She will wear a leghorn hat and carry gladioli.

HOT AUGUST JUST AHEAD OF PERIOD OF LIVELY TIMES

August is not a lively month. The weather is watched fearfully lest the necessary heat to mature the corn is not sufficiently relieved by moisture to prevent damaging excess. Hail is rare in August, but its possibility causes uneasy anxiety when storm clouds appear. Vacations help dull the month, and more persons are going and coming this year than usual. As August draws to a close, however, and crop certainty is established, renewed animation becomes evident. People know then how the corn is going to turn out, and plans for the autumn and winter are undertaken. A few dull weeks are usually preliminary to stirring times, and prospects mercantile would seem very encouraging.

EARLY REPORT OF CROP CONDITIONS IS MUCH CHANGED

A more extended survey of crop conditions in the state led to modification of a previous report touching drought damage. It is believed the earlier report did not sufficiently take into account eastern counties and other sections where crop prospects are still good. Condition of the corn in the state is spotted—some areas showing great promise, others suffering from lack of moisture. "Firing" of corn in some central and southwest parts is reported, but grainmen explain that results are not so serious as they would have been if hot weather had come earlier and ahead of the pollination period. An agronomist of the extension department of the university is quoted as saying that western and central counties of the state have suffered severely of late from drought, but that even in such areas some sections will have good crops. The northeast is reported the most favored part of the state. While the elements have probably prevented the "bumper" crop anticipated earlier in the season, an average crop will be eminently satisfactory.

To Get Insurance On Storm Losses

Payments Will Be Made To Many In Wayne County In Short Time.

Wayne county persons will receive between $200,000 and $225,000 this month or the first of September from stock companies and an additional amount soon from mutual companies for losses in the wind and hail storms of July 24 and 29. More than 500 claims involve 250 to 300 farms, and losses vary from partial to total. M. L. Ringer estimates that 75 percent of the farmers in the storm area carried insurance.

James B. Cullison of Chicago, head of the hail department of three companies, maps the extent of the storms as involving 30 sections. The storm July 24 did damage to a comparatively small territory in northeast Sherman precinct. The July 29 storm struck the same area and extended much farther and losses are in north and east parts of Deer Creek, northeast portion of Chapin, southwest Wilbur and northwest Strahan in Wayne county and into Cedar county.

Masked Men Take Money From Fold

When Don Beckenhauer was returning to the Beckenhauer farm northeast of Wayne Sunday evening, two masked men with guns forced him to stop the car as he turned north from the Wakefield highway onto the road which leads to the farm. They took the money from his billfold and returned the billfold to him, and then ordered him to drive them to Wakefield. He took them almost to Wakefield, but they left the car before reaching there.

Mr. Beckenhauer was returning from Wayne at the time of the robbery and had slowed down to allow another car to pass him before making the turn. The men had apparently been hiding before they came out, one from each side of the road. They failed to find a $5 bill which Mr. Beckenhauer had placed in his watch pocket. The billfold contained $1 and some change.

Question Up To Voters Strange Schemers Likely to Follow Big Harvests — Wholesome Selfishness — The Merciful Course — Contrast.

The question of buying the Perry tract of thirtyfive acres for a municipal park will be settled at a special election next Tuesday, August 17. Everybody should vote. To buy and improve the grounds, thus adjacent to the city, would seem to be in line with civic pride. The park may be used for many purposes, and the swimming pool which is a part of the deal, was built at several times the cost of the entire investment now proposed.

Occasional freshets which at rare intervals course near—seldom over—the tract may be redirected with little cost. The park at West Point was reclaimed from lower ground, more frequently flooded than the acreage considered here. Dikes were built, and the same thing may be done to protect the Perry land. A bridge is sometimes swept by flood, but it isn't abandoned.

The park in prospect may be converted into a beauty spot, and into a place for all kinds of outdoor activities. A tourist camp in connection would help popularize Wayne. C. C. boys could doubtless be secured to do all necessary work without expense to the city.

'Siturdus' Omaha World-Herald called attention to the remark of Prof. P. H. Elwood, city planning expert, who said American cities and towns are ugly. The World-Herald emphasized the fact that uninviting communities are due to indifference and neglect—to poor housekeeping, and would not need to be so. Communities may have attractive parks, neatly kept private premises and clean streets and alleys.

When towns turn their backs on appearance and sources of comfort, they figure they can get along with things as they are. They get out of step with progressive communities and threaten to slip.

We do not know whether the required sixty percent of voters of Wayne will support the park proposition or not. Voters have a lot of kids, and they are usually foresighted enough to provide for their future. We have an idea they will do so this time. The proposed park would afford recreation and camping grounds for all time, and we hope citizens will not allow the small cash investment involved to stand in the way of favorable action.

Crops Attract Schemers. Abundant harvests and increased buying power usually attract fellows with doubtful selling schemes. Along comes a glib stranger with towering nerve, and tries to make you wonder how you managed so long without the thing he has to offer. Garrets are full of uselessly discarded purchases. Really accomplished slickers are known to follow the scent of rich crop yields and endeavor to inveigle unsuspecting victims into buying pretended advantages so much per advantage. The prudent and safe way to do is to take fluently presented propositions of uncertain value under consideration. Time for thought will usually show up weak spots and save mistakes and regrets. It is wisest to deal with home folks whom one knows.

Values in Progress. Wanting an improved city is of course selfish, but wholesomely so. Whatever is done to improve public or private property makes a better place in which to live and do business. While one may never desire to sell his holdings, he feels more content if there is a market for them. And the influence that stimulates property demands, is a constantly improving community. Compare values and rents in Wayne with those in less favored towns. They are higher here because of certain known advantages. Not only Wayne, but miles of farm area in every direction largely benefit by a live, progressive county seat—a center that has the vision to see and the will to grab opportunities in the offing.

Tunes Out Right. A sympathetic world with a sense of where justice should lead, could not fail to rejoice over termination of the strange Chicago case in which a mother yielded possession of a little lad to the woman who had reared him from the time of his birth. The result is a happy one for the child as well as for the foster mother. However courts might rule in such an unusual complication, human sensibilities are soothed by a compromise that does the merciful thing.

The Old and New. The early-day community, comparatively isolated and living largely unto itself, usually had rival bosses. At least two stoutly manned factions fought for supremacy, each with a leader, sometimes more than one leader, capable of employing either mild or rough methods. Besides factional leaders, there were other...

Crows and Grasshoppers

KILLING crows destroys grasshopper enemies, according to those who know the crow's appetite for marauding insects. The Christian Science Monitor reports Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature association, as saying the crow is one of the most efficient destroyers of grasshoppers. Says the Monitor in concluding its defense of the crow:

"Why should it not be the duty of extension workers of the United States department of agriculture to teach rural people the facts about crows and grasshoppers, along with the benefits to be derived from diversification, rotation, the use of fertilizer, and proper planting and marketing methods?"

"Why cannot Uncle Sam's men teach the farmers that young crows often eat more than 100 grasshoppers an hour? Would farmers of Indiana for instance, have countenanced a crow-killing contest that eliminated 194,781 crows if they had realized that at the rate of only fifty insects a day these butchered birds could have devoured 9,713,530 grasshoppers?"

Proposed Corn Loans

THE president opposes government loans on corn and cotton unless a production control program is adopted. The proposed loan is not a gift, and the money returns to the government as stored crops are released and sold. The plan is to afford partial cash realization by producers without flooding the market and forcing prices down. Storing crops and permitting orderly sale finally cost the government nothing. The president's idea is to curtail production and avoid possible surplus. An examination of granaries and feed lots would indicate that he is entertaining a very remote fear at this time. Supplies should be encouraged to meet demands before worrying about over-production, the while preventing market flooding and price slumps. More effort in the direction of restoring foreign markets for American agriculture and less freedom in shipping in South American grain and meat should come ahead of bureaucratic planning of farm operations. A farm program's helps should not be negated by unnecessary hindrances. Crop loans would manifestly help.

Support Family

THE president has been an outstanding success in looking out for family connections, according to the following editorial paragraph in the Norfolk Daily News:

"With the president's son in a $10,000 federal job, his uncle appointed to an assistant secretaryship in the cabinet, his cousin named minister to Canada, his cousin's widow given a lucrative job supervising the interior decorating of American embassies over the world, and minor relatives on the payroll here and there, the issue of nepotism which reared its ugly head a few years ago seems to be dead as a rusty doornail. If the head of the government can distribute fat jobs to his relatives, why can't a congressman?"

guarantee success. Other clubs and individuals would cooperate.

A growing belief that republicans and Jeffersonian democrats should combine in opposition to New Deal policies is voiced by former President Herbert Hoover who rightly thinks issues and objectives should be considered above party lines. It is only just for republicans to support house and senate democrats who have upheld constitutional government in conflict with administration demands and threats. A coalition of all forces out of accord with the administration's bullheaded determination to keep on moving to the left would doubtless win—would reestablish confidence on a sound, working basis. Left-wing republicans who have joined the New Deal performance and helped push its fallacies along fully warrant the realignment proposed.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock every morning we had seen Ted Perry headed for his farms just southeast. If we were a little late, we would meet him coming back; if a little early, meet him going out. Also at that hour the night marshal is just concluding his usual vigil. But the last few mornings he had showed up, and we missed him. The trio usually seeing the town properly started off in the early morning was thus reduced to two. We wondered what had become of the third one. Then we learned Ted was in a hospital, and that explained his enforced absence. We hope he soon recovers and gets back on the job. In the meantime we will keep an eye on his fields and herds.

Roger Babson, economist, reports that increased payrolls, dividends and farm income are taking care of a considerable upswing in the cost of living. Farmers and businesses dependent on them will figure the cost of living has been jumped ahead of recovery from the drouth paralysis. The farm income is probably estimated on a basis of what it would be if the farmer had something to sell. Farmers whose corn turns out an average yield—and those hereabouts promise to do so—will be able to meet higher commodity prices, but those fellows elsewhere who have suffered a hangover of the drouth spell will look on talk of increased farm income as the year's biggest absurdity.

Among other fallacies joyfully entertained by Editor Edgar Howard of the Columbus Telegram, is one that any contributions from the federal treasury for public projects should buy and seal the support of any receiving community. According to the Columbus editor, any state or county or town thus benefited should close its eyes to all faults and accept whatever is offered even if it means surrender of cherished liberties. One would be led to suppose the money for public projects comes from the New Deal exchequer rather than from the taxpayers among whom beneficiaries will know from painful experience that they have been included.

Not only in cases of sickness and other distress do farm families cooperate, but in handling major farm jobs they join hands and work together for mutual benefit. Lately the busy threshing season has evidenced the cooperative spirit. Men have united in putting over the tasks, and they have been supplied with food by a combination of the cooking skill of neighbor women. It is this fine spirit of friendly cooperation that helps enrich farm life. One may have much or little in worldly goods, but he is really most wealthy if he is part of a circle of genuinely sympathetic and unselfishly helpful friends.

Resentment over Nazi persecution of church people in Germany is manifesting the old spirit of sticking to convictions regardless of consequences. Believers in religion are beginning openly and stoutly to resist surrender of faith to man-fashioned dictatorship.

There is a growing demand for a department of vocational agriculture for the city school. It is pointed out that more farm students would come to Wayne's high school if agriculture were included in the curriculum.

Mayor Butler of Omaha, has either a profound sense of duty or he is fond of a fight. He is now after gambling schemes in the metropolis, and he has instructed policemen to get busy or quit.

HARDSHIPS.

As pain is often a friendly warning against dangers, so hardships keep one's feet on the ground and help him avoid foolish excesses. If a fellow could always have easy sailing and follow where fancy leads, he would soon become a hopeless weakling, neither a help to himself nor an ornament to society. It takes hard experiences and disappointments to build fiber and sharpen wits. It is necessary to have problems to solve in order to know how to solve them. It is necessary to make mistakes in order to learn how to correct them. Independent thinking and planning develop the initiative that fashions sturdy character. Self-reliance comes with meeting obstacles and overcoming them. The iron courage of the pioneers did not flinch in the presence of ill fortunes, and descendants need more of the same spirit to maintain and develop their inheritance of independent civilization. Modern advantages should not be accepted as a reason to lie down and surrender important individualism. They should spur ambition to greater use of qualities that surmount difficulties, win new achievements and build goals of satisfaction. Hardships could not be entirely removed without enfeebling and finally destroying the race.

called prominent citizens. A prominent citizen was one who visited a metropolitan center once or twice a year and brought back ideas for the provincial masses to adopt. The prominent citizen might have been more prosperous than the rest. At least he was able to simulate enough prosperity to excite popular respect and envy. In the old days, communication was restricted to tardy mail service, and settlers were only remotely acquainted with the outside world. Witness the difference! People are now on the go everywhere. Pushing a button starts the radio and brings latest news from most distant parts of the earth. Every community is in close touch with the world. There are no local bosses. Everybody thinks for himself, and everybody usually depends on his own judgment. Modern advantages have done wonders in breaking down barriers and fashioning social equalities.

THE UNIVERSE.

The universe is rational and orderly. When it started or how it happened to start or what plan prompted it to start, no one knows. But not for a moment has it stopped. Not for a moment in all the ages has its different parts shown lack of harmony. It is ever on the move, inanimate matter by direct force, in an orderly manner by intelligence. The idea that a universe is perpetuated while life in it exists for a brief time and then passes into oblivion and does not harmonize with the reasonableness of creation. Dr. Fosdick quotes Charles Darwin as saying: "It is an intolerable thought that man and all other sentient beings are doomed to complete annihilation after such long and painful slow progress." Sensing the relative importance of man and noting the height of reasoning to which man rises, Sir Oliver Lodge said: "I will not believe that it is given to man to have thoughts, nobler or loftier than the real truth of things." Dr. Fosdick concludes: "Death is a great adventure, but none need go unconvinced that there is an issue to it. The man of faith may face it as Columbus faced his first voyage from the shores of Spain. What lies across the sea, he cannot tell; his special expectations all may be mistaken; but his insight into the clear meanings of present facts may persuade him beyond doubt that the sea has another shore. Such confident faith, so founded upon reasonable grounds, shall be turned to sight, when, for all the dismay of the unbelieving, the hope of the seers is rewarded by the vision of a new continent."

An Open Letter To Voters of Wayne

August 10, 1937.
On next Tuesday, August 17, you will have an opportunity to vote for or against the proposition to purchase a 35-acre tract of land for use as a public park. This tract is improved with a swimming pool, bath house and fitted with a lawn and shrubbery. There was about $800 spent also for trees and shrubbery. These 35 acres are level, fertile Logan valley land, the soil being ideal for the growth of grass and shrubbery and trees such as are wanted in a public park.

Mr. Perry, owner of this tract, has very generously offered it to the city for the sum of $2,500. This offer is made by Mr. Perry with absolutely no reservations and the deed will be a straight warranty deed with no conditions in it. Numerous stories are being told about reservations that have been made by Mr. Perry. There are as stated above absolutely none. Mr. Perry did appear before the city council with one request and that was that no liquor ever be allowed to be sold on the ground. I am sure this request will meet with your approval.

Some opponents of the proposition say that it will be very expensive to develop and maintain. I believe that this tract can be developed into a beautiful park, one that the city will point to with pride, at very little expense. We are assured that the park can be developed with either WPA labor or a contingent of CCC boys at no expense to the city. The land will be tax-free if the city owns it. I am sure that the expense of operating the pool and a good bit of other expense of taking care of the park will be derived from the revenue from the swimming pool.

We do need such a tract of ground for other purposes, such as a ball ground, locations for cabin camps for the girl and boy scouts, trailer cabin camps, etc.

Argument against it is also that this ground overflows. I maintain that even if it should overflow

Wayne City Library News

"One Life, One Kopeck," a novel by Walter Duranty is a new book which has just been received at the library. As has been said, the book will tell American readers more about Russia and Russians than years of reading newspaper dispatches and magazine articles. This is a story of a peasant lad who eventually becomes a leader among the Bolsheviks. The story takes place during the greatest upheaval in world history. The book plunges into action in the very beginning with the peasant lad's exile to Siberia, through no fault of his own, at the age of 15. He is converted to Bolshevism, deserts the Tsar's army and later engages in underground revolutionary activities.

Ivan later rises to a position of authority against the background of the Civil war. He also falls in love with Nina, a white Russian. In the final chapter of the book the lad meets the test of love or duty to one's country.

The Wayne city library has many contributors. Several copies of the "Western Stamp Collector," a newspaper containing much interesting news about stamps, values, histories and market prices, have been given the library by Paul Mines. The Nations Business magazine has been donated by Dr. T. T. Jones, and copies of the Business Week have been supplied by R. L. Larson.

Pikes Peak Adds Gray Hairs For Back Seat Driver

Park and residence lawns in Denver give one the impression that they are cut with electric hair clippers, so thick and even is the rich green carpet. Even steep terraces are just as solid and green. One learns that lawns are shipped with blanket grass which is sopped in from other states, mostly Kentucky. Lots of care and considerable water are required, but results justify the effort. Denver people take equal pride in their lawns. Public parks, which are numerous, and boulevards reflect the same care taken of private grounds.

But diagonal streets add a puzzling experience to a midwesterner who is kept busy watching square corners. Besides the usual streets at right angles, Denver has several diagonal ones. The matter of driving or walking according to lights on these intersections becomes too complicated and one just decides to follow the crowd and trust to luck. Denver folks are most friendly and are always anxious to help the puzzled traveler.

Scenery is attractive but people are more interesting. When one combines the two by tours out of Denver, the experience is especially worthwhile. A party traveling to the Garden of the Gods, Manitou, Pikes peak and Colorado Springs last Friday included a South Carolina girl who is a stenographer for a New York lawyer, nicknamed Dixie, three Kansas sisters who were referred to as the triplets, an engineering professor who taught in Wisconsin and is now with the national steel corporation, the driver of long experience and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Nyberg of Wayne.

Among the unique and colorful formations of the Garden of the Gods one finds a little old Indian, 89, who delights in dressing the visitors in Indian garb for a picture taken with him. His reward is 15¢ a picture.

The Pikes peak drive requires steady nerves and it is well that some in each party are able to calm the others. Pikes peak rises to a height of 14,000 feet, which is 9,000 above Denver. The road which is cut away from sides of the mountains winds in hairpin curves on the edge of precipices which seem a mile or two deep.

The driver must take the outer curve in order to get his car around, and only one road circles the mountain so the backseat driver must worry about meeting a car coming down the incline. The climb is 18 miles in low gear. Each time the car stops at a water station to cool the boiling radiator, the traveler asks how much farther and learns the distance is still a few thousand feet. Finally the top is reached and what a relief! The air is cool, in fact cold, only 54 degrees. A cloud forms and it rains. This custom is followed almost every afternoon, and very often the rain turns to snow. Dixie always has a little more to see. But finally the party is collected and starts down. After an hour or two the bottom is reached and a few gray hairs added.

Mt. Evans, a few hundred feet higher than Pikes peak, is soon to have a road which will be open to travel. Colorado Springs is a beautiful city lying at the foothills of Pikes peak. It is said that the city has more millionaires than any other in the country in proportion to its population. The Broadmoor hotel is described by the guide as the finest in the United States. The cheapest room is $42 a night. A short distance from the city, part way up a mountain, stands a monument to Will Rogers.

Another of the beautiful drives out of Denver is to Lookout mountain on top of which are the graves of Buffalo Bill Cody and his wife. There one sees a big black grizzly bear and is delighted at his first sight of one of these wild specimens. Then he learns the animal is a stuffed one. The mountain, which is a vantage point in overlooking the valleys, was used in early times by the Indians in spying their followers. Later Buffalo Bill used the mountain for spotting Indians and buffalo. At his request he was buried on the summit. A lodge near the grave contains guns and other relics belonging to Buffalo Bill. The museum is in charge of Mrs. Baker, wife of Cody's adopted son. The four daughters and adopted son in the family are dead.

Another new experience is riding a streamline train. Station agents advised that the only sure way to ride one is to make reservation five weeks in advance. One pullman section which had been sold from Omaha to Chicago was obtained by the Nybergs who wanted to ride from Denver to Omaha. The train is entirely air conditioned, clean, cool air being poured into each section continually. In fact it was so cold that coats felt good. The coaches are so solidly built that one never hears the train whistle. The train sails along at 90 miles an hour and the landscape blurs in the speed. Steel shutter-like doors replace most of the curtains used in Pullman cars. Radios, upholstered chairs and lounges, and desks make for a home atmosphere. A graduate nurse serves as stewardess and gives special attention to children.

Crops between Wayne and Denver look good in general. Corn is best in northeast Nebraska. Farther south the crop seems to be firing some, and in North Platte neighborhood hail took much. Small grain and hay crops seem abundant, and sugar beets look good in western Nebraska.

Wayne friends of Mrs. H. S. Ringland will be interested to know that she has gained 30 pounds and is improving nicely. She is in the beautiful Porter sanitarium. Many who have taken treatments there have been restored to activity after strokes and Mrs. Ringland feels that she will do the same in time.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Wightman and Jacqueline, whom the Nybergs accompanied to Denver, arrived in Long Beach Sunday and will return after attending to business. The Nybergs arrived home Sunday.

Wedding Service Will Be Saturday

inum satin fashioned in princess style with slight train and short puffed sleeves. She will wear a skull cap of the same material and will carry a bouquet of gardenias.

Dr. Lippold, bridegroom, and Harry Ellis Fisher, who will serve as best man, will meet the bridal party at the altar. The men will wear white suits.

The bride's colors will be carried out in the refreshments to be served at the reception following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ahern, Mr. and Mrs. Lippold and Miss Margaret Ahern will receive the wedding guests.

A wedding dinner will be served at the Hotel Stratton Saturday evening. In the party will be Miss Marian Ahern, Dr. Lippold, who comes from Chicago today, Miss Margaret Ahern, Mr. and Mrs. O. Lippold, Miss Lorna Lippold and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Gregg, who come from Chicago Friday, Miss Esther Mae Ingham and Harry Ellis Fisher. Mrs. Gregg is a sister of Mrs. J. J. Ahern.

The bride's traveling suit is a black and white cape style dress with which she wears a turban. Miss Ahern is a graduate of Wayne college high school and attended Wayne State Teachers college two years. She studied six months at Battle Creek, Mich., and spent four years taking special work in the Chicago Art Institute and the National Academy in Chicago. She also studied in the Fine Arts academy in the city. For two years Miss Ahern has been secretary to the manager of Dovenmuehle Incorporated, real estate firm, in Chicago.

Dr. Lippold was graduated from the Chicago Dental college and took his internship at Billings hospital in the city. Last October he went to Annapolis to serve as dentist in the navy where he has been commissioned lieutenant. He and his bride will live in Annapolis.

Forgery Charges Faced By Couple

officers stated, said he did not know Miss Graves. According to Miss Graves, the car was bought from A. Marston of Wayne, in exchange for a diamond ring valued at $350. Sheriff J. H. Pile does not know of anyone by the name of Marston here. Geering, according to Sheriff Pile, signed a confession to the federal bureau of investigation that this car had been stolen at Duluth. Geering's confession also involves other car thefts and interstate traffic of stolen cars, which federal officers are investigating.

On the car Miss Graves attempted to sell are Wayne county license plates No. 27-672 which were bought here July 26. Sheriff Pile had notified officers to look for this number. The car also bore plates bought at Lincoln. The motor vehicle transfer road in part as follows: "Notice is hereby given to the motor vehicle department of the state of Nebraska and county treasurer that E. E. Balmer of Laurel has sold and transferred to A. Marston of Wayne, July 26, 1937, a motor vehicle described as follows and requests same to be registered in the name of A. Marston: Ford 4-door sedan, motor No. 2503286, wire wheels, model No. 18, blue, 8 cylinders, 5 passenger. F. O. Robinson, notary public, July 26, 1937." Examination and comparison led officers to charge the pair with forging the signatures of seller, buyer and notary.

After the two were held in Omaha during investigation, they were brought to Wayne Friday. Miss Graves had preliminary hearing Monday. Officers say that Geering, who admitted serving time in Wisconsin, California and Colorado, will be held here until he is taken to federal court in Omaha by a United States marshal. The forgery charge is still on file against him in this county.

Tribute Is Paid Glenwood Doctor

Dr. William M. Plimpton Administered To Many Over Forty Years.

More than 1000 gathered at the Baptist church in Glenwood, Ia., July 13 to pay tribute to Dr. W. M. Plimpton, 68, who died July 9 after practicing in that city over 40 years. In the memory of each one there was some kindly act of administration rendered by the doctor. Deceased was known to Wayne residents as the husband of Miss Laura Bartlett who lived here in the early days. Mrs. Carl Baker and her family knew the doctor at Glenwood.

Dr. William Merrill Plimpton was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., September 20, 1869, and came to Iowa at an early age. After finishing Denison high school, he attended Des Moines university and took his medical course at Chicago university. When offered a graduate scholarship to specialize, the doctor declined, preferring to enter the field as general practitioner and serve the people of his community in their troubles.

Dr. Plimpton married Miss Laura Bartlett October 1, 1896, the year he established his office at Glenwood. Besides his wife, the doctor leaves three daughters, Ruth of Fullerton, Calif., Helen of Pomona, Calif., and Lorna, now Mrs. Jack Dadds of Clarkburg, W. Va., and two sons, Dr. Edwin Plimpton of Los Angeles, and Merrill, student at the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Plimpton was active in church and Sunday school. He was a Royal Arch Mason, member of the Eastern Star, Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows. The doctor was a charter member of the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary club which he served as president. He was mayor of Glenwood four years and on the school board 12 years.

Mixing Station Established Here

In an effort to kill the second hatch of grasshoppers while they are in the feeding grounds, the agricultural office has established a mixing station at the Theobald Lumber company in Wayne. Farmers may get as much poison bait as they wish each Tuesday and Thursday. Persons wishing the bait will call at the court house office for an order and then go to the lumber yard for the material. Persons are asked to leave orders in advance with the agricultural office if possible so that no delay will be experienced in supplying the bait.

The government provides kyan, sawdust and poison. For the banana oil, molasses and salt which are added, also for trucking and labor, the farmer pays 30¢ per hundred. Each is asked to bring a bag or sack for his supply.

Mission Festival Is Well Attended

A large crowd attended the annual mission festival of the Grace Lutheran church at the Wayne county fair grounds Sunday. About 650 were present for the morning services and 800 for the afternoon. Rev. Walter Brackensiek is pastor of the church. Rev. H. Hopmann of York, spoke at both the morning services. Rev. Kaeser of Leigh, was speaker in the afternoon. The ladies of the church served dinner and lunch.

Brass Wrist Lyre
Is Treasured Gift
Of Wayne Musician

Among one of the treasured possessions of Catherine Cavanaugh is a lyre which was presented to her at South Sioux City last week, when the Wayne band played at the celebration there.

When the band played at Ponca a few weeks ago, an elderly man, Mr. Davis of South Sioux City, who is interested in the piccolo and is himself a former lute player, became interested in Catherine and noticed that her wrist lyre did not fit well. Last week when Mr. Davis learned that the Wayne band would be in South Sioux City, he found Catherine and presented her with a large brass lyre which he had had 30 years ago when he played before the king and queen of England. Catherine finds that the lyre fits much better and she is very much pleased with her gift. She plans to have the man's name engraved upon it along with her own. Mr. Davis also gave her several solo pieces for the piccolo which he formerly played.

O'Kelly's interest in farming is limited to his desire to show that the natural elements do more harm than good as far as agriculture is concerned. He contends that heat and water are best applied indoors. He supplies his heat through furnaces, his water through sprinkling cans. Thus his crops never suffer from drought, wind or heavy windstorms.

Leslie's great-grandfather went to Holland on business, asked in his will that his descendants remain British subjects. They have complied with his request, but their personal interests have kept them in the Netherlands.

Mr. Johnson's parents were so fond of a turtle they kept for 22 years that when the son was born in 1906 he was named for the pet. Both Doves are still alive.

CONGRESS
AN REEF BY KARL STEFAN

Norris Makes Recovery.

Dr. Calver, the house physician, informs members that he has word from Wisconsin regarding the physical condition of Senator George Norris of Nebraska. The house doctor is quoted as saying that Norris has recovered his usual health and is up and around and enjoying working in his garden and enjoying the outdoors of his Wisconsin home.

Per Capita Debt Is $436.

The taxpayer's debt is close to the forty billion dollar mark. Reducing it to the debt of each person of our country, it will amount today close to $436 per person. Eight years ago that debt was around $277 per capita. This debt question is what is worrying a lot of the financial experts here. That is one reason for the president's orders to cut ten percent of the federal expense, an order against which all of Washington seems to be protesting today.

Praise For Ex-Governor Weaver.

The house today passed a Panama canal bill which has to do with the rates and tonnage of ships going through the canal. This new rate bill is the result of an investigation in the canal zone by an American commission of which former Governor Weaver of Nebraska was a member. Mr. Weaver collaborated in a very exhaustive report on the canal problem. During the debate on this bill, the former Nebraska governor came in for many complimentary remarks for his untiring efforts on behalf of inland waterways, a problem on which he has become an expert.

Restore Pay For Jurors.

Jurors who serve on federal court juries will get $4.00 a day instead of $3.00 a day if the senate passes the bill which the house passed Thursday. The house feels that $4.00 a day for jurors on federal juries is reasonable. The price was cut to $3.00 per day in the economy act and the new bill merely returns to the old $4.00 per day rate.

Washington Unemployment.

Believe it or not—the unemployment problem in Washington is serious. A law student was picked up in front of the white house yesterday in an unconscious condition. Physicians said he was starving. In the hospital this law student who came from a western state said he had been trying to get work and had spent his last cent for food during the week. Notwithstanding the fact that a hundred thousand or more people have fine jobs here, there are hundreds who daily call at the local charity offices for food and lodging.

To Be Less "Wrestling" in Dancing.

For the last two weeks the dancing masters of this country have been holding their annual convention here. Thousands of these dancing teachers—most of them women—have been holding meetings and putting out a lot of publicity about how good it is for the human being to dance. These teachers of dancing tell the public that the new fangled dance are all right in a way, but their leaders say that the old time waltz and old-time two-step are coming back and that this new thing will be seen in the better dancing places in the not too far future.

Congressmen Advised to Dance More.

One old man who is very distinguished looking is one of the leaders of these dancing master who are meeting in this city. He comes from Wisconsin and he tells in public how he taught Bob LaFollette, the Wisconsin statesman, how to dance. He has been telling senators and congressmen that there would be less deaths among their numbers if they danced more. This old dancing master is a German-American and says that the public is not walking enough and is riding automobiles too much to be hardened against physical exercise when that suddenly confronts this modern generation.

On Guard Against Widows.

Count DeZapp is an old time newspaperman and is a member of the White House newspaper staff. He's about 65 years old and is a widower. He tells his newspaper friends that there are so many more women in Washington that young and old men have a hard time from being "captured" and getting married. This old newspaperman tells in public how he was approached the other day by a very distinguished woman who

Girl Scout Camp Filled With Fun For Local Girls

"Camping days, camping days, finest days you've ever had!" So goes the old camping song, and Marjorie Fitch and Dorothy Casper who returned Tuesday of last week from girl scout camp at Sioux City, can verify the truth of the statement.

Sixty girl scouts attended the camp and these were divided into three units according to ages and camp experience. The division into which the local girls were placed had 25 girls and four leaders. They were located at "Camp O' The Hills" at Stone park, 10 miles out from Sioux City.

Days were well filled with activities and good times. Appetites were keen and food was good. The day's schedule was as follows: Rising, 6:15; horseback riding, 7 to 8; breakfast, 8; campfire, 8:30; girl scout court of honor, 9:30; nature study, 10; Luncheon was prepared by each division in their own kitchen and was served at 12:30. Afternoon schedule included rest hour from 1:30 to 2:30; craft, 2:30; swimming, 3:30; free period, 4:30; camp songs and singing, 5:30; dinner, 6:30; hikes or general campfire, evening; taps, 8:15; lights out, 9:30.

earning junior and senior life saving. Marjorie had ridden a pony only once before she registered for horseback riding at camp. She was very much enthused over her experience and before her week's camping was completed was able to post. She admits being a little frightened at first.

Dinner each evening was served at the main lodge which accommodated 70 girls and all of the leaders. The girls slept in tents, although two new cabins have been added to the camp and next year it is hoped that the entire group will be equipped with cabins to replace the tents.

Sunday afternoon was visitors' day and many parents were present. A swimming demonstration was given for the guests, and other phases of camp life were explained.

In campcraft the girls learned to make rings, to work with chip board, make hotpads and various other objects.

One of the trips taken by some of the older girls who had passed several swimming tests was the overnight canoe trip. The 13 girls took five canoes and paddled up the stream 11 miles where they camped overnight. Equipment had to be packed evenly in order to balance the weight of the canoes.

General campfire in the evening was always fun and impressive. The program was varied with stunts, songs or just campfire.

Although this is not the first time the girls have attended camp.

Highlights of California Seen By Superintendent

Not content to study color, formations and just see scenery, Supt. E. W. Smith, who recently returned from a two months' vacation in California and other western states, tried to be a biologist, geologist and sociologist, studying present-day conditions, occupations and different attitudes.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Bob and Miss June with Miss Margaret Gimet of Grand Island, left Nebraska early in June. Mr. and Mrs. Smith returned two weeks ago and Bob and Miss June remained in Los Angeles where both have secured employment.

Enroute to California the Smiths went through McCook to Colorado Springs, where they visited the Garden of the Gods and the Cave of the Winds. They crossed the Pass, the altitude of which is quite high, and crossed the continental divide at Independence Pass. At Salt Lake City the Nebraska folks held an organ concert in the Mormon tabernacle.

One of the most interesting cities visited by the Smiths on their trip to the coast was Winnemucca, Nev. Winnemucca is a gold mining and railroad town. Recently a gold mine was sold for $5,000,000 and another vein was located. Mr. Smith remarked that since this sale, Winnemucca has become a booming town and a great deal of gambling is being done. The Smiths arrived in the evening and finding a room was difficult. Getting sleep after the room was found was still more difficult. Mr. Smith's comment was that scores of people were on the street all night long.

Mr. Smith was interested in the miners at Winnemucca. He observed five miners talking together on the street, each a type, yet all were similar. They reminded him of pictures of old-time prospectors.

From Winnemucca the Smiths drove to Reno, down to Sacramento and across the Sierra desert. In this region, one is impressed by the frequency that one sees the name "Donner." Inns, taverns, passes and summits are named Donner. Donner was the head of an expedition which was one of the first to cross the mountains into California in response to the discovery of gold. The expedition was trapped in the mountains during the winter and had to wait until spring before continuing the trip. Deaths were high, but Donner led the remaining members of his group safely into California in the spring.

Traveling along the river to the bay country the Smiths went to Oakland crossing the Oakland bay bridge to San Francisco. The bridge, although not as new as the Golden Gate bridge, is very beautiful, according to Mr. Smith. It has a double deck and quite a long span.

In San Francisco where they visited Mr. Smith's niece who is a nurse there, one of the superintendent's favorite haunts was the wharf and water front, where he used to visit with the sailors and deck hands.

San Francisco is a strong union town and every occupation and industry is tied up. All water front guards and private police have their own unions. It is impossible to get a haircut for less than 75 cents in San Francisco, while in Los Angeles the price is from 25 cents up.

While Mr. Smith was in San Francisco, the hotel strike which is now settled, was being waged. All other unions were backing the picketers. People who valued their lives, dared not enter a hotel which was being picketed. Most of the hotels affected by the strikes were second class. Three thousand hotel employees were involved. Banners worn by many of the strikers carried the following and similar statements: "Hotel owners get turkey prices, hotel employees get hamburger wages." Hawaiians and Filipinos, both men and women, were participating in the strikes. Work was done in shifts in front of the hotels where the strikes were conducted.

From San Francisco down the coast route through the Big Basin and the Redwood region to Santa Barbara was the next move for the Smiths. They visited three different old Spanish missions, the San Luis Obispo, San Luis Rey and San Diego missions. The architecture, according to Mr. Smith, was beautiful. The San Luis Rey was the most beautiful as it was planned by a Spanish padre. They visited the marriage place of Ramona, passed the home of Harold Bell Wright and saw the first palm tree ever planted in California which was brought to the state by early Spanish padres.

While in Los Angeles the superintendent visited the planetarium which is one of three in the United States. At Pasadena he saw the Rose Bowl and Suicide bridge. Since the group has returned to Nebraska a net has been placed under the bridge to prevent so many suicides. Previous to this time it had been guarded.

The "big eye," 200 inch lense, is being ground at the California polytechnical school at Pasadena. Mr. Smith visited the institute and saw the large lense. The lense is partitioned off by glass and spectators can only come within about 30 yards of it. An even temperature is maintained at all times in the room housing the "big eye." It will be two or three years before the lense is completed. Then it will be transported to Mount Polomar. Great interest is being shown in the mount and many companies are adopting the name for a brand name.

In Los Angeles the Nebraska folks visited relatives of Mr. Smith. While in the city they also boarded the aircraft carrier, "Ranger." This is an old naval vessel which is about two blocks long. It is the oldest iron clad vessel built. It was constructed in England during the Civil war. Later it became a private vessel and is now owned by the sea scouts of San Diego.

Imperial valley, 125 miles east of San Diego, is planning one of the largest irrigation projects in the world. Water will be used from the Colorado river.

The Imperial valley is exceedingly hot. All homes and stores are air-conditioned. Many families move to cabins in the mountains for the summer.

Two cities, Mexicali on the Mexican side and Calexico on the American side offered an interesting contrast to Mr. Smith. The Mexican city was very poverty-stricken and the architecture of the buildings varied greatly with that of the American city. In Mexico Mr. Smith noticed the difference in temperature. Being in the shade offers no difference in the coolness of the air, and nights are seldom cooler than the day.

On the return trip Mr. and Mrs. Smith skirted the Mohawk valley, Death valley, stopped at Las Vegas, Nev., and visited Boulder dam. Santa Fe, Ariz., was a very interesting city and a very odd city. The Spanish influence is shown here in the architecture and the very narrow streets. Old buildings and old churches add to the beauty and quaintness of the city. The oldest Catholic church in the United States is located here.

From Santa Fe to Trinidad, Colo., and then to Nebraska, the Smiths completed their sightseeing trip about two weeks ago.

Mr. Smith reported crops throughout the trip were very good. Most of the crops in California, however, are irrigated.

While in Los Angeles, Mr. Smith met a friend who was a classmate of his in high school and college. They had not seen each other for 20 years. He is employed with the Robert Dollar steamship company and at one time was stationed in the orient.

Newspapers in California, reported Mr. Smith, have been carrying headlines about the heat wave through the middle west, referring to this region as the "swelter belt."

Mr. Smith remarked that he had several very pleasant contacts with educational people and institutions. He attended several lectures and short courses. He commented that many Nebraska men are associated in the school work of California.
