Responsibility on Parents. Boake Carter, columnist and radio commentator, is shocked over the survey which shows an increased percent of women students in New York colleges who have developed habits of drinking hard liquor.

APPREHENSIVE OF CITY PARK MISUSE IS NO OBJECTION

Fear that the proposed new municipal park might be misused could be offered as an objection to any public improvement. The voice of citizens, made effective through chosen representatives, can determine how public property shall be managed and safeguarded. Selfish motives in conflict with the public welfare, can be defeated. Progressive steps often invite abuse of privileges, but do not justify standing still and doing nothing.

HERALD IN HANDS OF PRESENT OWNER DURING 27 YEARS

We are reminded that the Herald came under its present ownership twenty-seven years ago this week. Seven years before, we bought the Herald, and three years later went to Beatrice. After four years there, we returned to Wayne and repossessed this newspaper. Prior to moving to the Pacific coast thirty-eight years ago we had Wayne in mind, and we had it in mind in Oregon as a desirable destination if we ever returned to Nebraska. Wayne appeals, and once it gets into one's blood, it sticks. Wayne has made many changes in twenty-seven years. In the center of a rich agricultural area and with a promising state school, it was amply warranted in steaming ahead. Paving of most streets and numerous new buildings and many others modernized reflected the progressive spirit of the community.

The Herald plant has been completely changed in twenty-seven years. Not one machine or other equipment of the old days survives. Everything to facilitate production has been added. The force has been enlarged from two to eight, and wages have been made consistent with results. Like the common experience, the sunshine has sometimes been darkened by shadows, but the determination to serve better and better—often an uphill task—has won gratifying rewards.

Storm Rages Through Carroll Area Thursday

Winside Leading Baseball League Wind Demolishes Buildings In Carroll Vicinity On Thursday.

Heavy rain clouds coming from the northwest last Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock carried wind and hail that damaged crops and property in some sections of northeast Nebraska. The storm began its fury at Belden and then toward Wayne, the greatest loss being between Belden and Carroll. The path of the storm measures about seven miles wide and about 11 miles long. The area of greatest damage is about two miles wide and extending between Belden and Carroll. The heavy rains accompanying the storm brought beneficial moisture to this area which has the most promising crop prospects in some years.

The storm began its furious attack at Belden where in 40 minutes a 5-inch cloudburst, driven by hail and wind, riddled crops and carried them away in flood water that swelled creeks to a half mile in width. Four bridges in Belden were washed away, and many smaller buildings destroyed. A number of women and children climbed trees at Belden to escape flood waters which filled basements, beautiful and threatened to rise. Beautiful tall corn in Belden area was reduced to stubble, and gardens were ruined.

Rainfall at Carroll is also estimated at 5 inches, though the gauge there was able to register only 1.31. Wind in that vicinity gained the momentum of a twister and tore down several pieces of property. The community hall and a vacant theatre, lately used for a hatchery, collapsed. The north wing of the Fullerton Lumber company building on north Main street disappeared and the rest of the building was badly torn. The north and east sides were opened, and the front part was leaning.

Final Play-Off Scheduled To Start Soon To Pick Champion Team. Winside still leads the Big Eight baseball league with a record of 10 wins and 3 losses. Other teams have records as follows: Laurel, won 8, lost 3; Hoskins, won 7, lost 5; Allen, won 7, lost 5; Wayne, won 6, lost 6; Randolph, won 5, lost 6; Pilger, won 3, lost 8; Wakefield, won 1, lost 11.

In Sunday's games Wayne won from Winside by 9 to 5; Hoskins defeated Allen by 8 to 6; Laurel won from Wakefield by 9 to 0; and Randolph won from Pilger by 12 to 11.

Next Sunday Pilger plays at Winside, Laurel at Hoskins, Allen at Wayne and Randolph at Wakefield. The game at Wayne will start a little later on account of the Grace festival.

All hold-over games are to be played August 15. The play-off starts August 22. Four leading teams will play the first with the fourth, and second with the third. The winners then meet to determine championship of the league.

Funeral Services Are Held In West. Herman Elvers Passes Away With Heart Trouble At Hayward Home.

The last service was at the Chapel of Chimes crematory in Oakland while soft music was played on the organ, rose petals were strewn on the casket and the poem, "It Is Not Death to Die," was read. The flower-filled chapel bore testimony of the esteem of many friends.

Herman Elvers was born February 23, 1878, at Heide, Germany. At the age of 9 he came with his sister to San Francisco where he had spent most of his life. He married Miss Sara J. Milliken December 22, 1923. He and his wife made several trips to Wayne and stayed here some months when Mrs. Elvers' father, O. W. Mr. Elvers suffered a heart attack May 12 while on his way to work at the Oakland plating plant. After a few weeks in bed he recovered some of his former strength and was able to walk around in his flower gardens which he enjoyed. Friday, July 23, he died suddenly of coronary heart disease.

Construction Of New Road Makes Good Headway At Both Terminals.

Construction of the new highway south of Wayne is going forward well this week. The last check of Engineer T. C. Cunningham shows the grade 37 percent finished, culverts 95 percent complete and bridges 38 percent finished.

The first two miles south have been graded and the work has been accepted. Grading crew left the third mile temporarily on account of the bridge there, the contractor waiting for a car of treated lumber. The graders are in the fourth mile. The bridge crew is driving piling in the new span in the sixth mile. It was planned to drive 22-foot piling but this has had to be changed to 42-foot to get bearing for the new structure.

Two crews are moving earth in the south 6 miles of the new road, making noticeable progress there.

Storm Rages Carroll Area

after the storm. A building east of the lumber yard collapsed, and a corncrib on the Chas. Whitney place across the street west was blown down. Numerous sheds and small buildings were demolished. Shingles were torn off the elevator. The twister struck buildings in the area northeast of Carroll also. A large barn and double corncrib on the H. L. Harmer farm were wrecked, and the windmill and smaller buildings damaged. Every building on the Joy Tucker farm except the house was destroyed, and all buildings were destroyed and the house moved on the Chas. Meyer place occupied by Harold Coulter. A barn and several small buildings were wrecked on the Roy Granfield place, and several buildings went down on the John Jones place. A corncrib at the Black farm, occupied by Ben Fleming, was reduced to kindling. A crib went down at the Bartels place where Kermit Fork lives. Buildings were moved at Ed. Denesias', T. C. Horn's, Geo. Wacker's and Bernard Dalton's. Many windmills were blown over in the path of the storm. Dog creek, swelled to a half mile wide, raged through the valley to cause considerable loss to small grain and pastures. Many farmers had small grain thrashed. Other fields were in shock and some of the shocks were washed into the creek. Loose earth from fields went with the water and covered much pasture land. A. C. Saha northeast of Carroll has 65 acres of pasture which is now only mud. Five cows were carried away from the Floyd Andrews farm by flood waters. Hail in the area between Belden and Carroll varied in size to as large as walnuts. After the storm a field on the Saha farm was white with drifts of the ice. Some fields of corn from Carroll north to Belden are chopped off and look like stubble. Other fields have leaves riddled. Many other fields in the area have less damage and will make some yield. Most farmers carried insurance on their crops. Gardens in the storm area were practically destroyed, the damage being heaviest to cucumbers and tomatoes. Trees were stripped of leaves. Telephone and light wires were snapped off and some poles taken down at Belden and Carroll. Some rural telephone lines out of Wayne were out of service a day or two after the wind had twisted them. County relief furnished aid for families who lost heavily in the storm at Carroll. Barns and sheds were blown down on the Matt Finn farm three miles west of Wayne. Small sheds on other places in that vicinity were damaged. Rains swelled the Logan at the south edge of Wayne. Water got through the dike around D. Hall's nursery and flooded the grounds but did not rise into any of the buildings. No loss resulted. A large crowd attending the circus south of Wayne Thursday afternoon was dispersed by the storm. The water flooded the pasture in which the circus had set up and the show packed up and came into Wayne for the night, going to Pender the next morning. Elephants were put to use in helping move out of the grounds. About 900 feet of railroad track were washed out on the Norfolk line just west of Wayne. This was repaired so that service was on time each day. The tracks were washed in several spots between Carroll and Wayne on the Bloomfield line. No trains ran on that line Friday but repairs were made so that normal service was resumed Saturday. Rainfall at Wayne registered 1.9 inches Thursday. Water rose over the highway about two miles west of town and an Omaha car being driven through Thursday evening lost the path and started into the ditch. The driver left the car and had the machine hauled into Wayne. The Gem cafe and F. L. Blair buildings had water in the basements when storm sewers failed to care for the water. Most sections of northeast Nebraska shared in the Thursday rainfall. Norfolk received 1.27 inches, that afternoon. The amount varied from 1 to 2 inches on the line from Norfolk west to O'Neill. Neigh reports 2 inches in a few minutes with streets flooded, and high water at Tilden washed out ballast for 300 feet of railroad track. Elgin and Newman Grove each received 1.5 inches and Albion, .84. Rainfall on the Winner line showed 1 inch at Pierce, Bristow and Gregory, .25 at Plainview and Niobrara, 2 inches at Burke, Dallas and Colome. Toward Lincoln the amount varied from .25 to .5. At Fremont the gauge showed .26. Other reports from that direction give 1.50 at Hooper, 2.50 at Scribner, 1.50 at West Point, 2 inches at Beemer and Wisner, 1 inch at Pilger and Stanton. Heaviest rains of last week were at O'Neill where 3 inches had fallen Wednesday last week and the amount was increased by 1 inch Thursday. Hartington, Randolph and Colridge received good rains Thursday. No damage was done Thursday in that vicinity. Hail on Saturday, July 24, had taken crops in a 10-mile area west of Hartington. General benefits of the rains far outweighed the losses, according to H. E. Anderson, crop statistician, who predicts Nebraska will have one of the best corn crops in years.

Cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Add pork, sprinkle with flour and brown. Add milk or water, stirring until thickened, then add remaining ingredients except cheese. Cook until spaghetti is thoroughly heated. Serve hot and sprinkle with grated cheese. Molded Beet Salad. Cook red beets until tender, saving the juice in which the beets have been cooked (about 2 cups). Dice enough beets to make 1-2 cup. Have ready 2 tablespoons of gelatin; 2 tablespoons cold water; 2 cups liquid in which the beets were cooked; 1-2 cup diced cooked beets; 1-4 cup diced celery; 1-4 cup diced cucumber; 1-2 teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon sugar; 1 teaspoon vinegar; 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Soak the gelatin in the cold water and then dissolve in the beet juice which has been warmed. Add the seasonings and stir well. Let cool. When it begins to set add vegetables and let chill in the refrigerator until firm. Use small individual molds or large ring mold. If large ring mold is used fill the center with a lettuce cup containing mayonnaise. Casserole of Beef. 1 teaspoon shortening. 1 small chopped onion. 1/2 teaspoon salt. 1/2 teaspoon pepper. 1 pound beef cut in cubes. 1 cup peas. 1 1/2 cups mashed potatoes. Cook onion in melted shortening until soft. Add salt and pepper. Brown the small pieces of beef on both sides in a frying pan. Combine the cooked onion and the beef, add water to cover and cook until tender over a low heat. Place the meat and gravy in the bottom of a greased casserole. Add the peas and cover in a moderate oven and cook until potatoes are well browned. This dish may be prepared in the morning and put in the oven just about half an hour before serving. Serve with this a molded salad that may also be prepared in the morning—or even the night before. A want ad in the Herald will bring the best results.

To Bastian Reunion.

The summer selections for the International Mind Aleeve at the Wayne city library have been received and will be accessioned soon. The new books include the following: "An Essay on the Nature of Contemporary England," Hilaire Belloc, who is a well known editor and publicist of England and has had unusual opportunity to acquaint himself with his subject. He has served as a member of parliament and did his conscript service with the French army. "Denmark," by Agnes Rothery, is a story of the country which has steered its course safely between dictatorship on one hand and communism on the other. The author remarked that Denmark is the oldest kingdom in the world, is also one of the wisest and happiest. The book is illustrated with charming photographs. "Canada," by Andre "Siegfried," is one of the latest books on Canada. The author is a Frenchman and, of course, much interested in what he calls the "French element" of Canada, but he does not neglect British Canada nor the discussion of Canadian and American mutual interests. The book is translated from the French by H. H. and Doris Hemming. The last book in this series is "Discovering South America," written by Lewis R. Freeman. This is a survey of South America of yesterday, today and tomorrow. It is an interesting tale which contrasts present day conditions with those the author saw many years ago. Many of the photographs were made available through the courtesy of the Pan American airways. up for action. Every member living near the water and in the industrial east is hard at work pushing for early action on the merchant marine bill.

Heat Drives Members Away.
One hundred and four members of the house failed to answer when their names were called on Wednesday. That confirmed the report of various members that the heat and illness have driven at least a hundred members out of town.

Farm District Congressmen Busy.
By organization and cooperation farm districts over-rode the president's veto of the bill to extend for another year the 3 1/2 percent interest rate on federal land bank loans and the 4 percent rate on commissioner's loans. They also were able to successfully steer an additional appropriation of a million dollars for grasshopper control through both bodies.

Farm members are continuing their fight for some kind of legislation to stop the speculators from hammering down the price of farm products should we get a good crop this year. How far they will get with this bill is problematical.

Questioned Farm Subsidies.
Regarding the bill for lower interest rates on farm loans, the farm congressmen had a hard time "selling" their city colleagues who say they pay high prices for food and that they feel the farmer is now prosperous and that his income is so great. These city members were told in no uncertain terms that in many parts of Nebraska, the farmer is not prosperous and that he has nothing to sell and therefore he has no income.

It was also charged that this lower rate of interest represents a subsidy to farmers and the city members were told that the government had been subsidizing eastern industry, the railroads, the banks and now is pouring millions into the hands of the shipping trust. It was only right, the farm members declared, that the farmer should at least get some fraction of a break now that he is debt-burdened and wants to harvest a crop on which his entire future depends. Many members admitted that by over-riding the veto the house set congressional precedent for lower interest rates for farm loans.

change in the court noticed how the fight had affected him. Those who say they had been very close to Robinson feel that it would never have been selected to a place on the supreme bench notwithstanding the fact that the entire senate was for him, and that he coveted that post. Representatives and senators have indicated their great respect for Robinson and especially have they admired the great fight he put up for the administration's court plan.

Fears Farm Legislation Discarded.
There are many sick representatives and senators here. The physicians in the house make it plain that the Robinson death is only the beginning of what members can expect. Those who are now in hospitals are reported in good condition. The Washington news which is so oppressive is telling on even the employees daily.

There are many house members, however, especially those from farm districts who are feeling badly about the delay in needed farm legislation. These are willing to stay here all summer to enact some good farm bill, but leaders have sidetracked many of the bills offered. These farm members feel that a lot of time has been wasted in fights over the court bill with the result that real farm legislation has been thrown in the discard.

Face Manganese Shortage.
Believe it or not, an increasingly dangerous situation faces the United States today on account of a possible shortage of the strategic mineral manganese. This is what has been told to the house committee on military affairs by the American manganese producers. Due to the armament program in Europe and increased steel production in the United States, demand for manganese in the world's market exceeds the supply. Most of the domestic mines remain closed on account of the reduction in the manganese ore duty under the Brazilian reciprocal trade agreement. While these manganese producers are kicking about the closing of their mines by the low Brazilian tariff, the dairy farmers are starting to tell the tariff commission to keep on the lookout for the Brazilian oil which is coming to us duty-free, resulting in the continued low price for American dairy products.

Members Talk Adjournment.
The big talk here now is about adjournment. Petitions are being circulated for party caucuses. The farm bureau federation is here with many representatives asking for no adjournment until a farm bill is passed. Others are circulating petitions asking for no adjournment until the wages and hours bill and the president's administrative re-organization bills are passed. Another group is busy asking for quick adjournment and asking for the laying aside of major and highly controversial legislation until next January when members can work in the cooler weather and can give serious consideration to serious legislation. There are all kinds of guesses about adjournment. John O'Connor, chairman of the house rules committee, guesses adjournment can be looked for about August 17.

Session Appropriates Ten Billion.
There will be one more appropriation bill coming out before adjournment of this congress. That will be the third deficiency bill upon which the committee is now working. Committee members say they are about ready to report this bill which will carry about a hundred million more dollars. This congress has spent about ten billion dollars or more thus far. It costs the taxpayers a lot of money to keep the United States congress in session. A lot of letters come in to various congressional offices reading like this: "Why don't you go home and save the taxpayers a little money and give industry a chance to go to work?"

Subsidy For Shipping Industry.
A new "must" bill is coming to members of the house soon from the executive branch of our government. This will be the ship subsidy bill. When the program attached to this bill is completed it may mean an outright grant from the people's treasury of around one-hundred and sixty-million dollars for the ship trust in the guise of a subsidy.

The argument in favor of this subsidy is that the United States merchant marine has gone on the rocks. It is argued that practically all of the merchant vessels in which hundreds of millions of dollars of people's money was poured in years past are obsolete and that a new merchant marine will be necessary to carry American goods to foreign countries and to bring foreign goods to our shores. It is also argued that these merchant vessels in time of war can be converted into fighting ships for Uncle Sam.

The ship trust has plenty of help in this campaign to get this subsidy, and while members feel that some sort of subsidy may be all right to keep up the merchant marine of our country, they fear that much of this subsidy may resemble a raid on our treasury, and there will be quite a fight waged against the bill when it does come up for action. Every member living near the water and in the industrial east is hard at work pushing for early action on the merchant marine bill.

Heat Drives Members Away.
One hundred and four members of the house failed to answer when their names were called on Wednesday. That confirmed the report of various members that the heat and illness have driven at least a hundred members out of town.

Farm District Congressmen Busy.
By organization and cooperation farm districts over-rode the president's veto of the bill to extend for another year the 3 1/2 percent interest rate on federal land bank loans and the 4 percent rate on commissioner's loans. They also were able to successfully steer an additional appropriation of a million dollars for grasshopper control through both bodies.

Farm members are continuing their fight for some kind of legislation to stop the speculators from hammering down the price of farm products should we get a good crop this year. How far they will get with this bill is problematical.

Questioned Farm Subsidies.
Regarding the bill for lower interest rates on farm loans, the farm congressmen had a hard time "selling" their city colleagues who say they pay high prices for food and that they feel the farmer is now prosperous and that his income is so great. These city members were told in no uncertain terms that in many parts of Nebraska, the farmer is not prosperous and that he has nothing to sell and therefore he has no income.

It was also charged that this lower rate of interest represents a subsidy to farmers and the city members were told that the government had been subsidizing eastern industry, the railroads, the banks and now is pouring millions into the hands of the shipping trust. It was only right, the farm members declared, that the farmer should at least get some fraction of a break now that he is debt-burdened and wants to harvest a crop on which his entire future depends. Many members admitted that by over-riding the veto the house set congressional precedent for lower interest rates for farm loans.

Motoring Dangers

Many automobile accidents were added to the year's total during the past week. For one week in July, 117 motor accidents occurred in the state with six dead and 154 injured, according to statistics compiled by the Nebraska Press Association and state superintendent's office.

Most automobile wrecks happen in the night when visibility is not the best. Having never been killed or injured, the motorist sometimes becomes cocksure and careless, and then he invites disaster. So many perils may lurk in the darkness—animals may stroll on the highway, bridges or ditches are not where they ought to be or where the driver thought they were. He is so certain about the location of everything along the road that he steps on the gas and buzzes along, trusting that luck will support his feeling of expertness. If consciousness is restored after an accident and he is able to drive again, he is likely to adopt rules of caution.

Motorists seem determined to see how fast they can go and how close they can come to hitting something and not doing it. And the careful driver has to be on the alert to escape the reckless fellow whose thoughts, what few, if any, he has, are kept entirely away from the task in hand.

Bill To Fix Wages

A SLOWLY recovering country will regret passage by the senate of the Black-Connelly bill which contains all of the objections of the late NRA nightmare which latter was, to the relief of everybody, outlawed by the supreme court. The proposed law fixes hours and wages, and while it might be desirable in low-paying industries of the south or elsewhere, it means only unnecessary hardship among many employers and employees who are satisfied and who want to be left to paddle their own canoes undisturbed.

Nebraska's Senator Burke voted against the bill—action entirely consistent with his opposition to the effort to pack the supreme court. More men like him in authority at Washington would inspire confidence at a time when confidence is most needed.

Aside from areas that suffered the misfortune of hail devastation, northeast Nebraska never presented greater assurance of a corn crop of unusual quantity and of surpassing quality. Anxiety for small grain is now generally over, most of the crop having been threshed and safely stored. Pastures are green and hay is abundant. Plenty of feed will take care of increased herds. But for the evils of hail which brought disaster to some districts, the prospect for agriculture in this part of the state could not be better.

Dr. Robert A. Fraser, chief medical director of the New York Life Insurance company, advises people to put on the brakes in the matter of eating and drinking during vacation days when the weather is hot and change of diet is often strange. He emphasizes the need of pure water and milk. The outdoors tends to stimulate appetites, and there arises the temptation to over-eat. The digestive equipment is easily thrown out of order, and it needs guarding especially when it is bombarded with unaccustomed food or drink.

The president puts a lot of thunder into his voice when he speaks of his "objectives," but he does not make clear what the objectives are in advance. However, as court, wage and other bills are produced from bureaucratic brains and endorsed by him, the public is led to wonder, if the executive were permitted to have his way, whether anything would be left of our boasted democracy when he gets ready to quit.

A Washington report states that John L. Lewis proposes to name the next president and control the next administration. We think we reflect a fairly general suspicion of the middle west in saying he has had too much influence on the present administration for the good of the country. If Lewis cannot find anyone to measure up to his requirements he will perhaps permit himself to be named. That would be a major calamity.

If it were so important to inject new blood into the supreme court, why doesn't the president get busy and name a successor to Justice VanDevanter who resigned some six weeks ago? Has the president forgotten the emergency that aroused him to emphasize "now" in demanding new and enlarged court membership? Or is it contrary to New Deal policies to be consistent?

Two Nebraska City tourists—man and wife—were arrested in Russia for taking a perfectly harmless photograph. Anyone turning a camera on anything in the land of the soviet reds is captured and jailed pending investigation as to intentions. Everyone, native or foreign, is under suspicion in Russia, and neither reason nor mercy influences exercise of authority.

A bill that should be, but for obvious reasons will not be, included in "must" legislation would be one to compel senators and congressmen to read all proposed laws before voting on them. A test could be applied to see if members read understandingly if at all. Then it would be up to voters to elect only those capable of or willing to understand.

It is estimated that $100,000 will be distributed in the shape of insurance payments in the hail-restricted area to the northwest. Insurance shifts a share of the risk, and is a strictly business proposition. It is paid for, and it asks no special favor. Payments for losses should be, and we understand usually are paid promptly.

The success of foreign brands of government is plainly discredited by wars and preparations for wars. It is peace most people want, and peace the United States will have if it can keep free from red radicals and other trouble-makers.

Members of the two houses in Washington are elected to serve the best interests of the country, and the way they could do that right now would be to adjourn before passing measures further restricting and burdening private activities.

Speaking of persons who have been flirting with government paternalism, the Saturday Evening Post says: "They are beginning to understand that government subsidies are inescapably linked with government dictation."

How refreshing to deal with a fellow who does what he says he will do on time? He even scores ahead of time. When he makes a promise he keeps it. He doesn't have to explain or apologize.

About Due To Catch Up.
Omaha Journal-Stockman: Unless all signs fail, this section of the country known as the Corn Belt is about due for one of the brightest business upturns in its long and, for the most part, prosperous career. Notice the avoidance of the word boom in this connection. Because it isn't a boom at all that is coming, in the commonly accepted meaning of that term. Instead, the anticipation of a business revival is simply an indication that this section, after being retarded in its recovery by the drouths of the past three years, is doing business again at the old stand and is ready to resume its rightful position as the nation's breadbasket.

Since the Corn Belt, and particularly the western half of this well known area, has lagged behind the rest of the nation in regaining its business stride following the depression, the upward movement in bank clearings, carloadings, retail turnover, and other accepted business indices will no doubt be all the more rapid. It may take the farmers of this section, on whom its business depends, just a little time to realize that they are in a position to catch up on all the wants and needs that have been accumulating during the depression and more recently during the drouth. But when the realization does come it should be the signal for quite a buying wave.

As good a guess as any as to when the revival will begin to gather momentum would be around the middle of August. That is the date by which the corn crop is usually made or lost, and while there is little doubt right now that a lot of corn is going to be produced, the sight of one or two big heavy ears hanging from every tall stalk will be mighty convincing, particularly when such a good small grain crop already has been placed in the bins or sold at the most remunerative prices in years.

Naturally, increased income on the farm itself is only one of a number of things on which hopes for this marked improvement are based. Others include greater use of transportation facilities, and larger business opportunities for processors and distributors, all of whom will be in a position to employ more workers. Thus the benefits of larger crops include not only a reduction in unemployment and increased industrial volume, but also a broadened demand which will help to stabilize market prices in the face of increased production. The picture is as happy a one as has been seen for a long time, particularly from the standpoint of the Middle West, which has been lagging behind the rest of the country in the recovery movement.

Conditions Improve In Eastern States

Prof. K. N. Parke who with Mrs. Parke and children returned Thursday from Kirkland, Ill., where they visited Mr. Parke's father, reported that business conditions are improving through the east. Business in Kirkland has picked up and several of the old business buildings are being replaced by new ones. Mr. Parke reported that labor is short.

While in the east the Parke family had a picnic at the municipal park at Sycamore, Ill. Mr. Parke was impressed by the development of the park which is combined with a municipal golf course and swimming pool. Shuffle boards built on cement, swings and other entertainment are provided. Sycamore is a town of practically 4,000 and the day that the Parkes were there approximately 200 families were picnicking. Work on the park was done by P.W.A. workers. City water has been piped to the park for drinking purposes. Mr. Parke remarked that the lay of the park is similar to the proposed park in Wayne.

Rural School News

History of District 74.
District 74, about nine miles south of Randolph, was organized in March, 1903, to consist of sections 5, 6, 7 and 8 of Garfield.
A group met May 17, 1903, at the home of E. S. Brooks for the purpose of electing a board and deciding where to build the school house. At this meeting E. C. Brooks was elected treasurer, F. W. Steele, director and F. W. Lunn, moderator. Six months of school were to be held that year. The first teacher, W. M. Brown, received $30 a month and 14 children were enrolled.
For the next few years the district had school for four, five or six months.
In March, 1906, section 18 and the west half of 17 were added to the district, making it as it is today with five and a half sections.

In 1903 it was decided to have seven months of school. The time was divided into three terms, known as fall, winter and spring with a vacation in November for corn picking. In 1905 school was held for nine months for the first time, though divided into three terms. The salary paid that year was $40. Then eight months of school were held each year until 25 years ago when the nine-month term became permanent.
In 1912 the school board decided to furnish the children with pencils and tables as well as other supplies. The practice has been followed to the present time.
The district has had 48 teachers and salaries have ranged from $28 in 1895 to $100 in 1925. The greatest number of pupils was 40 in 1924. Today there are 12 pupils and the present school board includes Russell Johnson as director, Wm. Lueschen as moderator and Luther Anderson as treasurer.
Mr. Brooks, the first treasurer, was an uncle of Clay Bryan who now lives in the district.
Written by Wilma Fillmore, teacher.

History of District 86.

District 86 is two miles north of Hoskins.
One of the first settlers to come to this community was Andrew Johnson.
The first car in this community was owned by James Dunkin.
Before 1915, pupils of this community had to attend in district 78 or in Hoskins. This was thought to be too far so the community decided to build a school house in the newly formed district. Some of those living in the district when the building was put up and are still there are Carl Joehens, William Maas, Andrew Johnson, Louis Nuernberg and Frank Maas.
Members of the first school board were Carl Joehens, Andrew Jonson and John Werner. The first term of school was taught by Anna M. Muller, 24 pupils being enrolled. When Veri Wilson taught the school, there were 36. At present there are four.

The school house is in good condition.

It was painted in 1935, and interior was refinished in 1936. A new stove was bought in 1936, and a cave was built in 1934.
Written by Martha Utecht, teacher.

History of District 78.

To some in district 78, four miles north of Hoskins, the school is one of the oldest landmarks of the community. The school is called North Valley and was organized in 1898.
With a few changes and improvements which have been made in late years, the school is standing as first built. The improvements consisted of a storm cave, telephone and new hall.
For some time the school house served also as a church. Sunday school and church were held nearly every Sunday. Rev. J. B. Wylie, now of Burwell, was the pastor. Among the leaders in the Sunday school were Mrs. Jay Havener and Josephine Johnson Persons came in wagons and buggies for long distances to attend.
Members of the first school board were George Drevsen, Hans Gottsch and Charlie Maas. They elected Miss Christine Lundquist first teacher with a salary of $35 per month. When the 9 o'clock bell rang the first day Miss Lundquist faced 48 eager children. Among them were John Eckman, Max Eckman, Lizzie Eckman, Cora Carpenter, Bessie Carpenter, Elmer Kline, William Maas, Frank Maas, Emma Maas, Martha Maas, John Gottsch, Hattie Leaf, John Leaf, Helen Leaf, George Drevsen, Emil Johnson, Fred Johnson, Charlie Chapman, Fred Chapman, May Chapman. Records of others enrolled have been misplaced.
The pupils practiced many pranks such as skipping school to go swimming in the creek a few hours or going hunting for wild plums.
The second teacher was Miss Armstrong. Two of the former teachers now live in the district and one now has children attending.
Teachers of the district, according to remaining records have been the following: Christine Lundquist, Miss Armstrong, Alpha Dobbin, Pauline Braunger, Mabel Young, Joyce Frye, Miss Grier, Mr. Bayes, Birdie Cross, Emma Wagner, Ethel Prince, Perdita Morgan, Geneva Porter, Lera Porter, Miss A. Mac Kinster, Lera Stankacker, Catherine Dolly, Elsie North, Lydia Behmer, Pearl Anderson, Edna Drevsen, Florence Anderson, Mayne Hall, Wilma Fill## more, Lloyd Behmer, Clara Ulrich and Adaline Prince.

Among the pleasant events of the earlier days were the "spelling-downs" which were held with district 45, a neighboring school. Programs were other means of entertainment.
In all but four of all the families now living in the district one or both parents have attended the school at some time.
Mrs. Drevsen, better known to the community as Grandma Drevsen, is the eldest person in the district. One of her granddaughters, Edna Drevsen, taught the school in 1926-28 and her great granddaughter will attend next year.
A "voice of the street" from years ago would find much interest and enjoyment.
Written by Adaline Prince, teacher the past year.

Freighter Brings
First Shipment Of
Oil Beans To Coast
 A Swedish ship, "The Hallaren," recently brought a cargo of 5,000 tons of palm kernels to Long Beach, Calif., harbor from the west coast of Africa, according to Miss Laura Lyons, who writes Herald readers. "It was interesting," Miss Lyons states, "to watch the immense freighter unloading from the fore and aft holds with big cranes. The big sacks contained peculiar brown beans, the first shipment of palm kernels ever consigned to be utilized by the Pacific Nut Oil company in Long Beach harbor district for soap and various vegetable oil products. One sack burst open and showed the beans to be about twice the size of a grain of coffee. When opened they contain a white oily center very much like coconut." Mrs. Delaney, sister of Mrs. Warren Winget of Carroll, and I went to the navy landing and watched the officers' speedboats and others off duty coming and going. "Mrs. Lyons continues: "A water taxi was plying back and forth so spectators could see the battleship in harbor, also the six-masted ship from which the movie, "Mutiny on the Bounty," was photographed and another is now being shot." "One afternoon we saw the water sports carnival, when many different kinds of races were enjoyed; speedboat, aquaplane, canoe, bascule, balloon, all within the lagoon. Outside 25 sail boats were going westward far out in the big water. I enjoyed most peering over the Rainbow pier when 25 swimmers started from the Linden avenue life guard station to swim around the outside of the pier. Contestants were from several states on over from Washington, D. C. After everyone was safely out the goal Squire Da. Re. announced that unknown to most everyone the swimmers had started out on a rip-tide. This explained why they did not start on schedule. The signal sounded three times and the life boat sounded its blood-curdling siren and their accompaniment the swimmer quite a distance to save lives if necessary. "The Nebraska summer picnic is to be held in Sixty park near Saturday July 31. "A miniature exact replica of the Holy land was on exhibition for a few weeks. Joseph and Salvatore Gauc, brothers built the exhibit in their small Canadian workshop after Joseph had spent five years in Palestine studying and getting data from archaeologists. Salvatore is an electrical engineer and did a small part for there are 60 million pieces, 740 moving and 1,200 stationary figures. Fifteen miles of piano wire were used to manipulate the figures and scenes. The space occupied is 44 by 12 feet. The piece is a complete reproduction of the Holy land at the time of Christ, and no detail of the life of the Master and persons with whom He came in contact are omitted. Some of the figures are so delicate that they required the use of knives made of needles. Microscopes were used to guide the craftsmen in the most detailed work. It took 11 years of effort to complete the work. To see the shepherds on the Judean hills with even the restless movement of the sheep was marvelous. Every 45 minutes the lights were turned off and then the star of Bethlehem appeared, then dawn. Another time moonlight flooded the entire land, making the Biblical stories more realistic. "Miss Lyons encloses a copy of "Motorist's Prayer" by an unknown author which reads as follows: "Grant me a steady hand and a watchful eye, that no man shall be hurt when I pass by. Thou gavest life, and I pray no act of mine may take away or mar that gift of Thine. Shelter those, dear Lord, who bear me company from evils of fire and all calamity. Teach me to use my car for other's need, nor miss through love of speed the beauties of Thy world; that thus I may with joy and courtesy go on my way." Californians are glad to hear that Wayne county has more favorable crop reports this year. Miss Lyons states they hope for good crops. Long Beach has had comfortable weather this summer with cool ocean breeze each afternoon about 1.

Visitors Travel
Through Canal In
Coming To Wayne
 Leaving San Francisco on the steamship "California," Mrs. J. H. Kemp and daughter, Miss Kathryn, who with Mr. Kemp and Harry arrived in Wayne Friday, took a 17-day boat trip from California to New York, traveling through the Panama canal zone. The steamship carried 1200 people, including passenger and crew. The ship made five stops during the trip. One day was spent at Los Angeles and the second stop was at Acapulco, Mexico. This is a typical Mexican sea port, and is the main entrance to Mexico City. The next stop, made by the steamer was at Panama, which is on the American side of the west part of the canal. Balboa is on the foreign side. Because Panama is a free port, silk and linens are very inexpensive. One does not have to bargain, however, as Miss Kathryn reports. An entire day and night were spent at Panama in order that the boat might travel through the canal by daylight. It required seven hours to go through. The scenery was very pretty and the trees and bushes were growing so close together that it reminds one of a jungle. The trip was very agreeable. A rain had cooled the atmosphere. During the entire trip, one could hear birds shrieking in the trees. Luncheon was served on board deck so that the passengers were deprived of no part of the beauty of the canal. Christobal on the Atlantic side of the canal was the fourth stop made. After doing some shopping, part of the passengers rode into the country to see how the American government was caring for the swamps, which are mosquito infested. Large trenches have been dug every 100 feet. They are filled with oil and are very satisfactory in killing the mosquitoes. Another oddity in the region was the land crab. This species of crab is very similar to a water crab. It is the same size but is blue in color. It walks on its toes and even climbs to the top of coconut trees where it feeds on a certain insect found there. Miss Kathryn also saw some banana trees or bushes. The bush bears only once and then it is cut down and another springs up from the same roots. The banana stalk grows up and on one side of this a large purple blossom. Havana, Cuba, was the last stop made before reaching New York city. It is a very beautiful city with all the buildings of Spanish architecture and of white stone. Shops are closed from 12 to 2 each afternoon for a siesta. Every time anyone stopped his car on the streets of Havana, he was entertained by musicians playing guitars and morrocos. Little boys would also gather round trying to sell something or begging for pennies. Music was also furnished during every meal. The time that the Kemps were in Havana was not the resort season, nor racing season, but there were many people, young and old, on the streets selling lottery tickets for this year's races. Mrs. Kemp and Kathryn met Mr. Kemp and Harry in New York to Wayne visiting in Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Ohio, St. Louis and LaSalle. In Des Moines they were with Dr. and Mrs. G. J. Green, who formerly resided in Wayne. The Kemps arrived in Wayne Friday for a week's visit.

Extra Safe

BECAUSE in Firestone Standard Tires—

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—Eight extra pounds of cord are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts dangerous internal friction and heat, that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

GETTIN' THE BUSINESS
means giving the mileage

It's up to me to make this business go, because it's mine. I never did a smarter thing than featuring Conoco Germ Processed oil, with all its long mileage for you. Talk doesn't make mileage or customers, but I can tell you what does... Oil-Plating your engine with Germ Processed oil. The patent Germ Process makes oil actually take hold of every working part and keep it coated with a durable Oil-Plating... entirely extra to the regular moving type of oil film. Oil-Plating backs up the oil film while the car is running, and never drains down during hours of parking. Then you'll never start up without lubrication. And at the end of your longest run on a hot day, your engine will still have its full safe plating of Conoco Germ Processed oil. The way it lasts gives me a right to be called Your Mileage Merchant.

and placed in the wagon remained unharmed after the storm.

Water coming through the damaged roof resulted in loss of lime and cement which were in the north side of the yard. Lumber piled in that section remained in perfect order. Tile and shingles at the north side of the buildings were broken. The office and paint room kept out the storm.

Across the street west of the lumber yard the Charles Whitney residence had the roof damaged so that water poured in but the building stood intact, protecting a party of children whom Mrs. Whitney was entertaining that afternoon. A corncrib north of the house at Whitney's was demolished.

The community hall in Carroll collapsed and is practically a complete loss. The floor remains but all sides and the roof caved in. The stockholders carried $1,000 insurance on the building and $300 on the contents. It is not yet decided whether or not the structure will be rebuilt.

The hatchery, former theatre building, a half block east of the bank, collapsed. Dr. A. Textley owned this and carried no insurance on it. The structure is being wrecked this week by Will Bonta and James Bosteder and will not be rebuilt.

The east end of the south shed at the Smith-Hovelson lumber yard was torn off, this housing the bath, and shingles were taken off the roof. The frame front of the Chas. Koles store blew down. This was put back in the evening after the storm and the windows boarded until the glass can be replaced. Shingles were torn from the elevator. Windows were broken in the Henry Eksman home, in the depot and in other buildings.

The wind uprooted a large tree at the Ed. Schradler place and the roots tore through three cement sidewalk blocks. Many trees were broken and leaves stripped from them.

The railings above the Perry Johnson oil tanks were torn off and smashed.

Outbuildings at W. H. Belford's in town were damaged.

Geo. Linn, who was in his cream station, said the rain and hail came so hard and fast that he could not see out of the window. The cloud passed in about 20 minutes but it seemed like hours, the storm subsiding about 3:30.

On the road north of Carroll the wind chose to damage the places on the west side of the road, and to leave almost unharmed those to the east. The roof and top story of a large new barn at the Fred Bartels farm a half mile north, occupied by Henry Johnson, was torn off. The barn and outbuilding on the Mrs. Ann Richards farm, occupied by Roy Granfield, were destroyed. All buildings excepting the house on the Hilman place occupied by Joy Tucker were lost. These three places are on the west side of Carroll. There was no loss to buildings at the Pete Person place across the road to the east. A little damage was done to the house and a hog barn was moved at the Otto Wagner place.

Across the section to the east at Paulsen brothers' farm, where a large barn was destroyed a few years ago, no damage was done to buildings. The wind went a quarter mile east and demolished a large barn and double corncrib at the H. L. Harmer farm. The Harmer were in Sioux City that day with their son, Harold, who had an operation. They returned Friday. The hired man was at home and the large new residence remained intact. The Harmer tenant's place, just a little distance east, was unharmed. Emil Steffens live here.

The storm went on around the section from Harmer's to the south-east, damaging three places in the mile north of the school two miles east of Carroll. At the Harold Coulter place on the west side of the road all buildings were taken excepting the house. The windows of the residence were blown in and the roof and porch torn so that all furnishings and clothes were soaked by the rain. A basket of clothes which Mrs. Coulter had taken off the line disappeared, the wind suction taking them away. The Coulter family stayed with the Ben Flemings that night until aid could be provided the next morning.

Mrs. J. P. Horn's place across the road east of Coulter's had the roof shingles damaged and windows broken.

The small residence south of Horn's, in which John Jones, father of Mrs. Coulter, lived alone, was moved off its foundation and twisted. A pile of wood north of the house held the building from possibly moving farther. Windows were broken and the roof torn. Suction of the wind took Mr. Jones' new raincoat away but nothing else seemed to be missing. Mr. Jones put a bucket over his head to go see if his daughter's family was unharmed.

Arthur Lage lost a small stall at his place two miles east. A granary and corncrib were taken down at the Black farm occupied by Ben Fleming. Buildings at Leonard Black's were damaged. The Lage school had the roof and windows damaged. About 20 small sheds and a number of windmills in the path of the storm were taken down.

Floyd Andrews lost some cows, the animals being carried away by flood waters. Many cows and horses were driven by wind and hail into barbed wire fences which cut them considerably. Lots of chickens perished in the hail and flood waters.

Threshing of small grain, which was interrupted by the rain, was resumed Monday.

Telephone and electric wires suffered damage. The phone lines remained out of order north and east of Carroll for several days.

Very few persons sought shelter in caves but no injuries resulted from the furious storm.

Hundreds of persons from northeast Nebraska visited this section over the week-end to view the wreckage.

Storm Causes Loss In Area

Cyclonic Wind On Thursday Destroys Buildings In And Near Carroll.

A storm cloud coming from the northwest Thursday afternoon appeared first as a dark rain bearer and soon it turned into a white sheet of water and hail driven by wind, resulting in loss of considerable property and crops in this vicinity. Though some damage resulted to crops in an area about seven miles wide from Wareham and Belden southeast for about 25 miles, the greatest losses are in an area about two miles wide and about nine miles long beginning northwest of Carroll and extending southeastward at the east edge of town toward the Geo. McEichen farm southeast.

Insurance adjusters have been here the past few days and destruction varies from a small percent to a total loss. The majority carried insurance and it is estimated that premiums paid in Wayne county will run about $100,000. About seven companies handle the losses in this vicinity and payments made by one company will amount to $18,000. Some individuals receive $1,000, $1,600, $1,700 and $2,382 on their crops, and other payments are smaller.

Most farmers in the territory north of Carroll were protected with insurance, that region having been visited by hail at previous times, but the hail was a new experience in the vicinity southeast and insurance carried there was lighter.

Wind, which assumed proportions of a cyclone in the north and east part of Carroll and in the farm sections adjoining to the north and east, did freakish things. The Fullerton Lumber company building on the east side of north Main street was badly wrecked. All the north side, all the east side excepting about 20 feet, all the rubberoid roofing and two-thirds of the wooden roof were torn off and scattered far. About 52 feet of the front was torn down at the north end. The 2x6 and 2x4 supports in the building were torn apart easily by the twisting wind. The south part of the building, which were left standing, are damaged some. The work shed which was a separate building east of the yard, collapsed.

E. J. Meyer, Fullerton manager, was in the office alone when the storm broke. Rain and hail came so hard that he could not see out of the windows. The roar was so severe that he did not hear the front part of the roof fall when it was torn off and crashed in the driveway. The rest of the roof was carried away in pieces.

Henry Ulrich had asked Mr. Meyer's permission to hitch his team inside the lumber yard driveway during the storm. The roof fell to the west of the horses and the east end of the building was torn off, leaving the horses unharmed. The animals were in the only part of the driveway that was not hit. Pieces of lumber which Mr. Ulrich had bought

Former Residents Favorably Impressed With Farming Experiences In Louisiana

Living across the river from Vicksburg, Miss., and very near the land where the battle of Vicksburg was fought are Mr. and Mrs. C. Schalus of Tallulah, La., formerly of Wayne. Mrs. Schalus and her family, left Wayne this week after visiting Mrs. Ellen Ahern and other friends here for a few days. Mrs. Schalus remarked that Grant led his army past the site on which their home is located.

Crops in Louisiana are grown the year round as there is no winter. Oats are sown in the fall and harvested in January. Mr. and Mrs. Schalus usually sow the field to grass after the harvest and from this they get two cuttings. The oats usually yield 80 to 100 bushels per acre. One field of 75 acres this year yielded an oats crop of 8,000 bushels.

On alternating years, many Louisiana farmers plant vetch on their oats land. This makes good pasture and also builds up the soil. In the spring the same land may be used for cotton. This land will make two bales of cotton per acre. If the land is not rotated with oats, the farmer will plant cotton in the spring and vetch in the fall. The best cotton, according to Mrs. Schalus, is raised on a rotated ground.

Alfalfa is a crop which grows rapidly in this southern state. Often it is cut from five to eight times a year. Corn is also raised. Unlike Nebraska corn, some fields of Louisiana corn are now ready for husking and others have just been planted. Corn yield varies from 35 to 85 bushels.

The Schalus farm 438 acres of land. They share cropwise and farm the rest themselves, depending almost wholly on colored help. The help is much cheaper and Mrs. Schalus remarks, they will work from daylight to dark. One pays from 50c a day to $1.00 for help, the price depending on the type of work to be done. The colored people also board themselves. The Negro does not expect his employer to work with him, but rather, expects to be supervised. Women are addressed as "miss" by the colored help and men are called "sir".

Market prices in Louisiana at the time that Mrs. Schalus left were: Oats, 67c; corn, $1.40; cream, 35c; spring eggs, 25c and 30c, live weight; eggs, 28c and 30c. Trucks come directly to the farm to pick up produce for market. Chickens, cows and hogs are not susceptible to diseases in that section of the country, reported Mrs. Schalus. This is due to the warm weather. Temperatures almost the year round are in the 90's. During the summer the hottest is 102

All through Wyoming and Nevada the Nebraska folks noticed a great many large crickets. "The road was black with them," was Mrs. McClure's comment. The McClures went to California by way of Lake Tahoe. They visited the Beryl Loves at Tracy, Calif., and spent four days with the F. E. Brock family at Palo Alto, Calif.

While in California Mr. and Mrs. McClure visited San Francisco and saw the boats come in at Santa Cruz. They also visited the big basin of the red woods in a canyon right in the mountains. During their time in San Francisco they saw the ocean and the zoo and also visited the Christian Science sanatorium. They took the ferry under the Oakland bridge to Alameda. The Oakland bridge is 22,720 feet across. The longest span, however, is 2,000 feet as it crosses an island. The Golden Gate bridge is only 8,900 feet long, but it has one span of 4,000 feet. They crossed the Golden Gate bridge when going into Oregon. Mrs. McClure remarked that it was very beautiful as was the entire coast drive. It was foggy, however, while taking the coast trip.

In Eugene, Ore., the McClures visited Mrs. Mary Riely and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Holeman. From Eugene they took the McKinzie river drive across the Santian pass. In going through one of the forests in Oregon, they picked up a hitchhiker who had been lost in the forest for two days. He had had neither food nor sleep. All through the mountains, Mrs. McClure was impressed by the beauty of the wild flowers. Shasta daisies are used for hedges in California. Also in California red roses are very much in evidence. All houses, no matter how tumbled down, have red roses blooming, commented Mrs. McClure. The names of towns are very interesting through the south. Palo Alto, when translated, means "big tree." A large tree stands in the center of the town. Every precaution is taken in protecting it. Las Gatos, Calif., means "the cats" and large cats are placed on each side of the road. Las Altas, a town in the big basin region, means "the heights."
