

FIFTYEIGHTH YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1939

NUMBER FIVE

County Levy Is To Be Reduced

Record Is Outstanding in State, With Only Six Counties Lower.

Wayne county commissioners expect to make some reduction in the tax levy when they meet to fix the assessment in August, according to Frank Erkleben, chairman of the board. The estimate of expenses was placed by the board at $177,604.43, which is $27,114.93 below the 1938 estimate of $204,719.36.

The board met Monday to hear protests on the budget but none were filed.

Wayne county's tax levy of 3.60 last year was one of the very smallest in the state. Only six counties were lower: Polk with 3.48, Kearney with 3.55, Deuel with 2.858, Dawson with 2.52, Butler with 3.45 and Boone with 3.16.

Cuming county, Wayne's neighbor and efficiently managed, has a total levy of 4.02. This includes 1.32 county levy and an average of 2.70 township levy. The plan is different for Cuming county. Each township has charge of its own road work and makes a levy for this purpose.

A comparison of levies makes a favorable showing for Wayne county.

Dr. Charles Durden of Omaha, was a guest in the Dr. J. T. Anderson home the first of last week.

LOCAL CLUB MOVES FORWARD WITH TWO WORTHY PROPOSALS

MEMBERS of the Kiwanis club, following their noon-day luncheon Monday, took two noteworthy positions—the one favoring installation of a public address system in the municipal auditorium and the other taking due steps to recognize and instruct youths who have reached the voting age. It is a fact that any room the size of the auditorium needs something to amplify sound. The idea of paying special attention to young people on attaining 21 is to develop understanding of fundamentals in government and to inculcate ideas of personal responsibility. The purpose would be to inculcate appreciation of a democratic social order and to encourage efforts to perpetuate it. The difference between enslavement under totalitarian rule and freedom guaranteed to everybody equally in America should be made plain enough to arouse active interest. An informed electorate is the best guarantee of continued liberty, and that is the reason the Kiwanis club would lend knowledge and stimulus to first voters.

Additional Sum Is Granted For Activities Hall

Push Work on Cafeteria to Make Ready Sunday For Reopening.

An additional government grant amounting to $6,500 has been awarded Wayne State Teachers college for the completion of the student-faculty activities building, according to word last Friday from the federal office. The total of the grant on the building now amounts to $50,227. Since the letting of the contract the price of materials and labor are higher so the extra fund was needed.

To get ready for the reopening of the college cafeteria Sunday, construction was being rushed this week on the addition to Connell hall, which includes the remodeling of the present building.

Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer for the Public Works Administration, reported that on certain days since the cafeteria closed June 2, the John L. Soderberg construction company, contractor, used two shifts of men, one shift working late into the evening.

The old wood roof over the kitchen of the cafeteria was razed during the past few days, forms were set up, plans placed and arrangements made to pour the second floor concrete slab over this section today to replace the one-story high roof. As the second floor, becomes part of the present structure, the space above the present kitchen and above the added space north of the kitchen will be divided off into employees' quarters and small apartments for faculty members.

Meanwhile brick masons Wednesday had taken the outside walls to the height of the second floor all around the new section and were (Continued on Page Two.)

NINE-WEEK SCHOOL AT WAYNE COLLEGE BEGINS NEXT WEEK

NEXT week the Wayne State Teachers college will resume activities for its nine-week summer term. Wayne is fortunate in the possession of an institution that draws hither an army of young persons bent on spending vacation months in acquiring greater preparation for their professional work. These summer students are mostly teachers who have saved enough from their salaries to pay the cost of additional training. They are not content just to get by. They want to be better fitted for their tasks, and are able to impart new ideas and latest methods to their young charges in the coming year.

Townpeople have long been accustomed to extending courtesies to student groups. Those who come here for the first time, and thus do not know from experience, may be assured of finding Wayne a friendly, helpful community.

The remodeling was under way Monday by the Kingery Construction company, general contractor. Little was accomplished in the first two days as the contractor lined up his plans. Excavation for the addition, the laying out of the new part of the site, and the electrical wiring subcontract work started Wednesday. The Meyers Electric company of Wayne, has been awarded the electrical contract. The plumbing, heating contract has not yet been awarded.

After conferring with the architect, William Beutler of the firm of Beutler and Arnold of Sioux City, and Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer, PWA, the contractor, O. E. Kingsbury of Lincoln, who had been here since Monday, returned to his headquarters late Tuesday and left the job in charge of George Stanley, superintendent. Legislative Reduction Will Handicap Schools

State Teachers Colleges Will Be Affected by Recent Cut.

Legislative reduction in appropriations for Nebraska state teachers colleges will prove a serious handicap to education. Wayne college as well as others of the state will be affected by the cut, according to Dr. J. T. Anderson.

"The additional cut for the state teachers colleges, including Wayne State college," says the president, "is going to make a reduction of nearly 40 percent over Wayne's appropriation at its maximum. This will seriously handicap the institution and it will endanger the accreditations of the college with the North Central association and the American Association of Teachers Colleges."

"The reduction will probably result in the limitation of enrollment or the curtailment in the offerings or probably both. Plans have not been worked out for the future program but probably will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the board. This is a serious blow to an institution whose growth has been so marked over the last few years. Wayne's enrollment was 26 percent greater this year than the year before."

Last of Four Involved Is Sent to Reformatory By District Judge.

W. Neff's car. Storey waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to district court with bond fixed at $2,000. He was taken the same day before district judge A. E. Wenke at Stanton, and was sentenced to one year in the state reformatory at Lincoln. Storey will be taken here soon.

The young men went through cars parked on streets in Wayne in January, taking blankets, tools, clothing, radio and auto accessories. Most of these were recovered, though some had been sold. Scout Cabin Is Nearly Complete In Wayne Park

Wayne girl scouts are soon to have an ideal place for meetings and outings at the cabin which has been moved from the country to the city park in the east part of town. The council met there Monday evening with H. S. Soace to discuss improvements at the site. Rustic entrances have been constructed at the north and south sides of the cabin which will be painted brown and green. A fireplace will be built on the west. A partition will separate the kitchen and dining room, and the interior will be made rustic with a gateway will be placed at the north side. A rustic bridge spans a small ditch which is lined with stones. Trees and shrubbery seclude the cabin. The council discussed providing the cabin with new equipment. It is hoped that with the aid of local groups and individuals the cabin can be fitted out to provide an important recreational and education center for girls of the community.

An Amazing Revelation THE WORLD-HERALD quotes A. A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, as predicting that the government will finally own the country's productive plants, now in private hands.

Logically, it is quite natural that those committed to such a transformation should desire and plan the steady weakening of the system of free private enterprise.

We are glad the wave of sentiment in high circles to pursue a sort of selective draft for advanced education has not so far reached the state university where the number of graduates this week reached an all-time record.

Cities and towns are banning use of Fourth of July explosives in growing numbers. Bitter experience in the indiscriminate handling of firecrackers and fireworks led Omaha to pass a prohibitory ordinance.

Receives $25 For Most New Subscriptions Closely
Followed by Others

Mrs. Florence Helleberg, Wayne, won the special award of $25 for new Herald subscriptions by an extremely narrow margin as revealed by count of returns received up to Saturday night. Walter Reacker, Wayne, and Mrs. Lulu Woodall Wakefield, fraction of a vote behind, tied for second place and others dropped close to the tail.

First Period Closes.
With the first or preparatory period of The Wayne Herald cash prize campaign now a matter of history the active candidates in the race are preparing for the big drive for the trophy and from present indications it will be exciting and interesting.

Another Special.
To show our appreciation and to aid the candidates who may wish to run our campaign, we are making another cash award of $25. This is a special prize and has nothing to do with other prizes. A special cash prize of $25 will be awarded to the candidate securing the most points on new subscriptions payments, between June 3 and June 21 inclusive. Second round robin and extensions do not count for position in this special prize. See the campaign advertisement for particulars.

Race Close.
Candidates entered in The Wayne Herald Trade Expansion campaign have swelled their vote totals to wonderfully high marks. The first period of the campaign, which closed Saturday night, was a huge success. Scores of subscriptions were turned in and hundreds of thousands of votes issued. Every active voter made a fine showing. From now on to the finish it will be a night of exciting race between the several contenders for the big prize.

It is a strange coincidence, and something unusual in campaigns of this nature, but the real contenders who are striving for honors and big cash awards benefited equally during the period just closed, as to money and the number of subscriptions turned in up to and including Saturday, June 3, that the leaders were just determined until every subscription was counted and certified.

The competition therefore, so far as the respective standings of the candidates is concerned, depends entirely upon the results obtained between now and the finish.

Short Second Period.
The present second period is very short, closing a week from next Saturday, June 17. This period offers the best remaining vote opportunity of the campaign. During the present period it is possible for any candidate to build up the winning margin of votes. Although no candidate was able to pile up a lead worth mentioning in the first period it is almost certain that some candidate will do so this period. Between now and June 17 it is entirely possible for any candidate in the list to accomplish this.

NUMBER FIVE

Culture Defined By College Dean

Dr. J. T. Anderson Confers
Degrees at Exercises in Willow Bowl

Addressing Wayne State Teachers college commencement audience in the campus willow bowl Thursday morning on "Culture and Education," Dr. F. E. Henzlik, dean of the teachers college at the University of Nebraska, defined culture as training for American life and American institutions. It is cultivating a free mind, and training the mind to function effectively.

"The fact that over 800 organizations in the United States are fighting a vigorous propaganda against democracy presents a real challenge," stated the speaker, who pointed out that democratic government has virtues which constitute a sacred heritage and which teachers have the privilege of presenting to their students.

The first factor in the attainment of intellectual culture is a devotion to the practices of democracy, stated Dr. Henzlik. "The school teacher writes the insurance policy for democracy for to him or her must come the new recruits—potentialities for good or evil. Our civilization rests upon the faith that the common people are good enough to be educated."

"A second factor in the attainment of intellectual culture is the development of the freedom of thought and independence of judgment," continued the speaker. "If we inculcate this doctrine, then we are teaching democracy. Because the one thing incompatible with a dictatorship is freedom of thought and independence of judgment, intolerance, race persecution and jealousy are vices which Americans cannot afford." Good citizenship includes more than obeying laws, paying taxes, etc. It also includes being aware of social and economic problems of the day.

"The good citizen is skilled in co-operating with others in a common cause and for a common good." As a third factor in cultural attainment Dr. Henzlik stressed the need for those "fundamental values or attitudes which enable us to remain true to the realities of the spiritual life." The speaker said he was not concerned with theological controversies or religious dogma but rather with an "appetite to these broad, noble, final things of the spirit that are a lifelong inspiration. A man may be intellectually well-equipped but morally and spiritually undeveloped." The high goal is "spiritual fellowship and individual worth."

In conclusion Dr. Henzlik pointed out that "the soul of America is reflected in its culture. First, in our deep loyalty and devotion to democracy itself, in our attitudes which progressively afford to each individual the largest opportunity to develop his own personality, to contribute his best to the common good and to participate cooperatively in the self-direction of society; second, in the recognition and cultivation of the free mind and a passion for the truth, to subordinate emotion and prejudice and to avoid those mass methods by which millions of people are today being forced into mental slavery; this necessitating not only clear thinking but also the desire for facts and evidence as a basis for decisions of every day life; third, in reflecting the soul of America through its spiritual ideals, the width and depth of sympathies and fellowship. To give and then to give well—first to guarantee the free life and then to promote the good life—these have ever been the hopes of man. In America we recognize that each person is given a definite quality we call individuality and that the greatest of all creations is the human spirit and personality.

"Every social order," stated Dr. Henzlik, is known by its fundamental values, its mercy, its kindness and its love of justice, its freedom and its independence, and finally its opportunities for education. These qualities together with courage and honesty, thrift and hard work constitute the true worth of the individual and the foundation upon which depends the happiness of our civilization."

Dr. J. T. Anderson presented degrees for completion of the four-year course to 89. Certificates for finishing other courses were earned by 197.

Wayne college symphony orchestra directed by Prof. John R. Keith, furnished music for the professional and recreational, also played an overture. The college mixed sextet sang.

Rev. W. C. Heidenreich offered the invocation and Rev. Wm. Keams the benediction.

Stone Laid By Masonic Lodge

Bishop George Beecher Is
Orator at Ceremonies
Held Thursday.

"Freedom is the most disciplinary condition one can live under for it places responsibility on every citizen," stated Bishop George Allen Beecher of Hastings, orator for the Masonic Grand lodge at laying of the corner-stone Thursday afternoon for the student-faculty building at Wayne State Teachers college.

Democracy and dictatorship predominate as forms of government today. They differ, the bishop explained, in that democracy recognizes the individual mind while dictatorship does not. Freedom of a democracy implies keenest discipline for it demands that every man do his duty toward his country and his neighbor. A dictator forces his will.

In presenting the belief that Christianity is the foundation for democracy, Bishop Beecher stressed the fact that "we can't have Christianity in church or in business unless we are Christians at home." He deplored the fact that religious worship in the home is practically abandoned. "We need daily worship for we can't be leaders unless we have religion to balance other attainments," the bishop added.

Men who signed the Declaration of Independence and gave the Constitution were guided by religion. "Do we believe in God and serve Him according to the dictates of our conscience?" questioned the speaker. "The peril is that many have no conscience. It is hoped that something will inspire a return of religion to make us better Christians, better citizens and better parents."

"Christian principles are the underlying and unchangeable foundation of free public education," stated the bishop. "May we not be unmindful or ungrateful of the sacrifice and faith and labor that prompted our forebears to build temples of learning that are symbols of these immortal things which outlive the endurance of that which is material. May students and faculty carry on the torch undimmed to all time, developing the type of character on which civilization is based." The bishop closed by expressing the hope that "we may exemplify such Christian character that our children will be able to say, 'God bless our native land, America.'"

The orator was introduced by Dr. Walter Bentback, member of the state normal board, who explained that, since free education is on the defensive, it is fitting that Masons, who have demonstrated valiant service for religion and education, should have charge of the ceremonies.

Dr. J. T. Anderson, in inviting Grand Master Walter Raacke of Central City, to officiate, explained that the new college improvement will give to the state a building and equipment of great value at no expense to the people.

Mr. Raacke and other officers and acting officers of Grand lodge officiated in laying the stone. The brass choir, directed by Prof. John R. Keith, played while the stone was lowered and the flag raised. After the stone was tested, it was consecrated with corn, oil and wine—corn for plenty, wine for joy and gladness and oil for peace. College girls then placed flowers on the stone, and bugle blasts to the four directions proclaimed the fact that the rites had been performed according to ancient Masonic custom.

Recreation Camp Being Constructed

Plans for a permanent recreation camp for families and for boys are being made by Coach J. H. Morrison who has bought an acreage on Lake George, nine miles from Itasca park in Minnesota. Mr. Morrison put up the first cabin on the property last summer and plans to make further improvements this summer. Badminton, tennis and volleyball courts will be constructed this summer.

The coach plans to conduct a camp for boys at the lake from July 11 to August 11. Mr. Morrison and sons, Billie and James, Billie Orr and Quentin Whitmore went to the lake Friday night. Mr. Morrison returns this week for summer school. The others will remain for the summer. Prof. F. G. Dale and sons, Bob and Jack, and C. N. Olson went to the Morrison camp Saturday and remained until Wednesday.

Training Course Will Be Offered

Training courses for girl leadership will be held at Wayne college for three days, August 7 to 9. Such training is also provided at Fremont, Omaha, Hastings, Peru, Chadron, Lincoln and Kearney. The $50,000 gift of Frank Phillips makes possible the work for girls in Nebraska. The plan is to train leaders this summer and to promote girl scouts, girl reserves and camp fire girls groups in the fall. The course will emphasize methods for organizing and managing girls' groups.

Mrs. Roy Magill of Holdrege, Miss Gertrude Steiner of New York, Miss Louise Lomax, and Miss Mildred Holland of Lincoln, will conduct the courses. The training will be available to all who wish to take it.

Married at Pierce.
Earl T. Evans, cook at Wayne, and Miss Elsie Blank of Norfolk, were married May 27 at Pierce.

Sixty Years Ago In Business

Business firms 60 years ago made a scramble for front-page position in the local newspaper, juggling from copies of the Northern Journal published at Ponca by Wm. Husé. And not only have styles in newspaper making changed, but merchandise offered and the ways of presenting buying information to the public have also modernized.

With the Fourth of July approaching and a celebration planned to enliven the occasion, advertisements in the June 12, 1879 issue naturally are written to aid in preparation for the big event. C. S. Ford's store in Ponca brings to attention of readers the fact that there may be bought shawls and parasols so necessary in presenting the proper appearance on the Fourth. At Ford's also are the "handsomest prints in town" at 10¢ per yard.

As a special inducement for holiday buyers the Ford store offers extra bargains. Six pounds of Rio coffee could be had for $1 or five pounds of extra fancy Rio coffee or the same price. A dollar would buy 10 pounds of dried blackberries, 10 pounds of dried prunes, 16 pounds of dried peaches or 16 pounds of dried apples.

Stough & Mikesell warn women that the Fourth will arrive before they realize and they have "200 patterns in white goods to sell by that time and there are 200 in this county who want to purchase them." Stough & Mikesell "want to buy all the butter and eggs in the county."

Then for the men Stough & Mikesell advertised "dusted and alpaca dusters, English flannel suits, fancy cassimere suits, light weight suits, just adapted for the heated season, $2,000 in ready cash invested in these goods." Furthermore this store can sell them "so cheap that it will make you feel 'pappy even if the thermometer stands at 110'." A piece of good psychology is added when the store urges each man to "bring his wife and daughters along at the same time and rig them out in linen and cambric suits just to keep peace in the family."

Rose & Potter have a stock of "large pocketbooks cheap as dirt, also maps of all the states and territories." Spectacles, goggles, musical merchandise and sheet music are offered in the drug store stock, and "physicians' prescriptions are carefully compounded day or night."

"From a needle to a threshing machine" is the way J. S. Finch & Son describe their stock of hardware. Included may be seen the famous Bon-Ton stove for which a reward of $2,000 is offered if anyone should find a better heating piece. The smooth drop hearths, deep ash pits, long and wide fire boxes, swinging wood grates, patent boilers and check dampers are listed as some of its special features.

One realizes that much of the land was unbroken and that prairie fire hazards were still a reality 60 years ago when reading the implement ad of Jones & Moore. Breaking plows, crossing plows and sod planters were among the implements listed for sale.

In offering for sale a house and lot in Ponca, O. M. Childs stresses the importance of the well and stable on the place. Since then the city water supply has replaced the well, and the automobile has crowded old Dobbin off town premises.

And referring to travel the Covington & Black Hills railroad advertises its time schedule in the 1879 issue. The combined passenger and freight made the journey from Ponca to Covington, 26 miles, in two hours. An additional half hour is allowed for crossing the Missouri river from Covington to Sioux City.

Samples in Office. County Supt. F. B. Decker has received samples of a 15-volume set of prose and poetry for students of grades three to eight. These may be examined by teachers or school officers.

Gives Examinations. County Supt. F. B. Decker gave teachers' examinations at the court house Saturday.

Claims for Tuition Paid to Schools

Tuition claims for high school attendance have been paid for the second semester. Wayne county school received the largest amount, $3,807.25 for the period. Winside was next with $2,700. Wakefield school's share for Wayne county rural pupils in attendance was $1,912.50. Carroll received $1,239.74, Hoskins $846, Pender $243, Sholes $120, Stanton $40.50, Pierce and Concord $24.75 each, Laurel $40.50.

Rural districts are assessed each year to provide free high school education for students wishing this. The money goes to the county treasurer who pays it to the high schools attended by pupils from the districts. The free high school assessment last year was 1.1 mills in Wayne county. The amount for this year will soon be fixed.

Early Civilization Being Unearthed

Excavations being made near Ponca under direction of Alexis Pratts of the state university, reveal an early Indian civilization which thus far does not show the influence of the white man. Pottery is more expertly molded than that of more recent finds. Anthropologists say there was a distinct decline in the making of pottery with the coming of the horse. For this reason Mr. Pratts thinks the remains are those of a prehistoric settlement.

DID YOU KNOW?

One of the first law suits in Nebraska territory involved John D. Gilmore, Cass county pioneer, and a squatter who had killed one of Gilmore's oxen for which he sought damages. Gilmore did not bother to get a lawyer. When the trial opened, he found to his chagrin that the defendant had an attorney, O. P. Mason, later chief justice of Nebraska. With the evidence presented, Mason addressed the jury. For half an hour he criticized the plaintiff until Gilmore consulted with two other pioneers. The three arose, took off their coats and rolled up their sleeves. Mr. Mason stopped talking. He wanted an explanation. It was this: "We have decided that you had better bring your argument to a close." Mr. Mason agreed. The case went to the jury. Gilmore won. But later Gilmore and Mason became friends.

Lieut. John L. Gratton with 29 soldiers and an interpreter rode near Sarpy's Point, Nebraska territory, August 19, 1864, when four Sioux tribes awaited distribution of supplies from the government. The soldiers came to arrest an Indian accused of theft. The chief refused to surrender him. The experienced lieutenant ordered his soldiers to fire. This precipitated the Glatton massacre. Every one of the soldiers was killed. And it all started because a lame cow from a Mormon trail had strayed into the Indian camp and was shot and eaten by hungry Indians.

An early attempt to make the Platte river in Nebraska navigable occurred long before Nebraska became a state. The territory memorialized congress to grant John Latta of Plattsmouth 20,000 acres of land in the Platte valley in return for running a steam boat from Plattsmouth to Fort Kearney before October 1, 1861.

A second major submarine disaster within nine days occurred when the British boat, Thetis, went down off the coast of Ireland. Four of 94 men escaped in a life raft apparatus and the others suffocated because of shortage of air supply. Rescue attempts failed to reach the trapped men in time.

Standard Plan In Schools Is Fairly Recent

Standardization of rural schools through uniform courses of study and examinations is comparatively new, the main movement in this direction taking place at about the turn of the century. Recognition of graduates of rural schools is even more recent in development.

In early periods terms of school varied in length. A school might hold a summer and a winter session avoiding the busy seasons on the farm. Pupils progressed as rapidly as they could in the books available. When another term started they began again and went through the same process. No division into grades was made on basis of ability or age, and terms varied from one to nine months.

Late in the 19th century movements to grade schools and standardized work began. By about 1900 the state of Nebraska had established a fairly standard plan for education and had set up a plan to grant diplomas after students had taken a few examinations. The program has continued to improve until the work is well organized and requirements definitely outlined. The term is now fixed at nine months.

When students completed required work in the early years, exercises, if any were held, were in each district having graduates. Often the county superintendent would visit the school and distribute the diplomas. Perhaps a program would be held and the coveted certificates presented at that time. For other districts, which the school head was unable to reach because of lack of time or traveling facilities, the diplomas were mailed to the graduates.

One of the first classes finishing the 8th grade course in Wayne county was in district 23 where Mrs. Maria Wolf was teacher. The graduates were Pearl Wolf, now Mrs. Geo. Patterson, James Steele and George Steele. The students received their diplomas at exercises in the district July 4, 1901. Miss Pearl Sewell began teaching in the Bell school east of Wayne about the same year when 8th grade examinations were being instituted.

First exercises for all 8th grade graduates in Wayne county were held during the superintendency of Mrs. Elsie Littell in about 1914. The plan has been followed each year since by Miss Pearl Sewell and now by County Supt. F. B. Decker. About 3,000 have completed the 8th grade work in Wayne county rural schools since the educational system was made standard.

Nebraska Leads Again

Nebraska, known everywhere for its social and economic leadership, became the testing ground one year ago for an experiment unique in the history of American industry—the self-regulatory program of the Nebraska Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee.

Organized to shut off the beer supply from outlets operating against the public welfare and to the detriment of the large majority of law-abiding retailers, our program won the instant approval of state, county and municipal officials, community leaders and the public press.

No longer an experiment but a proved success, thanks to the cooperation and efficiency of the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission, this plan for self-regulation has been used as the model for other state self-regulatory programs under the sponsorship of the United Brewers Industrial Foundation. Similar programs are now functioning in Kansas, Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina and Maine. The Foundation plans to extend this work gradually, as facilities permit, throughout the country.

The announcement of our program on June 5, 1938, was widely hailed in Nebraska as our definite pledge to work shoulder-to-shoulder with law-enforcement authorities on behalf of the public interest.

Now, as our second year begins, we renew our pledge to assist the forces of law and order in eliminating anti-social conditions surrounding the sale of beer.
