College Storm

LAST week's flag presentation to Terrace hall at the college caused, through failure of most students to attend, differences that deserved little or none of the serious attention they received.

Not so many students as expected witnessed the flag ceremonies, and doubtless under the heat of disappointment, a strongly disapproving letter was dispatched to each young man.

The college is more important than piques. Its scholarship and citizen values transcend personal differences.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by DR. WELDON F. CROSSLAND

How many religious bodies are there in the United States? About 200, which is slightly less than the number ten years ago.

The so-called 'scandal of American sectarianism' becomes less glaring in the light of these figures.

Among the unusual names of the smaller groups are these: 'The Apostolic Overcoming Holy Church of God,' 'The Church of Daniel's Band,' 'Duck River (and Kindred) Baptists,' 'Defensives Menonites,' 'Mayan Temple,' 'The Original Church of God,' and 'Two-Seed-in-the-Spirit Predestinating Baptists.'

Some groups have rallied about a dynamic leader like Father Divine, while others preserve a racial tradition or attract a linguistic group.

This remarkable diversity flows from the complete religious freedom enjoyed by all Americans, any of whom may proclaim a message, organize a church and persuade others to join it.

Would any true believer in religious freedom have it otherwise? What is the most common weakness of people?

Selfishness, which is that quality of "regarding one's own comfort, advantage or happiness in disregard, or at the expense, of that of others."

Placing his own interests ahead of the common good, the self-centered individual is less and less able to win friends and influence people.

Selfish people tend to become egoists, sensitive, suspicious and introverted. Envious of another's good fortune and jealous of other's success, they grow progressively unhappy.

Selfishness undermines good judgment. The grasping Shylock and the stingy Scrooge always over-care themselves and defeat their own best interests.

Greed stands out as an extreme form of selfishness, whether money, publicity or social prestige be one's aim. The thief, whom society exiles to Alcatraz, symbolizes the philosophy of selfishness pushed to its logical conclusion.

"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you" has been the life-principle of those names that shine across the generations with undiminished lustre.

Rates on Power
Are Lower Here

Greater Advantage Possible
If Pierce Project Is Added to Wayne.

Because the Wayne county rural power project is well organized, rates will be lower than the general average. The first 40 kwh will be $3.00, the next 40 at 5.5c per kwh, next 120 at 2.5c per kwh and over 200 at 1.5c per kwh. If the Pierce county project is hooked up with Wayne's, as is now hoped, the local officials will try to give consumers 50 kwh for $3.50.

Rates are based on the 5 KVA transformer. This, it is explained, will carry motors up to 10 horsepower.

Leave on Trip to Southern States

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. March left Wednesday by car with J. H. C. Schoenemann, Miss Jeanette Schoenemann and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lankhorst of Hawarden, Iowa, father and sisters of Mrs. March, for a three-week trip through the south. They plan to go through the Ozarks and then to New Orleans. They will then drive to Florida to make stops at St. Petersburg, Miami and other interesting places. They hope to see some under-water motion pictures taken at Silver Springs and view the Ringling brothers' winter quarters at Sarasota. The party may also take a trip to Cuba.

Will Return Here
From Foreign Field

Captain and Mrs. Duran Summers, who have spent two years at Zamboanga, Philippine islands, leave their station March 27 and go to Manila where they sail April 7 on a three and a half month trip to Africa and South America. They will land June 27 in New York and then come to Wayne to spend a month with Mrs. Summers' parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham. They will afterward be stationed at Ft. Ferguson, Atlanta, Ga.

Brothers Together At Portland After Long Separation

After being separated 61 years, two brothers, Richard Cross of Wayne, and George Cross of Portland, Ore., are getting acquainted again and enjoying a good long visit. Back in 1878 a mother died in Odebolt, Iowa, and her sons, George, 5, and Richard, 9, were separated. George went to Oregon, then to West Virginia and back to Oregon. Richard stayed in Iowa 15 years and then moved to Wayne, his home since.

During the Shrine convention Richard Cross' son, Ray, located his uncle, George. This January Richard Cross went on a trip with a visit to Portland his destination. He saw sisters in western Nebraska and Colorado, nephews in Wyoming and then went to Portland where he and his brother are visiting to make up for the 61-year interval during which they were separated.

The Wayne man writes his children here that he is enjoying his brother very much and will stay until they have realized their long-felt desire.

A Cub's Eye View

By Marcell Arends

Saturday: It might be a good idea to date these remarks about the weather, because at this time of year what is said one day is far from the truth the next. I've a feeling that I will just get tuned up on Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and I'll find myself in the throes of a blizzard. Wait and see! But in the meantime, we've been enjoying some grand weather.

At present it would seem that every man and his dog comes to town on Saturday—especially one man and his 16. Captain Earl Hammond and his Eskimo troop are in town today, and the howling those Huskies send up to the heavens is enough to give one the creeps. Last time I saw an outfit like that was at Lake Okoboji when the thermometer was soaring in the vicinity of 110. At least the kids in town got a thrill.

Noticed another phenomenon along with the spring breezes and the warm sunshine—this is one I had always heard about but had never actually seen before. Men standing on the street corners really do move around the corner following the warmth of the sun's rays. Just watch them on a Saturday afternoon sometime if you think I'm wrong. It would perhaps be logical to assume that the opposite would be true in the summer—moving away from the sun into the shade in order to keep cool. Remind me to keep an eagle eye out for indications of that next summer.

You know the old adage about where the young man's fancy lightly turns in the spring. I've discovered that it's a sure thing. Proof: My week-end is jammed full of announcement parties and weddings. Now all the rest of us have to do is find out for ourselves just why that seems to be true. Maybe those spring breezes mentioned before would have something to do with it. Suppose? All that may well be true for the fancy of the young man, but I'm inclined to think that the young lady's thoughts turn in another direction—at least for a time—judging from the amount of window-shopping being done today.

New spring clothes—the store windows are full of them—there they are in all their glory and wealth of color. Never saw the shades so bright, and so very attractive. Just caught a glimpse of some beautiful suede hats—gorgeous in light greens, old rose, or yellow. Our colors this year have distinctive names—cyclomen, mustard, leather, oxford, boy blue, thistle, cavacade—and what's more, it seems to be a case of the brighter the better. Personally, I stood admiring the tweed suits and coats seen in some of the windows—they are exceptionally smart-looking this year.

Speaking of spring styles, I did run into something novel in the way of store window advertising while walking around the town—the use of song titles to sell sport shoes. For example, ever see "Old Man Mose"? No? Well, just for your general information, "he" is

Wildcats Defeat Peru and Midland

Wildcats Tie for Chance
At Conference Honor
In Game Here.

Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic conference title hinges on next Saturday's game between Wayne and Peru. If Peru wins the entire conference would be thrown into a tie, for Kearney and Wayne would then have three victories and three defeats each, with Chadron and Peru two victories and two defeats. A Wayne victory would give the Wildcats the conference title.

Providing Wayne wins from Peru next Saturday, Coach J. H. Morrison will likely take the Wayne players to the March 13 tournament in Kansas City. The Wildcats won their third victory of last week Saturday evening by defeating Hastings 38 to 33. Previously last week Wayne defeated Midland and Peru. The Hastings and Wayne game Saturday was fairly even with Wayne ahead two points at the half. The Wildcats held the lead consistently through the last half.

Wayne defeated Peru here last Thursday 40 to 34 in a contest that was close throughout. Rembold led the Wayne scoring, making 15 points. Marshall was second with 10. Hunter made two field goals at the close of the game to clinch the victory for Wayne.

Dr. C. G. England, will head the conference. Mr. McGee has been working on his master's degree in history at the university in Boulder during summers.

Many Crows Shot In Hunt Sunday

Hundreds of crows were killed Sunday evening about 6 in a hunt at the James Grier farm. The Allen American Legion sponsored the event and about 15 Sioux City cars besides many from Dixon, Cedar and Wayne counties, were there. After the birds came to the trees for the night an airplane flew about the place. Crows are frightened by a plane and stay in the trees, enabling the hunters to shoot them.

Mrs. Linda Rebensdorf of Pender, and Will H. Roebor of Emerson, were married February 19.

Oranges Raised
By Earl E. Bruce
Are Very Large

Earl E. Bruce of Santa Ana, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bruce of Wayne, raised two exceptionally large oranges in the yard of his home. One was 14 inches in circumference and the other 14 1/2 inches. The first weighed one pound and four and one-half ounces, the other, one pound, five and one-half ounces.

J. W. McCormac of Santa Ana, challenged any orange grower in the county to produce an orange larger than his which measured 13 1/2 inches in circumference and weighed one and one-quarter pounds. G. B. Stebbins of East Pomona, raised an orange 16 1/2 inches in circumference and weighing two pounds, two ounces.

Mr. Bruce's raising would therefore be the largest in the town of Santa Ana.

Will Be Married At Altona Church

The marriage of Miss Ellen Greenwald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Greenwald of this vicinity, and Mr. Walter Meeske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Siman Meeske of Wisner, will take place next Sunday evening, March 5, at 6 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran church at Altona. Rev. E. J. Moede will officiate at the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few friends. A reception will follow at the Greenwald home.

The couple will live near Wisner. Miss Greenwald has been honored at three showers the past week. One was given at the Albert Greenwald home, one at Siman Meeske's last Thursday and the other at Lawrence Greenwald's with Mrs. Valerius Dammé assistant hostess Sunday.

The toppling of a merchant ship south of the Azores last week is thought to be a false report. A check of vessels on the seas finds none missing.

Judicial District Meeting Is Held

Hugo Nicholson of Wisner, was elected president of Ninth Judicial Bar association at the meeting in Norfolk Wednesday last week. M. S. McDuffee of Norfolk, is vice president; Hadley Kelsey, Norfolk, secretary; and Harold Salter, Pierce, treasurer. J. E. Brittain of Wayne, is on the executive committee. Russell Barrels of Wayne, is a member of the committee to arrange a forum on subjects of interest to the bar association. Wayne lawyers attended the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Behl moved from Evanston, Ill., to DeKalb, Ill. Mr. Behl, son-in-law to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer of Wayne, will teach speech in Northern Illinois college there.

Sixty Years March By In Northeast Nebraska

Law Preventing Cattle from Running at Large at Night Passed by Legislature of 1879.

If you enjoyed reading of the happenings in this sector of the country in the month of February, 1879, perhaps you may also find interesting this similar picture of the month of March. It hardly seems necessary to preface these cuttings by the explanation that was made in the last issue: each news item reflects of its own accord the spirit of the day from which it grew; each comment of the editor reflects the spirit of the man "behind the news."

From the Issue of March 6:
"After a short interval of peace the people of southern Nebraska have commenced cutting each other up again—that kind of recreation seeming to be of great favor among them. This time the pleasantries took place near Beatrice, Gage county, where an unknown man was found dead, on Friday, February 21. The indications were that he had been murdered, and had laid in the grass for at least a month. Nothing of value was found in his pockets, although it was evident that he had carried a watch as the marks of the chain were visible on his vest, and it is therefore supposed that he was killed for his money."
"The legislature appropriated $75,000 to the improvement of the state capitol at Lincoln."
"Oliver and his band of ruffians who buried Mitchel and Ketcherl to death have been indicted at Kearney and will be tried in a few weeks."
"The proceedings of the legislature which probably will interest the people of Dixon county more than any other, were those in relation to a herd law. The act to extend the general herd law over this county was defeated, and in place of it, a night herd law was passed. This law requires people to herd their stock between sunset and sunrise. We hope to be able soon to publish the new law."

Latest News: The Old World.
"A Calcutta telegram of the 20th says it was reported from Mandalay that the King of Burmah had murdered all the Royal Princes and their families, and replaced the ministers with those formerly in office, thus restoring a despotic government."
"A number of Swiss citizens have left for the United States to establish a colony in Georgia."
"News was received on the 21st to the effect that the Astrachan plague had abated."
"The St. Petersburg Ruski Mir has been forced to suspend publications for commenting upon the deplorable condition of the country and the despotic manner in which it is governed."
"A dispatch from Allahabad of the 23rd announced the arrival of ex-President Grant. He was the guest of the Lieutenant-Governor and had been invited to visit Calcutta as the guest of the Viceroy."
"A London telegram of the 26th says the cattle plague has appeared in two places in England. In a slaughter of the infected animals and all others adjacent followed."

Local:
"Spring, Vernal breezes. It tried to rain yesterday but failed." (That sounds almost like the weather in Wayne last Saturday.)
"A ferry boat at Ionia is in trim to make trips as soon as the ice goes out."

city is held every Friday evening at the Powder Creek school house. It is said that there is always a crowded house." (How times have changed.)

Here's a story for you. Head line: "Fearful Tumble. Accidently Falls Through the Bridge, and Is Badly Injured." "On Monday a settler came to town and purchased a number of articles of groceries, enough to fill a small dry goods box. He indulged quite freely in the ardent, and by the time he was ready to start for home it was about all he could do to walk." The story goes on telling how the bridge was being repaired. Workmen had laid stringers 2 or 3 feet apart across it for the workmen to walk on while rebuilding it. Our friend succeeded in getting two-thirds of the way across before he made his misstep and fell through the stringers on to the ground below. Then to add insult to injury, the box of groceries plunked down to land very unceremoniously on his head.

From the Issue of March 13: The following paragraphs taken from a letter written home to Ponca will give you a Nebraskan's impression of the great Tabernacle at Salt Lake, and a little hint as to the Salt Lake City of 1879:

"About the first thing that happened to us here, was, we were invited to visit the tabernacle. Accordingly, accompanied by two young saints as guides, we set forth for that noted place. On our way, we met the well-known Mormon apostle, Reynolds, who is being persecuted for exercising the divine right of taking unto his bosom several better halves. He seemed to be not oppressed nor cast down by the persecution, nor by the superabundance of 'halves' aforesaid.

The summer tabernacle, as it is called, and in which the Mormon people take great and laudable pride, is an edifice, oval in form, 250 feet in length, by 150 in width. The roof, which is arched, is supported by the walls only. This enormous arch is decorated with innumerable wreaths and mottoes of evergreens which hang from it. A hanging garden is suspended from the center of the roof, in which is growing all the finest flowers and evergreens that are familiar to this climate. This garden is 25 feet across, and in beauty surpasses anything I have ever seen in the west.

"The organ is, with the exception of the one at Cincinnati, the largest on this continent. It occupies a space 20 by 30 feet, and stands 35 feet high—has 52 stops, and 1,000 pipes, large and small. The organ, together with the pulpit and rostrum for the choir, occupies a width of 30 feet across one end of the building. The floor from the pulpit gradually ascends, and the seats are arranged one above the other in a semi-circular form. The gallery is seated in the same manner. It is said that 12,000 persons can be seated in the building. This vast congregation has for ingress, 41 large doors, all opening outward.

"I was informed that the city has about 30,000 inhabitants—7,000 of whom are Gentiles, and the rest, 23,000, are Mormons. The Mormons have therefore, as a matter of course, their own way, yet the Gentiles are rapidly gaining influence. Law and order prevails, and crime is promptly followed with punishment."

"The Lincoln Journal says that the whole amount of levy for state purposes by the legislature, will this year be the same as it was last year, four mills, and that for 1880 the levy will be only two mills, being an average of three mills for the two years, or a reduction of 25 per cent upon the levy of the past two years."

"Work has been commenced at Madrid on the buildings for the International Exhibition of 1880."

"On the 29th, ult., the mayor of Sheffield, England, stated that in one district in that town, there were 4,000 persons destitute, and 400 families actually starving."

If you haven't yet bought your Easter outfit or your new spring suit, take a tip from these fashion comments from the New York Times, reprinted in the Northern Nebraska Journal, March 13, 1879.

"Short suits continue in wear. A new material has just been brought out for these suits, called 'crepe de laine.' This material is in one color, and derives its name from the old-fashioned crepe, which it resembles. It comes in all the rather dark shades which are in fashion this season, such as seal color, bottle green, garnet, scalieue, claret color, and others. The suits are trimmed with plush in the same color, and with handsome fancy buttons. Sometimes the suits have butterflies in applique work, which have a very pretty effect. They are in bright colors, intermixed with gold and silver. These butterflies must be arranged with taste and according to their size. Sometimes a single butterfly will suffice to cover half the collar, and another for the whole cuff. If the butterflies are of ordinary size, they are placed on the band which trim the suit.

"Embroideries are still of the richest kind. In addition to gold and silver work, beads of all kinds are used. A charming design consists of a garland of oak leaves, made of mastic, colored beads and gilded cordings, with a fringe trimming of the same. A very peculiar way of using embroidered tissues is as follows: The princess-shaped plastron is of bottle-green satin covered with embroidery, and is taken down over the velvet dress, which is in the same shade. The embroidery consists of various flowers in many bright shades. The skirt, which is fastened to the side of the plastron, is apple-green; it forms in the back a square train, bordered with a full ruching of white Irish gauze."

Enough is enough, and that is enough to give the average woman heart failure. Minor articles of dress form were as usual. Fans, for instance, were painted in the most elaborate ways. Designs were carried out in gauze and batiste, views of different portions of Paris by day and by night often being reproduced.

Local: "A team from Dakota City ran away near the Summit on Sunday, and the result was a badly used up buggy."

"Not a thousand miles from here, the other evening, an old lady was walking over the floor, when her son remarked 'You're pretty well heeled, ain't you Ma'. She was wearing his boots—No 14's."

Local: "It is claimed by Congressmen Majors of this state that the census of 1880 will show a population in Nebraska of 600,000."

"Would it not be a good plan to have a right smart of rain to lay the dust, fill the wells, moisten up the ground and tickle the grass roots into sprouting." That might help today, too.

persons had been induced to subscribe money for a mythical memorial to Bayard Taylor. John J. Astor and Peter Cooper, whose names appear among the subscribers, deny having signed the paper or authorized the use of their names in that connection. The appearance of their names on the paper had induced leading citizens in Washington and other cities to contribute to the enterprise. This proves that there has always been a fool born every minute.

"Cyrus W. Field gave a brilliant reception at his residence, in New York City, on the evening of the 10th, in honor of the 25th anniversary of the inception of the enterprise by which Europe and America were united by the Atlantic cable. Over 1,000 guests were present." (Some party!)

"The great pedestrian contest in which O'Leary, the present champion, and Rowell, Harriman and Ennis are competitors, was begun at New York City, on the night of the 12th. There was a tremendous crowd in attendance. The contest was to last six days."

More on the pedestrian contest: "During the progress of the great pedestrian contest in New York, on the 12th, between O'Leary, Rowell of England, Harriman of Boston, and Ennis of Chicago, O'Leary utterly collapsed and broke down and was ordered from the track by his physicians, and was immediately removed. So completely was he used up that it was thought very doubtful whether he would ever walk again in a pedestrian contest. The score stood as follows a short time before O'Leary's withdrawal: Rowell, 246 miles; Harriman, 234; Ennis, 221; O'Leary, 214. Rumors that O'Leary had been drinking, that he had been poisoned, etc., were denied by his physicians, who say that his failure to keep the track was simply because he was used up. On the night of the 12th, a portion of the gallery in the building in which the contest was going on gave way suddenly and sank with a mass of struggling persons who had crowded into it. A panic ensued, and the scene that followed was a frightful one. Many persons were injured, some seriously. The pedestrians continued their walking as soon as the debris was cleared from the track." Sounds like the dance marathon craze of a few years ago.

Local: "A team from Dakota City ran away near the Summit on Sunday, and the result was a badly used up buggy."

"Not a thousand miles from here, the other evening, an old lady was walking over the floor, when her son remarked 'You're pretty well heeled, ain't you Ma'. She was wearing his boots—No 14's."

From the Issue of the 27th: "P. T. Barnum, the great showman, is preparing to make another circus tour of the country this summer."

"As an example of Nebraska farming, an exchange states that Alexander Legge, near Schuyler, sole purpose of transporting bulion from the California quartz mines."

Local: "A young gentleman of this vicinity while going to church on Sunday, the young lady with whom he was talking, complimented him by saying that he had lots of human kindness. He replied, 'Yes, I drank out of that cup this morning.' The appearance of the youth indicated that instead of the milk of human kindness, it was beer he had been quaffing, and a middling strong kind of beer at that."

"The erudite servants of the Courier, (rival paper) claimed last week that the call for the special school meeting did not give 15 days notice, and hence the meeting was not legal. The statute which expressly and plainly declares that such meetings are valid even without any notice at all, was for some inscrutable, unaccountable and surprising reason, overlooked by those powerful legal expounders, whose ability and sagacity are, as is well known, so astonishing and awe inspiring to common people."

Thus ends another chapter in the story of the happenings of an age, portrayed through the daily occurrences, and thoughts of a specific community.

Under the Rainbow

By Nova Riggs, Art Department, W.S.T.C.

(This story presents an interesting way of teaching colors to elementary school pupils. It explains the mixing of colors, the monochromatic and complementary color schemes, and attempts to train the reader to associate and appreciate color in nature.)

CHAPTER TWO

During the three months following the visit, Mother Nature wondered why Mr. Wind insisted upon her visiting the new world three more times. On the appointed day Mr. Wind again led Mother Nature to her world.

After one look Mother Nature cried, "What have you done to my beautiful world?"

"Mother Nature," whistled Mr. Wind with enthusiasm, "Notice the new colors. Look at the rich deep brown which just tinges the grass and leaves on the trees. I'll bet you can't guess how I made the brown. Do you remember the orange I made by mixing yellow and red together? Well, I made my shades of brown by adding blue to the orange!"

"But, Mr. Wind," shouted Mother Nature, "it was very beautiful before. Why did you change it?"

"Because, Mother Nature, the people who will live in this world will love it because of the change and variety of color. Really, now isn't this a beautiful time? Look at the faint touch of gold and brown."

After this explanation Mother Nature began to look for and to find beauty in this new arrangement. Soon Mr. Wind whispered to Mother Nature that it was time for her to leave.

The months finally became three and Mother Nature once more was in her world. Warmth was represented everywhere by color. Deep yellows, rich browns, and rusty reds made the earth's atmosphere very cheerful. Even Mr. Sun was more fiery and bright as he climbed through the sky and down to the west. Mother Nature was spell-bound

DID YOU KNOW?

Nebraska's largest county is Cherry, in the north central part of the state. Having an area of 5,979 square miles, it is larger than the state of Connecticut. Its population is 10,898. Cherry county is known for its lakes and fishing spots, for its location in the heart of the sandhills and for its cowboys.

Nebraska ranks second among states in hog raising, third in cattle raising. In 1936 Nebraska raised 1,567,000 hogs valued at $14.10 per head, and 3,037,000 cattle at $31 per head.

Covered wagons contained many descriptive signs which told of the fortunes of the occupants. When the immigrants were outward bound in early days, the signs were full of hope, like "Pike's Peak or Bust," "On a Buffalo Hunt," "Home, Sweet Home." When they were returning from a disappointing journey the signs were filled with frustrated dreams, like "Out by Grasshoppers," "Going Back East to Live With the Wife's Parents."

Indians believed in early times that "land is like air, something necessary to the life of the race and therefore not to be appropriated by any individual or group of individuals to the permanent exclusion of all others."

Nebraska has no county libraries, but there are 171 public libraries in the state.

Freedom of the press was established in Nebraska in 1898. In that year, a court action between two Omaha papers led to the ruling that no court has the power to censor the press.

Rural School Districts Have Many Varied Activities

Happenings in Schools of County Are Reported For Past Week

Records of importance are being made by pupils, according to reports coming from Wayne county schools.

District 2. (Bernice Meyer, teacher) New library books received this year are the following: "The Poor Little Rich Girl," "Hans Brinker," "The Littlest Rebel," "Pinochio," "Happy Times," "In Storm and Sunshine," "Skippy," "The Bobsey Twins on a Ranch," "The Bobsey Twins in a Radio Play." Johnnie Luschen, 7, was welcomed as a new pupil February 14. He is in the 2nd grade and came from district 41, Dixon county.

District 6. (Erma Gableman, teacher) Attendance the past month has been lower, due to colds, bad weather and measles. Music classes are preparing for the annual music festival. Four in the 8th and six in the 7th grade are reviewing for examinations in April. Boys are using their recreation period for making rope and some fine pieces have been completed. Mrs. Arthur Munson called at the Bell one day last week. Pupils had a Valentine party February 14, enjoying a hunt of Valentines which had been hidden about the room. Alice Jane and Clarence Bockenhauer served tandy and Miss Gableman served ice cream afterward. Stage planks have been placed on benches in the basement so that pupils have two sets of rings at one time. The games have been enjoyed during stormy weather.

District 19. (Louella Lindsay, teacher) The school room has been decorated to represent patriotic birthdays in February. Jimmie Joe Corbit, Darrell Dean Franzen and Bonnie Sorenson were visitors February 14 for the Valentine exchange. An Eskimo scene has been made on the sand table. Boys carved dog teams from soap. A Dutch scene will be the next project. Third and fourth graders are making illustrated booklets on Dutch life. Individual spelling graphs, kept for the month, show that Delpha Horstman has the most perfect marks. Shirley Mae Franzen is the only one who has perfect attendance record. Measles have caused considerable absence.

District 20. (Dale Harper, teacher) The spelling bee was won by Jack Beale. Betty Baier, Betty Finn and Lorraine Milliken have received grades of 100 each day in the new spelling contest. Losers in the recent spelling contest gave a party, Friday, February 24, for Betty and Eddie George Baier who are moving to another district. After games, refreshments of cup cakes and jello were served. Officers for the Knighthood of Youth club have been elected again. Jack Beale is reelected president. Others are: Donald Temme, vice president; Lorraine Milliken, secretary; John Finn, treasurer. The club passed several bills which were signed by the president acting as governor. These were added to the club constitution. Due to an epidemic of measles and chicken pox, many were absent during the weeks after the holidays. "Little Home Town" for the month. Ruth Backstrom, Betty and Gene Finn have not been absent or tardy so far this term. Several have received booklets and pictures for perfect records. The school bought a piano with money earned at the fall program. It is planned to add a basketball to the playground equipment this spring.

District 26. (Mrs. Ellen Philbin, teacher) Delores Peters and Evelyn Test, 6th graders, were in charge of the Valentine party February 14. A story of why St. Valentine's day is celebrated opened the party. Norman Peters received a pencil as a prize in a contest, and charades followed. Valentines were exchanged after which ice cream and cookies were served. Mrs. Philbin gave each pupil a candy bar. Darlene Martens, the only 4th grader, was ill a week with mumps. Norman Peters, beginner, has completed two pre-primers and one primer. He is now on his first year reader. Noon and recess periods are often devoted to Chinese checkers. Marjorie Caauwe and Betty Martens, 7th graders, were reporters.

District 29. (Dorothea Lewis, teacher) Due to an epidemic of measles no one has had perfect attendance for the year. Fern Hessemann entered school, making 10 boys and six girls. Pupils are enjoying the swing and trapeze won in the school contest and they thank all who helped. Valentines were exchanged at a party February 14. Fern Hessemann was elected mayor of the "Little Home Town" for the month. A cleanliness contest is in progress. Floyd Koch and Eleanor Mae Thies are captains of the two sides. (Helen Witt, teacher) Johnnie Eugene Kay, 1st grader, and Marvin Meier, 7th grader, have perfect attendance records for the first six months of this year. Believe it or not, lamb chops cost 60 cents a pound in Washington.

Costs of painting of government buildings here go up rapidly. In 1940 they are going to paint the capitol of the United States again. It will cost about $35,000. Four years ago the same job cost around $29,000. The increase is mostly in labor cost. Painters who worked only eight hours a day four years ago, work only seven hours here now. They get $11.00 a day.

Secretary Wallace told American fars and oil representatives the other day that he feared the heavy corn and hog crop will result in lard going down to a nickel a pound. The southern cotton seed oil men felt that cotton seed oil will also hit the nickel bottom. They asked Wallace if he thought the importation of a billion pounds of foreign oils has an effect on the lower American market. He thought maybe it might just a little. The representatives held a meeting and invited a lot of prairie states members to see what they can do about holding down the importation of foreign competitive oils.

The commissioner of agriculture of a southern state who believes in free trade, tells farm district congressmen that he wouldn't take off the 3 cent excise tax on Filipino coconut oil. He thinks that tax helps to protect the price of cottonseed oil. The cotton state men are here asking members what they should do about the millions of bales of surplus cotton that now practically belong to the people. Among them is a man named Johnson who manages the Johnson ranch in Mississippi. That ranch hires about a thousand families and consists of many thousand acres of land. They raise cotton principally. Believe it or not, that American ranch is owned by a syndicate which is located in England.

The National Defense authorization bill is in the house for action with very little fight against it except some insistence upon the part of members who want to know just what "national defense" is. The committees held long hearings. There are party conferences on the bill. It now looks like this government is aiming at protecting the principles of the Monroe doctrine and won't stand for any foreign power getting advantage of any economic, military or naval control in Central or South America. Nothing will be said about Canada. So our line of defense will be centered from the Wake islands and south through the Panama canal and thence to Puerto Rico and north along the Atlantic. It is proposed to fortify Wake island and merely make the harbor in Guam sort of a commercial airplane base with more improvements there later. Much stress is placed upon the competitive pace of airplane construction.

Our navy will have about 3,300 and our army will have about 5,500 planes when our airplane building program is completed according to discussions by members who are in close touch with our national defense plans. It is going to cost a lot of money to build and maintain these planes. Experts figure modern airplanes become obsolete in about five years in these days of rapid scientific changes and advancement.

50 cents an hour and work three hours a day. They say that many of them hold other jobs and some of them are the bread winners of families.

A lot of "leaks" in the taxpayers' purse are found by inquisitive members of the appropriations committee. One of them found that one regular department which gets what he thought was too much for regular appropriations was also drawing employees from the WPA who were getting far above the average WPA salary and no report of it was given to the committee. Now a demand for explanation has been made.

It costs $995,525.18 per fiscal year to get out the Congressional Record. Now a committee has been told that the Record can be printed for $135,000.00, per session less, making a saving close to a quarter of a million dollars per congress. But suddenly opposition develops against this attempted saving.

With the first regular appropriation bill carrying over a billion dollars, out of the way, other similar bills are facing congress. Members of the appropriation committee who are listening to demands from every department for increases are worried over the public debt. They are told that for nine years they have been going into the hole at the rate of 2 1/2 billions of dollars a year. New tax bills are in the making. In 1929 taxes took 12 per cent of our national income. Now taxes take 21 per cent of our national income, and we haven't started to reduce the debt. The unemployment, farm relief, railroad and other problems are as acute as ever.

According to official figures Uncle Sam spent $5,176,000,000 since last July 1, 1938. He took in only $3,205,000,000 making a deficit of $1,970,000,000. Our government debt now is $30,717,000,000. The secretary of the treasury says we can absorb a debt of fifty millions. The statutory limitation is five billions less than that.

Why there should be so much attention paid to congress and by the people to foreign affairs when we have so many problems here at home is not so plain, but domestic affairs seem to be relegated to the rear for the present. The farm question and that of unemployment, foreclosures of mortgages on homes and farms, revival of industry, and expansion of credit, are only a few of many pressing problems uppermost in the minds of millions, but all are subordinated to the discussion of foreign affairs in Europe, Asia and South America. Only recently the reconstruction finance corporation made another advance to the export bank to finance purchases of industrial commodities by South American and other countries. There are many small business concerns which have pending before the RFC applications for loans which are not acted upon. Were $25,000,000 to be spent in relieving farmers who are losing their homes by foreclosure, it would do more good than it will in expanding our South American trade.

Officials of the federal reserve banks are again professing alarm over the possibilities of a boom. They point to the more than three billions of excess bank reserves, and warn that such reserves would be ample to provide an expansion of credit to the point of a "disastrous inflation." Those same officials have similarly expressed themselves during the depression. There are billions of idle money which ought to be working. Not many people want a boom and probably none desire "disastrous inflation." But if the federal reserve officials can and will devise a plan to use the idle billions to put ten million men back to work, give the farmers living prices for their products, and set the wheels of industry humming, they will touch a responsive chord in the minds of many who would be willing to risk a boom and a bit of inflation to see all that accomplished.

Miss Eunice Adams of Wisner, and Eldor Moeller of Pender, were married February 31.

Varied and Unusual Experiences Are of Interest in the Southwest

Always something new and always something "unusual!" So Mrs. R. J. Kingston characterizes southern California where she spent an enjoyable five months this winter with her daughter, Miss Peace. The climate and scenery of the southwest are entrancing and do make one realize why people flock to that region.

"Unusual" is the way natives and those who have adopted the southwest as their home characterize any unpleasant variety of weather. When Mrs. Kingston left for home a few days ago a steady hard wind was blowing. Since then she has had word from her daughter that the wind assumed proportions of a hurricane and blew down 6,000 palm trees, broke many plate glass windows and did other damage in a two-day storm.

Feels Five Quakes.

The earthquake tremors were other "unusual" happenings while Mrs. Kingston was in the southwest. When in Santa Monica she felt quakes five times. And the feeling is most uncertain one, she reports. Mrs. Kingston was sitting on a davenport sewing about 11:30 one morning when she felt the first shock. She started to the door and there met the woman from the adjoining apartment coming to see if Mrs. Kingston had been advised that all gas must be turned off when tremors are felt. The house next door was moved on its foundation, and many people flocked frantically into the street as though fearful of greater danger. Another time Mrs. Kingston was doing dishes about 7:30 in the evening when a shock came and dishes moved around on the table. Since the destructive quake of a few years ago residents seem more apprehensive of the quakes. Santa Monica, 20 miles from Los Angeles, seems to feel the quakes more than the latter city.

Several mornings frost was reported in the vicinity of Santa Monica and this was also "unusual," Mrs. Kingston was informed, the first there in 18 years. The city is less than a mile's distance from the ocean and seldom does experience frost.

Snow, more like a sleet, fell another time. Children rushed out to enjoy the fun and older folks ran out with pans to catch some of the unusual form of precipitation. Considerable rain fell at the holidays. The regular rainy season is scheduled for February and March. Mrs. King-ing rebuilt. From Thursday to Monday, during the worst of the fire, the air was filled with smoke. A white ash settled on everything.

Mrs. Kingston and daughter visited several different churches in the southwest and satisfied themselves that Wayne ministers and choirs provide services equally as fine as those in the southwest. Attendance was good in the west.

Southern California always offers something new and interesting. Such is the opinion of Mrs. Kingston's sister who has lived there 10 years. Mrs. Kingston feels the same but she is happy to be back again in the middle west which also has many advantages.

Program Explained In Dixon County

Individual farm acreage allotments for 1939 have been mailed to Dixon county farmers, according to C. H. Gibbs, chairman of the county committee. Present commitments are visiting farmers to explain detailed operation of the program. All farmers expecting to take part in the program this year must sign a statement of their intentions before planting is completed. A deadline for signing and returning these statements will soon be announced. Though the statements are not binding in any way, no farmer can obtain any agricultural conservation payment under the 1939 program unless he signs one of these forms within the specified time, Mr. Gibbs announces.

A main feature of the statement this year will be a map of the farm. On this will be marked the winter wheat which is to be left for harvest as grain or hay. Any other acreage of volunteer or seeded wheat may be transferred to other uses before May 1 in order to obtain maximum acreage and price-adjustment payments offered in 1939.

Farmers now have an opportunity to summer-kill the excess wheat acreage in order to store moisture, use it to grow another crop on the same acreage or for pasture where another pasture crop is needed. If used for a nurse crop for legumes or grasses, the wheat must be clipped and not allowed to mature as grain, Mr. Gibbs states.

Early Days In Wayne County

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for March 8, 1923:

Miss Alberta Brown, formerly of Wayne, was married February 26, 1923, in Forterville, Calif., to Fletch H. Frame.

The high school basketball team went to Lincoln to the state tournament. Players were Herbert Fortner, Owen Brainard, Melvin Olsen, Carl Sund, Ted Mildner, Chris Will and Ronald Reed.

A daughter was born March 1, 1923, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gathje of near Wayne.

Spring will find several buildings going up on Main street. Frank Schulte will build on the lot covered by the south part of the Union hotel. A grocery will occupy the place. F. L. Blair and Dr. T. B. Heckert will erect a 50-foot building north of the Blair store, this to be for the Judson furniture store. Mrs. J. F. Jeffries will build south of the Crystal theatre for her ready-to-wear. E. Wright plans to build on the Union hotel site, and J. S. Lewis will put up one to replace his harness shop and the Wm. Norman barber shop.

T. W. Schutt of Winside, marketed cattle in Omaha at $9.25.

Howard Jones moved to the Enos Davis farm near Sholes.

A new stairway was built in the administration building at the college.

T. C. Ferrell sold his residence to Dr. W. B. Vail for $1,675.

Clifford Arthur of near Carroll, died March 1, 1923, from blood poisoning and pneumonia. He was 28 years old.

Charles Linn of Carroll, suffered injury to his back when a pitchfork fell and struck him while he was putting hay in the mow.

Fire, thought to have started from sparks, destroyed buildings on the Mrs. Anna Klesau farm near Hoskins, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schmeer. About a half mile of meadow burned before the blaze reached the buildings. Mrs. Schmeer was home alone and did not discover the fire until several buildings were ablaze. All but the house and a small shed were completely destroyed, also 1,200 bushels of oats and 800 bushels of corn. All were insured. Neighbors helped put up a building for the stock.

Lyle, 4 son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jensen of Winside, has had considerable bad luck. He was injured when a train struck the truck he and his father were in. Then he took scarlet fever, and later had to have treatments for nerve shock.

Mrs. Sam Stephens of Fort Collins, Colo., sister of Mrs. Joe Overman and Harry Williams of Winside, died in March, 1923.

C. B. Marks sold the Wakefield theatre to H. H. Cruickshank, H. F. Foley of Wayne, took the place of Mr. Cruickshank as manager of the Crowell lumber yard at Wakefield.

Fred Bichel has been very ill at his home south of Wakefield.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Aldor E. Johnson of Wakefield, February 28, 1923.

From the Wayne Herald for March 12, 1939: A farmers' institute was held in Carroll. Miss Jennie Bayer went to Chicago to buy spring millinery. C. M. Craven carried off honors in the Wayne gun club. Geo. Fortner went to Pennsylvania to visit relatives. Charles Pfeil went to Hoskins to the funeral of his brother-in-law, Geo. Erbe. Mrs. Harrington of Bloomfield, sister of Eugene and Phil Sullivan of Wayne, died March 7, 1939. Ham Mitchell of Wakefield, bought Wm. Lessman's herd bull. J. H. Massie of Iowa, purchased the Strahan & Warnock livery business here.

From the Ponca Journal for March 24, 1931: While this part of the country has just experienced winter of unparalleled severity, up in northern Dakota it has been drawn very mild, so much so that on the Dakota division of the Northern Pacific railroad there has not been a single snow blockade. Here and in this latitude east and west, snow blockades on the railroads have existed almost continuously the past three months. Telegraph dispatches give account of another disastrous storm in the east. The fall of snow was immense and a strong wind made that region snowbound.

Notorious James Is Supposed to Have Been Here

That crime never pays is plainly illustrated in the life of Jesse James, whose career of a half century ago is brought to light again by the new motion picture depicting the maneuvers of the marauder. And the life of James is especially interesting to Nebraskans for several localities claim that he had hideouts in this state.

A. E. Sheldon, superintendent of the Nebraska historical society, believes that the James and Younger gangs had hideouts in Nebraska but never committed their crimes in this state. Also the region of Nebraska City are said to have been the locations the gangs chose when seeking shelter in Nebraska.

The James brothers, Jesse and Frank, were natives of near Kearney, Clay county, Mo. Their mother was reared in a convent and their father was a minister, Jesse, at the age of 16, took an unaccountable dislike for railroads and began holding up and robbing trains. His daring increased and led to bank robberies, horse and cattle thefts. Others joined his gang and the desperadoes operated from Minnesota south to Kentucky. One of the biggest raids was the theft of $100,000 worth of thoroughbred horses in Kentucky.

Local tradition indicates that the James gang had hideouts in the Devil's nest in north Nebraska. The legend runs that Jesse and Frank James in 1869 robbed a South Dakota bank and fled across the Missouri river to the Devil's nest. Recently a half breed Indian, Joe Jesse James, living in that region, has made claim that he is a son of the outlaw. The story relates that the two James brothers married Indian women. Trouble is supposed to have followed and the James brothers never returned. They are said to have urged their Indian wives to join them but the mothers of the girls forbade them to see the outlaws again.

Another story mentions that the outlaws were married in 1874 in another state and this authority does not mention the Devil's nest marriages.

Nebraska City is the place Mr. Sheldon thinks was really the hideout for the bandits. The only picture ever taken of Jesse James is one in a studio in Nebraska City into which a Missouri friend of James enticed him. The bold bandit was often reported seeing riding his horse through the city.

Another story which is thought to be true is told by a Kansas man who as a youth drove a grocery wagon near St. Joseph. He relates that Jesse often asked him for a ride. Jesse never trusted anyone and would sit sideways, always facing the driver.

In 1876 James and his gang held up the Northfield, Minn., bank. The gang's so-called efficiency failed there and the bandits got what they weren't expecting. They met defeat at the hands of quiet, ordinary citizens of the little college town, unprepared for their coming except in courage and resourcefulness.

Officers of the middle west organized in a determined effort to capture the bandit who had evaded them for 16 years. Finally on April 3, 1882, Robert and Charles Ford, members of his own gang, murdered Jesse James for a $10,000 reward as he tacked a picture on the wall in his little St. Joseph cabin.
