

Day in Wayne, October 5—September's Heavy Rain—To Combat Alcohol—Insatiable Thirst for Money—Mencken Lauds Middle West—To Name Husking Winner.

The surrounding country is invited to gather in Wayne next Tuesday, October 5, to share in a series of events planned as a good will offering by the business district. An advertisement in today's Herald presents the detailed program. Attractions have been provided in the hope of gratifying all tastes.

The pet parade reminds us of the dog parade which the Herald had in connection with a school picnic some years ago. Dogs of all varieties and dispositions were entered, and the youngsters having them in charge had themselves and their animals appropriately decorated for the occasion. The spectacle proved very interesting. The coming pet parade will excite even more interest because of the different kinds of animals to be included.

Children should get busy and enter their pets, join the parade and so contribute to the spirit of the day.

The barbecue designed to please the appetite, will be a major attraction. Foster May of Omaha's W.O.W. will conduct his popular man-on-the-street broadcast from Wayne, and those who have something to tell the world, will be given the opportunity. Congressman Karl Stefan who will be here, and who made a notable hit with radio fans, may be expected to exchange words with Omaha's best known radio man.

No one can fail to find something in the day's offering that will please. It will be time happily spent, and it is the hope of the business district that everybody will bear away pleasant memories.

Record Fall of Moisture. The rain which varied from one to five inches in northeast Nebraska Thursday night, amounted to two and sixtysix hundredths inches here. The weather spent all day getting ready for the storm which broke loose around 6 o'clock. Preliminary elements were unseasonably hot and the barometer indicated what was coming. Even the government weather forecast proved reliable.

All parts of the state received shares of the moisture, though the northeast section was the most fortunate. Areas whose crops were wiped out by drought, were soaked. If the rain had been scheduled for August 1, millions of extra dollars in crops would have resulted. As it was, pastures have been revived, and the soil has been given the best soaking in several years—a great help in providing reserve moisture for next year. A similar downpour each week until the annual freezeup would restore the ground to old-time wetness.

To Instruct Children. The "Allied Youth" movement which was presented at a local club meeting last week, is designed primarily to teach school children the injurious effects of alcohol, its purpose is to combat the temptation many and serious dangers lurk. Alcohol is all right as a powerful antiseptic and an antidote for snake bite, but taken internally as a regular habit it impairs the body and buidles the mind, impoverishes other promising lives, multiplies automobile wrecks, increases crime, forces misery into countless homes and otherwise often depicts itself as society's arch-enemy. Attempts to gain favor for alcohol lead to means of defense—safeguarding the rising generation. That is the idea back of the "Allied Youth" movement, as we understand.

Neglecting Important Values. We are told that people in cities of the western and eastern coasts drive so hard for the almighty dollar that other considerations are quite overlooked. Anxiety to grab more to spend more—often the ceaseless struggle to live from hand to mouth—the endless scheming to profit from another's earnings, without due return—chase kindly sympathy from many faces and destroy original well-springs of fellowship. The single purpose of gross self-seeking is not entirely absent from the middle west, but it is not so pronounced and soul-crushing here as it is reported on the two coasts where, we are informed, it offends those new arrivals accustomed to share attention with other and higher values.

"Country Unsinkable." In an unusually optimistic mood, after traveling through the middle west, H. L. Mencken, fiery magazine writer, says: "The country is unsinkable. I could not travel through the great corn fields of the middle west and see its great cities without having my faith reaffirmed." In a wild flight of imagination he even exclaimed: "It is a great country that could survive six Roosevelts."

Corn Husking Contest. The state corn husking contest is to be held this year in an interesting manner.

HARD DOWNPOUR THURSDAY NIGHT

Flood Halts Traffic And Lightning Puts City In Darkness.

A torrential downpour, accompanied by lightning and a gusty wind, brought 2.63 inches of welcome rain here last Thursday night, at the same time disrupting highway and rail traffic for a few hours and leaving the city in darkness for 30 minutes while hasty repairs were made at the city light plant.

Several feet of water rushed across highway 15 south of Wayne Friday morning, making travel by auto precarious without the aid of the maintainer which helped motorists. Early Friday morning the occupants of a car stranded in the middle of the flood were rescued by the operator of a road maintainer who pulled their car to safety.

West of Wayne the morning passenger from Norfolk was delayed several hours while a washed-out section of track was repaired. Report came in that about 400 feet of track had been washed out on the Carroll line where an even heavier rain fell.

The city of Wayne was without lights for 15 minutes Thursday evening when lightning, which struck somewhere along the electric line, burned out two wires of the switchboard at the municipal light plant. Earl Peterson, who works on the evening shift, discovered the fire on the switchboard and quickly put it out with a fire extinguisher. Luckily the damage done was slight.

Some damage was done to electric and telephone wires by the wind, according to reports from rural sections. Farmers of Wayne county and surrounding territory were smiling Friday as fields soaked up the generous supply of rainfall. Following the dry dusty weather of (Continued on page eight.)

RURAL DISTRICTS TO SEND TEACHERS HERE ON TUESDAY

THE annual county institute of rural teachers, scheduled to be held next Tuesday in Wayne reminds us that fundamentals in both learning and character formation have their roots in the comparatively small country districts. Responsibility resting on the rural teachers is not less than that undertaken by the city teacher. The latter is more of a specialist. If something comes up out of her line of duty or beyond her sphere of knowledge, she may refer to some other specialist. The rural teacher has to be qualified in many ways. Besides having the facts which she includes, she must develop fine discernment and must be able to exercise exactness—fact by applying mistaken judgment on the side do great harm. By following the rule of conscience and common sense, having the long future in mind, she can give value of measure and a true value. Wayne will extend hearty welcome to the rural teachers.

CARE IS NEEDED TO SAVE SOURCE

Rev. Carl G. Bader Speaks To Wayne Kiwanis Club Monday Noon.

"People are obsessed with the idea of harvesting to gain wealth," said Rev. Carl G. Bader, new Methodist minister, who addressed Kiwanians Monday following their regular noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton. "We make lumber from the logs, take wealth from the land and forget to take care and replace the means."

In Rev. Bader's message on "Rooting for Service" he said that he enjoys addressing a club whose purpose is service. There is a tendency to talk big and do little. Good thoughts and deeds often never get expressed. Too much attention can be given to the dead while forgetting reinforcing of the means.

The best of equipment, such as electricity, is useless if not connected to the source of power. The power must be maintained to give service. A machine with the power of perpetual motion has never been invented. The minister said the same is true in a club which must be inspired and encouraged by men of good character.

"It is not the size of the dog but the size of the fight in the dog that counts." The same idea is true in man, said the speaker. Men must depend on resources greater than he. Books, fine arts and music are beneficial to replenish character. The church is of course a major influence and (Continued on page eight.)

Bee-News VERIFYING rumors current for some months, the Omaha Bee-News has ceased publication, having been absorbed by the World-Herald. The Bee was founded by Edward Rosewater in 1870, and until the founder's death, it was a vital force in state and national politics.

But nothing seemed able to stop the to-boggan slide following death of the elder Rosewater, and thus, as sound business, Hearst sells to the World-Herald. The World-Herald has been gaining strength in all branches rapidly in recent years.

Learns From THE Omaha Journal-Stockman thinks Secretary Henry Wallace is gaining some wisdom from experience. The secretary is not so cocksure over the success of trying to regulate farm production and is developing more concern over export outlets for surplus crops.

In his speech at Bonneville dam in Oregon, President Roosevelt said he expected to see the national budget balanced in the next fiscal year, and Senator Byrd of Virginia, suggested the president should do more acting and less talking to bring economy in government. The senator advised in effect that spending $7,500,000,000 annually for regular activities—more than double amounts spent in either 1929 or 1930—is no way to practice economy.

The report is current that Postmaster-General James Farley is going to resign and accept a job with an automobile manufacturing company at a salary of $50,000 per year. By so doing we wonder if he is not getting into the distasteful "economic royalist" class.

Roger Babson, economist, says capitalism is the soundest system ever devised, but contends that manufacturers and workers selfishly fail to pass along sufficient benefits to consumers. Numerous strikes the past year have slowed up production and increased commodity costs.

In his trip through the west the president will come into close contact only with politicians, and so he will have difficulty in assaying popular feeling over his court plan and other proposed measures.

It certainly violates freedom to use the United States as ground for the organization of groups supporting alien forms of government, inimical to our democracy. How long would an American last in a dictator-ruled country if he tried to influence its inhabitants in favor of a democracy?

A 12-year-old Ohio boy who had been fed up on gangster stories, decided to shoot his teacher and then kill himself. He thought he would be heroic. Both were wounded, but both will recover. The teacher advised against the usual punishment, but urged examination by a psychologist to figure out a course of treatment.

Fraternalizing of Mussolini and Hitler leads Europe to wonder whether they are planning war or peace. Both express anxiety for peace, and both show military forces to prove they are ready to fight for it if necessary.

Helen Erickson Monday evening. Miss Erma Gabelman spent the week-end with her sisters and families. Supt. and Mrs. Harry S. Hegstrom of Wausa, and Supt. and Mrs. R. W. Caaue of Magnet. On Sunday Miss Gabelman was a guest at a birthday dinner at the Caaue home for Mr. Caaue.

Nine of the spuds, Irish cobbler, are on display in the window of Martin Ringer's office in Wayne. The largest weighed 24 ounces. At an average of 14 pounds each, 50 of the potatoes would make a bushel.

The following Y. M. C. A. members are in charge of the student directory which will be published next week: Allan Hull, Sherman Terry, Gerald Johns, Carroll Reporter, and Bill Steward. Prof. G. W. Christensen is the sponsor.

LIVE TODAY. A magazine writer stresses the folly of working incessantly to build a foundation in the expectation of leisure which never comes or if it did come would not be enjoyed. The ideal of always living for tomorrow and never realizing enjoyments of the present, is emphasized. One postpones play, puts off reading, delays a vacation in the belief that a more auspicious time lies ahead. Another common weakness is neglecting a task that should be done at once. The author would have one put every ounce of strength into the accomplishment of a purpose, and do it without delay. Then reap the satisfaction found in results. Procrastination in play and in work largely defeats both. If a fellow anticipates a vacation to be enjoyed in some future time when he thinks he can afford it, he will probably never take it. As he grows older and his habits become more firmly fixed, he loses interest in change, feeling content only in the routine to which he has long become accustomed. Working hard and resolutely at one's job and then accepting refreshing respites at proper intervals, seem to be the wholesome rule.

Good Will (Continued from page one.) gated field in Buffalo county. In the meantime, Nebraska counties will hold their preliminary contests to choose participants for the state event, and we are glad Wayne county is planning to name its entrant.

To Move To Dakota. Mr. and Mrs. Don Sherry and son plan to leave soon for Harlow, S. D., where Mr. Sherry will manage a Gamble store.

In Local Hospital. Mrs. Dave Schallberg of Wausa, had a major operation last Wednesday at a local hospital. Her condition is good.

EVOLUTION. Pennsylvania threatens to have an evolution trial all its own. A teacher was accused of instructing pupils that they came from monkeys. She denied the charge. It seems there is no law against teaching evolution in Pennsylvania, and whether it is the Darwinian theory that incensed the school directors or a rather opprobrious deduction that their children showed marks of having descended at an indefinite date from simian inhabitants of the jungle is not explained. Perhaps they did not take into account that ages have elapsed since Jimmy's antecedents scurried from tree to tree and playfully hung by their tails in the dense forests of Borneo. School board members should differentiate between Darwinism and the modern notion of evolution, and then try to form conclusions that make sense. It is doubtful if the monkey has improved any since Darwin worked out his theory nearly 100 years ago. It may also be doubtful whether human bipeds, handicapped and dwarfed by wars and threats of war, have undergone any biological or spiritual development in recent decades. However, we have an idea modern evolutionists do not include the monkey in tracing the ancestral line back to the original primate that escaped from the savannah to sea weeds as it swam to and fro. Anyway, the Pennsylvania school board proposes to take its grievance into court.

John, Mary, Jack John relaxed comfortably in his big easy chair. From the opposite side of the room all Mary could see was the front and back pages of the evening paper above which whirled eddies of tobacco smoke and below which protruded two long legs encased in slippers. The evening dishes were washed, little Jack was tucked away for the night and Mary wanted a little attention. Presently she stole softly across the living room floor and pushing the paper aside, crawled into John's lap. "I love you, dear," she said. No response. "I love you, dear," she repeated. "I love you too," said John, "but—" "But what?" asked Mary. "But I'm reading the paper, right now." Mary sat still and John continued to finish his news. In the meantime Mary busied herself with scrutinizing his face and hair. When he had completed his reading Mary said "you need a hair cut; you look like a wolf." "Not a big, bad wolf, I hope," said John. "No," replied Mary. "Just a shaggy, careless wolf. And another thing: I've been wanting to speak to you about this for some time. When did you last visit your dentist?" "Why bring that up?" said John. "Your teeth are almost as brown as your suit," replied Mary. "I can't tell where your pipe stops and your teeth begin. A man in your position shouldn't be so careless. When did you see the doctor?" "Six months ago," said John. "That would be in August," said Mary. "We spent the whole month of August on your mother's farm." "Well, then, seven months ago," said John. "That would be in July," said Mary. "The first half of July you were east on a buying trip. The last half of the month you were working your head off preparing for your vacation. Do you want me to tell you how long it actually has been since you had your teeth looked at? It has been over a year."

"Oh, no," said John. "I know it hasn't been that long." "Yes, it has," replied Mary. "I asked doctor today and he looked up your record card. It has been almost fourteen months. No wonder your teeth are stained. Today was my first chance to have my mouth examined since baby was born."

"Find anything?" asked John. "No," answered Mary. "Doctor cleaned them but found no cavities. My mouth is in good shape. Now yours must be the same way."

John, Mary, Jack DENTISTRY and PUBLIC HEALTH Approved by American Dental Association and the United States Public Health Service WAYNE DENTAL SOCIETY

Remember you must set an example for your son. So John went to see the dentist. Doctor cleaned his teeth thoroughly. With his hand instruments he removed all the calcareous deposits from about the necks of his teeth, and then he brushed and polished them until the last of the stains were removed. "Gee," said John, "don't tell me that is food that you are scraping off my teeth?" "No," replied doctor, "not entirely, although there are some food particles in it. We call this substance calcareous deposits. The common name is tartar. It is made up mostly of lime salts deposited upon the teeth from the saliva. Naturally, some food becomes mixed with these deposits and clings to the teeth. "Saliva is manufactured from three sets of glands—the sublingual, submaxillary and parotid. The parotid gland is the one that swells up when you get the mumps. It empties its saliva into the mouth through an opening near the upper molars. "The submaxillary and sublingual glands empty their saliva into the mouth under the tongue. That is why most tartar is found on the inside surfaces of the lower incisors or front teeth and the cheek surfaces of the molar teeth. "Tartar is harmful. Its sharp edges break the gum tissue and cause it to bleed. In time it may push the gums away from the roots of the teeth and cause them to become loose in their sockets. If tartar deposits are not removed they may cause pyorrhea. You are fortunate because you have good teeth. You won't be troubled much by decay, but unless you have them cleaned more often your gums may become sore and as you grow older pyorrhea may set in. "What about smoking?" asked John. "Does that hurt the teeth?" "No," replied doctor, "except that it stains them and makes them unsightly. Heavy smokers must have their teeth cleaned often than others. Ordinary daily brushing helps remove the stains, also tartar, but home brushing alone is not sufficient." (Continued.)

Back-to-school means back to gay colorful fashions this year!

Plaids steal the campus show in many a first registration, and are rivaled by the bright "winter pastels" so popular in tailored wool frocks and matching sweaters and skirts.

Colors Enliven Bags and Gloves

Following the more elegant mode of this season, accessories are noted in deep rich colors worn during the 1900's, when elaborate social life brought luxury fashions to the fore.

Glamorous Headgear Characterizes Fall

Dramatic silhouettes in fall hats will frame every lovely feminine contour this season. Bringing back a mode of elegance and great beauty, Paris designers have borrowed from the rich headresses of many nations.

Furs and Woolens In Fashion Feature

Pockets, plastrons, wide front tuxedo effects, and often entire sleeves are among the lavish fur trimmings on new fall coats. Color contrasts and harmony is achieved through special shading on the furs.

Spotlight Bright Bags.

A mode of rich dark colors and much black for this season, gives splendid opportunity for contrast of color in fall handbags. Accenting the note of color on frock or scarf of the suit, the new handbags become an important trimming to the costume itself.

Wayne High Upsets Pierce Eleven, 7-6

Outplay Visitors Throughout Game For First Victory In Two Years.

Wayne high's victory-starved football team broke into the win column by upsetting the strong Pierce Bluejays 7-6 in the first game of the season at the college practice field Friday afternoon. It was Wayne's first victory on the gridiron in two seasons—and a glorious triumph it was.

Coach Elwood Morris' boys meant business from the opening kickoff, playing a hard clean brand of football and completely outplaying the visitors. Weeks of drills on fundamentals under Coaches Morris and Feddersen showed up in the fine play of the Wayne team.

A strong wind advantage. A strong wind from the north swept lengthwise across the field during the contest, giving a strong advantage to the team with the wind at its back.

Pierce, Coach Ambrorse's team, counted early in the game when Wayne fumbled deep in its own territory and punted out against the wind. A beautiful forward lateral with Retzlaff passing to Sullivan and Sullivan tossing the oval over to Anderson who scampered over for the touchdown, put Pierce in the lead, 6-0. The play netted 25 yards.

Except for this one aerial offensive, the visitors were bottled up by the powerful Wayne forward wall. Wayne, however, began punching the line and running the ends for consistent gains which took the players into scoring territory several times. Each time they lost the ball only a few yards short of a touchdown or were penalized when a score seemed certain.

Wayne Scores Late in Game. With the wind advantage in the third quarter, Wayne began another drive. An exchange of punts put the ball on the 28-yard line, Wayne in possession. Orval Graham circled left and behind good blocking for 15 yards, but a pass over the goal line was incomplete. Three attempts through the line failed to shove it over the goal, and Pierce punted out to the 20-yard line.

Aided by a 15-yard penalty against Pierce the home lads were off on a touchdown march with the line opening big holes for the charging backs. Gildersleeve and Coryell carried the pigskin to the 1-yard line. Graham plunged off left tackle to tie the score. Behind line interference, Freddie Gildersleeve scampered through right tackle for the winning point. Score: Wayne 7, Pierce 6.

Pierce Outgained. Wayne outgained the Pierce boys by a large margin, Pierce making but one first down and failing completely to break through the Wayne line. The feature of the game was the outstanding work of this forward wall which functioned well on both defense and offense, paving the way for many gains. Wayne blocking also looked good as they mowed down tacklers for their ball-carrying mates.

Gildersleeve, fiery little ball carrier, was a hard man to stop, and Graham chalked up numerous yards. Lawrence Retzlaff in the Pierce backfield and Poellot and Steinkraus in the line performed well. Perfect football weather, except for the wind, failed to bring out a large crowd for the first game of the season. But with Wayne high off to a good season, gate receipts are expected to pick up from now on.

Veterans of Wildcat Forward Wall

Ready for action against the Beavers tomorrow night are these three lettermen. Jack Brenn, a junior end, played a great game against the Coyotes last week. Two seniors, Edsall at tackle, and Weik at guard, are two fighting Wildcats who will give the Beavers something to worry about.

Coyotes Overcome Big Eight Cops Post Season Tilt Wayne Team, 25-7

Retzlaff Scores On Long Dash In Third Period Of Contest.

Gaining confidence and strength as the game progressed, the Wayne Teachers eleven braced itself in the last half to hold the powerful Coyotes of South Dakota to a 25-7 victory at Vermilion last Saturday afternoon. The heavier and more experienced Coyotes overpowered the Wildcats in the first half, scoring three touchdowns and breaking through to smear several punts.

Erwin Retzlaff, Wildcat halfback, provided the most thrilling play of the afternoon when he received a lateral from Rusty Bradford after a kickoff in the third quarter and sped down the right side of the field 85 yards for a touchdown. He was helped by several good blocks by his team mates. Bradford added the extra point with a placement to give Wayne its seven points.

Coyote Line Strong. The veteran South Dakota line was too strong for the Wildcats, opening the way for consistent yardage and presenting a stone wall defense when Wayne had the ball. However, the Coyotes were able to score only one touchdown in the first quarter, two in the second, one in the third and none in the fourth. They were outscored 7-6 in the third.

The vaulted lateral passing attack of the Coyotes was lacking Saturday. One forward pass to Ryan, Coyote back, was good for 50 yards and a touchdown in the second period; Wayne flashed a dangerous aerial offensive during the game, completing eight out of nine passes.

Brenn Stars In Line. Bradford and Retzlaff were the best ground gainers for the Wildcats. Retzlaff was injured early in the game, but he returned later for his touchdown gallop in the third period. Jack Brenn, end, played a bangup game at his position, while Goodell and Red Johnson were doing a good job in the line.

Among the new men, Reeves, guard from Madison, Lindahl of Tilden, end, and Mullins of Cedar Rapids, tackle, were impressive in their play in the forward wall. Penhollow, Wildcat guard who was slated for a starting position, was injured in practice late last week and was held out of the lineup. Mullins replaced him.

Bartron, all-conference end, and Rollie Smith led the attack of the Coyotes. Along with quarterback Devick they rolled up considerable yardage. Coach Hickman used 24 men in the game, substituting freely throughout. With only minor bruises as a result of the hard encounter with the North Central foe, the Wildcats were fortunate.

A number of cars filled with Wayne followers attended the game at Vermilion. The grid battle was broadcast over WNAJ at Yankton, so Wayne fans were able to listen in on the game.

Wayne Prepares For Buena Vista Grid Battle On Friday Evening

Wakefield Fans Guests Saturday

Football fans from Wakefield community will be guests at Wayne State Teachers college at the Buena Vista game Friday night, October 1, introducing a new custom here which will be continued at home games this season.

An invitation has been sent to Wakefield, and a large crowd is expected for the contest. Someone from that town will be at the gate to identify fellow-townsmen, who will be admitted free as guests of the college.

The new plan was initiated by the athletic committee with the aim of developing a closer relationship between the college and surrounding towns. Other communities will be invited to attend remaining home games.

Wayne High At Laurel Friday

College Preps Tackle Wisner Here In First Game Of Season.

Wayne high elevens play on two fronts Friday afternoon when Coach Elwood Morris' team journeys to Laurel and the college preps meet Wisner on the college practice field at 3:30 p. m.

Wayne high will be trying to break a four-year jinx during which the Laurel team has been victorious in every contest. Off to a flying start last week with a convincing triumph over Pierce, Coach Morris and his Wayne griders have high hopes for a good season. A win over Laurel would put them definitely on their way in that direction.

Coach M. C. Bloss has an inexperienced but scrappy team, with only five lettermen in the lineup; Coach Neal Grubb is directing the Wisner team this season. Last season Wisner defeated the Preps 7-0.

On Dictatorship.

Cliff Frank in York Republican.—President Roosevelt took a shot at lawyers and dictators in his speech on the constitution. He would make many miles to the gallon of gas if he would consult the lawyers instead of listening to quacks. Delano tells us that we should do what laymen advise instead of letting lawyers run things. Laymen are the salt of the earth when it comes to things they know about. Last year the papers told about an auto wreck. Men swarmed around and lifted the car off of the driver. They felt the man's pulse. Could not see him breathe. All pronounced the driver dead. A doctor came along. He put tubes in his ears, the funnel over the man's heart and said that he was not dead. Some fluid was injected into the blood and the heart went to pumping. The laymen were honest but mistaken. Fifty of them did not know as much as one did who had spent years to master his profession. The 65,000 who heard the president did not applaud. Just a dozen or more furnished the only signs of agreement. They made noises like sick woodpeckers tapping on dead limbs. Not a cheap when Roosevelt said that one lone man on the court sets aside laws that were passed by large majorities in both houses of congress. Nearly all of the 65,000 had voted for the speaker but they knew what you know. That is that Roosevelt is one man and that one man by veto power had set aside more laws than had been vetoed by any three presidents if Cleveland is not counted. The tirade against dictators was answered by the German papers. They said in substance that a man living in a glass house should not throw stones. Then told how Roosevelt had dictated to congress, the states and to his party. You do not have to believe the German editors. You know that Roosevelt came all the way from Washington to Minnesota and Nebraska and dictated to his party to repudiate the candidates selected by the people in the primaries.

Wayne Prepares For Buena Vista Grid Battle On Friday Evening

Coach Hickman Stresses Pass Defense In Drills This Week.

Well pleased for the most part with the play of his squad against South Dakota university last week, Coach W. R. Hickman has concentrated this week on building a strong pass defense for the first home game against the Buena Vista Beavers here Friday night at 8:00.

The Wildcats have their minds set on a victory, but their attitude is one of determination rather than overconfidence. Comparative scores usually make a poor basis for comparison. The Beavers lost to the University of South Dakota by a 40-7 margin two weeks ago, while Wayne took a 25-7 defeat at the hands of the Coyotes. But against Wayne the Coyotes were minus the services of several backfield aces.

Beavers Have Aerial Game. A series of forward passes in the second quarter gave the Beavers their touchdown against South Dakota. So the visitors may flash and aerial attack Saturday evening in an attempt to catch the Wildcats off guard.

Coach Hickman has also stressed blocking and tackling practice this week. The Wildcats need considerable polishing before the game since this is still early in the grid season.

The Wayne team should be at peak strength for the Beaver invasion with the return of Willis Penhollow, big tackle, who suffered a minor injury which kept him out of the Coyote encounter.

The starting lineup will probably be the same as against S.D.U. last week.

Double Breasted Suits In Demand

The function of properly tailored good clothes is to bring out worthwhile points and conceal bad ones... to please the eye of the beholder with smooth, graceful lines and skillfully blended colors... to instill a feeling of confidence and well-being, of pleasure and satisfaction. That may seem like asking a lot of a suit of clothes or a topcoat, but the clothes this season come closer to approaching this ideal than ever before. First and foremost they're designed for wearability. That is, they discard all false impressions, they're natural. That may seem like a paradoxical statement in view of our very first sentence. However, clothes can be natural and at the same time conceal defects, while playing up good points.

The Wearable Drape Suit. You may have worn a drape suit three, four, even five or six years ago. Fundamentally, there's nothing new about the model. The newness comes in the way it has been designed to overcome its early shortcomings. Only because the drape is a basically sound style has it refused to disappear from the style scene.

So much attention has been focused on the drape model and on new fabric development it is not surprising to find few radical changes in other suit models. Quite a few men, men who have worn the drape, or who intend to have other suits in addition to it, have turned their attention to the peak-lapel single breasted models for fall.

It's a suit that is typically English, a suit that you'll see on nine out of every ten Englishmen. At one time the two-button single breasted peak-lapel model enjoyed some popularity in this country. That popularity is returning. The raglan topcoat remains the leading seller in the topcoat field although the double breasted drape topcoat is the newest style development for fall. Started by the drape trend in fall suits, the drape in topcoats is even more pronounced. In both single and double breasted its effect is seen.

Fire drill was held this week at the high school. The following monitors were chosen to assist in clearing the building: Warren Bressler, Willard Hale, Fred Gildersteeve, Alfred Stevers, James Pile and Orval Graham.

Junior High Notes.
The sixth grade students who have received 100 in spelling since the beginning of school are Marilyn Stratton, Sally Welch and Marjorie Berg. Children are keeping book charts of the number of outside readings done since the beginning of school. Sally Welch and Marilyn Stratton have each read six books and Marjorie Berg has read five. The students are continuing their study of modern explorers and have just completed a study of Martin Johnson and African animals. Pupils have been bringing newspaper clippings in connection with this study. These have been posted on the bulletin board.

The sixth grade history class has been drawing maps of lands around the Mediterranean sea. Seventh grades are making a study of China. Outside reading reports are being given. Jack Fitch of the fourth grade brought a catalog to school which is 36 years old. This has been helpful to the students in their study of transportation. The catalog shows old fashion buggies and bicycles which are very interesting. He also showed the students a Bible which is 75 years old. Fourth graders chose sides for spelling with Norman Rockwell

Nebraska Farmer—From farmers and others who sought to escape the discomfort of Midwest drought and heat by moving to a more pleasant climate along the Pacific coast, come rumors of their appointment. Instead of a land flowing with milk and honey and countless opportunities, they find that country is overrun with people looking for work or a means to earn a livelihood.

It takes more than climate to pay grocery bills, and jobs are hard to find when competition is keen. Meanwhile, things will be looking up in Nebraska eventually, and those who went west to "greener pastures" may find that the old home state offered the best opportunity, after all.

Egyptian Civilization Interests Wayne College Instructor On Trip

The civilization in Egypt was one of the most interesting phases of the trip taken by Dr. Mary Honey, who arrived September 19 from a trip which took her through Greece, Italy, Turkey and other eastern countries. Egyptian civilization is the least changed from the ancient times of any country which Dr. Honey visited. Homes in the small villages of Egypt are mostly of mud and to the college instructor they reminded her of pueblos. Mud fences about the mud houses and the mud chimney with usually a stork hovering nearby presented a very primitive picture. City homes are more modern, usually following European type of architecture. There are many flat-roofed homes and the hotels were very convenient. The Egyptian people feel that America is a land of wealth and many of them are eager to come to this country. The general atmosphere is one of poverty. Mrs. Honey remarked that the worst period of depression in this country is never as bad as their best. Water buffalo, camels and donkeys are used for doing the farm work. Main products raised there are cotton, sugar cane and some corn. Travels With President's Son. Dr. Honey sailed from New York July 3 and spent the Fourth aboard the Italian ship on which she was traveling. John Roosevelt, son of the president, was aboard the same boat. The passengers docked at Naples, Italy, where Mrs. Honey boarded another Italian ship for Alexandria, Cairo and traveled along the Nile river to Luxor, Karnak and the valley of King Tut's tomb. Out of Cairo, the group with which Mrs. Honey was touring, visited the famous pyramids and the Sphinx. The tourists crossed the Suez canal and went into Jerusalem, the new Zionist colony at Tel Aviv, Bethlehem, crossed the river Jordan, and visited Irtiberas on the sea of Galilee, Nazareth, Damascus, republic of Libanon into Baalbek and Transjordan. She also went to many places out of Greece and visited in Rome. Her return trip took her through Sicily, Algiers, Gibraltar, Lisbon and the Azores.

Native Costume Interesting. Dr. Honey saw many of the natives wearing Arabian costume with fezzes or long flowing kerchiefs on their heads. Many of the women wore face veils but at the crowning of the new Egyptian king the royal family had their faces uncovered, thereby setting a new style. Aleppo, one of the near far Eastern cities, is famous for bazaars. The bazaars were cleaner than in most of the cities. Bazaars are run by people of all nations, Jewish, Russians, Turkish and Greek. Most of the streets in cities where bazaars are popular, are very narrow and little shops, many of them open, are along the streets. Brassware, rugs, all kinds of food, are sold from these little shops. There are also coffee stands, shoe repair shops, all located in the open. The bazaars at Algiers are quite dirty.

Modern Buildings. Dr. Honey visited at Angora, in Asia, which is a very modern city—more modern than many in the United States. The modernistic buildings with curved fronts and porches are similar to French cities. The effect did not blend with the ancient architecture and to Dr. Honey was not as pretty as the older buildings. Dr. Honey visited the director of the school of classical students of the American academy and his wife in Rome for 10 days. Both were former classmates of Mrs. Honey.

In the Holy land and all through the east, Dr. Honey was aware of hatred between the Arabs and Jews. Cities are almost divided, each with their own churches and the like. Athens Beautiful City. Dr. Honey visited in Greece and in Athens she was impressed by the way the city had improved in beauty. Streets are prettier and roads are better, "bad as they are." All through the east the instructor saw people threshing their grain. Dozens of people were seen treading out the grain with mules and camels. After the grain was threshed caravans of camels would take it to the nearest center for sale. In Jerusalem Dr. Honey visited several mosques and old churches. Quite a bit of the old wall remains. The city is divided into four sections—Arabians, Jewish, Mohammed and one other group.

Mussolini's Influence Felt. Italy shows the Mussolini influence to a great extent as his sayings are written on the buildings and on signs around the city. Dr. Honey felt that the people are more happy and the cities have become much cleaner. Mussolini is interested in the education of his people and has provided operas which people may attend from 15 to 50 cents. Many things are being done for amusement and health of the Italian people. Dr. Honey was impressed by the changes in Italy but conditions in Turkey and surrounding countries are very distressing. Although the trip was long and at times strenuous, Dr. Honey remarked that it was very educational and enjoyable.

Other fiction books are: "We Are Not Alone," James Hilton; "Langworthy Family," Elizabeth Corbett; "Neighbor To The Sky," Gladys Hasty Carroll; "The Sisters," Myron Brenig; "And So Victoria," Vaughn Wilkins; "The Door Between," Ellery Queen; "Case of Dangerous Dowager," Eric Stanley Gardner; "Busman's Honeymoon," Dorothy L. Saxe. The library board met Tuesday evening.

Library News

"I've Been To London," by Temple Bailey, is one of the new fiction books received at the Wayne city library. This is a fine characterization story of two sisters who traveled in London. One of them is a dashing and glamorous girl; the other is more quiet. "Dark To Dream," by Marie Dodge, is a story of a girl who dared to dream, had the will to do and the wisdom to separate infatuation from love. A problem of a girl in a land of desperadoes and Pecos Smith's ride to her rescue set the plot for another Zane Grey novel, "West of the Pecos." Kathleen Norris' latest novel, "You Can't Have Everything," tells of a mother of two children who is the wife of a husband who has begun to take her for granted. She falls in love with another man and faces the problem—can a young woman retain the devotion of her children and also find absorbing happiness with her second husband? "Crucible," by Ben Ames Wilkins, is the story of a normal family of three children. A bombshell is burst when the father is charged with murder. It is eminently readable and sure to be enjoyed. "Let Me Die Tuesday," by Helen Topping Miller, is a romance which has all the qualities of romance, tenderness, expert plot and characterization which go to make up a novel of first rank. Non-fiction books along with the above mentioned fiction books which have been accessioned at the library the past week are the following: "A Thread of English Road," Chas. S. Brooks; "How To Win Friends and Influence People," Dale Carnegie; "The One-House Legislature," John P. Senning; "Complete Courses In Civil Service," James W. Colley; "Romance of Lloyd's," Comm. Frank Worsley and Capt. Glyn Griffith; "Social Games For Recreation," Mason and Mitchell.
