

Descend to Relief of Every-one — Memorial Day Recollections — Many Clubs, but No Chamber of Commerce — Before the Mayo Clinic — As to School Graduates.

Last week-end's rain contribution shortened a good many faces and stopped a good many sorrows. More moisture fell here Saturday afternoon than fell during the entire month of May in 1932.

The fraction of an inch distributed at this point Friday night was a suggestion of a more liberal fall west and northwest. This was indicated early Saturday morning by swollen Logan and Dog creeks which drain the area mentioned.

The rain god having been reinstated and resumption of the business of producing moisture having been successful, we may now reasonably expect no more dreaded drought this year.

May's dry elements were terribly forbidding. Fear of blasted crops gripped everybody, and while hopes ran high, spirits were depressed.

It takes time and effort to find and adjust one's worrying machinery to something new after a case of worry has been suddenly removed.

Intensifying Memories. Memorial day leads one's thoughts and footsteps to the cities of the departed where lie the earthly remnants of precious souls.

The greatest joy we can imagine in invisible realms is realization of the ever-abiding hope to meet and know loved ones who have gone ahead.

Public Service Groups. Hartington has lately organized a Junior Chamber of Commerce. This means the town has a senior Chamber of Commerce, and that the younger blood of the community proposes to take the initiative in putting extra steam behind public progress.

Wayne has no organization called a Chamber of Commerce, and therefore, strictly speaking, there could be no junior prior to the creation of a senior. However, the town has two representative male groups, the Kiwanis and Men's, and both often function in behalf of civic affairs and public improvements.

Among Wayne women there are probably more separate clubs than could be found in any other town of comparable size in the state.

Mrs. Roy Penhollow Shows Improvement. Mrs. Roy Penhollow of Norfolk, who was severely injured May 18 in an automobile accident near Scribner, is much improved.

FIFTYEIGHTH YEAR

Tax Levy Is Cut By City Council

Leslie W. Ellis Appointed Treasurer to Succeed G. A. Renard.

Leslie W. Ellis

Wayne city tax levy for the fiscal year was fixed at 23.8 mills by the council at its meeting Monday evening, this being 1.1 mills reduction over last year's total of 24.9 mills.

The 23.8 mills this year are divided as follows: General fund, 5; sewers, 4; parks, 1; fire department, 4; library, 1.5; paving bonds, 3; intersection paving bonds, 10; bond, 1; and auditorium bonds, 1.5.

The tax levy and income from other sources last year brought about $85,000 to the city treasury. One mill levy will raise about $1,700.

The city estimate was placed at $127,700 for the year, this being larger than will be needed unless some emergency should arise and also being more than the tax levy will raise.

Treasurer Appointed. With the resignation of G. A. Renard as city treasurer on account of his moving to Stockton, Calif., the council approved the appointment of L. W. Ellis to fill the unexpired term in this office.

Memorial Day Message Gives New Inspiration

Peace, Tolerance and Life In Death Are Thoughts Of Dr. Chas. Durden.

May Memorial day bring these messages to Americans: That people of the world must learn to live in peace together; that it is time to learn tolerance in religion; and that thinking people should realize that death is life.

Dr. Durden, English-born, who served with English forces in South Africa and Canada and later joined the American forces in the World war, commended thinking Americans who are willing to endure hardships to pay tribute to those who sacrificed for them.

The danger line is the line between yesterday and tomorrow," stated Dr. Charles Durden of Omaha Tuesday evening at college high commencement in the college auditorium. The subject of his talk was "A Young Man's Fight for Success."

Contract Will Be Signed by Board

Meeting of School Board Wednesday Night Paves Way For Action

Wayne's city school board Wednesday night received the opinion of Attorney Fred S. Berry that the board could sign the contract with the Kingery Construction company of Lincoln, for construction of the $87,000 school remodeling and addition.

This paves the way for the immediate starting of construction, the Public Works Administration already having given telegraphic approval to Dr. Walter Bentback, president of the board.

Following the second opening of bids May 23 and the submission to PWA officials in Omaha of a tentative contract with the Kingery company, successful bidder, PWA last Saturday wired Dr. Bentback that construction could start at once as far as PWA was concerned.

This early approval by PWA and the attorney's opinion make possible the earliest possible start with such a late letting and virtually assures the district of having remodeling of the old building completed in time for school to start next fall.

FORMER WAYNE MAN TALKS TO KIWANIS CLUB HERE MONDAY

"IS BUSINESS Business?" was the subject of Rev. Fay Mills' address before the Wayne Kiwanis club Monday noon, and he took the high ground that business is not business unless it involves more than just getting ahead financially.

Business is not business unless it pays something besides cash dividends. It must embrace one's religion and one's moral ethics and one's sympathetic fellowship from day to day to make its relationship constructive.

Business is not creditable business if it is employed as an excuse to trick somebody out of something one day and then is set aside to give place to a mask of piety the next day. To pray on one's knees on the Sabbath and then to prey on one's fellowmen the rest of the week may be interpreted as just good business, but plainly it is poor business and tremendously demoralizing.

One who has that idea of business forfeits more in spiritual values than he gains in worldly substance. Thus, the speaker would permeate business with every noble quality possessed by men.

Wayne Man Hurt West of Winside

Ed. Bahe is Injured When Car Strikes Maintainer Thursday Morning.

Ed. Bahe, 35, car salesman for Coryell Auto Co., Wayne, was severely injured shortly before noon Thursday when the car he was driving crashed into the back of a road maintainer on highway No. 35 three and a half miles west of Winside. Mr. Bahe's jaw was crushed; he was cut across the chin and lost several teeth. He also suffered a deep gash over the left eye and severe cuts on both legs and elbows. His chest was bruised. He was rushed to a Norfolk hospital where his condition yesterday was reported much improved.

Doctors have wired Mr. Bahe's chin and will set the jaw on both sides as soon as Mr. Bahe is able to have more work done on his face and when the soreness is relieved. Attendants think they will be able to repair the injured parts so they will heal properly.

The accident occurred when Mr. Bahe, driving alone, and a maintainer piloted by E. I. Pettitt of Norfolk, were going east on the road near Winside. The maintainer pulling a drag was on the east slope of a hill. As Mr. Bahe came over the hill he was blinded by dust so he did not see the maintainer until he was about 600 feet from it. He then set both brakes but stayed on the right side of the road for fear that another car might be approaching on the left.

Bahe's car ran up onto the drag and struck the back of the maintainer with such force that Pettitt was knocked to the floor of the cab. The maintainer started alone across the road to the left and finally Pettitt was able to get up and stop it. The engine of the Bahe car was pushed back, also one of the front wheels. Mr. Bahe's chin evidently struck the steering wheel which was bent forward and broken. Mr. Bahe braced himself so hard that he broke the driver's seat loose. His head crashed the windshield and his elbows broke glass at the side. The Bahe car remained upright. A blade was taken off the drag. The back door of the maintainer was ripped loose and the back end damaged. The unspaced three glass from the car into the maintainer cab. Sheriff J. H. Pile was among the officers investigating the accident.

Mrs. Bahe, who has a month-old baby, suffered from shock after the accident and has been advised by doctors to remain in bed.

Urges Highest Ideals Always

What is the object and what is it if not dealing with human relations? Selfishness enters in if the humanity of business is forgotten. Not only are professions to be human.

Business is an art, profession and career in the opinion of Rev. Mills. An artist thinks only in terms of the art rather than the profits, or the beauty of the painting is lost. The poet is the same. It is not a requirement to live but one does have to be honorable. People are not in professions and businesses for what they can get out of them but the pleasure received from the work.

Is life a bargain or a vocation and business an art or a trade? If a person could afford to, he would do what he does without the profits. Business is also religion as nothing is outside the realm of religion. Every business is sacred. Business is a method or vehicle of religion. Rev. Mills closed by saying that in divine mind, an ideal for business is that "we live by it or we prostitute it."

C. E. Gildersleeve, Rev. W. F. Dierking and T. S. Hook were guests at the meeting. The club voted to meet during the months of July and August for luncheons.

Heavy Rains Bring Relief

Norfolk received 1.28 inches, and heavy rains were reported as far as Sioux City and Hartington. Altona, Wisner, Pilger and Boomer got only light showers that day. A small area about seven miles northwest of Wayne had only a half inch.

Water came so fast Saturday that the grade was washed from beneath about 100 feet of railroad tracks west of Winside. This was repaired in short order. Flood waters were reported four feet deep on the spillway north of Altona, causing the evening bus Saturday to be rerouted through Emerson.

The heavy rains were an aid in destroying grasshoppers which have been reported hatching in recent hot weather.

Modern Travel Is Made Easy, Pioneer Finds

With good roads and comfortable accommodations at moderate price F. E. Moses of Pasadena, Calif., thinks that more people from this vicinity should enjoy vacation trips to the coast. After visiting here two weeks he plans to leave for his home next Monday. He will accompany Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Moses and son who will spend a few days in the west.

Mr. Moses and a Mr. Wilson took turns driving and made the trip easily in four days.

Conditions remain about the same all over the country, Mr. Moses finds. Many unemployed jobs are not available for all and the state and federal government have the problem of supporting them.

Boulder dam is part to mean much to the lower part of California. For a few months electricity has been provided from that source and water will be coming through the 200-mile ditch by fall. That region needs this water for the supply from the north was limited.

Crops through Nebraska looked good all along the Platte, Mr. Moses found.

Gives Address Memorial Day

Dean Allen Cook Brings Message to Emerson Audience Tuesday.

Dean Allen Cook gave the Memorial day address at Emerson Tuesday afternoon. He showed that this nation has been carved out of the rough by a lot of pioneers who had the spirit of Americanism and democracy in their souls. "Many gave their lives for this spirit. Today it is not necessary to die for the American principles but a better privilege lies in living for them."

"Some of the foreignisms coming to this country advocate principles which tell us they will bring peace and prosperity to the nation. These principles are being used in Italy, Germany and Russia and peace is not there."

"Peace is possible and certainly desirable and we can afford to sacrifice for it."

War on Hoppers Being Planned

Grasshopper infestation in Dixon county this year is the heaviest in several years, according to a survey made by Agent Greth M. Dunn, who estimates that three different hatches are now out. Damage from hoppers was estimated at $80,000 in 1938, and it is figured that the loss may run to $100,000 this year.

Farmers can reduce the loss by placing poison bran along fence rows, and at edges of pastures, alfalfa and sweetclover fields. About 80 tons of bait are now available and more will be mixed if farmers want it. Mr. Dunn reports that the federal bait mixing project will be used so that the bait can be delivered about June 10. Poisoning of hoppers about June 10 should give a maximum kill, Mr. Dunn states, as hoppers will not move far until after they have grown wings.

Dixon county farmers are urged to attend meetings in each township the first week of June so that plans for the bait mixing may be made.

Goes to Lincoln.

Leonard Roberts of Wakefield, was selected to represent Wayne county at the annual 4-H program in Lincoln this week. A trip to Omaha will be a feature.

Penalizing THE IDEA of charging tuition in state teachers colleges smacks of the restraints on education in the old colonial days...

Under the constitution's guarantee of equality and through the wisdom of developing intelligent citizenship by spreading freedom of learning, civilization has been mightily advanced and stoutly maintained.

The small per capita tax required to perpetuate tuition-free institutions would be a trifling investment as means of safeguarding democracy, because children of the poor are more likely than children of the rich to appreciate and uphold liberties evolved from a century and a half of experiences in America.

The tendency to centralize education, as bureaucracy in Washington is evidently trying to centralize government, negates the very principles of unrestrained opportunities which Jefferson and Lincoln and other national leaders advocated.

Need of More Confidence

AT A RECENT meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, speakers and listeners agreed that shaken confidence must be restored, and that everybody must understand that "What Helps Business Helps You - Less Taxes More Jobs."

One critic of the Chamber's overhauling process asked for a constructive program, and was answered in this way: "Don't forget that before you can start repairing a burning house you've got to put out the fire."

On his return from a swing through the country, James Farley, postmaster-general and national chairman of the democratic party, reports the president still popular and that his policies will survive the 1940 campaign, either in his hands or in the hands of one of his selection.

Every revival of old-time customs with hoop skirts, bustles and towering hats for women, and Prince Alberts and plug hats for men - the latter usually concealing facial contours under banks of none too prepossessing whiskers - makes one feel that after all considerable headway has been made in the matter of personal appearance - a long stride in the direction of comfort and health.

Treachery and betrayal were considered so bad in all periods of history that one found guilty was branded with ignominy and everlasting dishonor.

Regardless of how people hereabouts feel - whether up or down - northeast Nebraska is still marked as a white spot on Nation's Business map showing conditions.

The fellow who pays $100 in taxes on local property is benefited by an improved community where the money is largely spent. But the fellow who pays $100 to the government for social security is gambling on a very uncertain future.

If all buildings needing paint were repainted, the result in material consumed and labor employed would do much to bring better times.

High wages and a six-hour day imposed by labor unions of the building craft in eastern centers would not seem calculated to stimulate improvements.

An Example of Courage. (Omaha Journal-Stockman) We have become so fed up on stories about the laziness and general worthlessness of many of the people who are on the WPA that it is indeed most refreshing to get an authentic story of a man on relief who did not like it, broke away and made good.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers about Religion, Morals and Personal Problems by DR. WELDON F. CROSSLAND

Do the liabilities of today outweigh the assets? No.

Too many Americans have become so sensitized to the difficulties of today such as fear of war, dictatorship, debt and radicalism that they have all but lost hope.

Consider the fear of war, which would, if it came, be the most hideous tragedy in history. The factors that weigh against war are rapidly increasing.

Against the spectacular rise of the dictators, who are governmental upstarts, daring adventurers who have seized the reins of government, must be placed these weighty considerations:

men for freedom of life and liberty of conscience; the certain rebellion of the people against tyranny; and the precarious economic condition of the Fascist and Nazi regimes.

Against the fabulous public and private debt of America, dangerous as it is, must be set these huge credits: The inexhaustible resources of farm and mine; the efficient factories with their power of production; the mechanical and inventive genius of Americans; the political and personal freedom; and the resourceful pioneer spirit of a free people.

Those who see both the assets and the liabilities of today are basically optimistic.

Can one break a bad habit? Yes, by the use of common sense, reason and faith.

The bad habit of losing one's temper will furnish an excellent example of the way in which a habitual reaction may be changed.

Remember that only children and adolescents have any right to lose their tempers. They are immature. Perhaps you've seen a spoiled nine year old boy "throw a tantrum."

You can hold your temper. It's yours. No one else can control it; and no one else ought to have the power to make you lose it.

Put that nervous energy, futility wasted in temper, to work to solve your problems. Sense the humor of the situation. Laugh at yourself! Count to ten, and if the temperature is still high, to one hundred.

What Bible commentary would you recommend? I suggest that you ask your priest, rabbi or minister. He will gladly cooperate with you in selecting one.

Among the many excellent ones I have most frequently recommended the one volume Abingdon Commentary, because of its easy flowing style and its balanced fairness and scholarship.

Each book of the Bible is studied chapter by chapter and verse by verse, with articles dealing with the purpose, authorship, date and historical background. It is written primarily for laymen.

Memorial Message Gives Inspiration for the country they loved so well. "Are we willing to stand for its ideals?" Dr. Durden told of his son who was delighted when he learned that U. S. means United States and Uncle Sam. The minister explained further that U. S. means "Unlimited Silver," "Unconquerable Soldiers," "Unconquerable Sailors" to the secretary of the navy, "Unstained Statesmanship" to the secretary of state.

Middle West Is Bulwark. Dr. Durden recommended a globe as a valuable addition to every home, it being the means of inspiring world thought so necessary today.

World conditions were outlined briefly by the speaker who stated that it is now a certainty that the war in Spain was a deliberate attempt of totalitarian states to start a world war which was prevented only by excessive patience of democracies.

Hitler, not Chamberlain, lost at Munich, the speaker added, for Hitler then passed up the opportunity to win a world war. Paris, London, in fact Europe was at the mercy of Hitler at the time of the Munich conference.

Sixty Years Ago

The Northern Nebraska Journal, published in Ponca by William Huse in 1879, is again the source of this information as to the happenings of that day. This section was relatively unsettled earlier; Indians, thieves and grasshoppers comprised the scourges to disheartened settlers—life was no bowl of cherries, but neither is it today. We still have grasshoppers, we still have our thieves; now the basis of our fear of war is not the Indian, but the dictator. As a special feature for the women, these cuttings include descriptions of styles of the wedding dresses then—the way grandmothers knew them.
 Taken from the issue of June 5, 1879:
 "Omaha is at present favored by the presence of bands of professional thieves and confidence men, who make life exceedingly hot for the citizens."
 "The sub-committee of the Darien-Canal congress, in session at Paris, decided on the 26th, to recommend the route proposed by Lieut. Wyse, and stated that the cost would be 42 million pounds."
 "New World:
 'A Pittsburgh dispatch of the 23rd says the Widow Oliver lectured in that city the night before, and the affair was a regular farce. There were only 23 people present, and not half a dozen of them paid their way. The mahager then went out and stood on a prominent street corner and distributed tickets free to everybody who passed. Even in this way he did not succeed in filling the house.' Someone's face was red."
 "Seasonal Something:
 Here is a little information for the June bride of 1879. What a difference between the costume of that day and ours.
 "Satins, the traditional fabric for wedding dresses, is also the fashionable choice this season. Both plain and brocaded satins are used; the latter are in large leaf or flower patterns, or else in small polka dots. Modists say the wedding dress has a distinctive style peculiar to it, somewhat severe, and entirely different from that of any other dress. The train is made longer, wider, and more severe in shape, flowing quite plain from the waist, and is untrimmed. The panier effect is slight, and is made by a scarf passed around the hips and held by orange blossoms. The corsage is a basque cut high in the back, with low, square or V-shaped neck, and transparent sleeves of lace or of pearl trimming may reach to the elbows or to the wrist. Pearl beads in passermenterie (trimming of cord or braid) and fringe are much used for trimming white satin dresses. Handsome laces are always in fashion, but are especially desirable now for arranging in rows across the front and sides of the satin dress, or else in jabots and panels on the sides. Wide lace flounces at the foot are fastened at intervals with small bouquets and satin ribbon loops. Sometimes lace is used for the transparent sleeves instead of the pearl trimming. Flowers are more lavishly used than they were formerly. Small bouquets set at intervals down the front amid rows of lace, or else clusters for the back and front of the paniers, are favorite styles."
 "Sissy Stuff:
 "During the month of May the public debt increased $62,500."

National Game Of Baseball at Century Mark

Baseball—the great American sport, the game enjoyed by old and young alike—is 100 years old this spring. And the occasion is being celebrated throughout the country.
 Though baseball is the most highly professional of all sports, with players hired by salary as a strictly business proposition, baseball is also the favorite game for the playground. Any group of school children or adults can enjoy a good game of baseball when provided with a ball and bat.
 Because baseball is so universally popular in the United States, it has become known as the "national game." And the games each summer between big professional teams continue to draw thousands of spectators and many more thousands of radio listeners.
 Baseball had its origin in the game called "town ball" which started in New England states 100 years ago. Town ball was played on a square field instead of a diamond, and the runs were made around four foot posts set in the ground instead of bases.
 The Washington club in New York was the first to use the diamond and its game was called the "New York" to distinguish it from the "Massachusetts" the town ball variety using the square field.
 The first rules for the sport were formulated in 1845 and the first match game was in 1846. As early as 1850 baseball clubs were organized in Boston and Philadelphia and others followed. In 1867 clubs sent representatives to a convention, and the following year 25 clubs sent delegates. Then the National Association of Baseball Players was formed with annual conventions held thereafter to revise the rules. The first matches for gate-money were played in 1858, and the first championship series was in 1858 and 1859 in Hoboken, N. Y.
 The Civil war of the 60's gave baseball a serious setback, but after the war interest revived. At the 1865 convention 80 clubs were represented. Then players began to train for the profession and their services came into demand. Since that time many have chosen baseball as a career.

The Forest City club of Rockford, Ill., was the first to employ players at salaries, though the Cincinnati "Red Stockings," organized in 1868, are regarded the first professional club players. In 1869 the "Red Stockings" played a series of 60 games without meeting defeat throughout the country east of the Mississippi. Their triumphal tour continued in 1870 until they lost to the Athletics of Brooklyn. These series gave another great impulse to baseball and teams were organized throughout the country. Salaries were raised when teams competed to get the best players.

In the 70's baseball fell into the hands of gamblers and there was grave danger that the sport would lose its popularity. In an effort at prevention, a convention was called at Louisville, Ky., in 1876. Stringent rules against bribing and betting were passed and the National League of Professional Baseball clubs was formed with a circuit of eight clubs. In 1882 a rival league sprang up, known as the American Association of Baseball players. The same year the National League, American Association and Northwestern League met and adopted a central government for all baseball players. In 1902 the American League and National League gained foothold.

Baseball has continued to grow until a recent figure placed the number of large leagues at 26, representing 182 cities and 4,728 players. College, town and junior leagues reach into thousands, and even more numerous are the small school and neighborhood teams. The magnitude of the organization and general interest shown justify the choice of the century-old sport of baseball as the "national game."

Water Conservation Ways Are Suggested

Several suggestions for holding water on pastures came to Dixon county farmers this week from E. H. Doll, extension conservationist at the Nebraska agricultural college.
 Keeping livestock out of permanent pastures during the early spring to give grass a chance to cover the ground is one rain-holding tip. Experiments show a bare pasture may lose up to 50 percent of a heavy rainfall, a thin pasture 25 percent, while an ungrazed meadow may absorb all of the same rain.
 Pastures which lack good cover can be improved by application of contour furrows. These may be constructed with a one-bottom plow on carefully surveyed contour lines. Shallow furrows close together are most efficient.
 Mr. Doll observes that application of manure has reduced the loss of rainfall by 50 percent in some experiments, and this practice also discourages close livestock grazing. It is often advisable to fence off the portion having the thinnest grass. Thus encouraging growth of a good ground cover for the first half of the grazing season.

CONGRESS

KARL STEFAN

There is a large element in congress which does not want adjournment with the threat of a foreign war pending, and it is saying so. The argument is offered that should war occur, the responsibility of keeping our country out of it should be shared by congress. Nobody has offered any good reason why our country should become involved, whether or not congress remains in session. And even if it remains for months, there is little present prospect that it will enact any neutrality legislation which will prevent our becoming involved in the usual way—first, our money; next, our men.

Great applause greeted one Latin-American dictator who stood in the American house of representatives and virtually asked for American money for activities down in his busted country.

In reply to many questions: The approximate number of federal employees in Washington is 125,000 and the average annual wage is $2,066. The employment rolls in government departments in this town are growing.

The paths of many distinguished foreign visitors in America lead to the United States treasury building on Pennsylvania avenue just east of the White House. They have heard much about the 15 billion dollars of gold deposited in the Kentucky hills. Some of them even attended the recent Kentucky derby. Just why are we loaning this money to the nations lying to the south of us? That question is in several letters from home. Briefly, the answer is: to promote intercontinental trade and safeguard western hemisphere defenses. To be more explicit, Italy, Germany and Japan have been getting a lot of our business down there. This dollar diplomacy is to regain that business; recapture good will; safeguard the good neighbor policy and assure aviation fields, harbors and help in case of trouble. These Spanish trained diplomats from the south know their diplomacy. They know what we want. They know we have the money so they are here not only flirting for it, but actually asking for it and getting it. Many members know that a lot of these American dollars are never coming back to us. They even know that some of these American dollars will be spent by the borrowers with European manufacturers. But some diplomats hope that the objective will be reached and that the investment will be worth while. Farm district members who have to fight during every session to continue a 3 1/2% federal land bank loan rate wonder why their fight for American farmers is so difficult and why foreigners have such an easy time in getting American dollars. The arrivals of Latin-American borrowers have just begun. The lineup of future arrivals is long and bewildering.

Believe it or not—taxpayers are charged about $121,000 each year for salutes for admirals, generals and distinguished visitors. The salutes for the Nicaraguan ruler cost about $420. One member suggests we use machine guns in giving salutes, hereafter. They would come quicker and cheaper.

The bureau of customs is having trouble about dog skins. The customs court has castes of years standing involving the question of dressed or undressed dog skins. While that legal question will be decided some day for those who want lower duties, American women should know that hundreds of thousands of dog skins come here from China every year. They are used to trim women's clothes, but few women know they come from the long haired dogs of China.

Our federal prisons today represent a 70-million-dollar establishment which is continually growing. To keep up to date, the prison experts say they will need a new building each year for years to come. There are now over 20,000 prisoners in these federal institutions and its costs taxpayers about 17 million dollars a year to run them. The committee which is making appropriations now is asked to increase the money for the crime detectors who catch the criminals. They are asked for more money for the courts where the criminals are prosecuted and now the prison officials say they have to have more money to keep the prisoners. "If congress stops legislating and if congress stops authorizing new judges, we won't have to have so much money," says one high official.

Believe it or not, five hundred new prisoners have been accumulated since the enactment of the marijuana law.

Appropriations for the various bureaus affected by the president's reorganization program will remain status quo. Committee members are told to let the appropriations stay as they are for another year, and the budget figures to fit the reorganization plans will be sent to them next year. In spite of that, committee members are asking a lot of questions, and here and there they are making cuts.

Believe it or not, your Uncle Sam has practically offered 250 million dollars to six Latin-American countries. Brazil has been offered 60 million; Cuba about 20 million and Haiti already has received about five million and the latest White House offer, President Samozza of Nicaragua, is reported to have asked for 15 million, and a canal and some river deepening projects. This man who threw his own uncle out of the presidency and is considered a real dictator of one million people, used to be an automobile salesman in Philadelphia. He took a bookkeeping course near here. He wants money to build roads, sewers and a lot of other public works. With a lot of our engineers down in Latin-American countries teaching welcoming ceremonies that are now completely planned for the King and queen of England who come here next month. Practically every salute, every movement at the railway station, every line of march and detail executed for the Nicaraguan will be duplicated when British royalty arrives, the principal difference, if any, being that the scale will be larger. The coming of the British king to Washington, while largely social, has considerable diplomatic and commercial significance.

Farm district members who are holding meetings to boost the farm refinancing, and cost-of-production bills are told that the treasury department is worried about where to get the money necessary to finance recently passed and pending farm legislation.

The people how to build roads and with a lot of their officials up here asking for money, the Washington relief scenes seem to have shifted all over the western hemisphere.

Payne of Lincoln, Chief Justice Robert Simmons, Harry Fleharty of Omaha, James Hanley who practices law here, James Quigley of Valentine and Judge Louis Lightner of Columbus.

The effect of the war fever abroad upon congress as well as upon many other people is evidenced by the swelling accounts for expenditures. Projects previously rejected by congress as unnecessary come to the front as essential in case war occurs. When the total of all appropriations for the session is arrived at, the amounts for war preparations will be surprising. After lavish expenditures for national defense, the past twenty years, the inadequacy of results is rather astonishing. The army and navy funds probably will exceed the size of relief funds. The ground work is being laid for future expenditures which will be even larger. Our unbalanced budget is not being relieved, notwithstanding the economies effected in minor matters. A borrowed dollar expended for gun-powder weighs as much as one borrowed to buy bread and milk for the relief rolls.

Argentine beef is basis for real oratory these days. Most of the speeches come from members of majority party who live in farm districts. Many of the minority, who have opposed importation of foreign products, are refraining from speeches but are telling majority members "We told you so." Every farm district member is hot under the collar on account of the chief executive's instructions to the navy to buy Argentine beef. While some farm members say the amount of beef to be bought from the Argentine for the navy will not be large, they resent statements that Argentine beef is better than American beef. That statement, they say, means that the triple A program may be hit hard. The real objective of the plan to kill our quarantine legislation against foreign meats.

Believe it or not, some of the vessels used in Uncle Sam's lighthouse service are 45 years old. These cost us $150 per ton 45 years ago. Replacements now cost around $500 per ton. With navigation work on the Missouri river, the U. S. lighthouse service will be seen in a year as far inland as Decatur, Neb. The service places buoys, lights and markings on all navigable streams.

Believe it or not, a painter who helps paint the capitol building claims he can yet see many signs of the fire damage of 1814. That was the year the British applied the torch to the capitol and the president's house.

Foreign policy and foreign diplomacy rank highest in discussions here. We may not be entangled too much in foreign affairs, yet, but there is not a move being made any place in the world today that we do not watch with anxious eyes. Folks at home who read the newspapers should be greatly interested these days in Russia. Watch Russia closely. Those who play the world's game of checkers are now making all kinds of advances to Russia. Russia is coy and wondering with whom she is going to play. While these powerful nations are anxious to tie up with Russia now, most of them want to be sure that Uncle Sam is on their side. That is why isolationists are not fighting our program in Latin-America, but insist that we keep "our noses" out of foreign entanglements and fight for the preservation of our hold on the western hemisphere.

Foreign policy and foreign diplomacy rank highest in discussions here. We may not be entangled too much in foreign affairs, yet, but there is not a move being made any place in the world today that we do not watch with anxious eyes. Folks at home who read the newspapers should be greatly interested these days in Russia. Watch Russia closely. Those who play the world's game of checkers are now making all kinds of advances to Russia. Russia is coy and wondering with whom she is going to play. While these powerful nations are anxious to tie up with Russia now, most of them want to be sure that Uncle Sam is on their side. That is why isolationists are not fighting our program in Latin-America, but insist that we keep "our noses" out of foreign entanglements and fight for the preservation of our hold on the western hemisphere.

Advices Baiting for Grasshoppers Now

Little Attention At Once Will Prevent Extra Work Later

The importance of early baiting to destroy grasshoppers was stressed Wednesday by Charles F. Keech, district supervisor of grasshopper control, who inspected the hatch in Wayne county with Agent Chester Walters.

Warm weather has apparently resulted in an almost complete hatch of the hoppers early. If the poison is spread now Mr. Keech thinks the pests will be under control within a month. A sack of bait now is worth a ton in July.

Alfalfa fields contain many hoppers now and first cuttings will soon be made. It is advised that a strip of alfalfa be left uncut in the center of the field. Hoppers will go to this and the strip can then be baited and the hoppers destroyed.

It is also advisable to bait along fences and roads where the pests have congregated. Should the growth in these places become dry the hoppers will move to crop fields.

Bait is available each day at the Theobald yard in Wayne. It is distributed Wednesdays and Saturdays by Henry Lage of Carroll, and Fred Trampe of Winside.

Will Visit in Europe. W. W. Smith plans to leave in about a month for Krakow, Poland, where he will visit his son, R. C. Smith. He will be gone about four months.

Plan Convention. The third annual state-wide convention of the Nebraska Council of Home Demonstration clubs will be held in Fremont in less than a month, and plans are now rapidly being completed for the three-day gathering. The tentative program was completed this week and it lists many outstanding speakers. Eight county choruses will appear as a special feature.

The Plus Life Should Be Aim

Rev. F. C. Mills Urges Class That World Needs Those Who Exceed Grasp!

Rev. F. C. Mills

"The Plus Life" was the theme of the baccalaureate address given Sunday evening by the Wayne college auditorium by Rev. F. C. Mills of Lexington, for 89 college seniors, 20 Wayne prep seniors, parents and friends.

Rev. Mills, former Wayne Methodist minister, expressed deep and sincere gratitude in being chosen to come back to the city he left some time ago and to address those who are not complete strangers to him.

The opening parable cited by Rev. Mills was concerning Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane when He and Peter and Paul were alone in the garden. The scripture reading ends with these words, "And then He went forward." And Jesus went forward, Jesus took a step farther than any man before him, or since him, had taken. "That is why," said Rev. Mills, "that Jesus has been remembered by all men. This step of Jesus was referred to as the 'plus' theory of the Saviour's life.

"There are very few," continued Rev. Mills, "who find that step farther. Just remember this: If any man compel you to go a mile—go two.

"There is no good in a college education unless it is used to advance the good of others—in fact, it may become a waste—even disastrous, unless it can be adjusted to be of service to humanity."

Rev. Mills went on to explain that "our lives are made, not by subtraction, but for plus—for sharps and not for flats. What our country needs today is more men who worry, more men who are not satisfied with things as they are but are willing to do their duty and a little bit more. This margin is what will eventually make our country a better place in which people may grow and live.

"We need men who will take their hearts in their hands and go on to a promised land—new fields—go on to a life of consequence!"

In conclusion, Rev. Mills chose these words of the great Browning—"A man's reach must exceed his grasp."

Rev. James A. Whitman and Rev. Carl A. Bader assisted in the services. Appropriate music was furnished by the college a cappella choir under the direction of Prof. Russel Anderson.

Next Few Days Opportune Time for Candidates to Pile Up Votes.

$25.00 Special Prize Ends Saturday Night

This week The Wayne Herald's big $1,500 gift campaign progressed toward the end of the first period in which votes are larger than at any time during the remainder of the drive.

These final days of the big votes should see candidates hustling as they never have before. Every one of them should realize the value of the prizes. It is entirely possible for any candidate in the list to get enough votes during this period to clinch one of these prizes.

Understand too, that this gigantic first period vote offer will never be repeated or extended. It expires on Saturday night, June 3. After that subscriptions will count for many less votes.

Every Effort Worthwhile. All candidates are urged to put forth every possible effort during the balance of this period. Now is the opportune time to pile up votes. Many of the candidates have been slow in starting and right now there is plenty of time to get in and win.

There still is plenty of opportunity for a new candidate to enter and be a winner when the final hour rolls around. As a timely warning, do not try to figure out how many votes it will take to win. Don't be afraid of having too many votes. It would be better to win by millions of votes more than enough, than to lose by a few thousand representing a mere handful of subscriptions. Don't let this happen to you.

About Those Promises. This is the time for candidates to gather all the promises of a subscription earlier made in the

NUMBER FOUR

Play Is Presented By Dramatics Class

"Enchanted Cottage," a fantasy by Arthur Pinero, presented by the college dramatics class Saturday night, was a delightful story about a mystical cottage that played a very important part in the lives of several people.

The outstanding feature about the presentation was the lighting. The dream sequence—done in many colored lights and shadowing—was most effective.

Attendance was good though the rain kept some away. The dramatics class produced the play, making costumes, doing the lighting, make-up and stage. They deserve to be highly commended on a very excellent piece of work, as does Miss Florence M. Drake, who directed the production.

campaign by their friends. Many have promised candidates their subscriptions.

To subscribers wishing to get behind their favorite candidate with their subscriptions and votes, we suggest that you look at the date on your paper this week, then call your favorite candidate and ask him or her to call for your subscription and votes. Now is the opportune time to boost your favorite, while the votes are the largest of the entire campaign.

Safety Council Makes Award to Omaha Railroad

The National Safety Council has awarded the Omaha road first place in the 12th railroad employees' safety contest for Class One railroads for the year 1938, according to word received by R. R. Larson. The Omaha received this honor in the group of railroads with exposure of 8 to 20 million man hours and was almost 30 percent under its nearest competitor. Such a record highly commends the fine spirit of cooperation among employees.

Carl R. Gray, Jr., executive vice-president of Omaha, gave whole-hearted credit to the operating forces and their careful attention to the safety campaign. In 1937 the Omaha line was runner-up in the safety contest, and continued the work with greater effort to take the highest award in 1938. The Omaha had won the award in 1933.

Safety campaigns have made remarkable records in providing maximum safety in travel as well as safety for men who make the railroad go.

 From Ponca Journal for June 3, 1886: Sheriff Brown has a new outfit of nickel handcuffs and shackles with patent spring lock which will prove tedious to sinners. Speaking of shackles, reminds us that the sheriff has in his possession a pair of these articles that are quite a curiosity both in workmanship and history. They are a pair which elapsed the ankles of Matt Miller previous to his execution of this place in 1869. Miller had murdered a land seeker named Durn in the most heartless manner, while they were resting at Badger creek, on their way from Sioux City to Ponca, and the citizens of the county formed themselves into a jury, gave him a fair trial, convicted him and hung him. In those days the sheriff did not have steel bound cells and nickel plated handcuffs to secure his prisoner, but stood guard over him in one of the rooms of the Valley house, then the only hotel here, while the village blacksmith made a pair of handcuffs and shackles. The shackles still remain as before stated. They are fashioned each of two heavy pieces of band iron connected with a hinge fastened with an iron pin, the two joined together with about a foot of log chain, and when in

DAREN'T START DRY

EVEN if this camel holds records for going without-more-dry, could he last if he had to start dry? Your car and your engine oil can't last either if you keep starting dry this summer.

You can't help it with any oil that always drains down to the crankcase completely. But you can certainly help it by getting your engine OIL-PLATED.

NEVER all down in the crankcase, no matter how long you park, OIL-PLATING is lastingly close-knit to inner engine surfaces by the action of Conoco Germ Processed Oil—patented. Its strong "power of attraction" fastens non-detachable OIL-PLATING throughout your engine. Does chrome-plating drain down? Neither does OIL-PLATING. Therefore in advance of starting, it's ready to slide every working part into easy motion, without rasping dryness. And since OIL-PLATING doesn't fly off or fry up it helps your engine to shatter the record for going without-more oil. That's why to OIL-PLATE today with Conoco Germ Processed Oil, at Your Mileage Merchant's, Continental Oil Co.

Betsy Ross Flag Picture Is Given To School Office

A picture, "The Birth of the American Flag," was presented this week by Miss Mabel Dayton to County Supt. F. B. Decker for his office at the court house. The picture is one which Miss Dayton and her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Dayton, bought at the American Flag House in Philadelphia some years ago.

The Betsy Ross home in Philadelphia has been preserved as a national memorial and is known as the American Flag House. There Betsy Ross designed and made the first American flag, which is one of the relics still preserved there.

The picture, in colors, shows Betsy Ross presenting the first American flag to General George Washington. George Ross and Robert Morris, the committee chosen to approve it. The flag is the earliest one, with red and white stripes and 13 white stars in a circle on a blue background. The flag was adopted June 14, 1777.

The sale of such relics as this picture with walnut frame keeps up the memorial house.

Directors Report School Statistics

Directors of school districts are to have their annual reports filed with County Supt. F. B. Decker by June 22. These will include the results of the annual school meeting, number of students between the ages of 8 and 14 in the district, number between these ages attending school 12 weeks or more this year, length of time school was taught by a qualified teacher, wages paid, total days attended during the year by pupils between the ages of 5 and 21, amount of money received from the county treasurer, amount expended by the district during the year, amount to be raised for the coming year, kind of books used in the school, number of children furnished texts and the kind of texts provided, amount of bonded indebtedness in the district and other facts and statistics as the superintendent directs.

The school year closed May 17 with a picnic at Norfolk, all pupils and 13 patrons attending. After dinner at Johnson's park, the group visited the Norfolk cereal and flour mills. Daily News office, radio station WJAG and Graham ice cream factory.

Betty Lou Bowers had a record of perfect attendance for the year. The school observed Arbor day by setting out four boxelder and two Chinese elm trees. In spite of dry weather the trees are growing well. Later pupils found violets about the school ground and transplanted them along the walk.

Did You Know?

In 1936 temperature went as high as 114 above and in 1937 as low as 25 below.

Curious as it was, a flood followed the drought in Nebraska in 1885, when rains in May and June swelled the Republican river and over 100 lives were lost in the valley.

Indians near Fort McPherson February 2, 1865, made a raid which boomeranged. After burning the town, they went into the telegraph office and, finding nothing to drink, they overturned the jars and began a war dance on the wet dirt floor. When the nitric acid soaked through their moccasins, they howled with pain. Other Indians who came to investigate rushed out of the building shrieking with pain. The Indians attributed their trouble to supernatural powers.

Reports circulated throughout Nebraska in 1897 stated that gold could be found in paying quantities. A company was organized in Kearney to extract gold from the water and sand of the Platte river. A west Lincoln farmer set up a smelter which yielded $8 to $16 of gold per ton of gravel. Gold mining was started also near Falls City, which hoped to be another Klondike. A Crete man hauled gravel into the city where he could use city water to remove the metal. After a short time, however, the gold excitement gave out with the gold itself.

District 64.
(Maxine Ermons, teacher)
The year was brought to a close May 19 with a picnic. Mylet Bareman and Harold Hansen were each presented a gift for perfect attendance through the year.

Several fair articles were made before the term closed. Pupils gave their mothers grocery memo pads for Mother's day.

Perfect attendance records were earned for May by Mylet Bareman, Marvin Dranselka, Harold Hansen, Doris and Tommy Stoneking, James Fox, Lester and Dean Menke, Elaine Hansen.

Tennessee Fascinates Strahans

"Umbrellas and slickers are a regular part of equipment for Chattanooga, Tenn., residents," according to B. F. Strahan, who writes May 19 during a two-inch downpour. "From preachers and professors down to little toddlers going to school, they are carried and are just as necessary as a spare tire on one's car." This explanation Mr. Strahan makes after reading in the Herald the statement that umbrellas have in recent years almost disappeared from store stocks and from public use. Mr. Strahan says he wishes Wayne county could have the annual rainfall received at Chattanooga where the average minimum is 40 inches and the average maximum is 82 inches.

"It's no wonder that the hills and mountains are covered with trees, the lawns and pastures green and flowers everywhere. This is truly a beautiful place to live," writes the former Wayne man. "Lookout mountain, Missionary ridge and Chickamauga park, all rich in Civil war history, are now marked with monuments and tablets each designating a spot where men of a certain brigade stood their ground, telling the story of the action taken and result of same. Lookout and Missionary ridge are now covered with fine homes while Chickamauga is a national park of 5,600 acres.

"Missionary ridge on which a large section of Chattanooga lies is east of the business section and is covered with fine old mansions along the crest road which extends for eight miles atop the ridge. The view of the homes and gardens on one side and the view of the city from the other necessitate more than one ride along this road to get the real beauty. The drive is lined with roses and other blooming shrubbery the whole distance. We live east of the ridge and go back and forth through the tube of tunnel about a quarter of a mile long. There are four such tubes through the ridge on different through streets.

"The view of Chattanooga and the Tennessee river from atop Lookout mountain is conceded by many visitors to be the finest. Signal mountain to the northwest of the city gives one a fine view of the Grand canyon of the Tennessee river. Signal Mountain city rests upon the top of this long flat-top mountain. "Chattanooga boosters call it the Pittsburgh of the south for many industries have moved here, more especially cotton and hosiery mills, and I have been told that more than 1,500 different articles are manufactured here.

"The coming of the TVA to east Tennessee has kept this city from feeling the depression. I understand that headquarters are to be moved here soon for they have just lately secured the Tennessee Power company franchises in many communities. Promise of cheap electricity will bring in additional manufacturers.

"Soft coal is used exclusively and in spite of the smoke Chattanooga is an exceptionally clean city. Coal is very cheap, the best costing $4 per ton delivered. The average homeowner spends around $35 to heat his home. Although the temperature range is from 25 degrees to 100, it sometimes gets lower but not for any length of time. Furnaces are used in the colder weather and fireplaces when temperature is around 60. July is the hottest month with 100 degrees, but residents claim it cools every evening and one has to cover to sleep.

"The worst part of most southern cities is the negro section, although new housing projects are doing away with many shacks unfit for habitation of any kind. Negroes are the source of much crime," according to court records.

"The south may have the reputation of being slow, but such is not the case here. Traffic moves fast and all business is conducted as keenly as any other place we have visited. Crowds are on the two wide business streets every day and it is especially noted that even Saturday nights, generally quiet in most cities, are just like the hope town crowds.

"The southerners are true ladies and gentlemen and everyone you meet seems to make you feel welcome with their courteous manner and soft spoken greetings. We enjoy their manners and they in turn enjoy ours and congratulate us on our dictation. Especially our daughters' dictation.

"The family are well satisfied here and through the excellent work of her music teachers' while in Wayne, Beverly, after such a short time here, was given the bass viol in the Central high school orchestra and plays at the graduation of the senior class tonight at the auditorium which holds 6,000 people. The Central high is one of the two high schools and has an attendance of 2,300."

FACTS FAVOR FORD

1 The 1939 Ford V-8 is a beautiful, modern motor car. Its 85-horsepower engine gives you economical, well-balanced performance over the entire speed range — and the 60-horsepower engine is even more economical.

2 The structural strength of the Ford car — frame, bracing, axles, body — makes not only for safety, but durability and long life.

3 Ford hydraulic brakes are exceptionally large and strong in proportion to car weight.

4 The Ford car is stabilized for comfortable riding. Its springbase, the distance between front and rear suspension, is 123 inches. Seats are toward the center, perfectly balanced. The car does not bob or dip and can have very little sway.

These four points — power, strength, safety, comfort — are by far the most important essentials in any motor car. They form the basic value of your investment.

With this solid foundation to build on, the Ford V-8 has been made beautiful, spacious, easy to drive. It is richly upholstered and has all the modern features which add to the luxury and pleasure of motoring.

You can see these things when you take a trial drive, but do not forget that the main value is in the things you do not readily see — quality of materials, precision of manufacture, fundamental engineering.

From Ponca Journal for June 3, 1886: Sheriff Brown has a new outfit of nickel handcuffs and shackles with patent spring lock which will prove terrors to sinners.

Speaking of shackles, reminds us that the sheriff has in his possession a pair of these articles that are quite a curiosity both in workmanship and history. They are a pair which clasped the ankles of Matt Miller previous to his execution of this place in 1869. Miller had murdered a land seeker named Dunn in the most heartless manner, while they were resting at Badger creek, on their way from Sioux City to Ponca, and the citizens of the county formed themselves into a jury, gave him a fair trial, convicted him and hung him.

In those days the sheriff did not have steel bound cells and nickel plated handcuffs to secure his prisoner, but stood guard over him in one of the rooms of the valley house, then the only hotel here, while the village blacksmith made a pair of handcuffs and shackles. The shackles still remain as before stated. They are fashioned each of two heavy pieces of band iron connected with a hinge fastened with an iron pin, the two joined together with about a foot of log chain, and when in

EVEN if this camel holds records for going without more drink, could he last if he had to start dry? Your car and your engine oil can't last either if you keep starting dry this Summer.

You can't help it with any oil that always drains down to the crankcase completely. But you can certainly help it by getting your engine OIL-PLATED.

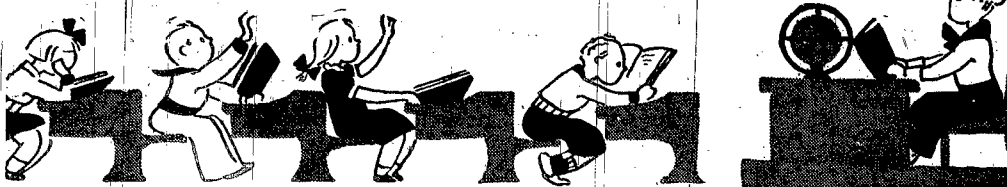

NEVER all down in the crankcase, no matter how long you park, OIL-PLATING is lastingly close-knit to inner engine surfaces by the action of Conoco Germ Processed oil - patented. Its strong "power of attraction" fastens non-detachable OIL-PLATING throughout your engine. Does chrome-plating drain down? Neither does OIL-PLATING. Therefore in advance of starting, it's ready to slide every working part into easy motion, without rasping dryness. And since OIL-PLATING doesn't fly off or fry up it helps your engine to shatter the record for going without more oil. That's why to OIL-PLATE today with Conoco Germ Processed oil, at Your Mileage Merchant's. Continental Oil Co.

Betsy Ross Flag Picture Is Given To School Office

A picture, "The Birth of the American Flag," was presented this week by Miss Mabel Dayton to County Supt. F. B. Decker for his office at the court house. The picture is one which Miss Dayton and her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Dayton, bought at the American Flag House in Philadelphia some years ago.

The Betsy Ross home in Philadelphia has been preserved as a national memorial and is known as the American Flag House. There Betsy Ross designed and made the first American flag, which is one of the relics still preserved there.

The picture, in colors, shows Betsy Ross presenting the first American flag to General George Washington. George Ross and Robert Morris, the committee chosen to approve it. The flag is the earliest one, with red and white stripes and 13 white stars in a circle on a blue background. The flag was adopted June 14, 1777.

The sale of such relics as this picture with walnut frame keeps up the memorial house.

Directors Report School Statistics

Directors of school districts are to have their annual reports filed with County Supt. F. B. Decker by June 22. These will include the results of the annual school meeting, number of students between the ages of 8 and 14 in the district, number between these ages attending school 12 weeks or more this year, length of time school was taught by a qualified teacher, wages paid, total days attended during the year by pupils between the ages of 5 and 21, amount of money received from the county treasurer, amount expended by the district during the year, amount to be raised for the coming year, kind of books used in the school, number of children furnished texts and the kind of texts provided, amount of bonded indebtedness in the district and other facts and statistics as the superintendent directs.

The school year closed May 17 with a picnic at Norfolk, all pupils and 15 patrons attending. After dinner at Johnson's park, the group visited the Norfolk cereal and flour mills, Daily News office, radio station WJAG and Graham ice cream factory.
Betty Lou Bowers had a record of perfect attendance for the year.
The school observed Arbor day by setting out four boxelder and two Chinese elm trees. In spite of dry weather the trees are growing well. Later pupils found violets about the school ground and transplanted them along the walk.

DID YOU KNOW?

In 1936 temperature went as high as 114 above and in 1937 as low as 25 below.

Curious as it was, a flood followed the drought in Nebraska in 1937, when rains in May and June swelled the Republican river and over 100 lives were lost in the valley.

Indians near Fort McPherson February 2, 1865, made a raid which boomeranged. After burning the town, they went into the telegraph office and, finding nothing to drink, they overturned the jars and began a war dance on the wet dirt floor. When the nitric acid soaked through their moccasins, they howled with pain. Other Indians who came to investigate rushed out of the building shrieking with pain. The Indians attributed their trouble to supernatural powers.

Reports circulated throughout Nebraska in 1897 stated that gold could be found in paying quantities. A company was organized in Kearney to extract gold from the water and sand of the Platte river. A west Lincoln farmer set up a smelter which yielded $8 to $16 of gold per ton of gravel. Gold mining was started also near Falls City, which hoped to be another Klondike. A Crete man hauled gravel into the city where he could use city water to remove the metal. After a short time, however, the gold excitement gave out with the gold itself.

District 64.
(Maxine Emmons, teacher)
The year was brought to a close May 19 with a picnic. Mylet Barehman and Harold Hansen were each presented a gift for perfect attendance through the year.
Several fair articles were made before the term closed.
Pupils gave their mothers grocery memo pads for Mother's day.
Perfect attendance records were earned for May by Mylet Barehman, Marvin Dranselka, Harold Hansen, Doris and Tommy Stoneking, James Fox, Lester and Dean Menke, Elaine Hahsen.

Tennessee Fascinates Strahans

"Umbrellas and slickers are a regular part of equipment for Chattanooga, Tenn., residents," according to B. F. Strahans who writes May 19 during a two-inch downpour. "From preachers and professors down to little toddlers going to school, they are carried and are just as necessary as a spare tire on one's car." This explanation Mr. Strahans makes after reading in the Herald the statement that umbrellas have in recent years almost disappeared from store stocks and from public use. Mr. Strahans says he wishes Wayne county could have the annual rainfall received at Chattanooga where the average minimum is 40 inches and the average maximum is 52 inches. "It's no wonder that the hills and mountains are covered with trees, the lawns and pastures green and flowers everywhere.

"This is truly a beautiful place to live," writes the former Wayne man. "Lookout mountain, Missionary ridge and Chickamauga park, all rich in Civil war history, are now marked with monuments and tablets each designating a spot where men of a certain brigade stood their ground, telling the story of the action taken and result of same. Lookout and Missionary ridge are now covered with fine homes, while Chickamauga is a national park of 5,500 acres.

"Missionary ridge on which a large section of Chattanooga lies is east of the business section and is covered with fine old mansions along the crest road which extends for eight miles atop the ridge. The view of the homes and gardens on one side and the view of the city from the other necessitate more than one ride along this road to get the real beauty. The drive is lined with roses and other blooming shrubbery the whole distance. We live east of the ridge and go back and forth through the tube or tunnel about a quarter of a mile long. There are four such tubes through the ridge on different through streets.

"The view of Chattanooga and the Tennessee river from atop Lookout mountain is conceded by many visitors to be the finest. Signal mountain to the northwest of the city gives one a fine view of the Grand canyon of the Tennessee river. Signal Mountain city rests upon the top of this long flat-top mountain.

FACTS FAVOR FORD
1 The 1939 Ford V-8 is a beautiful, modern motor car. Its 85-horsepower engine gives you economical, well-balanced performance over the entire speed range—and the 60-horsepower engine is even more economical.
2 The structural strength of the Ford car—frame, bracing, axles, body—makes not only for safety, but durability and long life.
3 Ford hydraulic brakes are exceptionally large and strong in proportion to car weight.
4 The Ford car is stabilized for comfortable riding. Its springbase, the distance between front and rear suspension, is 123 inches. Seats are toward the center, perfectly balanced. The car does not bob or dip and can have very little sway.
These four points—power, strength, safety, comfort—are by far the most important essentials in any motor car. They form the basic value of your investment.
With this solid foundation to build on, the Ford V-8 has been made beautiful, spacious, easy to drive. It is richly upholstered and has all the modern features which add to the luxury and pleasure of motoring.
You can see these things when you take a trial drive, but do not forget that the main value is in the things you do not readily see—quality of materials, precision of manufacture, fundamental engineering.

Substantial Rain Comes to Vicinity
Fields, Pastures, Gardens Are Given New Life Last of Week.
Corn and small grain fields, pastures and gardens were given wonderful stimulus by week-end rains which fell in this vicinity. Corn was just out of the ground and small grain was needing moisture before heading out so that the rain proved of untold benefit.

Showers fell in Carroll Friday evening between 5 and 6, and the rain was much heavier at that time north and west, being reported as heavy as 2 inches. The Frank Rees, John Laurig and Ed. Shufeldt places had such heavy downpours that fields were washed. That rain was also heavy in Sholes and Randolph vicinities.

A second downpour came about 8 Friday evening. This brought a rain of about 2 inches all through the Carroll territory. This amount was reported at Leo Jensen's, John Gettman's, Frank Loberg's, E. L. Pearson's, Ed. Mohr's, Lewis Johnson's, C. H. Morris'. The gauge in town showed about that amount for the two rains.

Memorial Day Meaning Told

Message of Prof. K. N. Parke Urges Holding to Line Of Democracy.

In speaking in "What Memorial Day Means to Me," Prof. K. N. Parke of Wayne, delivering the Memorial day address at Winside Tuesday morning, said that too many people are prone to use "holy days" or holidays as excuses for travel and activity, forgetting the real meaning of the day. He then traced the early history or origin of the day. Spontaneous decoration of graves as early as 1863 might be the earliest evidence of the present Memorial day spirit. In 1868 the commander-in-chief of the G.A.R. authorized the first observance of May 30 as Memorial day. General James A. Garfield, later to be president of the United States, gave the first address on that day.

Prof. Parke explained, moreover, that "Memorial day stands for all the rights and privileges which are ours as American citizens" and he gave examples of these rights, contrasting them with the lack of rights and privileges in Europe.

"Our World war veterans fought a war to end war—a war to make the world safe for democracy. Today our big problem is the Americans is to hold the line of democracy here in America. We must organize to preserve and extend in America what they fought for. This can be achieved through more cooperative activities in home, school and community. We must make the will of the majority the law, but we must likewise respect the freely expressed will of the minority. Our national motto is 'In God We Trust.'"

The entire program was as follows: Song, "America," by the assembly; invocation by Rev. H. G. Knaub; selection, "Ode Director," by Biglow, Winside band; reading of list of soldier dead, Chaplain Gust Johnson; vocal solo, "The Trumpeter," by Dix, Ollie Smith; reading, "Boys of Flanders," composed by Shirley Misset, Mrs. H. S. Moses; introduction of speaker, Commander Fred Brune; address by Prof. Parke; selection, "In Old Vienna," overture by King, band; benediction, Rev. Knaub.

Services at the cemetery were conducted immediately following those in the city park. Flower girls decorated the graves of the soldier dead. The remainder of the program included: "Star Spangled Banner," played by the band; prayer by Chaplain Johnson; salute by the post firing squad; and Taps by Prof. Donald Hansen.

In the afternoon the firing squad and the flower girls went to Hoskins to decorate graves.
