

The State House Finds Busy Officers Looking After Public Affairs and Considering Wishes of Constituents — What H. G. Wells Says of England May Apply to Small Groups — Social Security Payments This Month.

We interviewed the state house officers briefly Saturday, and committees busy during the legislature's week-end recess. Lieutenant-Governor William E. Johnson who is a Wayne product, is in command of the reins of leadership in commendable fashion. His secretary, Miss Geraldine Gamble, daughter of Mrs. Frank Gamble of Wayne, expressed delight over her new duty to which she is plainly well adjusted.

Dr. C. F. Dienst, deputy state superintendent, is the usual dynamo of useful endeavor. He knows everybody by his first name, and everybody knows him. He is in much demand for information and advice, and he is kept busier than the proverbial cranberry merchant. The high regard he expresses for Wayne people is fully reciprocated.

James McEachen who also belongs to Wayne, and who presides over the liquor commission, has a spacious room where he holds conferences and hearings. He says the room which is big enough for a theatre, is none too large to accommodate groups that frequently appear.

Job hunters at the capitol are numerous. Young persons are lured into politics because they figure it affords a sort of pleasing glamour, and oldsters often seek political preferment because of the diminishing demand for their services in private fields. Efficiency and economy in public places would be amazingly advanced if there were less playing politics and more practical attention given to tasks in hand.

We dropped in on J. E. Lawrence, busy and capable editor of the Lincoln Star. Like the average editor—only on an enlarged scale—he performs more service that means no monetary reward than that which comes within the sphere of paid duty. From everywhere in the state pour requests for speeches, letters asking advice or wanting recommendations. On public boards he has served with distinction and of course without other compensation than the consciousness of work well done. Besides, he finds time to supply editorial pabulum for the Star and to direct the policy of that newspaper.

When Lawrence—reared in Beatrice—enrolled in the University of Nebraska around thirty years ago, he had no silver spoon, but he had an excellent assortment of brains with the native courage to build steadily and firmly. He fully exemplified the American heritage of success guaranteed to every youth who possesses the talent and metal to go forward despite all unfavorable winds. We have a suspicion that Lawrence stores many jewels in heaven by reason of his kindly sympathy and free public service. Certainly he will not be adequately rewarded here.

Wells Is Critical. What H. G. Wells, historian, says is the matter with England is probably what is the matter in varying degrees with other countries and groups, large and small. He says Britisheers have become too indifferent and too well satisfied. As a consequence, other nations have surpassed England in courage and achievement. But for the aid of Americans, Wells believes Great Britain would have been on the losing side in the World War. He renews his warning to England to come out of its lethargy and stir itself in behalf of greater effort and improved leadership.

Nature seems to have provided that people must be alert and active if they expect to make progress. They cannot lie down in the belief that nothing is left to be done and that they may spend the rest of their days in luxury and ease. Like a nation, notably England, once powerful, now slipping, a community may stop improvements and lose much of what it has gained by refusing to go ahead, and the result is a backward movement. Self-satisfaction makes one dull. Inertia means decay. Wideawake rivals leave suspended animation far in the rear.

Recurring Nightmare. This month industries and businesses are paying their social security obligations. We would feel more certain of benefits to employees or to their families by paying for protection afforded by an established insurance company. But the government does not ask the advice of institutions that come under the law. The course is prescribed and must be followed. Employers of eight or more are burdened by a three per cent tax on payroll volume for unemployment insurance. This tax does not depend on the earnings of the insured. (Continued on Page Four)

THE WAYNE HERALD

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 19, 1939.

SOY BEANS WORTH WHILE IN PROGRAM OF CROP VARIETY

FROM information at hand to date we judge raising soy beans may advantageously diversify crop production, but that they are not an adequate substitute for corn or alfalfa. We understand soy beans are drought-resistant, require a comparatively short growing season and are good for the soil. The soy bean variety is rated a desirable supplemental crop. But it must be fed moderately with corn to avoid producing soft, flabby meat. The yield per acre and price per bushel make beans less profitable than corn in normal corn growing years. Nothing seems to equal corn in the production of solid pork and beef, and nothing gives greater promise to agriculture than a favorable season for corn in a season in which luxuriant stalks filled with golden ears have surmounted all perils of the elements and reached full maturity in the autumn. Soy beans would seem worth while as a side line, but evidently they cannot take the place of corn.

George Lessman died December 24, 1937, and Mrs. Lessman filed action claiming that his death was due to an illness which developed because of injuries sustained September 22, 1936, when operating a tractor for the county in road work. One judge in compensation court heard the matter in April and ordered dismissal of the case. DEMOCRACY.

A late edition of the Christian Science Monitor made an important contribution to the cause of democracy—our form of government which is now more than ever eyed hatefully and menacingly by totalitarian states.

Government and Business.

The past year was not without its compensations, points out one business writer, chief of which, in his opinion, being "increasing evidence of a growing loss of faith in experimentation and public expenditures as a possible cure for our difficulties, and evidence of growing apprehension regarding the over-concentration of powers in the federal government.

Wage and Hour Law

Nation's Business shows the wage and hour law operates to increase unemployment and decrease purchasing power.

The Freedom of Laughter.

Often it seems that the thing a dictator fears most is a laugh. Life is a serious business under a totalitarian regime.

Barometers were on a rampage Tuesday.

from a harvest of fraudulent sweepstakes tickets; $281,000 alleged to have been embezzled from a trust company at Peru, Indiana, and used to bolster up a depression-ridden circus.

Remodeling the primary law to make it function more intelligently and make it more expressive of popular will is already under discussion in the legislature.

The World-Herald thinks President Roosevelt fixes history to suit himself as reflected in his Jackson day speech.

Notwithstanding revival for economy, the president has asked revival of two suspended government projects—the Florida ship canal and the tide-harnessing plan at Passamaquoddy Bay, Me.

Pleasant recollections cluster about the old-time chautauqua. The idea originated at Lake Chautauqua, New York, and in time it spread over the country.

Many people like changes in the seasons. They do not relish the monotonous sameness of the weather in the south.

Rural communities are more democratic than metropolitan centers. There are no great extremes of wealth or poverty in the country, character values and intellectual achievements arouse more respect than dollars and cents.

Congressman George Heinke squared his official record with his pre-election position by voting against the WPA appropriation.

Barometers were on a rampage Tuesday. Fluid in the one at the State National bank almost soared out of the bulb in trying to signal warnings of weather changes.

Another world war would flatten civilization to the point where it would have to start over.

Nation's Business shows the wage and hour law operates to increase unemployment and decrease purchasing power.

Often it seems that the thing a dictator fears most is a laugh. Life is a serious business under a totalitarian regime.

The heavy-handed rebuke given the West Virginia students who, in the spirit of good, clean fun, made up as so many Hitler's emphasizes the point.

To the priceless freedoms of democracy, freedom of speech and press, add the freedom of laughter. It is not the least of these.

The past year was not without its compensations, points out one business writer, chief of which, in his opinion, being "increasing evidence of a growing loss of faith in experimentation and public expenditures as a possible cure for our difficulties, and evidence of growing apprehension regarding the over-concentration of powers in the federal government.

Seemingly, dependence on an all-wise and all-powerful group of central planners to solve the economic problems of 130,000,000 people is increasingly giving way to a realization that any such hope is not only a vain one but is inevitably attended by loss of individual rights and privileges which are an inherent part of our type of government.

If productive agencies had free rein they would soon provide the solution. A farm with nothing turned under soon runs out. So with a business.

On the first page of a recent newspaper edition we find reports of these three big money-grabbing frauds: New York stockpiles looted of $1,250,000 in small parakeets carried on over several years.

Pilching of lucre—the thing that makes the wheels go round, also the thing that puts evil thoughts into people's minds—is reported numerously in the daily press.

EQUALLY BAD.

Mark Sullivan, columnist, recently called attention to the need of equal vigilance and emphasis in opposing foreign isms.

Normal College Alumni Program Is of Interest
 A program for chapel and banquet for the reunion of nebraska normal college students August 10, 1939, brings back names of many who lived in Wayne over 30 years ago. C. L. Culler was president, J. F. Fowler vice president, Jesse Knaplund secretary and Arthur W. Ley treasurer of the association.
 The day's reunion included the morning chapel program, lunch at college dining room at noon with alumni guests of Prof. and Mrs. J. M. Pao, baseball, basketball and tennis in the afternoon and evening banquet in the college dining room.
 Mr. Culler presided at the chapel program which included five-minute talks by a representative of each class from 1892 to 1908. In the order of their graduation these were the following: Cora Beebe, Lulu Nehardt, Grace Nehardt, L. M. Powers, Margaret Carr, Rose Breslin, J. J. Ahern, C. W. Goodsell, Blanch Hamilton, W. E. Miller, Lewis Omeij, Prudence Bush-Snyder, C. J. Malone, Lillian Willis, Susie Knox, Madge Bridenbaugh, Henry Raubach, Geo. E. Junge, Rose Rundquist, Anna Ellis, J. R. Lane, Agnes Clifton, Esther Samuelson, Louisa McGee.
 Celia Chase was toastmaster for the banquet. C. L. Culler, class of 1896, gave the welcome, and Nettie Glassburn, class of 1906, responded. Class representatives gave short talks. Representatives from 1892 to 1905 were H. E. Mason, Emma Betty, Elmer Lundberg, Ben Skiles, J. M. Paul, Theo. Scace-Corbitt, L. H. Currier, Malvina Balgard, Mammie Wallace, Claire Whitney, Thomas R. Nelson, F. A. Barth, Nellie Ross, Edith Mead, A. F. Dugger, Louise Tritley, E. O. Blackstone.

Not Many New Laws.
 (Omaha Journal-Stockman.)
 Whether they know any more than the rest of us or not, it is interesting to note that political commentators do not expect this session of congress to produce a great deal, either in the way of important new legislation or major changes in laws already in force. As they reason it out, the last elections gave the opposition to the present administration a sufficient increase in votes to block measures they consider too liberal, but not enough strength to initiate any program of their own.
 Regardless of which side of the political fence one is on, it may readily be seen that there may be advantages in such a situation, if it should work out that way. For while not all the laws that have been put into effect in recent years are above criticism, the fact remains that the country has become more or less adjusted to them and a complete change of direction or even too sudden a slackening of momentum might again upset balances that have been established.
 Both the general industrial situation and the markets for farm products, particularly live stock, have been getting along reasonably well since the last congress adjourned. And as business men and farmers, as well—already have learned, there is less to fear from too little legislative activity than too much. So perhaps it will be just as well if the members of this congress confine themselves chiefly to blowing off steam and talking things over, and do not actually pass any great number of important bills.

First Homestead in Country Now National Park
 This country's first homestead, a quarter section of land five miles northwest of Beatrice, Neb., has this week been set aside as a national park. Daniel Freeman filed on the land January 1, 1863, the day the nation's famous homestead act became effective. Freeman obtained a furlough from the Union army to file the claim. Fearful that his leave would expire, Freeman purchased the land agent at Brownville, Neb., to open his office five minutes after midnight the day the law became effective. Freeman paid $16 filing fee, the total cost of the land to him, and when the war closed he took his bride to the historic homestead. The log cabin and other buildings on the homestead will be restored so as to be kept as they were originally.

Auto Accidents Take Big Drop Throughout Nation

IN 1929 there were 5382 children killed in motor accidents! Last year the number had been cut to 4150. That means 1232 children—maybe one of them yours—were saved last year because intelligent people cared enough to do something for safety's sake.

Pointing out the immense strides in safety for school children that have been made in Kansas City, Mo.; Mt. Kisco, New York, and other communities throughout the country, Mrs. Runbeck shows how it was done and urges that if these excellent examples are followed by every city, town and hamlet in the United States, the number of accidents due to carelessly guarded street crossings could be cut down to almost nil.

"Accidents don't happen," she says in the third article in Good Housekeeping's safety campaign. "They are made to happen. And so they can be made to stop happening. No matter what it costs, it is worth the price. Actually it costs pathetically little balanced against the value of little-boy grins and little-girl voices. The point is, it can be done."

"This reduction of tragedy can be accomplished by hard work and imagination and cooperative effort," Mrs. Runbeck explains. "By education and vigilance. By having a splendid vision, and then by exercising the stamina to sustain it through all the tedious details which are always necessary to make splendid visions really visible."

Kansas City has just celebrated its third year of having no child killed in motor accidents. So let's look and see how they manage this safety crusade:

"Each weekday morning we find 70,000 children hurrying to school and automobiles going places. We find the city laid out with definite crossing places for school children, with a general alert officer at each spot. He will be at the curbstone and he herds his charges into an orderly parade. After they get their young army of pedestrians safely in school, the police officers devoted to this business, doing their own thing among the citizenry. They also drill schoolboy patrols for supplementary curbstone duty."

But police officers alone couldn't accomplish much in making traffic safe for children, explains Mrs. Runbeck. The second great feature of the nation-wide safety program organizes the children themselves.

Most of the credit for school safety patrol work must be given to the American Automobile Association which has sponsored, equipped and encouraged these patrols. Today there are 275,000 schoolboy policemen throughout the country guiding 3,000,000 schoolmates back and forth across hazardous crossings.

Mrs. Runbeck praises the magnificent job in cooperation in schools that is being done by Women's Clubs, the Parent-Teacher Associations and other interested groups and states that "all sorts of things have been brought into play to make this business of being safe as vital as it must be. It is kept interesting—so children will keep remembering—and keep living."

THE DREAM SHINES ON! By Nancy Gyrd Turner

One weary night when dark was not yet gone, I waked and said, as though the words were wakened, "But still the dream shines on. Day was not near; no star looked through the gloom. But courage suddenly was with me like an angel in the room. And now, whatever sorrow wait with dawn, In other years, I shall not be afraid. Knowing the dream shines on."

Suits for $25,000. Hartington, Neb., Jan. 18.—An additional $25,000 in damages is being sought in Cedar county district court here from O. C. Teare, Hartington oil merchant, by a third passenger in the Teare machine in an automobile accident near Allen, March 17, 1938. The latest suit was filed by Mrs. Martha Harmeier of Randolph. Two $10,000 suits were previously filed by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Miller, Hartington farmers. The accident occurred near the intersection of Highways 9 and 20, three miles north of Allen.

Boiled down, the problem is to increase the farm income and reduce the farm expense so that there will be enough profit left to make the farmer a liberal buyer of other products. How to raise prices of farm products and lower the mounting costs of farm operations is a real problem.

"Difficulties lie ahead for any efforts to bring about these two conditions," points out the Nebraska State Journal. "High prices for what the farmer has to buy are made so, in a very large part by the increased cost of labor in manufacturing and the higher tax costs that the manufacturers must pay. Very naturally these higher costs are passed on to the consumer."

"It may be impossible greatly to reduce the tax burden for many years to come. The tremendously large and growing demand for relief, due to a static situation in unemployment now, adds greatly to the difficulty. Government demands are increasing at a time when taxpayers are demanding a lessening of their burdens."

"Other difficulties in bringing relief to farmers are found in the wake of government attempts in very recent years to do things for the farmers that have proved impractical and impossible."

"It would seem that the first step in bringing relief to the farmers and to the nation as a whole should be to reduce the cost of government, and to follow that by a return to a safer level of living for the whole people. It has been amply demonstrated by repeated failures of the plan to borrow and spend the country into prosperity that this administration theory must be discarded."

Mr. Hopkins Confesses. (Sioux City Journal)

Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins has confessed again. This time he admits failure of the new deal to accomplish what was promised in 1932 and again in 1936. He reminded new dealers that "we promised to raise the general standard of living," that "we promised to improve the condition of the farmer," that "we promised to reduce or end unemployment." He also reminded them that "we haven't delivered—let's admit it." Then this piece of wisdom from the new cabinet officer: "What we do between now and 1940 will determine whether we go down in history as bums or heroes—whether we come back or go out in 1940." And this: "We've got to deliver in a hurry."

It has been said so many times that none of the members of the official family in Washington would dare to express things of this kind without indorsement by President Roosevelt, that it generally is accepted as true. So as Mr. Hopkins admits the shortcomings of the new deal, it is to be inferred that Mr. Roosevelt is in agreement with the cabinet officer's conclusion. If the chief executive did not agree and Mr. Hopkins sounded off in this manner it might be the woodshed for him and a man-size shellacking.

Early in his first administration when N.R.A. and the first A.A.A. were offered, Mr. Roosevelt told the country these things were to be tried and that if they didn't work the administration would admit a mistake had been made and would offer something else. Mr. Roosevelt would be the first to confess error. But N.R.A. and the two A.A.A.'s failed, and only now through Mr. Hopkins has anything in the six long years been offered by way of admitting anything.

Anyone is privileged to analyze the Hopkins statement and find that it reveals a considerable amount of fear on the part of the new dealers, high and low. They know that the people are now aware of the failures, that to employ Mr. Hopkins' own listing, they have not raised the standard of living, have not improved the condition of the farmer, have not solved the problem of unemployment and have not delivered. So 1940 does not look so good, and there may be more likelihood, again employing Mr. Hopkins' own words, of the new dealers going down in history as bums instead of heroes.

Mr. Hopkins could have gone farther, of course. He could have emphasized the fact that the new deal experiments, which he admits did not work, were terribly expensive and that there was little to show for the billions expended. It will be interesting indeed to watch the spectacle of frenzied haste — Mr. Hopkins' reminded there was little time left—as the new dealers now try to do in 18 months what they failed to do in six years. Again let it be reminded that public opinion holds the party in power responsible for conditions. That is what has scared Mr. Hopkins and others in the administration.

A report indicates that Adolf Hitler has urged Mussolini to keep peace in the world for another year.

Killing the Goose. (Industrial Press Service)

The easiest thing in the world to do is to criticize. That is the reason that radicals can be so wordy when they start trying to show the defects in the American system. It is the reason politicians have a field day when they start badgering business.

But America and the American industrial system have brought us a long way, with all of its faults. We have come far through a constant process of evolution and progress. The sixty and seventy hour work week has dropped to forty and forty-five. The dollar a day wages have gone to that much an hour for many of our workers. Millions of us ride in automobiles. Almost every family has its radio set. We have every day comforts in even our poorer homes that would be luxuries for the rich in other lands. Figures of the U. S. Department of Commerce show that the employee gets more than 80 per cent of the manufacturing dollar.

Yet we have far to go. The farmer's income must be raised. We have many who are still underprivileged.

Our danger is that, in trying to keep up with the demagogue who promises the moon with the ease of the irresponsible, we will kill the goose that has laid so many golden eggs on our march of progress.

Farm Recovery and the 1939 Outlook. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

For a good many years, it has been a pretty generally accepted axiom that when farmers are prosperous the whole nation prospers. Taking that statement at its face value, the stage should be set for a healthier year for American industry in 1939, because live stock producers have enjoyed, in recent months, one of the best seasons from all angles that they have seen in a long time.

Discussing this subject near the end of the old year, a practical Omaha banker agreed that while industrial conditions during 1938 may not have been all that business men desired, the year's larger crops and the expansion in the live stock business which they will support are laying the foundation for increases in employment and larger business opportunities in this section during the months to come.

Revival in agricultural productivity was not the only development of 1938 that promises to extend its influence into the year that is just starting. Another was the shift, or apparent shift, in political thinking that may augur the advent of a more conservative course in all national policies, including those affecting both agriculture and industry. Efforts to revamp the farm program, the wages and hours act, and the labor laws are definitely in prospect when congress meets. So is a move to curtail public spending in other directions and work back toward a balancing of administrative budgets.

What the outcome of these moves will be or just how they will affect agriculture and business cannot be foretold. However, industry appears to be in a healthier state of mind than for some time, and it is quite obvious that one reason for taking a more cheerful view of the outlook can be found in the improved position that farmers and particularly live stock producers now occupy.

Stanton Feeder Tops City Market

A new top for cattle at western primary markets was established Tuesday when Gus Bremer of Stanton, received $13.65 a hundred in Omaha for 19 head of prime Angus beefs which averaged 1,218 pounds. The price was 5c above the highest paid at Chicago this year and was the highest paid since November, 1937. Bremer also topped the Omaha market in 1938 with Angus beefs that sold for $13.50.

Always a Farm Problem. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Prior to the election every statesman in the country tells farm voters that his first duty, if elected, will be to help his farm constituents and now that congress is in session many bills have been introduced to aid agriculture. It is one of the biggest, if not the biggest of the problems before the country but we seem to be getting nowhere fast.

Boiled down, the problem is to increase the farm income and reduce the farm expense so that there will be enough profit left to make the farmer a liberal buyer of other products. How to raise prices of farm products and lower the mounting costs of farm operations is a real problem.

ier year for American industry in 1939, because live stock producers have enjoyed, in recent months, one of the best seasons from all angles that they have seen in a long time.

Discussing this subject near the end of the old year, a practical Omaha banker agreed that while industrial conditions during 1938 may not have been all that business men desired, the year's larger crops and the expansion in the live stock business which they will support are laying the foundation for increases in employment and larger business opportunities in this section during the months to come.

Revival in agricultural productivity was not the only development of 1938 that promises to extend its influence into the year that is just starting. Another was the shift, or apparent shift, in political thinking that may augur the advent of a more conservative course in all national policies, including those affecting both agriculture and industry. Efforts to revamp the farm program, the wages and hours act, and the labor laws are definitely in prospect when congress meets. So is a move to curtail public spending in other directions and work back toward a balancing of administrative budgets.

What the outcome of these moves will be or just how they will affect agriculture and business cannot be foretold. However, industry appears to be in a healthier state of mind than for some time, and it is quite obvious that one reason for taking a more cheerful view of the outlook can be found in the improved position that farmers and particularly live stock producers now occupy.

Value Education to Save Freedom

Adult Study Is Stressed As Means of Keeping Democratic Form.

Scandinavian educational system presents developments worthy of study, according to information presented to Wayne branch of A. A. U. W. Thursday evening at the Woman's club rooms by the education group with Mrs. H. D. Griffin in charge.

No illiteracy exists in Norway, Mrs. W. F. Dieking pointed out. This is attributed to the fact that confirmation in the church is of paramount importance in the lives of these people and ability to read is necessary in confirmation. With five times as many people living in territory only half again as large as Nebraska, and with only five per cent of the land fit for cultivation, people of Norway are inspired by rugged individualism, love for religion and culture and a desire for freedom to offer educational opportunity to all.

Though only a small percentage are able to gain university training, alumni of the university have since 1820 organized discussion groups for all. Politics, the theatre, etc., are influenced by these discussions. Such a plan furnishes adult education that keeps people informed on developments.

Mrs. Dieking pointed out that 17 per cent of the national budget in Norway is for education. Teachers are most highly respected and are sought for political leaders, bank directors and in other groups of influence. At 70 they are pensioned.

Need Adult Education.

Adult education in Sweden was considered by Miss Ida Fisher. "To educate is one way to serve democracy." Adults in Sweden study because they wish to keep step individually with development in government. Their self improvement is free and voluntary, but the people are anxious to educate themselves. They realize that adults must be educated to preserve democratic institutions.

Means of adult education provided in Sweden are the parish libraries, lectures, folk schools and study circles. There are now 7,000 libraries presenting material to be read by people who wish to keep up with political and social changes. The nation has 600 societies providing 9,000 lectures a

Indians Contribute To Culture

That Nebraska Indians definitely contribute to the state's culture was proved by Mrs. John McCluhan of Winnebago, Third district chairman of Indian welfare, in an address Friday evening when Wayne Women's club entertained the Business and Professional division at the club rooms.

Nebraska has four tribes of Indians, the Ponca and Santee-Sioux in Knox county, the Winnebago and Omaha in Thurston county. One realizes the appalling death rate among these natives when it is known that 100 years ago the state had 40,000 Indians and it now has 5,100. The Ponca, Santee and Omaha tribes have been in Nebraska as long as records have been kept, but the Winnebagoes were originally in Wisconsin. In 1872, when land in Wisconsin was wanted for settlers, the Winnebagoes were moved to Oklahoma. They were unhappy in the south and the following winter started back home. Of the 1,200 taking the trip, 800 reached Nebraska, the Winnnebago, two-thirds are Indians. The government pays to the school 57c a day for each Indian who is brought to school by bus and 47c a day for each if not brought by bus. Winnebago school has four buses. Teachers make out weekly reports of the Indian attendance, giving name, degree of Indian blood, names of parents and days in school. The reports are sent to the government and the district receives a check based on the above schedule. The amount paid includes noon lunch which consists of a hot dish, sandwich, drink and fruit.

Government Projects.

Each reservation has a division of the C. C. camp. Mrs. McCluhan explained that Winnebago boys are given employment on C. C. projects though they live at home. They have built a beautiful 10-mile drive east of Winnebago to a bluff overlooking the Missouri. There they have a 50-foot tower as an outlook for fires in 13,000 acres of timber, the oldest untouched timber in Nebraska. A log cabin and natural spring are also nearby. Girls are given N. Y. A. employment, making infants' layettes which are given to Indian mothers at the hospital, and women are employed on bead projects, their work being sold through the store at the pow wow grounds. A WPA canning project enables women to do their canning easily. Indians may use facilities, stoves, cans, etc., by leaving two of every 12 quart cans. Those left are used for relief. Twenty women often can 1,500 quarts in one day.

Winnebago population varies from about 600 in summer to 1,200 in winter. About half the Indians prefer to spend summer months in tents in the timber. When they return to their frame homes, often 10 to 15 will be in three or four rooms. And the typical Indian home must have a bed in the kitchen.

Cook Out of Doors.

Every Indian home has a tripod and black kettle in the back yard and this is used for summer cooking. Everything is boiled. No matter what kind of meat the Indian has, it will be boiled. Corn, which has been dried, and squash, cut in slices and hung on the clothesline to dry, are the principal vegetables. They too are boiled, usually in with the meat.

The method of drying corn is interesting. Mrs. McCluhan watched some Indians do this. They peeled the ears of corn, leaving only one row of shucks. In a trench about six feet deep they placed dry wood and set fire to it. On top they put green timber and then rocks. When the green timber and rocks got hot, three wagon loads of corn were dumped into the trench. The corn shucks which had been taken off were placed on top of the ears and all was then covered with earth. A day later the covering was removed, the kernels were cut off the ears and dried. When the corn is to be used it is soaked over night and boiled with meat.

When an Indian dies in the afternoon, Mrs. McCluhan explained, Tom-toms start as soon as death occurs and are kept up for three days, after which a feast is held. A frame is built over the grave with a pointed-roof arrangement at one end. In this pointed part is a hole where relatives place food regularly for several months to feed the spirit.

Indians are very religious, the speaker stated. Though their ideas differ from others, they have the assurance that their spirit goes to a happy hunting ground after death. Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Dutch Reform, Catholic and other churches have built missions to serve them. One had habit becoming more prevalent among Indians is the use of peyote, a harmful drug shipped in from Mexico. The use of this in tea or chewed produces a wonderful feeling but it is most harmful.

To Improve Health.

Considerable work is being done to restore health to Indians. Athletics are encouraged in school, and all Indians walk a great deal. The Winnebago agency has the only Indian hospital in the state. This 70-bed institution is open only to those who have one-fourth or more Indian blood. An efficient staff cared for 929 patients last year, gave 221 chest X-rays through which they discovered 63

T.B. cases and cared for 72 babies. Indian mothers still bring their boards to the hospital and carry their infants home on their backs. Clinic is held three times a week and Indians are given free examination and treatment. There were 3,425 treated last year. The cost per patient was $3.85 per day.

Blackbird Tradition.

Mrs. McCluhan told the tradition of Blackbird hill. This relates that Blackbird, the first Indian chief in the state, fell in love with and married a white girl who was traveling up the river from St. Louis and who had quarreled with her lover in the south. She was the chief's favorite wife. Three or four years later the St. Louis lover located the girl and came to the Indian camp. Blackbird found him with his wife and became so angry that he almost scalped the white woman, dragged her by the hair across the hill and threw her body into the Missouri. It is told that grass has never grown on the path. When Blackbird died he was buried astride his horse on top of the hill. Each October 18 at midnight the ghosts appear and reenact the gruesome murder.

Another legend, which Mrs. McCluhan stated is true, tells of two Indians who were in war service in France. Information was leaking out to enemy lines. The Indians asked permission to phone messages from the headquarters to the front line. The Indians did so and spoke in Indian tongue. The orders were not revealed and a spy caught later asked what sort of language the orders went over the lines in. As a result the two Indians received special decorations.

Have Indian Music.

Elaine Luedberg sang Indian solos before the address. These were "By the Waters of Minnetonka" and "From the Land of the Skyblue Waters." Bette Blair was her accompanist.

Mrs. S. A. Lutgen spoke briefly and told that five new clubs have been organized the past two years. Indian decorations were used on the table from which appropriate refreshments were served by Mrs. A. L. Jacobsen, Mrs. E. W. Huse, Mrs. Albert Johnson, Mrs. J. J. Ahern, Mrs. Hobert Auker, Mrs. A. McEachen, Mrs. O. G. Nelson, Mrs. Harold Wedge, Mrs. W. A. Hiscok, Mrs. J. G. Mines and Mrs. E. M. Laughlin.

Exhibit of Art Work at College

An art exhibit which includes pictures by children in schools throughout the country, is being shown in the art building of the State Teachers college from Monday to Friday this week.

The pictures to be shown comprise a section of the Young America Paints exhibition, recently held in Rockefeller Center, New York, and viewed by many thousands of visitors. The art show which was the largest of its kind ever held, was sponsored by a committee of art directors of public school systems. Visitors to the exhibition in New York City declared that in their riot of color and imaginative scope, the drawings indicate the vividness of outlook of the youth of today.

Among the various media to be seen in the visiting exhibit are: fresco—a new dry paint applied with a special felt tipped brush, finger paint—a soft jelly like substance which is applied to the papers directly with the open palms and fingers without the use of brushes, tempera, watercolor, chalk and crayon drawings.

The exhibit will be open each day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and will be displayed under the direction of Miss Jessie Stephen, art instructor. Public school students, college students and the public are cordially invited to attend the display.

Indians Contribute To Culture. That Nebraska Indians definitely contribute to the state's culture was proved by Mrs. John McCluhan of Winnebago, Third district chairman of Indian welfare, in an address Friday evening when Wayne Women's club entertained the Business and Professional division at the club rooms. Nebraska has four tribes of Indians, the Ponca and Santee-Sioux in Knox county, the Winnebago and Omaha in Thurston county. One realizes the appalling death rate among these natives when it is known that 100 years ago the state had 40,000 Indians and it now has 5,100. The Ponca, Santee and Omaha tribes have been in Nebraska as long as records have been kept, but the Winnebagoes were originally in Wisconsin. In 1872, when land in Wisconsin was wanted for settlers, the Winnebagoes were moved to Oklahoma. They were unhappy in the south and the following winter started back home. Of the 1,200 taking the trip, 800 reached Nebraska, the others perishing from cold and hunger. The tribe settled near the Omahas who gave them part of their reservation land. Centralize Business. In the agency near Winnebago is conducted all the business for all Nebraska Indians. One of the many tasks of the staff of 60 is to manage business affairs for the Indians. In 1872 each Indian was given 80 acres of land. With marriages and descendants in the years since the matter of keeping records has been complicated, each Indian usually being entitled to a fractional share. All income from the land goes to the agency and is there divided. Often 20 Indians will have a share in 80 acres and one who owns the land must have consent of at least 50 per cent of the title holders. If painting or repairs amounting to over $100 are to be done on such land, bids from at least three concerns must be secured and the lowest taken. One might wonder then, how schools are supported. Of the 500 in the

But It's True

The Murphreesboro mine is the only diamond mine in the nation officially listed by the United States government. There are other parts of the country which have diamonds ready to be mined, but development of the territories has never been considered worthwhile.
For the same reason that many diamond-centers have never been mined, it has never been considered good business to take the gold from coal ash. The work would cost more than the return.

Eye Lights

FACE THE SUN

I have a plant in my home that gave me a lesson in Optimism. When I brought it home its leaves and blooms were growing so as to face in every direction!

I set that plant near a window, and within twenty-four hours the leaves and blooms were facing toward the sunlight.

Sometimes you and I find ourselves in situations that seem dark and drab. Somewhere there is a pillar of light.
If we will face that way, bathe our thoughts in the benefi-cent rays of that sunlight, our troubles will shrink to insignificance.

The way out of difficulties is not into the dark shadows of doubt but toward the light of understanding. Turn your face toward the light, toward more pleasant thoughts if you would find peace and happiness.

Dismal days, surroundings and thoughts have a depressing influence; light, cheerful, happy or optimistic thoughts have a buoyant effect. This plant, without reasoning facilities, turns its leaves and blooms toward the sunshine.
We can not do less if we wish to get the most out of life.

The following Rules and Regulations in regard to Disinfection are hereby adopted.

"DISINFECTION"

The work "DISINFECTION" in this section shall mean all places where it is necessary to disinfect.

DISINFECTION INCLUDES:

(A) Concurrent Disinfection.

(B) Terminal Disinfection.

CONCURRENT DISINFECTION: Is required during the existence of any of the following diseases:

Chickenpox, Diphtheria, Influenza, Measles, Meningococcus meningitis, Mumps, Pneumonia, Poliomyelitis, Rubella (German Measles), Scarlet Fever, Septic Sore Throat, Smallpox, Tuberculosis (Pulmonary), Typhoid Fever, and Whooping Cough.

CONCURRENT DISINFECTION: Is the collecting of the communicable discharge of the patient during the course of the disease, the burning of same, or the application of a disinfectant solution to render same inert. Concurrent disinfection is of the greatest importance, for the organisms which cause communicable diseases are for the most part parasitic and depend upon their residence in the human system for their propagation.

Under the usual conditions outside the body the bacteria of human disease will not grow and soon die. The communicable discharges, therefore, must be collected in covered receptacles. Bed linens and linens such as night-gowns used by patient should be changed at least every forty-eight hours, where this will not interfere with the well-being of the patient, immediately placed in a disinfectant solution such as 2 per cent liquor cresolis compound U. S. P. 5 per cent solution carbolic acid, or an equivalent disinfectant solution.

TERMINAL DISINFECTION:

It is now generally accepted that terminal disinfection is much better and in more accord with modern scientific research than fumigation.

THEREFORE, FUMIGATION IS NO LONGER REQUIRED IN THE FOLLOWING DISEASES:

Chickenpox, diphtheria, influenza, measles, meningococcus meningitis, mumps, pneumonia, poliomyelitis, rubella (German measles), scarlet fever, septic sore throat, smallpox, typhoid fever, and whooping cough.

When a Board of Health having jurisdiction is satisfied that a person who has suffered from any of the foregoing named diseases is no longer a source of danger to others, it shall see that the following procedure as to terminal disinfection is carried out before such persons, or premises, is released from placard or quarantine.

First. The patient and those in contact shall be bathed with an antiseptic solution. This should be done by bath of warm water and soap, then washing of the body with a mild antiseptic solution. Bichloride of mercury in strength of 1 to 5,000 is recommended for this purpose, care being taken that patient does not get the same in mouth or eyes.

Second. Everything in the sick room or that has come in contact with the patient and that is of no special value (papers, magazines, clothes, wooden toys, etc.) should be burned.

Third. Before removal from patients' room, washable clothing, linens, used by patient and by those in contact shall be immersed in a 2 per cent solution liquor cresolis compound U. S. P. 5 per cent solution carbolic acid, or an equivalent disinfectant, and remain in such solution for half an hour, then boiled for half an hour.

Fourth. Blankets and other articles presenting free surfaces and not too thick can be made safe by exposure in the open air to direct sun rays for three or four days, or sufficiently long to get fully twenty-four hours of direct sunshine. Such articles as rugs, carpets, etc. treated in the same way should, in addition, be brushed with a 2 per cent solution liquor cresolis compound U. S. P., a 5 per cent solution carbolic acid, or an equivalent disinfectant.

Fifth. Thorough washing of the wood work, wood and metal furnishings with hot water and soap, combined with disinfection through the use of a 2 per cent solution liquor cresolis compound U. S. P., or a 5 per cent solution carbolic acid of door knobs, open crevices, and such room furnishings as may have come in direct contact with patients' hands or hands of attendants, may be relied upon to protect against reinfection from the room. The need of repapering, calcimining, painting, etc., is left to the discretion of the board.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE: The County, City, or Village Board of Health within the jurisdiction of which the premises are, is primarily responsible. The Board may use its discretion as to permitting this to be done under the supervision of the attending physician; provided, that in all cases the Board within whose jurisdiction the case is, has the right to supervise the disinfection.

COST OF TERMINAL DISINFECTION:

This is to be borne entirely by the people who reside in the premises.

NOT NECESSARY TO DISINFECT PREMISES FOR THOSE IN CONTACT:

Whenever anyone is to be "Quarantined out" after having been in contact with a communicable disease it is not necessary to disinfect the premises at that time; provided that the disease still exists in the premises. In these cases, disinfection is only necessary when the patient is to be released from quarantine.

BRED SOW SALE

WAYNE VIEW FARM POLAND CHINAS

At the Wayne Sales Pavilion - WAYNE, NEBRASKA

Thursday, January 26, 1939

Starting at 1 o'clock

40 Head Bred Gilts

40 Head Bred Gilts

Due to farrow in March and April. Sired by Ideal Master, 110573, our last year's herd boar that proved to be one of the best sires we have ever owned. We believe you will agree with us when you see the offering.

Bred to Black Ace, 111999, and Right Sign, 118787, both very good boars, and we believe will sire the right kind of pigs. Black Ace was 2nd prize senior boar pig at the Iowa State Fair and his sire, The Watchman, was reserve grand champion at the same show.

Good Sign, the sire of Right Sign, was junior grand champion off Iowa fair last year and was reserve grand champion of the National Swine Show in 1938.

These gilts are out of a good herd of prolific dams. We raised 133 pigs from 19 sows last spring. If you like them a little thicker, and lower down, come to the sale and be convinced that these are the kind you can market from six months old.
