

Abroad Dismays Peace-Loving Peoples Everywhere—First Observation by Dorothy H. Nyberg in Her Travels to the Coast—Bad Practice of Delay.

The war dogs have again been unleashed in Europe, and as a consequence civilization is bound to rock backward. The world is big enough to accommodate everybody and places for all could be found if reason instead of mad fury were employed.

We are still trying to recover from participation in the war that ended little more than twenty years ago. Its little results are well known. Its distressing fruits still shockingly apparent.

Individual liberty—the desire of the ages, but largely lost in present-day Europe—may be saved to civilization by the United States sticking to its own shores and stoutly maintaining the best system of government the world has ever known.

Helen Eppler Davis, former member of the Herald staff, has returned to lend her usual efficiency during Dorothy Nyberg's absence on the Pacific coast. Miriam Huso, for several years part of this newspaper's force, has stepped up in assuming news responsibility.

Dorothy writes while journeying west through Nebraska that the Challenger which she boarded with her husband at Fremont, is an unconditioned and comfortable, and filled by friendly, common people like the rest of us. The following paragraph expresses her initial observation at Fremont:

The wonders that can be accomplished by one who is blind and deaf are realized on seeing such a person. Helen Siefert, the little western Nebraska girl whose teacher aroused public interest in her case a couple of years ago, came to the Fremont station Thursday enroute to New York for her third year of training. Mr. Siefert brought the 12-year-old child and her companion, Margaret, there. Helen is a robust miss of normal size, and at first one notices no difference between her and other girls for she moves about freely though always holding another's arm.

Doing Things on Time. We find those who accomplish most do not procrastinate. When things come along to be done, they do them immediately. Instead of thinking of a task and dithering to perform it, they pitch in and get it out of the way. In business, if one puts off the innumerable duties that appear, delaying collections and postponing obligations, he becomes bewildered by an accumulation of unfinished business, and every day's goal is hopelessly missed.

No Fund Check Artist Is in Jail To Square Fine

Defendant in Forgery Case Is Paroled to Sheriff—Other Court News.

Meville Jensen who is said to hail from southern Iowa, and who appears to have a weakness for writing no-fund checks, drew a hundred-dollar fine and costs of $21.89 for passing a worthless five-dollar check on J. R. Miller in Wayne. Jensen pleaded guilty in county court Thursday, and he was committed to jail in the absence of payment.

Guilty of Forgery. Harold E. Strickland who was captured on a charge of cashing a forged check for $5 at the Gamble Store, Wayne, signing Ernest Koch's name, pleaded guilty in the county court last Thursday, and accordingly was bound over to the district court. Sheriff J. H. Pile and County Attorney Burr R. Davis escorted him before Judge C. H. Stewart at Norfolk, and he was paroled to the Wayne county sheriff. Strickland was permitted to go to his home at Valentine. He was accompanied by his wife. He pledged restitution.

Petty Larceny Charge. From what Sheriff J. H. Pile calls "the jungles"—a place pre-empted by "weary Willies"—he fished out last week one transient wanted in Cedar county, to face a charge of petty larceny alleged to have been committed at Laurel. He was charged with appropriating some shotgun shells at that place. The captive was taken to Hartington to face the legal music.

For Intoxication. Anthony Reiners, Frank Petersen and Ralph Ruschman were fined $5 and costs apiece in county court Thursday on complaint of Policeman W. A. Stewart who charged them with intoxication. Blasts a Scooter. Two strangers who came from West Point, were taken back to that place Monday on complaint that they had driven a motorcycle into a child's scooter and sent it wrecked into a ditch. One was reported hurt.

Club Teams Place At State Event

Three Groups Represent County in Lincoln This Week.

Wayne county 4-H club teams which took part in the state contests at Lincoln Saturday made creditable showing in the three events entered. Esther and Helen Schroeder received second place in the girls' room contest. Hamilton county defeated them by the narrow margin of 13 points. The animal husbandry team composed of Leland Herman, Gene Baird and Donald Meyer, were fifteenth out of 48 entries. Helen Osburn and Mary Hicks comprised the clothing team and placed fourteenth. There were 28 teams entered.

The animal husbandry team judged two classes each of cattle, horses, hogs and sheep. The boys are allowed to take notes at the time they are judging and review them before they give their oral reasons. However, they are not allowed to use their notes while giving their oral reasons. Out of a possible 600 points for each contestant, Leland Herman had 479, Gene Baird 474 and Don Meyer 462. For a team total they had 1,415 points. The Dundy county team which won the contest had a team total of 1,474.

CONTRAST BETWEEN CONDITIONS HERE AND THOSE ABROAD

THE Omaha Journal-Stockman was inspired by Labor day to draw a sharp contrast between American freedom and foreign oppression. It said: "Labor day is being celebrated in this country with parades, picnics and speeches. Labor is happy at the opportunities for remunerative employment. Over in Europe workers are parading under arms, war is no picnic and the only speeches to be heard are hoarse commands. On the first Monday in September happy children are going to school. Vacation is over and they are beginning to learn the virtue and the value of American citizenship. Over in Europe they are being herded in camps to keep them safe from the brutalities of war. They are being schooled to hate their neighbors, to carry on the feuds of the ages. In peace times the contrasts between the Old World and the New are interesting. In time of war the contrasts are tragic. America's duty is clear. Keep out of the European war."

Enlarged Hall May Be Used Next Week

It appeared likely late Wednesday that two urgently necessary parts of the addition to Connell hall, Wayne State Teachers' college, would be ready for school opening next week.

Although Contractor John L. Soderberg was noncommittal, J. Wesley Noecker, architect's superintendent, said Wednesday that it appeared certain that the cafeteria would be turned over to the college some time Saturday of this week and that the faculty apartments, second floor of the addition, would be ready for next Tuesday, first day of the fall term.

Dr. J. V. Anderson, college president, had asked that the cafeteria be turned over to the college in time for his force to have a day to arrange utensils for serving the first meals Sunday.

The Public Works Administration has asked that the entire project be completed by October 19. A force of carpenters Wednesday was rushing work on the covering of the large air-conditioning duct which runs down the middle of the ceiling almost the full length of the room. The air-conditioning duct has just been completed in the cafeteria and in the main dining room and lunch room. Only the supply riser from the machinery, yet to be purchased, to the kitchen, remains on this duct work. Superintendent Noecker (Continued on Page Two.)

Mr. Bronzinski wore a blue suit and Albert Gamble, brother of the bride who was best man, wore Oxford gray. The men wore carnation boutonnieres.

A wedding dinner was served at the Gamble home for the immediate families and the bridal party. A large wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom served as a centerpiece. Miss Edna and Miss Inez Epler served.

Owner of Land Charges Damage To City Sewage

Claims Contaminated Water In Logan Creek Due to Polluted Creek.

A communication addressed to the city of Wayne was received this week from a representative of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company complaining about the effects of the city's sewage on pasture land belonging to a farm which the company owns a mile east and a half mile north of the city. The firm is tenanted by Howard Marsh. The letter charges that contaminated water in Logan creek running through the pasture makes it unfit for cattle. The company's representative explained that he wrote the state board of health and was informed that plans looking to the building of a suitable sewage disposal plant had been approved August 11, 1938.

It is learned that steps to install an adequate sewage system was started at the time mentioned with the intention of employing WPA or PWA help in the construction, but, as the Herald is informed, lack of local agreement caused delay. The complaint will be considered at the next meeting of the city council. What action the insurance company contemplates in the absence of early steps in the city to remedy the trouble is not clearly indicated.

To Regravel Road Wayne to Laurel

At the state letting of road building contracts in Lincoln last Thursday, J. N. Einung of Wayne was awarded the contract to regravel the Wayne-Laurel highway at a cost of $1,400. The job will require 1,200 yards of gravel.

DISTRICT COURT TO CONVENE SEPT. 18

A regular session of district court will open here September 18. No criminal cases are on the docket. Jurymen to be chosen from this group named by the county board are likely to find little to do according to the present prospect.

Milton Wiksell, former Wayne college student, was appointed to a position of instructing in the speech department at the University of Maryland at College Park, Md.

Power Line West Of Wayne Strung

Transformers Hung in Sixty Farm Places—Board Holds Meeting.

Practically all wire west of Wayne has been strung for new rural power lines. Transformers have been hung and services run into 60 farm places. As soon as this operation is complete the farm customer is ready to hook up his wiring to the district's service and meter pole. Meter sockets are being checked out daily to wiremen so that they may complete their wiring jobs immediately after the service line is built onto the farm premises.

The board of directors met Tuesday evening, September 5, for the regular monthly meeting.

At their session Tuesday, Wayne county commissioners approved an audit of county offices made under the new state budget law. The report was very complimentary to the way the different branches of the county's business is handled.

Training School Convenes Monday

The college training school opens Monday at 9 o'clock with the same supervisors as last year with the exception of the kindergarten which will be supervised by Mrs. Mary Frances Brinton.

Temporary Stop On Park Project

The plan of the government to reduce the number of WPA projects led to suspension Friday night of the one developing the new park past in Wayne. Remaining WPA activities are to be devoted to curb and gutter work and to building sidewalks. Later on when cold weather interferes with these jobs, park improvements will be resumed, as the Herald is informed.

While the WPA setup functions, it is urged that some unpaired alleys in the business district should be given attention. At this time the only cost to the city and property owners is for material. The work is done free. It is pointed out that additional alley paving would further lift the district out of possible mud, burying ashes, nails, old cans and other begriming and annoying debris under eternal concrete.

Couple to Be Wed In Wayne Friday

Miss Ruby Lutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lutt of Wayne, will be married Friday, September 8, to Mr. Virgil A. H. Moseman of Emerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moseman of Oakland, Neb., by Rev. W. C. Heidenreich.

Reading Club Meets

Reading club for children will be held next Monday morning at 9 in the Wayne park instead of this Friday morning.

ANNUAL FAIR WEEK NOW TO THE FRONT FOR DUE SUPPORT

THIS is Wayne county's gala week—the occasion of the annual county fair. If the attendance equals that of other northeast Nebraska fairs so far held, there will be no disappointment in that respect. And plans carefully laid and carried out under the leadership of Manager M. C. Bloss will amply warrant the popular patronage desired and needed. Exhibits in the agricultural department will doubtless reveal better specimens than might be expected in a dry year. All departments promise to be well filled, prominent among them the 4-H club and county school exhibits. An earlier start in preparing the fair this year than usual has increased interest, and has augured well for increased success.

Speeding Work On City High School Project

Work continued at a fast pace this week on the Wayne high school project, but on Wednesday night there still remained plenty for contractors to accomplish before school could open.

Completion of glazing, painting, decorating, terrazzo grinding and polishing, installation of lockers, metal partitions, hanging of doors and finishing of floors and weatherstripping remained, with some of these items not yet started.

Depending on what equipment will be brought here by subcontractors now due to start work, it was impossible Wednesday night for contractors to say when the first and second floors would be ready to turn over to the school district, but a tentative date was set at September 23.

Meanwhile Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer, Public Works Administration, reported to his headquarters that the 67 men were employed on the site again this week, equalling the high mark set last week. In response to a PWA request that all remaining uncompleted PWA projects be cleaned up, Resident Engineer Farrell reported the contractors here as using all the men possible to handle and that they were using every (Continued on Page Two.)

Fire Damage Is Estimated at $300

Petersen Pool Hall Suffers From Early Sunday Morning Blaze.

Fire discovered in Peter Petersen's pool hall at 5 o'clock Sunday morning by Night Marshal Walter Phipps who gave the alarm, brought out the fire department and groups of anxious spectators. The blaze apparently started in the basement and was accompanied by explosions of unknown cause, that damaged the furnace and blew out a front window.

The floor was burned through, but no great damage was done by fire to the main floor. Dense smoke poured out until the source of the blaze was found and soaked. The fire was restricted to the pool hall.

Mr. Petersen who had gone to Burke, S. D., Saturday to accompany home his wife and daughter who were visiting there, was absent at the time of the loss. He estimates the damage at about $300.

F. S. Berry attended court at Ponca Tuesday.

Everything Ready On Opening Day

Complete Program Presents Varied Entertainment To Large Crowds.

Exhibits, particularly the stock and farm crop display, surpassed all expectations at the Wayne county fair which opened yesterday. The barns were all filled with splendid stock and the crop display was fine considering weather conditions this summer. The precinct and 4-H exhibits were beyond the average. Weather was fair and prospects for success encouraging.

Governor R. L. Cochran will speak Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock instead of Thursday as was previously announced. Forty-seven concessions of different kinds are on the grounds and the midway includes shows of all types. The merchants' tent has 22 displays.

Judging began Thursday morning. The judges are: Mrs. Walter Chase of Stanton and Mrs. W. R. Harder, 4-H cooking and sewing, domestic products and women's departments; Walter Cropley of Sioux City, cattle, sheep and hogs; Mr. Copeland, Norfolk, horses and O. W. Lohr of Ashland, farm products and poultry.

Kiwians Hear Manager of Fair

Presents Week's Events in Talk Following Noon-Day Luncheon.

M. C. Bloss, manager of the Kiwanis club Monday on the program and exhibits for this year. The speaker urged the business men to be interested in the fair as their support is wanted. The fair is important to Wayne because it arouses the largest general interest over the county.

Among big things of the fair are the program and the exhibits. The farmers bring their livestock together to compare and discuss. Town people are equally interested.

Boys and girls of the county will have a fine exhibit this year. The fair can be compared to a graduation for the children. Their exhibits which are their work for the past year, are brought here to learn the good and bad points. The educational display is also unusually fine this year.

County fairs are a good means of advertising the town according to Mr. Bloss.

H. J. Hein of Lincoln, and Rev. Wm. Bennett of Armstrong, Ill., were guests of R. W. Ley.

Miss Vera Kalal of Clarkson, will speak next Monday on her experiences in Czechoslovakia at the time of the German invasion.

Many Attracted On Opening Day

appearing on the grounds will also present a play before the grand stand. The mystery Ford will be on the grounds one day.

Wednesday's program included the draft horse polo game, 4-H club pageant, Model T Ford race and mud wrestle.

The home talent play, "The Bad Man" will be presented Saturday evening.

Programs begin at 1:30 in the afternoon and 7:15 each evening.

Manager M. C. Bloss remarked that additional entertainment features will be added each day.

Enlarged Hall to Be Used Next Week

aecker estimated that the huge air-condition ducts required seven tons of sheet metal to construct. The asphalt tile laying on the second floor corridor was to be completed by Wednesday night and work was to start today on the first floor. Wood floors in the apartments had all been laid and sanding had started. It was estimated that sanding would be completed by Saturday.

Writing and fixtures for the apartments are to be completed by the first of next week.

As work is nearing completion, the employment on the site this week dropped to 44 men, according to the report to the Public Works Administration by Resident Engineer Dan Farrell, jr.

Former Student Married.

Miss Hilda M. Aaron, formerly of Hoskins, and graduate from the Wayne State Teachers college in 1929, was married to Jules Fradette of Omaha, at Omaha Sunday. Mrs. Fradette had been teaching in the Sioux City school system several years. The couple will live in Omaha.

Speeding Work on City School Project

means consistent with good construction to speed up both the remodeling of the old building and the completion of the new unit.

With plastering completed on the two main floors, plasterers how have the basement fairly well browned out and should be ready for the finish coat by tonight. Except for odds and ends and patching, the plastering in the old building should be completed by Friday night.

Old lockers have been set in the new wall recesses on the main floor. The new lockers, both full length and half length, are being assembled and set in place on the second floor of the present building.

Painters with spray guns are applying the second coat to second floor walls, having completed five rooms on the first floor and prime coating of all first floor walls ready for paint. Old window sash have been given a prime coat of paint.

The new fibre-board ceiling for classrooms is approximately 80 per cent in place. Other carpenters are working on blackboard mouldings. Metal toilet partitions are here and ready for installation.

On the new building, brickwork is scaffold high off the second floor; the electrician has his panel work lined up and so far this week has pulled 5,000 feet of wire through the conduits in the old building to the panel board in the new building.

The plumbing contractor has completed breeching from the boiler to the chimney. The heat control man has completed control lines to all rooms in the old building and has set up his compressor for the control system.

During the past week Ed Seymour, secretary of the board, and Engineer Farrell completed a requisition and forwarded it to the regional PWA headquarters at Omaha for an additional PWA grant payment in the amount of $8,700. This was based on a 50 per cent completion stage, which was reached last week, and is payable when a 70 per cent completion stage is reached, estimated for September 23.

Training School Convenes Monday

John R. Keith and Prof. H. H. Hanscom.

The school is expanding its commercial department by adding a course in shorthand.

The school is fully accredited to the North Central Association and has not had a single warning during its ten years of membership, according to Dean Hahn.

Principal A. F. Gulliver will be in his office Friday afternoon and Saturday morning to check the work completed by juniors and seniors and to arrange their program for the year. For general information consult Dean Hahn.

Mr. Brugger was helping fill a trench silo and had hooked a load of silage to the tractor. The pulley slipped and struck Mr. Brugger, throwing him about six feet. Mr. Brugger was unconscious for several hours, but is improving now. Several stitches were required to close the wound.

Another car of fine Red Cedar shingles arrived, and was unloaded, this week. It was about time as our shingle pile was getting uncomfortable. Low, due to so many shingles having moved out in the past two weeks. The price of these shingles continues to be such that you cannot afford to let your roof go through another winter with the possibility of a bad leak before spring. Ask us how little a new roof costs.

"A wife paid a surprise visit to her husband's office, and creeping up behind him, put her hands over his eyes.

"Guess who it is?" she asked gleefully.

"Stop fooling."

"Was the reply, "and get out those letters."

"We're not fooling when we say that right now is the time to put in that winter's supply of coal. Don't wait until you need it. The drymen can't be everywhere at once, you know. Call 147 right now and have your bin filled before the first cold snap."

'For He That Hath' (Nebraska Farmer)

The Triple A plan to store in small steel bins at country points all 1937 corn turned over to the government in settlement of loan, rather than to offer it on the market, can be justly criticized by farmers in short corn areas. It has the earmarks of a plan that penalizes those already in trouble and benefiting most the farmers in favored sections. As the Bible says, "For he that hath, to him shall be given, and he that hath not, from him shall be taken, even that which he hath."

Livestock producers and feeders in these short crop areas will have to buy a good deal of feed to carry on, and all efforts to increase the price of corn above the normal market will add to their cost of operations, force liquidation, or they will find cheaper substitutes.

This will reduce the normal consumption of corn, which needs to be stimulated considerably to avoid further excessive accumulation of storage supplies that ultimately must burst behind the dam of federal loans and cost the government and the taxpayers plenty. Already, a good many Nebraska pigs are being forced on the market because of feed scarcity.

The suggestion has been made that, instead of spending three or four million dollars for these bins (to hold 43 million bushels), and offering farmers with surplus old corn an additional 7 cents a bushel for resealing it until August 1, 1940, the corn should be shipped where needed and sold at market prices to farmers who can store it in ample empty space on their farms or in country elevators. There is a good deal of merit in the suggestion, and it seems like ordinary horse sense to save the taxpayers' money by using old storage space instead of building new.

However, the government already has contracted for the bins, and declares that corn stored in them will not be sold for less than the cost against it, on the theory that cheap corn of last winter helped bring about the forecasted hog surplus; that you can control livestock prices by controlling the price of grain fed to it. But can you?

Of course, the price of corn can be artificially pegged at a point where feeders won't risk buying it, with the result that corn producers gladly turn their surplus corn to the government via the loan route. Eventually that system will break under its own weight of unwanted corn, and then watch out. There is at least this to be said for low feed prices: They stimulate consumption, which is the best way to remove surpluses.

Consumers Suffer (Omaha Journal-Stockman.)

In all strikes, walk-outs and lock-outs it is the ultimate consumer that does most of the suffering. New York's milk strike is depriving thousands of children of the nourishment they should have while the shut-down of the oil wells in half a dozen southwestern states is forcing gasoline prices up on motorists. Surely there must be a better way of settling these disputes than the punishment of consumers.

A Hog Famine Coming? (Omaha Journal-Stockman.)

At this time, when prices of hogs are working lower under the weight of present and prospective heavy market supplies, it hardly seems sensible to call the attention of the country to the danger of a hog famine in the not far distant future. And yet this is just what has happened following former periods of excessive hog production and low prices.

Hog production has been greatly stimulated the past few years by bumper crops of feed and by the fact that prices have been highly profitable for growers. In the meantime we have lost our foreign outlet for pork and domestic consumption has fallen off because of the long depression and the increase in unemployment. The net result of these conditions has been a declining market for hogs, and prices have dropped to the lowest levels since 1934.

The danger is that the country is getting ready to go to the other extreme and go out of hog growing as rapidly as it took up hog production. Sows constitute a large percentage of hog receipts at this time and it is apparent that the in-and-outers are getting out of the hog business very rapidly. They seem anxious to get out while ## the getting is good and the result may be a potential hog famine before we realize it.

This hardly seems possible, but in view of past experience, it is more than probable.

Obviously the only safe course for hog growers to pursue is to go on raising hogs, as the most bitter experience of farmers has been to see higher prices for hogs when they have no hogs to sell. Hogs can pay their way on the farm, in season and out, if any animals can and the lesson of the past few years has been that the Corn Belt farmer should never quit hog production.

The music committee of the board of education, after a meeting with parents of band members, has adopted the following program in regard to musical instruments:

1. Parents of all children, or children themselves, who are playing solo instruments, owned by the district and who are able to purchase instruments are requested to do so at the very earliest convenience.
2. All instruments owned by the district, solo or otherwise, are to bear a rental charge of 25c a month, payable in advance.
3. Solo instruments released by children who have procured their own instruments are to be utilized in the beginners' band and bear a rental fee of 25c for a maximum of three months to each pupil, at which time the pupil is to secure his own instrument, or at the discretion of the director, said pupil may utilize one of the so called non solo instruments.
4. The school district will keep all instruments in reasonably good repair, replacing only non-solo instruments as the need arises and when funds are available.
5. The operation of the above policies are to be carried out by the band director in conjunction with the music committee and the superintendent.
6. Music is to be purchased by the district as in the past; also other incidentals formerly bought by the district.

Ugly WAR is a terrible assault on Christian principles. It mocks and outrages rules of thinking and living encouraged by noblest minds through the centuries.

The individual's task in dealing with war begins in his own consciousness. The worst that war can do to him is start a conflict within.

Be ye not troubled' is the first mind-raid precaution in this hour when fear that the world will launch itself into catastrophe might help to produce the condition feared.

General PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S talk to the nation in regard to keeping out of the European war is a reflection of the feeling of the American people.

And at this time let me make the simple plea that partisanship and selfishness be abandoned; and that national unity be the thought that underlies all things.

The World-Herald comments: 'The people of this country have been in a mood for an adjournment in the ultimate and selfishness for a long, long time.'

Like having along a spare tire or an extra supply of anything to use when the regular order blows up, we need to have means to irrigate in case of drouth.

Expectations until mid-summer, and then moisture shortage with blasting heat has laid us low. Pump irrigation or any other kind for emergency help would be insurance against the danger of frayed nerves.

A "printing industry week" has been created and launched, starting September 25. We are glad it is not this week if it is designed to arouse spirit among newspaper patrons.

Boys called to fight in the European conflict were in rompers when the former war took place. Children deserve something better than to grow up in an atmosphere of rattling sabers and war prospects.

Editor Edgar Howard of Columbus, regards both Governor Cochran and Senator Burke as anti-Roosevelt candidates, and he expresses the belief that a pure new dealer will yet enter the race and capture the nomination.

Learning, Not Winning, Counts Most. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Everyone who ever attended many agricultural fairs has come across the chap who is never satisfied with the judges' decisions and always feels that his own stock didn't get the consideration it was entitled to.

People like this always have existed and always will. Fortunately, they are in the minority, and the chances are that, with so many young stockmen being trained in 4-H and Smith-Hughes projects, they will be even scarcer in the future.

To check the truth of this, just notice how often showmanship contests are won by the exhibitors of very ordinary animals. Then, too, watch the progress of the boys and girls who start in club work as soon as they are old enough.

Many of the problems which earlier generations in the live stock business had to meet and solve by the trial and error method have been all worked out for the boys and girls of today.

SUBSCRIPTIONS. One important reason why those who take newspapers should not allow their subscriptions to become delinquent is the United States postal law which, according to the Nebraska Press, prohibits benefit of the second class mailing privilege for subscriptions more than a year behind. That publication, devoted exclusively to the newspaper business, warns against accumulation of past-due subscriptions, explaining that one publisher in Missouri had to shell out nearly $2,000 on inspection of his list by postal authorities.

Shelterbelt in Wayne County During the past two years the farmers in the western part of Wayne county have cooperated with the Prairie States Forestry Project in establishing 5 1/2 miles of field shelterbelts on 11 farms.

Shelterbelt Assistant Floyd W. Houghland of the Norfolk district reports. These plantings required 39,780 trees which were planted as seedlings approximately 18 inches high.

Many of the young trees in the belts have made a remarkable growth considering the shortage of moisture during the past two growing seasons. Houghland stated. The plantings which received good cultivation and care have outgrown those which received only fair care.

Some of the faster growing trees are now 8 to 10 feet tall and are beginning to shade the ground, thus reducing weed growth among the trees.

Spice Cake

1 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup sour coffee cream or 1 cup sour milk and 4 tablespoons fat

1 egg well beaten
1/2 cup sliced citron
1 cup raisins

Sift the dry ingredients together. Combine the egg and cream. Add the dry ingredients and beat well. Bake about 40 minutes.

Butter Cake

1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups flour
1 cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon flavoring
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream the butter until light and fluffy. Add flavoring. Beat sugar in gradually. Separate eggs and add the beaten yolks. Sift baking powder with 1/2 cup flour. Sift and add after the remainder of the flour and the milk have been beaten in alternately. Add stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in layers in a moderate oven for 25 minutes or until done.

Chocolate Angel Cake

1 1/2 cups egg whites
1 1/2 cups fine granulated sugar
1/2 cup cake flour sifted 5 times before measuring
1/2 cup cocoa (sift with flour)
1 level teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon lemon

Mix and bake in the following manner: Have all ingredients at room temperature. Beat egg whites until frothy, then add sugar, cream of tartar and salt. Beat until stiff enough to flow very slowly when bowl is partially inverted. Sift sugar to remove lumps. Sprinkle over tops of eggs, fold in with spatula. The flour should be sifted several times then sifted over egg whites and folded in. The flavoring should be added at the same time as the water. Bake at 320 degrees for about 1 hour. When baked invert pan until cake is cool.

Chicken Loaf with Asparagus

1 chicken
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
3 egg yolks well beaten
3 egg whites beaten stiff

Dress and cut up fowl. Simmer until tender. Remove the flesh from the bones and run it through a food chopper. Cook the bread crumbs in the milk to form a paste, stirring often. Add the salt, paprika and chicken, then the egg yolks. Fold in egg whites. Turn the mixture into an oiled mold and shake until it settles evenly. Steam slowly over hot water for 1 1/2 to 2 hours according to the age of the chicken. Turn from mold onto hot platter, garnish with asparagus in toast rings and serve with cream sauce.

Grape Conserve.

5 pounds grapes
3 pounds sugar
1/2 pound figs chopped fine
3 oranges grated, peel of one
1 cup raisins

Cook until thick

Just before removing from fire add 1/2 pound nut meats which have been broken into small pieces.

Mustard Pickles.

Sliced cucumbers
Green tomatoes cut in quarters
Cauliflower cut in small sections
Small button onions
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 pound ground mustard
1/3 cup flour
4 cups vinegar

Use approximately equal quantities of the vegetables. There should be 3 quarts in all. Cover with boiling brine (1 1/2 cups salt to 1 quart water). Let stand 24 hours. Drain. Cover with fresh boiling water. Let stand 30 minutes. Drain again.

Cover with sauce made from remaining ingredients. Heat to boiling point in the thickened sauce. Can and seal.

Southern Fried Chicken.

Use tender chickens weighing about 2 1/2 to 3 pounds. Have them jointed. Salt and pepper all pieces well. Dip, while moist, into flour, coating thoroughly. Place immediately into medium hot frying pan in which there is 1/2 cup melted lard. Do not crowd the pan. Turn only once. Each side should be brown to a golden color in 12 to 15 minutes. Too fast or too slow cooking spoils the color. To make panned chicken prepare in the same way but do not fry as long. Place pieces in covered roaster adding a small amount of water. Bake in a very slow oven for about 1 1/2 hours.

When Rome Tried Socialism.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman.)

In the discussion of some of the panaceas that have been proposed for our financial and industrial ills the student of history is at once struck with the resemblance many of these measures bear to experiments that were tried out twenty centuries ago by the Emperor Diocletian.

Dr. J. H. Breasted declares that the Romans soon found that "the financial burden of this vast organization, begun under Diocletian and completed under his successors, was enormous, for this multitude of government officials and the clamorous army had all to be paid and supported. At the same time it was still necessary to supply "bread and circuses" for the populace of the towns. In regard to taxation, the situation had grown steadily worse since the reign of Marcus Aurelius. The amount of a citizen's taxes therefore continued to increase, and finally little that he possessed was free from taxation.

"When the scarcity of coin forced the government to accept grain and produce from the delinquent taxpayer, taxes had become a mere share in the yield of the lands. It was now customary to oblige a group of wealthy men in each city to become responsible for the payment of the entire taxes of the district each year; and, if there was a deficit, these men were forced to make up the lacking balance out of their own wealth. The penalty of wealth seemed ruin, and there was no motive for success in business when such prosperity meant ruinous overtaxation.

"The Roman empire had already lost, and had never been able to restore, its prosperous farming class. It now relied on the enterprising and successful business men of the middle class. Diocletian enacted laws, for cities, guilds, and unions in which the men of the various occupations had long been organized. These were now gradually made obligatory, so that no one could follow any calling or occupation without belonging to such a society.

"This under this oriental despotism there disappeared in Europe the liberty for which men had striven so long, and the once free Roman citizen had no independent life of his own. Even the citizen's wages and the prices of the goods he bought or sold were as far as possible fixed for him by the state. The emperor's innumerable officials kept an eye upon even the humblest citizen. They watched the grain dealers, butchers, bakers, and saw to it that they properly supplied the people and never deserted their position.

"Staggering under this crushing burden of taxes, in a state which was practically bankrupt, the citizen of every class had now become a mere cog in the vast machinery of the government. He had no other function than to toil for the state, which exacted so much of the fruit of his labor that he was fortunate if it proved barely possible for him to survive on what was left.

"The century of revolution which ended in the despotic reorganization by Diocletian completely destroyed the creative ability of ancient men in art and literature, as it likewise crushed all progress in business and affairs. In so far as the ancient world was one of progress in civilization, its history was ended with the accession of Diocletian."

Of course there is no exact parallel between conditions today and 2000 years ago but it may be well for the student of our problems to get out his ancient history and note how some of the schemes we are now using turned out in practice twenty centuries ago.

Two Trees Awaken After Hopper Siege

Justly resentful of the raw deal administered by the grasshopper pest, two trees on the George Bruhs farm in Brenna precinct have developed a second crop of leaves and blossoms this year. The trees came out with the usual green and white draperies in the spring, and they were encouraged to think they would produce a good yield of apples—the harvest variety. The Bruhs family looked on with high expectations. Then the devil stepped in. Soulless grasshoppers came along and took possession of the trees, and they stayed until not a leaf of blossom remained. Promise was thus turned to nothing. Now the trees are starting over—new leaves and new blossoms. But first will doubtless undertake and defeat this wonderful exhibition of courage. Next year the trees may have better luck.

Wayne Women in on Memorial Forest

Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs will realize a long-time ambition September 17 with the dedication of their own Memorial Forest at the annual Forest Field day at Halsey. This Memorial Forest is the outcome of the cooperative endeavor sponsored by the organization and is financed by a "penny pine" plan. Members of the clubs in the state—among them Wayne's—contributed pennies toward the purchasing of the trees and each was used to plant two pines or native red cedars.

The forest fund has grown until enough money was collected to plant over 135 acres or 270,000 seedlings with a separate fund to pay for the plaque to be placed on the boulder which was presented to the Federated Women's clubs by C. G. Holtorf, superintendent of the Burlington railroad at Alliance.

In addition, two acres will be dedicated to Willa Cathers, noted Nebraska author, because of her love for Nebraska's native trees. One acre is financed by the Junior Women's clubs of the Fifth district and one by the four clubs in Miss Cathers' girlhood home at Red Cloud, Neb.

Observations Made Enroute to Pacific Coast

(By Dorothy H. Nyberg)

A railroad train brings together an interesting cross section of Americans. In the group of about 400 in 21 cars one finds varieties typical of a little city. They come from all parts of the country and are on different missions. Some are pleasure-bound. Others are returning home for school and others are on sad missions.

A highway engineer and his wife from Sioux City are hurrying to Los Angeles, called there by the death of the latter's sister in a car accident. The accident victim was a librarian in the west. The Sioux City woman told that another sister taught sub-normal and abnormal beginners in a California school. The teacher dealt with tiny folks, most of them Mexicans who had so little in the way of food, clothing and medical attention that she devoted her entire time to them. The Sioux Citizens know Mrs. A. A. Welch of Wayne and think, as Wayne folks do, that she is one of the youngest and most charming older women they have ever known.

Another taking a difficult trip

is an Ohio woman going to Los Angeles to see a sister who fell on the stairs of the hospital in which her son has been a patient for six weeks. The Ohio woman's husband died just recently. He had farmed for 30 years near Cleveland. Though he had lost a hand, he was able to do many more things than some of those he employed. Corn is the principal crop in Ohio, the traveler explained, but tomatoes, cucumbers and cabbage are important and are marketed in the cities for table use or are sold to canning factories. The man now on the Ohio farm received $1.35 a peck for tomatoes early in the season. When the market dropped to 15c a peck, he plowed under the vines and devoted attention to something else. A black louse eliminated the cucumber crop this season.

Library News

"The Art of Being a Person," by George Ross Wells is one of the new books received this week at the Wayne library. Mr. Wells is professor of psychology at the Hartford Seminary Foundation. The serene and useful life, says the author, is an achievement, not a fortunate accident or an undeserved gift of nature. For you it depends upon the skill with which you order and evaluate the many components, psychological and physiological, that make up your life. To set you on the right road toward this harmonious arrangement—the art of being a person—is the purpose of this extremely interesting and practical book by a noted psychologist.

"Country Lawyer," by Bellamy Partridge, is a story of Mr. Partridge's father who passed his bar examinations and settled in Phelps, N. Y., in the late 60's.

A humorously and brilliantly written book is "My Invincible Aunt," by Dorothea Brande. It is more than a highly entertaining story; it is an ironic, witty comment on those who confuse material prosperity with spiritual growth.

The story of a girl who made pies, money and American history is found in "Arizona," by Clarence Budington Kelland. It is a new novel of southwestern America in the days preceding and paralleling the Civil war.

"The Orchid Hunters" is a jungle adventure story by Norman MacDonald. Two youths in their twenties set out on the strange adventure in pursuit of one of the world's most unique and hazardous careers.

Sixty Years Ago

Dispatches from abroad in 1879 hint at trouble which has been stirred to boiling point at intervals of a few years since, according to the Northern Nebraska Journal published at Ponca by Wm. Huse. Sixty years ago the British had just received assurance that the Russians would evacuate Turkish territory within the time prescribed by the Treaty of Berlin. From Roumania is word to the effect that the ministry resigned because of differences over the question of emancipation of the Jews. (And the Jews are still an issue in world affairs.) Another dispatch tells of marked symptoms of estrangement between Russia and Germany. (And just recently, the two countries signed a new pact.)

Two vessels on the east coast and one at New Orleans were enlisting boys for the U. S. navy in 1879.

Dispatches from Australia, just being settled, tell of extremes of wealth and poverty in that continent. Some settlers attain great fortunes through sheep raising or through mining. Others spend what they have to establish themselves and lose all, living in such poverty that they cannot return to their native land and cannot continue in business in Australia. These are hopelessly sunk.

Argentina is fast being settled with emigrants from Italy, France and Germany and promises to be a "sharp competitor with the United States in the grain market." Recent years have proved the truth of this prediction.

Great distress was caused in Decan province by rats which had overrun the place, according to word from Bombay.

The Orange celebration in Ireland passed off with fewer than usual shootings and stonings.

Making an ocean voyage by hand power was attracting attention 60 years ago. Then it was probably beyond conception that within a lifetime this same ocean would be crossed in a few hours. Hanlan, the champion oarsman, who reached New York after plying the waters from Europe, was welcomed in great style.

Household comforts took attention in 1879, as today. A report from London tells of a simple method of giving floors the appearance of oak or walnut. The plan is to mix VanDyke brown in oil, adding pearlash, dragon's blood and boiling water. Boards are smoothed with a plane and glasspaper; cracks are filled with plaster of Paris; then the floors are rubbed with the liquid and sized with glue.

But It's True

Some undeveloped seeds in flower-pots buried with French soldiers showed that full-grown plants had actually developed from other seeds. Because the soldiers were interred in cracked caskets, enough water entered to make growth possible.

Round About This Funny World

The next time Mrs. Charles English of Bemidji, Minn., goes to rescue a cat from a "dog," she will be more careful. She had a sore hand. The "dog" was a muskrat.

Litchfield, Minn., police are on the watch for strong-arm thieves—men who stole two Civil War cannons from the G. A. R. hall and the cement blocks on which they rested.

When Earl Calpaway of Wildwood Crest, N. J., got into his auto after a dip in the surf, he found $70 missing and this note from the thief: "Go home and take a bath in the tub."

Dr. R. Birch Hoyle, of London, laughed when he saw some Pennsylvanians eating corn on the cob at a corn roast in Bedford, Pa. "The people of America surely play funny games," he said.

Jean Decourcy, 14, of Bicknell, Ind., is on a medicated cotton diet because she swallowed a needle. Doctors hope the cotton will form a protective covering so the needle can be disposed of naturally.

A swing band at Port Arthur, Tex., gave Mrs. Elena Guardia the serenade she requested for her one hundredth birthday. Born in Louisiana, she speaks only French, does her own washing, cooking and ironing.

John Thornton, Bryant, Ind., farmer, wondered why one of his cows was getting skinny and giving less milk. A veterinarian operated, found a staple, a piece of glass, two single nails and nine pieces of fence wire in the cow's stomachs.

Policeman Richard Etter of Indianapolis, who gives drunkenness tests, was returning with another officer from a police dinner. Etter's car rammed another in the rear and bystanders said the policeman must have been drunk. All right, Etter said, he'd take the tests. They showed he was sober.

"See that car up there?" a man heckled Officer Pat Patton in Oklahoma City. "If it was mine you'd put a ticket on it." The car was parked in a forbidden zone. Patton looked at the license plate—and blanched. It was the governor's car. He tagged it.

Chicago officials complained about the difficulty in keeping streets and alleys clean in the Thirty-second ward because there were not enough garbage cans. So Alderman Joseph P. Rostenkowski, instead of passing out cigars to his constituents, is giving away 2,600 garbage cans.

Slightly-built Mrs. Dewey Harris of Grandview, Wash., tried to "shoo" away a five hundred-pound bull that invaded her garden. She threw a four-ounce stone, striking the animal squarely on the forehead. Her husband and several neighbors spent a hot afternoon removing the carcass.

Windblown hair does are sissy stuff. Mrs. Virginia Rivas of Baltimore, could tell her friends that her coiffure was tousled by lightning. The bolt traveled down the Rivas' radio aerial to strike Mrs. Rivas. Bobby pins in her just-marcelled hair were scattered several yards around. She was uninjured.

A thief stole a set of false teeth right out of Morris Mahoney's mouth Wednesday—without even awakening him. But the fellow still did not get away with it. A policeman on a bridge where Mahoney was sleeping, saw the thief pick Mahoney's pocket and grabbed him. The false molars were in his hand.

Children at the Crossroads

By Judge Ernest L. Reeker

A World's Fair Sculptor. Somebody—by something—was skillfully stealing milk and cream from porches in a certain neighborhood of a Madison county, Nebraska, town. It must be the timber squirrels, because the empty bottles were always left on the premises, and action against them was contemplated. So ran the story in the local newspaper.

A few days later a boy was surprised in the act of robbing a neighbor's ice box. He was promptly brought into juvenile court. During the informal discussion of his activities he admitted pilfering several ice boxes and also stealing the milk and cream from porches.

The victims of his petty thefts, some of them highly indignant, appeared at the hearing. They all made the same complaint: Tom had stolen only milk, cheese, custards, and any other milk products in the refrigerator. It seemed strange that he coveted only milk products and left fruit, candy and other sweets severely alone.

Tom was indeed a pitiful little fellow as he faced his accusers and admitted the charges were true. It seemed that there was some deep-seated cause for his pried-side thievery and we must find that cause to correct the error of his ways.

Our first step was to send Tom to a physician for a complete physical and mental examination. Meanwhile we inquired of his teacher as to his school record. She reported that he was a consistent truant; came to classes with hands and face dirty, hair disheveled, dress slovenly; and of late had been drifting into bad habits.

The physician stated that Tom was normal mentally but that he was suffering from the severest case of rickets that he had seen in his 35 years of practice. He said, further, that Tom's physical health was completely wrecked, due to calcium deficiency in his food over a long period. He furnished a diet list, a list that, strangely enough, contained every item that Tom had been stealing except one—cod liver oil.

Tom! What a wretched bit of humanity he was! Next we looked into Tom's home life. We found that his mother had died three years before, when Tom, an only child, was 12 years old. Discouraged, grief-stricken over the death of his wife, the father was drinking heavily; but because he was fond of Tom he was trying, without assistance, to maintain their home.

Investigation disclosed further that the father would leave in the morning before Tom awakened, and at night he would bring home bread, bologna, and other cold, canned meats. Never was there any milk, nor was a hot meal provided.

The father was given the doctor's diet list and instructed to see that his son received the proper food. In specific terms he was told what he must do to avoid losing Tom to an orphanage.

Tom, then, was placed on probation. A careful watch was kept to learn whether the doctor's orders were followed. They were, and the change in Tom was noticeable almost immediately. With ample food of the right sort at home there was no need for him to steal. His father gave up the use of liquor, for now he had an ideal to strive toward—the creation of a real home for Tom.

Having been graduated in due time from high school, Tom turned his thoughts to sculpturing.

Business Is Better.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman.)

It is evident that business is picking up throughout the country and it is equally obvious that there is no boom. The growth appears to be general but gradual and, like all major changes in business, it cannot be ascribed to anything particular.

Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins appears to sense the character of the improvement in his report that "prospects for third quarter business have improved with recent developments in the domestic field. Business policies generally reflect less hesitancy than prevailed during a considerable part of the second quarter. Indicative of the more confident attitude toward fall business is the enlarged volume of retailer commitments in wholesale markets."

A well-known economic authority predicted a long time ago that prosperity would come back before we knew it and come back so gradually that many of us would fail to recognize it. That seems to be the case at this time and the point for all to keep in mind is that future operations should be charted on the assumption that confidence is returning and business improving.

Agricultural Notes

Three prize trips for Nebraska 4-H club members to the annual club week held in June at the college of agriculture at Lincoln is offered for outstanding records in sheep projects and general activities. The sum of $60 is provided for the trips through the Cudahy packing company. Last year's trip winners were: Glenn Stevens, Perkins county; Robert Decker, Scottsbluff county; and Vance Bard, Polk county.

According to Prof. F. E. Mussehl, chairman of the poultry husbandry department at the Nebraska college of agriculture, turkeys can be turned into grain sorghum fields as soon as the heads are well formed. There is apparently no danger from feeding the immature grain although the feeding value of matured grain may be expected to be higher. The dwarf varieties of sorghums, especially early Kalo and Sooner Milo, seem to be especially well adapted to field feeding. A good mash mixture, though containing at least 20 per cent of protein, should be fed to supplement the grain sorghum in the field. A daily feed of milk-moistened mash will also increase feed consumption and improve the rate of feathering and quality of fleshing. It is estimated that at least half of the ration from the 20th week to maturity may consist of grain sorghums harvested right out in the field by the birds themselves.

Plans are underway for holding the annual poultry field day at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture at Lincoln, September 28. Poultrymen interested in keeping up with progress in their industry are urged to attend. Several nationally known poultry authorities will appear on the program.

W. W. Derrick of the agricultural college at Lincoln has pointed out that green soybeans make excellent silage when combined with corn or sorghum. If the beans have not been grown with the corn, they should be mixed with one ton of green soybeans to every three or four tons of corn forage. Soybean hay makes an excellent substitute for alfalfa or clover hay as it is quite palatable and rich in protein. The hay is generally more wasteful than alfalfa or clover due to the coarseness of the stems. Silage made from a combination of soybeans, corn or sorghum will be richer in protein than straight corn or sorghum silage but may be somewhat lower in total digestible nutrients. The best time to cut soybeans for hay is when the green beans are well formed in the pods. Cut at this stage larger yields of dry matter and nutrients are secured.

Nebraska farmers and landowners have cooperated with the Prairie States Forestry project in establishing more miles of field shelterbelts than any of the six states of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas in which the project operates, according to State Director John L. Emerson announced in Grand Island. A total of 2,526 miles of shelterbelts have been planted on 4,068 farms in 42 Nebraska counties. The plantings cover 33,022 acres of land and required more than 24 million trees. Oklahoma is second in total plantings with 2,049 miles of shelterbelts. Since the beginning of the project in 1935 farmers in the six states have assisted in planting a total of 10,954 miles of tree belts on 151,503 acres of land, requiring 125,157,199 trees. The plantings were made on 17,174 individual farms within the area. The heaviest concentration of plantings in Nebraska is in Holt and Antelope counties where a total of 691 miles of windbreaks have been planted.

Historical exhibits at the state fair will show the development of women's project club work from the beginning to the present.
About 250 women of project clubs will take part in the mass chorus at the state fair in Lincoln Sunday, September 3, at 2 p. m. at the 4-H building. Miss Mary Ellen Brown will direct the group.
Radio broadcasts on 4-H work at Nebraska state fair in Lincoln will be given each afternoon from 4:30 to 4:45 during the fair the first week of September. WOW, Omaha, will carry the broadcasts.
Achievement day for Mrs. T. P. Roberts' cooking club, T. P. Roberts' swine club and C. H. Morris' sheep club will be held today at 2 at the Congregational church west of Carroll. A program is planned.
If enough Wayne county farmers are interested, there is a possibility of shipping in some western ewes. The 2 and 3 year old ewes cost about $8. Those wishing to consider the plan, thought feasible because of limited feed supply, should get in touch with Agent Chester Walters.
How to handle drouth-damaged corn is explained in a new circular on silage now available at the agricultural office. Sorghum silage is also discussed in detail. The circular suggests that silage should be used for beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and horses. It advises caution in feeding silage to hogs.
"Nebraska has done the best job of tree planting of any state in the plains and well earns her name of the 'tree planters' state," according to Dr. H. N. Wheeler of the U. S. forest service who spoke to 400 boys and girls of 4-H clubs at conservation camp at Seward. Fields protected by windbreaks have yielded much more than those nearby which had no protection from hot, drying winds.
Farmers are warned to avoid loss of livestock by unused grass-hopper poison. Anyone having a sack or two left should spread the poison. The sacks used are poison and should be burned to avoid any possibility of animals' chewing them. The poison mixing station will be kept open until August 26. It is pointed out that one hopper allowed to complete the season will mean from 10 to 90 next spring.
More than 42 million trees were planted in 4,500 miles of wind-breaks in prairie states in 1939. Plantings since 1935 total more than 127 million trees in 11,000 miles on 20,000 farms in eastern counties of the Dakotas, central Kansas and Oklahoma, central and western Nebraska and the Texas Panhandle. Efficiency in planting has aided high survival of trees in spite of drouth, grasshoppers, rabbits and other hazards. Roots of trees are not exposed to air more than 90 seconds from the time they are dug until they are planted. They are hurriedly wrapped at the nurseries and are planted quickly. Local seedlings are selected and the trees are planted so as to depend on soil moisture and rains.
Farm Facts and Fun, broadcast sponsored by the state extension service, will be resumed Saturday, August 26, from 1 to 1:30 p. m. over WOW, Omaha, WJAG, Norfolk, and other Nebraska stations. Dr. F. L. Duley will this Saturday explain "right-side-up" farming by which future farmers may seed their wheat without ever turning over the stubble. L. I. Frisbie will tell of the 4-H exhibits to be featured at the state fair.
A comparison of navigation charts shows that sediment has been carried into the bed of the historic York river in Virginia five times as fast the past 27 years as during the preceding 57 years. This is due to having too much land in clean-cultivated crops and to the fact that land has been worn out and abandoned because of too much row cropping. This is pointed out as one of the bad results of erosion.
Legume and grass seedings, tree planting, go-down crops, fallow, resting of permanent pastures and repairs of farm buildings are all affected by duration of the farm lease, according to a summary of landlord-tenant reports. The old custom of the landlord's furnishing the legume and grass seed and the tenant's doing the extra work free still prevails in eastern Nebraska. In central and western Nebraska replies indicate that the tenant should be paid for his work. Landlords make the most sacrifice in resting permanent pasture and setting aside restoration land, and therefore should have most, if not all, of the ACP practice payments, the majority indicated.
The most important foods for children are milk and milk products, vegetables and fruits, whole-grain cereals and bread, eggs, lean meats, fish or poultry and cod-liver oil, states Miss Mildred Doremus, foods and nutrition specialist at the Nebraska college of agriculture. None of these foods should be omitted if the children are to get enough vitamins, minerals and energy foods for their needs.
Land when first put under irrigation, is seldom smooth enough to permit a uniform distribution of water to all points of the field without some leveling. It is pointed out by R. O. Pierce, assistant extension agricultural engineer. The higher points that cannot be leveled with the ordinary leveling drag can be moved by the use of a slip-scraper, "fresno" or other types of earth moving machinery. When removing high spots or humps in the field, care should be taken to see that a sandy subsoil, low in fertility, and subject to blowing is not exposed. The fertility of the exposed subsoil, can be built up by applying manure or by growing sweet clover. Sometimes by changing the direction of the rows it is possible to irrigate areas that otherwise could not be irrigated without leveling. Land that will not have crops on it this fall can be blank listed and irrigated to the store moisture in the subsoil. A common method of fall-irrigation is by the lath box method where the water is turned into a secondary ditch or furrow from the field lateral by means of a four by four inch outlet box. The water from the secondary ditch is then turned into the rows by means of lath boxes 1 inch in diameter which supplies five to 10 gallons per minute to each row. A set of 50 to 100 lath boxes for each second-foot of water is generally used. For crops such as sorghum, corn and beets, the soil should be wet down to a depth of 5 to 6 feet. This reserve moisture gives the plant a good start in the early growing season, and helps to carry it through the extremely hot weather before water can be applied.

Reserve soil moisture, grasshoppers and weeds are among the chief factors taken into account by Dixon county farmers who are making plans to seed alfalfa this fall. Because of the necessity of a good moisture reserve, a good share of these farmers who have water available expect to irrigate their fields before seeding. County Extension Agent Greth M. Dunn points out. The soil should be wet down 6 to 8 feet, or even 10 to 12 feet if the depth of the soil permits. Alfalfa has the ability to go much deeper than this to draw out moisture. A few days after the land has been irrigated it can be worked down into a good seed bed, borders built and alfalfa planted. Where irrigation is impossible until after planting, one or two pecks of oats per acre may be drilled as a nurse crop or buffer to prevent the soil from cutting or washing the young alfalfa. By frost the oats will be tall enough to spread the water nicely. If the oats are more than six inches tall by frost, they should be clipped high with a mower. Otherwise, a wet snow with a little wind may paste the dead oats down to smother the young alfalfa. Fields which cannot be irrigated before planting should be moist to at least 2 or 3 feet deep, so the alfalfa may have sufficient moisture until irrigation water can be applied. It will have to compete with the oats as well as the weeds for moisture. From this standpoint, clean summer-fallowed fields should be in excellent shape for fall seeding. One good poisoning at the time of or a little before drilling and several poisonings afterward will help to solve the grasshopper problem. Fall seeded alfalfa should be planted the last ten days of August or in early September. The rate of seeding should vary with the condition of the seed bed, quality of seed, and possibility of weed growth. In a well prepared seed bed with sufficient moisture, 12 to 15 pounds per acre should be ample. Alfalfa is a heavy producer but is susceptible to wilt. Harrow the seed well. Alfalfa seed is scarce; Cossack alfalfa and Nebraska common are fairly wilt resistant and good yielders. Any good alfalfa seed locally grown or from northern areas is satisfactory where alfalfa is under irrigation in a rotation, and will be plowed up in 3 or 4 years.

Tour Through Western States Enjoyed by Wayne Travelers

Visiting friends and relatives and enjoying the scenery through South Dakota, Colorado, Washington, Oregon, California and Wyoming provided a pleasant combination for Mr. and Mrs. August Kruse and Marion, Marvin Dunklau and Miss Sophie Damme, who returned last Tuesday from a month's tour.

The Wayne folks left July 28 and set out for South Dakota where they found crops much as in Nebraska—very spotted. At Lake Huron the farmers are enjoying their first good crop in many years. Crops at Pierre, S. D., are below average. Highlights in South Dakota were the Bad Lands, Black Hills, the Sylvan Lake and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Hans Henrickson.

From Dakota to Wyoming the Kruses with their party traveled through the range land and sugar beet district where irrigation is used very extensively.

The Big Horn mountains in Wyoming were inspiring. The mountains go to a very great height and the descent is very rapid. The colors in the rocks; in the Ten Sleep canyon are beautiful and as one travels down the mountains the rocks opposite and the green valley below present an interesting picture in color contrast.

Hot Springs at Thermopolis, Wyo., proves the wonders of nature. Beautifully colored terraces have been built by mineral water. The water comes out from the spring at a temperature of 130 degrees. As it cools it forms the terraces. The bottom of the spring has never been found.

In Yellowstone park the Kruses spent the night a short distance from the falls and went to sleep with the sound of falling water in their ears. Miss Damme is firmly convinced that the Dragon's Mouth springs is rightfully named as the water belches out of the spring periodically with a terrific roar.

The Wayne folks visited a few days with the Wm. Elges family near Livingstone, Mont. This is typically ranching country. In connection with the farm the Elges have a large sheep ranch. From Livingstone across the narrow part of Idaho to Couer d'Alene down through the mountains and the lake district to Lewiston, Idaho, provided an interesting sightseeing trip. The arrival on the highway to Lewiston was unusual. As one stops on the top of a very steep hill outside of the city the distance is exactly one mile, but the drive down the hairpin curves to the city is 9 miles.

Miss Damme left the party at Lewiston and went to Pomeroy, Wash., where she visited her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henrickson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Henrickson and family and Albert and Ray Henrickson. The Kruses and Mr. Dunklau went to Hillsborough, Ore., about 47 miles from Portland where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meier and family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Heikes and son. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Erixleben in Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Weible at Canas, Wash., and Luther Keeheys near there.

See Forest Fires. The Kruses took the ocean drive along the Pacific. At Portland the forest fires were so close and large enough to be seen from the Meier place. Some days it was so smoky the sun couldn't be seen. Dust in Oregon is very fine and gray and is four to five inches deep on the ground. This condition is due to lack of rain—it seldom rains in Oregon in the summer.

The Kruses took the ocean drive to the Red Forest. This is a very beautiful drive between the big, giant trees. Enormous lumber camps are built along the way. The lumber is piled along the road.

Contour Farming Is Gaining Favor Several Dixon county farmers will be harvesting crops on the contour this fall for the first time, according to the report from Greth M. Dunn, county agricultural agent. Most of these farmers, the records show, are using contour farming for corn only.

While very little strip cropping and no terracing have been given attention by Dixon county farmers at the present time, contour farming is rapidly gaining in popularity. This practice, due to its aid in conserving moisture, has given immediate results. Some of the fields are in areas where very little or no rainfall occurred this year. The results from contouring of these fields, of course, is negligible.

George Walsh of Waterbury obtained good results in 1938. Yields of corn on the contour were 10 to 12 bushels above the yields on the other fields planted up and down the hills. While very few farmers tried contouring in 1938, several are experimenting with it this year.

Listed below are the names of several of the men who are contouring in 1939. Results have not yet been checked.

Quentin Kavanaugh, Waterbury; Frank Kennedy, Waterbury; E. W. Pape, Ponca; Leo Mantley, Laurel; Ben Jackson, Allen; Joe Carr, Allen; Jesse W. Wheeler, Allen;

R. F. Karnes, Allen; Oliver Noe, Allen; Walter Peterson, Allen; Donald Schram, Martinsburg.

Miss Genevieve Pomeroy of Sioux Center, Ia., visited friends in Wayne last Wednesday.

Miss Mary V. Walker spent the week-end in Alma visiting her mother, Mrs. O. E. Walker.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles G. Ingham and son of Norfolk, spent Friday in the A. W. Ross and Dr. C. T. Ingham homes.

Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Dieling arrived home last Wednesday evening from Estes park, Colo., where they had spent a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Twamley of Sheyenne, N. D., and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bagley of Allen, were Friday evening guests in the R. J. Kingston home.

Miss Maude Curley and Miss Mary Lewis arrived home Friday evening from Fort Collins, Colo., where they had visited Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Miller. They had also visited in the L. L. Raymond home at Scottsbluff and the George Durbin home at Gering for the summer. One way home Friday Miss Curley and Miss Lewis stopped in the M. M. Taylor home at Columbus.

Annual watermelon day was held at Thurston Tuesday.

Attend San Francisco Fair. The Wayne folks enjoyed one day at the San Francisco fair. When they returned to their car after visiting the fair buildings they found a note from John Kemp, jr., who had recognized their 27 license. Miss Damme reported many of the dams and much of the scenery have been built in miniature and displayed at the fair. California played up the giant size of the fruit, potatoes, etc. From the fair the Wayne party went to Los Angeles where they visited Miss Rosa and Henry Linke, aunt and uncle of Mrs. Kruse. Many sightseeing trips were taken in and around Los Angeles, one of them to the Wee Kisk O' Heather, a church which is a replica of the church attended by Annie Laurie in Scotland. It is very simple in architecture and has a flower garden blooming inside of the church. The atmosphere within the church is one of devotion. Soft organ music plays continuously.

Miss Damme was surprised to find that nothing in California is green in the summer unless it is irrigated. The lawns and green in winter instead.

Visit Large Dairy. The men of the Wayne party were particularly interested in the Adohr dairy near Los Angeles. Twenty-four hundred dairy cows are kept here. Most of the cows are milked by hand and are run through the barns in shifts of 208 cows. These shifts are continued day and night for the 24 hours.

Miss Damme bathed in the surf at Long Beach and the salt water made her lips pucker much as they do when eating something sour.

Enroute home the Wayne folks passed what is advertised to be the largest vineyard of wine grapes in the world. It covers 5,000 acres. The vines spread much like spiraea and are not trained on trellis.

At Boulder dam, Miss Damme, Mr. Dunklau and Marion Kruse went into the dam and saw the dynamo which are 40 feet in diameter and two stories high. The dam is built on the state line between Nevada and Arizona. The electrical power is not complete. The guide stated that the dam would reach its full capacity in another year.

The drive through the desert was not as uncomfortable as the Wayne party had anticipated and a sprinkle of rain and there was a sprinkle of trout. At Salt Lake City the Kruses and their party toured the city and visited the Mormon tabernacle and the state capital. Mrs. Kruse was impressed by the gold room, the governor's reception room. However, the beauty was spoiled by the dollar and cent report of the guide in telling the visitors about the room. The rug cost $6,000 and weighed 1,300 pounds, the draperies cost $12 a square foot and a total of $65,000 was spent in the entire furnishings.

At Salt Lake City, Miss Damme decided not to go swimming after seeing the bathers leave the pool with a salt crust on their bodies. The air is so very salty that if one breathes with his mouth open he can taste the salt.

Berthoud Pass in Colorado is 11,300 feet high. It is located west of Denver. This pass rises above the tree line, it being so high that trees can not grow on its peak.

Following a short stay in Denver, the Kruses went to Sterling, Colo., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nissen and on to Dalton to visit Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sabs, and with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meier and Mrs. Bertha Shingle at Sidney. Crops around Sidney are suffering from the drought. At Sterling, Colo., they report the crops much better because of irrigation. The Wayne group traveled 6,300 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heesman, Kenneth and Betty of Winside, were Sunday dinner guests in the W. H. Racherbaumer home.

Mrs. E. Gehrke of Bancroft, and Mrs. H. W. Oehrlich and daughters of Omaha, spent last Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Mary Lilje's.

Mrs. Byron Ruth, Mrs. Kenneth Likes and Mrs. Henry Johnson visited Mrs. Gordon Beckner Wednesday afternoon last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brudigam, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aeverman and Harvey visited in the Gust M. Johnson home Thursday night.

Miss Alice Shields left Sunday for Onam, Minn., where she is employed. She had spent her vacation at the E. F. Shields home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lessman left last Sunday for their home at Sidney after spending two weeks with Mrs. Lessman's mother, Mrs. Mary Lilje.

Mrs. Ray Robinson and Jewell and Miss Verona Pearson of Carroll, and Mrs. Walt Lage helped Mrs. S. J. Hale cook for silo men Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wacker and Marion and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Williams of Carroll visited in the Marvin Victor home last Sunday evening.
