

Day Brings Household Heads and Children Closer Together—Voice from California—Annual "Booster" Trips Start—Pioneer Endurance—Advice to Cattle Owners—Reducing Road Hazards.

Fathers' day which came along last Sunday, is not a day with Mother's day in sentimental emotions, but it is making headway in that direction. Mother is closer to the heartstrings than dad, but he is found to have a lot of tender feelings that he has tried hard, without reason, to conceal.

Analogous to this subject: On the occasion of his birthday recently, one Wayne father was given an extra slap on the back by a 14-year-old daughter who exclaimed: "And this is to emphasize the hope that we may always be close pals." This mutually cordial and trusting relationship—scabing the crest on parenthood, and really far transcending usual filial considerations—gives youth sustaining courage and father pleased and confident expectation.

Wonders of California. A letter from J. C. Forbes whose former farmstead north of Wayne presents a wealth of growing crops, writes from Alhambra, Calif., inviting us to say in this column some friendly things about southern California. Our recollection of California from Los Angeles to San Diego is one of stupendous achievement. From sweet-scented fruit stands to foul-smelling fish markets—from orange-dotted foothills to the pitching surf of the mighty Pacific—we were impressed by rich production. Everywhere parks and lakes and streams and wooded stretches fascinate leisure and recreation seekers. We were amazed at the richness and splendor of man's handiwork on a vast sandbar. We could understand how the greatest playground in the world would satisfy the most fastidious person if he or she has plenty of money and doesn't need a job. Here would seem abundance without excessive anxiety—plenty and content without government doles.

But we know inhabitants of the Pacific coast are fretted by a lot of troubles, with which we did not come in contact. We know labor unions impose injustices on workers and indirectly on everybody. We know an occasional earthquake upsets everything within its working area, though we never felt one. We know the Los Angeles river, dry as the Mohave desert part of the year, may be transformed into a devastating torrent, though we never saw it act that way. We know running and accomplished shickers abound beneath charming appearances, though we were never suspected of having anything worth their angling efforts. Where nature, blessed with water, becomes so lush, where courtesans and ingenuis man has generated an wonderfully, there may be found the pains of disillusionment and stalling poverty—the underflow of disappointed hopes and often human misery. Southern California towers in grandeur, but it also has its shadows.

Anniversary Celebration. Anniversary and other celebratory call for "booster" trips, and Ponca was one of the earliest to take the surrounding area this year. It did so in support of its program to be carried out this week in commemoration of pioneer day. Ponca, settled in 1856, is one of the oldest towns in western Nebraska. In recent years it has revived the vigor and enterprise of its youth. As a matter of fact, young people have taken the community in charge, and they are putting it on the map in a most forceful and pleasing manner.

Sturdy and Resourceful. Anyone who reviews pioneer history, must be convinced that the first settlers thrived on punishment. They stood all kinds of hardships — no means to modify dingy elements, no advantages of travel and no home comforts. Strange as it may seem, oldsters look back on primitive wants and often distresses with a sort of wistfulness. They appear glad they lived at a time there was little to live with, though, truly, much to live for. They worked hard for meagre returns, and they practiced self-denial that would now seem quite impossible. But they were sturdy and resourceful, and many of them lived to see conveniences multiply and living conditions reach the high standards of recent years. With the passing of time and the accumulation of incident and memories, perhaps the oldest veterans more for the animation and stimulation of his youth than for the privations he endured when the country was raw and untamed.

Mythical State Operates Week

Plan is Proposed to Make Cornhusker Program Annual Affair.

The plan of making the Cornhusker boys' state, sponsored by the Nebraska American Legion, a function of government will be presented this fall to the unicameral legislature by Senator Dunn of Lancaster county, one of the advisors at the boys' state held in Lincoln last week. The bill, passed by the youths' legislature, would ask the state to provide this valuable training in government to worthy, capable young men with the Legion providing the instructors and other plans for the week.

During the week's session of the boys' legislature, about seven bills were passed. One was on prohibition. Another would place all law enforcement under one head so as to secure best cooperation.

The 252 boys at the first Cornhusker state were housed in the activities building at the university agricultural campus. Two others were to be in the group but one was taken ill and another was in a car accident. Junior Larson, Roy Coryell and Herbert Welch represented Wayne, and Junior served as clerk.

The young men were divided into towns with city, county and state government organized. Instruction was conducted each morning at the agricultural college by a staff of 100 lawyers and university men. After study, the boys visited offices to see the functioning of government agencies about which they learned. Officers in the various towns also visited their corresponding offices to receive information. The boys visited Governor R. L. Cochran twice and the governor visited camp once. NUMBER ELEVEN

INSPIRED BY THE OUTLOOK TO MAKE BEST OF HARVEST

FARMERS are up and out early these mornings preparing to harvest normal crops, and we also find town dealers who are engaged in supplying farmers with the things they need, also on deck early to do their part in avoiding delays. Last year most of Nebraska was in the throes of drought. This year's promised abundance will help feed less fortunate areas of the world—notably Europe which is reported suffering from the worst drought in 100 years with the ghost of famine stalking ahead. They may be averted or eased by proper distribution of the middle-west's surplus. Climatic conditions vary markedly in a small way—getting smaller every year with developed transportation and communication. Just across the river in Iowa last year crop plenty ruled, whereas this state was cut short. Generally so far the promise of a big harvest is better in Nebraska than in its neighbor to the east, due to too much rather than too little moisture.

LANE IS READY FOR CAR TESTS

Work Will Start As Soon As Final Approval Is Given by State.

Wayne's new car safety lane is complete and equipment is installed ready for testing as soon as official state approval is given. A state inspector was here Friday to check the lane and the final checking will be done within a few days. Mechanics from local garages were at the lane Tuesday when an equipment man demonstrated the testing. The equipment will check wheel alignment, steering, horn, windshield wiper, license plates, lights, brakes, glass and other parts.

A. E. Davison is in charge of the testing lane and will have assistance when the work starts. He says that new cars will likely need more adjustments than old ones until they are broken in. A new state law requires that all cars be tested at least once a year. It is likely that the tests will be made twice a year later.

INDEPENDENCE DAY POWDER BANNED BY LOCAL ORDINANCE

THE former toll of killed and maimed by reckless use of Fourth of July explosives testifies to the wisdom of restrictive measures. Costly conflagrations that have been started by firecrackers or fireworks supplied reason for forced precautions. Like many other places, Wayne has an ordinance banning the nuisance, and will no doubt see that it is enforced. It is task enough to safeguard necessary motoring without looking out for dangers threatened by the unnecessary firecracker. Burning a lot of powder and imperiling life and property are no longer deemed essential means of expressing patriotic ardor.

RURAL SCHOOLS ARE CONSIDERED

Dr. Wm. McKinley Robinson Is Principal Speaker At Conference.

"The advantage of observation in foreign countries is that it makes it easier to observe in our own country," remarked Dr. Wm. McKinley Robinson, director of rural education at the Western State Teachers college, Kalama, Mich., in addressing the county superintendents attending the Rural Education conference and the student body of the Wayne State Teachers college Wednesday. His topic was "Personal Observation of Rural Schools in Other Lands."

Schools of Europe and South Africa are very similar, according to the observations of Dr. Robinson. The system of education and teaching was borrowed from the continent by South Africa.

Of the European schools and people the speaker made the following observations: People have more respect for tradition and old things even to using benches in the classroom; muscular power and energy is exerted rather than the use of machinery; all are conscious as to what is going on in other countries; most of the teachers are men and the teacher is as respected as the old county doctor in this country, often serving as counselor to the community.

Dr. Robinson also learned that the school teacher in Europe stays year after year, not interested in securing another position after becoming acquainted with students and parents. The teacher also serves in the rural community during summer vacation arranging summer school programs of story telling and singing.

Teachers in South Africa retire between the ages of 55 and 60. In preparation for this many have a hobby or avocation or by that time are rich in experience. In one school near Prague the men had organized a men's choir which reached such fame that they traveled in the United States one summer, singing four nights in Chicago. (Continued on page two.)

Mr. Sandall ACTS

In Nebraska, as in other states, laws are sometimes violated by a few of the thousands licensed to sell beer.

Owners of breweries and of distributing plants—as well as practically all retailers—operate in the public interest and in strict conformity with law.

The few who violate their privileges cast a reflection upon thousands employed in this highly scientific industry and upon those with millions invested in the business.

To make our attitude known, and to assist public officials, we have placed the public conduct rules of the industry in the hands of one man, with supreme authority. That man is Charles E. Sandall of York, Nebraska, former United States District Attorney.

Immediately upon taking office Mr. Sandall went into action. The following editorial from the Omaha World-Herald is typical of the statements of approval received from over the entire state:

"The promptness with which action was taken in the Vernon Stankiewicz case is a commendation of the sincerity of Nebraska brewers and beer distributors in their undertaking to enforce a standard of law observance and decency in the beer business. . . . The inference is perfectly plain that tavern keepers who fail to maintain orderly and decent places can hope for neither support nor sympathy from those who supply their stock."

As Nebraska citizens in an industry which is one of the state's largest taxpayers, we are highly pleased with the reception of our action. This reception is typified by such comments as the following:

"May we congratulate you on the success of the development of your organization and may we go on record as anxious to cooperate with your program."—North Platte Daily Telegraph.

The Blood of Mars THE sanguinary hate of Mars seems to rule some governments not actually engaged in war. While Spain and China are stained by the blood of ruthless slaughter, Nazi Germany and Austria are guilty of merciless extermination of the Jews. Other nations are piling up armaments and apparently preparing for the spark that will set off a general military conflagration.

The world is in a bad mess. The spirit of tyranny possesses the heads of collectivist governments. They are wholly intolerant of human rights under the groundless suspicion that perpetuation of such rights would impair means of vaunted power. They gloat over fallen victims as a cat gloats over a crippled mouse. They outdo the darkest of the dark ages. On a pretense of working for universal peace and welfare, they look enviously and threateningly at the world's democracies, chief among which is the United States.

Foolish Discontent INSTEAD of trying to make America to harmonize with alien patterns, people who think they do not like this country should migrate to favorite lands where governments function in exactly the manner desired. By traveling, one may fit himself into the goose-stepping variety wanted. If he feels he would like to be herded around under the red flag of communism, he should go to Russia.

Jean from here who attended were Jean Sun-urged forward ostensibly to help the state's old age assistance fund, though doubtless behind it is a scheme to promote private profit. The cloak of charity captures support that would otherwise be withheld.

It used to be exceedingly difficult to change the constitution. In recent years, with decreased preponderance of support required, almost anything proposed could be swept to triumph even without merit. The one-time aversion to tampering with the state's fundamental document has changed to an indifferent willingness to remodel it and run chances. The parliamentary amendment to make betting at horse races lawful was passed a few years ago, but very likely approval now could not be realized. It is probable the popular voice would change its verdict if afforded a chance.

If due consideration is given proposed slot machine gambling, voters will see through the specious ground offered, figuring that the aged, ailing and infirm may be aided in some other way, and accordingly register themselves in the negative.

The wisdom of congress was shown in overriding the president's veto of a measure to continue the low interest rate on farm loans. The president complained that the low rate would cost the government $208,700,000, but doubtless congress did not deem the cost so burdensome as contrasted with some other costs, and promptly settled the question by a vote of 244 to 87 against executive disapproval. Evidently congress could see no reason to tear one's garments over continuing a helpfully low rate in view of gigantic extravaganzas in dishing out federal funds. As a matter of fact, farm communities do not so much need pay for crop reduction as they need favorably consideration in the matter of loans, handled in a business way and entirely free from compulsory control. They need easy terms to keep on their feet until they recover from a series of bad years.

Administration sponsors figure congress, before adjournment, granted the president about half what he demanded. Much of the bill granted—notably the wage and hour bill—was ill advised, and the things denied gave the country the best service and the greatest assurance. Adjournment of congress without doing worse and without continuing to hold legislative threats—like Damocles' sword—over the heads of industry is as much of a relief to the public as it is to house and senate members who were anxious to get home and find out what constituents were thinking. An election year increased their anxiety.

Rainfall has been distributed this week in exactly the right way to do the most good. No hail and no wind to modify benefits. The combination of moisture and heat is a powerful stimulant to corn growth. In some spots people were getting primed to complain over increasing dryness when the rains descended. The prospect is still reassuring.

The Nazi spy ring uncovered in New York disturbs the relationship between this country and Germany. If Hitler could restrict himself to his own iron-clad autocracy and not try to meddle in the affairs of this country he might save the world a lot of trouble. He professes not to want war, but does the very thing to incite war.

Short crops in Argentina and drought in Europe make plain the importance of increasing farm production in this country. This will be done according to latest indications.

DIAGNOSIS

We judge from Columnist Mark Sullivan's latest diagnosis of what ails the country, he thinks it is suffering from too much Thomas Corcoran and too many other even more pronounced radicals who furnish the president with ideas and inspiration. While Corcoran is reported as the worst radical within the inner circle, he is considered dangerous because of his high-tension nervous system which excites other-thinkers the president who is also a high-tension performer and needs stimulants, not stimulants. Sullivan thinks while Corcoran is reckless and therefore a poor adviser, he is safer than some others who would break down the American system and substitute a new one imported from Europe. Of President Roosevelt's leader Corcoran, Sullivan says: "One feels they are like a man continuing to rush recklessly on, after he has forgotten where he started out for. If the condition seems disturbing, why, so it is. The best comfort we can get is to reflect that perhaps the country will save itself by its own surefootedness and common-sense in the way that Iowa depicted to be found by Mr. Corcoran's mistake in the Gillette case."

Truck Drivers' Strike

The truck drivers' strike reminds us that while it lasts the highways will be safer for other vehicles. If buses would also strike, the proportionate accident chances would be still further cut down. Fewer motor vehicles on the road, the fewer dangers—one consideration that softens the blow of interrupted service.

HELPLESS

A serious problem of unemployment among farm laborers is told in a story sent out from San Francisco by Webster K. Nolan, Central Press writer. The old idea of distance lending enchantment and taming misguided senses to sickening collapse is reflected in the author's recital of how 216,000 nomads from the plains states managed to reach the Pacific coast only to find no jobs and an impossible task in trying to scratch out a living. Thousands who carp in the Imperial Valley where the cotton harvest has long since been over, were disappointed in finding no employment. Problems of malnutrition have attracted the serious attention of health organizations. The responsibility of furnishing bare necessities to the unfortunate wanderers has taxed federal and state agencies. Drought in the middle west for a few years prompted wholesale migrations. The author observes in conclusion: "Basic to the whole problem, all authorities here agree, is the tremendous change going on in agriculture. In certain sections of the south and middle west condition of farm tenants has been so difficult and precarious that they have simply given up hope and trekked west. In other sections the coming of mass farming methods and the introduction of tractors are causing the replacement of men by machines. One tenant family does the work of four; the rest go to California."

Promise for Good Wheat Crop Turns In Western Section
Promising prospects for a bumper wheat crop in western Nebraska have turned to disappointment, according to word brought by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Echtenkamp, Hermann Echtenkamp and Mrs. Jensen who returned Friday from a few days' visit at Sidney in the Paul Meyer home.

Wheat made a wonderful stand in Sidney vicinity and spring rains led everyone to think the crop would yield at least 40 bushels to the acre. The past week or two a change was noted. Heads failed to fill and the grain is ripening now, ready to harvest and the yield will in many cases not be over four bushels to the acre.

Crop specialists were called to Sidney to make an examination when the change started. These men think that a late May frost drove the sap into the head of the grain. This let the leaves make promising growth at the cool, moist weather. After weather became hotter and drier the heads matured without filling.

The Wayne folks found much the same condition, unfilled heads ripening too fast, most of the way to Sidney. At least half of the crop in western Nebraska is not yet out of the ground, it was found.

The Wayne group went to Sidney to attend Tuesday last week the wedding of Harold Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyer, formerly of Wayne, and Miss Rhoda Boehnke, daughter of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Boehnke of near Sidney. The bridal couple will live near Sidney after a trip to Denver.

Tells Kiwanians About Conference

T. S. Hook was guest speaker at the Kiwanis club Monday, telling of his trip to Philadelphia for the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. The magnitude of the organization amazed Mr. Hook. The four boards which are the backbone of the church are each a separate organization.

In the election of a moderator, the talks for the four candidates were clever in the way the speakers manipulated politics. One man does not oppose another but points out where he and another agree and disagree.

The movement all over the world in all churches is to get together, continued Mr. Hook. The greatest handicap in accomplishing this aim is that English expressions are misunderstood by people of other languages.

Prejudices are not known in the middlewest as in the east. The leaders want things for themselves and maneuver affairs to this selfish objective. Outlaw organizations were also functioning.

Expect Repayment Of Many Loans. In view of generally improved conditions Ray Verzal expects marked progress in repayment on FSA loans this season. Crop mortgages held by the FSA will not interfere with cash payments for harvesting and threshing operations, Mr. Verzal stated. In general borrowers may deduct feed, harvesting and operating expenses from their crop proceeds before repayments are made, according to Mr. Verzal. Where the borrower faces additional expenses the policy will be to apply for a supplemental loan rather than for a partial release. The FSA discourages holding grain for speculative purposes, but will not dictate where a borrower shall sell his grain. No release for feed or seed will be made until after harvesting. Where the yield or price is above the average the borrower is expected to make a larger repayment than his loan calls for. This will offset the years when income is not so great.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN. Director of Budget Changes Mind On G-Men. As a consequence of a storm of disapproval over his recent action recommending a slash in the federal bureau of investigation appropriation item, Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget, has nearly reversed himself. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the FBI originally asked for $6,474,905. Bell recommended, $6,043,200, a difference of $431,705 and the FBI was allotted the amount recommended by the budget director. Fortunately for J. Edgar Hoover, the congress is now considering the second deficiency appropriation bill and since Bell has changed his attitude toward the bureau of investigation, it will be a relatively simple matter to include a supplementary appropriation item in that bill for Mr. Hoover's bureau.

Institution Trains Cream of Young Men. June week is all over at Annapolis where Uncle Sam turned out a lot of new naval officers some of whom may be future admirals. At West Point a class of new army officers was turned out, some of whom may be our future generals. In both schools some of the backward students are dropped by the wayside. These become heart-broken boys who had dreams of a great future.

Nebraska has students in both schools and from information these boys are in very good standing. Fortunate is the young man to whom this great opportunity comes. It costs the taxpayers of the nation $20,000 to $25,000 to graduate each one of these boys. They are picked from the flower of American youth. They go through intensive studies. They must be highly educated. They must be physically perfect and above all they must be gentlemen.

While Americans should be proud of these young men in these two great government institutions it must be remembered that they are trained for national defense and to be prepared in case of future wars. Uncle Sam continues to improve the manhood of his fighting men in order to keep up with the newest machines and guns which are used in war. Yet, even the president, the other day told the boys at Annapolis that they will never really finish their education unless they make it a point to learn all phases of civilian life in all parts of our country as well as to learn how the nation should be defended against its enemies.

Civil War Vets Plan Reunion. Many letters are being received in the Third district office asking for specific information about the program at Gettysburg; and for their information the following is passed on: "The 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg will be celebrated from June 29 to July 6, 1938, at Gettysburg, Pa. Recently congress agreed by unanimous consent for the government to participate in this celebration, and as a result the war department is extending an invitation to every surviving veteran of the Civil War, both north and south, to come to Gettysburg and attend this reunion of the blue and the grey, all expenses to be paid by the federal government and to be the guests of the state of Pennsylvania, which are opening another wedge for our country to become involved in foreign entanglements. You are sending representatives of this country to mix up with the affairs of people in foreign countries. I fear this committee is trying to replace the League of Nations which has failed miserably to bring together the nations of the world. You are breaking down our immigration program, and I fear you will, through this legislation, make the United States the dumping ground for the political refugees of all nations. Of course, I sympathize with the suffering of people anywhere. We do not have war in the United States, and I pray to God that we will never have war again, but with legislation such as this you will involve us in the boiling pots of Europe.

Think of it—we are told we have from 14,000,000 to 15,000,000 unemployed people in our own country. Let us tend to our own business. We have troubles of our own to straighten out in the United States without the need to mix up in the troubles of the foreign countries. You are going to send this expensive commission to Europe to help political refugees, with all the carnage that this committee may in some way aid these foreigners to come to our country. We may have foreign political refugees right here in our own midst who should be sent out of this country. Let us clean our own house before meddling in foreign affairs.

I wish every member would right now read the hearings on this item. It is so significant that it is important that you read it if you love your country and if you want the United States to keep out of foreign entanglements. You are here setting up a new commission to go to France to open an office to work for political refugees. For your information and enlightenment I wish you to know that from what information I get from the hearings that this is nothing but an effort to give the former chief of the steel trust a diplomatic job at $17,500 a year with office help and clerical assistance which will cost you $72,500 a year. This commission will set up an office in France. Think of it, a special law to give this former steel trust head a diplomatic job with the rank of ambassador, to have headquarters in France, when at the same time we have an ambassador in France who, with the aid of his efficient aides, can do this same work without this additional cost to our taxpayers. Why not let our normal diplomatic service, through the great efficiency of our state department, do this work, if this work is necessary? Why organize a new political commission to meddle in foreign affairs?

MR. CRAWFORD. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield? MR. STEFAN. Yes. MR. CRAWFORD. Do I understand that this provision of $50,000 in a way circumvents our keeping out of the League of Nations? MR. STEFAN. There is no question about that in my opinion. MR. CRAWFORD. In other words, this creates a department which will begin to function somewhat along the line of what the League of Nations would, insofar as getting us entangled in the political quarrels of western European countries? MR. STEFAN. That is the way I figure it. MR. CRAWFORD. Do I understand the gentleman to say that Myron Taylor, ex-chairman of the board, United States Steel corporation, is to be given a diplomatic job under the provisions of this $50,000? MR. STEFAN. On page 698 of the hearings the gentleman will find that Myron C. Taylor, former chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, is to be chairman of this organization, and on page 700 the gentleman will find a break-down of estimated expenses, amounting to $72,000, not $50,000. He will be given an ambassador-ship and a large travel allowance. If you read this item in the bill you will see how dangerous it really is, because it sets up an international committee on political refugees. MR. TABER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield? MR. STEFAN. I yield. MR. TABER. Is it not apt to result in letting down the bars on immigration? MR. STEFAN. I fear that will be the result. A want ad in the Herald will bring the best results.

IT'S A BRUTE FOR PUNISHMENT!

MY FORD V-8 COMMERCIAL CAR CAN REALLY TAKE IT!

It's a brute for punishment! That's what Mr. T. H. Budd of Pemberton, N.J., means when he says, "My Ford V-8 Commercial Car can really take it!"

And Mr. Budd should know. He hauls heavy loads through cranberry marshes where sand and mud are a severe test for any unit. He continues: "There are several reasons why I always buy Fords. First, the low original cost price. Second, the low cost-per-mile operation. Third, the low cost of maintenance and the ability to get parts promptly, wherever and whenever needed. And, above all, the high trade-in value when I am through with them."

Owners and operators everywhere report that the Ford V-8 Commercial Car definitely does more work in less time, at lower cost. The reason for this can be stated in two words—eight cylinders. Whether you choose 85 or 60 horsepower V-8 engine, it puts the Ford in a class by itself—gives you a new kind of commercial car with new performance and economy. Prove it for yourself with an "on-the-job" test. No cost—no obligation.

Island of Guam
Is Interesting
To Navy Doctor

Guam, which is located 7,000 miles from San Francisco and 11 degrees north of the equator, is one of the interesting places visited by Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Harris, and is also the birthplace of their son, Dr. and Mrs. Harris, who left Sunday for Washington, D. C., having been visiting in the Dr. A. D. Harris home, Mrs. Harris is a sister of Mrs. Lewis. Dr. Harris has been hospital ship dentist for the U. S. navy and has recently been transferred to Washington where he will be a member of the faculty of the U. S. navy dental school for a few years before he again goes on sea duty. He was formerly a student in the school.

Guam is today as it has been for many, many years. It is very tropical and has very little exportation other than native flowers. The island is a charmer of the U. S. navy. People are very lazy and nature provides all of the necessities of life. Corn and tobacco are the only two cultivated crops and these are raised on a very small scale. Bananas, oranges, and other fruits are raised with no cultivation.

The costume of the native people is very elaborate. The men's style of wearing the shirt on the outside of the trousers is now being copied in this country. Women wear wrap-around garments with very full skirts and long fluffed sleeves. The people are ordinarily very poor and few jewels are seen.

Homes are elevated above the ground and topped with a thatched roof. The houses are on stilts of tropical wood and are built to withstand the numerous earthquakes. Scarcely a day passes without feeling a slight tremor.

Noigators are seen on the island and there are no harmful animals. There is also no bird life as the guano, a large bird droppings, is so plentiful that it is very difficult to find crabs and bats are numerous.

Guam is one of the stations for the trans-Pacific cable and as a result many white people reside there. The navy maintains a large hospital on the island for its personnel and also for the native population. Twice a year classes of student nurses consisting of native girls are trained. The girls then return to their own people to serve as midwives and also to administer first aid.

The deepest spot in the Pacific ocean is off the coast of Guam. Natives of the island "sleep all day and sing in the moonlight" for recreation.

The island has excellent roads made from decomposed coral but these are very hard to drive on because of the sun's glare.

The Spanish influence is felt by the people as they were the first settlers in that territory.

The island of Trinidad, a British possession off the coast of Venezuela, furnishes much of the asphalt used for highways in this country. Hundreds of tons are shipped daily and the supply seems unlimited. Holes fill in a few days after they are dug. Railroad tracks have to be replaced constantly or they sink. It is not safe to leave a car out on this soil over night as it will have disappeared by morning.

Trinidad is much more civilized

But It's True

Mr. Baird's tooth grew the wrong way. When he has his teeth cleaned he has that one cleaned too. The horse performs ordinary farm duties. It is said to be more efficient than his four-footed contemporaries.

than Guam due to the Jamaican leaders there during the construction of the Panama canal. One of the most botanical gardens in the world is located on the island of Trinidad surrounding the government home.

Hawaii is considered semi-tropical after visiting Guam. The native people of Hawaii are under influence of civilization and the whole atmosphere is a mixture of the civilized and the native.

The boys in the navy at the present time are of a very high type, according to Dr. Harris. All are high school graduates and many have a college education. The depression is largely responsible for the change and many have joined the navy who otherwise might have gone into some other line of work. The training received is very complete and rigid health rules have to be followed.

On the navy hospital ship, the only one at the present time, there are 12 female nurses, a staff of doctors and three dentists. The ship has a crew of 350. Each navy ship has a staff of doctors and dentists but the hospital ship is used for caring for the ill except when a person is too ill to be moved. Congress has recently appropriated sufficient funds for the construction of another hospital ship. The navy also maintains large hospitals ashore.

Dr. Harris is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and for 14 years has been a navy dentist. With sea duty the doctor travels with the ships during all of their maneuvers. Movements of the ships have been kept secret lately because of the foreign situation. The last trip made is the only one Dr. Harris remembers in which no press agents, photographers or radio men accompanied them. When the doctor is given shore leave his wife accompanies him. At other times they maintain a home in California.

In order to receive a position with the navy as a doctor or dentist all applicants take a competitive examination. An effort is made to distribute the states which are represented and Dr. Harris feels that the middlewest is well represented.
