

For County Fair Is Proposed - Attention to State Hospital - Insurance Rates - More Content in Old Days - Annual Holiday Festivities - Often Quoted Letter - Tells About Santa Claus.

The Wayne County Agricultural association met recently and elected the same officers. The last fair did not pay out well. The attendance was disappointing, and as a result revenues were materially reduced. While the program provided for the occasion was better than usual, it did not have sufficient drawing power to overcome an admission fee that was considered too high.

Another objection to deservied success is delay in announcing plans and issuing the annual premium list. Interest in a great show should be aroused early in all parts of the territory. The fair is a big and valuable county enterprise and pride in its development should be awakened and maintained.

There is talk of shifting the preliminary work from several already busy shoulders to one competent person employed for the purpose. It would then be up to him to work out details and keep interest alive.

To Remember Inmates. Superintendent C. E. Carlson of the state hospital in Norfolk, has issued an attractive program for Christmas activities at the institution, and advises that any gifts relatives and friends for inmates will be gratefully received. It is the superintendent's intention to have none overlooked. He is desirous of bringing as much happiness as possible into the lives of those under treatment in the hospital, expressing the belief that joy conveyed to others is certain to pay large dividends.

Taxing Service. One reason why insurance rates seem high is because those entitled to payment for losses or damage usually do not hesitate to tax the service all it will possibly bear. An insurance company, like a public freemason, is so often regarded legitimate prey by those having claims that rates have to be made correspondingly high.

Satisfied With Less. People in the old days had less and were satisfied with less. Now they have more and are not satisfied with more. More they have, more they want, and as a consequence they seem to be ruled more and more by discontent. We may have to hit bottom, and begin over in order to shape a more healthful course and develop a more serene state of mind.

Wayne Took Lead. As we remember, Wayne's business district was the first in north-central Nebraska to sponsor a series of pre-Christmas festivities. Most other towns have followed, and by liberal decorations and appropriate programs have added to the spirit of the great holiday.

Explaining Santa Claus. The often published pre-Christmas editorial, written many years ago and published in the New York Sun, in answer to a little girl's query, is refreshingly wholesome and will be re-read at this season with customary zest. It follows:

"Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Please tell me the truth." - Virginia O'Hanlon.

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect in intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not to believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest men, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men (Continued on page four.)

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1937.

NUMBER THIRTYSEVEN

ASPHALT HIGHWAY TO NORTH PRESSES FOR EARLY STEPS

WAYNE county has made some headway in highway improvements the past year, but it is still behind what it should be in view of having a growing college in its midst and a considerable area looking to the county seat for supplies. The south highway connecting with No. 8 east of Filiger, has been made into a wide level stretch, and it will be given additional and final hard-surfacing as early as possible next year. Another pressing need is an asphalt highway to the north intersecting No. 20 east of Laurel, thus accommodating Concord and Dixon and people living between here and those points. That improvement should come next, and the state department should be reminded that 1938 is the time to bring it to reality. Wayne should not allow authorities to overlook its needs.

CAMP FAVORED BY LOCAL CLUB

Wayne Kiwanis Asking Support of Groups In C. C. Project.

Wayne has a favorable chance of securing a government C. C. camp, according to report made by Agent Walker Moller to Kiwanians Monday after noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton. The camp would bring 150 to 200 young men here to engage in soil erosion work. Mr. Moller said a need exists for this work in Wayne county and asked the cooperation of the club in securing the camp.

Kiwanians voted their support to the project and will ask the council, Business Men's club and other organizations to back the proposition. Carl Wright, Kiwanis president, named the agricultural committee to investigate the possibilities and to promote the movement. Dr. J. E. Brock is chairman of the committee and he is assisted by Herman Lundberg, J. T. Bressler, Jr., Dr. J. C. Johnson, H. B. Craven and W. A. Hixson.

Kiwanians joined in singing Monday, the meeting being short because of the pre-holiday busy season. Supt. G. B. Nellis of Ponca, was a guest of Prof. W. R. Hickman and Hugh Boyle of Norfolk, was with F. S. Berry.

Mrs. Wilson is the former Miss Annabelle Alsins of Ft. Worth. Mr. Wilson, grandson of Mrs. H. F. Wilson of Wayne and son of the Frank Wilsons of Lincoln, was employed in the Safeway and Or stores in Wayne until a year ago last summer when he went to Ft. Worth.

MANY ATTEND GIANT PARTY

Eleven Hundred Little Folks Are Guests At City Auditorium.

More than 1,100 children were guests at the giant "kids" party staged in Wayne municipal auditorium by the Wayne community Christmas organization. And a jolly good time was the report.

From 1 until 5 the children were entertained. Mickey Mouse, Peppye and other comic favorites were shown in motion pictures. Mrs. J. R. Keith led in the singing of Christmas carols, and Mrs. Clarence Wright told Christmas stories. As a climax to the entertainment Dr. R. R. Stuart, taking the role of Santa Claus, appeared. He pleased the children with chalk drawings after which he and his helpers distributed candy treats to all.

Boy scouts and girl scouts assisted the committee in charge. Wayne municipal band played several numbers Saturday on Main street.

Select Wayne Girl To Enter Contest

Senior girls chosen in the city school were Betty Helen Ellis, Roberta Baker and Evelyn Noakes, and in the college high they were Arlene Griffith, Lathylia Whitmore and Verna Carlson.

Students Present Christmas Story

Latin Club Members Are In Charge of Program - Other School News.

Students of the Latin club at the Wayne college training school presented a Christmas program for convocation Wednesday morning. The program was in pantomime form with Marie Kirwan reading the parts in Latin. The first act was the scene of the Chief Angel with Mary. The part of Mary was taken by Lathylia Whitmore and the angel, Herbert Welch.

Act two was the shepherds visited by the angels. Katherine Kyl, Jeanette Riley, Virginia Lewis, Patti Bressler, Loreta Mahne and Mary Ellen Nissen took the part of the angels and Harvey Neely, Calvin Greunke, Dale Bloss and Eldo Weseloh were the shepherds.

Following this act the group sang "Joy to the World" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." The child in the manger was the third part of the pantomime. Ned Wade took the part of Joseph, and Mary was again taken by Lathylia Whitmore. The scene was concluded with the carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

The last act was of the "Wise Men." Those taking part were Edwin Sprague, Robert Dale, Donald Echtenkamp, Vincent Thielman, Frederick Doctor and Homer Seace.

The program was concluded by the singing of "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and the Latin song, "Adeste Fideles."

Miss Beulah Rundle was in charge of the program. School closed Wednesday evening for Christmas recess and will resume Monday, January 3.

NORMAL HARVESTS WILL GIVE AID TO POSTPONED NEEDS

WHAT a period of activity in so called durable goods - building materials, hardware, furniture, etc., - will come when prosperity gets back to stay! The east is said to have had a buying spurt until the late recession set in, but the middle west had no such experience, doubtless due to drought and short crops for a few years rather than to any neglect in the distribution of prosperity which was reported felt elsewhere. Therefore, improvements have been made moderately if at all. Needed painting has been too long postponed. Use of worn-out things has been necessarily prolonged. People have reached the point where they need many renewals to give comfort and convenience, and they will have them as soon as the country returns to the habit of growing normal crops. Nearly everybody is ready to buy things he has squeezed along without, and he will do so when conditions no longer force practice of unbecomingly self-denial. What is wanted here is crop abundance to take care of individual requirements. It is hoped the coming year will not bring just a partial crop, but a record yield to put farm communities back on their feet, so they may enjoy deferred improvements.

FIVE CAPTURED IN MEN'S GANG

Are To Face Charges Of Robbery and Forgery In This State.

Through quick action of Sheriff J. H. Pile and Norfolk officers five members of a Minnesota gang of check forgers and robbers were arrested Tuesday. One is being held in Wayne county and four are in custody of other officers of charges in nearby counties.

About a week ago two men were in Hoskins and cashed a forged check. The Hoskins merchant gave Sheriff Pile a description of the men and their car which bore Minnesota license. The men headed east.

Officers knew that a gang was operating through Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska. In Nebraska the worked mainly in the south central part of the state but they were wanted also in northeast Nebraska.

Tuesday a trap was set for the party. Five men passed checks at Wakefield and one in Wayne. They tried to pass one at Winsid but failed and went on to Norfolk. Sheriff Pile notified Norfolk of the men and then followed the car. When the men arrived in Norfolk they were taken into custody a once.

Two of the five are ex-convicts and four are wanted in this state for forgery and robbery charges. The five men had checks of Minnesota banks, also on Spirit Lake and Hartley, Iowa, banks and Wayne, Norfolk and Emerson banks. Some were made out ready to cash.

Names of the five are being withheld by officers who wish to make further investigations. Complete Plans For Corn Loans Applications Are Filed By Wayne County Men On Farm Crop.

Local and state arrangements have been completed for handling federal corn loans under the 1937 program, and Wayne county farmers can now secure detailed information from the agricultural office.

To date 120 farmers have made formal application for 50c loan. Results of moisture sample tests made at the state ACP office in Lincoln indicate that the corn to be put under seed is a high grade product. About 200 Wayne county farmers are expected to take corn loans. It is estimated that 6,000 in the state will take loans.

Under the 1937 plan farmers may borrow on eligible corn, stored in well-constructed, sealed cribs on their farms, at the rate of 50c per bushel of 2 1/2 cubic feet or more depending on the moisture content of the corn. The volume of corn required to equal a bushel will be increased by two percent for each one percent in moisture content over 14 1/2 percent. No federal loans will be available on corn testing more than 20 1/2 percent moisture.

Loans will bear an interest rate of 4 percent. Loans made in December will run for 10 months, while those made after January 1, 1938, will mature November 1, 1938.

The Sport Log

NEW RULE TRYING? Has the elimination of the center jump after field goals made basketball too strenuous? This question is being argued with considerable zeal by sport writers, coaches and officials. The affirmative exponent seems to have reason for the better of the last argument. Says Lawrence...

have seen are proof that basketball without the usual center jumps puts additional strain on boys of prep school age. College squads with plenty of husky reserves may be able to take it with no ill effects, but for undernourished small high school teams, the outlook is not so bright. Of course the high school boys are allowed five time outs for each team. We have noticed that these are not used as freely as they might be to lessen the hurry and strain. From the spectator standpoint the game may now be speedier and more thrilling in spots, but it is also evident that the game slows down toward the last. Basketball has always been known as one of the most crueling of all sports. It seems that rules officials have made a mistake in changing it to make it even more strenuous. Wayne basketball coaches may enjoy their holiday interval with satisfaction derived from a good season's start. Coach Hickman at Wayne State and Coach Morris at Wayne high each earned a Christmas gift in the form of an undefeated pre-Christmas slate. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hahlbeck and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Baker were in Norfolk Tuesday evening.

Wildcats Repeat Win Over Omaha

Coach Hickman Uses 14 Men In 41-33 Victory Over Cards At Omaha. With 14 men seeing action in the contest, Wayne's basketballers took their third straight victory of the season by again outclassing the Omaha university cagers at Central high gym on Omaha last Thursday night, 41-33. Omaha threatened in the last few minutes with Wayne reserves in the game. The regulars had piled up a 36-19 lead which the Cards cut to six points. The first string was inserted and they flipped off enough points to assure victory. Wayne started fast early in the game to take a 22-13 lead at the intermission. Cunningham, Retzlaff and Marshall were the big guns in the first-half offense. Dick Wolf, Carl forward, led the Omaha squad which was their only serious bid of the game. Retzlaff and Lingenfelter ended any doubt as to the outcome with a basket apiece in the waning minutes. Cunningham, Marshall and Retzlaff tallied 14, 10 and 10 points respectively. Wolf of Omaha amassed 13 for his team. Coach Hickman had a team composed entirely of freshmen in the lineup at one time. Wayne (41) Omaha (33) Marshall 15, Wolf 13, Lingenfelter 10, Retzlaff 10, Cunningham 10, Str'behn 3, Johnson 3, Kugel 1, Curham 5, Kersen 2, Kingdon 2, Bolnow 2, Linfelter 2, Grote 2, Davenport 2, Mazeri 1, Bader 1, Elliott 1, Retzlaff 5, Totals 14 5 9. Wayne (41) Omaha (33) Marshall 15, Wolf 13, Lingenfelter 10, Retzlaff 10, Cunningham 10, Str'behn 3, Johnson 3, Kugel 1, Curham 5, Kersen 2, Kingdon 2, Bolnow 2, Linfelter 2, Grote 2, Davenport 2, Mazeri 1, Bader 1, Elliott 1, Retzlaff 5, Totals 14 5 9.

Pete Petersen Opens New Bowling Alleys

Last Saturday marked the opening of Pete Petersen's bowling alleys in Wayne. Many bowling enthusiasts turned out to try their hand at the sport. Three regulation alleys have been installed and league play is expected to start the first of January. Mrs. Reuter will be in charge of ladies' bowling. The entrance to the alleys is the first door south of the State National bank.

Prep Rally Halts Winside Tossers

Prep Seconds Lose by 16-19—College B. Team Downed By Winside, 31-38. Wayne prep came to life in the fourth quarter with a sudden rally which netted them 9 points and a 31-25 victory over a plucky Winside team here Tuesday night. The Prep-Winside battle supplied a large share of the thrills in an exciting series of three games on the evening's program. The prep seconds dropped a 16-19 decision after a fine last-period come-back which fell short. Winside's town team, led by Supt. Eric Wendt, former Wayne Teachers' agent, finished with a spurt to edge out the College B team, 38-31. Frank Weible and Trautwein were the big guns in the Winside offense. Carroll Petersen and Leonard Tavenner were outstanding in the B team lineup. Preps Take Lead. In the Wayne prep game, the little Wildcats took the lead from the start with Whorlow and Strahan scoring a basket apiece. Both teams were in scoring mood with most of the flips finding the hoop. Wayne was out in front at half-time, 21-13. The third period found Winside steadily gaining with the Prep lads in a slump. Hansen, Winside center, put his mates ahead 23-22 with a basket as the third period ended. Then the Preps woke up to their plight and proceeded to forge ahead with Whorlow, Strahan and Echtenkamp dropping in the field goals. Winside couldn't stop the desperate Prep spurt nor could they add more than another basket to their total. Wayne P. (32) Winside (25) Whorlow 12, N'berg 7, Echtenkamp 5, Wacker 5, Hickman 2, Voss 2, Strahan 3, Hansen 4, Gulliver 0, W. Weible 2, Heikes 0, Totals 12 8 7, 10 5 13. Lose To Winnebago. Wayne Prep bowled to a speedy Winnebago five 22-35 here last Friday night after putting up a stubborn battle all the way. The Indians, with six seniors on the squad, displayed a fast and clever style of basketball which is certain to make them one of the best teams in this part of the state. Winnebago rolled up a 10-2 lead before the prep began finding the hoop to narrow down the margin. Throughout the contest the prep had difficulty in shooting accurately, missing many setups. The prep second team copped a close game from the Winnebago seconds in a curtain-raiser.

Wayne High Wins First Two Games

Blue and White "5" Swamps Stanton and Bancroft Easily Here. Wayne high followed up a one-sided victory over Stanton last Thursday by swamping the luckless Bancroft tossers 34-5 here Tuesday evening. Like the Stanton game, this was only a practice session for the Wayne five with much, much stiffer competition slated for after the Christmas holidays. Despite the superiority of the local team, the game was slow and the shooting ragged. Wayne muffed many easy tries at the hoop. With almost everybody on the team pouring in at least one basket or free throw, Wayne led at half, 14-3, and steadily increased the margin in the second half. Tighe, forward, flipped in the only field goal for Bancroft. The Wayne high seconds defeated Bancroft's reserves, 34-6 in a curtain-raiser. Wayne (34) Bancroft (5) Berry 12, Tighe 10, Lessman 7, Schmidt 6, Wright 5, M'Lin 4, Seymour 1, Vogt 1, Graham 4, Brum'd 0, Fitch 3, Mielke 0, G'ders've 2, Totals 15 4 4, 1 3 5. Overwhelms Stanton. Superior teamwork and basketballing were the big factors in Wayne high school's 34-11 triumph over Stanton high's cagers in the first game of the blue and white season at the city auditorium last Thursday night. The smooth passing and ball-handling of Coach Morris' boys was outstanding for an early season contest. They passed rings around the baffled Stanton defense to work the ball into the basket for many setups. On the shooting end were two accurate forwards, Bob Wright and John Berry, who slipped in 11 field goals between them. Bob Wright chalked up 11 points when Wayne went on a scoring spree in the second quarter. Berry, freshman with an eagle eye for the hoop, counted ten points on short shots. Fitch and Gildersleeve, guards broke up the Stanton attempts to score, holding them to five field goals. Wayne rolled up an 18-3 margin in the first-half. Stanton's inability to hit the basket and their lack of team work were costly in Thursday's game. In a preliminary, Wayne second team staved off a Stanton rally to win 21-17. Coryell, guard, and Bus Johnson, forward, led the Wayne offense with eight and six points each. Wayne (34) Stanton (11) Berry 5, Best 3, Wright 6, G. Miller 0, Lessman 0, Dale 0, Granquist 0, Johnson 1, Graham 2, Mortier 0, Gil'sleeve 1, Matthis 1, Fitch 1, Robinson 0, Seymour 0, Totals 15 4 4, 5 1 6.

NOEL (By Margaret Wright.) Christmas is a mother who has toiled far into the night to prepare a surprise for the morning, and who, satisfied, surveys the scene and then lies down to rest with a prayer on her lips for her loved ones. Christmas is a father who has labored and loved throughout the year, that he might make real the cherished dreams of those about him, and who smiling mysteriously has placed the last gift beneath the tree. Christmas is a tiny girl who sleeps snugly with last year's doll clasped tightly in her arms, yet with maternal love, hopes for a new one, one with a blue dress and curls. Christmas is a little boy who has listened for mythical footsteps, and has tossed and turned restlessly in hopes that he might stay awake and be first to behold the wonders that the night has wrought, but who slipped off to dreams without knowing. Christmas is a faithful dog curled at the foot of a boy's bed, but who has stirred and opened an eye at every sound, as if he knew of the boned tied with red ribbon, that Santa left for him. Christmas is a fir tree that by lure of the blessed day has left its white blanket in the forest, to come into a warm room to share its beauty with a child, and stands as a silent sentinel through the night, with its sheltering arms outstretched to guard the precious gifts at its feet, and bestow a blessing on its beholders. Christmas is a song that trembles on the night air, but caught up by a capricious wind, carols out its message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men." Christmas is a star in the shawl of night, that ever waits to illumine and guide, but disappears at the hushed moment before dawn, when all the world awaits in expectation. Christmas is a sturdy heart that gives and shares and loves. NOEL (By Margaret Wright.) Christmas is a mother who has toiled far into the night to prepare a surprise for the morning, and who, satisfied, surveys the scene and then lies down to rest with a prayer on her lips for her loved ones. Christmas is a father who has labored and loved throughout the year, that he might make real the cherished dreams of those about him, and who smiling mysteriously has placed the last gift beneath the tree. Christmas is a tiny girl who sleeps snugly with last year's doll clasped tightly in her arms, yet with maternal love, hopes for a new one, one with a blue dress and curls. Christmas is a little boy who has listened for mythical footsteps, and has tossed and turned restlessly in hopes that he might stay awake and be first to behold the wonders that the night has wrought, but who slipped off to dreams without knowing. Christmas is a faithful dog curled at the foot of a boy's bed, but who has stirred and opened an eye at every sound, as if he knew of the boned tied with red ribbon, that Santa left for him. Christmas is a fir tree that by lure of the blessed day has left its white blanket in the forest, to come into a warm room to share its beauty with a child, and stands as a silent sentinel through the night, with its sheltering arms outstretched to guard the precious gifts at its feet, and bestow a blessing on its beholders. Christmas is a song that trembles on the night air, but caught up by a capricious wind, carols out its message of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men." Christmas is a star in the shawl of night, that ever waits to illumine and guide, but disappears at the hushed moment before dawn, when all the world awaits in expectation. Christmas is a sturdy heart that gives and shares and loves.

Congress Rebels

Members of congress will retaliate on farm members by upsetting the farm bill if the latter persist in opposing the wage-hour bill, will make farmers laugh and yearn for retaliation. City house and senate sages are evidently too nearsighted to see they are doing more to hinder than to help agriculture by passing a compulsory farm bill, and that if they join in opposing the measure in its present form they will do exactly as, we believe, a majority of the farmers would have them do. As pointed out in a public statement by Senator Burke, there is one thing in the farm bill that is helpful, and that is the provision for the government to loan money on crops in order to hold them for favorable markets.

Conflicting farm bills passed by both houses have gone to a joint committee to be worked over and made harmonious. Farm communities hope objectionable features will be eliminated. Otherwise, in the interest of free agriculture, it is hoped piqued urban guys will make good their threat and fling the bill out the transom. If the farm bill survives with regimentation curled up inside of it, the only way for farmers to escape will be by way of a referendum which is provided in the proposed setup. That would be equivalent to defeat of farm legislation which would be preferable to following blueprints forced by inexperienced Washington bureaucrats.

As to the wage-hour bill, it has been sent back to the committee where it is expected to perish. Senator Burke explains his opposition on the ground that it would close many small industries, increase instead of reduce unemployment and bring higher prices to consumers. The senator suggests that if such an experiment is to be tried at all, it be tried on sweat-shop industries.

Senator Burke is eminently sound in advising the administration and congress to concern themselves with efforts to lift burdens already saddled on industry and business and thus restore confidence in order to encourage investment and private enterprise.

One thing congress has done to justify its special session is to prove its capacity to do its own thinking and refuse to be driven by the White House and administration satellites.

The life of Jesus whose birthday the civilized world is about to celebrate, was the very antithesis of maternal self-seeking. He stood for principles which we commend, but which, in practice, we often soft-pedal, if we do not wholly disregard. He was an exemplar of generous fellowship which we recommend as good for our neighbors. According to the record, he humbly went about preaching self-abnegation as a source of spiritual strength, but we do not usually involve self in much abnegation that can be conveniently avoided. Giving chief consideration to material wealth—heeding the voice of Mammon rather than the teachings of Jesus—we overlook the world's greatest value—minimize the thing of transcendent importance—soul evolution and enrichment. Jesus' spirit which we acclaim at this time, would, if followed earnestly and consistently, lift us above deadening greed.

The eleventh annual Master Farmer contest, sponsored by the Nebraska Farmer, has been held and results announced. Of six named, five are from Nebraska and one from Colorado. One of the chosen farmers is quoted as saying: "I have discovered that in order to get his share of the world while things in life, a farmer cannot wait for republicans and democrats to legislate anything into his pocket." Another said "If I have a million dollars to live according to my income. I also try to plan ahead for times when there are one, two, three or four years of dry weather."

We are reassured in reading this from Edgar Howard in his Columbus Telegram: "The old ways of life, as well as the old ways of government, are not always the worst." Thus, we should be able to depend on the force of Edgar's pen in defense of traditional government, including individual initiative, as soon as the Washington regime pushes regimentation of agriculture and business and means of communication far enough along so that he may perceive it as a real threat to the original democratic form.

Riding through the inter-mountain country of the west in the early evening dusk and seeing a distant ranch house illuminated by electricity and with smoke curling from its chimney and fading into a background of rugged pine-clad peaks, and with radio, telephone and daily newspapers, lead one to wonder if such isolation—no neighbors to satisfy, no city ordinances to observe—has not quite as many compensations as disadvantages.

Democratic people will heartily approve of Russia's enlistment in the Chinese cause. Any damage fascist and communist countries can inflict on one another will weaken two equally pernicious forms of government with greater likelihood of leaving the world's democracies undisturbed. And a subject of either fascism or communism would doubtless feel just as secure and content serving under war rules as under civil tyranny.

Members of congress cannot be justly blamed for restricting legislation of the special session to passing a measure to grant $225,000 for their traveling expenses. They did not call themselves together, and thus were not responsible for the extra cost, and they performed a real service in refusing to pass measures proposed. Providing expense money would seem the least harmful thing that could have been done.

As congress neared adjournment of the special session without doing much, the president bobbed up with commands apparently as cocksure as ever. The greatest present need in Washington is for congress to put an end to the president's idea that when he says a bill "must" be passed, there can be no delay. The poor record of "must" legislation justifies congress in looking doubtfully to any "must" propositions.

First published results of a questionnaire sent to Nebraska and Iowa farmers by the Omaha World-Herald, asking whether they favor compulsory control of farm production, are overwhelmingly against the idea. The vote so far is 326 against and 17 for. It is surprising that even 17 could be found in support of regimentation.

Selection of Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, and liberal enough for practical progress, but not liberal enough to suit the radical LaFollettes, would be acclaimed a winner as head of the republican national committee. Wisdom of his selection is reinforced by LaFollette opposition.

It has been discovered that castor beans prove fatal to the internal works of a grasshopper, and thus all needed to safeguard a field against invasion by the infernal pest is to surround it with rows of castor beans. Hoppers seem to prefer castor beans to other vegetation, and so they are easily led to their doom.

Winter was introduced yesterday according to the calendar. It started early in November according to the weather, but switched to a mild variety long before the official opening. Running true to precedents, January will make us realize we still have a climate of severe whims.

Fascists denounce communists and communists denounce fascists, and each scorns democracies, while democracies have ample evidence to regard both with equal horror as designed to strangle free governments.

Sharp newspaper criticism has been aimed at an offensive dialogue broadcast over a national system recently. Only those who engage in verbal filth seem to think it is humorous.

CHRISTMAS.

Fire kindled in Bethlehem centuries ago breaks through the clouds of a troubled world and beckons doubtful footsteps in the direction of clarified understanding and just rewards. The story of the shepherds, led across Judean hills to the sacred manger, has accented good will and happy promise with every recurring yuletide. Amidst barking guns and ruthless slaughter, above the undertow of rival hates, flames the spirit of the gentle Nazarene who, two thousand years ago, supplanted the dross of paganism with the gold of spirit, gave to oppressed, yearning souls the stimulus of hope, and preached and practiced peace and mercy. Christmas with its softened moods and gifts of good fellowship sharply rebukes the world's outbursts of savagery. Whether the story of Jesus' nativity is literally and wholly true or not, it introduced noblest principles of human relationship and blazed prospect of eternal goals, more rational and more comforting than the dead faith fastened to material moorings. Observance of the yuletide is an expression of the heart's desire, and it is not reasonable that final realization will be less than the finite mind can conceive. Warming the spirit of benevolence, imparting joy to children, Christmas is a solvent of many ills, and is a bright spot—a powerfully uplifting force—in a besieged civilization.

that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view the supernal beauty beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus? Thank God! he lives, and lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

DIM PROSPECT.

Is heaven on earth possible? With physical demands never satisfied, with competitive efforts arousing rival jealousies, with finer human qualities surrendering to personal aggrandizement and thirst for greater power and privilege, can we ever expect to see an earthly paradise established? The fair-weather Christian can treat his fellows all right if there are no conflicts of interest. Even the most devout Christian is often too heavily encumbered by worldliness to forfeit an advantage or a comfort to a neighbor or friend. He is long on professions, but he proves unequal to a test of unselfish courage when asked to give substantial aid to some unfortunate individual. It would seem heaven could not be brought to the earth until religious differences are dominated by one common faith with one main objective. Fusing over commercialism, minimize individual values. Charity must be based on individual merit and be based on the common good. The truth must be established and declared by the strong. Progress is made by the strong. The weak are the cause of the strong's weakness. The strong are the cause of the weak's strength. The weak are the cause of the strong's weakness. The strong are the cause of the weak's strength.

Church Scene.

A peaceful countryside scene with a beautiful miniature church in the foreground attracted one's attention at Wm. Beckenhauer's, Third and Main streets. The fish pond has been transformed. On all sides are rolling green fields with a covering of imitation grass and here and there an evergreen tree. But the lighted church holds most attention because it seems so perfect in proportions and design. A sound system has been arranged so that Christmas carols are heard in the church. Mrs. John Volk of Wyliston, N. D., sang in the broadcast. A college trio, composed of Miss Betty Wright, Miss Delores McNatt and Miss Hope Adey, with Miss Helen Robertson accompanist, also furnished music.

Mr. Beckenhauer explains that the church actually does represent the typical design of the 18th century in America.

In fact, it is copied from the Dutch Reformed church of Hackensack, N. J., built in 1726. The pointed windows and crude Gothic tracery, characteristic of that period, have become almost universal in the 19th century.

The model was designed and built by Prof. E. J. Hunteimer from a photograph of the church appearing in the "Pageant of America," published by Yale university. The scale used was about half an inch to the foot.

London Letter

By ALFRED LARSON, LONDON, ENGLAND.

December 6, 1937. In my observations last week concerning English football I neglected to mention rugby, usually known as rugger, it resembles American football which has developed from it. Rugger is still the most popular form of football at the public schools and universities, but is more strictly an amateur sport and does not have as great a following as soccer. Londoners have told me that rugger is too rough and rowdy to please them. I am led to believe that Londoners are lucky if they see one white Christmas in a lifetime. They see a few snow flurries during the winter, but rarely does the city get two inches of snow. The usual range of London temperatures is from 30 to 40 degrees. The hottest day of last summer was 87. When it is considered that London lies farther north than Winnipeg, the cool summers are understandable. The mild winters, on the other hand, are attributable to ocean and air currents.

It does not follow from the equable climate that the average American is always comfortable in London. In the winter public buildings and homes are not often warmer than 60 degrees, and it is alleged that low temperatures are good for the complexion and general health. The cheapest and most widely used fuel is soft coal, the poorer grade of which sells in London for 65 cents per sack of 112 pounds. Many people keep a fire in one room to save fuel. It is reported that Hattie Selassie who lives in the city of Bath can afford to maintain a fire in only one of the sixteen rooms of his house. While Americans in England miss warm rooms in the winter, they miss cool drinks in the summer. Places that cater to Americans usually will provide cool drinks, but I recall that some of the Legionnaires in town last summer resorted to newspaper reports against the warm beer that was served them almost everywhere. Refrigeration is rare in England. In sanitary arrangements generally England is many years behind the United States; and so is the continent for that matter. Conditions in America have changed since the day when Washington Irving was able to write that English travelers in America "miss some of the snug conveniences and petty comforts which belong to an old, highly-finished, and over-populated state of society." The only drinking fountain I know of are in the new American embassy. One can get a drink of water in some of the parks and public buildings if one has no objection to drinking from the common cup or glass. I believe that the British are constitutionally opposed to drinking water, although present accentuation of that tendency may be ascribed to the fact that there are many cases of typhoid in Croydon, south-London suburb. Water is seldom served at meals unless one asks for it. The British get most of their liquids in tea which they drink for breakfast and in the afternoon. They drink what is alleged to be coffee, usually with milk, at their late evening suppers. I believe that most of the coffee is made from extract, although Maxwell House coffee is available at 65 cents per pound. Some English homes are equipped with percolators, but dripolators are practically unknown.

The British in general do not drink as much milk as Americans. At present milk sells for 15 cents for the British quart which is about twenty percent larger than the American quart. In the past two years more than 2,000 milk bars have been opened in England, and there is much propaganda to popularize milk drinks. My personal opinion is the popularity would come if they put a little ice cream in their concoctions and used whole milk. Snack bars, English version of hamburger joints, do not sell milk. Proprietors have explained to me that they are not equipped to keep the milk cool in accordance with sanitary regulations. Snack bars scarcely justify their existence since they do not sell hamburgers. The lowly hamburger is, I believe, unobtainable in London. Americans returning from Paris bring back tales of Hamburgers as if that city can offer nothing more interesting.

any such order could have been issued! I demand, Capes, that you read that order!" The other drew himself up. "I read it," he said stiffly, "but not because of your demands, Rickman. Please understand, I know my duty!"

"It would peel a man's ears, and the major had declared to Annette, and surely it had effect on the ears of this young lieutenant because his ears reddened as he scanned the lines of script.

"... I will disregard order to bring the alleged fugitive Shaw to Michilimackinac... will conduct yourself as though you were unaware of traders' contentions... will return to this post immediately with no delays for any reason whatsoever..."

Capes folded the sheet slowly, thrust it into a tunic pocket. He drew a deep breath, as of relief, and settled his belt decisively.

One of Rickman's hands twitched upward as though a blow had stung him. The lieutenant stepped past him, confronting Annette. He was puzzled, glanced briefly at Rickman, and addressed the girl.

"In a place of contention such as this," he said, "an island command seems advisable for a military party. May I... may I offer the security of my detachment as a neighbor? Or... or are there other plans?"

"I thank you, Lieutenant," she said, her gaze going to Burke Rickman. Then, significantly: "I will follow directly."

Capes hesitated, then bowed and disappeared through the doorway.

CHAPTER VIII

The girl stood there, holding the cloak about her, facing Rickman.

"Annette? This... this means what?"

"That at last I can speak truth!" she said, "after these weeks of shame and humiliation. Two great privileges have come to me tonight. The one is that I have repaired, as far as it could be repaired, a great wrong which I did Rodney Shaw. The other is that I can confess to you the falsity of my words at our last meeting. From the hour I struck at Rodney by betraying his plan to you I was in misery. And that morning of your departure, when you came to me for your farewells... when I begged you to remain; when I embraced you and kissed you... with a shudder, 'I was only acting a part.'"

"Acting?"

"Acting, Burke, to save my... the man I love."

"All I wanted you to believe that day was that I desired you to stay. I loathed you, I hated you, but I wanted you to delay, that Rodney might have some chance to capture the thing he wanted so!"

She spoke that, slowly, with great intensity.

"So that's your object, eh?" the trader cried, grasping her shoulder. "So you confess to me your love for this upstart? You make this journey to save him and humble me? Is that it? Well, if that's it—"

"Burke! Let go! You hurt!"

"D'you think I'll let him have you? Why, if it takes the last breath that floods this throat I'll wipe this upstart out and leave for you not the memory of a strutting fool but of a corpse, spoiling in this wilderness!"

"Burke!" Her cry was faint and she wrenched in his grasp. His fingers slipped from their grip on her arms, caught the cloak and as she withdrew out of it and stumbled free he flung the garment behind him into the room.

"With soldiery here, you'd do that?" she cried and her words slayed him.

"Do you think that after this forced march, the military will return at once?" she taunted. "Men must rest, after such effort. And while they rest, warning will be given. Be assured of that, Burke Rickman. Sufficient warning will be given and protection for decent men will be at hand!"
