

Spend Three Weeks Mostly Golfing, Municipally Sighting - Municipal Election Month Hence - Liquor Excesses - World in a Fever.

After an absence of nearly three weeks, three Wayne travelers, L. W. McNatt, W. C. Coryell and Carl Wright, arrived home Friday from their trip to Texas.

At Houston which they visited occasionally, they found a flourishing city of 350,000. Building operations there during last year involved investments of $25,000,000, and those for this year are expected to reach a total of $30,000,000.

This is not the season for advantageous sea fishing, so we are informed. There are plenty of boats and equipment to use for the purpose, but owners do not encourage fishing that is certain to be unrewarded.

The travelers say the Texas governor who bullied himself into office, is now having a hectic time trying to pacify often aroused southern feelings.

Despite a snow storm in Kansas and rain beyond, the trip of over 800 miles south was made in one day. They traveled more leisurely on their return.

For School and City. The municipal election is little more than a month off.

The life of George Washington inspires every American boy to pledge undying devotion to this country which, above all riches, possesses the priceless heritage of the name and the fame and the memory of such a man as Washington.

Liquor excesses are doubtless responsible not only for increased automobile accidents, but for disordered states of mind that menace and often seriously disturb peaceful processes.

The world is still in a fever of anxiety. Totalitarian countries are becoming more threatening, and democracies are hastening forces of resistance.

Cooperation cannot go the whole length with the other fellow. It must be a compromise of differences and then a united forward pull for mutual advantage.

Work to Start Soon on Lines In This County

To Stake Section Corners in Rural Power Project Coming Week.

Actual field work for the Wayne county rural public power district will commence some time next week if weather permits.

Crews will stake out lines as soon as the section corners are located. It is planned to have approximately 75 miles of line staked out by the time the contractor commences construction work.

Contract for the 158 miles, serving 386 customers, is to be let March 2. Allotment for the lines, which will serve Wayne county and parts of Thurston, Cedar, Dixon and Cuming counties is $197,000.

Rates on REA projects are based on costs. They must be high enough to cover expenses and low enough to encourage use of electricity.

For most families a refrigerator could be operated at $2.15 per month. Lighting the laying house for 100 hens is estimated at 15c a month; use of a milk cooler, 75c; electric range, $3 per month.

Speaks to Club On Washington

H. E. Siman Shows That Life Of Great American Is An Inspiration.

The life of George Washington inspires every American boy to pledge undying devotion to this country which, above all riches, possesses the priceless heritage of the name and the fame and the memory of such a man as Washington.

Washington, whose birthday is observed February 22, justly gained and has always retained the splendid and significant sobriquet, "the father of his country and of American independence."

Most Americans know four things about Washington, that Washington only swore once and that was at the battle of Monmouth, that he prayed so loud in the snows at Valley Forge that he disturbed passers-by and that he was austere with marked Puritanical tendencies.

Honor to Church In Reaching Quota

Methodist Congregation Is One of Earliest to Fill Obligation.

A certificate of honor for having fulfilled its quota in the Million Unit Fellowship Movement has been awarded the Wayne Methodist Episcopal church, according to the Rev. Carl G. Bader. The local church is one of 928 churches, or about 5 per cent of the denomination's 20,000 congregations in the United States, who already have reached their goals.

Quotas for the individual churches were set when the movement, now in its third year, was inaugurated and were based on a communion-wide goal of 500,000 "units"—persons who will subscribe one dollar a month as well as undertake the spiritual obligations of the fellowship.

With the strengthening and deepening of the spiritual life of the church as its chief objective, the Million Unit Fellowship Movement is also endeavoring to secure a better underwriting of its missions and benevolences, known collectively as World Service. Thus far, the movement has added about three quarters of a million dollars to the church income for missions and benevolences.

American Flag Is Inspiration

Rev. J. A. Whitman Stresses Precious Heritage of This Country.

Rev. James E. Whitman, Baptist minister of the Wayne Men's club and for the presentation of the flag to Terrace hall by the local American Legion post.

"The most unpopular thing in the world is revolution," began Rev. Whitman. "Nations of the world stare aghast when a people rise up against an existing government; yet, every democratic power in the world today exists because some group of early patriots, who loved freedom and justice, offered their lives on the altar of sacrifice that their ideals and ambitions might be passed on to future generations. Out of every successful revolution comes forth a new flag, the symbol to the world of the principles for which the country fought."

"A few thousand soldiers stood waiting near Yorktown as their general advanced to parley with the British commander. After some minutes of conversation Washington gave a sign to the color bearer. A hush fell over the field as the British flag came down. Then as the stars and stripes were hoisted and every man stood at salute, the weary expressions disappeared from the faces of the victors. Tears marked crooked streaks through the dust of wrinkled cheeks and hardly had the flag been placed when cheers arose like unto the roar of mighty waves as they beat upon the rocks, then retired for a moment only to thunder again mightier than before."

"These men had seen comrades fall in the first skirmish on the streets of Boston; they had defended every inch of the road to Lexington; they had made weary marches up and down the states, maneuvering and retreating often, but always leaving their track marked by an ever increasing number of grave stones; they had trudged through heavy snow and bitter cold with bare toes protruding from worn boots and with barely enough food to keep body and soul together; but on and on they went. Why?"

Dogged Determination.

"Two things kept them holding on. The first was their dogged determination that the cause for which they fought should not be lost. The second was the spirit of the man who led the little army. Washington! He seemed possessed with a double measure of the same idealism of his men and backed it up with an iron will. 'The Colonies Dare Not Lose.' Justice and liberty through hardship and war had added another partner to the cause of free men; fraternity now knit their hopes and fears together with ties that should never be broken. Such was the birth of a nation."

"Today we pay tribute to Old Glory and also to the father of our country, George Washington. Let the prattler brag, let the ism-monger shout his ideas, let the political critic criticize! While the feverish nationalist threatens, the internationalist talks but does nothing, and the pacifist cravenly tries to strike fear of death in the minds of his companions."

"Let the flag enter. Then all true Americans stand in reverence, not to worship the flag of old, but to honor the god of war, but in humble tribute to the things for which the flag stands, all of which have been dearly bought with patriots' blood. There she stands in her rich red, pure white and deep blue. Wherever she flies people are not denied the God-given rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Lessons from Abroad.

"Three boys sat on the state-house steps across from Boston common. A Beacon street journal was bewailing his miserable lot for having to go to school while his parents basked in Florida. Just in front of them stood the great bronze relief showing 'The Return of the Patriots,' with the price on paint that we have on Certain-teed.

A woman tried our rubless liquid wax last week and since then she has purchased two cans. It must be good to have them repair their orders like that."

Dr. Slicem: "Now don't worry about how they repair their orders. You'll have a different woman when she gets back from the hospital."

Chubbywit: "But what if she finds it out, Doc?"

Once again let us remind you that there is no better paint and no better

"Walter, two orders of Spumoni."

Carhart Lumber Co. Phone 147 Wayne

clear title standing out above, 'For Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness.' After the American boy had finished his fault-finding, one of the other boys, son of a Russian immigrant, spoke up, 'You Americans don't appreciate your rights. You haven't had your father shot for raising the wrong grain on his land; you haven't been forced to work in a factory in order to meet the government quota; you haven't had your play and sports hours limited for you and a prison sentence pronounced upon you for taking part in a sport not assigned to you.' The other boy, a German lad, interrupted, 'Nor you haven't had your father killed by a mob because he criticized the policies of the government; nor you haven't had your brother placed in a concentration camp jail without trial; nor you haven't had the windows in your home broken because your grandmother was a Jewess; nor you haven't been kicked out of school because you have Jewish blood in your veins.' 'Gee, my dad's part Jew,' said the Boston boy. 'Suppose they started doing things that way over here.' The above story well illustrates the difference between state-controlled socialism and democracy.

The American Way.

"Never in the history of our fair land has the value of the American way been so clearly defined as today, and as we look at the flag, the precious treasures of citizenship for which it stands become worth more than life itself. For them we would give, yea even die if need be, that they might be the heritage of our posterity."

"Let the weakling shrink from duty, and the traitor condemn his homeland, but true patriots will hold their citizenship as a God-given estate. Shifts of emphasis may come in America. Needs of groups may be over or under estimated but the same ideals for which the flag stands and for which Washington fought will lead us on, ever and ever toward the family true Utopia, 'A Just Land for Free Men.'"

"To the man Washington, whose iron will and wise statesmanship made America possible, and to the flag, a symbol of not only the ideals of the men of '76, but also of all those blessings held dear by all Americans, 'We salute you. You challenge us to better citizenship.'"

The scholastic, or quality point, average is computed on the basis of three quality points for each hour of work in which a grade of A is earned, two quality points per hour for a grade of B and one quality point for each hour with a grade of C. ### THE KNOT-HOLE

Vol. 6 Wayne, Neb., Thur., Feb. 23, 1939. No. 41

With this cold weather hanging on like it has been we are at coal bins. Remember, Blackhawk is your best bet and it costs only $9.75 per ton.

Dr. Slicem: "Now don't worry about how they repair their orders. You'll have a different woman when she gets back from the hospital."

Chubbywit: "But what if she finds it out, Doc?"

Once again let us remind you that there is no better paint and no better price on paint than we have on Certain-teed.

A woman tried our rubless liquid wax last week and since then she has purchased two cans. It must be good to have them repair their orders like that."

No one knows better than the man who owns his own home how much nicer and cheaper it is than rent. We will make the loan if you will come in and tell us what you want.

Walter, two orders of Spumoni.

Settle Large Estate. Hartington, Neb.—The settlement of one of the largest estates in Cedar county history hangs fire in Cedar county court, according to Judge E. W. Hesse, who presided during the preliminary probate of a $210,000 estate of a Rock Island, Ill., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Hearsh, both deceased. The case involves more than 5,000 acres of Cedar and Knox county farm land. More unusual than the size of the estate is the fact that neither the husband nor wife had resided here, the land having been purchased many years ago through speculation.

Inheritance taxes from the settlement will amount to more than $10,000 and will go into Cedar and Knox county road and school funds.

Mr. Hearsh preceded in death his wife, Mrs. Harriet Hearsh, who passed away in November, 1937. The probate was originally filed in February, 1938. D. C. and J. W. Linkhart, both of Coleridge, are executors for the state of Nebraska.

HATREDS.
There is usually little ground for hatreds. Motives are misunderstood and misinterpreted.

The sharpening of the weather at this time is necessary if we are to have any winter to contrast with the mild elements of the south and southwest.

The often expressed idea that multiplicity of machines has contributed to economic ills is refuted by the record which shows that unemployment is highest in the least mechanized occupations.

A new high of $8.10 per hundred for hogs was reached on the Omaha market the first of the week, attributed by the Omaha Journal-Stockman to colder weather and to stimulated business and industry.

Youth is important in seeing and grabbing opportunities, and in putting their vigorous shoulders to wheels of progress. Oldsters may help with their steady advice if they do not hinder by turning knockers and obstructionists.

Communists Active.
(Lincoln Journal)
Lincoln members of the communist party are utilizing the privilege of open shelves at the city library to pursue another of their boring practices.

Prairie Schooner Humor.
(Lexington, Neb., Clipper)
When prairie schooners were crossing Nebraska in great numbers they often bore signs telling of the fortunes—or more often of the misfortunes—of the traveler.

I bid Kansas farewell;
Never mind what I may do;
I may emigrate to hell,
But never back to you!

Tell me not in mournful numbers
That Nebraska went and died,
For the man who thinks so slumbers
And his brain is petrified.

The signs, of course, passed with the passing times. Today, the emigrant wagons are gone, and certainly the land is not so forbidding as it once was.

The Local Newspaper.
(American Newspaper Publisher)
A recent bulletin carries word of the newspaper advertising views of Safeway Stores, Inc., a large western food chain.

In brief, the Safeway company believes that newspapers of regular publication, large and small, perform an important public service, and that advertising revenue is essential to keeping the price charged the subscriber, low enough to bring the paper within the financial reach of every possible family.

The company believes that when the so-called free circulation newspaper attempts to lure advertisers, using a lower rate as bait, "it is the beginning of a vicious circle—first, depleting the established publication; next, through bankruptcy, depriving the community of such news service; encouraging the free distribution paper into becoming a paid circulation and news distributing publication, followed by additional free circulation papers and thus completing the cycle."

Finally, the Safeway company instructs its division managers to avoid using handbills and free distribution papers except when absolutely necessary, and then to use the job shops of local regular newspapers where possible.

Here is a logical and progressive policy. The local newspaper fills a vital place in the American scene. It is more than a business—it is a record of the times in which we live. Through news and comment it brings to its readers knowledge of what is going on at home—as well as what is going on in the far flung capitals of the world.

Measured by the rigid yardstick of dollars-and-cents alone, the newspaper advertiser gets his full money's worth—and at the same time makes possible the existence of an irreplaceable institution.

Twelve Elected To Honor Group
Twelve Wayne State Teachers college students were recently elected to Phi Gamma Mu, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Will the Passion Play at Oberammergau be given in 1940?
Two factors, or either of them, might prevent its presentation.

Germany's desire for the income from tourist trade might cause her to relax her attitude in the case of this play which was first given more than 300 years ago in 1633.

If the Nazi party attempted to give the Passion Play a strong Tonic flavor, it would probably not draw the large and appreciative crowds it has in the past.

Is church membership in America increasing or decreasing?
It is increasing, proportionately faster than the population. For the last year the population increase

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by DR. WELDON F. CROSSLAND Rochester, New York

What is the Federal Council of Churches?
The Federal Council, founded in 1908, ranks as the largest and most representative organization of Christian communions in America.

Among the chief objects of the Council are (1) To express the fellowship and catholic unity of the Christian Church; (2) To bring the Christian bodies of America into united service for Christ and the world; and (3) To voice the common judgment and conscience of Protestant Christianity on moral and spiritual matters.

The varied service rendered by the Council is suggested by the names of some of its many departments and commissions: National Religious Radio, Army and Navy Chaplains, Evangelism, Social Service, Race Relations, International Justice and Goodwill, Christian Unity and National Preaching Mission.

Meeting every two years, the Council has "No authority to draw up a common creed or form of government or in any way to limit the full autonomy of the Christian bodies" adhering to it.

Through such united cooperation as that expressed in the Federal Council, the churches of America are steadily drawing together.

Christians devoutly hope that neither of these may arise. A recent letter from the German Information Office to a Rochester travel bureau contains the following: "We are in receipt of your letter of January 31st and regret to state that folders of the 1940 Oberammergau Passion Play have not as yet been received from abroad and are not expected before the end of this year."

Germany's desire for the income from tourist trade might cause her to relax her attitude in the case of this play which was first given more than 300 years ago in 1633.

If the Nazi party attempted to give the Passion Play a strong Tonic flavor, it would probably not draw the large and appreciative crowds it has in the past.

It is increasing, proportionately faster than the population. For the last year the population increase was 0.7% while that of church membership was 1.8%. The latest available figures, most of which are for the year ending October 1, 1938, as compiled by Dr. H. C. Weber, editor of the Yearbook of the American Churches show 1,743 more churches and 828,827 more church members.

While this will be discouraging news for the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, it will be gratifying to the increasing hosts of thoughtful men and women who realize as never before the necessity of religion to liberty and to a rich and stable social life.

What do you think of Omar Khayyam's statement, "I myself am heaven and hell?"

I think Omar's statement is one of those half-truths, which, while poetic and plausible, are misleading and untrue.

Refresh your memory concerning that 71st quatrain of the Rubaiyat, popularized by Fitzgerald's remarkable translation:

"I sent my soul through the invisible, Some letter of the Afterlife to spell, And after many days my soul returned, And said, 'Behold, Myself am Heaven and Hell.'"

Omar often expressed his opinion that there is no life after death. Since he held this assumption, he, of course, could not believe in any reward or punishment after death.

His philosophy is an agnostic materialism, pessimistic in thought and Epicurean in act. He ranks as a pessimistic sensualist, somewhat like Schopenhauer.

Granting that he was a connoisseur in matters relating to "the grape," wine, "women"—yes, and incidentally a book, he had no other consolation for an existence he believed to be without present meaning or future destiny.

Most reasonable people would agree that the laws of nature bring some of the rewards and punishments here on earth. But justice, faith and religion unite to declare that neither life nor reward nor punishment are earthbound as Omar mistakenly declares.

Speaks to Club On Washington

of conviction and determination. Washington was a Virginian, and the Virginians prized above all else their honor and courage. They produced men capable of meeting and solving big problems.
Washington's great grandfather, John Washington, had come from England to Virginia in 1661. Nature gave George Washington a robust body. As a small boy he had a keen sense of justice and was usually referee among his playmates. He had so great a devotion for his mother that her slightest wish was law to him. Young Washington was a skilled surveyor and one of his early tasks was that of surveying estates of Lord Fairfax, a duty which required a rugged physique and accurate mind. So successful was young Washington in his task that he was appointed to official capacity in the Virginia militia at the age of 21. His responsibilities increased as years passed.
Three Epochal Periods.
Three epochal periods mark Washington's life, according to Mr. Siman. First he was commander in chief of the army. He took a conglomerate body of men from 13 different colonies and made out of them an army which was able to meet trained soldiers. He realized that a critical time would follow the war; he led the 13 colonies in organizing a government that would bind them together in peace and harmony. And he became the political leader to guide the country through its most critical period, that of establishing the new nation.
"History records no names more worthy of emulation and my message to you," continued Mr. Siman, "is that we continue in the future as in the past to lead the young boy of America back to the days of Washington; back to the time when that young soldier first drew his sword in defense of his country, depict his conduct upon the dark battle field where Braddock fell, let him trace the wintry march by the blood stained by a bare-footed soldier winding their way over the frozen soil, let every scene of the desperate Revolutionary encounters be made familiar to his mind, let him share in spirit the triumphs of Trenton and Princeton and Yorktown and then let him contemplate the hero and the sage when the battles were over quietly retiring to his own home that he loved so well, refusing all compensation for his services, modestly endeavoring to escape the honors that a grateful people would heap upon him, and after years, at an advanced age, this man, who was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen, again embarking upon the stormy seas of a political life, first to aid his people in forming a constitution that would forever protect their rights, and second by an administration thereof as chief executive that left an example for all chief executives in the future to follow. And as the story shall proceed that boy's eyes will sparkle, his cheeks will tingle, and his heart will beat with a faster pulse, and in his innermost soul he will pledge undying devotion to that country which above all riches possesses the priceless heritage of the name and the fame and the memory of Washington."
Mr. Siman was introduced by Prof. A. V. Teed.
W. C. Coryell spoke briefly of his trip to Texas.
Mr. Hallam of San Antonio, Texas, was a guest of his brother-in-law, P. A. Theobald.

The Chadron folks left Monday morning enroute at Ewing, Clearwater, Neligh and O'Neill looking after interests in the estate of her father, Wm. T. Kusel, who passed away December 24 at Chadron.

Mrs. Christina Brower Underhill of Freewater, Ore., visited the first of the week with Mrs. Grace Cavanaugh. Mrs. Underhill will be remembered by Wayne county people as Mrs. Frank Brower. The Browsers came to Winside when the town was first started. They built the hotel there and operated it for a number of years. Mrs. Francis Brower Paulson of Spokane, Wash., accompanied her mother here. They had been visiting in South Dakota and Iowa since December. Mrs. Underhill and Mrs. Paulson will leave for the west soon.

An attempt on the life of Mussolini in Italy led to the placing of a larger guard about the dictator. Geo. Davis of Kansas City, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, warned livestock men that they should resist government encroachment in their business. Milk prices are now fixed by the government in 21 states and he stated that it is a short step to price fixing for beef and other products which is a mark of totalitarian states of Europe.

Exchanges

Ponca has a new fire truck. Delbert Jones was reelected head of Crofton school. Eliza Pace, 77, resident of Dixon county 17 years, died last week. Kenneth Cartell of Ponca, and Miss Jessie Caskey of Venus, were married February 7.

Three Norfolk firms were low bidders on the new Norfolk auditorium which will be built this year. Beckenhauer brothers have the general contract for $105,300; Elkhorn Electric company, wiring for $7,396; and E. A. Siefert, plumbing and heating for $18,997.50.

An escape attempt from the state reformatory in Lincoln resulted in death for two and injuries for two others on an icy highway in Missouri. The four got out of the reformatory and left in a stolen car when an accident halted their escape. One of those held was Samuel Sutton, 21, of Norfolk.

World Events

Fascists of Italy and Spain have given warning that they would move where their best interests led. The threat was taken as a warning to France and other democracies. Tax revision, a new deal for railroads and utilities, and an overhauling of labor policies are basic elements of a joint business-administration program designed to bring recovery. President Roosevelt has given Secretary Harry Hopkins his okeh on the program.

Only Dictators Want War.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman.) A good many popular beliefs are without foundation. One of these is that war is a great boon to the iron and steel industry as so much of these metals are needed for arms and equipment. Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation says this is not so and declares that "any temporary profits which may come from extreme activity during a conflict are of no lasting benefit to the industry."

He told the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers that this country, in the event of war, would be in desperate need of nonferrous metals used in making steel. This well informed steel and iron magnate asserted this country is either wholly or in part dependent upon foreign sources for chromium, nickel, tin, manganese, cobalt, tungsten, and vanadium, seven of the twelve important nonferrous metals used in making steel.

In the event of war, he predicted, the United States would gladly give all the gold in its Kentucky vaults for desperately needed manganese and chromium. "Although the United States uses 40 per cent of the world's chromium, its own production is "insignificant," he said. Very little manganese is produced here, although this country consumes 20 per cent of the world's output.

"The impression prevails," he said, "that the steel industry looks eagerly to profits from war. That is not true. War brings no genuine prosperity to the industry." As a matter of fact, the more we study past and present wars the more we must be convinced that wars are only advantageous to dictators who would turn everything to their own ends. People of all nations desire only peace and this nation is performing a distinct service to humanity in promoting world peace.

To Return Home Soon. H. E. Radaker, who suffered a broken jaw and other injuries in a car accident near Stanton, plans to return the first of the week to his home at Newman Grove. Mrs. Radaker and children, who have been here at the Gildersleeve home, will return with him.

A Commendable Change. (Omaha Journal-Stockman.) Bureaucracies have been compared to monarchies that "never change and never learn anything." This is not always true in the United States for the simple reason that about every so often the people rise in their majesty and might and set the bureaucrats back in their places.

An exception to the old rule comes from Washington in an announcement to the effect that the Farm Security Administration has changed tactics with regard to impoverished farmers. Instead of moving them and settling them in new environment it has decided to give them help at the old home place. If this decision puts an end to community farms where the government is proprietor, it will be in line with the views of most Americans who prefer the American way of life to the communistic way.

Wallace the Statesman. Sioux City Journal. Whatever his shortcomings may have been in guessing wrong on two triple A solutions of the farm problems, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace of Iowa did not miss as he figured out racial voting strength in the United States. Obviously, this middle western agrarian for band music in 1940 has had satisfied aid in arriving at the conclusion that there are more anti-Nazi than pro-Nazi voters in the United States. Wherefore Mr. Wallace in a Lincoln day address in New York assailed the German theory of race superiority and branded it as "pure scientific fak-

What We Want Is Peace

Former President Hoover. No nation has alone built this civilization. We all live by heritage of every nation and every century. And to save this civilization there must be a changed attitude of men. Our country standing apart can make a contribution of transcendent service in holding aloft the banner of moral relationships.

If we are to hold that banner of morals aloft the people of America should express unhesitatingly their indignation against wrong and persecution. They should extend aid to the suffering. We should not be isolationists in promoting peace by the methods of peace. We should not be isolationists in proposals to join in the most healing of all processes of peace—economic co-operation to restore prosperity.

But surely all reasons, all history, all our own experience show that wrongs cannot be righted and durable peace cannot be imposed on nations by force, threats, economic pressures or war. I want America to stand against that principle if it is the last nation under that banner. I want it to stand there because it is the only hope of preserving liberty on this continent.

That is America's greatest service to mankind. The United States Chamber of Commerce takes a whack at the old saying that the only things certain are death and taxes. Sometimes that is changed to say we can't check death but we can't check death and that we are checking death and are not reducing taxes.

Death and Taxes.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman.) The United States Chamber of Commerce takes a whack at the old saying that the only things certain are death and taxes. Sometimes that is changed to say we can't check death but we can't check death and that we are checking death and are not reducing taxes.

The chamber cites figures to show that in 1900 our national tax rate—the ratio of taxes to national income—was 8 per cent. Now it is more than 22 per cent. Meanwhile, our death rate has gone down from 17.6 persons per 1,000 population in 1900 to 11.2 persons today.

Thus we are doing the impossible and leaving undone the possible. Tax revision, a new deal for railroads and utilities, and an overhauling of labor policies are basic elements of a joint business-administration program designed to bring recovery. President Roosevelt has given Secretary Harry Hopkins his okeh on the program.

Inspiration—that certain something which descends on the writer, telling him what to say at times like these when the deadline approaches.

Thought for a moment last week-end that spring with its usual fever had come to stay, but Sunday brought enough wind and cold to prove to me how very wrong I was.

"Kiss For a Life!" That was the exchange made by Mussolini in greeting the orphan of an Italian soldier killed in the Spanish war.

Raymond Florine of near Wayne, returned home from a local hospital the first of this week after recovering from an operation for appendicitis which he had undergone a week ago Monday.

Lincoln—Assistant Attorney General Kokjer advised John E. Newton, county attorney at Ponca, that a municipality may not contract for purchase of electric current for a city's use without a vote of the electors of the city.

Miss Esther Glaser and Frank Prazwit of Pilger, were married February 15.

The plan is not fundamentally sound, but if it should get some consideration, would that I were 60.

It's rather ironic that two of the prisoners who escaped from the Lincoln reformatory should meet their death in a crash resulting from ice on the highway along which they were speeding to St. Joseph, Mo. Reading that sort of thing almost makes one believe in predestination. Almost.

I hear that C. Bertrand Schultz of the Nebraska museum has announced the finding of fossilized bones of early man—bones 25,000 years old. These are supposedly the first discovered in this state. Maybe so, but at some time or another we've all felt that old.

And now, I'm on my way to "Kentucky."

Mrs. W. F. Dierking, in reporting on "Today's World," told of the conflicting interests of Arabs and Jews and explained how the English are trying to reconcile the two.

THE WAYNE HERALD

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1939.

Removal of County Seat Being Sought

Petitions asking that the Dixon county seat be moved from Ponca to Martinsburg were presented to the board last week. These bore the signatures of 2,610 people, this being 140 more than the required three-fifths voters.

War Referendum Proposal Opposed

Congressman H. B. Coffee is definite in sentiment on big issue. Congressman Harry B. Coffee from Nebraska's fifth congressional district, took a definite stand against the proposal for a war referendum in replying today to the University of Omaha's mid-west poll.

The last of Nebraska representatives to respond to the Omaha university's statewide canvass, Congressman Coffee was the only Nebraska representative in Washington willing to commit himself definitely on the question of whether or not the people should vote before congress may declare a war to be waged on foreign soil.

Declaring that he had voted against the measure during the last session of congress, Congressman Coffee said: "The adoption of this proposal, in my opinion, would enhance rather than diminish the possibilities of war because it would have a tendency to encourage aggressor nations to disrespect our rights with a feeling of impunity."

"After all, the attitude of the people would be reflected by the vote of their representatives in congress who would be better informed and less susceptible to propaganda."

Congressman Charles F. McLaughlin, member from the Second Nebraska district, said he had voted against the referendum bill at the last congress, indicated that he was still opposed to the idea, but qualified his stand by stating that "... this does not at all mean that my mind is closed on the subject."

The three other Nebraska congressmen, George Heinke, First district, Karl Stefan, Third district, and Carl Curtis, Fourth district, declined to take a stand on the issue. Each promised to give the referendum careful consideration should it come before the present congress.

Thirtysix Nebraska and Iowa newspaper editors, who also replied to the University of Omaha's poll, were evenly divided over the referendum issue, with 18 editors voting "yes" on the proposal and 18 voting "no."

Seventeen of the 18 editors favoring the referendum stated they believed their views reflected the sentiments of their readers. One said he didn't know.

Of the 18 editors opposed to the referendum, only four ventured to say their views coincided with their readers' feelings. Five opposed to the referendum said they thought their readers were for it; seven said they had no idea how their readers felt, and one said his readers were probably equally divided on the question.

Nebraska 4-H Club Champions

HAROLD STEVENS, PERKINS COUNTY. WINONA FRANCKE, LANCASTER COUNTY. CLYDE ALTHOUSE, CASS COUNTY. MARGARET MILLER, CHEYENNE COUNTY.

Highest possible honors have come to the above four Nebraska 4-H club members. They will represent the 25,000 club members in the Cornhusker state at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington in June.

Four Nebraska farm young men and women have just received the highest honors that can come to 4-H club members. They will represent the 20,000 rural youths enrolled in 4-H clubs in Nebraska at the national club camp in Washington, D. C. in June. All have achieved outstanding records in 4-H work.

The four Nebraska delegates, Margaret Miller, Cheyenne county; Harold Stevens, Perkins county; Winona Francke, Lancaster county; Clyde Althouse, Cass county.

Margaret Miller, 19, is a real leader in her western Nebraska community. She has been in club work 11 years as an associate and regular member with a total of 19 projects. Popular among her friends, Margaret was the Nebraska girl's room, 4-H champion in 1937. Graduating from Sidney high school in 1936, she took part in many interscholastic and community activities. They include singing in the high school glee club, Sunday school teacher, active in Farmers Union activities and is now honored queen of Job's Daughters Bethel of Sidney. Clyde Althouse of Cass county, is one who does not believe in putting all "his eggs in one basket." In 4-H work since 1928, he has fed baby beaves, produced turkeys, kept farm records on his father's farm, produced hogs and sheep and raised corn. During his 4-H career he has fed 24 baby beaves and raised 1,975 turkeys to maturity. At the close of his 11th year in 4-H he had earned 34 achievement certificates and made approximately $3,200 on his projects, including prizes. As a result today he has a start in the purchased Hereford business and has a flock of breeding turkeys. Last fall Clyde showed the grand champion 4-H fat barrow at the Ak-Sar-Ben which served to climax his 4-H career.

Sixty Years Ago In Northeast Nebraska

What People Were Thinking and Doing in 1879—Thomas Edison Was Then Bucky Popular Incredulity.

Sixty years ago—a time beyond even the imagination of the youngsters of the community, but the oldest oldsters will remember these various items have been taken from the four February issues of the Northern Nebraska Journal published at Ponca, Neb., 1879, by William Huse. They may help recress the memories of some picture or word and local events, and an insight into the spirit and philosophy of that day—a spirit and philosophy not vastly different from that of our own day.

In contrast to present day publications the paper carried nine columns to the page, with advertisements and notices for sheriff's sales, and whatnot on the front page. The reader will notice that an informal style prevails—a striking style because the editor is not one to mince words.

From the issue of February 6: "Stanley, the celebrated traveler in Africa, is about to start on another exploration of that country. He will be absent several years."

"The Department of the Interior has received confirmatory information that Sitting Bull has crossed the Canadian line, and believes there will soon be a large gathering of hostile savages in that section. Immediate hostilities are not feared."

"It was stated from Washington, on the 29th (Jan. 1879), that the government in dealing with Sitting Bull, had decided to require him and his people to surrender as prisoners of war or go back again to Canada."

"Mr. H. W. Preece, the English electrician, said before the British Society of Arts, the other day, that he looked upon the subdivision of the electric light as a practical impossibility. He added that he had visited Mr. Edison in America, and passed two very pleasant days in his laboratory. Mr. Edison, he said 'was an extremely ingenious man, but his ingenuity often carried him to extremes. Not having seen Mr. Edison's light, he could not say very much about it, but he feared he had tumbled into a tremendous mare's nest."

"A certain F.A.P. took a trip 'Up the River' to Niobrara, the metropolis of the northwest at that time—a trip requiring five days to complete. He writes of his journey in an interesting letter to the editor, and through it we are able to gather information as to the advance of civilization (?) in the northwest territory. 'Fine

Physician Chosen Director of Unit

Dr. E. A. Rogers, formerly a practicing physician at Paxton, this week assumed the post of director of the four-county demonstration health unit which has headquarters in Madison to serve the four counties of Madison, Stanton, Wayne and Pierce. Dr. Rogers takes the place which was held by O. Wiberg, sanitarian of the unit, since the resignation of Dr. J. T. Googe last fall.

Mr. Wiberg, who has been acting head of the unit since the resignation of Dr. Googe, who came to Madison when the unit was opened, will now devote full time to sanitation work in the four counties covered by the unit.

Work of the district will be carried on in the same manner as in the past, Dr. Rogers stated last Wednesday after moving to Madison with his family. The four-staff nurses and one senior nurse will function in the same manner as they have worked thus far. Their locations will not be changed.

The unit is one of four in Nebraska set up with the cooperation of the federal government. Each of the units covers several counties and the city of Madison was selected as headquarters of the work for this four-county area because it is the seat of the most populous county in the unit.

Dr. Rogers returned to Nebraska this month from Ann Arbor, Mich., where he spent a semester studying public health at the University of Michigan. He was accompanied here by Mrs. Rogers and their daughter, a year and a half old, and son, four and a half.

roads and a good team make the distance seem short," he says. The itinerary carried them through Newcastle, St. James (which boasts three stores, a few new dwellings—all it needs for a thriving business is the railroad), St. Helena, Green Island—to Niobrara. On the return trip, the Santee Indian reservation was visited.

Local: "Several cases of diphtheria have occurred in the county recently. Diphtheria is, as is well known, a most dangerous disease. Among children especially, it is fully as destructive as the yellow fever. Diphtheria is also very contagious, so much so that it is said by physicians that a public funeral should never be held over one who has died of that disease."

From the issue of February 13: "A plague is raging with great violence in Russia, and is rapidly extending. It is probable that within a few months it will spread over the whole of Europe, and perhaps be brought to this country."

Note this comment: "The Legislature meets five days per week. During the balance of the time, they recuperate."

"The German Ambassador at St. Petersburg advised his government, on the 3rd, that the plague was spreading rapidly throughout Russia, and urged the Imperial Council to take immediate and energetic measures to prevent its introduction into Germany."

"According to the investigation made by the German Board of Health, since May, 1877. Even paper money in the district has been ordered burned. The rumor of the outbreak of the plague at Odessa caused violent demonstrations at Palermo, Italy, on the 4th, but quiet was restored by the announcement that the government had ordered a quarantine of one week on all arrivals from the Black Sea. A St. Petersburg telegram of the 4th says a military cordon 1,000 miles long had been established around the districts infected by the plague."

"The public debt statement for January (1879) shows a total of debt and interest of $2,408,364,625. Cash in treasury $382,450,695. Debt, less cash in treasury, $2,025,894,130. Decrease during the month, $2,751,980." (1939—44 billion dollars.)

Local: "Beautiful snow. Winter appears to have set in, in earnest. In such weather as this, it would not be a suitable time to go up in a balloon—people would do well to remember it."

"A dramatic club is talked of." "The cause of the non-appearance of the train on Tuesday was the bursting of a flue. On Wednesday, however, the train came in all right, the other engine shaking it up." Those were the good old days.

Ho Hum! Listen to this: "There have been no fights in town this week, nor have there been any horse races, nor runaways, nor drunkenness, nor indeed, anything else outside of the common run of humdrum events."

"Humor: 'The convict's serenade—'How can I leave thee?'"

It is conceded that immigration to Nebraska this year will be immense.

"Commodore McMillan says that the recent gold discoveries are in the neighbor of his farm in Lake county, Dakota Territory."

From the issue of February 20: Sarcasm? "Only a few more days will elapse before the legislature will adjourn. We will be glad to publish their doings as soon as they are made public."

And there it is—the month of February, 1879, as we see it from the files of the Northern Nebraska Journal, published in Ponca.

as we can find out what they have done."

"Jack Burke has just returned from Sioux Falls where he has been for two weeks. He says he had gold excitement in that country is huge."

This additional information on the gold flurry was found in the March 6th issue: "The excitement at Sioux Falls and vicinity over reported findings of gold in Lake county, about thirty miles north of Sioux Falls, has terminated in no discovery that it was a big call. It is reported that some unscrupulous speculator played the game, and now the desire is to find him and make an example of him."

From the issue of February 27: "The president has approved the act allowing women to practice before the supreme court."

"The reappearance of the yellow fever in the south is emphatically denied in dispatches from New Orleans and Louisville."

"A San Francisco dispatch of the 17th says great excitement existed in Alaska over the anticipated irruption of the savages, who had threatened to annihilate the whites. The latter had called upon the adjacent British authorities for aid in warding off the anticipated invasion. The collector had telegraphed Secretary Sherman for assistance."

Custer City in the Black Hills was the metropolis of that territory in 1876—a city of 1,500-2,000 population, with lots of building going on. The city was only two years old. In its vicinity great numbers of miners were operating. One of them tells this about a camp situated near the Indian trail leading from the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies to the north.

"Hence the miners were very much annoyed by parties of Indians that were seen skulking about almost daily. After engaging them three different times and dispatching a few of the residents to their happy hunting grounds they could pass us by without tempting to satisfy their curiosity as to our whereabouts. About the first of May the camp took an Indian scare, and stampeded for the interior of the hills, leaving your humble servant in company with six other men to possess the entire camp, taking chances with the Indians. We found a cave in the rocks near our claims, which furnished us ample protection against the savages."

The letter continues with a description of the way these miners were forced to dig a ditch three-fourths of a mile long to secure the necessary water supply for their sluicing. Pay dirt at this spot yielded about 25c per bushel. They often changed locations in order to increase earnings. "On the morning of the 6th, in company with Mr. Dodge and G. N. Coals, I set out for Deadwood, passing through Hill City, a town located on Spring creek, 15 miles north of Custer. This town consisted of perhaps 150 houses. As we ramblled through its beautiful streets and could not encounter a single inhabitant within its entire limits we realized how exciting the gold fever must be, and the nearer the cause the greater the effect. We had visited this place on the 9th of April, and saw it when in full blast with about 300 inhabitants who were then all anticipating a fortune. But now, like the birds of summer, all had flown only to return when the storm abated."

"At Golden City—28 miles from Custer, 45 miles from Deadwood in eleven and a half days, sluicing we cleaned up $18,658."

And there it is—the month of February, 1879, as we see it from the files of the Northern Nebraska Journal, published in Ponca.

Blizzard of North Dakota Proves More Severe Than Nebraska Variety

A North Dakota blizzard is an experience worth recording in one's memory book. This was the opinion expressed in 1923 by Miss Elizabeth Mines of Wayne, now Mrs. R. B. Atwater of Des Moines, who was then teaching in Donnybrook, N. D. . .

"Snow began to fall Monday afternoon and late in the evening it was being blown around in blizzard formation. The wind howled so all night that sleep was almost impossible." . . .

Reaching school the next morning the teachers found that only two of the busses had arrived and not many children had come, parents being afraid of the danger that might follow if the busses were lost on the open prairie with its poor trails and unfenced stretch of country. . .

A couple of the teachers who wanted a bite to eat at noon decided to hike their way around the hills bordering the village to their boarding house. . .

At noon the school staff decided that the busses should not attempt the return trip and that the town people should keep the country children over night or until the busses could travel safely. . .

Under the Rainbow

By Nova Riggs, Art Department, W.S.T.C.

(This story presents an interesting way of teaching colors to elementary school pupils. It explains the mixing of colors, the monochromatic and complementary color schemes, and attempts to train the reader to associate and appreciate color in nature.) . . .

"If only," she said to herself as she wrinkled her brow in thought, "it were more beautiful. Let me see. I have many gallons of red, yellow, and blue paint in my storehouse. . .

For many days Mother Nature searched for one who was skillful in the use of paints. Short people, tall people, thin people, fat people—all came to show their artistic skill. . .

In desperation Mother Nature fled to her garden and paced back and forth on the pebble walk lined by yellow, blue, and red flowers. . .

"Mother Nature, Mother Nature," a voice whispered. The hollow-eyed, pale woman pacing on the walk turned sharply to see who spoke to her. . .

"What can you do?" asked Mother Nature in a tired doubtful tone. "I, with the help of my co-workers, Miss Rain, Mr. Sleet, Mr. Snow, and Mr. Sun, can make your world the most beautiful world you would wish to see." . . .

"Do not fear, dear Mother Nature," whistled the Wind, "your world will be most exquisite." . . .

Three months dragged by, and Mr. Wind whispered to Mother Nature that it was time for her to view him and his helpers at work. . .

"Mother Nature!" "Mother Nature!" the Wind whispered excitedly, "Look at the sky!" . . .

Altitude Is Marked.
The altitude of Wayne is 1,458,298 feet above sea level, the official marker being on the south side of the First National bank of Wayne. . .

Mr. James came to this country in 1881, stopping in Nebraska and then going on to California. He returned to Nebraska in 1886. Here he married Miss Mary Ellen James in 1892. To this union were born seven children.

Mr. James was a faithful member of Bethany Presbyterian church. He was talented and interested in music and was one of the early choristers in the church. He was one of the early settlers in the Welsh community.

Surviving Mr. James are his seven sons and daughters: Mrs.

Elmer Fisher of Winside, Mrs. Harry McConnell and Mrs. Geo. Hennings of Alliance, Ted James and Ivor James of Wayne, Wendell James of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Leland Jacobs of Sioux City. All were here Sunday excepting Wendell and he planned to arrive for the funeral. Mrs. James died six years ago. Two brothers and three sisters surviving Mr. James are Benjamin James of Worcester, England, Mary Ann Davis, Ellen Jones and Anna Phillips of Cardigan, Wales, and Thomas L. James of Chicago. The last named came for the funeral. Two other brothers and three sisters preceded him in death.

Wayne Winner In Meet Here
Basketball Tournament Is Well Attended in Spite Of Bad Weather.
Wayne prep won the annual invitational basketball tournament held here Friday and Saturday by defeating Winside in the finals Saturday evening by score of 47 to 30. Each received a trophy. Coleridge, defeating Carroll in consolation Saturday evening 46 to 19, received a prize.

Considering the weather attendance was good and Supt. A. H. Jensen expects that receipts and expenses will be about equal.

In the first round of play Wayne won from Randolph 40 to 5; Magnet defeated McLean 24 to 17, this being a close battle to the last; Carroll won from Sholes 49 to 20, the Sholes team showing up well for its first year's experience.

In second Coleridge won from Belden 24 to 23 in the closest and cleanest battle of the meet; Wayne defeated Laurel 45 to 27; and Winside won from Magnet 36 to 22.

Wayne defeated Coleridge 44 to 29 in a nice game of the semi-finals. Winside won from Carroll 45 to 19 in the other semi-finals. Coleridge won from Carroll 46 to 19 in consolation; and Wayne defeated Winside 47 to 30 for the championship. The Wayne-Winside game was close until the last few minutes. Wayne was outstanding for aggressive play, and Winside had it well but lacked reserve power.

Charles Wehrer, Wayne college student, was referee for first two rounds. F. G. Dale of Wayne, refereed the semi-finals and finals.

Plans are to have the tournament again next spring.

The school appreciates the way officials kept roads open for the event.

Radio Amateurs Provide Service To the Community
During the past four years a new hobby has become prevalent in Wayne. While this does not mean that amateur radio is new here—Roy Meier south of town has been an amateur for a number of years—it is true the hobby has increased in active engagement.

Three forms of radio transmission are open to amateurs: Code, voice and television. Code and voice are the two used by locals.

That the operations sometimes cause interference to reception of broadcast programs is a regrettable state, but one that can be rectified with the cooperation of those experiencing this interference.

"Since my station, W9JED, is quite powerful, and since most of the interference is thought to be caused by its operation, these remarks will concern it and me primarily," states W. C. Swanson.

"In them all amateurs, as well as the Federal Communications Commission will concur.

"When you are listening to your favorite radio program and have it covered up completely with a crackling, popping, rasping or buzzing noise, do not think ill of the radio amateur and vow his bandishment from the air. Rather complain to one of the city 'Dads' about the interference from some electrical appliance. Therein lies the greatest amount of radio interference," explains Mr. Swanson.

"To those of you who experience a voice covering up your program, or dots and dashes in the form of a shrill whistle, you are concerned. That is the only form of interference you will receive from us," continues Mr. Swanson.

Since the Federal Communications Commission is the final governing body in this matter, Mr. Swanson wishes to publish parts of a letter received by him this past week from them:

"The Commission endeavors to allow full development of all radio services which are believed to serve public interest, convenience and/or necessity, and at the same time seeks to protect them from objectionable interference.

"From the results of investigations of interference to broadcast reception, caused by the operation of amateur stations, it has been found that in most cases the broadcast listener is encountering one of the various types of cross talk, which result when a receiver, even though of modern design, is located in the powerful field of a nearby transmitter. The conditions incident to interference of this type are not normal ones. Before action can be taken it is necessary that the facts be established.

"Experience indicates that there are few cases of interference of this nature which may not be completely eliminated by very simple and inexpensive methods. It has been found that the great majority of these cases may be satisfactorily adjusted prior to inspection of equipment.

"The elimination of interference requires cooperation on the part of both those causing it and those experiencing it. The Commission believes it is reasonable to expect this cooperation.

"Of the total number of broadcast receivers in use, the relative number which encounter interference by amateur stations is small, and likewise of the total number of amateur stations in operation, the relative number which cause interference to broadcast reception is small.

"The broadcast complainant should not assume immediately that the amateur is to blame, nor should he expect the Commission to take action against an amateur who is operating his station in accordance with the rules and regulations, unless general interference is being caused to the reception of broadcast programs using receivers of modern design. By the term 'receivers of modern design' is not meant receivers of the very latest design, involving ultra-selective circuits, but receivers of average good design as distinguished from those which are obviously obsolete and not up to the standards of modern practice."

Amateurs operate by and with the authority of the Federal Communications Commission. They enjoy their hobby and have expended time, effort and money toward its betterment. The service they have rendered in times of emergency and disaster in many parts of the country has well repaid the general public any inconvenience they have caused. Were it not for this service, they would not be on the air today. "Wayne should be proud of its amateurs, should extend every effort to aid its advancement, and it is up to us to make you feel that way about it. Your cooperation is essential toward this end. Unless you tell us we do not know we are bothering you," explains Mr. Swanson.

"The next time you have broadcast interference, call W. C. Swanson, W9JED; or Gerald Wright, W9WGL; or Kenneth Petersen, W9AZR. They will be glad to investigate and determine whether they are the cause of the interference or whether it is from some other source. In either case, the interference can be eliminated.

Two other amateurs outside Wayne city limits, who are also interested, Roy Meier, W9AGH and Kenneth Gamble, W9MJL.

"Beethoven cannot disturb the peace," a San Francisco judge ruled. Blind Rudolph Ramat, 69, had been so charged by playing Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" on his accordion on busy Market street. Give a kibitzer an inch and he'll take a mile. Recently John D. Rockefeller gave New York City's kibitzers 100 feet of frontage to watch excavation work. The "Sidewalk Superintendents' Club" now has a roof and wire mesh in front. Then one modest soul asked for coffee and doughnuts, but another wants cocktails. Short people want a special section, and others want to keep out women with long feathers in their hats. One kibitzer wanted the men to work Sundays so he'd have the Sabbath time supplied with watching. Swivel chairs, loud speakers, a moving sidewalk to carry the onlookers around the excavation, a clock, telescope and drinking fountain were among other requests.
