GROWING SEASON STARTS OUT WITH UNUSUAL PROMISE

LAST month was the warmest March since 1920, according to the official record. It had normal precipitation, and the ground was benefited by every drop of moisture that fell. March is usually a ugly period with high winds and repeated snows. The month's customary habits disturb feelings more than the angry blasts of mid-winter. Hopes for an early spring are thus deferred. But March this year was gentle and friendly. It is reported the end of last month found the total fall of moisture since January a trifle above normal. Ernest Peterson, whose farm is north of Wayne, says the ground is in good shape. Others have said the same thing. Farm work is well advanced, and with normal rainfall in April—a reasonable expectation—we ought to enter the growing season in a most promising condition.

WPA projects amounting to $34,370 have been approved by Washington officials for improvements in Wayne. These provide for paving and also for college campus work.

The city project calls for $18,840 for paving and other street work. Through this property owners may have pavement if they pay for the materials. TAKE TESTIMONY FOR SUIT FILED

George Lessman Estate Seeks Compensation In State Court.

At compensation court hearing held before Judge Lawrence F. Welch of Omaha here Monday, testimony was taken in the suit in which the estate of George Lessman seeks to recover compensation from Wayne county for injuries which are alleged to have been responsible for the illness which resulted in Mr. Lessman's death. Testimony will be weighed by the compensation judges, and a decision will be given in a short time.

Wayne county is insured so that the matter is a question to be settled between the plaintiffs and the insurance company. An Omaha lawyer and Burr Davis were attorneys for the defendants, and C. H. Hendrickson for the plaintiffs.

The late Mr. Lessman was operating a grader which was drawn by a caterpillar tractor driven by Walter Henkech on highway work about four miles southeast of Wayne in the fall of 1936. The outfit struck an obstruction in the road and Mr. Lessman was thrown from the machine, the steering wheel striking him in the abdomen. Mr. Lessman died of a stomach cancer.

The suit to recover compensation is based on the charge that the accident started the disease which resulted in his death.

Several similar cases are pending in compensation court in Nebraska and the decision will probably be a new one in Nebraska statutes, i.e., whether cancer results from such injuries.

A favorable decision in compensation court would provide plaintiff with two-thirds the wages drawn at the time of his death and figured for the natural expectancy of life.

Opinion Of Voters Against Vocational Agriculture Here

DEMOCRACY AND SCHOOLS LINKED

Education Of Voters Is Basis For Government By The People.

"Schools are organized to maintain our democratic government, rather than government being organized to maintain the schools," said Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of the college, in an address to the Kiwanis club Monday at Hotel Stratton when he told of his recent trip east. He attended two meetings, the American Association of Teachers Colleges and American Association of School Administrators at Atlantic City.

Dr. Anderson told of the weather when he started on the trip last month. From Omaha to Fort Wayne there was snow and from there to Atlantic City, N. J., rain fell. At the "summer playground of America" it was snowing, raining or sleeting all the time. Atlantic City did have a population of 75,000 but today it is 45,000, which is a result of the depression. Evidence of retrenchment are found in Atlantic City where the depression was felt pretty hard. A barber shop which had three chairs had only one barber whose family lived in one room at the rear.

Food and hotel rooms were very high, continued the speaker. A room cost between $4 and $7.50 a night and meals ranged from $1 to $3.50.

From the famous board walk, one may observe the ocean two.

ONE CLUB FROWNS ON SLAUGHTER OF LIVE TREES HERE

LADIES of the Minerva club, meeting Monday, discussed ways to beautify Wayne. One way generally approved was to quit cutting down shapely, live trees. Tree slaughter was deplored. The idea of denuding the community of its foliage and starting over in forestation, blasts too much of present-day economy. If W. P. A. workers cannot find enough dead trees to keep them busy, they could be given the job of exterminating dandelions—a leisurely employment without beginning or end. The local club is as much for the destruction of dandelions as it is for the preservation of trees, and it suggests concerted effort in behalf of the worthy objective. Club members also urge the city's early ridance of unsightly rubbish. They are anxious to see well kept yards, alleys and streets—a city whose cleanliness and beauty arouse pride and remove ground for apology.

Walter S. Bressler was reelected city clerk. He received 583 votes to 149 for Willis Noakes. Bressler received 149 votes in First, 199 in Second and 235 in Third ward. Noakes' vote stood 29 in First, 57 in Second and 63 in Third ward.

G. A. Lamberson was elected police magistrate with 642 votes, 163 in First, 217 in Second and 262 in Third ward.

Herman Midlner is reelected councilman in First ward and L. M. McClure in Third ward. J. H. Brugger is new councilman in Second ward. The votes were polled as follows: First ward, Herman Midlner, 155, and Ralph Crockett, 39. Second ward, J. H. Brugger, 154, and B. F. Strahan, 88. Third ward, L. B. McClure, 192, and G. W. Fortner, 104.

E. E. Fleetwood was reelected school board member, and Albert Johnson as new on the board. Fleetwood's vote was 372 and Johnson's 377. Mrs. J. M. Strahan received 277 and Mrs. D. S. Wightman 246. The school board vote by wards follows: E. E. Fleetwood, 81 in First, 149 in Second and 142 in Third; Albert Johnson, 90 in First, 148 in Second, and 130 in Third; Mrs. Strahan, 63 in First, 82 in Second and 132 in Third; Mrs. Wightman, 66 in First, 78 in Second and 102 in Third.

The vote in Wayne Tuesday was much larger than usual for the city election but not as large as some which have been polled.

out fear of the cars. Dr. Anderson noticed that the strong northwest wind carried the breakers back to sea as soon as they came to the shore.

The standards of colleges are measured in the meeting of the association of teachers colleges. Wayne college was accredited without any attachments or doubt. Of the colleges in the association, 46 percent are giving graduate credits. In the summer of 1939 Wayne will give 9 hours of graduate work.

J. L. Morgan spoke of how the college should go to the elementary schools and choose students and watch them through high school. Dr. Anderson commented on Wayne as being a good type of community to invite students to spend four years.

Concern About War.
The school administrators were most concerned about the war situation. The European conditions grow more perilous all the time and many fear America will be unable to stay neutral. Dr. Anderson also spoke of the recession which is thought to be worse than the last depression. Schools will suffer. "If we let the schools slip, the economic conditions will be worse." Only 11 percent of the youth between the ages of 18 and 21 in the country are attending school. The reasons are no funds to set up schools, no funds to attend school and no interest in the school work. The school finances of the states also vary.

One of the problems of the schools is to teach the youths the difference between propagandists and truth. Charles Judd of Chicago, spoke on the major trends in education. He suggests reorganizing the school systems, having six years elementary and eight years secondary training. The practical and liberal arts will merge in years to come. The socializing agencies which affect the entire group will be given the same attention as physical agencies are now given.

War is the most crucial problem in Washington, D. C. Dr. Anderson found after a visit with Congressman Karl Stefan and Senator George Norris.

Two Singers Give Joint Concert Here

Two young American singers give a joint recital at the Wayne State Teachers college, Wednesday evening, April 13, as a regular number in the college entertainment course.

Vandy Cape, soprano and comedienne, was born in New York and educated here and in Europe. She had a distinct passion for music which led her to obtain a musical training. She was also a skillful and successful writer. Therefore, she became music critic for the New York Evening Mail, the youngest first string music editor ever to hold such an important and responsible position. She had also an irrepressible sense of humor, and she became the joy of music circles for her satires. With her intimate knowledge of singers and their mannerisms, and her extensive musical background and training, it was inevitable that program directors should hear of it and seek her out. As the American Magazine has said, "This is what comes of having a voice for opera and being a natural comedienne."

Edward Kane is a native of Kentucky, a graduate of Emory University in Georgia and of the Curtis Institute of Music. He was a national Atwater Kent radio audition winner, and also recipient of the young artist's prize of the National Federation of Music Clubs. At the present time he is the tenor soloist of the historic Collegiate church of St. Nicholas, Fifth avenue at 48th St., New York. Mr. Kane has sung in opera in Robin Hood Dell with the Philadelphia, with the Montreal Opera company, and in Artur Rodzinski's performances of Tannhauser and Harnaise in Cleveland with the Cleveland orchestra. He has also sung in The Gondoliers in the historic old opera house at Central City, Colorado.

Management Plan Getting Results

Carefully prepared farm and home management plans, together with rehabilitation loans of the Farm Security administration are beginning to pay dividends in Wayne county, according to Ray L. Verzal, field representative, who headquarters at Wayne. There are 70 standard clients in this county.

"Experience of the past two years reveals marked improvement in nearly every case where the borrowing farmer has followed out the plan made at the time of the loan," Mr. Verzal said.

Tracing the steps taken in working out a standard plan Mr. Verzal pointed out that the farmer's character and ability, liabilities and assets, farming methods, family needs and the farm itself were all considered in its development. In addition, debt adjustment service is often necessary.

"As a result," said Mr. Verzal, "when the plan is finally completed the borrowing farmer is practically starting out anew. He is given the advice of agricultural experts as to the kind of farming methods best suited to his particular unit. He is given the friendly assistance of his neighbors who serve without pay on the debt adjustment committee and services of the home management supervisor are available to help the housewife in planning the home budget."

Where Hoover Stands.

Omaha World-Herald: It is all-fired hard these days to keep up with public men and public events. Kaleidoscopic changes come so fast that even minutes count.

Which is our sole excuse for having misconstrued Herbert Hoover's present attitude with respect to foreign relationships in some editions of yesterday's paper.

We still stands where he did during war days and the League of Nations controversy; where both he and Roosevelt stood as supporters of President Wilson and members of his administration.

But while we were believing that, Mr. Hoover made a speech in New York; to our way of thinking a very good speech. He insisted our country must harden its resolution to "keep out of other people's wars."

Our previous desire to "save the world for democracy," he confessed, only showed dragons' teeth and raised a crop of dictators. We should have no more of it, either by joint military or joint economic action with other powers.

The forms of government which other peoples choose to submit to are none of our business. While he blasted nazism, communism and fascism alike, the former president insisted we must keep the peace with dictatorships as well as free governments.

"Our watchwords should be absolute independence of political action and adequate preparedness." The implications of Mr. Roosevelt's "quarantine" proposal must be avoided.

Mr. Hoover now takes the realistic attitude, much the same as Premier Chamberlain's. We must protect ourselves and our vital interests only. Not again can we afford to become a knight errant ready to fight and perish in a vain attempt to save the world from its own sins and errors.

Undoubtedly as he has noted the swift and radical shifts in policy in Great Britain and other nations, Mr. Hoover has been impressed with the fact that co-operation, as Senator Borah recently pointed out, becomes a logical impossibility.

Unless, that is, we are to attach ourselves as tails to the kites of other powers.

Knights errantry is a beautiful dream. Many of the earth's noblest characters have entertained it. We all loved Don Quixote. Woodrow Wilson's name will live long and long be venerated, though his dream was cruelly and wickedly exploded.

We have learned something from experience since then. Herbert Hoover has learned. His Thursday's speech, we think, will appeal powerfully to large numbers of his fellow citizens.

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Hog Raisers Fight for Tax. Members from districts where the raise hogs are now being made the targets of vicious attacks from local newspapers, cartoonists and free traders.

These hog-district members were successful in putting into the proposed tax bill a 6 cent tax on imported pork products. The opponents are now on the senate side with administration help to get that tax out of the bill.

The defense of the hog members is that importations of foreign pork has increased to a dangerous point. In 1934 about 1,648,000 pounds of dressed pork was imported. In 1935 that jumped to 10,500,000 pounds; in 1936 it jumped to 42,000,000 pounds.

That means a tremendous grab of the domestic market which belongs to the American farmer. These hog members are busy urging their friends in the senate to stick by the tax on foreign pork.

Money for the "Secret" Navy. "You passed a $550,000,000 naval bill sixty days ago, why are you passing another billion dollar navy bill?" That question comes in numerous letters to congressmen who have been debating the new naval bill for several days.

The answer is that the administration's policy is for a big navy for national defense. Administration spokesmen deny that any of the new ships will be used for foreign warfare. Yet there is a clause in the new bill that the expansion is for the protection of continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii and our insular possessions and "to protect our commerce and citizens abroad."

It is agreed that our national policies if they should be secret, should not be broadcast to enemies within or without, but many members who are told that the navy already has appropriations and authorizations to build many new ships, insist that we should hold up on authorizations to build three additional super-ships until they actually start building ships they already have money and authority to build.

Where to Cut or Where to Raise. Recommendations to cut road appropriations, relief appropriations, and word to fight against reduction in interest rates to farmers seem inconsistent to many farm members who are now urged to "go down the line" and vote for three 70 million dollar super-warships when there is already authority to build as many ships as the navy can actually construct in the next two years.

Flying High. The new navy bill, if it goes through as amended in the house, will give the United States an air corps almost as large as that of Great Britain. The navy now has 1,900 planes. The new bill will provide a minimum of 3,000 naval planes. The army has 1,600 planes and will eventually have more than 2,300 planes.

Last year Uncle Sam spent $296 million dollars for airplanes in the army and navy.

Who Gets The Profit? Super-battleships are now conceded by the experts to be the backbone of our navy. But the cost is rising so rapidly that no one really knows what a super-battleship will cost.

The last big battleship Uncle Sam constructed cost around 20 million dollars. The experts now say that it will cost from 70 million to 75 million each to construct these big battleships.

Hidden Enemies. With all of the war news from Europe and also news from China, the war talk continues to grow in Washington. There are men of high standing here who admit fear of what can happen. But many experts have stated publicly that they have no fear that any world force could attack the United States successfully today.

They admit that they do not know of any nation which has any cause to attack us. They are not afraid of the enemy from without. But there are many serious-minded American congressmen today who will admit to their colleagues in the senate and quiet of the cloak rooms, that "they are afraid of the enemies from within."

Scare 'Em Out. Why does Uncle Sam have to stay in the armament race? That's another question which comes in many letters. The answer to that is given by the naval experts in various debates. They say that we don't know what other nations are building. We do know, however, that big powers are building big fighting ships, and for that reason Uncle Sam builds them. These experts claim that the best argument they have for peace is to be prepared. If other nations know that we are ready for battle, they will not want to fight us.

Long Row for Tax Refund. A sub-committee of the house committee on agriculture held hearings on March 17 on H. J. Res. 474, a proposal to allow hog producers to file claims for refund of hog processing taxes. Congressman Lemke of North Dakota, who introduced the resolution, and a number of Farmers' Union officials and farmers appeared to make statements in support of the legislation. The three-man sub-committee may soon hear from the department of agriculture officials who may oppose the resolution.

After that, the sub-committee may report the resolution to the full committee. A senate committee has also held hearings on a similar bill. Present indications are that this resolution has a long journey to travel before it becomes a law. However, the proponents are waging and intend to wage a determined fight for its passage.

Senate Amends to Force Oleo Eating. Veterans in hospitals may be forced to eat oleomargarine if a senate amendment stays in a pending appropriation bill. This permits the use of oleo for table use in veterans' hospitals provided the oleo is made of products grown or produced in the U.S.A. The veterans and dairy farmers are fighting this amendment and the final test will come in the house in the vote on the conference report. The senate has already approved the conference report.

The cotton state members will fight to retain the amendment because they say it means a big market for cotton-seed oil. In recent years consumption of oleo has greatly increased and consumption of butter has decreased. In 1937, 393,000,000 pounds of oleo were used in the U.S.A. That's the largest in our history. On the other hand, the consumption of butter in 1937 was 142,829,000 pounds less than in 1934. It is now proposed to reduce the duty on butter coming from foreign lands. We import more than 22 million pounds of foreign butter a year. Many a Nebraska farmer has made his living from the milk cow. Those fighting the butter imports and the butter substitutes feel that the American farmer should have his butter market protected and that sick soldiers are entitled to eat the natural foods and not cheaper substitutes.

Hope Spring Work Will Relieve WPA Load. On March 9, the WPA had 28,500 people actually employed in Nebraska. The maximum program planned for the state by the state administrator, however, is a total of 32,629. The minimum planned program is for 30,562. More than 1,700 persons at this time are certified to the WPA and available but not assigned and working. It is hoped that on the farms and with the coming of spring, much of the load carried by WPA can be relieved. The numbers of persons by counties actually working on WPA in the Third district is as follows: Antelope 127; Boone 383; Boyd 148; Burt 205; Cedar 186; Colfax 176; Cuming 71; Dakota 317; Dixon 150; Dodge 317; Greeley 177; Holt 272; Knox 336; Madison 558; Merrick 132; Nance 168; Pierce 109; Platte 327; Stanton 113; Thurston 320; Wayne 96 and Wheeler 31.

Recipes

Glazed Individual Ham Loaves For Easter Dinner.

1/2 pound ground smoked ham
 1/2 pound ground fresh pork
 1-3 cup cracker crumbs
 1 egg, beaten
 3/4 cup milk
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 bay leaf
 Mix together thoroughly and pack lightly into large size muffin pans. Shape the meat so it rounds up well but doesn't come clear to the top of the pan around the edges. Bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes. Take out of the oven. Blend 1 cup brown sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar and 1 teaspoon dry mustard and boil 1 minute. Pour some of this syrup over each meat loaf. By not having the meat come clear to the top of the muffin pans around the edges there is plenty of room for the syrup. Return to the moderate oven and bake 20 minutes more. Serve with either a mushroom or horse radish sauce. These loaves are also good when cold.

Swedish Eggs.

Hard cook a dozen eggs. Remember that the best way to cook them is to put the eggs in boiling water, reduce the heat so that the eggs cook but the water no longer bubbles. After 15 or 20 minutes plunge the eggs in cold water. When cool, shell, split and remove yolks. Mash the latter and blend with 2-3 cup of mayonnaise, 1-2 cup finely minced cooked beets, 2 tablespoons capers, salt and pepper to taste. Stuff the mixture in the egg whites and sprinkle the top with finely minced parsley. Top the center of each half with 3 spears of beet and a bit of pickle.

Baked Ham L'Orange.

Boiled ham, 4 pounds
 Brown sugar, 1/4 cup
 Cloves
 Orange juice, 1/2 cup
 Peel one orange
 Score fat over entire ham and spread with sugar. Stick whole cloves in sides. Bake 1 hour at moderate temperature. Baste frequently with orange juice. Fifteen minutes before end of baking time have already small diamond shaped pieces of orange skin, insert a whole clove through each and press into scored sections of fat on top. Return to oven for final cooking, basting once more.

Ham Ring.

Fry one pound raw ham. Put through food grinder. Add to standard biscuit recipe requiring 2 cups flour but extra teaspoon baking powder, making 5 teaspoons in all. Bake in a well greased mold at moderate heat for about 15 minutes then lower heat until firm. Turn out onto chop plate and fill center with creamed carrots. Surround with peach halves that have been topped with walnut meats, butter and brown sugar and glazed in a moderate oven. Cold left-over ham may be used in this recipe.

Baked Ham Slice With Cherry Puffs.

Use one of the ready prepared hams taking one of the center slices, and place in a baking dish. Sprinkle the surface with brown sugar and a little flour and cover the slice with cider. Bake in a moderate oven about one hour. Add 1 can of drained canned cherries to fritter batter. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat and fry. Drain and serve with cherry sauce made by stewing a cup of cherries and juice with thickening and sugar until smooth.

Casserole of Mushrooms and Eggs.

Melt 2 tablespoons of shortening and add 1/2 pound fresh or 1 can mushrooms (sliced). Cook for 10 minutes. Blend in 2 tablespoons of flour, add 1 cup bouillon or canned mushroom liquid. Salt and pepper to taste. Cook until mixture thickens. Fill the greased casserole with layers of creamed mushrooms. Lost Species Point Warning, Says Jordan

Frederick F. Jordan, director of National Wildlife Restoration Week, and Sonny Jordan on the grounds of the Jordan home in Connecticut. The General Wildlife Federation, sponsoring Wildlife Week, was founded in response to the demand for a nation-wide alliance of organizations concerned with the future of outdoor America. Mr. Jordan points out that many species, once abundant in this country, are either extinct or in danger of extinction. Here are (1) the Labrador duck, last one killed in 1878; (2) Eskimo curlew, a "missing" species, may be extinct; (3) great auk, extinct for a century; (4) Carolina parakeet, last one killed in Florida, 1904; (5) passenger pigeon, last one died in Cincinnati Zoo in 1914; (6) heath hen, last one died at Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts, in 1933; (7) whooping crane, a few stragglers left.

Campbell On Program

J. S. Campbell, livestock market expert from the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Chicago, will be one of the leading speakers on the 28th annual Feeders' day at the Nebraska college of agriculture on April 29. Some Wayne county farmers are expected to attend.

The Chicago man is to outline some factors influencing the price of livestock. He will, in all probability, deal somewhat with the probable future of markets, also.

Meantime, plans for the entire day's activities are being completed. A women's program is tentatively billed for the afternoon. Usually about 1500 farm people from all over the state attend the event and the 1938 crowd is expected to be even larger.

Save All Water

With thousands of trees planted on scores of Wayne county farms for windbreak and woodlot purposes, the necessity of conserving all possible moisture during the coming year to keep the trees alive was brought to the attention of farm people this week.

Clarke McNary trees applied for by farm people through the Wayne county farm bureau have now arrived and are in the ground. A total of 7,800 were distributed here this year.

The necessity of conserving all possible moisture for these seedlings is brought out by the fact that trees require much water. Dr. Chas. E. Bessey of the University of Nebraska, showed many years ago that during a single growing season that an average-sized apple tree would require possibly 1,500 barrels of water to keep its leaves in good shape.

Pasturing Wheat-Rye

With winter wheat conditions "looking up" and rye in good shape, Wayne county farmers this week started pasturing the two crops. The unusually large acreages of the two crops afford much feed for livestock.

Much of the rye and most of the wheat now being used for pasture was planted last fall for grain. The pasturage secured is a by-product. However, farm experience and experiment station results show judicious grazing does not lower grain yields and may prove beneficial. Where there is a vigorous growth and the crop may be subject to lodging, limited grazing may result in less lodging and increased yields.

Grazing wheat too late in the season though is the chief cause of reduced yields from this source, says Agricultural Agent Walter Moller. The crop should not be pastured after it starts to make an erect growth just prior to jointing. It is about this time that the young culm or head starts growing above the surface of the ground. If pastured off, a second crop is not produced. The date at jointing starts varies with the soil and season. On an average, it averages about Experimental work brings out other don'ts in pasturing winter wheat. Don't pasture when the ground is wet or muddy, don't turn stock on when there is not a good, vigorous growth and don't turn stock on without giving them some dry feed beforehand.

In connection with the Nebraska

Pasture-Forage-Livestock program, many farmers are reporting an acute shortage of pasture during the spring months. Where there is a large acreage of wheat, a portion may be fenced off and used exclusively for pasture. In this manner, stock can be carried on the wheat about a month longer than if all the crop is to be utilized for grain.

Range Program

Location of additional watering places on range land in order to distribute grazing and avoid serious tramping and blowouts will be given credit in the 1938 Range program.

These watering places may be wells and tanks, development of natural springs or water storage reservoirs above dirt dams. Approval of the location of these watering places must be obtained from the county committee before the work begins.

Payment rates, under the range allowances, amount to $1 per linear foot of well with smaller pipe and $2 per foot for wells with pipe over 4 inches in diameter. On construction of a dam to make a reservoir or improvement of a spring, the payment is 15 cents per cubic yard of dirt moved to make the dam or fix up the spring. The reservoir or spring should be fenced and the water piped to a good tank.

Crop Insurance Meeting

The crop insurance program, which applies to wheat harvested in 1939, will be presented at a national meeting of farmers and farm leaders at Omaha, April 19-20, it was learned this week here. All wheat states west of the Alleghany mountains will be represented.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who heads the activities of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation which is setup within the department of agriculture, will address a public meeting opening the first day's session on April 19. Secretary Wallace has been long interested in the possibilities of insuring against crop hazards and was chairman of the president's committee on crop insurance, who report in 1936 provided a basis for the present crop insurance legislation.

The meeting at Omaha will open a campaign to offer wheat crop insurance policies during the summer before the winter wheat crop is seeded. Plans also are being completed for a series of state meetings in the major wheat producing states. The meetings are expected to be started about two weeks after the Omaha gathering.

Hybrid Sweet Corn

Field corn does not hold a monopoly on hybrids. Sweet corn hybrids, too, are coming to the front.

Results of experimental work conducted at the Nebraska college of agriculture in 1937, announced by the Wayne county farm bureau, show the hybrids averaged more than 50 percent higher yield. They had an average of 6.5 tons of fresh corn per acre and the "regular" strains 4.3 tons. Strains of regular Golden Bantam sweet corn from eight commercial sources and 42 hybrids were planted in the test.

Experimental work was also done at Scottsbluff in 1937, according to Dr. H. O. Werner of the agricultural college. Corn there was not picked until ready for canning, being allowed to stand in the field about 5 days or a week longer than at Lincoln. Cold, wet weather early in June cut down the stands but the hybrids came through in much better shape than the regular strains, having a yield of 60 percent more. They yielded 5.42 tons per acre and the regular corn 3.13 tons.

More Governmental Bungling. (Forbes' Magazine.)

Not those of us who early read Franklin D. Roosevelt's ambitions afloat, and warned against surrendering unlimited authority to him, are now on the defensive, but those who could find no language vitriolic enough to condemn such cautionary criticism. Mr. Roosevelt's handling of the TVA squabble merely throws one more light on his conception of the Chief Executive's authority. For him to turn the White House into a court house, to preside over a trial and to act at the same time as prosecuting attorney, was a lamentable blunder. He has enough to do as president without usurping such a role—his frequent absences from Washington suggest that he has in the last year or two found his duties extremely onerous. His latest exploit will but strengthen the termination of congress to keep the chief executive in his place and will increase public opposition to granting him power to upset our constituted system of government.

Power To Fix Wages

Norfolk Daily News: Announcement has just been made by the agricultural adjustment administration of the exercise of a power that few realized it had—the right to fix wages of farm labor under the Sugar Act of 1937. So far as we know this power has not been granted under any of the other crop control acts.

But under the sugar act the wages of labor are fixed at a basis of not less than $2.10 for a day of eight hours in the Hawaiian islands, and $1.50 for male and $1.20 for female labor in the cane sugar sections of this country, in addition to other requirements such as furnishing dwellings, medical attention and other necessities. These wages must be paid if producers participate in the benefit payments provided by the law.

This opens up new possibilities for an extension of authority under the other AAA acts. If AAA can fix wages and hours of labor in the cane fields, why shouldn't it in the cotton fields and the corn and wheat fields?

Why shouldn't general farm wages and hours of work be regulated for those who accept benefit checks? There's one power that Washington is pretty sure to ask for sooner or later.

Uncle Sam Owns the Platte

Omaha Journal Stockman: For several years the states of Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska have engaged in a bitter controversy over possession of the waters of the Platte river for irrigation and power purposes. Suits have been instituted and prospects have been bright for endless and expensive litigation.

Now comes the federal government in the person of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings with the claim that none of the contending states has any vested right to the river water and that the dams, canals, bridges, etc., are there by sufferance and not by right of ownership.

The government insists that it has never, by act of congress or otherwise, abdicated or ceded its right to the use of the waters of the North Platte river except for right acquired by certain private persons who complied with laws enacted in 1866 providing for private acquisition of the rights to use waters of the public domain. And thus, instead of clarifying the much mooted question of who is entitled to the waters of the noble Platte, the contention of the government further complicates the situation and gives the courts and lawyers more business at the expense of the taxpayers.

'Little Business' Keeps Quiet

(St. Joseph Stockyards Journal) The little business man in this country is about in the same position as the henpecked husband. He knows that he is abused and over-run but he dare not pipe up his woes to the powers that be. He's afraid to holler, fearing that it will make his lot harder.

Five were killed and 17 injured Monday in an elevator blast and fire in New Orleans.

March Moisture

Nebraska Farmer: "Soil is still too wet to work," a crop reporter writes. "Can that be true in Nebraska?" It can and is, not only in one but many counties of Nebraska, following the general rains of early March.

Though far from enough to restore the depleted subsoil moisture, the March rains are a good omen for a better crop year. So far March has been a rainy rather than windy month, for which farmers will be thankful. Wheat fields, pastures, alfalfa and hay meadows are snowing green and the soil is in good condition for corn and other spring crops. Best of all farmers are smiling with that optimism born of dependence upon the weather for success in agriculture.

FULL SCALE OF VALUES

From Betty Rose—that well-known com-poser of impressive value themes and engaging style melodies, comes this Symphony of Spring!

Staccato slim coats—sport styles in swingtime... two and three-piece suits. The "air" is carried with pockets in two-four time... with clever collarless neck-lines. There's the rippling rhythm of the fancy tweeds, an allegro movement carried by the plaids and stripes, and the soothing notes of new smoky colorings.

The British great man here! This three-piece suit swings a tailored topcoat over the high-buttoned jacket and pencil slim skirt. Of her-singbone tweed in Smokey Scotch tones.

Delightfully slim is this Betty Rose coat, and light as a feather. The skirt is a high waisted, slightly flared, and semi-fitted and semi-length.

Youth will love the cut of this Betty Rose dress. It has a high neckline, high waisted, and slightly flared skirt. It is made of fine, silky fabric, and is a top-notch.

Excellent as an accompaniment to the drum major's march, this Betty Rose dress is a top-notch.

This suit is sport music to any woman wearing it. The jacket is a wave motion in soft to touch—in a satis-factory to wear.

Superbly its own flow fol-lows the rhythm of the figure for a new look in suit distinc-tion.
