Eunice Wiechman Will Be Married

Ceremony Will Take Place At Swaburg Church Sunday Night.

Miss Eunice Wiechman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Wiechman of Wakefield, will be married this Sunday, September 25, at 7:30 in the evening to Mr. Charles R. Erickson, son of Charles Erickson of Hooper. The ceremony will take place in the Swaburg church 10 miles south of Oakland. The couple will live on a farm seven miles north of Hooper.

Richard Wiechman, brother of the bride, and Miss Lorraine Wedergren, niece of the bridegroom, will act as attendants.

The bride will wear a white satin, floor-length dress with a veil. She will carry roses. The bridesmaid will wear a pink floor-length dress.

A reception will be held after the services in the church parlors for about 100 relatives. The bride's colors of pink and white will be used. Waitresses will be Miss Pearl Esgman of Pender, Miss Lila Meier and Miss Eva Herrmann of West Point, and Miss Myrtle Strand of Hooper.

To Be Married This Thursday

A dinner will be served at 6 o'clock this evening in the Mrs. Bertha Bean home for about 20 relatives and friends. The bride's colors of pink and white will be used.

Health Tests Given Pupils

Improvement Is Shown in Condition of Health Among Pupils.

The health examinations given last week in the Wakefield high school show that there are fewer physical defects than in the past years. Fewer extremely bad cases of poor vision appear and throats are much better. Teeth are being cared for. The gradual improvement is what has been strived for by the yearly examinations. Reports of the examinations will accompany the report cards.

Freshmen were guests of the upper classes last Wednesday evening at a watermelon feed in the city park. Over 100 students attended.

Wakefield school has never made any attempt to dictate the kinds of clothes that pupils should wear to school. However, certain types of clothes have been listed as objectionable for school. Slacks and shorts as worn by girls for summer sport wear are not considered the appropriate clothes for school purposes. For this is best that the typical garb of the average boy and girl be the clothes worn to the public school. Plain, clean garments, even of the cheapest materials, but conforming to the standards for boys and girls in general will never be found objectionable.

Cabinets for the foods laboratory arrived the past week and as soon as the small items for cooking are acquired the room will be ready for foods classwork. The first two years' course of the home economics work at the present time is being devoted to sewing.

Football News

Wakefield will open the football season with the first home game September 30 with Pender. Last year the weather was unfavorable for good attendance. Season tickets are being sold now. Football, with proper equipment to make the game safe and protect the boys, is a costly game. The Wakefield Trojans will have four home games, these with Pender, Lyons, Allen and Hartington.

Wakefield will play five out-of-town games this year and the school would like to have older drivers transport the boys to these towns. Men who can attend any of these games and take a load of boys can render the team a very valuable service. A sufficient amount has always been paid to cover gas and oil. Those able to go please notify Coach Ellison or Supt. Madden.

Other News

A few classes were short of textbooks at the beginning of school due to the heavy registration in certain subjects. Now most of the students have texts and are ready for a regular study schedule. Plans are being made for the junior class play to be given November 8 or 9.

War Scare

EUROPE has been in a state of jitters the past week, and threat of war appeared stronger than at any time since the World war.

To prevent encroachment from abroad, the United States must be adequately prepared. Important safeguards will be to exterminate foreign termites reported surreptitiously working within this country in an effort to change our form of government.

Truck Strike

A HEAVY fruit crop in south-east Nebraska is ready to market, and the truck strike has been holding up the marketing.

Speaking of the strike as a way to be-fuddle business and industry and retard prosperity, the Omaha World-Herald observes:

"It isn't right. It isn't sensible. It is the way of waste and folly and unfairness. But it is the way we are following—and doing it all over the nation, at a heavy loss to everybody."

Two Men

FOLLOWING a discussion of President Roosevelt's inconsistencies, the Saturday Evening Post contrasts his early advantages with Senator George's disadvantages in this closing paragraph:

The proposed school improvement is of vital importance to parents and taxpayers. Endorsing the improvement will not only accommodate present and future students, but will stimulate property values and indirectly help business.

Repeated defeats for his political purge have not helped the president's disposition. Saturday's speech was devoted to a denunciation of "professional fear mongers."

Over eleven hundred students enrolled for the first semester at the Wayne State Teachers College scores a new high record. We recall that an enrollment of one thousand during the summer session—period of largest attendance—was considered excellent.

Often people who prefer living in a progressive town like Wayne, do not want to pay out anything to keep it progressive. If they succeed in resisting improvements that make a good town, they will in time find themselves in a poor town where incomes are low and property is a drug on the market.

A big country cannot be made so democratic that everybody can have a clear idea of every public question or of the qualifications of every candidate. Competent representatives must be trusted to act for the masses by whom they have been elected and to whom they must be accountable.

As between the inascible Secretary Ickes of the interior department and valiant Senator Glass of Virginia, who have been exchanging verbal shrapnel over the WPA program, the latter will easily win support from people familiar with the calibre of each.

So much propaganda is used and such strict censorship is enforced abroad that the exact truth about conditions in troubled Europe is quite impossible to obtain.

As between dictatorships and democracies, undoubtedly the latter would win in the marshaling of men and material resources, but only dictators, fighting at a safe distance, seem eager for armed conflict.

Mussolini's grandiose and threatening speeches the past week sound like the boastful noise of a spoiled boy who is afraid he won't receive deserved attention.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank the neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses and remembrances during my recent stay in the hospital.

Notwithstanding lack of a normal corn crop, people who have traveled over Nebraska of late, say this area is among the best in the state.

The Useful Hog Comes Back

Reports from a national livestock census indicate that the nation's hog growers are gradually recovering from the effects of the AAA's pig slaughtering program of 1933 and the drought years.

The pig killing campaign was the most unfortunate from a publicity standpoint, ever undertaken by the AAA. Even today many persons still sorrow over all those little pigs which were killed.

A retrospect shows that this phase of the economy of scarcity failed to work with the success anticipated for it. It is true that prices increased, but so did corn prices, with the result that the margin of profit remained slight.

At present corn is reasonable in price and hogs are quoted at nearly twice their value as of 1933, the farmer getting the entire amount for his pork.

Money Needed in Industry

We are now informed that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's offering of more than a billion dollars' worth of bonds and notes a few days ago was oversubscribed by the banks and those who want to invest their money in these securities.

There is, however, another and a less favorable aspect of the situation. These idle billions should be employed in industry and business, creating jobs for the idle millions.

"Whether we like to believe it or not there is no government substitute for private enterprise and the investment of private capital in industry to make more and better jobs. While the government is spending three or four billions in trying to make jobs, we are told by the federal reserve board that well over forty billions of private capital are idle, waiting for investment.

And there's a good deal of sound truth in this view of the matter.

REFORMS. Mark Sullivan, columnist, says Americans have been overdone on reform—much of it impractical and therefore injurious. He points out the popular habit of grabbing reforms and then soon getting too much of them to stand.

Supl. E. W. Smith, as president of the North Nebraska High School Athletic conference, received an application from Creighton to become the eighth member in the conference.

Robert Hickman Is Fraternity Pledge

Robert Hickman, student at Colorado state college in Fort Collins, has been pledged to Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

"Breathing and Sifting: I am again building school houses or anything else. I have no children and pay little tax, but it gives me a pain in the abdominal cavity to think of paying if I should ever happen to have something on which to pay. I swept out and taught a school one winter long ago when the benches were made of rough lumber, and a box stove smoked up and out, and therefore I know more about school curriculums and other school wants than most modern professors. Bogosh, modern educators can't tell me anything I don't know. The reason I drive an automobile instead of an ox cart is because hitching racks have been taken down and public watering troughs have disappeared."

FOR REAL JOBS.

In Liberty magazine Editor Bernarr McFadden calls attention to approaching elections and warns voters to think carefully in deciding between new deal fallacies and the sound policies which made America the freest and richest country in the world.

Plum Creek display of farm products took first premium among the precinct exhibits at Wayne county fair last week.

An innovation at the Wayne county fair this year was the display of products from precincts in booths in the agricultural hall.

A sign made from corn and two American flags from kernels of painted corn were unique features in the Wilbur precinct booth.

A large pumpkin about four feet in diameter was the attraction in Hunter precinct booth.

Pumpkins, plates of fruit and vegetables and grain, attractively displayed, made up the Brenna precinct booth.

Garfield, "The Garden Spot," had a booth with a background of sorgo and other grains. Also displayed were vegetables and corn.

In the center of the precinct booths a round display table was shown with apples of every type from Wayne county.

History Trend Is Traced In Buttons Used

The general trend of history can be noted in buttons which adorn clothes, according to Mrs. Irvie Reed who has made button collecting a hobby.

Mrs. Reed's collection of hundreds of buttons was one of the interesting exhibits in the art department of the Wayne county fair. Mrs. Reed has the buttons arranged on four large cards which bring out a diamond design.

The oldest button in Mrs. Reed's collection was used 350 years ago. It is an inch and a half bronze button on which is the design of a flying dragon. The button is a Welsh emblem dating back to 1588.

Among the military buttons in Mrs. Reed's collection are those from a U. S. Army overcoat of 1865, G. A. R. cap, Canadian army coat, German army coat and Nebraska national guard coat.

AMERICA WANTS PEACE

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

This country does not desire to meddle in the affairs of Europe but America has a vital interest in a peaceful world. We have no particular concern over their governmental problems but we have learned by experience that commercial and economic isolation is both unprofitable and undesirable.

We would like to be on friendly relations with all the nations of the world. We want to sell our goods wherever there is a demand.

We want to buy in the markets of the world to supply our needs. We want to meet the other peoples for many reasons—to learn what they are doing, how they are doing it and whether their way is better than ours. We want to learn their ideas and their methods for our own good and we have no objections whatever if they learn how we do things and why we do them.

Americans also have come to appreciate the fact that we in this country must help bear world burdens, that we must do our share of the work of helping the helpless and making life worth living for the sorely oppressed. That of course does not mean that we shall impose our wills on other peoples. That would be adding to their oppression. It means that we have been willing to help others in distress and it should always mean this.
