

Differences Develop in Dix County—Big Majority Neutrality—Ponca to Celebrate Again—Mayors Want More Aid—Trying to Keep a Town Down—Weed's Lurking Danger—Women Become More Powerful—Paying a High Price.

Usually when differences become irreconcilable, parties involved separate, go their preferred ways and live more happily thereafter. Over in Dix county there has developed such bitter disagreement over the county seat location that return to peace seems unlikely, and therefore we repeat our former suggestion that southern townships be released and permitted to join Wayne county.

As the result of a recent poll, the University of Omaha has found among editors of Nebraska and Iowa a large preponderance of sentiment in favor of the cash and carry plan as an amendment to the neutrality act dealing with warring nations abroad.

Keeping America out of foreign entanglements, as advised by Washington and echoed by many since his day, would leave one country comparatively intact, one haven of liberty and security, one example for the guidance and encouragement of surviving peoples caught in the theatre of war.

Ponca is planning another pioneers' celebration to be held June 23 and 24. Popularity of previous events of the kind will doubtless lead to making the celebration an annual affair.

Revival of the pioneer spirit in many anniversary celebrations these days stirs and revitalizes fundamentals needed to resist the dangerous blandishments of alien isms.

On Wrong Track. Mayors of metropolitan cities writing the federal government for more relief money lead one to wonder how long before the Washington administration will see the light—will rightabout-face, modifying restrictive measures and remedying its that temper private employing sources.

To Escape Competition. Many years ago in Klamath Falls, Oregon, we knew a merchant who was eager to keep that frontier town of 600 down in size in order to avoid additional competition.

Dangerous Marijuana. It is reported that 300 prisoners in the United States bear the label of dealers in nerve-wrecking marijuana. It would seem enough ways had been found to drive one crazy or destroy one's self-possession without creating an appetite for that nefarious weed.

Growing Influence. Influence of women in public affairs is justly increasing. Mothers are gaining more deserved recognition as forces in shaping character and thus in uplifting and strengthening the social order.

Wedding of June Announced Here. Miss Lois B. Beckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beckman, and Mr. Lloyd W. Dunklau, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunklau, will be married June 4 by Rev. W. F. Most.

Graduation Speaker. Dr. J. T. Anderson went to Meadow Grove Wednesday evening to give the high school graduation address. His subject was "A Menace to Civilization."

Appropriate to Mother's day which has just passed, we note with high satisfaction that five million American mothers expected to observe the occasion by signing the following pledge: "Thankful for the benefits of a free country, I, an American mother..."

Conservation Program Is Explained at Meeting Held in Winside.

Thirty applications for soil conservation work to be conducted by the newly established C. C. camp at Winside, are on file, and officials welcome applications from others who wish work done.

COMPLAINT ABOUT FLOWERS PLUCKED WITHOUT REQUEST

COMPLAINT is made that flowers are surreptitiously plucked from private yards and that persons—mostly young and thoughtless—shortcut across lawns and injure tender grass.

Householders who devote a lot of time and expense to growing flowers to beautify their premises and to help the good looks of the community should not suffer destruction of their efforts. And we can't understand how anyone can enjoy the beauty and fragrance of flowers possessed in that way. If one sees tempting blossoms and wants some, he should ask the owner. Invariably the request would be granted. One should not help himself and by so doing often damage the plants.

Poppy day will be observed throughout the United States Saturday, May 27, with the wearing of memorial poppies in honor of World war dead. Wayne, united with the Legion Auxiliary will conduct the annual sale on that day with Mrs. E. R. Love chairman.

More than 11 million of the little red memorial flowers have been made by disabled World war veterans working in government hospitals and in poppy workrooms maintained by the Auxiliary. They are recognized throughout the English-speaking world as the memorial flower for those who fell in defense of democracy.

Proceeds from poppy day sales will be used for Legion and Auxiliary welfare and relief work among disabled veterans and dependent families of veterans.

Decisions of Compensation and District Courts Are Overruled.

Nebraska supreme court, in an opinion filed May 12, denied compensation recovery to the widow of George H. Lessman in the damage case filed against Wayne county and its insurance carrier, Employers Mutual Casualty company of Des Moines.

The petition, filed by C. H. Hendrickson in behalf of Mrs. Amelia Lessman, alleged that injuries which Mr. Lessman sustained while operating a road grader for Wayne county September 22, 1937, caused the cancer which resulted in his death December 24, 1937.

Judge Lawrence Welch of the compensation court, heard the matter at Wayne April 13, 1938, and he entered the opinion that the death of George H. Lessman was not caused "directly or indirectly by the accident which deceased sustained prior to his death."

Following a petition for rehearing, the case came before the three compensation court judges, Frank M. Coffey, Charles Jackman and Lawrence Welch, at Wayne last July 8. An award September 12, 1938, "set aside the dismissal entered by Judge Welch and entered an award of $150 funeral benefits, and directed payment of $15 a week for 325 weeks from December 24, 1937, and allowed medical bills of $100." The total amounted to about $5,000. Opinion of the compensation court was that "deceased died of cancer, was not injured and the cancer was the result of the accident, and that plaintiff is entitled to recover compensation benefits."

District Judge C. H. Hendrickson confirmed the finding of the compensation court. The insurance company appealed the case in behalf of Wayne county. The supreme court reversed the finding of the compensation court.

Tips are given about champions in the calf shows are given by Dixon County Agent Geth M. Dunn, who suggests that full gain rations are essential in early summer months. Excess feed should be cleaned out of the bunk, and only fresh cracked or shell, and corn offered. Some bulk should be included to stimulate appetite. Both bran and oats are cooling in hot weather.

Less hay should be fed if the calves are not eating sufficient grain. With only a limited amount of alfalfa, the ration is likely to be low in protein. A pound to a pound and a half daily of soybean meal, cottonseed meal or linseed meal should be added — perhaps even a mixture of these. Many 4-H feeders prefer wild hay or ever straw to alfalfa for calves. There seems to be less danger of digestive disturbances. If such low-protein roughages are fed, more high protein concentrate will be needed in the ration, and a little steamed bone meal or mineral mixture will insure against mineral deficiency. A shady place hung with sacks will provide a cool, darkened shelter where the calf can brush off flies. Thorough cleaning of the quarters will help, also.

In Local Hospital. John Frydenlund of Wayne, is in a local hospital receiving treatment for heart trouble.

Speaking of A PIONEER

York county citizen tells of early-day experiences in the York Republic and emphasizes the hardihood that possessed first settlers.

What the Republican's correspondent said about surmounting obstacles in the primitive days of York county would apply with equal force to any county in the state.

The pioneers of York county were a courageous, determined, hard-working lot of citizens. But there were other characteristics of the men and women of pioneer days that had much to do in leaving a heritage for the generation that now has control of affairs.

Dissenting Chamber

THE United States Chamber of Commerce did not itemize new deal enactments it would have congress repeal. It tied the whole series together and requested a complete uprooting.

At a recent banquet held by the Chamber in Washington, a startling incident disturbed serenely somewhat. While Chamber surgeons were dissecting the new deal and explaining what was wrong with it—perhaps, not employing uniformly polite terms—representative Sol Bloom of New York, nettled beyond endurance, indignantly walked out.

Raymond Clapper, columnist, points out the present alphabetically designated setups to cure depression ills were tried by the Romans before the collapse of their empire, and he expresses doubt as to whether the experiments caused the fall or whether the experiments proved merely ineffective in stopping the downward trend toward a complete blowup.

Cattle growers in this country do not relish the command of the president to buy and ship in Argentine beef for the American navy on the claim that it is cheaper and better. It is not so much the one purchase that hurts, but going out of the country to compete with American farmers who pay taxes and otherwise support the government, is glaringly unfair.

Nature seems determined to keep us jumping to escape crop dangers. Now, grasshoppers threaten, and if rain does not soak them beyond endurance, we will have to spend money and effort in distributing poison. Life's highway is beset with enough risks and losses to keep one from growing soft and useless.

The savagery and futility of war have so burped into the American mind that overwhelming sentiment exists in opposition to leaving American shores to fight. And the known resources and intelligent man power of this country have a sobering effect on any nation that feels hostile enough to send its armies this way.

A movement is on foot in Washington to prevent increase of the worker's one per cent payment into the social security's old age benefit fund next January as planned. This is one of several ways proposed to keep the tax load from becoming more burdensome.

Walter Winchell, columnist and radio news commentator, announced Sunday with amazing definiteness that President Roosevelt would run for a third term. Thus, he would offer his administration's performance as justification in setting aside the two-term tradition.

Approach of July Fourth has prompted newspaper discussion of the advisability of extending and tightening restrictions on the use of firecrackers and other explosives. It is no longer deemed necessary to imperial lives and property in order to express a feeling of patriotism. Further, automobiles are more modern as means of running risks with possibility of getting hurt or killed.

Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, known as the "glacier priest," who is credited with previous accuracy in weather forecasts, now predicts ample moisture for Nebraska in the near future, and we prefer to believe he knows what he is saying.

Wages-Hours Law Denounced

At the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington this week there was considerable argument over many business policies but on one point the sentiment of the big convention was practically unanimous. Delegates condemned the wages-hour law and its administration and demanded its immediate repeal.

"The experiences with the wage-hour law," the resolution said, "have demonstrated the impracticability of such a measure in its application to widely varying conditions. The difficulties and hardships caused by the law will increase. The law should be repealed for the benefit of employers, employees, and the general public."

Discussion in and out of congress indicates that this demand reflects the sentiment of the country, except for some of the radical union labor groups. The attempt to form a wages-hour law, framed to meet conditions in a restricted eastern industrial area, on the entire nation was unwise and has resulted in a dismal failure.

Cause and Effect

Economic observers have long noted a parallel relationship between farm income and factory pay rolls. They go up and down together and their annual aggregates very nearly balance one another.

Is this a kind of mutual relationship like that between the hen and the egg? Or is it cause and effect? Does one invariably set the pace which the other follows? If so, which is the pacesetter and which the follower?

A chart for which the national farm chemurgic council is responsible explains it as cause and effect, assigning the role of cause to farm income and the role of effect to factory pay rolls.

This is what we in the farmbelt want to believe to be true. It seems reasonable to us that it should be true. And yet, we should like some sounder and more solid explanation for the phenomenon than a graphmaker's ipse dixit.

We are familiar, of course, with the explanation that an increase of farm income is followed by increased farm purchases of industrial goods which mean more factory employment and more wages, frequently better wages. And a very good explanation it is. Its logic is sound and convincing. But its corollary seems to be equally sound, that more factory wages result in more purchasing power and hence more demand for the food and textiles which start to market as farm produce. That must be true also, else there is little point to the argument that farm surpluses are the result of underconsumption rather than overproduction. If more money is spent on food and clothing either the farmer must get it or it is all absorbed by the spread in the process of distribution.

So that kind of explanation merely brings us to the old hen and egg cycle in which today's cause becomes tomorrow's effect, and vice versa.

Commencement in 1939

During the spring season thousands of homes respond to the thrill of commencement. Graduates rejoice in the completion of requirements. Fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, watch with eagerness and pride for representatives of family circles in the procession of honor. Communities pay tribute to the achievement of youth. The citizenship of the state and nation feels the impetus of hope and confidence in the future essential to the progress of civilization.

Circumstances of the times fully warrant the provision of a special program for commencement. Recent years have brought disillusionment to young and old. Graduates in common with the men and women everywhere have learned to Carry On through shadow as well as sunshine. In this larger experience is the finest lesson of life. Parents and citizens are struggling desperately to hold the gains of the past. They are anxious to give young people a larger measure of preparation than was theirs to equip them for the heavier burdens of tomorrow.

To the graduates of 1939 comes the challenge of a better world. Pessimism points to evils in every direction. Optimism finds opportunities for service on every hand. The eternal injunction holds, "Be not overcome of evil but overcome evil with good." The price of worthy achievement is the same today as it was yesterday and as it will be tomorrow. That price is written in terms of toil and consecration to worthy purposes.

In the days of chivalry, youth kept vigil upon the threshold of responsibility. Graduates of 1939 going forth into the world tomorrow will do well to carry with them from home the memory of the sacrifices of father and mother; from the community the patriotism that is willing to invest in citizenship; and from the halls of the Alma Mater the inspiration in the heroic figure of Sir Galahad. This spirit holds the assurance and the power of the finest victory life has to offer—the supreme satisfaction of triumphant Christian character. Regardless of position or possession, this enduring reward is within the reach of every member of every class of every commencement throughout America in 1939.

RAIN NEEDED. More rain is the greatest present need hereabouts. Some sections of the county and of northeast Nebraska have been more fortunate in moisture than the Wayne vicinity. Rain forecasts have usually been fulfilled in other parts, but not in this neighborhood. Experience seems to attach more importance to rains in July than in any other month for growing corn. But previous rains are needed to speed hay and small grain. In the drought year of 1938 over four inches of rain fell in May, but only six hundredths of an inch in July. About an inch and a half were recorded in June. Last year we had plenty of rain in May, less in June, but over five inches in July. The July contribution rescued the corn, though August was perilously dry. We will soon require moisture to help pastures and small grain, but later rains will determine the year's major crop, corn. Agriculture is always a gamble, and so is every other endeavor because it depends on agriculture. Results of the gamble usually—not always—turn out better than expected.

Sharp (Continued from page one) er, will do my utmost to help my children understand, cherish and guard the five freedoms upon which this nation was founded: Freedom of speech, press, assembly, worship and petition. I will teach my children by my own example that they should respect the rights and opinions of others if they would defend their own, and thus preserve our heritage of liberty against any and all doctrines opposed to the traditions of our nation.

Desirable Inconspicuousness. Victor Hugo said in effect that it is a sure sign of success when envy snaps. And the greater the success of big industrialists, for instance, the greater the task of shouldering responsibilities and dodging the blows of those prompted by envy or rivalry. Really, the great industrialist is not to be envied. He is often misunderstood, is constantly besieged for favors he cannot grant, and he is the target for abuse he does not deserve. The inconspicuous occupation, away from the limelight of contending forces, adequate in returns, but no so big that hate is aroused, has large compensations in agreeable fellowship. The one who is ambitious for the limelight pays a large price if he is successful.

GRADUATION. School graduation periods arouse buoyancy and grand hopes. The high school commencement seems more important and more exciting than later college achievements. Starting in the kindergarten and working through twelve years of careful training, a great deal is accomplished for a boy or girl in mind culture and character development. Habits of study are established in the early grades. Inclination to industry is soon manifested. Whether the foundation for a subsequent superstructure of knowledge is well laid or differently patched together just to get by depends much on the individual's earnestness and on the way his mind is directed and encouraged at home and in school. These commencement days are especially happy ones for those who have finished the initial course. Most of those who complete the high school curriculum have their minds set on going to college, and their lives will be made richer in ideas and more comprehensive by carrying out such intentions. Higher education may not always mean increased earning power, but it certainly means clarified understanding and greater ease in getting along with people and in mastering a multiplicity of problems. But the distinctly bright spot in a young person's life is when he is handed a diploma after twelve years of evolution from the kindergarten.

Promised Land Theme of Talk

Rev. W. F. Dierking Assures Youth of Attainment If Willing to Pay.

"The Promised Land can be reached by sacrifice—it can be attained by those who are willing to pay the price." So Rev. W. F. Dierking concluded his message on "The Promised Land" Sunday evening to Wayne high school seniors and others at the school's annual baccalaureate services at the municipal auditorium. "Youth of 1939 is too conservative," Rev. Dierking began. "The new world is actually within reach of those who are willing to reach out and take it." Rev. Dierking told of Moses who as a youth was willing to sacrifice in leading his followers to an uncertainty which proved to be the promised land. Moses was not willing to listen to his elders who urged him to remain in Egypt where living was a certainty. But Moses, led by faith, undertook the new and found the promised land.

"Youth will march," Rev. Dierking warned. Youth movements are organized in Russia and other foreign countries where young folks are striking out. Since it is the nature of youth to venture Rev. Dierking advised that they be prepared by their elders for hazards which are bound to arise on such marches. When youth gets a vision of the promised land of the future when all will be fed and clothed, nothing can keep them back. But their movements must be within the law and must be guided by religion for only in religion are found the ideals for making over the world. "Let youth do something in its own way but let elders point out for them the pitfalls."

In closing Rev. Dierking told of conditions in the Netherlands when 250,000 sacrificed their lives for a cause. A mother and her boy watched the husband and father burned. Afterward the mother was granted permission to take a few of the ashes which she sewed in a red and black silk sachet of silk and tied about her son's neck. She explained to the youth that the red represented the blood of the husband and father and that the black represented her mourning. "Wear it always," she advised her son. "Wherever you find injustice, even if it costs your life, speak out against it."

Rev. C. G. Bader gave the invocation and benediction, and also read the scriptures for the service. Russell Widoe directed music for the program. The high school orchestra played the processional and recessional. The high school choir and junior high choir sang. Marjorie Harrison and Wilmer Ellis, juniors, led 51 seniors, in caps and gowns to their reserved section in the auditorium.

Centennial of Synod Celebrated and other Lutheran chorals. Prof. Stelzer also led congregational singing.

History of Synod. In his morning message Rev. Otto told of the history of the synod, explaining that the 650 who emigrated from Saxony a century ago came to this country to "preserve the truth for their children and to spread the gospel upon earth." Though satisfied with economic and political conditions in their native land, they realized their obligation to spread the gospel which is the "supreme business of our lives." Their object was to reach a haven of freedom, religious liberty and refuge from intolerance as promised in the United States. The early band arrived at New Orleans in 1839 in four sailing vessels. Another schooner with 56 aboard left the home land but was never heard from, evidently being lost at sea. Through many trials and hardships the immigrants traveled to St. Louis and then to Perry county, Mo., where the Missouri synod was established. Hardships arose but through faith they were overcome and the church organization grew until it now has 1,500,000 members, 5,000 churches and 3,300 pastors in the United States and Canada.

Rev. Otto based his address on I Kings 8:57-58, a portion of the dedicatory prayer which King Solomon spoke at the first temple reared to Jehovah in Jerusalem. He pointed out that "we too have reason to thank and praise God for the grace and mercy which He has shown in the past century. We serve that same God Jehovah as He has revealed Himself in Christ Jesus, The Bible, the Old and the New Testament, are the only source and foundation of the teachings, principles and practice of our church. For that we have reason to be truly thankful. We also have reason to join in that prayer with regard to the future. Only if we remain loyal to the Word of God in matters of faith and life can we expect God's favor and mercies for the future."

Message of Appreciation. Rev. Jesse based his afternoon sermon on I Samuel 7:12 in which Samuel says, "I have called us." The speaker showed that Missouri synod Lutherans too had every reason to join in this sentiment of the prophet in this centennial year of the Saxon Lutheran immigration. From the services the listeners gained an appreciation of the heritage provided by the church founders and were inspired with a determination to carry on the ideals of the church in the future.

LOCAL Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dempster and three children of Orchard, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Dempster's sister, Miss Deahn Grove. E. E. Gailey, John Surber and Wm. Thies left today for the Gailey cottage at Battle Lake, Minn. They will do some work on the cottage and fish, planning to be gone two weeks.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by DR. WELDON F. CROSSLAND Rochester, New York

Are the churches growing more broad-minded? Yes. All religious groups, influenced by the spirit of the times, are more tolerant and friendly than they were fifty years ago. Five decades ago inter-church cooperation was unknown. Some held that only one mode of baptism was Christian, that only one church was the true church and that only one type of ministry or organization was genuinely Christian.

Today one finds in every communion a growing tolerance and an active goodwill toward other religious groups, such as is found in no other country in the world. Understanding of and respect for the spiritual values of all faiths have broken down the walls of suspicion and exclusiveness. The church page of the newspapers of America have played no small part in this achievement.

All creeds today are emphasizing the important things on which they agree and are minimizing the unimportant things on which they differ. Churchmen of every persuasion are learning to stress the basic and abiding in their faith, placing the incidental or marginal in its proper place.

Cooperating in common tasks which all reasonable men recognize can be more effectively done by the united religious forces of any community; priests, rabbis and ministers work hand in hand with the laity of all communions.

This crowns the spirit of American religious freedom with cordial friendliness and goodwill. Do the teachings of Jesus apply to today? Yes. Like the ten commandments the fundamental principles of Christ's teachings apply to this and every age.

One sometimes finds among the immature the adolescent opinion that anything that is old is obsolete. The law of gravitation is very ancient, but no sane aviator or engineer of today would make his plans without reckoning with it.

Some spiritual laws and principles are so basic a part of life that they belong to every age. Like the laws of nature, they do not argue; they operate. The person or nation that disobeys these spiritual laws of navigation suffers shipwreck. "God is a Spirit" taught Jesus, and most men of every age have believed his statement to be truth. Even science, which has proved conclusively the reign of law in the universe, is coming in these latter days to recognize the spirituality in all thought and things.

"Love one another," counseled the Master, and where men have acted cooperatively in the spirit of friendliness and good will they have been able to solve their problems. When they grasped the sword of hate, they failed. How different a world this distracted one would be, if men had followed Christ's teachings of brotherhood, service and faith. Christ's teachings are neither out-moded or impossible. They just haven't been tried in any large way.

Are the Roman Catholic and Protestant Bibles identical? No, though they are so similar as to make their differences incidental. The only authoritative translation of the Bible in the Roman Catholic church is the Vulgate, translated by Jerome about 384 A. D. He carefully translated the Hebrew and the Aramaic of the Old Testament into Latin, while he based his New Testament translation on the older Latin texts, comparing them with the Greek manuscripts in his possession. The approved English edition of the Vulgate is called The Douai Bible.

The many Protestant editions of the Bible, such as the King James Version, the Revised Version and the American Revised Version, are based on the very earliest authentic Greek manuscripts available. Such popular recent translations as those of Moffatt, Goodspeed and Weymouth attempt, with a degree of success, to put the thought of the Bible into language and idiom of today.

Sometimes, perhaps in some ancient grave or buried first-century city, manuscripts nearer the original will be found. Like Codex Vaticanus and Codex Sinaiticus they would be priceless. (Copyright 1938 by Weldon F. Crossland, Rochester, N. Y.)

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

The federal communications commission regulates our radio industry. It runs the monitoring stations which watch the frequencies of all broadcasting stations. But very few radio people know that it is the bureau of standards that really furnishes all of the frequency information for the F.C.C. and all of our radio industry. It furnishes all of that information even to the monitoring stations.

Milk is coming to householders here in paper bottles. It costs the consumers 14 cents a quart. The milk investigation here is expected to develop that there is a real milk monopoly here.

Ed. McCarthy of Hyattsville, Md., which is really a suburb of Washington, called on the Third district office. He asked about Greeley county and about his brother, George McCarthy, of Greeley.

Bill Lemke tells friends that he is writing a new bill. He says it will call for the expenditure of a hundred million dollars to be distributed among the several states to teach people how to earn their own living. He would have the money divided among the unemployed to set them up in some kind of business.

Under cover, there has been quite a fight among cabinet members; among the conservative and liberal members of the new deal family. The results of these family fights will eventually come out in the public press. Some are already developing. Jesse Jones who heads the RFC and is slated to be head of the new lending administration, is of the more practically business minded group and this conflicts with the minds of the Cohen and Corcoran type. So, to appease both sides, the chief executive is having plenty of trouble these days. A lot of jealousy keeps cropping up. One under-chief was decorated some time ago by a foreign government. His chief thought he should have gotten the medal. Now they have a word for it. Under-chiefs will have to practice more anonymity. A lot of under-chiefs are "key men." They do most of the big work. In many cases the big boss gets the credit. Woe to the under-chief who through no fault of his own is praised by the outside world for some great achievement. In the members' lobby where they talk "off the record" and really tell what they know, there is mention of the names of men of the first rank who have refused certain high appointments "because they refused to sign a letter of resignation in advance."

Believe it or not European countries are doing a land office business selling plywood to the South Americans. They can do this because of cheaper labor in Europe. We have great forests and great timber tracts. We have made great strides in plywood manufacture. We have many idle lumbermen in America. Richard Patterson used to be a messenger boy in Omaha. Today, he is assistant secretary of commerce under Harry Hopkins. He is considered one of the most outstanding men in the department. He likes to talk about Nebraska and is proud of his home state. Some times even clerks in departments acquire a southern drawl and brag about their southern ancestors. Soon they are found out and are put on the "rib list." There are very few Nebraskans here on any "rib list." Most of the 1,700 Nebraskans here are proud of their cornhusker state.

A letter asks: "What is a Washingtonian?" A Washingtonian is anyone who lives in Washington and makes this town his home.

Good news for Nebraska fishermen: The Third district office is informed by the commissioner of fisheries, Mr. Jackson, that black bass from Florida are being shipped to our fish and game commissioner for distribution in our state. Heretofore most of the fish sent us by the federal government have been trout. The Florida bass is sort of an experiment. Demands to restock our sand hill lakes with bass have been made here.

Federal fish cars cost around $75,000 each, and the transportation costs have been enormous. The new commissioner of fisheries is planning to abandon the railroad fish cars and use automobiles. He thinks he can get the fish to proper lodgment in better shape.

A fish food bill of our bureaus of fisheries runs into big money. A lot of this food is made in far-north Alaska from the bi-products of the seal and fox industries operated by the government. Probably, not many people know that Uncle Sam runs the seal and fox business in Alaska and that it pays big dividends. Time once was, when we thought we had to buy seals from Japan. Our seals were leaving. We are not buying any now. For some reason, the seals are coming back home. That and the salmon business are important to us. Foreigners sometimes have a way of steering fish and seals away from our shores. To guard against this we have experts who know their business. The same as in Japan, many American fishing boats can become the eyes and ears needed by Uncle Sam.

Talking about river navigation. The cost of the Missouri river channel improvement work up to Sioux City is around six million dollars. But that is only part of the cost. It will cost the lighthouse service $30,000 to place markings. The annual cost of upkeep of equipment and rendition of this service alone will be $18,000.

The entire east is talking about the coal strike and how it affects the nation. Along with putting thousands of miners out of jobs, it is starting to cripple business. The coal industry runs into the three billion dollar mark and employs over half a million people. With substitute fuel coming into the field by leaps and bounds the business has been hard hit. It has even lost a lot of foreign business. A lot of countries which used to buy American coal now buy it elsewhere. By abroad, Yankee trading we have been able to sell some American coal to countries where we never had a market before but old foreign customers have dropped off. To regain this foreign coal trade is one of the many jobs now set up for our commerce department.

Representatives of the American construction industry appearing before a house committee declared that normally 6,000,000 people are employed in construction. Today, these officials say, they don't know how many are employed in that industry. They hope the new census will disclose that.

Look for a lot of changes in the department of commerce now headed by Harry Hopkins. This department has been allowed almost to cease old time activity. It is now being given new life. The present department of commerce organization embraces the bureau of the Census, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, the national bureau of standards, the bureau of fisheries, the bureau of lighthouses, the coast and geodetic survey, the bureau of marine inspection and navigation and the patent office. In the re-organization program, it will lose some of these functions and may concentrate more completely upon work more directly related to commerce. It costs about $0 million dollars a year to run the commerce department.

Nearly 100 Per Cent Coverage of the County Field

THE WAYNE HERALD

Section Two
Pages 1 to 8

FIFTYEIGHTH YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1939.

NUMBER TWO

Has Tonsil Operation.
Donald, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shulteis, had tonsils removed last Thursday at a local hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wagner of Laurel, spent Sunday with the latter's father, Fred Krei, in Laurel. Mr. Krei is improving after being ill. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Vollerston of Laurel, spent Sunday evening at Wagner's.

Girl Scout Field Workers to Come

Two girl scout field workers will be here this Thursday afternoon to meet at 3 at the Women's club rooms with the council aid leaders of troops.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wagner of Laurel, were in Wayne Monday. They went to Carroll Tuesday to the funeral of Robert Paulsen.

Speaks at Emerson.
Dean Allen Cook will give the Memorial Day address at Emerson.

Card of Thanks.
I wish to express sincere thanks to all who visited me and sent flowers and cards while I was in the hospital. Lois Ann Olson.

Paul Bernston came from Lincoln Saturday to spend Sunday at Carl Bernston's.

Everybody Wins In Big Contest

The Herald Offers Large Prizes to Some and Nobody Can Lose.

In the Wayne Herald's big subscription drive which is just starting, over $1,500 in prizes and commissions will be awarded to the various candidates taking part within the next few weeks. This will undoubtedly prove one of the most profitable and educational courses in salesmanship ever presented in this section. It is something new, something different and it is not the old style "contest" where the candidates who entered and did not win the biggest prize were left holding the sack. In this prize distribution "Everybody Wins Something."

Cannot Lose.
Participants cannot possibly lose in a campaign of this nature, "Everybody Wins." It doesn't cost a cent to enter and win the biggest award. If you fail to win the big cash prize of $800, there are other cash prizes of $400, $300, $200, etc. If you fail to win one of the cash prizes you will receive 20 per cent commission on all subscriptions that you secure in the campaign according to the rules.

Every neighborhood in the city of Wayne and the country, and the surrounding towns should have its representative. There are so many big prizes that every candidate has an equal chance of landing a valuable prize. It should be understood that all of these prizes representing hundreds of dollars will be given away just as announced regardless of how many subscriptions are sold. In a few weeks these handsome prizes will be awarded and you should see that you get your share. Right now is the logical time to enter. The start is the big thing and once a candidate has entered, he or she will realize how easily votes may be secured. An absolutely new candidate can enter today with positively no handicap whatsoever and win the biggest prize offered.

The list of the candidates entered does not show who is active. Some candidates will get along very nicely for a few days; they will bubble over with enthusiasm, but it won't last. They will get their ears "knocked down" once or twice, and be ready to quit. They haven't what it takes to urge them on to victory, and rather than admit their deficiency, they will come in or write in and say, "I find I haven't the time." Others will be content to let their friends vote for them when they turn in their subscriptions at the campaign office. Some will start but will not finish.

It is just the battle of life in miniature. Some have it within themselves to be successful. Others can become so with the proper urge. Still others lack confidence in themselves and ability to stick and win. Everybody who sticks will win.

A subscription for one year, credits the candidate with 20,000 votes this period. If the subscription is a new one, there is a bonus of 50,000 votes. Ten such subscriptions and you would have a complete total of 700,000 votes. If it is a new candidate, he or she would receive 100,000 extra votes for every five subscriptions or the equivalent obtained during his or her first week of entry.

Also every "Club" of $20.00 in subscriptions turned in, credits the candidate with an extra 200,000 votes. These "clubs" may be for any combination of subscriptions, just so they total $20.00 or more. Here indeed is an opportunity for someone to make money in spare time.

All candidates are asked to report in person Saturday night, with one "club" or more.

Parents Guests At College Here

Y. W. C. A. Sponsors Annual Program at School for Many Visitors.

Eightyfive parents registered at Wayne college for Parents' day last Friday, May 12. The annual event is sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. Many came later, and undoubtedly many others neglected to register. So it was that another annual event was carried out successfully in the interest of fostering a closer relationship between college and parents.

Registration, starting at 8 o'clock, was followed at 11 in the college auditorium by a special chapel. Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of the college, and Esther Stancliffe, president of the Y. W. group, gave addresses of welcome. The responses on behalf of the parents were made by Mrs. Claude Wright of Wayne, and Mr. Nyquist of Wausa. After musical numbers by the college octet, the drama group, one of the creative leisure groups of the Y. W., presented "Spiders," by Robert Broome, a Wayne graduate last year. Another musical number was "Mother McCree," sung by Glen Clark.

The parents were guests of the college cafeteria at noon and were urged to visit exhibits in various college departments. Special exhibits were to be seen in the industrial arts and art departments. Further enjoyment was provided for the mothers at a tea in Neiderhald hall, beginning at 3 o'clock. At the same hour the fathers attended the N.I.A.A. track meet on the athletic field in which the four state teachers colleges were competing.

Music Featured On Club Program

Mrs. W. F. Dierking Reviews Opinion of Editor About Future.

Music week and Mother's day were featured in the Women's club program last Friday when members entertained guests, 90 being present.

Mrs. W. F. Dierking reviewed "Today's World." She told of the opinion of a prominent editor who predicted that United States and Russia will be the leading nations in the world tomorrow. Though there is a movement toward fascism today, when people are thinking more of security than of freedom, the editor predicts a reaction against fascism when men think again more of freedom. "Tomorrow's world won't look like our world today," was the conclusion.

Prof. John R. Keith presented musical numbers. He, Ethyll Flake, Mildred Ringer and Russell Holdenried, the college string quartet, played selections. Cyril Miller played the oboe and Arthur Gulliver, the clarinet. Ethyll Flake and Lois Thompson were accompanists.

Mrs. Wm. Hasebroock of Scribner, state and district chairman of music, a guest for the meeting, sang several numbers.

Mrs. J. L. Vandenberg of Scribner, state treasurer, was present and spoke briefly.

Mrs. Keith, Mrs. T. T. Jones, Mrs. R. W. Casper and Mrs. H. A. Welch arranged the musical program.

Mrs. R. W. Ley was chairman of the serving committee. Others were Mrs. M. N. Foster, Mrs. G. W. Crossland, Mrs. H. E. Ley, Mrs. J. R. Johnson, Mrs. T. T. Jones, Mrs. M. J. Hartington, Mrs. C. Shulteis, Mrs. Clarence Wright, Miss Mabel Dayton, Mrs. C. M. Craven.

Ten Practicing Contour Planting

Moisture conservation is cited by Agent Greth Dunn of Dixon county, as one of the greatest benefits from contour farming. Jesse Wheeler, Neil Puckett, R. P. Good, Joe Carr and Richard Roberts, all of Allen, Quentin Kavanaugh and Ralph Walsh of Waterbury, Earl Chills and Walter Arendt of Ponka, are planting a total of 230 acres of corn on the contour. Joe Keller of Newcastle, is planting nine acres of Souper Milo on the contour. Lines have been run, and six of these farmers are planting corn by double listing. The other four plan to plow and furrow-open on the contour.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by DR. WELDON F. CROSSLAND, Rochester, New York

If a skeptic asked "who created God?" What would you answer? I should answer, "No one created God. God is not a creature; He is the Creator, Who has given being and life to all creation including man."

If God had been created, He would not be God. God is the Uncreated Creator, the Uncaused First Cause of all being. He is the Sustaining Personality, Who after creating the universe keeps it going.

In turn I should like to ask the skeptic this question: "Who created the earth, the stars, the electrons and the mind of man?"

"What Architect planned and what Builder erected this wonderful world in which man lives?"

"What Lawgiver established the laws which govern the movement of the vastest star and the tiniest atom?"

"What Mathematician patterned it with such geometrical exactness?"

"What Scientist hid in it the secrets which men of science-to-day discover?"

If the well-meaning skeptic should answer, "It just happened; it was all a fortuitous concurrence of atoms," an accident," I should reply, "That is the emptiest assumption and the blindest superstition in all the history of mankind."

Can a Christian approve of capital punishment? Many Christians do not. Strangely enough, Christians often hold conflicting opinions on many controversial questions.

If the question were in the form "Would Christ approve of capital punishment?" the vast majority of Christians would answer "No."

Capital punishment involves the taking of the life of the convicted murderer or traitor. No one who knows the spirit of Christ can imagine Him springing the trap, throwing the switch or releasing the lethal gas. One can easily imagine Him taking the place of the condemned.

Because the evidence on which conviction for murder is based is often circumstantial and because innocent persons have been convicted of crimes where the penalty is death, seven of the states have substituted life imprisonment for capital punishment. In a number of other states the jury may recommend life imprisonment.

Increasing numbers of Americans are wondering at life imprisonment, without benefit of pardon, is not just as effective in restraining the criminal as is capital punishment.

Is religious persecution in Germany growing more bitter? Yes. The Confessional church, whose position has been so finely symbolized in the imprisoned Pastor Niemoller, is bearing the brunt of Nazi pressure at present. The head of the Confessio, Himmeler, and the Nazi church minister Kerr are striking at the leadership and stability of the church in these four ways:

1. The government is exercising the right to depose and replace any pastor if in the government's opinion this is in the interests of the unity of the congregation. This means that a small, noisy Nazi minority can by disturbing the services of a church give the government the excuse for removing any minister from his pulpit.

2. The Nazi party has demanded that many churches surrender some of their buildings for its use in conducting some of their competing semi-pagan religious rites.

3. The Nazi state has asked the church to give up all claim to the income it has in the past received from the government.

4. The church has been asked to surrender its status as "A Corporation of Public Right" and become before the law like any voluntary club or lodge.

These moves apparently look toward disestablishment of the state church, the taking of much of its property and the removal of all pastors who will not obey the Nazi government.

Roman Catholics in Germany have reason to fear that after these oppressive measures are successful, if they are, the weapons of propaganda, persecution and restraint will be directed with renewed bitterness against the Roman Catholic church.

Library News

"Through Embassy Eyes," by Martha Eccles Dodd, is a new book in the library. The young daughter of former Ambassador Dodd records her experience in Germany during the four years the family spent at the American embassy in Berlin. At first praiseworthy, she describes her gradual awakening and final disillusionment with the new Germany and adds characterization of most of the Nazi leaders.

"A Peculiar Treasurer," by Edna Ferber, is another new book. In this autobiography, the brilliant author of Showboat, So Big, Cimarron and other great American novels, writes her greatest and most dramatic story. A child of the Midwest, small-town newspaper reporter at 17, on a big-town paper a few years later, she was rising to national fame in her 20's, not as a reporter but as a writer. She tells the life of a Jewish family for the past half century and the America she loves.

A copy of Wayne County history, by Dorothy Huse Nyberg, has been placed in the library. Wayne library added three new books last week. They are Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf," "Teaching for the Stars," by Nora Wajm, and "Seasoned Timber," by Dorothy Canfield.

Mrs. P. A. Theobald has recently presented the autobiography of Edna Ferber to the library.

The committee from the Women's club met Friday with the library board book committee and left the library a check for $160 for books.

The circulation for April, 1939, at the library totaled 2041. The juvenile's amounted to 709. The adult non-fiction was 196, fiction 683 and periodicals 358.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Platte is the state's joy and pride, a sort of sweetheart or bride. It does little good, though folks think it should. It's a foot-deep and a mile wide. In an effort to keep the Indians from tampering with telegraph wires, stories of its dark and destructive powers were circulated by the telegraph company through Indian chiefs. One incredulous Indian, however, assured his friends that the wire was useful for lariats and they chopped down a pole and ripped off half a mile of wire. Riding back to their village with the stolen length of wire, they were overtaken by an electrical storm. A bolt of lightning knocked most of them off their horses. The incident, and its circulation, finally convinced the Indians of the malignity of the wire. They continued to cut down the poles for firewood, but they rarely obstructed the operation of the telegraph again.

In pioneer days the two most important routes across Nebraska were the Oregon and the Mormon trails. The former entered the state from the central-southeast part, followed the valley of the Little Blue, then ran along the south banks of the Platte and North Platte rivers. The Mormon trail ran from Omaha along the northern bank of the river, joined the Oregon trail at Fort Laramie, then turned south to Salt Lake.

Years ago pioneers believed that rain followed the plow; the evaporation from land surfaces and the conservation of run-off water caused a proportionate increase in the rainfall. After the cycle of wet years had passed, the dry nineties brought ruin to farmers in semi-arid regions. Another theory held that the source of Nebraska's rainfall was largely in local evaporation, and not from the Gulf of Mexico. This was soon abandoned. Then, in the nineties, came the "rain doctors" who set off explosions on high hills to jar loose the moisture they believed was in the air. This was also a failure. The only thing left was to pray for rain.

Teacher Re-elected.

Mrs. Mildred Witte has been re-elected to teach district 33 next year.

World Events Show History In the Making

Each year on Mother's day, which was last Sunday, a mother is selected to be honored as the typical "American Mother." Mrs. Elias Compton of Wooster, Ohio, who was chosen this year, raised three sons who are listed in "Who's Who" and a daughter who has been active in missionary education in India. The sons were with her on Mother's day and the event, gray-haired woman of past 80 plans to go to India in the fall to see the daughter. Mrs. Compton attributes a large measure of her success in raising her family to "the Bible, soap and spinach."

Because the Liberty bell is feared too ancient to undergo the travel from Philadelphia to special exhibitions, officials have had a substitute bell made like the original. The "stand-in" is two and a half times the size of the original and is made of plaster spun on a wooden frame. This substitute has been taken to the Methodist church here.

Three separate branches of the Methodist church have united following a conference in Kansas City. The combined church has 8,000,000 members.

An explosion and fire in a grain elevator in Chicago the last of the week took the lives of eight. The elevator and grain were valued at $4,000,000.

Coal miners started back to work in 26 states Saturday after a strike. An agreement reached granted the main part of the miners' request for a union shop.

Senator Gillette of Iowa, has proposed a new neutrality law which is gaining favor in congress. The proposal would repeal the present law's embargo on the sale of arms to belligerents. It would empower the president to fix combat zones into which American ships might go or Americans might travel only at their own risk.

Turkey joined Great Britain and other nations in a pact for protection, the group now including six nations pledging mutual backing in case of war. Other nations are France, Poland, Rumania and Greece.

Russia was credited with 100 diplomatic victories last week. Poland and Rumania were persuaded to accept Russian aid on Russian terms in event of European war. Pope Pius' failure to include Russia in his offer of a conference to mediate the Polish-German and Italian-French disputes was responsible for Great Britain's coolness toward the pope's proposal, giving weight to Russia's importance abroad. Russia is working for an outright mutual assistance pact with Britain, France and Poland.

According to predictions made by one who studies the stars, "a ton of bricks will fall on Hitler between July 16 and 31; the United States will face an upheaval comparable to the Civil war, between 1941 and 1946; and Roosevelt will not run for a third term."

Re-elect Edith Sabs. Miss Edith Sabs has been re-elected to teach in district 18 for next year.

Work for School Term Described

Pupils of district 15 have been preparing their fair exhibit work for fall and all are looking forward to the school picnic and the summer vacation, according to Alvin Block, teacher.

In a summary of the year's work Mr. Block mentioned that school opened in the fall with 17 pupils, and a few days later Janice Meyers enrolled after returning from Oregon. As one of the first projects the 3rd to 8th grades wrote about their summer vacation.

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was the theme of a float entered by the school in the fair parade. This took 4th and much credit is due the women who made costumes.

Mr. Block visited all homes of students and directed a "Thanksgiving and Armistice" program which netted $15 with which new tools, paints and other supplies were purchased.

Another program was given before Christmas and then Santa visited the children with parents as guests. A parent-teacher organization was voted, and committees named to take charge of entertainments. Rev. J. A. Whitman was first speaker, telling of gold mining. Albert Watson conducted the study on infantile paralysis and discussion followed. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson, Mrs. Grunke and Will Lutt took part. At other parent-teacher meetings Roy Ireland spoke on Arabs and life in Africa; Dr. J. E. Broek of Wayne college faculty, on chemistry and its relation to life in the future; and Alex Jeffrey, on early settlements in Nebraska.

The school entered the playground equipment contest conducted by Wayne business men and took 10th, earning a ball and bat.

As Christmas gifts boys made articles of wood, such as the racks, letter openers and letter racks, for their fathers. The girls made sofa pin cushions for their mothers.

Patrons' day was observed the middle of February when visitors observed class work after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Block.

Stand table projects this year included a farm scene, Christmas, Easter and Dutch scenes, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, doll house and roadway with trucks and cars.

A Knighthood of Youth club functioned in the district throughout the year. Besides providing training in the ways of organized business, the club assisted in cleanliness in the school and yard, games, room decorations and student government.

Outlook Favorable In Hog Production

For the year 1939, at least the outlook for profitable pork production in Nebraska seems quite favorable, Arthur George, extension economist at the Nebraska college of agriculture, said. The economist pointed out, however, that hog numbers both in the United States and Nebraska are now on the increase. The estimated number of hogs on all farms in the country on January 1, 1939, was over 49 million compared with slightly more than 44 million a year ago. In Nebraska the estimated numbers on hand for the year 1939, was slightly under two million compared with a little more than one and a half million a year ago and two years ago. Hog prices during the past year have been unusually favorable in comparison with feed costs. Indications are that with normal corn crops, hog numbers will increase rather markedly during the next year or two at least. Prices are likely to be favored for the rest of this year by the comparative shortage of numbers, by the increase in business activity, and by a reduction in the amount of beef available on the markets of the United States. Another factor that will prevent an increase in hog numbers more than might have been anticipated is the fact that weather conditions and other factors have resulted in a rather low production of pigs; this spring in many parts of the country. The number of pigs saved and farrowed will apparently be less than might have been indicated by the increase in numbers of sows to farrow. This situation is true to some extent in Nebraska.

Stanley Huffman of Elgin, grandson of Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor of Wayne, was the only Elgin student to place in the Albion track meet. He won the quarter mile.

J. L. Williams who lives south of Randolph, was painfully bruised last week when a four-horse team he was driving hitched to a harness became frightened and threw him. Mr. Williams' feet became entangled in the cart wheels and he was dragged 40 feet before the double trees broke and released the horses.

Early Days In Wayne County

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for May 17, 1923:

Theodore Schulte, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schulte, died May 13, 1923.

The first customer Fred L. Blair had Saturday morning was himself. He bought a new suit and cap, and charged the same to momentary absence of foresight. That morning he threw a quantity of kerosene oil on smoldering embers in his furnace, and a cloud of fire and smoke responded so suddenly that he could not escape. His face was hurt most. The outer skin was melted off, and what remained looked and felt sore. Also his outer garments, including his cap, were treated with little more consideration. No damage was done to the furnace. On the contrary, its breathing tubes were wholesomely cleared out. Fred understood that kerosene was somewhat inflammable, but he did not realize that it could be so all-fired quick and far-reaching.

Dr. John G. Neihardt who gave readings from an Omaha radio station, was heard in Wayne.

John Meister, 63, died May 12, 1923.

From Ponca Journal for May 27, 1880: People of the northern part of Cedar county are making an attempt to have the railroad submit a proposition for county bonds and to run the road on the line of the old grade. It is reported that a five-foot vein of coal has been discovered in Hitchcock county, this state. If this is so, it settles the $3,000 bonus which our coal company was so anxious to secure.
