda Brundick, Miss Verba Hoffman and Miss Elsie Luken, who served, wore white dresses and slippers and white aprons trimmed in pink and blue.

Besides those mentioned, guests from a distance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Mueller and family of Seward, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mueller and James, and Hugo Mueller of Potter, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hilpert of Seward, Melvin Mangels of Frohn, Mo. Mrs. Mueller has always lived in Altona vicinity where she has many friends. Mr. Mueller, who was graduated from Concordia State Teachers college in 1934, taught at Altona one year. For the past two years he has taught in St. John's Lutheran school in Salt Lake, where he and his bride will make their home the last of July. Enroute there they will visit relatives at Sidney and Potter and friends at Denver.

Trip To West Is Of Much Interest To Young Women

A three weeks' vacation in Colorado, Utah and California was interesting to Miss Celja Richards and Miss Evelyn Larson, who traveled with Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Richards of Newcastle, and arrived home Saturday.

In Greeley, Colo., the Nebraska folks visited the state teachers college and were particularly impressed by the beauty of the city. Each citizen is required to keep his lawn cared for and certain days are set aside each week by the city when the lawns are to be watered. While there they climbed a tower which overlooks the city and from which they could see Long's peak.

From Greeley the party traveled to Laramie, Wyo., and visited the university which was celebrating its 50th anniversary. They saw Miss Glennie Bacon, former principal in Wayne, who sent greeting to friends.

Salt Lake City, the home of the Mormons, is very beautiful. Particularly impressive to the travelers was the organ recital held in the Mormon temple. The temple is an unusual building surrounded by two walls about a foot and a half apart. In visiting the temple they were fortunate in being able to sit quite far forward and to look up into the large choir pit.

From Salt Lake City south through the fruit country of Utah into the beautiful Bryce canyon with its colorful red rocks proved interesting. The travelers reached the Grand canyon at sunset. That time of day, according to the girls, gives the canyon much greater depth and more beauty than at any other time. To enter the north rim of the canyon the group traveled through the Caibab National forest. Pine trees mingled with white birch present a very refined aspect in a forest.

The Zion National park with its immense amount of red rock was also a beauty spot on the trip. The group traveled through a mile of tunnel which had six openings in which one could look down into the canyon.

Farther south to Las Vegas, Nev., and Boulder dam traveled the group. In commenting on Boulder dam, Miss Larsen remarked that it is so immense that it seems impossible that it could be man-made. They visited the dam at night in order to see the lights which are beautiful when one can look down on them from a high peak.

In California the Nebraskans visited the L. E. Panabakers in Barstow, Calif. Of particular interest is Catalina island. Miss Richards and Miss Larsen went to the island by boat and returned by sea plane. The trip by boat takes 2 hours and 10 minutes and the plane, 20 minutes. Cars are noticeably absent on the island and the most popular daytime attire is beach costume.

Huntington library and museum, according to the Wayne girls, is a beautiful place. The original painting of "Blue Boy" is placed there and one picture of Christ which was painted in 1399. Much old French furniture is among the collection. There is also an eight-acre cactus garden with 20,000 different cactus specimens. The entire grounds cover 270 acres.

The group also visited in San Francisco and Oakland and crossed the beautiful Oakland-Frisco bridge twice and over the bay by ferry.

On the return trip the Nebraskans traveled over the Teton pass into Yellowstone park. The pass is difficult to travel as it is very steep and cars often have to stop to cool the engine. They also visited in the Jackson hole country which is typically cowboy. It is in direct contrast to the refined Caibab forest. Jackson, Wyo., is an interesting community and particularly outstanding were the board walks and many cowboy boots.

City Officials Meet In Wayne

of less than 2,500 must be approved by the state department of roads and irrigation. Filling stations must be at least 10 feet from the right-of-way. He told that work is nearing completion on a comprehensive map which will show the kinds of highways in each county of Nebraska.

G. Don Larson of Chicago, in speaking on sources for additional revenue and the value of system advised good judgment in administration. Good bookkeeping is an aid to each city for this system gives a financial picture of the city at all times. He advised simple records with an accounting of all resources and expenses. The ideal plan is to have two sets of books, one in charge of the clerk and one in charge of the treasurer, and checking these against each other. He advised auditing accounts once or twice a year with a public report given. Each person in office should want his accounts checked. Mr. Carter mentioned that Norfolk publishes regularly a report showing the city's income, expenses and debts. Taxpayers have right to this information, it was pointed out.

The cost of system is important and is not costly in city budgets, began C. E. Beals of Hastings, executive secretary of the league. Receipts should be issued in duplicate, not with stubs, he advised. All receipts should come from only one source. Citizens will not usually object if they know that officials are giving an honest accounting of expenditures. He advised against depending much on PWA for funds, for these are dwindling. Mr. Bealer read a list of limits for city tax levies as follows: General fund, 5 mills; roads, 1.7; parks, 1; sewer maintenance, 4; auditorium maintenance, 1; fire hydrants, .6; fire maintenance, 4; cemetery, 1; aviation field, 2; amusement, 1; publicity, 1; special assessment refunds, 3; public highways outside city, .8; ice plant bonds, .6; library, 1.5. No limit is placed on levies for street lights, water, water extension, bonds of all kinds.

A discussion of recent legislation closed the day.

Railway Hearing Is Held Monday

Nebraska lines showed a deficit of $537,345, this including a loss of $124,002 on total income and $413,343 on interest on funded debt. A similar report for the company's whole system showed a deficit of $2,033,333.40 for 1936 and $1,649,836.77 for the five months ending May 31, 1937.

Statement of out-of-pocket costs of service on the trains which the company asks to discontinue through Omaha and Norfolk shows 50.6¢ per mile for motor train and 57.5¢ per mile for steam train. Figuring 56,317 miles for the motor train, the cost is $28,508.42, and $1,715 miles for the steam train amounts to $18,236.13, a total of $46,744.55 for 1936. Revenues from these trains for the year ending December 31, 1936, amounted to $37,139.40, which included $11,860.48 from passenger income, $831.33 from milk, $18,969.04 from mail, $5,418.24 from express and $60.31 from baggage, etc.

As the train income for 1936 was $37,139.40 and costs were $46,744.55, the year's loss on this service was $9,605.15.

Most towns along the Omaha-Norfolk line and on branches out of Wakefield and Wayne sent delegations to protest taking the train off. Disrupted mail and passenger service were given as the chief objections. One grocer explained that he sells some items below cost so as to gain on other grocery trade, and he feels that the railroad should do the same, operate some lines at a loss to gain other trade. It was also objected that the railroad would receive more patronage if service were improved. If accommodations are cut down from the present it was argued that train service will suffer more, and eventually the lines will be used so little that trains on the lines will all be discontinued.

Bright Spots in the Outlook.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: Unless something intervenes, this coming crop year promises to be one of the best from the standpoint of total income that farmers and livestock producers in the United States have had in a long time. Many factors point in this direction.

First among them is the generally healthy business outlook. Despite the prevalence of strikes in recent months, payroll totals have remained at the best levels in years. Automotive manufacture, steel production, farm implements, general building, transportation, air conditioning, and production of electricity and electrical equipment are some of the lines that have especially bright prospects.

Prospects of larger harvests of field crops also are encouraging from most angles. Indications are that nearly the whole country will share in them, which means that farmers as a class will all have products from which to derive an income for the purchase of the things they need. Markets also promise to be satisfactory, as it will take more than one good crop to overcome all of the bullish influence of existing shortages in prices. Furthermore, reasonable reductions in feed costs will be to the advantage of live stock producers.

Another helpful angle of increased crops will be their stimulating effect on transportation and industry. One of the sore spots of recent years has been that while commodity prices were advancing production shortages have limited the number of men that could be employed in such lines as processing, transportation and distribution. A good crop should do a lot toward relieving unemployment. All in all the outlook, barring labor strife and the possible unfavorable effect of continued unbalanced budgets and further increases in public indebtedness, is mighty hopeful.

The President's Picnic.

Omaha World-Herald: A bit of cheery news comes from Washington. Mr. Roosevelt is going to give a stag party, a sort of three-day picnic, on an isolated island in Chesapeake bay, for the democratic members of congress. The purpose, it appears, is to afford members of the legislative branch of the government an opportunity to become acquainted with the president.

Surely a happy thought. It appears, rather surprisingly, that the White house accommodations are so limited, and the president is so busy, that the chief executive and the democratic lawmakers haven't been able to meet each other—that the president "has been aloof," as Steve Early, one of his secretaries, puts it. And that, though it may be unavoidable, really isn't so good. These two great co-ordinate branches should be acquainted as well as co-ordinate, and independent. It is when men know each other least that misunderstandings become easiest, that differences become set. What is needed is Woodrow Wilson's "meeting of minds." It is immensely better than the brusque transmission of orders.

And so for three days the president will give a get-acquainted party—that is, to democrats of all varieties. The republicans don't count. There are few of them, anyhow, mostly dormant and with a lost and lonely feeling that makes them a force hardly to be reckoned with.

But the democrats—they may talk over with the president "any matter or question they desire," says Early. It may be assumed that, as a polite and gracious host, Mr. Roosevelt will not insist on doing all the talking; that he will listen as well; that views and conflicting opinions may be freely exchanged and compared.

It is too bad that government has to adjourn to an island in the sea for such a purpose. Perhaps there should be a bigger and better White house, and the five or seven assistant presidents Mr. Roosevelt is asking for, so that contacts can be more readily established at the seat of government. That really is what the seat is for.

Meanwhile it is good that "the swanky Jefferson Island Sports club" is available. It isn't sufficiently commodious to take care of one great big picnic at one time, with all the congressional democrats assembled at once. But they can come in relays and enjoy, anyhow, a pleasant outing. Of course, even thus divided the opportunities for swapping views will be limited. If every member were to get his equal share of the president's time and attention, it would be a matter of possibly five minutes. Which, anyone will concede, is none too long a period in which to discuss and agree upon problems of grave moment.

But while one is conferring, the rest of the boys can be pitching horseshoes, or playing penny ante, or devouring sandwiches and pickles washed down with sarsaparilla or whatever, enjoying a good old-fashioned picnic holiday. Maybe Carter Glass will be there to visit with Hopkins, and Ed Burke to talk over patronage matters with Jim Farley. There really should be a plenty of diversion.

And on Jefferson Island! The name is promising. Who can doubt that on an island named occasion the great father of the party that still bears his name will be hovering in spirit over the assemblage? And who can question but the ideals of that mighty sage of an early day are something that would do his party and his country some good should they, by some blessed miracle, be revived? Mr. Roosevelt used to think well of Thomas Jefferson. So used nearly all other democrats. Maybe some day soon they will again. Then there will be no further occasion for worry about the future of our democracy. May the president's picnic speed the day!

Reverence for America.

Council Bluffs Nonpareil: Some years ago Walgreen, chain drug store operator, took a niece whom he was educating, from Chicago university because he discovered she was becoming insidiously infected by communistic doctrines. Now Mr. Walgreen has made a gift to this institution of $550,000. The intent in this contribution is to establish a department for the study of American institutions.

This move is belated. It should have been inaugurated some years ago. The greatest need in our land today is a widespread knowledge among our own people of our government, our constitution, our fundamental principles and our achievements made under these principles. Millions of our people do not know about other countries. They see what they conceive to be grievous faults in America. They see ignorance, crime, poverty, inequality, great wealth, enormous incomes, unemployment and so forth. They do not see that conditions in most other countries are worse in many respects than they are in America.

The inequalities which abound in this country and all others have produced a school of thinkers who believe that under what they conceive to be a proper system of government an approximate equality can be established under law. Some of these thinkers who generally classify themselves "advanced" advocate war upon successful people in various forms. The Soviets in Russia applied these theories when they gained control. The theory failed to work satisfactorily. The rulers in charge shifted to a semi-capitalistic basis and now the theoretical communists led by Trotsky are fomenting another revolution. They say Stalin and his crowd are traitors to communism.

Hitler and Mussolini represent other elements which seek to cure inequalities among people. We need laws to curb avarice and greed. We need laws to aid those who for various reasons are unable to take good care of themselves. But we should burn no barns to kill rats which find lodgment in their cracks and crevices. We should not kill geese that lay golden eggs. We should not destroy liberty and opportunity for all the children born under our flag. We should not nurse hatred of those who succeed among those who fail in some measure.

What have we achieved in America? Measure our per capita wealth with that of all other nations of people. Compare our wage scales with those of all other countries in the world. Compare our standard of living with standards of other peoples. Take account of our consumption of luxuries and necessities. With less than 7 per cent of the earth's population we are using one-third of the railways in the world, one-fourth of the annual output of sugar, 52 per cent of the telephones, 70 per cent of the motor vehicles, 70 per cent of the rubber, 70 per cent of the gasoline, 70 per cent of the silk, 70 per cent of the coffee. And we have 70 per cent of the life insurance in force on the whole earth.

By all means let reverence for America, her constitution and her fundamental principles be taught in our schools and colleges. Let deluded communistic professors present their theories. Give them a hearing. Guarantee to them their inalienable rights under the constitution to free speech and the right to be heard in class rooms, if the press and on lyceum platforms. But nowhere let them get by without equally adequate presentation of genuine Americanism.

Walgreen seems to have started something. He proposes as an antidote to subversive communistic teaching a remedy which will be effective. Kill communism with the truth. This is his idea.

Distribute Bait In Wayne County

Request Made For Additional Amount For Poisoning Of Grasshoppers.

A second allotment of federal bait for destroying grasshoppers was distributed in Wayne county June 17. This was only half of the first amount and, as the demand for bait increased, all those who wished bait did not receive their quota.

Three carloads of sawdust, one carload of bran and 1,000 gallons of poison have been mixed and distributed. The weather following the mixing days has not been very good for distribution of bait, but in most cases kills have been satisfactory. Bait should be spread in the morning of a bright day and should be held until such weather. Holding the bait a few days does not deteriorate its effectiveness. Actual results of kills are often mistaken because live hoppers eat the dead ones and ants and beetles carry dead ones away. Fields that were heavily infested have very few hoppers after poisoning.

Request for an additional two car loads of bait materials has been made and it is expected the materials will come here this week. These will be mixed and distributed in each precinct and notices of the mixing time will be sent.

Too Liberal With Philippine Commissioner. The War Department won in the House again on Tuesday and passed without a record vote, another appropriation amounting to nearly two hundred million dollars, making the total apportionment this session of Congress about six hundred million dollars. A fight was made against some of the useless expenditures in these war department appropriation bills.

One fight was directed against the $152,000 item for the High Commissioner to the Philippine Islands and the sum was cut down to twelve hundred dollars. People at home who were unable to get a loan for feed and seed should know that the Government is not so stingy when it comes to throwing these High Commissioners a chance to be toasted first. This High Commissioner gets a salary of eighteen thousand dollars a year. He also gets three automobiles and three chauffeurs and sixty other employees. Besides all that Uncle Sam gives him ten thousand dollars a year to entertain his friends, etc. It was mostly on the ten thousand dollar "entertainment" expense the fight centered. And after all the fight, the House cut the entertainment amount down to seventy-eight hundred dollars. Those fighting against all of these lavish expenditures told the House that even the ambassador to London gets only $4,800 for entertainment. With people out of jobs and some claiming to be without food, the opposition feels that Uncle Sam is not helping to cut down useless expenditures when he allows his hired men to spend thousands of dollars of taxpayer's money to entertain. Especially it is felt unjust when those particular employees draw $18,000 a year and expenses.

St. Louis Unleashes On Taxpayers. The relief fund was robbed of about seven million dollars which will grow to about twenty-two million dollars in what is believed to have been a great real estate racket in St. Louis. Some members of the House have told in the floor that when St. Louis real estate sharks wanted to get rid of their old slum district they started the "Thomas Jefferson Memorial" campaign. They tried to get the money from a direct appropriation in the House and that was defeated. Then they worked the plan through a bond issue in St. Louis through which the town people would pay a third and Uncle Sam take the rest of the money from relief funds on the grounds of re-employment. The result is a charge of "stuffed ballot box" through which the bond issue won and leaves Uncle Sam owning thirty seven blocks of old buildings between the two bridges in St. Louis. Uncle Sam will have to keep up the grounds forever at taxpayer's expense.

In other words the St. Louis real estate sharks "sold" the government these thirty-seven blocks of property on which the Jefferson memorial is to be built. It will be government property and taken care of at government expense. The total cost will be thirty million dollars. Through the alleged fraudulent bond issue St. Louis pays very little while the taxpayers of the nation will dig up around twenty-two and half million dollars. The country is to hear much more about this Memorial. A movement has been started here to make some sort of investigation.

Greatest Crops. A letter from a close personal friend of this congressional office came from Boone county the other day and it is attracting unusual attention among farm congressmen. The letter in part reads as follows: Dear Congressman:

We received your recent letter asking how conditions are down on the farm. Your letter found us pretty busy enjoying our thistle salad. But we are not complaining. That is good enough for a man who insists on staying on the farm under these conditions. We have three of the greatest crops ever produced in Boone county—thistles, cut worms and grasshoppers. And if we get some of that poisoned bran by Dec. 25th we are just going to raise Hades with the hoppers. I understand that is the best time to kill them because there won't be so much other stuff for them to eat.

P. S. — Don't worry about us folks out here—we haven't got anything left to lose. Letters continue to reach the congressional office regarding the grasshopper damage in various parts of the third district. Insufficient poison bran has been received to do much good. This complaint also comes from the vicinity of Howells.

Our Gold Policy Enriches Foreigner. The government's gold buying program is apparently attracting attention at home. Many letters are being received asking just how much gold and silver metal we have buried and why long we are purchasing it and how long we will continue to buy it. The answer to that is we, on June 11 had origin of the term Dixie as applied to the southern part of the United States—New Orleans banks in the early 19th century printed ten-dollar bills in English on one side and in French on the other. "Dix" is the French word for "ten."

had to borrow with tax exempt interest bearing bonds. It is impossible for us to determine how much gold you will ship to us; therefore we do not know how many dollars we shall have to borrow with which to pay you. These borrowings being a part of our federal budget, we thus are subjected to your "gold offerings." We are at your mercy and your ability and willingness to offer gold. Unless we change our policy or until we make a change you can continue to offer gold and we must pay even if you mail and send us another 12 billion dollars worth. Strange how these monetary policies get us all mixed up with other countries and result in imposing unbearable tax and interest burdens upon our people. This time we find ourselves worshipping the "golden calf" but in a new way. It has enriched South Africa about $1,600,000,000. The President announces our "gold policy" is to be continued. When and how the budget to be balanced?

We are paying $35.00 per ounce for the gold and most of it is bought from Russia and Great Britain. Russians are minting around seven billion dollars worth of it a year and expect to expand the mining in the next five years until the output from Russia will be about twelve million ounces. It is claimed that Russia can produce it for around three dollars an ounce. We pay for it in government securities or regular banknotes. Mines in Canada but more especially in South Africa are expanding and showing large profits.

Many members have taken the floor recently urging the administration to stop buying gold and giving the foreigners these enormous profits. We borrow money with tax free securities to buy this gold and silver. A member of the House committee on banking and currency was asked by this congressional office today to explain his views of the gold buying business. His answer to that question follows: "It is most interesting to observe how ardently the 'gold changers' of the world have acquired so much power over the federal budget of the United States. We establish a new gold policy which in simple terms says to the entire golding holding world, (whether in form of ore, gold utensils or actual hoarded gold), the United State will take all the gold you have to offer at $35.00 per ounce. We name the price. You name the amount as when and if you make the tender or shipment. We do not have the money in hand with which to offer to pay you for the gold you offer. Whatever it amounts to, we shall have to borrow from our people the dollar exchange to hand to you for the gold you deliver to us. Since last December 22, 1936, we have thus purchased (up to June 8, 1937) $878,001,200.77. For this we have $12,143,465,758.08 worth of gold and $1,338,890,170.06 worth of silver stored away. The treasury department tells us we "have" to keep buying the gold and silver as long as it is offered to us. No real answer is given why we are buying it except that it means a long range world-peace program and at present does not result in stabilizing our currency. All of the metal is obligated for outstanding notes and certificates with the exception of about seven billion dollars.

Southern France Is Picturesque According To Margaret Schemel

Traveling in southern France, Miss Margaret Schemel and her party, when on a spring tour, drove through marshes to Arles. They stopped at the best looking building of the not-to-prosperous looking community made up of white-shuttered buildings that nearly all seemed to have come from the time of the Romans. "We were put up at the one-story front hotel, 'Julius Cesar,' and upon entering I was sorry I'd ever hesitated for a moment for there, in the most perfect Provencal setting, is a first class hotel. The front is low but rises onto a court which is surrounded on the other three sides by a two-story building built on the slope of a hill. It is in fact a former monastery and provides the sleeping quarters of the hotel. The rooms, although not large, are comfortable and each is provided with separate wash room. Mine was painted in dove grey with panels of pink chintz which was repeated on the bed. To go back to the front, one entered a huge salon that is furnished with the ladder-back walnut chairs with rush bottoms, or chintz covered ruffled edged cushions, characteristic of the Provence, together with the refractory type of table. There were a number of fireplaces with copper and brass ornaments, cases displaying the Provencal crafts, lovely vases with huge bouquets of flowers. The dinner was very good. Our dinners at noon were almost as complete as those in the evening except that they lacked the sweet.

"At 2 we went out to see the city with Mr. Gallia as guide. The hotel is built next to an old Roman temple the facade of which, still standing, was evidently incorporated into the monastery. Across the street and into a lovely park and we were among the almost complete ruins of another theatre. Only one blackish marble column testifies to its having been the site of the stage; it is all too much ruined to be of use as is the adjacent amphitheatre. We moved around, through and past streets lined with houses that were evidently built in many cases with the addition of stone from these heaps of ruins. All is very white and tropical in appearance. We pay an entrance fee and enter into the well-preserved amphitheatre where the numbers of the seats bear witness to its present use. It is elliptical in shape. The stone tiers on the shady side have wooden seats upon them. It is not so large as the amphitheatre at Nimes; I believe it seats 25,000. I found a bill announcing an approaching bullfight. Here too they are not so professional in these sports as they are in Spain. Back through the greatest maze of crazy turning narrow streets that I have ever seen. We thought of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson but could see nothing of the famous refuge. By night we had reached Nice. There thousands and thousands of lights, outlined by a horseshoe shape, told us the shape of the bay."

LIVING UP TO MY AD
Giving you tops in Mileage

I know the trouble. So many oil ads yell mileage, that you can't tell one way or another. I don't want my own ads to be in that class, so I'd like you to know all I'm staking, when I personally recommend Conoco Germ Processed oil to you. In my case, you see, I'm the owner of my business. And there's nothing makes repeat customers for me like my Germ Processed oil. . . . or I ought to say, the long mileage it gives you. The patent Germ Process makes this oil get fastened real firm to the bearings and cylinders and other parts—as if they'd been built with an actual plating of oil that can't separate. . . . can't thin out and burn right up. Neither is it going to run down every time you stop. Then you can't make any "dry starts" with Oil-Plating, and right there is where engineers say you will end a good half of all the wear you used to get in Summer. The less wear, the less oil your engine eats. You'll get on to this yourself, from your cool quiet Oil-Plated engine. And that's how I make another good friend for my Conoco Germ Processed oil.
