

In Time Finds Local Spirit More United, and Forward Purposes More Determined Than Ever - Main Street Parking - Run-away Horses and Drunken Drivers - Freedom from Rent Signs.

We have passed another juncture in the journey of time. The old year's record which is nothing to brag about, will be remembered as a dark spot in the history of nations - darker, by contrast, if coming years bring an era of peace and bright assurance.

But if Mrs continues to rule, if war threats grow instead of abate, if selfish leaders try to justify themselves by attempts to destroy disagreeing elements rather than to reestablish human hopes on a solid foundation, the outlook will not be encouraging and the past year's record will be just a connecting span of unexceptional importance.

However, it is not too optimistic to believe the American people - most of them rooted deeply in the soil of practical judgment - will settle differences in time to avoid the differences in other fellow's viewpoint and accept the value of the economic order. America has an abundance of resources and an unsurpassed type of citizenship.

If what seem warranted hopes are realized, Wayne should make gratifying headway in civic improvements and public service during 1938. We think citizens are more nearly in accord than at any time within our recollection.

The disposition to be glad if townsmen are doing well conveys a stimulating influence. Whatever one may accomplish - whatever progress one may earn - indirectly benefits the whole community.

One enterprise discussed with general favor for united support under early plans and due encouragement is the county fair. Business interests are alive to the importance of a successful fair, and we understand the college whose endeavors harmonize with all kinds of useful production, proposes to lend active cooperation.

Locally, there is good reason for confidence. The spirit of the community was never better. United in laudable purposes, with many things in the offing to be accomplished, the future, with abundant harvests and with no monkey wrenches flung into the machinery by political radicals, bears a distinctly rosy hue.

When Congestion Happens - We are informed that highway authorities are being advised with critical eyes of the haphazard double-parking of automobiles on Main street when traffic is congested, and that unless a better system is worked out to remove dangers to travel, the highway may be moved to a line a mile or two from the city center.

SUNDAY PROLONGS HOLIDAY VACATION OFTEN THIS YEAR

DOUBLE-day holidays will be the rule this year. The past Christmas and New Year's, coming Saturday, enabled the world to step from one day's rest to another without labor interruption. The next regular holiday, Memorial day, comes Monday, and so there will be two successive days of suspended routine. Then in a few weeks July Fourth will land on Monday, and people can spend Sunday rehearsing the joys of independence - if we still have independence - and get their souls properly banished and tuned for the next day's patriotic devotions.

Stores To Feature Wealth Of Values

CLEARANCE PRICE CUTS ITEMIZED IN THIS NEWSPAPER

THE Wayne business district is starting the new year with a flood of marked-down values, as a review of today's Herald will show. Buying opportunities galore will appeal to prudent shoppers. Wayne's live-wire advertisers have the valuations and the disposition to turn them to the advantage of the public. The determination to make Wayne a more attractive trade center through every possible merchandising service will win deserved favor. An extension of the district's trade area is an objective based on merit, which inspection and buying experience will amply justify. We would suggest that persons in the more distantly outlying territory bring their needs to Wayne and see if they cannot satisfy them to better advantage here than elsewhere. Make Wayne your home town, and by stimulating its growth enable it to be of still greater service. Look over today's Herald and let it guide you in getting what you want at a saving.

Loot Of Robbers Is Not Located

Merchandise and cash in the amount of $1,300, taken from the Brown-McDonald store in Wayne Christmas day, have not yet been located.

Large Stocks of Merchandise Cut Drastically for Ten Great Days.

Wayne merchants have made a New Year's resolution which vitally affects the people of north-east Nebraska. They have unanimously pledged themselves to the task of making available in Wayne during 1938 the greatest trading opportunities to be found anywhere. Their newly adopted slogan is "Meet me in Wayne in 1938."

As an initial demonstration of that resolution the stores of the city have joined in staging a smashing opening event - Wayne's January clearance sale starting today and lasting through Saturday, January 15. Ten big days to mark on your calendar. Thousands and thousands of articles of high-grade merchandise, not out-of-date or old goods, but fresh new articles, are being marked down drastically in price for quick clearance. What a sale it will be with all of Wayne's leading stores participating. Wise shoppers will come during the first days of the sale for best selection.

In the issue of the Wayne Herald will be found complete details of the mammoth clearance event, with the price-saving offerings of each store. Every member of the family can profit by studying the clearance ads, for there each will find articles that he needs at a price far below what he would expect to pay. It will profit families to come 50 miles or more to take advantage of this sale.

The gigantic clearance sale is expected to serve a worth-while purpose in placing high quality merchandise within reach of everybody. Merchants extend welcome. Merchants whose types of business do not require clearance of certain items are offering special bargains as a sample of the value to be found here. Other stores will have on display the very latest spring styles and fashions. It will be a splendid opportunity to inspect and to select spring clothing before the choice numbers are taken.

Complete Modern Redecorating Plan

Finishing touches have been applied to the interior of the completely remodeled R. L. Larson dry goods store the past week. The walls of the first floor have been painted in modern with colors in strips ranging from tan to ivory. The store was modernized and redecorated last fall with improvements both inside and out. At that time a new and attractive front was built and new walnut fixtures were installed. Everything was planned with an eye to both beauty and efficiency.

Exhibit Of Art Methods Shown

The art department of the Wayne State Teachers college is sponsoring an exhibit of art work done by children in various schools of the country at the art-commerce building January 10, 11 and 12. The exhibit will be shown from 9 to 12 o'clock and from 2 to 5. Public students and teachers of the Wayne public schools are invited to visit the exhibit. There will be no admission charge.

The exhibit which is being shown here is part of the pictures which attracted so much attention when shown at Rockefeller Center in New York City last spring.

The work shown is principally illustrative of two new methods of art expression, finger painting and fresco painting. In the first method a plastic paint is used and the work done directly with fingers or hand, no tool coming between the child and the immediate expression of his idea. In the second, a dry color is painted with a tool consisting of a piece of felt set in a brush handle. The color, similar to pastel, has been pressed into cakes from which it is easily taken, easily mixed and used without any medium, either water or oil, for mixing. Large bold effects are easily obtainable.

Miss Martha Pierce and Miss Jessie Stephen are in charge of the showing here.

Consider Soil Control Plan (Continued from page one.) of the state advisory committee. Districts are governed by a board of five directors elected by the state committee with probably one local farmer serving. They receive no pay but are entitled to expenses. Participation in the conservation program by individual land owners within the district is voluntary. Land owners only can sign petitions for a district, and only land owners can vote. The cost of the organization of districts will be borne by state funds. The cost of operating the districts will be borne largely by the federal government.

may be started by 25 land owners signing a petition making application to the state committee. Within 30 days after the receipt of the petition the state committee shall give legal notice of a hearing at which all persons within the proposed district or others interested may be heard. Within a reasonable time after the hearing the committee will give due notice of a referendum at which land owners within the proposed district may vote for or against the organization of a district. Seventy-five percent or more of those voting must favor the organization of the district. If the vote is favorable the state committee appoints a supervisor who files an application with the secretary of state requesting that he designate the district as a legal subdivision of the state. Following this due notice is given of election of four supervisors and the state committee conducts such election. Five years after the organization of a district it may be dissolved by a majority vote.

Prof. E. J. Hunter told Kiwanians Monday about soil work done in South Dakota where his brother lives. Encourage Industry. The Wayne committee visiting Lincoln also visited the associated industries' organization which is encouraging industry to enter the state. Mr. Ahern reported that the Wayne men urged Wayne as a location for industry. They especially favor a plant that will use electricity, as the city can furnish plenty, and piece work that will provide for students who wish to attend college. Taxes on industry are low in Nebraska so it is hoped to bring plants to the state.

Kiwanis District Governor W. C. Jarnagin of Storm Lake, Iowa, appointed Wayne men on committees as follows for the new year: Rev. Carl Bader, new clubs; Prof. Hunter, vocational guidance; E. J. Blair, business standards; and E. W. Hugo, chairman, publicity. Some Wayne Kiwanians plan to attend the district installation at Storm Lake January 12. C. L. Pickett is the only Kiwanian having a birthday this week.

Paper For Teachers Considers Unions
 "The Kheiktat Teacher," a paper for teachers in White Salmon, Wash., is edited by Bernard Pollard, son of Mrs. Allis Pollard of Wayne. One article in the current issue presents opinions on teachers' unions. An excerpt states that "the menace of unions is greater than the independence we surrender to the absolutism possible from a central labor council, greater than the distrust we invite from an alarmed public greater by far than our renouncing the semi-myth of professionalism. Organization, the very knife by which we have long hoped to cleave our way to a material recognition of our social and economic importance may in the end destroy us—sever us group by group from each other, until we will never be able to stand back-to-back and shoulder-to-shoulder in an invulnerable phalanx, but face-to-face, and at each other's throats, like the C.I.O. and A.F. of L."

 1 cup water
 3 egg yolks
 2 tablespoons butter
 1 lemon, juice and rind
 3 egg whites
 9 tablespoons sugar
 Make and bake a 9-inch pie shell, using 1/2 pastry recipe and adding 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg to flour. Mix one cup sugar, flour, salt and a little water until smooth.
 Add beaten egg yolks and remaining water. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Add butter, grated lemon rind and juice. Pour into pie shell. Cover with meringue made of egg whites and sugar. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg. Bake in slow oven 20 minutes.

Annual Message

IN HIS annual message, President Roosevelt's references to business were comparatively and unexpectedly mild. Those who thought he would follow Assistant Attorney General Jackson and Secretary Ickes in delivering major blows at capital and industry were mistaken. Jackson and Ickes who belong to inner administration circles, were believed to have reflected the president's mind, though the latter's attitude seemed disposed at the time of his message to temporize and invite harmony. Naturally one wonders if Jackson and Ickes are out of accord with the president, and if so why they are not suppressed. Why would they be allowed to berate and discredit employing institutions in conflict with the administration's policy? On the other hand, if their views do no violence to the president's ideas and plans, what may the country expect from the latter in the way of solving labor and business problems?

While the president apparently softened criticism of industry and insisted that business offenders were a small minority, he still urges passage of the hour and wage bill which has the objections contained in the dead NRA. It is remembered that while the NRA was proclaimed as a measure to bring rich employers to time, its greatest hardships fell on comparatively small employers. If the president wishes to calm unrest, he should not insist on so-called objectives that would add new burdens and that would stand in the way of recovery. Proposed enforcement of anti-trust laws would be welcomed as quite a refreshing change from the policy of price-fixing under the NRA.

The president closed by saying he did not propose to let "the people down". The World-Herald suggests that the people are already down and want to get up. "We can't get up," says that newspaper, "simply by quarreling and denouncing, suspecting and hating each other. We can't do it, either, by centering all our attention and efforts on reforming each other while we are still down. The first thing is to get up, brush off our clothes, get a job, something to eat, and become self-supporting once more."

Sec. Ickes Fans the Air

INCONSISTENCIES in the recent speech by Secretary Ickes, flaming member of the president's cabinet, are pointed out in an editorial by the Norfolk Daily News. Despite former boasts that rising prices had been "planned that way," Ickes charged responsibility for the late recession to evils aimed at the administration by monopolists.

This paragraph in the News' comment emphasizes inconsistency:

"He took, for example, the often exploded statement repeated lately in a book by a communistic author, that 'sixty families hold complete dominion over the economic and political life of this country.' Mr. Ickes, in another part of his speech, himself discredits this absurdity. When it was brought out that an executive of the Standard Oil company of Indiana was involved in the Teapot Dome scandal, John D. Rockefeller, jr., wanted him dismissed. But in order to get him out it was necessary for Mr. Rockefeller, at great expense to himself, to wage a campaign for proxies in order to get enough votes to control the stockholders' meeting.

"Now, the fact is, that Mr. Rockefeller is head of one of the sixty families that are supposed to dominate this country, and his sector lies on the oil front. But if he couldn't dominate one of his own oil companies without going to the small stockholders for help, how far does his domination actually extend?"

For Third Term

SO MANY precedents have been lightly tossed aside by the administration that something is almost certain to happen to persuade the president—of course against his wishes—to disregard the third-term precedent and run again in the interest of his objectives and of the "more abundant life." Probabilities touching the third term are mentioned in this paragraph from the Norfolk Daily News:

"Senator Norris insists that unless congress resumes rubber-stamping everything the president wants, Mr. Roosevelt will be forced to run for a third term. Emil Ludwig, the biographer, says if there is a war Roosevelt will run again. Stanley High insists Mr. Roosevelt is toying with the thought of heading a third party. In other words, if almost anything happens Roosevelt will just have to get into the race."

Mussolini reproaches the United States for its lack of a bellicose policy in settling with Japan. The Italian dictator sneers at democracy as a failure, and blows back the Mediterranean sea by his blows about his own country. The only way Mussolini can maintain the dictatorship to engage in a war is ful. Americans are not cowards, but they think war is savagery and a survival of the dark ages. They do not believe they have to fight in order to show they are not cowards. Those countries bent on war, should go to war, but leave peaceful countries, like America, free to pursue the course of peace, putting the lives of millions above the doubtful rewards of victory. If military dictators force the United States into war, they may be certain they will have little left in the end to start over.

A year ago we were bottled up by snow. It was on the first day of the year that the temperature dropped and snow began falling. Roads were impassible and snow plows were too few to overcome the barriers. Going or coming was a task, sometimes impossible to accomplish. For two months winter of the severest sort suspended usual activities. In sharp contrast is the weather this year. Mild elements and freedom from snow have permitted uninterrupted travel. Fuel problems have been correspondingly easy to solve. Altogether the weather has been about as friendly as that in southern California. As to the absence of moisture, the average person who has observed over the years, will prefer it later in the shape of rain.

Almost without exception the press of the country laid aside party preferences and rallied to the support of the president when he was first inaugurated. Newspapers and magazines put the popular welfare above party fealty, and united to pull the country out of the economic bog which followed the war. After five years of guessing and dizzy and costly experiments, the country's publications have generally become adverse and often severe critics, and now it is doubtful if any president ever had more nearly unanimous newspaper opposition. And newspapers and magazines are undoubtedly inspired by the same high ground of popular welfare that prompted earlier support.

The neurotic fellow has a tough time trying to control his nerves. If he surrenders, he says and does, a lot of foolish things he regrets. If he can get his nerves to pulling in the right direction with proper balance, he is able to put under his endeavors more steam than the fellow who is deficient in that respect. We suppose one ceases to be a neurotic when he is able to command his nerves and make them behave reasonably.

In its excellent New Year's edition, the Omaha Journal-Stockman hesitates to speculate definitely on what the future holds. It is led to believe, however, that price adjustments already made will take care of the ills of the recession. The editor of the Journal-Stockman finds much ground for encouragement.

Daily newspapers are raising subscription prices on account of increased paper costs. The rural weekly is not so heavily burdened by paper consumption, and unless costs multiply unexpectedly, the Herald will make the grade at the present rate.

Let's Whip the Recession.

Omaha Journal-Stockman: We are in a business recession. There's no use in disguising the fact. Frank recognition of our condition is the first and most important step toward recovery. Remember back a few years ago when we listened to the politicians, the economists and the bankers telling us the depression was only temporary, just a little set back, and that it would soon be over? Well, they're telling us the same thing now and it will be our own fault if we are fooled again.

When we finally realized that the depression was no myth and that prosperity was not lurking just around the corner, we began trying many experiments to bring back good times. We spent money lavishly in an effort to stimulate activity in business and we borrowed money freely, going into debt recklessly in an attempt to revive industry. Relief for the needy was doled out on a scale never before dreamed of and still business responded but slowly, industry and agriculture remained in a slump and unemployment covered the nation like a pall.

Historians told us that we had frequently experienced depressions before, that these recessions had lasted only a few years and that they had invariably been followed by periods of great prosperity and expansion. Here was a depression, however, that hung on and on and that threatened to become permanent. What was the matter? With enormous expenditures, unprecedented borrowing and unheard-of relief measures, the grip of depression refused to relax.

Again the pages of history were scanned and it was found that without exception former depressions had yielded slowly but surely to those cardinal virtues of economy and thrift on the part of both nation and people. Living beyond our means had brought disaster and distress while the husbanding of our resources and the saving of our substance against the proverbial rainy day had just as inevitably brought a return of good times.

We can beat the recession if we go about it in the way pointed out by the school of experience and we can beat it in no other way. It is up to us.

Happy Canada.

Lincoln Journal: Canada has not had any recession in business; neither has it had a new deal. The latest report of the Ottawa government is that business has reached its highest point since 1930. There has been less interference of government with business in Canada, less priming of the pump and less working of the commercial machine before it was ready to assimilate.

BOSS NATURE.

We are all lazy—some more so than others. Nature provides needs for action and rewards for achievement doubtless in order to develop the race. We would starve if we were not nagged by hunger. Forced to use muscle and mind to satisfy physical demands, we necessarily develop both. If we were fed and clothed without effort, we would become too feeble and indifferent even to want to play golf or to care to watch a football game. Requirements of the body prevent atrophied faculties. Often an ambitious individual accumulates more worldly goods than he needs. He thinks he will hand on a sufficient inheritance to his children so they will not have to work and pinch along as he has done. His kindness tries but fails to back nature, and accordingly leads to wasteful ease and luxury. A succeeding generation gets back to shirt sleeves, and then along comes another generation that, sensing the inexorable rules of nature, buckles down to business and ascends in the scale of what is termed earthly success. A rebuilt fortune repeats the tragedy of toppling in the hands of careless descendants. Nature does not stand for monkey business. Its laws must be obeyed or certain penalties are exacted.

Juncture

festly be preserved by an acceptably improved parking arrangement. Proper parking when the business district is crowded is always a problem—one that should be solved as far as possible for the convenience of visiting motorists.

Which would be more dangerous to meet on the highway, a runaway team, after the fashion of the horse and buggy days, or a drunken driver behind the wheel of a powerful automobile? Either would have as much sense as the other. Neither would be worse than the other in contemplating hazards and measuring consequences. The newly installed highway patrol is specializing in the task of capturing booze-pickled motorists and getting them out of the way ahead of possible disasters. The patrol is a safeguard which sober drivers have good reason to appreciate.

Few Vacant Buildings.

Probably no town starts the new year with fewer empty buildings in the business district than Wayne. It is everybody's interest to see that all buildings are occupied.

Library News

Happy New Year greetings are sent from the staff at the Wayne city library. Members of the staff also suggest that their readers resolve this year to return periodicals and books on time, pay fines promptly and return any books which are overdue.

The board met Tuesday evening last week and transacted routine business.

ASTROLOGY.

A woman astrologer has interviewed the stars and planets and made public her deductions as they affect countries and individuals. A successful person seems to have been born under a favorable star. One must have the patronizing influence of a celestial body to avoid hard luck. We notice some who have rising good fortune have two or three planets pulling for them. A good deal is said about the stellar aspect which means the position of a planet with reference to its force in raising or lowering a fellow's chances. The astrologer gives liberal treatment to motion picture and radio performers, and the planets have arranged themselves in a way to continue helpful influence in that direction. Study discloses that the sun, moon and Mercury are teaming along for Jack Benny, and that he will succeed. The astrologer also discovered that Benny has a sense of humor. Aquarius appears to be an especially friendly constellation. John L. Lewis is reported to have been born under Aquarius, and he is expected to be boosted accordingly. But we hope some other equally strong constellation will get busy pulling in the other direction. We also regret to hear that Mussolini has some favorable aspects. The astrologer advises caution in the face of threatening planets, some of which have some particularly formidable evils directed this way. How we can avoid ugly shafts from hateful or insidiously situated stars we do not know. In street parlance, we think the whole astrology business is rankest humbug.

Leviathan Junked for Metal.

The government confiscated the German ocean liner, since known as the "Leviathan" when our country entered the World war. It did not pay Germany anything for it, but it did spend a few millions taking out its elaborate furniture and fixtures that the vessel might be used as a troop ship to carry our armies over seas.

When the war ended, it spent another ten millions to put back the fancy interior which had been removed, and put the vessel in operation across the Atlantic. More millions were thrown away in an endeavor to make it profitable and without effect. Last week, the Leviathan was sold to England, to be broken up for its metal. The price received was less than would have been the cost of shipping an equal weight of new metal across the ocean. England will thus gain thousands of tons of metal for its new war program at a very nominal cost.

Government Employees Study Night Clubs.

Believe it or not thousands of the government employees here have never seen congress in session. Probably not 5 percent of them have ever seen the president except perhaps on inaugural day. Thousands of them have never been to the top of the Washington monument to get a real view of this beautiful city. In fact thousands of these employees when questioned, admit they know very little about the real historic places around Washington. Many are quick to give information about the location of the town's liveliest night clubs.

Pessimism.

The other day at the press club, here, a group of newspaper men, were discussing the present "business recession." To give it the polite name one is supposed to use in Washington. One of the newspaper men took from his pocket a list of quotations, which follow, and asked us to guess who said them, and when. Here they are—the correct answers are in the paragraph following the quotations:

1. There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair.
 2. I dare not marry, the future is so dark and unsettled.
 3. Everything is tending toward a convulsion.
 4. Thank God, I shall be spared from seeing the consummation of ruin that is gathering about us.
 5. In industry, commerce and agriculture, there is no hope.
 6. Nothing can save the British empire from shipwreck.
- The above were said by the following on these dates—(1) William Pitt, at the end of the 18th century. (2) Wilberforce, in the early 1800's. (3) Lord Gray, 1819; (4) Duke of Wellington, on his deathbed, in 1851; (5) Disraeli, 1849; (6) Lord Shaftesbury, 1868. There is seemingly nothing new under the sun!

Try to Raise Refinance Bill.

The Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium expires March 2, 1938. Last year the senate passed a bill making the moratorium permanent. The house did not complete the action then. A sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, while not acting during the special session, has agreed to a hearing in January. A glance at the petition on the clerk's desk shows there are only 138 names on the Lemke refinance petition. A determined effort will be made early in the regular session to complete the signing of this petition and get the legislation before the membership at an early date.

Government Agents Push Down and Pull Up on Same Farmer.

There is much inconsistency between two government farm agencies. On one hand a branch of the farm credit administration is forcing collections of feed and seed loans from farmers who have not raised a crop while on the other hand the farm security administration is endeavoring to aid these same farmers with rehabilitation loans and other work. Governor Meyers of the F.C.A. is going to be asked to get together with the P.S.A. in order that the farmer who is told by one agency that he will be helped and by another agency to "pay up or get out," can know just what it is all about.

East Still Thinks Farmer in Clover.

The prairie states group committee which is endeavoring to secure admission from the powers that be, that in Nebraska and some other drouth states a real emergency exists and special attention should be given to these drouth sections, already has a resolution to that effect ready to be introduced as soon as the regular session of congress opens on January 3. Because of the so-called "recession" in business a lot of the relief money which is needed so badly in the drouth areas is starting to go into the big industrial cities. As a result the drouth areas are being forgotten. Members still tell farm members from these drouth areas that the "farmer is better off than ever before." They can't realize that while good crops have been raised in Illinois, Iowa and some other states, there are many counties in Nebraska where farmers have again suffered a complete crop failure.

Wayne Rated As Favorite in Contest With NCAC Opponent.

After only a few days of warm-up drills following the holidays, the undefeated Wayne Wildcats return to the court here tomorrow evening with Nebraska Wesleyan's Plainsmen as their opponents. Although the Teachers will rule as favorites, the scrappy Wesleyan team is fully capable of upsetting predictions.

Coach Hickman assembled his entire squad last Monday and found that most of the boys were in need of conditioning drill following vacation. They have rounded into form, however, and are in good fettle for Friday night's game.

With two victories over Omaha University and one triumph over Midland, the Wayne team is striving to keep its record unmarred. Judging from the way in which both Omaha and Midland fell before teams entered in the Morningside invitation meet during the holidays, it appears that they were none too strong and that Wayne will meet much stiffer competition from now on.

Wesleyan squeezed out a victory over Dana college earlier in the season. Coach Dwight Thomas' boys beat York 50-30 Tuesday. Likely starters for Wesleyan will be Dell Hedges, Koca, and Elbert Souders, Lincoln, forwards; Capt. Art Barrett of Lincoln, center; Neal Davis of Lincoln, guard; and either Johnny Staten or Howard Feyerherm at another guard.

Next Monday night Coach Hickman will take his squad to Storm Lake, Ia., for a game with the Buena Vista cagers. The Beavers have a powerful team and should give the Wildcats a hard battle.

Music Students To Give Program

The college music department sponsors a program at the school auditorium Tuesday evening, January 11, at 7:30. The piano department presents three double piano teams; Lavore Yenter and Genevieve Ramsey, Gwenn Raber and June Russell, Mildred Dohren and Margaret Miller. Piano soloists will be Mildred Bessire and Helen Granlund.

The Sport Log

THE BOWL FAD.
American football fans seem to prefer their post-season football served in bowls these days. From the Ice Bowl on the Berling sea to the Orange Bowl on the Florida strait record crowds cheered while champions from various sections fought for the honor of victory and a slice of the gate receipts.

Bowl football contests reached a new high this year. There were the Rose Bowl, the original bowl game; the Sugar Bowl; the Cotton Bowl; the Sun Bowl; besides the Ice Bowl and Orange Bowl. What possibilities there are for advertising the products and characteristics of different sections of the country. We might have the Dust Bowl, the Corn Bowl, the Oatmeal Bowl, the Fish Bowl, the Steel Bowl, the Copper Bowl and dozens of others. And who knows, the fad might take the country by storm. Americans seem to like fads.

The little trader has passed this way, his gun across the canoe trails before him, ready for use. Probably he had had a game. No matter, she did not care what the little trader did.

She stirred and clamped her jaws on the shred of meat and jerked with both hands to tear off a chunk and her watery eyes glittered balefully. They had left her behind while they attended the grand medicine.

It was not good to be left behind at such a time, when whiskey was in prospect.

She mumbled through the food and stared upstream. As good to put the blame on this trader as on any. If she blamed her daughters, they would only storm at her the harder. One could blame the trader and get into a great rage at him and have no names called or suffer no blows; nor be chased into the lodge or out of the lodge.

She stirred a great rage for him, paddling up the river, here, and shooting at whatever it might have been.

She stopped chewing after a time and sat very still, ruminating. But there had been two shots, close together. A man does not load his gun so quickly as that. Two shots there had been, but only one man had gone up the river and the country was empty of people, gone to the medicine.

She granted. It was beyond explaining. The thing that troubled her and about which something could be done was wood and she dragged her laggard leg out behind the lodge and began breaking more branches from the dead top of a maple that furnished her fuel.

The canoe, curiously up-ended, swung from bend to bend. Now and then it heaved lightly and hung so, at times for many moments. Then the working of its high end or the undermining action of the current on the sand beneath the bottom would effect liberation. Here and there overhanging brush caught and delayed it; once it rested against a snag for many minutes.

Shaw had not moved until then. The stain of red had drenched his shirt. The pool about his chest had grown large and then lost bright color as blood ceased flowing. His face was white, eyes closed. But the mouth was closed now, too, and he moaned lightly, a bubbling sound.

Mongazi's weapon had been a trade musket and the sight was coarse.

The canoe beneath him listed and bobbed, lathered by a mere touch. A splash of water ran over the rail, a wetting his knee, sloshing about the one wrist. It was cool; it laved the pulse. The dip which let the water in liberated the craft and it floated on down the current. After it passed the third bend the hand spread laxly on the bottom closed slowly, as though with great effort, and the map moaned again.

He tried to move. He drew the hand up and pushed with it. He stirred one knee, straining to shove his hips upward; then slumped back while the canoe rocked alarmingly.

The shift raised the one end still higher. The tops of the trees were bowing to a steady breeze, now. The breeze found more purchase on the drifting craft, speeding its progress. Shaw, however, did not stir again. The blood stain showed bright with fresh wetting.

There! Little Duck was done, now. She had branches enough to warm her when night came and before she crawled into her robes. She stood panting, resting, muttering that it was not good for the old to be left alone.

She started hard up the river. A canoe, unoccupied. Floating in a crazy trim, with someone in it. Two shots; a canoe, floating idly, a man lying in the bottom.

Married Tuesday At Home In Ponca

Miss Vera Lundin Becomes Bride of Alford Rakow At Ceremony.

At a single ring ceremony Tuesday, January 4, at high noon, Miss Vera Lundin, daughter of F. A. Lundin of Allen, became the bride of Mr. Alford Rakow of Ponca. The wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. Wallace S. Livings, pastor of the Salem Lutheran church at Ponca. After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Rakow will make their home at Ponca where Mr. Rakow is established in business.

The bride was attired in a turquoise blue crepe dress fashioned with rhinestone buckles. Her accessories were light gray, and she wore a corsage of sweetpeas and Talisman roses. Mrs. Arch E. Krause of Idaho Falls, Idaho, was the bride's attendant. She wore a rust satin-faced crepe dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of sweetpeas and tea roses. Millard Townsend of Ponca, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a three-course wedding dinner was served at the bride's parental home at Allen with Mrs. Fred Lundin as hostess. Mrs. Harry Fisher and Mrs. Albert Anderson assisted. Other guests at the dinner besides the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rakow of Ponca, Harry Fisher and Harriet Ann, Mrs. Emily Pearson, Carl Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lundin and Gordon, Fred Lundin and Corrine and F. A. Lundin.

The table was decorated with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, gold candelabra holding white tapers and a blue crystal bowl with tea roses. Streamers of blue and gray, the bride's chosen colors, extended from a large white bell in the center of the room to each place.

The bride is well known in this community and for the past eight years has been employed as bookkeeper in the Farmer's Cooperative exchange at Wakefield.

Laurel Is Foe Of Wayne High

Blue Cagers Resume Play After Vacation Layoff—Hard Games Ahead.

Wayne high's basketball team will launch their 1938 campaign in a game against Laurel high school at the city auditorium tomorrow night. Coach Morris brought his cagers together a few days earlier to be sure they would be in trim after vacation.

Concentration on offensive tactics has been the main task in preparation for coming fights. A scrimmage against Wayne prep was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon. The Wayne team has not met anything approaching a real test of their strength. Stanton and Bancroft, both weak teams, were easily defeated.

The teamwork of the Wayne five in opening games has been outstanding, especially in the Stanton contest. The sharpshooting of Berry and Wright, forwards, helped in boosting the score.

A second team game with Laurel will be the preliminary on Friday night. Next week the Wayne boys journey to Bloomfield for a game on Tuesday night.

W.M.U. SERVICE

"Out!" with a gesture. "I want the canoe."
"But—"
"Of course! I follow! No, don't squall warnings. Basic. I should have guessed, he'd go straight to Black Beaver when driven from his den. . . Oh, save your warnings! I'm no fool. I'll go as far by the usual route as I safely can and then swing into the encampment from the rear!"
He was gone, then, leaving Basile on the beach, grumbling and mumbling.
It was a morning of wondrous silence, of gorgeous peace, of vivid color. The tranquility of late summer, the peace of a flawless day. But in the affairs of men, no tranquility, no peace.
Rodney Shaw passed the island, with Rickman leering at him from his shelter and trust in treachery high in his heart, and pressed on for that river where Mongazi lay waiting, an agent of destruction.
Shaw rounded a point, swung toward the land and entered the river. He reached that bend where the old erone raked ashes from coals and dangled a shred of meat there on a stick, blinking her lachrymose eyes with their baleful lights. He called a bluff greeting to Little Duck, but she did not reply; just stared sourly at him and mumbled.
The day held silent. The air was clear, so clear and so still that small sounds were distinct. Also, the sounds of a paddle, ever so cautiously wielded, traveled a great distance.
Mongazi heard and a slight tremor ran his frame; not of dismay or of compunction, but of preparation. He raised himself to elbows and knees, safe in his screen of long, cured grasses. Shaw came, and the Indian raised his gun.
But one does not shoot a man with a face like that from in front, not even when his concealment is perfect. One waits. From the rear it is safer.
On went Shaw, eyes raking the banks, seeing nothing to alarm. His jaw was set; gray eyes glowing. In a short distance, now he would land and proceed by foot to Black Beaver's lodge. He was abreast Mongazi's hiding place. He was beyond, but not far enough; the current ran swiftly in this bend. A movement above might be seen from the corner of an eye, keen as those gray ones. . . He was turned, with his back squarely toward the high bank as he drove his canoe to the inside of the bend, and Mongazi rose to one knee. The rifle rose slowly, silently. The trigger rose to his shoulder, he pressed his cheek to the cool stock, he squinted over the course sight.
A busy woodpecker ceased his prodding for food and darted away as the sound of the shot ripped the stillness.
In the canoe there, the man rocked forward as though a heavy stone had been hung against his back. He threw out a hand to grasp the rive. The legs were thrown out, and along with them, the man's eyes were fixed on the water.

to brace himself, tumbled, fumbled for the trigger, and another shot ripped the serene silence.
But that bullet tore no flesh; it rent only water, fired as it was without sighting, in the last fractional second of consciousness. The gun slipped from flexing fingers and thudded into the canoe bottom. With a long, retching breath, Shaw doubled slowly forward, twisted once and lay still.
The momentum of the canoe died away. It hesitated, hanging stationary in the current; then, turning about lazily, it began slipping backward with the stream's flow, one end raised high by the weight fallen into the other.
From his security in the grasses, Mongazi watched. The craft spun slowly, end for end, as it drifted into the rip of the current. It was set in against the bank below him and the Indian rose, peering down.
Shaw's cheek was pressed to the bottom. His mouth was open, his eyes closed. His bronze had given to a sickly pallor. He did not move, made no sound. A stain was spreading over the back of his shirt, and blood dribbled to the canoe bottom to form a growing pool, as vivid in color as the ripe berries on their briary stalks overhanging him.
Mongazi waited until the craft, lightly touching a snag, wheeled itself free and went on. Then silently, swiftly, he plunged into the forest. The canoe would be found; three packs of beaver would be his; two men had died at his hand, now, but he might live.
And, about that time, Burke Rickman landed at the point where waiting went on, giving the lie to the rumor that he had been driven from his fort by the little trader, solemnly making inquiry about the death of Flat Mouth's son, glaring coldly at the confused Basile when he came with his men who bore a newly made coffin.
He had no fear of Shaw's men, had Rickman; he feared only Shaw. And Shaw was gone, following the scent he himself had broadcast; gone to nose his way into that dead-fall so adroitly arranged.
He had seen Capes depart at dawn and had bitten his lips in rage, suspecting that even while she warned him to go gently Annette had known the officer would not remain longer.
Well, she had frightened him by that strategy last night, but the fright had not been without purpose. It had rendered from his temper the plan which was now nearing fruition. Shaw would be gone, his native friends would not suspect him and the girl was still here.
The girl was still here! Even from the medicine ground he could see fresh smoke rising above her encampment fire. He would attend her later. When he had opportunity to let his thoughts settle a bit, he would attend her. . . Capes was on his way. Her boatmen would be no deterring influence for him. . . When he felt ready, now, he'd pull the kitten's claws!
Little Duck chewed the scorched bark great as the reports of two shots reached her ancient ears. She sat huddled at the fire and, in the distance, she saw the sounds no head.

Plan To Control Horse Disease

Agent Walter Moller is asking veterinarians and farmers to cooperate in a program to treat horses for bots. Horse bots are the maggots or grubs of bottles, commonly known as nitflies or gadflies, which cause an infested animal to fail to get full value of food consumed. Carbon bisulphide has provided effective and cheap as a remedy when administered by a competent veterinarian.

Believe It Or Not - Hens Lay Green Eggs Here

Breakfasts of the future may be made ever so much more colorful with eggs having yolks of green, blue, red, violet or even pastel shades instead of the eternal yellow. You may simply put in your order for your favorite color and thus start the day in complete harmony with your taste. It may become proper to serve eggs with red and green yolks at Christmas, all colors of the rainbow at Easter and red, white and blue eggs on the Fourth of July. Laboratory scientists have recently proved that the tinting of eggs for Easter can take place inside the egg as well as outside. Inside tinting is all a matter of feed. Experiments at Purina laboratories in St. Louis show that hens are able to produce yolks in shades ranging through bright red, orange, blue, purple, brown, black, white and green, simply by varying the feed. All these possibilities for the lovely egg are the result of the surprising phenomenon revealed recently by Myron Colson, owner of the Colson hatchery, when he displayed eggs with green yolks. Mr. Colson has several hens laying green eggs, and he also has an explanation for their sudden breach of convention in not laying yellow eggs. "It's all in the feed," explains Mr. Colson. The hens were given feed in which had been mixed some coloring matter. The coloring was assimilated along with the ration and was the cause of the green yolk. The experiment is being used by Mr. Colson to demonstrate that the kind of feed given to hens has much to do with the quality of the eggs produced. The eggs with the green yolks are on display at Colson's hatchery.

Students To Plant Trees This Year

Tentative arrangements will encourage Smith-Hughes vocational agriculture students in Wakefield to plant and take care of trees as part of their work, according to Howard Keck, instructor, cooperating with Agent Walter Moller. Each of the 88 vocational training schools in the state will be eligible for Clarke-McNary seedlings, 100 to be given to students who carry the forestry work through the summer. Wayne county farmers are also applying for these seedlings at the farm bureau office.

Forest Service To Place Trees

Wayne County Farmers May Apply For Plantings At Farm Bureau.

Wayne county has been allotted eight miles of shelterbelt plantings in 1938, through a shelter belt project of the United States forest service. A few plantings still remain to be located and anyone desiring a planting of this type should contact the farm bureau office. Shelterbelt strips are seven rods wide and at least 160 rods long, consisting of 10 rows of trees and shrubs. Each planting will be planned to give the maximum benefit to the individual farm on which it is located. The strips will be planted on north, west or south sides or in a strip through the farm. In an agreement between the land owner and the forest service the land owner will prepare the ground for planting, furnish materials for a barb wire fence and cultivate the trees until no longer needed. The forest service will furnish the trees, plant the trees and furnish labor to construct the fence. During the first year the farmer will be provided poison bait for control of rabbits. Trees become the property of the land owner as soon as they are planted. He agrees not to sell or destroy the young trees but later on he may use them for firewood, fence posts or other purposes.

Miniatures Of Christ Revive Sacred Story

Christmas customs of the native Germany are revived each holiday season by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Poeschel who live south-west of Wayne, and many visitors come to their home at this season to view the miniature images which depict the birth of Christ. The most spectacular of the images in the Poeschel collection is one with four plates, graduated in size from the larger ones at the bottom to the smallest at the top, supported by a perpendicular pole. Miniature hunters and deer are on the lowest plate. Next above are sheep and shepherds. A uniformed band is on the one next to the top, and the top plate bears the miniatures of Mary, Joseph, the Christ child and wise men. Above all is a fan similar to a windmill which is moved by candles burning on each plate. This makes the scenes revolve. Another smaller scene of images with a revolving fan was received as a Christmas gift from Germany this year. The Poeschels also have miniature images of a coal miner and others, these being like the ones enjoyed in Germany each Christmas. Among those who came to the Poeschel home this season to view the collection were Ernest Heller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heller, August Ash and family and Miss Ida Ash of Puger, Mr. and Mrs. John Blackwell of Pender, Leonard Kaempf, Theo. Fortunate America!
Omaha Journal: Stockman.—While there may be truth in the idea that one of the reasons of the greatness of the United States lies in the unwillingness of its people ever to be entirely satisfied with things as they are, there are indications in this day and age that dissatisfaction with what we have can be carried entirely too far.

In their struggle against such enemies as drought and depression in recent years, for example, many people have felt that they were enduring a hard lot. Therefore it should open their eyes to the true state of affairs to realize that although people of every other nation still look to this country as the land of promise and keep immigration quotas over-full, there is no other spot of the globe where Americans could go and be as well off as they are at home. One writer estimated recently that 100,000,000 foreigners would move to the United States at once if they were open to them to do so.

What have we that they lack? First of all freedom, which for all the restrictions that we have thrown around ourselves, we still possess in greater measure than any other people on earth. Second, resources, and with them the room to expand and grow. Third, opportunity, not only for young people to be educated and get a start in life but to go, regardless of their origins, to the very top in their chosen field, whether that be politics, the arts and sciences, a profession, or one of the industries.

To the rest of the world, America still stands in the enviable position of being the Promised Land. And while we who call this country home may be forgiven for not being wholly content with things as they are, we may well begin a new year with a thought of thanks for the blessings we have and a resolve to do all that is within our power to preserve them.

tables to platter and make gravy, using stock made from trimmings. (Stock: Cover trimmings from boned veal with cold water, add a bay leaf, sliced onion, celery tops, spring of parsley, few peppercorns and some salt. Simmer 1/2 hour or more.)

Beef Stew With Dumplings
2 pounds beef
2 tablespoons shortening
1 large onion, chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup water
2 cups Worcestershire sauce
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 cup diced carrots
Cut the beef in 1-inch squares and brown on both sides in a hot frying pan. Cook the onion in the melted shortening until soft and add to the browned beef. Add the water, seasoning and the tomatoes. Cover and cook over low heat until the meat is tender, about 2 hours. Add carrots during last half hour of cooking. To make dumplings: Use 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning and salt. Add 1-1 1/2 cup milk gradually and stir until well mixed. Remove some of the gravy if it covers the meat. Drop the dough by teaspoonfuls on the boiling stew. Cover and cook at the simmering point without removing the cover for 15 minutes. Test dumplings before removing.

Apple Crumb Pie.
Plain pastry for 1-crust pie
4 large tart apples
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup flour
1-3 cup butter
Roll out pastry and fit into pie pan. Peel and cut the apples into eighths. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup sugar that has been mixed with the cinnamon. Stir the remaining 1/2 cup sugar with the flour. Chop the butter into the flour and sugar mixture until it looks very crumbly. Sprinkle this over the sugared apples. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to moderate and bake 30 minutes more or until the apples are tender. Reheat just before dinner and serve warm with cheese.

Chocolate Cream Pie.
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 1/2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted beat with a rotary egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, flour and salt, add gradually to chocolate mixture and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Then continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount of mixture over egg yolks, stirring vigorously; return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove from boiling water, add butter and vanilla. Cool and turn into pie shell. Beat egg whites until foamy, add sugar gradually, beating until the mixture will stand in peaks. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in moderate oven 15 minutes or until delicately brown.

Luncheon Dish.
Brown 2 slices bacon, cut fine in a skillet. Add dried beef pulled into bits. Frizzle. Make gravy with flour and evaporated milk, adding 1 beaten egg just before pouring into Vienna rolls, scooped out and toasted.

Hard Surfacing South Of Wayne One of Year's Highway Jobs.

Paving and oil mat on highway No. 8 comprised the major part of northeast Nebraska road work the past year, according to District Engineer J. B. Martin. Concrete was laid on seven miles between Norfolk and Pilger, and oil mat stretches between Ewing and Clearwater and between Seward Grove and Neligh. Hard surface will be placed next year between Neligh and Clearwater and between Ewing and O'Neill to complete the improved road from Omaha to O'Neill.

Considerable work has been done on No. 20. Oil mat was extended from Plainview west to a point two miles east of Royal. Plans are to extend this next year to connect with No. 8 near Orchard.

No. 15 was given oil mat for three miles south of Wayne and the rest of the highway south to No. 8 was graded and gravelled. The oil mat south of Wayne will be extended next season. A channel change and new bridge on No. 15 south of Pilger are nearly complete.

Highway No. 77 between Oakland and Uehling was graded and gravelled the past year. On No. 12 between Ponca and Willis an oil mat was spread. Two spur jobs, one from Magnet to No. 20, and the other from Waterbury to the same highway, were graded and gravelled in 1937.

Highway No. 24 was given an oil mat on what is called the Stanton spur off No. 8, and an oil mat surface a part of the distance between Norfolk and Stanton. No. 24 also was graded and gravelled where it was not paved.

No. 81 will be repaved north of Norfolk in 1938 and hard surface will be laid on five miles.

Robbers Of Store
At Dixon Caught

Two Sioux City men, Emil Nielsen, 56, and Donald Brenzo, 24, were arrested at Jackson Tuesday night last week on charge of robbing the Phelan general store at Dixon early Tuesday morning of goods valued at $750. In court at Ponca Friday Nielsen admitted robbing the store and implicated Brenzo.

The store was entered by breaking a side window. A boy playing near Jackson Tuesday afternoon found goods beneath a bridge and notified officers who hid nearby. The two men drove to the site that night. Nielsen got out and walked to where the stolen goods were. The officers arrested Brenzo who sat in the car and then went for the other man. Nielsen ran but the officers caught him.

Walter R. Bressler who had been in a local hospital almost eight weeks recovering from injuries suffered in a car accident, was able to be moved to his home Friday. He will be in bed six weeks longer.

Dr. S. A. Lutgen has his office in the Wayne hospital. Phone 61-4301.

To Continue Milk
For Two Schools

Wayne Red Cross board, at a meeting Thursday evening, voted to continue giving milk to about 70 children in the two Wayne schools for the rest of the year.

Prof. K. N. Parks, who is chairman of the coordinating committee in charge of helping 64 underprivileged children in Wayne, reported that dental, medical and optical needs of the children should be cared for by the last of January. Some money is yet needed to finish this work.

Mrs. A. C. Thompson, relief director, reported the feed of shoes, underwear and stockings.

Mrs. Thompson directed the supplying of Christmas baskets to 22 Wayne families. These were furnished by clubs, schools and individuals. Toys were exceptionally nice this year and were distributed by the relief office. Each girl received a doll and all children were provided with other toys and games.

J. C. Carhart, Red Cross treasurer, in a report Thursday showed that receipts for 1937 were $1,272.29 and disbursements were $1,256.30. From the recent roll call $147.23 remained in the local funds and the same amount was sent to national headquarters.

Plans are to establish a new national foundation for infantile paralysis and to help victims of the disease from funds raised January 25 at the annual president's birthday balls over the country. Frank Korff has charge of arranging the ball in Wayne and C. E. Nicholaisen will assist him. Byron Murray has charge at Pender, and F. B. Hurley at Ponca.

A radio broadcast by Wayne's all-girl band was arranged for New Year's day but was cancelled by Prof. F. C. Reed because some of the players were unable to be present.

Mrs. George Roberts, Miss Genevieve Roberts and Miss Katherine Harrison were in Wakefield New Year's day.

To Use Records
As Building Guide

When one purchases a 1938 automobile license at the county treasurer's office, he will be handed a questionnaire card to be filled out and dropped into the mail box.

The county treasurer, throughout the state are cooperating with the Nebraska Department of Roads and Irrigation and the United States Bureau of Public Roads in conducting a motor vehicle allocation survey.

From the answers on the cards returned they hope to obtain more exacting information as to the source of motor vehicle revenues.

The state's entire income for building and maintaining the highways comes from such revenues and while the total amount is known the state and bureau expect to be able to determine how much is paid by rural and town or city residents in each county.

Considerable attention is being given the farm-to-market and feeder roads and is of vital interest to the counties and residents of the counties. The information obtained on the questionnaire cards will be of great value to both the counties and the state in planning and the sequence and location of future projects and will have considerable bearing on future appropriations, both state and federal.

The information on the cards cannot be identified with the individual submitting it. The cards will require no postage as they carry a mailing permit. The success of the survey depends upon the number of cards returned. It is to the personal interest of all motor vehicle owners in the state that the most complete returns be made of the present request of the Department of Roads and Irrigation. Prompt and careful consideration will be of value not only to the state generally but also to each county and local community.

The Owen Tyrrell family of Pender, visited Friday with Mrs. Mary Sellers and Mrs. Delilah Tyrrell.

To Abandon State
Music Contests

Wayne Will Entertain One Of District Events in Early April.

State music contests will be abandoned, according to decision of the Nebraska High School Activities association. Of 312 eligible schools invited to vote in the poll to determine the question, 224 voted and 195 were against the state event. At the state contest in Hastings last spring 4,800 students of superior and excellent rating competed.

District contests will be continued at seven places April 1 and 2, these to be at Wayne, Fremont, Hastings, Scottsbluff, Geneva and two other points to be selected. Sweepstakes awards will be abolished in the district contests, according to vote of 195 to 33 in the state poll. The vote also permitted schools to enter 24 events in the district contests, this vote being 159 to 51.

Both Wayne schools won in the district and state music events last year.

Building Done
In Year Noted

Business District Gains Especially in Work for Period.

Looking back on activities in Wayne during the past year, building seems to have taken an upward trend. The greatest improvements have been made in the business district. A one-story structure, 50x80, and the remodelled Meyer & Bichel building constructed by C. H. Hendricksen are notable additions to south Main. The old Democrat building was razed to be replaced by the new brick structure.

Another important improvement in the business district was the remodeling of the R. L. Larson store. A new front and fixtures were also installed.

A new building is being erected by Edw. Seymour which will be the future home of the Wayne creamery. Two apartments will be located on second floor. It is located west of the present creamery on Third street. The old building has been rented by Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tietgen for a hatchery.

Fred Blair built a one-story structure on north Main which is being occupied by the Wayne cleaners. Also on north Main, Wm. Beckenhauer remodeled his funeral home. Two apartments were added and the show room was placed on first floor.

College and city alike have made improvements. An open air stadium has replaced the sunken garden at the southwest corner of the campus and a new basement has been built under the gymnasium building.

The city light plant has been remodeled, curbs and gutters have been built on some streets and four blocks of paving have been added.

Oil mat has been laid three miles south.

Swanson and Lally have built a shed back of their office on south

Main for a feed and seed warehouse. Corvill Auto company has also added an addition to the garage back of their present building.

R. G. Fuelberth is building a new service station on south Main street. Elmer Otte has completed a station a mile north of Wayne, and Joe Huberer has finished one a half mile south.

Among improvements in the residence section is the new home of Ralph Crockett on Windom street and remodeling of the Walter Weber house on Main street. The property of Mrs. I. H. Brittle has been remodeled into two apartments. H. L. Atkins built a new house west of Bressler park and W. A. Hixco put up one near Fourth and Logan. Aug. Witter did some remodeling at his residence. Robert Stambaugh has built a new home on their farm northwest of town. Mrs. Carl Baker remodeled her residence in town.

Following the hail storm in the county last spring many improvements were necessary. A new barn has been built on the Matt Finn farm, and one on the Otto Gerlemann farm. Lou Winther of Wisner has built a new barn on his farm at Laurel.

A new modern chicken house, 20x56, was constructed on the Anton Pfleger farm, 10 miles southeast of Wayne. It is complete with ventilating system and insulation.

New granaries or cribs have been built on the Lew Baier, Ed. Miller, Charles Gildersleeve and Wm. Gildersleeve farms. The two Gildersleeve farms have had other minor repairs as well as the Dan Baier home.

Herman Lundberg had corn cribs built on three farms this season. John T. Bressler has a hog house constructed on his farm near Carroll. Kaspar Korn has a barn built, and Charles Tennant had repair work done on the farm occupied by John Lewis.

Wm. Meyer built a corn crib.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tucker and Miss Mildred Spangler of Wisner, received cuts when two horses came onto the highway in front of their car. One horse jumped onto the hood and broke the glass.

Chosen Princess
In Rose Parade

Miss Jean Studley of Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Wayne, was one of the six princesses chosen to ride with the queen of the Rose tournament January 1. The princesses were selected on the basis of scholarship, activities and beauty. Miss Jean is a junior in high school. She is a niece of Mrs. H. R. Best, wife of a former Wayne superintendent.

Mrs. Leland Young and daughter returned to Pender Friday after visiting since the Tuesday before with relatives here.

London Letter

By ALFRED LARSON, LONDON, ENGLAND.

December 21, 1937.

The standard of living is unquestionably lower in England than in the United States. For obvious reasons Englishmen do not give any publicity to this fact. Responsible Englishmen will admit it, but they will add that unless the United States is more careful of its resources in the future than it has been in the past the relative positions of the two countries will be reversed.

I know of only one way to discover what people get paid in various occupations, and that is to ask them, asking enough people to eliminate the possibility of deceit.

Fifteen-year-old boys learning a trade get from $2.50 to $5.00 per week, getting the smaller sum in trades where the prospects of advancement are best. Girls, 15-20, get about $6.25 a week in laundries, and $10 a week in factories. Telephone operators begin at $6.25 a week and can work up to $13.75 a week in ten years. Policemen after a short training period begin regular work at $15 a week. Men who drive buses and street-cars receive $15 a week. Postman get from $15 to $20 a week. Shop clerks average $12.50 a week. Civil service clerks begin work at $11.75 a week, getting small annual raises until they reach the maximum of $19.50 a week after twelve years' service. Unemployment relief, the dole, for a man with a wife amounts to $6.00 a week. At present there are about one and a half million unemployed. A single man pays income tax on all above $825 a year.

When these income figures are placed opposite food prices, it is easy to understand why there is only one car for 20 people in England as compared with one car for 5 people in the United States. Some prevailing prices are: Milk, 15 cents a quart; flour, $10.25 for a 280-lb. bag; potatoes, 3 cents a pound; onions and turnips, 4 cents a pound; sugar, 5 cents a pound; ordinary cheese, 20 cents a pound; English butter, 50 cents; Danish or New Zealand butter, 40 cents; Australian eggs, 60-75 cents a dozen; English ribs of beef, 30 cents; English leg of lamb, 35 cents; New Zealand leg of lamb, 30 cents; chickens, 30-35 cents a pound; rabbits, 30 cents a pound; cheapest American apples, 6 cents a pound; oranges, 25-75 cents a dozen; bananas, 25-55 cents a dozen. But good herrings are only 10 cents a pound and cod only 12 cents. Bread is cheap. The English in 1936 spent almost exactly as much for fish as they did for bread.

Prices have gone up considerably within the past several months, as they have in the United States. Housewives have held meetings and have petitioned the government to do something about it. Government spokesmen have replied that the rise in prices from July 1 to October 1 was only 8 percent. In election campaigns labor party candidates have talked much about the rise in prices and have blamed the national (essentially conservative) government for the rise. In defence the conservatives reply that prices were even higher in 1931 when the socialists were in power. The dominant conservatives, and the conservative press, and almost invariably the speaker of the labor party and the independent labor party as socialists, while the labor speakers and press appear to use the terms labor and socialist interchangeably. In England generally, then, the present English outs are known as socialists, although the American press continues to refer to them as the labor party and laborites.

of lead pencils have we whittled up, and many events have we thoroughly recorded. All this, and much more have we done, but we never did see quite such a scarcity of local news as at this particular period of time. Hens' teeth are a drug in the market when compared with it. Freight rate on wheat shipped from Ponca to Sioux City has been reduced from 10c to 8c.

A Missouri rural school teacher let her pupils decide on the length of their holiday vacation, and they chose to have just one day, Christmas.

When the town hall at Royal, Iowa, burned to the ground, firemen could not do anything about it for their fire fighting apparatus was in it.

A man whose limbs are helplessly in one of the best drivers in Oklahoma, a recent test showed. He drives with hand extensions on the foot levers.

The mother of a youth who drove a car which killed Harry Brickett of Pittsburgh, had a $12,000 home built for Mrs. Brickett and four children as a Christmas gift.

"Best wishes for a roarin' Christmas" was a card on a Christmas box delivered to a Kansas City man. The box contained a 9-month-old lion sent by the mayor of a nearby city.

Morganton, N. C., and Cascade Locks, Ore., each returned a card to the government as the balance on WPA projects. Recovery of each penny cost the government several dollars in bookkeeping.

Ernest Johnson, 46, World War veteran, who walked 48 miles from his mountain home to Wenatchee, Wash., to secure aid for his wife and children, died a half hour after he reached the city.

When a duck sat on a chimney in Berlin, Md., the house filled with smoke. A neighbor thought he would be helpful so he shot the duck. The bird fell into the chimney and firemen had to tear out the bricks to remove it.

Mayor Sprague of Dallas, Texas, invited councilmen of Boulder, Colo., to elect their mayor at Dallas. The Boulder charter requires that the mayor be elected January 1 and the councilmen wanted to go to Dallas for the football game.

A new diamond studded gold medal is to be presented to the winner of the 1938 lying contest in Burlington, Wis. Last year's winner said she lost her medal. This may be the truth or it may be that the winner hid this as her entry in this year's contest.

Racine, Wis., policemen thought they had answered almost every kind of a request. But it was a new experience when a man called for them to solve a difficult move in checkers. The policemen figured it out, and the man won the game.

A deer which fled a forest fire three years ago and came to Barnegat, N. J., has become the pet of the town. To protect it during hunting season the deer is dressed in a red checkered coat, red and white necktie and plaque reading, "Don't shoot I'm Barnegat Pete."

A year ago a 6-year-old boy was so ill with a strange skin disease at Atlanta, Mo., that his Christmas gifts were given to him as they arrived for fear that he might not live until Christmas. The boy did live past Christmas and he was dismissed from the hospital nine months later. This year he was happy in helping decorate the school Christmas tree.

Each week before Christmas for nine years a Chicago suburban store keeper was robbed. This year he hid all but a few dollars in a shoe box. When the hold-up man came in he surrendered the $20 in the cash register. Later he was displaying the shoe box containing $150 to a customer and telling about his trick. The customer pulled out a gun and took the $150.
