

To Work Holds Untold Blessings — On Scribner-Oakdale Branch — Student High Jinks — Broken Bow School Audits — Happy Thought to Sleep On.

No one should envy a boy or girl who does not have to work. The one who is employed and has to earn his or her own way, is the one to envy. The young person who has never learned to perform his productive tasks or to shoulder responsibility on account of parental riches and over-indulgence, is the one entirely out of luck. If misfortune overtakes the source of ease and luxury, how overwhelming may be the job of proving equal to the occasion!

And how fleeting is material substance! Everywhere the economic juggernaut has rolled relentlessly over persons who were once considered financially independent. Thus flattened, children who have not learned to work, face a serious handicap. They must begin at the bottom and struggle up. Material possessions cannot be depended on. The fellow up today, may be down tomorrow; the one down today may be up tomorrow. Witness innumerable financial tragedies following in the wake of the depression, and then heed the warning to train youths for worthwhile service and not be engrossed in greed for riches that are often quickly perishable. Money won cheap to the sacrifice of other values often leaves a over-indulged dependents inefficient and helpless.

Expectations Realized. Thanks to capable leadership in making plans and executing them, the district music contest this Wayne Friday and Saturday brought a multitude of musicians and music fans. Wayne not only has the required managerial talent, but it has ample quarters to accommodate different sections of the contest simultaneously. The Wayne area appreciates fine music, is deeply interested in worthy youthful ambition—a spirit that makes for happily reciprocal feelings. Wayne and the music contest dovetail exactly.

Reduced Train Service. Reduction of train service on the Scribner-Oakdale branch prompts the Reporter of Newman Grove—on that line—to explain how people will have to alter and modify their habits in sending and receiving mail. Formerly the town had mails twice daily each way. Cutting the service down one-half is the inevitable penalty exacted by failure to give trains sufficient support to keep them running. Compensations in using private cars instead of passenger trains on railroads are found in the convenience and economy of saving time and preventing stopovers.

People who own automobiles—and most of them do—will not leave their parked in garages and turn their backs on hard-surfaced highways, short cuts and abbreviated time in order to keep passenger trains running with often tedious delays involved. So, when passenger service on railroads is curtailed or discontinued entirely, people will have to adjust themselves to meet certain unavoidable and regrettable losses.

Defying College Authority. Mid-western colleges are not the only ones that have lately suffered student uprisings. Eastern schools have behaved much worse, according to reports. What is the cause? Especially in the east it is suspected alienisms have aroused defiance of authority. The spirit of accepting educational advantages and then wanting to take over the show and either run it or damage it would seem on a par with sit-down strikes that tie up sources of employment and income. The belief that the sit-down outrage was the work of foreign propaganda suggests "outside influence" at work in American colleges.

Often young persons are easily excited to think they are not getting a square deal. Their anxiety to cut a sizable swathe early in the times run a student constituted authority, and then trouble develops, because, manifestly, those in charge cannot give up and move out.

Auditing Government Units. The Custer County Chief says the school board at Broken Bow has voted to have an audit of the school district's business by the Nebraska Federation of Taxpayers Leagues, and if the size and importance of the auditing organization are indicative, the overhauling of affairs ought to be made thorough. Every unit of government, should have regular audits, and responsible officers should demand them. Many errors are found and corrected in that way.

Violence to Social Ease. Before retiring Wednesday evening people were regaled with the news report that three men would be executed in the Ohio penitentiary before morning. Doubtless they deserved to be snuffed out, but countless sensitive members of society who are innocent of any intention to commit murder or any other crime, cannot fail to be disturbed by the advanced information of the deliberate taking of

Bring Bands Here For Fall Festival

Music Educators Plan for Projects at Meeting Held Friday.

A marching band contest for high school musicians will be held in Wayne next fall, probably at the time of college homecoming, according to decision reached Friday evening when the Music Educators' association met at Hotel Stratton with Prof. John R. Keith, chairman, presiding. The association plans to make this a gala event for Wayne and for several hundred musicians.

The music educators also voted to sponsor all-district band, orchestra and chorus of high school students for the teachers' convention in Norfolk in the fall. Groups would be selected from schools of the district and sent to Norfolk for concerts, also as a music clinic for the convention. Prof. Keith will direct the band and orchestra, and Prof. Russel Anderson will have charge of the chorus.

The musicians suggested possible improvements in music in the district. Judges at the music event were guests of the 32 educators and responded briefly when introduced.

WAYNE GAINING IN POPULAR FAVOR AS CONVENTION CITY

EVERY convention or other public gathering that can be brought to Wayne means a livelier and busier town. Nearly every week some public activity, usually connected with the college or other schools, invites groups of strangers here. The late music contest was an outstanding event. County Superintendent F. B. Decker is now planning a spelling contest to be held in Wayne May 19, and he has invited twenty-eight north Nebraska counties to take part. It is as yet uncertain how many will send representatives, but there will be enough to make a spirited contest. Participants in any meeting here are always accompanied by numerous friends who swell the crowd and enliven interest. Wayne is justly gaining popularity as a public meeting place.

Plantings Made At Four Schools

Rural Districts Here Receive Trees and Shrubs As Wayne Project.

In conjunction with the Arbor day program of planting trees, Wayne groups and individuals set out a number of trees, shrubs and perennials last week-end on rural school grounds.

Districts 15 and 66 northwest of Wayne were chosen for national forest plantings and will have trees placed by the federal service. The Women's club will sponsor the placing of shrubs and perennials on the two grounds. Trees, shrubs and perennials were planted on the grounds at districts 6, 13, 21 and 68. Other schools will receive plantings as the program progresses.

HOUSECLEANING AS CONTRASTED WITH THAT OF OLD DAYS

HOUSECLEANING — semi-annual assault on dirt—is not the task it was in the old days when few conveniences gave assistance. Before the time of bed springs or spring mattresses, bed ticks were filled with straw or corn husks. This renewal usually took place in the autumn when materials for the purpose were easily obtainable. This bed-tick stuffing lasted a year. Every spring and fall carpets were taken up, draped over lines and pounded until no dirt remained. The number of times the carpet had to be turned over and pounded on the other side caused many despairing groans, as old-timers well remember. Now, soft, comfortable mattresses supplant straw-filled ticks. Rugs have ruled out old-fashioned carpets. Genius' contribution of appliances and electrically driven machines has taken the drudgery out of housecleaning. It is no longer a nightmare. It is no longer a period of cold victuals, overturned routine and frayed nerves. It comes and goes almost unnoticed.

Lincoln Visited On School Trip

Commerce, Political Science Make First Hand Study At Lincoln Monday.

A field trip to Lincoln Monday proved most educational to 54 Wayne high school students, members of the political science and commercial classes. Such a trip is provided commercial students each spring in place of entering district contests, and the other group joined them to gain first-hand information in law making. Miss and Mrs. E. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bach and Miss Beatrice Fuller were chaperones. Two buses and Mr. Smith's car took the group to the city for the day.

In the morning the commercial group visited the Lincoln School of Commerce where they watched newest machines for calculating, duplicating and bookkeeping. They also saw the voice recorder by which one dictates letters which are recorded on a disc and later used by the stenographer. The students then went to a large store to see what goes on "back stage." They saw the air conditioning plant and mechanism of the elevators which are absolutely safe. They heard the personnel manager tell what he looked for in applicants, and he explained that school days just begin after one goes into business. In the accounting department students watched the store's method of accounting, exchange, credit (Continued on Page Two.)

Plaster Is Removed to Avoid Hazard at School

Plaster was taken off the hall ceiling in the city school building last Thursday near the lower grade rooms because it was a hazard to safety. This was removed from a space about eight feet square after class hours to avoid any possible accident. For some time the plaster has been checked often because of its condition. Last week Peter Henkel and his helpers saw that it had loosened more so they tried to fasten it. This was impossible and for safety's sake they decided to remove it. The ceiling will not be repaired until school closes and the remodeling starts.

Large Groups Take Superior

Comments of Judges Are Favorable in Contest Held Last Week.

Out of four large musical organizations entered in the district music contest by Wayne city school last Saturday, three received superior ratings and one received an excellent. This record gives the local school the distinction of having a greater number of points on large groups than any school entered. Other superior ratings in minor events went to Colby, Cavannah, flute soloist, and Josephine Penn, violin. Excellent ratings were recorded for the following entrants: Girls' sextet, girls' trio, madrigal group, clarinet quartet, oboe solo by Jean Mines, French horn solo by Lorraine Johnson, and girls' low voice solo by Erna Meyer. The mixed octet received a good rating.

Although Wayne city did not enter nearly as many events as some of the surrounding towns, thereby making no play for the mythical "sweepstakes," the high percentage of high ratings and low percentage of low ratings put the school in an enviable position.

Judge Tierney in his comments on the girls' glee club, stated: "The ability of this group to portray change in mood is excellent. The voices blend well. The second number is difficult one beautifully done." Mrs. Gutzmer gave the following comments on the choir: "Beautiful tenor section and fine work throughout. I think this is an exceptionally fine choir. Fine ecclesiastical atmosphere was adhered to throughout. Positiveness in the attack and phrasing added to a fine impression." Prof. Madden in his orchestra comments stated: "I think you have been doing excellent work with this group and their intonation and balance of the different instruments show good musicianship on the director's (Russell Widow's) part."

Wayne board of education will meet at the city school Friday afternoon at 2, probably in the music room, to open bids on remodeling and enlarging the building. Secretary Edward Seymour now has 11 general bids, and there will be a number of sub-bids on parts of the work.

F. S. Berry, attorney for the board in the litigation pending regarding the bond issue, has asked the supreme court for a decision at the earliest possible date so that work can start at once. Contract let Friday will be subject to court decision.

Local bonds of $48,000 were voted to be used with $39,150 federal grant for the improvement. C. H. Hendrickson sought to stop the bond issue. District court held the issue legal and Hendrickson appealed to supreme court where the matter was presented Tuesday last week.

C. C. Camp Will Be Located on Benschhof Site

Owner and Town Board Sign Contracts Binding Them In New Project Here.

Winside is to have a C. C. camp. Ten acres of C. E. Benschhof's land have been leased for 10 years at $7 an acre per year. Staking of the site started Monday and construction is expected to begin in middle of May.

The camp site is just north of highway No. 35, about two blocks west of Winside school. Barracks will be constructed for about 200 young men. The grounds will be landscaped with drives and walks built.

The camp staff will consist of 12 to 17 officers and a doctor. Most of these will be housed in Winside. Soil erosion work will be done in Wayne county by the camp men. In a letter written in the Herald, C. E. Benschhof explains that in spite of much opposition in the community and a petition with 152 signatures, the town board could not consider it for the reason I had given a 10-year lease on the land and the town had to sign a contract for water.

Medicine Fatal To Little Child

Beverly Ann Gleason Thinks Pills Are Candy and Takes Too Many.

Beverly Ann Gleason, 21-month-old daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gleason of Columbus, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ark Campbell of near Wayne, died Tuesday, April 18, at the home of her other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gleason, at Columbus, three hours after swallowing too many tablets which her grandfather had been taking as medicine. The baby saw the bottle of tablets and evidently thought they were candy. The efforts of a physician and 30-minute use of the fire department inhalator were to no avail. The child's parents were enroute to Columbus from Omaha at the time of her death. They were planning to rent a home that day so they could have the child with them.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning from St. Bonaventure's church in Columbus. Burial was in that city. The Ark Campbells attended from here. Beverly Ann Gleason was born July 26, 1937, in Columbus. Since December the child had been living with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gleason, while her parents were employed in Omaha. Mrs. Gleason is the former Miss Lillian Campbell. Besides the parents and grandparents, deceased leaves two great-grandmothers, Mrs. Adolph Matson and Mrs. B. F. Campbell, of Hartington.

Mass Meeting Planned Here

being modernized in the homeland, left their country for America where they could worship according to the dictates of their conscience. Leading their expedition were Pastors Stephen and C.F.W. Whither, two stalwarts, who steadfastly preached the word of God in its purity.

Continuing it, deals with the anilities, hardships and privations of the pioneer life of these immigrants. Without proper housing or water supplies, malaria thinned their ranks rapidly. Further, both the clergy and laity were troubled by perplexing questions. Did the colonists constitute Christian congregations with authority to call ministers and did these ministers have the right to hold their office, having left their charges in Germany?

Notwithstanding these and other trying problems, they courageously and with foresight decided on a school of learning in which religion, the languages and the usual academic subjects were to be taught. The log cabin erected was the forerunner of the present Concordia seminary in St. Louis and 16 sister colleges and seminaries throughout the United States, which have educated thousands of young men for the ministry and teaching profession in the Lutheran church.

Ruling Change Received Here

Application in Writing by May First Will Meet Requirements.

A communication received this week by H. J. Pedoll with respect to eligibility concerning agricultural conservation payment states that an owner, landlord or tenant who applies in writing to have compliance checked for agricultural conservation program with respect to a farm by May 1, 1939, will meet the changed eligibility ruling.

The communication dealing with eligibility concerning agricultural conservation payment, price adjustment and commodity loans is changed as follows: "If before May 1 an owner operator, landlord or tenant applies in writing to have compliance checked for agricultural conservation program with respect to a farm, all parties interested in crops on farm may later apply for agricultural conservation payment, price adjustment, or loans with respect to such farm. Likewise, a similar application to have a farm measured for price adjustment or loans with respect to a special crop will make all parties eligible to apply for price adjustment and loans on such special crop but not for agricultural conservation payments with respect to such farm. Note this supersedes previous instructions on eligibility."

A person interested in the crops of a farm by signing Form NCR-303 in Section W or writing a letter to the county association before May 1, 1939, requesting compliance to be checked for an agricultural conservation payment with respect to such farm makes all parties interested in the crops of such farm eligible to apply for agricultural conservation payment, price adjustment, or commodity loans with respect to that farm.

A multiple landlord by writing a letter to the county association prior to May 1, 1939, requesting that compliance be checked for the agricultural conservation program on all his farms in the county makes all people interested in the crops on his farms eligible to apply for an agricultural conservation payment, price adjustment, or commodity loan with respect to the farm or farms in which they have an interest in the crops.

It must be noted that a request by letter for a price adjustment, payment of commodity loan, or by signing in Section I of NCR-303, does not make those interested in the crops eligible to apply for an agricultural conservation payment.

County Extension Agent Chester Walters returned to Wayne last Friday evening after a week spent in Lincoln assisting in preparations for the 27th annual Feeder's day held April 21. A record crowd of 3,300 people spent the day on the campus of the college of agriculture listening to results of feeding tests of grain sorghums and hybrid corn, and other information which might prove valuable to the farmer.

Among the outstanding speakers were Paul Gerlaugh of the Ohio agriculture experiment station, and Miss Florence Plonk of the National live stock and meat board, Chicago.

A barbecued dinner was the feature Friday noon at which 1,359 men and women were served. Six hundred pounds of meat from purebred herds, slaughtered there on the campus, were barbecued in an open pit 16 feet long, 4 feet deep, and 3 1/2 feet wide. The meat had aged three weeks, the bones had been removed, the meat had been cut into pieces of 15 to 25 pounds, salted and peppered, wrapped in muslin and then in burlap, and finally placed in a bed of coals two feet deep in the pit at 11 o'clock Thursday night. The pit was covered by sheet iron topped by a layer of dirt, and the pit was opened only at 11 the next morning when the serving began.

That evening Bruce McCullough, editor of the Journal Stockman for 50 years, was honored at a Block and Bridge dinner attended by perhaps 250 people.

A great deal of enthusiasm was shown in Lincoln over Feeder's day, Mr. Walters felt.

"Painting is a language that anyone can learn," said Millard Sheets, nationally known water color painter, at the art conference held at Iowa City, Iowa, and sponsored by the art, education and extension departments of the State University of Iowa, April 21 and 22.

The following from Wayne State Teachers college attended the conference: Miss Harriet Hazinski, art instructor; Miss Jean Finkrank, Miss Marian Pape and Miss Mary Gillette; Mrs. W. Gillette of Norfolk, and Mrs. F. J. Pape of Sioux City, mothers of two students, also attended.

In addition Mr. Sheets said while demonstrating his methods of water color painting, "Painting is an intellectual process and one which requires imagination and feeling. The important thing is to be able to arrive at expressing one's self."

"You don't have to match Thomas or Michelangelo, but the thing is to be creative and put one's own interpretation into one's work. Children are much more advanced in art than adults because they express themselves much better. Although their art may look distorted, it represents their interpretation and expression which is, after all, the object of art."

Looking Backward IN Nation's Business, Merle Thorpe says the "starry-eyed Don Quixotes" who have been trying to make over America, are looking longingly at the country's 80 billion-dollar incomes of 1925-1929.

Writer Thorpe says "there has been no substitute for hard work since the Lord spoke to Adam, and that there is no easy road to prosperity by political magic."

Here are the conditions under which the United States realized an 80 billion dollar income in 1925-29:

- There were not only low federal taxes, but also decreasing federal taxes. There was not only a federal budget in balance but a substantial surplus each year.

Observing Present Trends.

There are those in Washington who are saying now that the new deal economic controls — price fixing, controlled production, farm parity, industrial regimentation and financial wizardry — are failing only because they are half-way measures.

There is no such thing as successful gradual collectivism. That's why America is at such a stalemate. We can go on to the socialistic collective state or go back to a free enterprise state.

Only when factory whistles summon men back to work will this country have real recovery. Obviously, then, anything, no matter how well intended, which silences those whistles is bad for all of us.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by DR. WELDON F. CROSSLAND, Rochester, New York

What should be the attitude of a Christian toward war? I should like to have you answer this question for yourself after reading the statements of four of my Christian friends, whose faith and sincerity I have no reason to question.

"I shall never take any part in any way in any war!" affirms a godly Quaker, who claims this to be the most Christlike attitude one can take toward the evil of war.

"I shall fight only if my country is actually invaded," states another Christian. "I fought in the World War. Never again for me, unless some hostile army sets foot on American soil. This is the same principle I'd follow if a robber or fiend tried to enter my home."

"I shall fight only in a war I believe just," declares still another. "I want to stand a few ways for justice and right. Under some conditions I believe it is right to go to war. I know how hard it is, because of propaganda and lack of vital facts, to know when a war is just—but I have to take that chance."

"I shall fight in any war that involves my country regardless of the cause," said another Christian, who is a public official. "I hope my country is always right; that is for those in charge of the government to decide. I shall leave that to them and do my part in any future war."

There seems little doubt but that some of these attitudes are more Christlike than are others. The Christian is both a follower of Jesus Christ and a citizen of his own country. He hopes there may never be a conflict between these two loyalties.

To what extent is one his brother's keeper today? Following in part Christ's parable of the Good Samaritan as he helped the man who fell among thieves on the Jericho Road, I should give among others the following answers:

To the extent of one's ability wisely to help him in his difficulty or need. Sometimes material help must be given. In other cases, such as professional beggars, some of whom "take in up to twenty dollars a day" as one said to me, giving is utter folly.

To the extent of helping protect the moral welfare and health of one's community against those forces that prey on the weakness of men. Anyone can speak and vote against those vicious conditions that undermine the morale and morals of youth.

To the extent of making possible through business and government the most abundant life possible for everyone. In these days of social action through pressure groups one's effectiveness increases geometrically as he cooperates with others who share his ideals and purposes.

Without being either officious or intrusive, anyone can discharge at least a part of his responsibility to his fellows.

Shall we find and know our friends in heaven? I am confident that we shall know those who are there.

Renewing old friendships and making new ones will, one trusts, be among the chief joys of that better land. Would not heaven leave much to be desired, if life's richest experiences of love, friendship and companionship in some nobler form were not a part of the bliss and blessedness of the heavenly city?

The hopeless Buddhist idea of complete loss of all personal identity, as when a drop of water is lost in the sea, is entirely foreign to the Christian idea of heaven.

The disciples' recognition of Jesus after His resurrection confirms the reasonable understanding of His teaching that they should meet and know Him in paradise.

What language or method of communication they will employ to bridge the gaps of nationality and the centuries no one can say. Life in the other world will at least be as rich, varied and intelligent as it has been on earth—and all hope and believe infinitely more so.

Wayne Prep Play Centers in Family

"Universal Alibi," Wayne prep senior play, to be presented Friday, April 28, promises to be an entertaining production. Dr. Raymond Alder, a distinguished scientist, has a lonely but impractical wife, Lois, and three modern children. Delphine, is 20, Andy is a would-be football star, and Bunny, 15, just grew up.

Lois, because she is very impractical, has managed to get the family into debt and when Mr. Engel, a newly made vice president, comes upon the scene and offers a way out of the trouble, the whole family falls for it, except Doctor Alder, the person most concerned.

Matt Moore, the instructor in public speaking, is already very much involved in the affairs of the Alders; and when Paul Devereaux, a young French scientist, arrives on the scene matters become very complicated. In fact they become so complicated that Delphine and two friends, Alice and Opal, take matters into their hands. Lupe, the Spanish maid, arrives on the scene to fix things up.

Students taking part in the production are Beryl Nelson, Carol Anderson, Mary Sharer, Frances Denesia, John Palmquist, Nelda Bressler, Carroll Orr, Wendell Groskurth, Anne Ahern, Glenn Giese, Herbert Welch, Joe Kirwan and Frederick Doctor.

Business Club Gifts Are Made

F. V. Peterson Gives Talk at Wayne Group Meeting Wednesday Night.

Wayne Business Men's club, meeting Wednesday evening last week at Hotel Stratton, voted to give $20 to girl scouts, $20 to boy scouts and $5 to the Women's club tree planting project.

Supr. F. Valdemar Peterson of Elgin, who addressed the group, stressed the fact that education and religion are being neglected at present. He urged a more sympathetic attitude toward education, and advised more encouragement for children to attend Sunday school and church. He illustrated the need for religious training by the fact that many children think of Santa Claus as the inspiration for observance of Christmas, rather than the occasion being the birthday of Christ.

Present day education, too, stated Mr. Peterson, should be arranged to meet timely problems. Though mathematics, Latin and science subjects do not change, science, economics, civics and history are among those in which teachers should instruct in sound fundamentals. Much of the propaganda produced by foreign "isms" can be destroyed by proper teaching.

Wayne is a most important educational, religious and social center in northeast Nebraska, Mr. Peterson pointed out, and residents here should do everything possible to promote such worthwhile influence. He told the club of the advantage Wayne has in creating goodwill when visitors come here for such occasions as music contests. Every courtesy shown strangers at such times is more than repaid. He told that business men of Elgin visit every farm in their vicinity at least once a year just to let rural families know that they are invited to Elgin as a business and educational center.

The club meets again May 3 when Ben Stein of Norfolk, will be speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Thomas of Lincoln, came Friday and visited until the first of the week with their daughter, Mrs. Albert Kern, and family.

The Cabin Kids

If there is anything cuter than one Picaninny—it's five. And the novel and entertaining presentation of the Cabin Kids is the talented offerings of five picaninies. Ranging in age from 7 years to 14, attired in hair ribbons, starched dresses and suits for boys.

The five children offer a knock-out singing and comedy act. They were recently featured in the motion picture "Mississippi" creating a huge success. They have also appeared on the radio as guest artists supporting Rudy Vallee and Paul Whiteman.

In their stage appearances they indulge in cross-fire comedy-chat, sing hot and special numbers in harmonic ensemble form, and one little lad does a solo.

Their youth and appearance is appealing and are bound to make a hit with any audience.

Carlson Students Do Well in Contest

Several who were successful in the district music contest here last week are former or present students of Prof. and Mrs. Albert G. Carlson. Ethel Jean Olson of Wayne prep, who received superior rating in piano, has had all her study with Prof. and Mrs. Carlson. Miss Ruth Annot, who directed the Norfolk vocal groups so well, Miss Irene Rose, who directed the Wausau students, and Miss Anna Kohls, who directed Creighton vocal groups, are former piano students of Prof. Carlson.

As Princess Elizabeth of England reached her 13th birthday, officers of state are already worrying about her future husband because of diminishing royalty in Europe.

Wayne Woman Accorded Honor

Mrs. Grace Welsh Lutgen Has Poem Included in Fair Anthology.

Mrs. Grace Welsh Lutgen of Wayne, has been accorded national literary recognition for her poem "Spring's Messenger," which has been accepted for inclusion in the World's Fair Anthology of 1939, to be published by the Exposition Press, New York City. Mrs. Lutgen, who competed in a $100 poetry prize contest still open to all poets, had to withstand tremendous meritorious competition in order to become one of the comparatively select few chosen for representation in The World's Fair Anthology.

The author has already achieved publication in the following anthologies of verse: "Garden Poems," "Caravan of Verse," "American Women Poets," "The Year at the Spring," "Homespun," "American Voices," and last year's World's Fair Anthology. Her stories appear mostly in religious magazines.

Mrs. Lutgen is a writer of short stories, poems, pageants, plays and songs. Her "Nebraska, My Native Land" has been officially adopted by Federated Women's Clubs, Kiwanis and Lions clubs and by the N. E. A. as the official state song. Her pageants and plays appear in most of the leading play catalogues while her own state pageants are widely used at fairs, celebrations and school programs. Mrs. Lutgen is active in women's club work, having served as local and district president, chairman of district and state, and three years as national chairman of drama. She is now serving as president of the Nebraska Writers' Guild, and is listed in the "Who's Who" of American women.

Similar recognition was accorded to Ruby Swenson McLean of Elkhorn, Neb., whose poem "Antiques," has also been accepted for publication in the World's Fair Anthology of 1939.

This anthology will be recognized as the standard volume of contemporary verse by competent critical judges. Inasmuch as there were many thousands of entries from which only a comparatively few could be selected, the appearance of verse is a distinct literary achievement.

Ruling Made in Supreme Court

The Nebraska supreme court held that a man can make a legal will at 96 years of age, overruling the Dixon county district court judgment setting aside the will of Frederick Bose who died in 1937 when he was past 100 years of age.

Mr. Bose had two children, Mrs. C. F. Knudsen of Brunning, Neb., and Fred Bose of Dixon, also 67 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. In 1933 Mr. Bose made a will in which he gave his son 130 acres of land and the children of two deceased sons the remaining 140 acres. Mrs. Knudsen brought action alleging mental incapacity led her father to make out such a will.

In January, 1938, Dixon county district court set aside the will on the ground that deceased was incompetent to make out such a document. Fred Bose, jr., appealed to supreme court.

The late Frederick Bose was a native of Germany and came to the country in 1866, following his trade as blacksmith in Cincinnati. Later he came to Saunders county, and in 1892 moved to Dixon county, Neb.

The case is unique in that it involves the validity of a will made by a person when 96 or past.

Spelling Champions Enter Sioux City and Omaha Meets This Week

Wayne county students who will compete in the interstate spelling bee in Sioux City Friday this week are Marjorie Caauwe and Delores Peters. Marjorie also enters the World-Herald contest in Omaha Saturday.

Pupils raked the lawn and cleared the small grove in observance of Arbor day.

The school was glad to receive word from C. E. Nicholson that trees and shrubs, given by the Legion and Women's club, would be planted on the grounds.

The following, entitled "In School," was written by Bonnie Bruggeman, 13, of the 8th grade:

"In school we have to work so hard to get our lessons through; but think of all the things we learn from all the things we do. We have arithmetic each day to teach us how to figure, so we can work out problems, when we have grown much bigger.

"We also have to read at school and know each tiny letter, so when we are out of school we can read much better.

"In agriculture we study hard and learn the different ways of hogs and cattle and sheep and birds, and learn how each to raise.

"In history we learn many things of our nation now today, also of its long ago when it was in a different way.

"In all our school work is very hard, or that is what we think, but those who are out of school think it's easy as a wink."

South America Intrigues

"What trip next year?" asks Mrs. A. R. Davis, who arrived home April 16, after a 13,000 mile cruise along South American coastal points, visiting Rio, Santos, Buenos Aires, Victoria and many other South American cities. Mrs. Davis was gone nearly three months, and now finds herself missing the sea and the life on board ship with its contacts and friendships.

In preparing for a trip abroad or to South America one's greatest task is the securing of the proper documents, certificates and material for the passport. The passport director in Washington, D. C., demands of each applicant a birth record, proof of citizenship, certificate of good health, certificate stating that the person has not committed a felony or been imprisoned for the past five years. This passport when obtained is good for two years with the privilege of renewal for one year.

Mrs. Davis sailed from New Orleans February 4 on the S. S. Delud. The ship was conducted the 100 miles down the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico by a pilot ship, for which service $6 per foot of the ship's bulk is paid. The Delud sailed from the Gulf into the Caribbean sea, passing east of Cuba, past Santa Domingo, Puerto Rico, the Seaward and Barbados islands. Although land was sighted at various points, no stop was made since the cost of docking is $500.

Mrs. Davis had the privilege of sitting at the captain's table, both going down to Buenos Aires and also on the return voyage to New Orleans. This made the trip most interesting. On board ship one becomes well acquainted with the guests and makes many pleasant contacts. Wonderful food was served on this "floating hotel"—including all sorts of meats, fish, imported and unusual dishes and salads. The officers are most courteous and the stewards are the best. All one had to do was to enjoy the sea and the pleasure of the trip. For so long a cruise many parties were arranged. Birthdays were celebrated with special parties and birthday cakes. A Valentine party was one feature of the trip. As part of the entertainment a quartet composed of three young Mormon missionaries and Mrs. Davis sang. Of course the captain's dinner was one of the most gala affairs. On the return trip a mock wedding was staged in mountaineer costumes. Almost anything was done to pass the time in fun.

Entertainment Provided. There were all kinds of games played on deck—ping-pong, shuffle board, cards; swimming and sun bathing were enjoyed especially. The big event was the initiation of those guests who have never before crossed the equator. The captain and the chief engineer supervised the proceedings. An edict was read at lunch which proclaimed that all were to wear bathing suits—advice best to follow, it was later found out, since many were ducked in the ship's pool. The guests were blind-folded, spanked, placed on an electric chair, massaged with ice, shampooed with eggs, and some thrown into the pool. It was all great sport and at dinner that night each one was presented with a diploma for being accepted into the Domain of Neptune Rex.

To a land-lubber, the fish of the ocean are most interesting. One morning those passengers standing at the bow of the ship saw a great school of porpoises each weighing over 200 pounds, leaping far into the air from the water. They are called the clowns of the sea. The flying fish were to be seen, some gliding as far as 50 feet at one leap. The Portuguese Man-of-War was the most beautiful. It is bristled in color and looks like a glass flower floating on the water's surface. One day when the sea was quiet the captain said that no doubt many sharks might have been seen had the ship been anchored. Sometime before, the ship had actually anchored and caught many of them.

Most Beautiful Port. Rio de Janeiro was the first port in which the Delud stopped. This port is called the most beautiful port in the world, with its mountains rising out of the harbor waters, its Sugar Loaf, its great lighthouse, Rio is the city of mosaic streets, hand-laid in beautiful designs of tan and brown coloring. It is a truly foreign city with many narrow streets as are those in Italy. The beautiful beach, "Corcovado" is crowded with bathers at all times and the hotel there is most pretentious. Jesus, a young Spanish gentleman, contacted Mrs. Davis around the city. He claimed that the man-was not at all unusual. She saw, too, the statue of Christ on the mountain top, and the hanging rock gardens and caverns where American Indians once lived.

Santos Is Coffee Port.

The next port was Santos, perhaps even a more beautiful port than that at Rio as regards scenery and mountains. The Wayne traveler arose early that morning to take pictures of a spectacular sunrise scene with mountains and sailing ships. Santos is the greatest coffee port in the world. As part of a tour of the city one goes to the top of a mountain where there is an old church, built in 1609, in which is a prayer room for maidens to pray for husbands. This room is filled with pictures of bridal couples and wedding gloves. Another room contained wax forms of the ill parts of the body, supposed to be played over and made well. Orchid gardens owned by a millionaire and open to the public were also visited. There are 4,000 varieties to be seen, arranged on arbors in artistic array. Santos is like an island because the ocean and the channel connect around it.

Stop in Montevideo.

The next port visited was Montevideo, the capital of Uruguay. The capital building, called the Marble Palace, is famed for its beautiful walls and columns of Uruguay's pink marble. Twentyfour carat gold is to be found in designs in the ceilings; there are hand paintings on the walls, and life-size figures in the senate chamber in gold and red.

Mrs. Davis had the unfortunate experience of having her motion picture camera stolen while in port. She was advised to report to the police and customs officers, but the camera was not found.

Arrive in Buenos Aires.

The ship arrived at Buenos Aires after 26 days at sea from New Orleans. Doctors and officers boarded the ship to examine passports and documents. Then the customs had to be gone through at which time all luggage was carefully examined.

Sixteen days were spent at Buenos Aires, the largest and most cosmopolitan city of South America. Mrs. Davis was a guest at the City hotel, the popular place for American travelers because there some English is spoken. In general very little English is spoken. Portuguese is most common in Brazil and Spanish in the Argentine. The people are mostly a mixture of Spanish and Portuguese blood, and there is little of the pure Indian blood remaining. In some of the shops, then, there were clerks who could speak a little English, but more often than not one could only attempt to make himself clear through motions and signals. Usually on Fifth street, where the smartest shops were found, there were English interpreters. On this particular street the law requires that between 12 and 2, the time of siesta, and after 5 o'clock no cars are allowed, so pedestrians walk in the streets—an unusual sight.

Traffic Rules Differ.

Cars, of course, have the right-hand drive as they do in Europe, and traffic is not regulated. The pedestrian weaves in and out among them and prays that he may cross the street safely. They say the car that sounds his horn first, has the right of way; consequently one hears a constant blowing of horns. Another interesting thing in South America is the way in which they attract the attention of cars, street cars, waiters, etc., with a sort of hiss. Everyone's ears must be attuned to it for it is always heard.

The heat was intense at midday, but the evenings were very pleasant with 85 degrees the usual temperature. This was really the fall season in the Argentine as seasons there are exactly opposite those here. December, January and February are the summer months there, while June, July and August are considered winter. South America as a whole is tropical, but Buenos Aires is more temperate.

Out from Buenos Aires are the greatest plains in the world—the pampas. There the greatest cattle raising industries exist, and the Argentine is said to be the land of the most wonderful steaks.

Our dollar is a peso in South America, and each day the exchange rate varies. There are houses of exchange where the visitor may go to trade money. It is best to do this in regular houses, since the shops are not to be trusted. One even has to be careful in sending airmail letters. (Continued on Page Five.)

Results Reviewed In Examinations

A review of results in the rural school examinations shows that reading and mental arithmetic were the subjects in which lowest grades were made. This is probably accounted for, largely by the fact that these two subjects and agriculture and geography of Nebraska are the only ones on which 7th graders were allowed to write. Other low grades were due to failure to read questions carefully and failure to check work after completion.

In the tests taken by 7th and 8th graders, 92 grades in reading were below 75, and in mental arithmetic 72 were under 75. In other subjects the number below this passing mark were 34 in grammar, 32 in general geography, 27 in drawing, 25 in agriculture and geography of Nebraska, 22 in arithmetic, 15 in spelling, 14 in history, 13 in civics, 7 each in bookkeeping and English composition, 5 in physiology.

Examinations will be given again May 9. At that time the reading tests will be based on Rip Van Winkle, The Great Stone Face, Legend of Sleepy Hollow, The Vision of Sir Launfal and Evangeline. Pupils should be able to organize the main points of selections into outline form.

District 27.

(Joy Lutt, teacher) Mrs. Adolph Henschke and Mildred Tarnow visited school April 10. The former treated the teacher and pupils to jello and cake in honor of Paul Henschke's 7th birthday.

St. Paul congregation meets next Sunday at 10:45 with all other Lutheran churches of the synod to celebrate the special centennial service. The theme will be "Thank God for the Privilege of Membership in Our Missouri Lutheran Church." After the service the congregational centennial committee will have lunch together in the Sunday school room. At 1 p. m., after brief devotions and address by the pastor, the committee will send the solicitors out two by two, to different homes of all members to speak with and encourage them to lift up a thanks offering during the month of May. Solicitors will hand to everyone the collection material. All members are requested to be at home Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5. Let us all attend this special service and bring others who are yet without a church home and who are our friends. Our church "stands fast in the liberty where with Christ has made us—and all mankind—free." Our forefathers laid down their lives for liberty of our beloved America but Christ shared his blood and gave his life for the liberty of the whole world. As you rejoice and stand fast in your national liberty, how much more should everyone of us rejoice and stand fast to the liberty by which Christ made us free. Ours is temporal; Christ's liberty is eternal.

Choir rehearsal Wednesday evening at 8. All should attend to get ready for the mass celebration. Instruction as usual.

Ladies' Aid meets May 3 with Mrs. Geo. Stolz hostess.

watching to be sure the stamp is actually placed on the letter for which it is intended. Otherwise persons may re-send the stamp, and one's letter may never reach its destination.

On the ocean front the city has placed radios every 50 or 100 feet to be used for street dancing. It was the usual sight to see coffee bars where the Spanish gentlemen may drop in at a bar for coffee, black and thick. The best coffee is served at Santos where the cafeine is taken out, and though it is still black and thick, it is no longer bitter.

Mrs. Davis had the rare experience of meeting the son of the consul-general of Argentina, who took her to lunch and showed her about the city. He spoke perfect English, having lived in South Africa for seven years. His father was back in South America for a vacation before being sent to another country as consul-general.

In the City Beautiful.

Buenos Aires is the city beautiful, with its parks, gardens, stately and plazas. The city spends fortunes on these things.

Visits in Mountains.
On the return trip Mrs. Davis visited Sao Paulo, a beautiful city money better spent on the poor and the beggars which are so common, some think. One may see gorgeous acres of gardens—sunk gardens, rose gardens or botanical gardens with white marble statuary. In the same park where these gardens are there is an open air theatre. There the Wayne traveler attended a presentation of "Il Trovatore," sung in Spanish.

Statues fill the city, many of which are gifts of the time of the centennial of independence. One of Columbus presented by the Italian president was placed in the "Plaza de Mayo" in front of the "Casa Rosada." This means Rose House, and corresponds to the White House here.

In the same theatre mentioned before there are rooms with curtains so that those in mourning may come and hear the opera without being seen. In the work rooms people were sewing and designing costumes when Mrs. Davis visited the theatre. The men in charge held robes and gowns that had been worn by such great singers as Lily Pons and Caruso and others for her to photograph.

The Spanish and South American dress for mourning—all in black even to the hose in large families they are seldom out of mourning attire, for finishing for one; they dress for another.

To Ocean Resort.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Hahlbeck, brother of Mr. Hahlbeck of Wayne, did much to make Mrs. Davis' trip a wonderful one. With them she attended the races at the San De Canto tracks, the Recoleta cemetery and rode to Tigre, the Venice of South America. All the homes and hotels are on canals, and must be reached by launches. In these canals one may see beautiful private yachts moored. Mrs. Hahlbeck also accompanied Mrs. Davis to Mar Del Plata, an ocean resort 300 miles south of Buenos Aires. This resort is the Riviera of Monte Carlo, South America. There the two women stayed at the Italian hotel, built around a square. The food was unusual; for example, partridge in olive oil was served with peppers and onions, or spaghetti in squares filled with chicken. They also visited the Casino, the second largest in the world—next to the one at Monte Carlo.

Mrs. Davis landed in Victoria Sunday evening and saw the traditional Sunday evening custom in which the girls walk around the park. When a young man sees one who pleases him he tosses his hat at her feet.

Next day a group from the ship went ashore, taking cameras with which to get pictures as they had done all over South America. They took some of a group of students passing up some steps to a higher street. Soon the students returned with the police demanding a visit to the station. It seems that previously some French people had taken pictures of crumbling houses, beggars, etc., and had published them in a magazine. This picture of the city was, of course, detrimental, and they thought that these Americans might also be spies.

IT HAS EVERYTHING IT DOES EVERYTHING IT'S A BEAUTY OLIVER ROW CROP 70 Put Two Plows Behind the "70" and You Really Cover Ground Just run down the furrows with an Oliver Row Crop "70" and a 2-bow plow. You'll agree that the "70" has everything, does everything and is a beauty for plowing. It's amazing the ground you cover in a day with "70" power on Tip Toe. Plowing speeds of 3.32 and 4.33 m.p.h., travel speed of 5.38 m.p.h., and remarkable ease and speed of handling add many acres of work in a season. The "70's" quiet, steady 6-cylinder power means you're not worn out from noise, strain and vibration at the end of the day, and with the Oliver Variable Speed Governor Control you only use the fuel needed to do the work. The Row Crop "70" is built in two engine types for greatest fuel economy: the "70" HC (high compression) for gasoline and the "70" KD for kerosene or distillate. Pick your fuel and your "70". Come in and get demonstration proof that the Oliver "70" is the only truly modern tractor for your farm. SEE AN OLIVER "70" BEFORE YOU BUY! H. H. Hachmeier PHONE 62 WAYNE, NEB.
