They want jobs with futures. They can't get them until we have soundness in government—until we regain confidence," stated Mr. Peterson. "The spending-lending program has failed. Loans are not self-liquidating. Jesse Jones of RPC admits that the percentage of bad loans and non-collectable totals are shameful. The government will soon be forced to take one of three roads—inflation, repudiation or take over industries to which great loans have been made. Some fear state socialism will be the real issue in 1940. Let's stick to the way of the pioneers—the American way," concluded Mr. Peterson.

administration to capture the nomination. An explanation of the battles he has fought and often won will interest the public more than the average campaign thunder.

Senator Burke will justly claim that he remained with the platform which the president abandoned and which, if followed, would not have upset confidence and postponed return of prosperity.

Democrats will be asked to consider his position in critical junctures as valuable contributions to sound Americanism.

Ugly war clouds are again thickening in Europe, and a clash of arms with sickening human slaughter, threatens anew.

Short crops are disappointing, but they should not be accepted as defeat. North areas will gather considerable corn.

Anyone who wants to change the American form of government into fascism, nazism or communism—any one of which would mean iron dictatorship—should board an outgoing ship and keep on going until he finds exactly what he wants.

Those present were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ericson and Shirley, also grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ericson, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Felt and family.

Houses Rich in Tradition Are Moved In Program of Modern Improvements

Not only Wayne children but adults as well have been thrilled this week at the wonders of house moving. It's fascinating as well as marvelous that such huge structures can be moved with such seeming ease.

Burr Davis has had the Jones house, which he bought from Dr. Walter Benthaek, moved from 3rd and Pearl, across the street north of the auditorium, to his lot a half block north of Bressler park. Edw. Seymour has had the Gamble house, which he bought from Dr. Benthaek, moved to the north part of the lot west of the creamery and turned to face west instead of south.

The Davis house, according to the Norfolk mover, weighs 107 tons. It has eight rooms in addition to stairways, closets, etc. The Seymour house weighs 90 tons and it has 10 rooms in addition to stairs and closets. The extra weight of the smaller house is due in part to the fact that the Davis property, built in 1886, is back plastered. It was common in the early days to give homes double protection. This was done by plastering in the usual fashion, then lathing over this and plastering again. The Davis house is also finished in heavy woodwork, which was in vogue a half century ago. Also interesting are the square nails used and now not even made.

Moving of the Davis house to its new location 104 blocks from its original site required seven days, the work being finished the first of this week. The journey was mostly up hill, the mover selecting streets with the least slope. The whole feat of lifting the house, moving it off the north part of the lot to avoid trees and taking it to the new location was done by six men, a team of horses and block of heavy wire pulley. The Seymour house was lifted, turned and moved 60 feet by five men, the team and pulley.

To those little familiar with house moving, the first step in the process is to lift the house onto heavy timbers beneath which are sets of heavy iron rollers. The rollers move on other heavy timbers, and one set of planks is put ahead of another set of planks as the moving proceeds. The team pulling the chain around a pivot is able to draw the heavy load with ease. Turning corners, clearing away tree branches and avoiding wires have to be watched closely.

Rich in Tradition. Rich in historical tradition is the Jones residence which Mr. Davis bought to remodel for his home.

It was before the railroad was built through Wayne in 1881 that Jerud W. Jones, father of H. B. Jones, came to this prairie region with Dr. Johnson and Mr. Heath to look over the new country which was then just beginning to be settled. The three came from Henry, Ill., to Council Bluffs by train and made the rest of the journey by wagon, camping on the prairie. Mr. Jones was impressed with this region and bought about 3,000 acres of land here. He soon had interest in banks and lumber yards in Bloomfield, Randolph and Wayne so decided to move to Wayne.

The Jones family arrived from Illinois in 1885. Mr. Jones liked his Illinois home so well that he decided to duplicate it in the residence he built in Wayne. The new home was completed in 1886 or the site which was first owned by Dr. R. B. Crawford and later by Dr. W. C. Wightman. The residence, unchanged from the original, remained in the Jones family until H. B. Jones sold it a year ago in February to Dr. Walter Benthaek and the latter disposed of it to Mr. Davis.

The Gamble property, which Edw. Seymour bought from Dr. Benthaek, about 30 years old itself, is on a site which is also important in Wayne's history. W. O. Gamble, interested in banking and livestock, came here when Wayne was very young. He built on the site across the street east of the Jones place, now the Seymour corner. Early settlers recall many happy occasions connected with the Gamble home. One outstanding event was the marriage March 18, 1884, of Miss Maude Gamble and D. C. Patterson, Omaha banker. The attractive and prettily gowned girls, bowers of flowers in the home, the carpeted walk and the shiny carriage with its prancing horses was one of the memorable occasions in Wayne's early social life. For others of the Gamble family, among them Maude, Minnie, Anna and Frank, the hope was rich in tradition.

W. O. Gamble died in 1910, only a couple of years after he had replaced the old home with a modern one. Members of the family remained in the residence until September 1929, when the Gamble estate sold the property to Dr. Walter Benthaek who came here from Pierce that year. This year Dr. Benthaek sold the property to Edw. Seymour who moved it to the north part of the lot, facing west, and is having it remodeled into four apartments.

Library News

Books and literature pertaining to the international scene are the choice of the majority of readers who patronize the Wayne public library. Mrs. E. S. Blair, librarian, who has kept a close check of the general run of public taste since 1917, reports that there has been a trend for readers to choose better books as years pass. "Reaching for the Stars," by N. Wallin, "The Danube Flows Through Fascism," by Van Til, "The Ramparts We Watch," by Elliott, are a few favorites. Edna Ferber's "A Peculiar Treasure" has been a lasting favorite from the time it was put on the shelves. It's Americanism makes it appealing to several different classes of readers. Erika and Claus Mann's "Escape to Life" and the International Mind Above books also come into a show. Fiction still holds its place — some still are satisfied with reading the common run-of-the-mill books, but it is interesting to note that the trend is climbing steadily toward better, more worthwhile books among Wayne readers.

Plum Creek Beef Club. Plum Creek Rustlers, baby club, met August 15 in the Eric Albers home with 11 present. Carl and Homer Biermann demonstrated setting beehives for show. The club will have a winner contest at the Mrs. August Biermann home for the next meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henkel and two children of Omaha, came Sunday to visit a few days in the Peter Henkel home. W. P. Thomas met them at Fremont. Sunday dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. Henkel were the Robert Henkels, also Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and family.

Music Instructor Has Good Record

Austin Cramer, who comes to Wayne city school this fall as music instructor, was director of the men's glee club in Plymouth, Mass., and a member of the Handel-Haydn choral society at Boston the past year. When in school in Lincoln he was student director of the Nebraska Wesleyan men's glee club on tour in 1932-34.

Mr. Cramer earned a bachelor of fine arts degree in music education from Nebraska Wesleyan in 1934 with major in trumpet and minors in voice and violin. He took advanced work at Columbia university, New York, in the summer of 1937. The past year Mr. Cramer instructed in instrumental and vocal music in Plymouth, Mass., high school. He was music instructor at Pierce, Neb., high school from 1934 to 1938.

Father of Wayne Lady Passes Away

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday last week at Inman for Edward R. Baker, 78, father of Mrs. Dallas Gifford of Wayne. Mr. Baker died August 13. Deceased had operated a grocery at Inman since 1880. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. J. Bert Green of Colomona, and Mrs. Gifford of Wayne, and one son, Fred of Homer. One son and two daughters preceded him in death. The Dallas Gifford family attended the rites and Mrs. Gifford, who was in Inman during her father's illness, remained longer.

College Alumni Meet at Boulder

A Wayne college alumni picnic was held on Flag Staff Wednesday, August 16, at Boulder, Colo. Those attending were Sylvia Pearson, Ruth Leafstone, Allan Hill, Fred Miner, John Jones, Francis Bahm, Louise Harris, Donald Mann, Ruth Pysche, Mr. and Mrs. Gale McGee (Lorraine Baker), Mr. and Mrs. James Carey (Wenouah Moline), Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dunn (Lora Nurnberger), Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jeffrey, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hickman and son, Bob, from Longmont, who were guests of honor. The 20 Wayne college backers had a good time talking over the past.

ANNOUNCEMENT

At the present time, one vacancy at the United States military academy and one vacancy at the United States naval academy are accredited to the Third congressional district of Nebraska. In conformity with the requirements of both academies, I propose to make nominations to fill these vacancies by or before March 1, 1940.

Eligible candidates for these nominations, in addition to being bona fide legal residents of the Third congressional district of Nebraska, must, in the case of the naval academy, be not less than 16 years of age or more than 20 years of age on April 1 of the calendar year in which they enter the naval academy, and in the case of the military academy, be not less than 17 years of age or more than 22 years of age. Candidates for the military academy become ineligible for admission upon the day they become 22 years of age.

Eligible candidates must also have graduated from high school or be assured of graduation not later than the spring of 1940. High school graduates who have also completed one or more years of college or university work, will find the additional academic preparation of considerable value in meeting entrance tests and in pursuing the training following admission to either academy.

I shall make the nominations on a purely competitive basis and the preliminary competition will be initiated by a congressional designation examination conducted by the United States civil service commission on October 7, 1939. This is not an admission examination, but solely an examination to determine the comparative qualifications of candidates for the purpose of enabling me to make nominations of principals and alternates on the basis of the comparative qualifications disclosed by the examination. The nominees for admission will subsequently be called upon to present themselves for physical and mental tests precedent to actual admission.

At all times between now and September 10, 1939, but not later than September 10, 1939, I shall be glad to receive the written applications of young men who possess the above mentioned qualifications coupled with a desire to enter the naval academy or the military academy, as the case may be. The initial application will be for admission to the competitive congressional designation examination and each applicant should definitely state the academy of his choice.

All applications and requests for further information should be addressed to me at 1017 House Office Building, Washington, D. C. KARL STEFAN, M. C., Washington, D. C., August 19, 1939.

Big Fair Planned In Cuming County

The Cuming county fair at West Point August 27 to 31 will be one of the big events of northeast Nebraska. According to Secretary E. M. Bauman, the fair has been growing in magnitude and popularity since it started in 1923. Exhibits will be of higher class and more numerous than usual. It will be the greatest livestock show the county has had to date with the baby beef show especially large. In addition to the local fine arts department, this year's exhibit will have a $5,000 exhibit from the University of Nebraska.

Entertainment will be the best the country produces and there will be lots of it. Each day and night is full of it. Horse pulling contests are scheduled at 10 each morning of the last four days of the fair. Double header baseball games begin at 1 o'clock every afternoon of the fair. Two tournaments are planned with both finals Thursday afternoon. Free acts are shown every afternoon and evening with a fine revue in the evening of the first four days. The last evening, a pageant spectacle, "A Pageant of Progress," is arranged. The last four nights there will be a grand display of fireworks. Bands play every day. A good public address system will fill the air with music. Rides are secured for the kiddies. All school children are free at the gate Monday, nothing objectionable on the grounds.

The grandstand has just been remodeled and rebuilt and seats have comfortable backrests.

Former Resident Of Hoskins to Wed

Miss Hilda Aron and Mr. Jules Fredette will be married September 3 in Omaha where they will make their home. Miss Aron's father was a minister at Hoskins some years ago. Miss Margaret Schemel and Miss Eileen Collier plan to attend the wedding from here.

Dinner with Candidate

Several local men had dinner last Thursday at Hotel Stratton with Hugh Butler of Omaha, republican candidate for senator, and with his campaign manager, F. Valjemas Peterson, who gave the address at Winside for the old settlers' picnic.

Tells Club of Scout Camping

Good Citizenship Fostered In Outings Conducted For Young Folks.

Rev. Jas. A. Whitman told the Kiwanis club Monday of taking 18 boy scouts to Fremont last week for an outing. More boys need this training as it teaches good citizenship. Men should have more interest in the boys and become leaders, as they are needed, stated Rev. Whitman.

The 18 boys belong to troop 175 and are from three patrols. Each patrol provided its own food for the week. The boys did all their own cooking and management. The camp is located on one of the highest hills near Fremont and not far from the river. The timber is heavy.

Some of the conveniences are a $15,000 swimming pool, first aid station with a student doctor from Omaha, frigidaire system. The boys sleep in tents and take care of these.

The week taught the boys self-reliance, how to work and to cooperate, according to the leader, Rev. Whitman.

Scouts passed an average of three tests while at camp. Six finished first class swimming tests and two earned merit badges.

Boys weighed in and out of camp and the average gain for the five days was 3 1/2 pounds. The increase in weights varied from 1 to 6 pounds.

The average cost of scout camping over the country is $1 a day, and the Wayne troop held this slightly below. The total for each boy for the five days was $4.92. Each lad paid 60c in cash and brought an average of $2 worth of groceries from home. The troop treasury paid 69c per boy for food and a total of $30 for camp equipment, transportation and incidentals, which average $1.63. Most of this camp equipment is permanent and can be used at other times. The fact that the troop was able to carry part of the expenses made it possible for all the boys to take the outing.

Sisters Are Together After Long Period

Omaha — When Mrs. Andrew Adams of Omaha was married at Wayne, Neb., 45 years ago and moved to Iowa she lost trace of her sister, now Mrs. Charlotte Blackledge. They were united Friday after almost a year of searching by a missing persons' bureau. The sister had moved to South Dakota, then to Brooklyn, N. Y., where she became a registered nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McClure and Carolinn were in Omaha Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Al Kern and son accompanied them as far as Fremont and went on to Lincoln to spend a few days with Mrs. Kern's folks.

Hamilton and Grant Meas, sheriff; Chas. Wilson and C. H. Bright, superintendent; Jake Ziegler and Aug. Wither, assessor; Ed. Owens, commissioner.

From Ponca Journal for September 1, 1881: When one takes into consideration the fact that a new town like Wayne is located in such a fertile valley as that of the Logan it cannot but be regarded as an augury of business and enterprise. At present Wayne has two stores in operation, both carrying a large stock of merchandise, which stores are conducted by Mr. Britton, formerly of LaPorte, and Messrs. Morris and Steele. Besides the stores, a lumber office has been completed, together with dwelling houses, barns, sheds, etc. In addition four other store buildings are in course of construction, each of which will be 24 by 60 feet, two stories high and will represent the hardware trade, a dry goods store, and two establishments of general merchandise. Also in Wayne are to be put up this fall numerous other buildings for the different professions and trades. There is also to be a building for the banking and real estate business of O. D. Brown of Sioux City.

A Virginia man has lost interest in geology. A pretty stone he picked up bit him. It was a snake.

Nature has defied the pavement in a busy business section of Omaha where six stalks of corn are growing to maturity in a sewer.

A North Dakota youth submitted to an appendicitis operation without anesthetic. He was under the hypnotic influence of a professor.

When a truck load of 1,300 pounds of dynamite collided with a car in Iowa, the dynamite was strewn over the pavement but not a bit of the explosive ignited.

An oriole on a telephone wire lost its balance and gripped the wire with its claws, swinging back and forth like a pendulum. Then it took off from an upsidedown position.

An Omaha couple picketed the business district with a sign, "I want a job." The city daily carried a story of their novel way of locating work and both had jobs the following day.

An easterner has found a safe place for his money. After a fight he found $9 missing from his wallet. He held up his last $10 and said, "Here's one ten nobody will get." He swallowed it.

What next! A New York husband waved goodbye to his wife as she sailed for England. The man then surprised her by boarding the flying clipper and met her in England when the ship arrived.

The absent-minded safe cracker takes the spotlight. A Cincinnati safe was looted, the burglar finding $15 in cash, a $50 watch and five rings valued at $1,275. The rings were found left on top of the safe.

A Texas policeman, who was late to work, explained that the stork and a burglar visited his home the same night. He had a new daughter the same night that an intruder took $42 from beneath his pillow.

A South Dakota man has been eating 250 grasshoppers a day, making this his sole diet to test whether or not the insects are fit for human consumption. He swallows the hoppers whole because birds do so.

A Pennsylvania minister, observing his 84th birthday, checked his record and found that he had helped build six churches, married 3,200 couples and presided at 6,000 funerals. In his spare time he worked as a blacksmith.

A Grand Island man credits a speed fine to saving his life. In Omaha he paid a fine for driving 80 miles an hour. After he had paid and started on his way he was driving 80 miles an hour when a tire blew out and he had difficulty in controlling the machine. He credits the arrest with saving his life for he would have continued at the high speed and could not have kept the car in the road at 80.

Attendance Plan To Be Instituted

A new plan of attendance awards will be instituted this year in schools. Each pupil having perfect attendance for the year will be allowed to select one of several books, these being on birds, animals, bugs, presidents and other topics. An allowance of five days' absence is made for each pupil so that a student may stay home when he is actually ill. In case of actual quarantine the pupil will be allowed the length of time of the quarantine. This will enable students to earn awards and still run no risks by attending school when ill. Those who have partially filled attendance booklets given in the past, will be allowed to complete these if they wish. The plan has been to give a cover for each nine monthly certificate and a picture award for three nine-month booklets.

Important to Nebraskans

August 24—This day in 1895 Union Pacific bandits were captured near Mason City.
August 25—This day in 1856 the Cheyenne, operating 30 miles below Fort Kearney, attacked and robbed a train of four wagons in which rode Almon W. Babbitt, secretary of the Territory of Utah. Thus Sinclair Lewis was not first to cash in on Babbitt. In 1895 on this day 500 Nebraska people attended the reunion at Rock Bluffs, historic ghost town near Plattsmouth.

August 26—The coldest August day was in 1919 when temperature was 23 above.

August 27—The legal rate of interest in Nebraska, fixed by law in 1933, is six percent with a maximum of nine percent.

August 28—The average annual rainfall in Nebraska, 23 1/2 inches, or 96,907,735 acre-feet, would cover a strip of land as long as the state and one mile wide, or would fill a ditch 518 feet deep at one end and 259 feet at the other.

August 29—This day in 1894 Lewis and Clark camped at Garnett bluff in Cedar county where they held council with the Sioux Indians. This day in 1860 the first telegraph line in Nebraska was completed between St. Joseph, Mo., and Brownville. Lincoln this day in 1929 had 8.38 inches of rain.

August 30—Omaha this day in 1899 welcomed the First Nebraska regiment home from the Philippine Islands. This day in 1927 Omaha gave Cpl. Charles A. Landwehr a big welcome.

Thirtysix Gasoline Stations.
A special delivery air mail letter from a California court informed us that Dick, who claimed as a California court as his residence, had pleaded guilty to the crime of embezzlement of the sum of $200.00, that the penalty was imprisonment in the state penitentiary, but that the judge wanted to know his previous record before passing sentence. Would we kindly investigate among the relatives and school authorities and give an accurate account of his past record?

Before evening of that day we contacted teachers, relatives and friends, and without exception they all expressed their fondness for Dick. Some told of his acts of kindness to their own or neighbor's less fortunate children. Dick came from one of the most prominent families of northeast Nebraska, of pioneer stock. Why he committed this offense could not be determined.

We wrote the California officials in detail and suggested that in view of the fact that their state would benefit nothing by imprisoning him, we would gladly assume responsibility for his future conduct, if California would place him on probation to a resident of Madison county.

NEBRASKA'S HOME FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Nebraska's home for soldiers and sailors was established at Grand Island in 1887. Citizens of Grand Island donated 640 acres of land for the institution. Because of being over crowded, another home was established at Millard in 1890. This consisted of a three-story building on a 35-acre tract. The site was bought by the state in 1899 for $13,500. The homes were designated to care for veterans of wars, their wives, widows and mothers who are eligible. The Grand Island land is valued at $48,000 and the buildings, at $394,575. There are 66 officers and 175 inmates costing $492.76 yearly for their care. The land at Millard was valued at $8,000 and buildings at $188,675. Last year there was an average of 81 inmates kept at a yearly cost of $496.57. The staff includes 33.

The state, by act of 1905, provided a hospital at Lincoln for crippled children. Applications for admission must be signed by a physician. The hospital also provides schooling for children. The institution owns 3.76 acres valued at $28,450 with buildings worth $162,500. The staff numbers 62. The average cost of the 97 children patients is $578.83 per capita annually.

A home for friendless women and children was established by the state at Lincoln in 1876. The institution is to receive children under 16, of sound mind, who are committed to it by any court as dependent for support, are neglected or ill-treated. The institution has a home and grounds at University Place, part of Lincoln, with the 79 acres valued at $29,500 and buildings at $116,747. The per capita cost last year was $501.12. The institution had 133 children in the home and 268 in trial homes.

The state established a hospital for tubercular patients at Kearney in 1911, patients to be admitted by application signed by a physician. The institution has 37 acres of land valued at $18,500 and buildings valued at $236,225. The number of patients averages 154 and the staff 62. The cost per patient per year is $460.08.

Lands and buildings at Geneva, used previously for Indian children, were accepted by the state from the federal government in 1935 for a state farm. The purpose is two-fold, to be used as a place for "trusties" to work and to provide products for state institutions. The institution has 625 acres valued at $82,500 and buildings worth $87,103. The per capita cost of the 60 inmates, cared for by a staff of 11, is $749.52.

DOES YOUR CAR SHIMMY

at certain speeds?

If so, you probably need accurate wheel balancing. It's a long story... we haven't space to tell it here... but wheels must be in static balance and in running balance, too.

We correct for both. Our service is inexpensive, and stops shimmy, tire gouging, and wheel tramp. If you're all worn out after a day behind the wheel, if your car "goes into a dance" at certain speeds, you'll find the answer in this service. Drive in today.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers About Religion, Morals and Personal Problems...

by Dr. Weldon F. Crossland Rochester, New York

Do we really have free will? Yes, in many matters our wills are quite free to choose any of several courses. In other situations our liberty of choice is greatly limited by environment and by the wills of others.

When God created man "in His Own image," He made him a center of creativity and freedom.

While a risky thing to do, God took the chance of man's rebellion against Him. Without this risk, man would have remained a thing without the capacity to love and cooperate with God.

Each of us is clearly conscious of being free to decide what we shall read, how we shall spend our leisure time, who our friends shall be and what we shall do when faced with a decision between good and evil.

Conscience, habit, judgment, outlook and thought all enter into such a decision; but these are all part of our own selves, our own personalities. It is we in our own wisdom or ignorance who decide, not some force or thing outside us.

Each of us feels guilty and at fault when an unwise decision has been made. While we may rationalize or try to explain away the failure, we are immediately aware of our own responsibility for the act.

Whatever may be the theoretical, arm chair considerations, they weigh as nothing in the scales of our own conscious experience.

"The stars control our lives," assumes one. "Hereditry," holds another, "influences our actions." "Environment," adds a third. "These all influence decisions, but they do not determine them, unless one surrenders his freedom, which in itself is an act of free will.

We are free in all important matters within the limits of the laws of nature.

Should we fear God? Not in the sense of being afraid of Him.

Primitive man thought of God as an oriental potentate, an arbitrary king, capricious, violent and undependable. They thought lightning his sword of vengeance and thunder his angered roar.

Holding that kind of an idea of God, they could only fear Him.

The Christian thinks of God as his Heavenly Father. God is love. God is law. God, the benevolent

'Twas Sixty Years Ago

Circus day in Sioux City! People of 1879 were more fortunate in respect to circuses than today for the "big top" is gradually giving way to other forms of entertainment. Ponca declared a holiday when the circus was scheduled to appear in Sioux City, according to the Ponca Journal of 1879, and the railroad arranged a special excursion train to take practically the entire population there for the big occasion.

Another such railroad excursion was arranged to transport all Ponca Sunday school children to the city for a day. The prospect of that trip probably improved Sunday school attendance for a few weeks previous to the outing.

The daring leaps and swims at Niagara falls and the whirlpool rapids created much more interest 70 years ago than today. Then H. P. Peck had leaped from the suspension bridge to the foaming water 200 feet below. He was to repeat the feat but got gloriously drunk so was not allowed to do so.

Adventure in Balloon. The adventures of the balloonist, popular in 1879, have long since given way to the airplane.

The paper of 60 years ago, relates that Prof. Rogers, skilled as a balloonist because of having made 38 successful ascensions, took a party from Boston up into the atmosphere. An unexpected gust of wind started the balloon out over Boston harbor toward the sea. The professor dropped the drag rope but no one was near enough to catch it. The grappling iron was thrown out and one of the prongs broke from this, allowing the iron to slide along smoothly without catching hold. This the balloon took a hasty course off to sea. Soon the balloon made a vicious dive and the party got a thorough ducking. The crew of Boston city steamer saw the plight of the balloonists and took out to sea with great speed. Drenched but unharmed the party was taken safely back to shore on the ship.

An old chevalier worth millions wanted to dispose of his property and called his lawyer to make out his will. The lawyer mentioned a nephew. The old man replied that was not the person to whom an estate should be given. Then the lawyer explained that the old man had lost track for the nephew had made a fortune. "This different, then," replied the chevalier. "Make him my sole heir" (How true but how unjust!)
