

School Board to Act On Plans Here Soon

Steps Toward Improvement Are Taken on Advice of PWA Officials.

Wayne board of education has set Wednesday, February 1, as the date for acting on the plans and specifications for the Wayne school addition and remodeling.

But the argument is offered by sources—sources that should be more democratic—that too many are permitted to work in fields of higher learning.

As a matter of fact, the more schooling anyone can gain, the clearer and more comprehensively he can think—the more he can enjoy life.

A change in the original PWA order has been asked by the board, this to provide $870 for preliminary expense.

Forest Service Aids Club Plan

Idea of Local Woman's Club Is Adopted by Nebraska State Federation.

The United States forest service is, according to word from John R. Emerson of Grand Island, head of the department there, cooperating with the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs in the program to beautify rural school grounds and provide needed tree shelters.

The idea, started in the Wayne club and in Third district by Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, has been adopted by Mrs. Walter Kiechel, state president, for a Nebraska project. Ninety per cent of 29,000 rural schools in the great plains region have no tree shelter or beauty. The aim is to remove Nebraska schools from this list.

School and civic leaders are cooperating in the program. The forest service will make two demonstration plantings in each of 10 counties: Antelope, Wayne, Pierce, Cedar, Madison, Boone, Colfax, Platte, Nance and Stanton. Women's clubs and county superintendents will assist.

Besides gaining advantages of protection and beauty, it is possible for children to gain valuable information about planting and care of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers.

Church Observes Synod Centennial

Great Mass Celebration in May Will Be Climax to Services.

Grace Lutheran church will this Sunday observe the centennial of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, with which it is affiliated. This large Lutheran denomination, with a membership of 1,300,000, had its origin in the immigration of 665 Lutherans from Saxony, Germany, in the year 1839. The service Sunday will be the first of a series of celebrations to be held throughout the first half of this year, reaching its climax in a great mass celebration to be held at Wayne in May, in which all Missouri synod congregations of northeast Nebraska will take part.

Like the Pilgrim fathers, these Saxon immigrants were prompted to leave their homeland because here in America was guaranteed to them religious liberty. The Saxon Lutherans settled in and near St. Louis, Mo., and soon made their presence felt among all Lutherans in the United States by the introduction of a democratic form of church life. The rapid growth of their denomination has been due in part to its democratic form of church government, according to which each congregation is sovereign and synod only an advisory body.

The Saxon immigrants came to America with the intention never to return to their native land. They came to stay, and from the very beginning they looked upon America as their homeland, to which they owed allegiance. The great leader of the Saxon immigrants, Dr. Ferdinand Walther, in a sermon on the Fourth of July, 14 years after the immigration, declared: "Thrice blessed may this day be! On it the foundation of a state was laid in which freedom of religion and conscience has been made a principle of government. Blessed be this land in which we enjoy this freedom. As citizens of this country let us work zealously, fight bravely, and it need be, shed our blood cheerfully that this country may remain a free country and that it may above all retain the golden crown of its freedom, namely, religious liberty."

The Spencer fair has received nationwide distinction for its success, and Mr. Dailey explained some of the human relationships that must be understood for success of a fair and a commercial group.

Small cities have many advantages on which to capitalize, Mr. Dailey believes. They also have problems and Mr. Dailey made helpful suggestions in solution of these.

Successful fairs must have big ideas, Mr. Dailey pointed out. With good roads and demands for the best, fair visitors are satisfied only with the highest type features. Success of fairs depends on the quality of offering.

Social Security Plan Explained

Manager of Omaha Board Tells Kiwanians Here About Program.

Emmett H. Dunaway, manager of the Omaha office of the Social Security board, spoke to the Kiwanis club Monday on how the government is trying to work out the problem of caring for dependent old people. The last depression hit the country at a bad time and the federal government was called on to change methods of assistance.

"As individuals all of us feel the smallest in these movements," continued the speaker. Social security is the government's idea of solving the problem. Statistics show that more men 25 years old have $100 in the bank than men 65 years old. About eight million aged people are in America. Less than one-fourth of one per cent of the population are living on investments and savings. The investments are not stable.

Mr. Dunaway said aged people in the country are gradually increasing. Causes for dependent old people are low incomes and the small incomes are unsteady. Accident and sickness take a great deal of the salaries, thus making it hard to prepare for the future. Society has changed its idea of dependency and old age. Innocent people have been thrown out of employment. The federal government has established the social security fund which is intended to function the same as a savings account. The federal government will pay an income for life when a worker retires at the age of 65 or later. The amount of the income is dependent on how much he has paid into the fund. A percentage of his salary from January, 1937, until he is 65 is received. The first $3,000 of his salary will bring $15 a month and the next $4,200 will (Continued on Page Two.)

Hildur Will, Admitted to Probate, Is Only One Heard by Jury.

Jury in district court found for the proponents Monday in the action contesting the will of the late Mrs. Mary E. Hildur. After deliberating several hours the jury at 8:30 brought in a verdict finding that the will was that of Mary E. Hildur and approved admitting it to probate. The contest claimed that undue influence had been used when the will was executed.

The district court jury decision upholds the county court decision, Judge J. M. Cherry having admitted the will to probate. The will of Mrs. Hildur, executed in 1933, made bequests of $25 each to Effie Lund, Lizzie Woodward and John W. Evans; daughters and son. Mr. Evans now being deceased; $625 each to Wilbur Hauser, Samuel Hauser, Ella Nelson, Addie Boleac, grandchildren; $500 to F. O. Hildur, husband; and all the remaining property, 160 acres of land with a $2,000 mortgage and the rest of her money, to Wilbur Evans, a son.

Heirs who received small shares of the estate contested the will. H. E. Siman and H. D. Addison were attorneys in the matter. The case was the only one tried before a jury at the session of court. In the revision action of the First National Bank of Belden against C. H. Hendrickson, appealed by the defendant after a county court jury found for the plaintiff, District Judge C. H. Stewart quashed the affidavit on which the replevin was based. The case is still to be settled and the property remains in the hands of the bank. H. E. Siman and F. P. Votaw are attorneys for the bank and C. H. Hendrickson for the defense.

Trial was waived in the suit on note filed by Wm. Ehlers against Wm. E. Roggenbach, and a judgment was entered for $2,879.12 in favor of plaintiff. Mr. Ehlers and F. S. Berry were attorneys. The Fred Brueckner vs. Walter Wantoch case, a suit on an account, was continued. Hendrickson and Greenmeyer are attorneys.

The suit on a check, filed by P. H. Dinges against Gurney Bentshoff, was dismissed by plaintiff's attorneys. C. H. Hendrickson and H. D. Addison were attorneys. Judge Stewart granted a judgment in the petition filed by Raymond Robins against Zbe Robins. In the action in which C. H. Hendrickson has sought to obstruct sale of a lot by the city of Wayne (Continued on page two.)

Settlements Are Reached in Court

Date for final hearing in the liquidation of the Hoskins State Bank and the Merchants State Bank of Winside was set for February 9.

The case of Wm. Palmer vs. Elmer Schaber, involving a colt, was appealed to district court by defendant after the county court found for the plaintiff. Palmer sold a colt to Schaber November 23 for $50. Schaber paid $10 of the amount. Plaintiff claims that defendant refused to pay the remaining $40 so Palmer started action to recover the $40. The county court found that Palmer should recover from Schaber $40 with interest at 6 per cent and costs of $19.69. Schaber appealed. Burr R. Davis and H. D. Addison are attorneys for Palmer and C. H. Hendrickson for Schaber.

bring $35 a month of a total of $50 a month. If the employee has earned from $4,500 to $129,000 in a life time, he is paid $85 extra a month. The maximum amount an employee may receive is $85 a month and the minimum is $10.

Qualifications for receiving this money are that one must be 65 years old, have earned $2,000 in five different years and must retire from active employment.

Mr. Dunaway explained that at present the employee pays one per cent and the employer also pays one per cent. This percentage will be increased until in 1949 both individuals will pay three per cent, making a total of six per cent.

Other claims which can be made on this social security fund are a death claim and a man arriving at 65 between January 1937 and 1942. Both amount to three and one half per cent of all wages earned.

The depression would have been easier, according to Mr. Dunaway, if this had been set up 20 years ago.

Guests at the club meeting were John C. Carhart, L. W. McNatt, L. E. Brown, Frank Carlyle and L. W. Needham.

A committee from the club plans to go to Lincoln this week to investigate road improvements. C. E. Wright will head the group.

Sound Planning Is Basis for Loans

The determination of farmers to plan future operations carefully is the principal basis on which Farm Security Administration loans are made, Ray L. Verzal, local supervisor of Wayne and Pierce counties, declared in a recent announcement of eligibility requirements of that agency. There are 164 rehabilitation borrowers of the FSA in this county.

"Our loans are primarily character loans, made only to those who cannot obtain credit elsewhere," he said. "These loans must have character and ability behind them in exactly the same manner as those made in the past through private lending agencies."

Complete rehabilitation of a farm family, after many years of drought and depression may require from three to 10 years of sincere effort and careful planning, the supervisor pointed out. The loan itself is secondary to such planning, he said.

"The attitude of the family in its relations with the Farm Security Administration is one of the most important parts of the loan," the supervisor continued. "There must be a sincere desire to cooperate with the FSA and there must be a determination on the part of the family to improve its own condition."

In order to be eligible for a loan the applicant farm family should: Understand what caused its need for rehabilitation; realize the necessity for careful planning of future operations; be convinced that progress can be made by following the plan and by keeping farm and home records; realize that property mortgaged to the FSA must be accultured for.

The rehabilitation loan program has been in operation in Wayne and Pierce counties for the past four years. In that time, according to Mr. Verzal, there has been $163,107.48 loaned to farmers who only needed a little financial help to work their way back to a self supporting basis.

Influence of Weather on Markets.

One factor which is being more and more generally recognized as an important one in maintaining the healthy condition of live stock markets this winter is weather. Sellers, buyers, market commentators and feeders themselves have been racking their brains in their efforts to recall another winter season as free from severe weather and bad storms as this has been foretold, and so far they have been forced to give the current season the palm.

There's still time for the 1938-39 winter period to mar the near-perfect record it has made but up to the present time gains have been uniformly the best, feeder demand has been the broadest, and absence of selling pressure the least marked of any year that the majority of operators can remember.

This has bolstered prices in two ways—first by the orderly movement of stock to market and, second, through the competition of feeders buyers for stock which would be going to the packers in a winter when there was a normal number of storms and cold periods and selling prices were less profitable and attractive.

There is just one note of warning in the situation. The very fact that there has been no selling pressure, and that gains have been so much more rapid than usual probably is piling up a larger percentage of the season's supply of meat animals to come to market during the spring, summer and fall. This, of course, does not necessarily mean that there will be too much meat or that prices will be less attractive than they are now, especially if consuming demand displays the breadth that most of the forecasters have predicted for it, but it should caution feeders and market men alike against taking too optimistic and bullish a view of the future.

The very fact that prices of all meat animals except hogs are considerably higher now than they were at this time in 1938 argues against any such price rises as were seen during the last half of the past year. Add to that the probability that supplies of meat animals the latter part of the season will be larger, and also better in quality, than they were the year before and it becomes quite apparent why many market men are advising their customers conservatively regarding the future, and recommending that stock be sold as it becomes ready. The Townsend Indorsement.

(Omaha World-Herald.)

"A considerable number of the citizens and taxpayers of Nebraska," says a resolution being considered for introduction in the legislature, "have an abiding conviction" that the nation should adopt an economic policy based on principles of the Townsend plan.

This is a resolution which Senators Jay Hastings of Osceola and Lester Dunn of Lincoln have drafted. They are feeling out other members to learn whether the resolution can safely be presented.

Petitions and memorials to congress are an ancient tradition in Nebraska — so ancient, indeed, that in territorial days they constituted about the only effective business which a legislature wholly dependent upon the federal government found to do. Congress was prayed for and prayed for that and down through the years our legislatures have been following the time-honored practice of advising congress what to do. Generally this was safe politics because a legislator could thus do certain constituents a favor without assuming actual responsibility.

We hope the 1939 legislature, which has shown signs of rising above the level of its predecessors, won't stoop to this practice. To indorse the Townsend plan for congressional consideration at a time when we as a state have rejected similar principles by turning down guaranteed pensions would reach the peak of insincerity. This year's legislators should cherish their reputation for integrity more dearly than to throw it away with such an obvious capitulation to a pressure group.

The greatest fault in the proposed Townsend indorsement, of course, is that the proposition states simply isn't true. "A considerable number" of Nebraskans just do not favor the principles of universal pensions, that's all—and they demonstrated the fact by rejecting two candidates for governor who did.

Retirement Bill Is Introduced to Promote Security

Last week a bill providing for teacher retirement was introduced into the state legislature...

According to the proposed law for Nebraska any teacher or person legally employed in teaching...

The teacher's investment would be five per cent of her salary deducted from each regular pay check...

cost the state $80,000 a year. This estimate appears to be sufficient because so few teachers in Nebraska continue in service until retirement age.

To the teacher this plan offers some security through systematic and careful investment. The amount of annuity would vary and depend upon length of service and the amount of the teacher's salary.

At present 28 states have state-wide teacher retirement systems. Many such plans are in force in individual school systems throughout the United States.

More detailed information may be obtained by any citizen or taxpayer by writing to the office of the Nebraska State Teachers association...

Opportunity for Women in Careers Marks Democracy

What is happening to the educated woman's opportunity for employment? A recent study in various countries shows that in general vocational opportunities are decreasing because of two factors: First, unemployment in democratic countries, which is the result of economic chaos; and second, propaganda regarding women's position in the totalitarian or fascist states.

Another travel book is "Listen, the Wind," by Anne Morrison Lindberg. This is the story of the flight of the Lindbergs across the Atlantic ocean from Africa to Brazil in December, 1933.

French women seem to have fewer vocational difficulties than those of other nations. This situation is the result of two factors: First, French women proved their ability in various positions of responsibility during the World War; and second, French women seldom take advanced training unless they are equipping themselves for some definite profession.

The challenge in this country is to be alive to the dangers which threaten democratic principles if fascist propaganda is allowed to influence vocational opportunities available to young people who train for careers.

Millerboro Is Added to List of Ghost Towns

Another name in northeast Nebraska has been added to the list of ghost towns. For the first time in 68 years Millerboro post office is vacant.

Millerboro, between Royal and Creighton, was the home of a pioneer, Dr. Jacob Miller, who was instrumental in bringing a colony of 50 soldiers and their families from Iowa to the new country.

The little community had its church with cemetery nearby. One of the earliest deaths was a tragedy. Willie Bonge, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bonge, froze to death when he became lost in an early day snow storm while returning home from Millerboro where had gone for the mail.

When rural routes were established about 40 years ago the importance of Millerboro began to decline. Each year, however, until the present someone has rented the Miller house and kept up the place which meant so much to the pioneer group.

Now the trees which were planted 68 years ago have grown so tall that they almost conceal the Miller home, giving the appearance that their sheltering arms are guarding the place which holds such importance within the memory of many.

Even necessary taxes become punitive if the demand for revenue exceeds the ability of the taxed to pay.

Life After Forty. (Industrial Press Service) A survey has been made among the industries of America on the question of whether older employees are being replaced by younger men.

This should serve to refute the claims of labor agitators that employers have no use for a man after he has passed the 40 mark. Also, it should bolster the self-confidence of older men who have the notion they are passing the age of usefulness.

DOES NOT PAY. It doesn't pay to boast even if one doesn't exaggerate. It is positively dangerous with like-ly humiliation an overtaking rebuke, to brag on false ground.

Proposed (Continued from Page One.) ditions grow prosperous, people turn their backs on public jobs. They can do better in private industry or in their own businesses, and they feel a sense of freedom from the critical eyes and often unjust requirements of constituents.

When Relief Needs Press. Congressman Heinke darts to question why relief needs rise so high just before an election. He will doubtless join others in safeguarding against recurrence of acute forms of distress during the time the clarion call of party leaders is heard in the land.

Second Edition to Be Published The Superintendent's Handbook, a compact vest-pocket file for local educational and financial statistics and for comparative data that a school man so often wishes to have at his finger tips, is being printed in a second edition by Scott, Foresman and Co., according to Supt. HOME PROBLEMS. While reasonable preparedness for defense is generally advised, there is believed no need for great haste to get ready for a war that may never come.

What has the University Christian Mission accomplished? The University Christian Mission to sixteen universities and colleges has met with a success far beyond the highest hopes of the four national Christian groups who cooperatively planned it.

What were the results? 1. Students and professors cordially welcomed the message of religion, "when it came unitedly with a non-sectarian message."

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by WELDON F. CROSSLAND Rochester, New York

Was President Roosevelt correct in stating that religion is the chief source of freedom and goodwill among men?

Yes. Few statements of any American leader have been more profoundly true.

In his message to congress the president said: "Religion, by teaching man his relationship to God, gives the individual a sense of his own dignity and teaches him to respect himself by respecting his neighbors."

Religion exalts the value and importance of the individual. Akin to God in thought and purpose, man climaxes God's creation. The sacredness of human personality always ranks as a chief tenet of the Christian and Jewish faiths.

Religion teaches man his rights and duties. These inherent and inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, are balanced by the sacred duty of goodwill and service to one's fellow man. Liberty and obligation unite in a high partnership of achievement.

Religion in America has been the chief creator and preserver of liberty. Founded by the Pilgrims whom religious faiths had made self-reliant and free, America will remain free only if she continues at heart religious.

What will the Temple of Religion at the World's Fair be like? The Temple of Religion, an imposing edifice made possible by the gifts of Jews, Roman Catholics and Protestants, will symbolize man's worship of God.

Services and addresses by religious leaders of all communions will be heard, while lectures, book displays, conferences and the colorful appeal of drama and pageantry, will feature America's varied religious life.

Religion has played an important role in America's great past in founding universities, establishing hospitals and homes, conducting schools and providing moral leadership.

Religion must take a prominent part in the future of America in building goodwill and in creating a desire to achieve the common good, if the coming decades are to be bright.

The Temple of Religion will be the Mecca of Man's Soul at the World's Fair.

What were the results? 1. Students and professors cordially welcomed the message of religion.

Whether WPA will become permanent or not is problematical. When the administration lost its fight to blanket into the civil service about 37,000 WPA supervisors, leading members on both sides felt that the house action pointed toward some changes in relief administration.

4. Religious ideas and ideals were clarified and Christian organizations serving the students were strengthened.

5. Christian leaders have found an effective technique for presenting to students and faculty the claims and ideals of religion.

What is a white lie? Our wise friend, Noah Webster, defines a white lie as "A lie that is not intended to deceive, or that is intended to deceive only in a matter of slight importance; an unimportant or inconsequential lie."

A white lie weakens one's own sense of integrity. One loses the self-confidence truth gives.

One's reputation for integrity suffers when the white lie enters business or personal relations. I know a brilliant young man with splendid talents, who is falling in business because everyone has come to distrust his word.

Life becomes uncertain and insecure when any falsehood is used. "Always tell the truth; then you'll not have to remember what you said."

Miss Marion Robinson, granddaughter of Mrs. Effie Lund of Wayne, has accepted a nursing position in the largest hospital in Hollywood, Calif., and has also been offered a position as stewardess on the U. P. airlines.

Malthusian Theory Debunked. (Omaha Journal-Stockman.) It was just a hundred years ago that Thomas Malthus made this dire prediction: "I'm glad I will not be alive in the 1930 decade! I mean it. It will be impossible to raise enough food to feed the people who will be living at that time. One-half the population will, perforce, starve. I'm glad I will not be alive."

But in "Ye goode olde dayes" of 1773, when our hardy forebears were tossing tea into the Boston harbor and the male population returned from food forages laden with wild turkey, deer, bear, pheasant and all kinds of game, it is worthy of note that 56 per cent of the patriot income went for food and 8 per cent for luxuries.

The difference represents what we call wealth. The smaller the proportion of our people required to produce the prime necessities, the greater the proportion free to devote their time to the production of comforts and luxuries, making up what is commonly referred to as the standard of living.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt looked in fine health at the reception. They shook hands with a thousand people. The wife of the president looked a lot heavier than a year ago and the president was in a humorous mood and joked with a lot of people who passed down the line to shake hands with him.

The new WPA deficiency bill carrying 725 million dollars for five months relief work does not carry any money for FSA grants. These are being made out of 1938 appropriation of $175,000,000, and a new appropriation for that bill is presented to the house.

The relief deficiency bill carrying $725,000,000 to keep the WPA going for another five months passed the house with only a few votes cast against it. The president asked for $875,000,000, but the committee after exhaustive hearings decided against it.

Ickes Makes a Botch. (Norfolk Daily News.) The popular impression that when Honest Harold Ickes makes a speech he starts his vocabulary going and then lets it flow without much attention to good taste or facts, is supported by the address the secretary made the other evening on the Town Hall program.

Mr. Ickes was debating with Publisher Frank Gammett on freedom of the press. He was trying to back up his thesis that newspapers are controlled by their advertisers and he made an unusually bad botch of it. He started with some misstatements as to control of some of Mr. Gammett's own newspapers as to which he had to be corrected.

Perhaps his most astounding misstatement was his charge that newspapers had refused to publish the results of a study made by Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins university as to the effects of nicotine on the human body. He left the implication that the press was censored by its richest advertisers.

The charge brought a statement from Dr. Pearl himself that "so far from not having been given publicity, the matter has been printed in every city-wide newspaper in the country and the clippings have been delivered to me by the post."

Mr. Ickes then charged that after an accident involving a truck belonging to a large Boston department store, only The Transcript of that city published an account of it.

This brought an answer from the Boston Herald which referred him to its files as proof that both the Herald, in its morning and Sunday editions, and its evening edition The Traveler, printed full accounts of the accident "with names and pictures of all participants."

Going on from falsehood to falsehood, the secretary charged that the New York Herald-Tribune refused to print an advertisement of George Seligson's book "Lords of the Press," in which some of the mis-statements made by Mr. Ickes were originally published. The Herald-Tribune denies that it ever refused any advertisement of this book. The secretary also said the Herald-Tribune had censored and discontinued an advertisement of the book, "America's Sixty Families." The paper replies by showing that it printed the original advertisement "only to discover that it was libelous."

"Subsequently," the paper's statement says, "we printed a retraction of the libelous material signed by the book's author and continued to carry their advertisement minus this material."

These samples show the unfamiliarity of Secretary Ickes with the truth. The obvious comment is that when the administration picks some one to carry on its campaign to discredit the press it should select some one skillful enough to select misstatements which are not so easily disproved.

An Impartial Court. (Lincoln Journal.) Any doubt as to the impartiality of the members of the supreme court was dispelled Friday when it handed down a decision denying the Nebraska conference of Congregational churches possession of church property at Butte, where the congregation has dwindled to such small proportions as to make impossible any further use of the buildings, which the remaining members proposed to sell. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Simmons, a Congregational church member, and it was concurred in by two other Congregationalists, Justices Carter and Eberly.

Project Club Meets. The Serve-All project club met Tuesday, January 24, with Mrs. Arthur Longe for a cooperative formal dinner. In the afternoon a short business meeting was held and the lesson presented. The next meeting will be March 21, with Mrs. Clare Buskirk.

How Colorado Manages.

A former Nebraskan now professionally engaged in Colorado writes interestingly concerning state finances there. Colorado is said to face a $10,000,000 shortage in its budget. Concerning this statement he says: "One must bear in mind that this state has many independent funds. Practically all of these funds have substantial balances. One of the proposals is to divert a portion of each of these balances. However, there is considerable opposition to this. I doubt if it will be done. There is a general fund from which operating expenses are paid. The impression we receive is that this fund is in the red. The extent of this deficit depends upon the source of the report. I anticipate that Colorado will not be much worse off than California, Florida and other states that are facing a severe relief situation."

"Besides relief Coloradoans must deal with the old age pension problem. The people voted an amendment to the constitution in 1936, providing a pension of $45 per month. This amendment set up certain percentages from excise, liquor and other taxes to aid in the payment. To date these pensions have been paid at the rate of $30 per month, not $45 per month. This raises a technical question. Are these unpaid pensions accumulating a deficit to be paid at some future date? One group of citizens holds that they are a deficit. Another group holds that since the amendment, set apart certain definite funds with which to pay, the failure to meet the demands made by pensioners, if the segregated funds are paid as directed, will limit the state's obligations."

The writer says: "Colorado does not face a deficit as to old age pensions. If my position is sustained the deficit of the state may be between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. I believe Colorado can pay to its old age pensioners about $30 per month and still continue to meet its other obligations without undue hardship. All governing agencies, local, state and national, face very serious budgeting problems so long as the relief load is as heavy as at present. The energy of the federal government should be devoted to promotion of business, so that our machinery may again operate normally."

It seems evident that if the shortage in the payments of old age pensions continues for long Colorado faces some litigation to determine the meaning of the constitutional amendment adopted in 1936. It is becoming evident that not all hastily drawn legislation, to which too little consideration was given as to how obligations created were to be met, was enacted by congress. If the scarcity of bills before the Nebraska senate means that careful study is being given to such as are released, it is a hopeful sign.

Thursday evening of that week the boys will have a party for the dads at the training school which will include a program.

Systematize Farm Records in County

Many farmers during 1938 made plans to systematize their farming operations, improve standards of living and adjust their debts. This statement by Ray L. Verzal, local representative of the Farm Security Administration, sums up a survey of 62 borrowers from that agency in Wayne county. Basing his figures on a review of 1938 operations Mr. Verzal finds that the standard borrowers showed an average increase in net worth of $384.42. As a result of FSA loans, 121 new cattle, 645 hogs, 87 sheep and 1,599 poultry were brought into the county.

Reuter Sale Successful. George Reuter's sale Wednesday attracted a good crowd and the offering brought most satisfactory prices.

Mr. and Mrs. Doc Surber and daughter of Corpus Christi, Texas, arrived Wednesday to spend a few days visiting Mr. Surber's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Surber.

World Events

President Roosevelt has proposed a federal state program to improve the nation's health, the cost estimated at $50 million.

Midnight earthquakes Tuesday shook a 400-mile strip of Chile's coast. It is reported that 2,000 were killed.

The giant Bermuda-bound British Airways craft, which set out from New York Saturday, was forced down in stormy seas and three men were lost. One of those lost was Donald Miller of Lincoln, president of Miller & Paine store. Ten were rescued, Mrs. Miller being in this group.

Haunting Hot Spots.

(Lincoln Journal.) If women are to keep on frequenting night clubs and honky-tonks where smokers are numerous and careless, the manufacturer of evening gowns will be forced to fireproof all fabrics. The number of accidents involving women whose fluffy gowns have been ignited by carelessly tossed matches or carelessly held cigarettes has increased greatly in recent months. A fireproof gown would be a real asset to a woman who haunts the hot spots.

Pension Promiser.

(Norfolk Daily News.) Of all the newly elected governors, the public perhaps received the most uncomplimentary impression of W. O. Daniel of Texas, whose bill-billy band stunt and his other radio campaign tactics created the impression of a mountebank candidate with nothing in his favor except his ability to appeal to the thoughtless. After his inauguration the other day the Texas Weekly gave another impression of him. "Within the period of a little more than an hour required for its (the inaugural address) delivery, Governor O'Daniel completely dispelled the myth which pictured him as a radio crooner clowning the role of a statesman and forever dissociated himself in the minds of the members of legislature from old-age pension racketeering and demagoguery," says the Weekly.

The governor's address seems to mark him as a sane and soundly grounded official, with no indication to rise up and plague him. He had to make good his promise of a fixed pension of $30 for the old folk and even his staunch supporters knew he had put himself in the hole when he promised that.

Despite the safe and sane tenor of most of his address, he was not able to pull himself completely out of the hole. He recommended a 1.6 per cent "transactions tax" which even his supporters are unwilling to accept as a solution of the old age pension problem. The legislature is trying his plan to pieces and how far the governor will get in carrying out his rash promise to the pensioners isn't apparent yet.

Governor O'Daniel is meeting with the difficulty that faces many successful candidates who made rash promises and then feel conscientiously bound to carry them out. He frankly proposed "a tax that is broader enough that all our citizens will have a part in the payment and that they will realize the money to meet these obligations does not come from Santa Claus." But such a tax is not usually popular with legislators who have to meet the taxpayers at the next election.

The other states, which are also bedeviled by the old age pension pressure groups, will look with interest on Governor O'Daniel's efforts to carry out his liberal campaign promises. In Nebraska we turned a gold shoulder to the pensioners, but probably we will do as well by our old folk as they will do in other states where candidates promised them the moon.

Possible Only in America.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman.) A famous American doctor declares that most of our ills are the result of too much eating. He is undoubtedly right but it is rather significant that this poor old democracy is the only country where such a thing is possible. In all the totalitarian nations the big problem of the people is to get enough food to hold body and soul together.

Strike Is Settled.

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 25.—Settlement of the 119-day strike of the C.I.O. packing house union at the Sioux City plant of Swift & Co., was announced this morning by representatives of the company and the union. The settlement provides that all but sixty-five of the striking union members shall return to work as soon as production arrangements can be made by plant officials. The sixty-five men and women who will not return to work are those designated by the company as leaders in the original sitdown strike September 29.

Hospitality in South Is Much Like That Here

An Englishman's impression of the south is not so different from that of a northerner. Miss Kathleen Staines, exchange instructor from England at the Wayne State Teachers college, and Dr. Kathryn Haganir spent Christmas vacation in the southern states—much of the time staying at New Orleans. Miss Staines liked the southern people and felt quite at home with them. The people differed from the northerners in that they were slower in speech and movements. She was impressed by the soft, southern drawl. In England one finds slight climatic changes in the different parts of the country and also different accents exist.

Miss Staines was particularly thrilled at seeing the Atlantic ocean again. She and Dr. Haganir traveled north following the ocean for several miles. In England Miss Staines has never lived more than 20 miles from the sea and she lives just a mile from a river.

Very picturesque to the two travelers were the fruit stalls along the highways in Florida where one could buy oranges, grapefruit, jelly and sacks of pecans.

The English instructor was also impressed and interested in vegetation—orange groves and the abundance of flowers. In England nearly all people have gardens around their homes, which is also typical in the south.

Negroes and their habits of living were also of interest to Miss Staines. Very few negroes are in England and none are of the laboring class, most of those being there to study in English universities. The living conditions of the negroes were quite appalling to the English woman.

Hotels in the south were good and roads were excellent. The Bach tower was very impressive and the flamingos there were quite exciting to the instructors.

The cotton fields were not pretty at this time of year as they were brown.

Dr. Haganir and Miss Staines returned January 5 after an interesting two weeks enjoying southern hospitality. Miss Staines reports, however, that the northern hospitality is just as nice.

Tietgen Hatchery Enlarges Capacity

The total capacity of the Tietgen hatchery in Wayne has been increased this season to 56,000 eggs in all incubators and hatchers. Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tietgen last season operated with two Buckeye all-electric incubating units and separate hatchers, having a capacity of 38,000 eggs. This season they have added a new Mammoth all-electric Bundy incubating unit and separate hatchers with capacity of 18,000 eggs, bringing the total to 56,000.

The broader room in the hatchery has been enlarged to accommodate the growing demand for started chicks. The hatchery has also added the speed vaccinated by the Meyer electric shop, this being restorated for office and show room.

Flocks from which Tietgens secure hatching eggs have all been culled according to the standard of perfection and tested for B.W.D. Certificates for the test are given to the flock owners to verify this service. Matings are all made under personal supervision of Mr. Tietgen.

Validity of Will Heard in Court

Lincoln.—The Supreme court heard arguments on the validity of the will executed by Friedrich Bose, Dixon county farmer, when he was 96, who lived to be 100 years and 26 days old. The day he executed his will he bequeathed his son, Fred, 180 acres of his 320-acre holdings.

Bose had outlived four of his six children, although he left 102 grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. His will was contested successfully by Mrs. C. F. Knutzen, his daughter. The sole issue was his competency to make the will. The trial court held it invalid because he was incompetent and found that the will was drawn in English, a language he did not understand, and was not interpreted to him in German.

Bankers Promote Restocking Plan

Executive committee of the Nebraska Bankers' association, at a meeting in Lincoln last week, agreed unanimously to launch a program to restore live stock in Nebraska. It was agreed to urge all 450 banks in the state to make "full value" loans to farmers to buy brood sows, heifers, ewes, and chickens. The committee also decided to take a vote of its members on a proposal to pool bank funds for financing live stock rehabilitation in areas where banks may not have sufficient reserve to enter the program.

The action followed after Emil Plack of Wallace, showed that the traditional "mortgage-lifter," the Nebraska hog, has declined in numbers from five million to one and a half million. Similar situation exists in other stock.
