

FIFTYEIGHTH YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1939.

NUMBER NINETEEN

Friday Scores
High Point in Crowd at Fair

School Parade Is Popular;
Governor Speaks; Fair
Queen Is Crowned.

Despite drought and short crops hereabouts, the county fair which closed last Saturday night, drew sufficient attendance to make ends meet, so Manager M.C. Bloss believes without knowing the exact figures. The school parade was an especially strong magnet for gate receipts Friday. Attendance on other days was not so large.

Exhibits in all departments were satisfactory. All pig pens and cattle stalls were filled. The merchants' tent had twenty-two exhibits. Local dealers had interesting farm machinery displays. The school exhibits were up to their usual standard of excellence.

Manager Bloss expressed high appreciation over the cordial reception his efforts in behalf of the fair met in all parts of the county. He is convinced that favorable conditions would have greatly increased success.

Governor Is Reassuring.
Gov. R. L. Cochran spoke Saturday afternoon, and was presented by H. B. Craven, president of the Fair association. The governor encouraged the idea of growing more live stock. He deplored the blighting drought, but urged everybody to carry on and do his part.

These lines will eventually serve approximately 500 farm homes adjacent to the proposed lines.

The second section will include approximately 80 miles of lines in Pierce county. Plans are to locate these lines chiefly in Thompson.

SPARRING AGAINST FICKLE ELEMENTS
MEANS RED BLOOD

HOWEVER one may feel about the weather in this latitude of whatever one may say for or against it, it must be recognized as possessing wonderful powers of versatility. Its changes from one extreme to another make one wonder how nature manages to act with such speed and facility. Last week furnished a pronounced example. The temperature soared to the hundred mark during Thursday, and then an hour before sunset nature gave its thermostat a sudden twist that sent the mercury down to fifty. People who were perspiring and cussing the hot elements early in the day, were shivering their way into warmer clothes by nightfall. The housewife hastening to the refrigerator to get ice cubes for the relief of over-heated insides and feverish brows stopped on the way back to light the heater. Sweat turned into frost. Imprecations on the heat were displaced by imprecations on the cold. Thus, sparring with variable elements is what makes this the most healthful climate in the world. It is the influence that develops vigor and endurance, promotes longevity and makes everybody an attractive life-insurance risk.

Loss Is Heavy
In Farm Blaze
Monday Night

Livestock and Buildings Are Lost in Fire at Ernest Schluns Place.

Fire of undetermined origin, discovered at 10:30 Monday night, destroyed a barn and double crib, damaged a chicken house and burned four calves, a sow, 18 pigs, the family dog, about 4,000 bushels of corn, oats and barley, also some straw, a wagon, cultivator and other machinery at the Ernest Schluns farm four miles north of Carroll. Firemen from Carroll and Belden and many neighbors helped prevent spread of the blaze. Mr. Schluns, who owns the buildings and other property, has the loss partly covered with insurance.

Mrs. Schluns was awakened by a light she thought was a cat coming into the yard. On looking out she saw that the barn and crib were ablaze. The fire had gained considerable headway and the large barn door fell just as the blaze was discovered.

The large barn and double crib were completely destroyed and the live stock was trapped in the structures. The roof was burned from the chicken house. Men worked all night to prevent spread of the blaze to other buildings. Wind was in the direction favorable to saving the house which is at a distance from the barns.

Mr. Schluns has not yet made plans about rebuilding.

He had left a note to his wife who had stopped at the store about noon, but the contents of the note were not revealed.

Progress Made
On Remodeling
At City School

Term Will Be Opened Here
In Wayne High Within Week or Two.

Although plans are going ahead to start high school classes some time next week, contractors and subcontractors on the Wayne high school project were making no promises as to how much of the remodeled building would be ready for occupancy by that time. Even with work progressing at top speed, there may be some items of the second floor not completed, by the time the upper grades are back in class.

The painting foreman indicated that if classroom doors are here by Monday of next week it is possible that they could have the stain and varnish applied by next Wednesday. The doors are expected late this week.

A report to the Public Works Administration by Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer, indicated that all trades were working at top speed on both the remodeled section and the new wing.

By Wednesday night none of the rooms had been completely sanded. The floor contractor is going over the floors from three to four times with various grades of sandpaper. When sanded the floors will get a seal coat finish.

Plumbing fixtures for the re-newed building have not yet been received on the site but if they are here by Monday it is possible to have those on the second floor set and adjusted by Wednesday or Thursday, the plumbing foreman said. Radiation for the remodeled building will take at least a week to install.

Blackboard mouldings are on, and the setting of the boards is to start Friday.

H. I. Lockwood, carpenter foreman, has a force of 12 men working on wood trim. This does not include floor or weatherstrip men. East and south main stairways are

FAIR'S PRIZE CORN
RAISED ON PLACE
NORTH OF WAYNE

GEREON Allvin has two farms, one just north of Wayne and the other just west where he lives, and it was on the former place that he raised the corn that ranked first at the late Wayne county fair. The winning corn is the hybrid variety, and was planted — checked — early in May. The forty-five acres in the tract will turn out an estimated yield of twenty-five bushels to the acre. Though only a few miles from his home place, the north-of-town piece received more moisture during the corn's critical growing period, and therefore fared much better in results. While production on the prize-winning farm is considerably below normal, it is gratifying in a year of unusually severe drought.

Nearly Thousand
Take Higher Work
Classes Are Sectioned in Several Divisions to Provide Needs.

Wayne State Teachers college issued registration materials Monday and Tuesday to 942 persons and by Wednesday noon 922 students had completed registration in the college proper. This is a 10 per cent increase over the enrollment of a comparable date last year, placing Wayne in the lead in attendance among the four state teachers colleges. The total will be increased by registrations not yet completed.

Training school enrollment totals 225, bringing the grand total for the college and training department to about 1,147, an all-time high for the school.

Rooms in all halls at the college campus are taken, these accommodating about 600! Many have rooms about town, and a number of students are driving to school each day, among the towns represented being Dixon, Emerson, Wakefield, Winside and Carroll.

The increased enrollment has resulted in large classes in a number of departments. Groups are especially large in English composition, introduction art, music, health and hygiene, nature study and chemistry. A few classes with small enrollment are being withdrawn, large classes are being sectioned and transfers from one section to another are being made in an attempt to take care of student needs. Regular work starts Wednesday.

Kearney and Wayne have for some years led over Peru and Chadron in attendance. A dispatch from Kearney last Friday, at the close of the first week of school, placed the enrollment there at 780 as compared to 749 the year previous.

Sewage Plant
Is Considered
By City Council

Action Is Deferred While Further Investigation Is Being Made.

The advantages of a sewage disposal plant and the possibility of having one for Wayne were considered Tuesday evening by Wayne city council, but no action was taken. The matter was considered a year ago, but action was delayed. A recent communication from the Connecticut Insurance company, complaining of water contamination on the company's farm tenanted by Howard Marsh, led to renewal of discussion on the matter.

Investigation made a year ago by E. E. Gailey, W. F. Ferdue, J. H. Brugger and Herman Milner brought a report that three progressive cities the size of Wayne were visited and have successfully solved the sewage disposal problem with such plants.

A plant large enough to care for Wayne's needs would cost about $50,000 to $55,000. No FWA grant would be available, but WPA labor could be used and this would care for an estimated $20,000 of the expense. The council is of the opinion that the state would furnish about $15,000 because of the college. This would leave $15,000 to $20,000 to be furnished by bond issue.

The council feels that sewage disposal plants are being installed by progressive cities and that it will likely be only a short time until they are required. Officials, however, wish to do further investigating. They also feel that if a plant is installed that spring is the proper time to do so.

The council transferred $3,000 from the light to the general fund Tuesday. Other business consisted of allowing bills.

Apartments Are Near Completion
In Connell Hall

Entire Project Is Expected
To Be Completed
Part of Oct.

Faculty apartments in the new Connell hall addition, which were not available for the Tuesday opening of the fall term at Wayne State Teachers college, were being rushed to completion this week and Saturday of this week has been set for moving in.

At that time, seven apartments of the convertible type, which would be used as 10 apartments, will be ready out of the 13 in the building. Those who have seen them declare that they are excellent.

In a report to R. A. Radford, regional director, PWA, Dan Farrell, jr., engineer, inspector, estimated that the entire project, with the exception of the air conditioning machinery installation, would be completed about October 14.

Breakfast tables and seats for the apartment nooks, lunch room booths and seats and other cabinet trim arrived Wednesday. Work on the breakfast nooks started at once. Work on the lunch room booths will start next week. Contractor John L. Soderberg said, and be completed by October 1.

Instructor Returns from East

The hottest and driest summer in 104 years at Cambridge, Mass., was experienced this summer. By Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Griffin, who returned Thursday evening. Dr. Griffin taught during the summer session at Harvard university.

Harvard university was founded in 1636 and has the largest endowment of any university—145 million dollars. The campus or yard has 220 buildings, among them being the library which is the largest university library in the world and the third largest library in the world. It contains over four million volumes. The university budget allows the purchasing of 120,000 volumes per year.

The Griffins lived this summer just off Brattle street. The houses on the street were built in the late 1700s or early 1700s. James Russell Lowell's house was located about one and one-half blocks from the Griffins on Elmwood street and was known as Elmwood home. Longfellow's home was about three blocks from Griffins. It was George Washington's headquarters in 1775 and 1776. Longfellow purchased it after these dates and made it his home.

Another famous home was that of the "village blacksmith," the forge and chestnut tree are gone but the house remains. The two Lee homes are also here. One is known as the English Thomas Lee, who was a Tory and the other as the American Thomas Lee, who was a Patriot.

Dr. and Mrs. Griffin lived in the Ruper MacLaurin home. Mr. MacLaurin is professor in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His father was its most famous president.

Lawrence Hall is said to be one of the newer buildings erected on Kirkland street and it was built in 1835. According to Dr. Griffin it is in fine condition. It was built from the money which was the largest gift to American education up to that time.

The chapel in the Harvard yard is of Georgian architecture as are most of the buildings. Some of the buildings date to 1730, 1745. Many new buildings have been erected. The Widener library was built in 1914. It does not follow the trend of Georgian architecture but it does not violate good taste.

The grounds on which the university is located are called the "Yard," rather than campus as is the custom here. The word campus was introduced in the campus in Princeton, but has never been adopted at Harvard. Dr. Griffin saw no walks or seats exclusive for seniors as one finds at many colleges and universities; neither were there social fraternities. The only organizations of that type were professional and honorary fraternities. The college is an old institution and has its own traditions which keep away from the ordinary run of college trends. It demands dignity.

Dr. Griffin taught only graduate students this summer. Sixty-three enrolled in educational measurements—the third largest class in the university. The class was required for part two in graduate examinations. Dr. Griffin found the students' delightful and they had a wide range of experience. One was an Oxford graduate and another was from Canada. Four were from Terre Haute, Ind., and one was from Omaha. Six of the students were college teachers and another was the head of a vocational department in the state teachers college at Maryville, Mo.

The eastern people are very cordial and pleasant, according to Dr. Griffin, and the New England people are especially hospitable. The Griffins enjoyed the association of the faculty. Summer instructors were granted complete use of the club house. The club has full facilities for entertaining. The Griffins entertained in the club house one evening.

The summer program of entertainment is very full and complete. Almost nightly there is some program. Students receive a liberal education free of cost by attending the lectures and other entertainment. Dr. Kirtley Mathers, an eminent geologist, was director of the Harvard summer session. Harvard offers a very complete line of courses for all students.

Dr. and Mrs. Griffin enjoyed boating on the Charles river and attending the music concerts in Esplanade Shell on Charles street. The concerts were by the Boston symphony under the direction of Serge Koussivitsky.

Morning devotions were held daily in the yard in the Appleton chapel. The services were under the direction of Dr. Auer, professor in the Divinity school.

Dr. Griffin enjoyed his summer at Harvard and the contacts he had with the students and faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bathke and Bobbie, R. A. Bathke spent Sunday at Bloomfield. R. A. Bathke who had spent the week here returned to his home at Bloomfield Monday.

Wayneites Travel Through the South

Visit to Gulf States Enjoyed By Albert Bastian and Wm. Weber Families.

An interesting educational experience was had by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bastian and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weber of Wayne, from a 5-165-mile trip through the south. They arrived home the first of last week.

Leaving Wayne they first went to Excelsior Springs, Mo., where more than 20 mineral springs are found. Lake of the Ozarks, 43 miles southwest of Jefferson City, was created by Bagnell dam across the Osage river for the purpose of developing electrical power. Going on south the Bastians and Webers visited Cotley college at Nevada, Mo., which town has extensive lumber and flour mills. Portable sawmills are not unusual sights in Arkansas, according to the Wayne folks. The Ouachita mountains are covered with grass and shrubs.

Chattanooga, Tenn., which is surrounded by peaks of the Cumberland range, and strategically located in the fertile Tennessee river valley, is one of the foremost industrial centers of the south. Iron and steel products, machinery and textiles are the most important of 1,500 items produced in the city's 400 plants, as learned by the Bastians and Webers. Look-out mountain can be seen from Chattanooga.

Going on south the Wayneites visited a factory at Dalton, Ga., where the most beautiful bedspreads are made. The city is nationally known as the center of the handmade candlewick, chenille and embroidered bedspread industry. The colorful chenille spreads are displayed outside on clotheslines along the highway.

The dogwood in the residential districts in these cities in Georgia was enjoyed. The Wilson dam which impounds the lovely Lake Wilson was seen at Florence, Ala.

The local folks journeyed on down to Jacksonville, Fla., which is the world's second largest market of naval stores and a leading southern shipping center. Here they visited the Rev. Kruger family who had charge of the Wayne Evangelical Lutheran church 11 years ago. Rainbow Springs, near Dunnellon, has under-water gardens of surpassing natural beauty which may be seen from glass-bottom boats. They also crossed an eight-mile bridge over the bay.

At St. Augustine which is the oldest city in the United States, the Wayne folks saw the old slave market, the oldest house in the United States, Fort San Marco, alligator and ostrich farm, Fountain of Youth, Fort Marion National Monument, Wakulla Springs, 20 miles south of Tallahassee, has a flow from its cavernous mouth of 146,000 gallons of water per minute. Pensacola, Fla., was also visited. In Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana the Wayne folks saw people gathering turpentine. Loading of lumber was witnessed at Mobile, Ala.

At Port Arthur, one of the highest bridges in the nation, over the Neches river, was crossed. It is 176 feet wide and two and a half miles long. The Wayne travelers saw cotton being cleaned at Brownsville, Texas. From San Antonio the Bastians and Webers went to Laredo, leaving the United States and going into Mexico, Monterrey was visited. The bananas, dates, peaches and pears were not quite ripe. Plowing was done with oxen pulling a piece of timber and a sharp blade. Coming back into the United States, the travelers went into central Texas, seeing many oil fields. On the return, their trip was almost straight north going to Waco, which is an industrial center, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Wichita, Kan., and home.

All Ages Needed IT IS PLAIN to impartial observers that old roosters and young birds have their rightful places in the world and that neither should look scornfully on the other.

"This is the age of youth and it is no surprise to the world to note the progress in all lines led by young men. Older men also have their important place in the picture as a steady and conservative influence.

"There is more or less complaint that old or middle-aged men are being pushed into the background and that the opportunities for employment and advancement lessen as the years pile up.

"Usually the word 'youth' means a paucity of years and a lack of experience and age means a plethora of years and a variety of experiences.

"There is much to be said for this definition of youth and age. None of us need ever grow old if we retain enthusiasm, energy and a willingness to keep in step with the new ideas of the times.

To Meet Issue

EDITOR Edgar Howard of the Columbus Telegram, is speculating on the candidate who can be brought forth to win against Burke and Cochran for the democratic senatorial nomination.

Mid-West's IN TALKING with David Hamer

of here, we were impressed by the dauntless determination of the mid-west's human elements. Mr. Hamer said he had been dried out and hailed out for several years, but that he had managed to get together enough feed for his live stock and that he has had no notion of giving up.

Governor Cochran sounds a refreshing note of independence by proclaiming November 30 Thanksgiving day in conflict with the president's pronouncement of a few weeks ago.

The report that President Roosevelt has called to his assistance men of successful experience and sound judgment and cast into the background the Corcorans and Cohens and other callow college boys is reassuring.

Increased enrollment at the State Teachers college contradicts an earlier theory that curtailed appropriations would seriously militate against attendance.

to pay a little more for the privilege of education. An advantage that costs more is really worth more. Anyway, students are here in larger numbers, and Wayne is pleased to welcome them.

The greatest compensation one can gain from public service is the satisfying sense of doing one's duty and contributing to social betterment. The fellow who wants to hold office merely to win personal profit or personal glory is less desirable than the fellow who is imbued first with the idea of helping the social order and promoting and maintaining the general welfare.

American people favor the surest way to keep this country out of war, and at this distance the proposition to fix over the law to allow all belligerents to come and buy what they can pay for and carry home would seem the best safeguard for this country.

An exchange quotes this from Sir Arthur Helps: "If men knew themselves, they could not be intolerant to others."

There's Plenty of Corn.

Admittedly corn is our most important crop and, according to the government crop report issued yesterday, we will have plenty of corn this year. In addition to the largest carry-over on record, the yield for 1939 is estimated at 2,523,092,000 bushels.

Nebraska's corn has been very disappointing on account of a severe drought, the yield being estimated at 76,888,000 bushels. In the principal live stock feeding sections a fair amount of grain will be available while feeders can be expected to draw freely on Iowa, where the yield is estimated at 484,654,000 bushels.

The encouraging feature of the situation from the live stock feeder's point of view is the fine crop of rough feed that has been produced and is now being harvested. According to all indications there will be plenty of feed available in Nebraska this year, plenty more obtainable from Iowa, and feeding volume will be larger than it was a year ago.

Why We Can Live.

David Dietz, science editor of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, after long research, concludes that life on earth is possible because of "two fortunate circumstances."

One is that "the earth is just the distance from the sun that it is." The other is that "the earth is just the size that it is."

The size of the earth is important, because it affects the gravitational pull; and gravitation determines the kind of atmosphere we have.

Smaller planets, like little Mercury or our moon can't hang on to any atmosphere at all. Larger ones, like Jupiter, have so much gravity that all the gasses—including poisonous ones—stay in the atmosphere.

So, by an extraordinary combination of two circumstances we are able to live on earth; to eat, when we can afford it; to breathe, when some dictator isn't taking our breath away.

As to why Mr. Dietz should describe these circumstances as "fortunate," he will have to explain himself and in his own way.

The Fight on Burke.

A movement is on foot within the Nebraska Federation of Labor to defeat Senator Burke in the next democratic primary. In that contest the fight is between Burke and Gov. Cochran. The reason for opposition to Senator Burke is his insistence that the Wagner labor act be amended. He has been active in an effort to interest congress in amending that law.

Nebraska democrats will of course realize that special interests are involved in this attack on the senator. Labor was given a great deal of support in its fight for better working conditions and higher pay by the Wagner act. That law was revolutionary in its changes made on the American labor front.

Every interest that can be arrayed against Senator Burke in the Nebraska primary will be employed. Political opposition will be emphasized. Burke is not in high favor with the administration, and he was marked for the purge long ago by new dealers. Labor has been trying to interest agriculture in its contest with industry.

NEWS PROBLEM

American news agencies are undoubtedly the most dependable in the world, and in handling war news they will take every precaution to avoid deceiving the public. But they can be misled by the nations at war, and they often are.

Lest We Forget.

In 1917 and 1918 superpatriotism was to blame for mistakes the American people ought now to make up their minds not to repeat if ever again the United States becomes involved in a war with a foreign nation.

Normally the American people stand for the square deal and try to practice it. But during the World War many of them lost their perspective and in the name of loyalty to country were guilty of actions which in soberer moments they became ashamed.

They realized such actions had made them far more culpable than fellow citizens (in many cases next door neighbors) they had taken it upon themselves to discipline and discredit for no greater crime than that they or their ancestors had happened to be born in a country at war with the United States.

Of all who had part in the banning of foreign speech, the burning of German language books, the painting of vicious signs (generally in yellow) on homes and places of business of citizens of German descent and the thumbscrewing of German-American citizens to compel them to purchase government bonds or make donations to the Red Cross, few look back on their so-called patriotic service along such lines with any degree of satisfaction.

For disloyalty in slightest measure, no matter the place of one's birth or that of his parents, there can be no word of excuse or palliation, but there is considerable room for sympathy for citizens whom the fates of war force between the upper and the nether millstones of love for fatherland and loyalty to country of adoption.

To the everlasting credit of our citizenship of German descent, let it be recorded that in 1917 and 1918 its choice, generally speaking, was loyalty to the United States. And doubtless it would make the same choice if put to the same test at the present time.

By the same token, should the rest of the American people be confronted by a situation similar to that of 1917 and 1918, may they profit by experience and this time disclaim any brand of superpatriotism that works injustice on fellow Americans.

John Dierks, 78, of Randolph, died Monday of last week.

THE PRESIDENCY.

On the president's plea that, viewing the war abroad, "partisanship and selfishness be adjourned," Mark Sullivan comments in effect that unity in regard to foreign affairs and unity in handling local policies are markedly different. Looking for precedents, Sullivan finds no exact parallel to the present situation. Wilson was serving his first term when the World War broke out, and he was renominated, and largely on the slogan, "He Kept Us Out of War," he was reelected by a narrow margin.

CORNHUSKINGS

Nebraska has about 35,840 acres of badlands containing practically no soil, about 649,600 acres of rough, stony land with little or no soil, approximately 1,606,400 acres of thin, droughty soil located on table lands where it is difficult to hold moisture, and about 2,732,800 acres of canyon areas too rough for cultivation.

Some 660 students at the University of Nebraska will receive NYA employment this school year. The sum allotted the university totals more than $76,000, or $8,475 for each of the nine months of school as compared with $8,370 per month last year.

Nebraska has become irrigation minded, according to the University of Nebraska conservation and survey division. A total of 800,000 acres are now being irrigated from canals with water diverted from streams; by pumping from ground water and streams, more than 60,000 acres; by spraying from rural and municipal water supplies, about 40,000 acres; and by sub-irrigation from ground water, 1,800,000 acres, making a total by surface irrigation and sub-irrigation of about 2,200,000 acres, or 4 per cent of the area of the state.

Of the six leading sugar producing states from 1923 to 1932, Nebraska ranked first in yield per acre with an output of 12.3 tons; second in tonnage, which totaled 932,000 pounds; and third in acreage, with a total of 74,000 acres in cultivation, says Dr. Esther S. Dr. B. L. Hooper, new dean of the college of dentistry of the University of Nebraska, is a first rate inventor as well as a nationally recognized authority in the field of prosthetic dentistry. Among his several ingenious mechanical devices are an electric ice cream freezer which chips the ice and turns the freezer, a mechanical chicken feeder which weighs the mash, distributes it and automatically calls the chickens; an instrument for duplicating dentures; an electric casting machine and a now widely used device for measuring facial dimensions, which insures more natural position of artificial teeth.

Nebraska needs approximately 10 times the number of trees that were growing in the state in 1930 if the land is to be properly protected from erosion and its moisture is to be saved from evaporation, according to estimates of University of Nebraska conservationists. To do the job right, it has been suggested that 50 million trees be planted in the state each year.

Now that a new transportable container for preserving semen of bulls has been perfected, services of the nation's finest bulls can be brought into the barnyards of nearly every dairyman, regardless of how remote he may be from cattle centers, according to Prof. H. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pickett returned home Saturday evening from Colorado where they had spent their vacation. In Fort Collins, they visited Mrs. Pickett's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Thomas. They took a three-day trip to Denver, Colorado Springs, Manitou, Garden of Gods and Canon City. They saw the highest extension bridge in the world over the Royal Gorge. It was a very beautiful and impressive sight to see the bridge suspended 1,600 feet over the gorge. The railroad at the bottom and the Arkansas river made it even more beautiful. The train travels 8 miles through a natural tunnel in the gorge. The Picketts took the sky-line drive from the bridge to Canon City. It had a very frightening effect as it was a narrow drive and one could see the valleys below on each side. Apples and pears were growing in abundance in Colorado near Pueblo and Colorado Springs.

WE'RE WORKING FOR YOU!

Yes, even if you don't drink beer, our job concerns you. Why? Because the brewing industry is one of the state's major taxpayers, because its payroll support over 3,000 Nebraskans, because through purchases and operating expenses the breweries stimulate every Nebraska business, either directly or indirectly.

Help protect the beer industry! We are assisting law enforcement officials with our good conduct program. YOU can do your part by reporting disorderly taverns and by patronizing only reputable dealers. The brewers, beer distributors and beer retailers ask your co-operation!

Food Prices And Profits

A Statement of Safeway Policy

THE FORCES of market disturbance, fear, and speculation, are at work. Prices for some basic commodities have already gone up. Increases in Safeway's retail prices on these items reflect the rise in wholesale cost, over which Safeway has no control.

It is a fundamental Safeway policy to earn only a small profit on each sale. Safeway pledges that during the period of war emergency it will not change this policy; and that in the future, as heretofore, it will make every effort through improved methods to reduce distribution cost—the difference between what the farmer gets and the consumer pays. You will always be able to buy from Safeway at the lowest prices available anywhere.

Consumers may assist materially in preventing unwarranted price increases by continuing their purchases on a normal scale. There are adequate supplies of food stuffs for every American. Hysterical buying which strips retail and wholesale stocks creates artificial scarcity, which pushes prices to abnormal levels.

Machinery exists within the government to control production, storage and release of commodities, imports, exports, quotas and prices — if it should become necessary to employ these methods to protect the economic welfare of the country.

Safeway further pledges complete cooperation with the governmental agencies and with farmer producers in all efforts to stabilize prices; discourage profiteering; and maintain orderly facilities for food distribution.

Nebraska Children's Home Society Served 350 Children During 1938

The Nebraska Children's Home Society which was founded in 1893 for the care and placement of normal children is non-sectarian, serves all of Nebraska and Nebraska only. Its services cover aid to unmarried mothers, placement of babies and older children for adoption, placement in boarding homes, free homes, work homes and temporary study service in the Receiving Home. A large number of children are given temporary care, and special efforts are made to find free homes for older children. Homes for teen age children are badly needed.

Since its founding in 1893 the society has cared for more than 21,000 children. This great work is made possible only by voluntary donations. Mr. Ike will be in Wayne next week for the annual solicitation of donations.

Recipes

Oyster Cocktail.

24 small oysters, less if large
6 tablespoons tomato catsup
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 drops tabasco sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons grated horseradish
Mix all the ingredients except the oysters. Chill. Place the oysters in cocktail glasses and set on ice. Add the sauce just before serving. Allow 5 to 6 oysters to a serving.

Scalloped Oysters.

Clean and drain the oysters. Put in a layer in an oiled baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Add a layer of cracker crumbs and dot with bits of butter. Repeat until all are used, making the last a layer of crumbs. Add milk to moisten well. Bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes.

Fried Fresh Oysters.

3 dozen oysters
1 cup fine bread crumbs or cracker crumbs or corn meal
1 tablespoon salt
pepper
2 eggs
1 tablespoon water
Drain oysters and dry between towels. Dip in seasoned crumbs then in egg diluted with water and then in crumbs again. Fry in deep fat until golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve with sauce or catsup.

Creamed Oysters.

Make a thin cream sauce using some of the oyster liquor which has been scalded and strained in place of the milk or cream as in an ordinary cream sauce. Add oysters to the sauce and cook only until the edges curl.

Boiled Tongue.

1 tongue
4 cloves
4 pepper corns
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Wipe the tongue and place in boiling water to cover. Add the seasonings, boil 10 minutes, then simmer until tender—3 to 4 hours. Partially cool in the liquid, then remove tongue, and take off the skin and the roots, getting it into neat shape for serving.

Stuffed Breast of Veal.

Six pound breast of veal with a large pocket in it. Wipe with a damp cloth. Dredge with flour.

Spanish Eggs.

Use individual servings for these eggs. Place a circular piece of toast on a hot individual dish that will stand being placed in the oven. Place a well-drained poached egg in the center of each piece of toast and pour over it the following sauce:
Brown 1/4 cup butter, add 3/4 cup thick tomato puree, 1 1/2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, few grains cayenne pepper, mixed with 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard. Heat to boiling point and put the desired amount over each egg. Put in the oven for 2 minutes and serve sizzling hot.

Plain Omelet and Bacon.

Use 2 tablespoons hot milk and 1/2 teaspoon salt to each egg. Beat together lightly with Dover egg beater. For 5 eggs use 2 tablespoons salad oil or bacon drippings in an iron frying pan which should be hot enough to smoke a little. Put in eggs and turn light very low. Lift eggs with spatula as they cook—allow to set a little. Fold over and turn crisp bacon curls and garnish with parsley.

Pigs in Blankets.

Clean and dry large, fresh oysters. Season with salt and pepper. Roll thin strips of fat bacon around each. Skewer with a tooth pick. Panbroil long enough to crisp the bacon. Remove the skewer. Serve on small pieces of toast garnished with parsley.

Brown Meat Stew with Dumplings.

2 1/2 pounds of shoulder of beef or other tough cut including some fat and bone.
2 cups diced carrots.
1/3 cup carrots cut in 1/2-inch cubes.
1/3 cup turnips cut in 1/2-inch cubes.
1/2 cup sliced onion.
Salt.
Flour.
Pepper.
Wipe the meat, remove the lean and cut into 1/2 inch cubes. Season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Brown in hot fat. Put into a kettle, rinse the frying pan with boiling water and add to the meat that none of the juices may be lost. Add the fat and bone; cover with boiling wa-

War News.

(Lincoln Journal)
The world is being fed the sort of war news that the warring nations desire published—and nothing more. An illustration of that is shown in dispatches from the Polish war front.
First we were told that Germany was closing in on Warsaw. That probably was true. Then the Germans had entered Warsaw. That may have been partly true. Later dispatches from both sides would indicate that they did obtain a foothold in the outer edges of the city. Then the Polish army was hopelessly trapped. Capture of the entire city would be a matter of hours—short hours at that. An entire Polish division would be taken along with the city. Much of this was denied by the Poles but their frantic pleas for the Poles to fight did not lead color to all of the denials made of German reports.
Days later the Poles were still fighting desperately. Then the trapped men turned on the aggressors and a rout seems to have followed. In any event, if reports from both sides can be accepted, the Germans withdrew from the city. The Polish army had taken the aggressive and it was necessary for their enemies to change plans for capture. But, of course, the Germans have not given up the fight for Warsaw.
These are fair samples of reports from everywhere. When the Athenians were sunk the Germans denied that they had a submarine in that locality. Reports indicated that the submarine was seen and that it fired shots at the Athenian after that vessel had been torpedoed. These reports came from passengers, but of course they passed through official channels before reaching the American public. Later it was discovered, through further sinkings, that submarines were operating in that part of the Atlantic.
Reports of shipping losses, coming through European news centers, have been slow in reaching the public and much slower in verification. The British had an army in France before the world knew it was there. The French had attacked on the western front long before the world was apprised of that fact. News from German

War, Then and Now.

(Norfolk Daily News)
The veterans of the G. A. R. got a bad news break during their recent national reunion. With events in Europe moving swiftly toward a new World War, the weathered boys of '61 had little chance in the daily press.
But the gathering of the old soldiers did serve to recall to those in middle-life the part the veterans played in molding the thought of youngsters of the '90's. The "camp fire" or "old soldiers' union," as it was called, was an institution in those days. Around the blazing logs Lincoln's soldiers, then in their 50's or 60's, gathered and told stories of army life. Usually the best speaker had a high sense of humor and his address was full of light anecdotes of life in camp and field.
The boy of the '90's, hearing these stories, got the impression that though there was some danger of getting hit by a bullet, or stuck with a bayonet, war was really great fun, and he probably had a wishful longing for a war in which he could experience the thrills, the good fellowship, the pleasures that the vets were always talking about.
Then, too, he could hardly avoid the thought that war was good business for the soldier. For that was the day of the great pension movement in American politics. Every congressman had his private pension bills for favored constituents, and blanket bills were putting on the rolls nearly every one who served on the northern side regardless of the length or value of this service. So besides being great fun, war also gave a man a life annuity from the federal treasury.
Many of these boys were disillusioned when they went to war in 1898 and found there was much to field life besides fun and comradeship. Still more, they had their minds cleared of distorted ideas about war when they saw what their sons went through in 1917 and 1918.
The impressions given by the story tellers of the soldiers' camp fires have been completely obliterated by now. War isn't what it used to be, and it probably never was quite as attractive as the veterans' speakers tried to make out.
We are doing more straight thinking about war now than we ever did, and that may help to keep us out of serious trouble in the next two or three years.

War, Then and Now.

(Norfolk Daily News)
The veterans of the G. A. R. got a bad news break during their recent national reunion. With events in Europe moving swiftly toward a new World War, the weathered boys of '61 had little chance in the daily press.
But the gathering of the old soldiers did serve to recall to those in middle-life the part the veterans played in molding the thought of youngsters of the '90's. The "camp fire" or "old soldiers' union," as it was called, was an institution in those days. Around the blazing logs Lincoln's soldiers, then in their 50's or 60's, gathered and told stories of army life. Usually the best speaker had a high sense of humor and his address was full of light anecdotes of life in camp and field.
The boy of the '90's, hearing these stories, got the impression that though there was some danger of getting hit by a bullet, or stuck with a bayonet, war was really great fun, and he probably had a wishful longing for a war in which he could experience the thrills, the good fellowship, the pleasures that the vets were always talking about.
Then, too, he could hardly avoid the thought that war was good business for the soldier. For that was the day of the great pension movement in American politics. Every congressman had his private pension bills for favored constituents, and blanket bills were putting on the rolls nearly every one who served on the northern side regardless of the length or value of this service. So besides being great fun, war also gave a man a life annuity from the federal treasury.
Many of these boys were disillusioned when they went to war in 1898 and found there was much to field life besides fun and comradeship. Still more, they had their minds cleared of distorted ideas about war when they saw what their sons went through in 1917 and 1918.
The impressions given by the story tellers of the soldiers' camp fires have been completely obliterated by now. War isn't what it used to be, and it probably never was quite as attractive as the veterans' speakers tried to make out.
We are doing more straight thinking about war now than we ever did, and that may help to keep us out of serious trouble in the next two or three years.

Strahan Precinct Is Awarded First Place

Strahan precinct exhibit received first prize at the Wayne county fair last week. Geront Alvin received grand sweepstakes for having the 10 best ears of corn as sample and the best single ear. The judge remarked that it was the best single ear of corn he had seen this year and he had been in Iowa and Minnesota.

Wilbur precinct was judged second. Wilbur had a background scene drawn with chalk. Plum Creek received third. This exhibit had the name "Plum Creek" written in kaffir corn and cane.

Hancock received fourth award, Sherman fifth and Brenna sixth. All of the precincts had nice displays of farm products, artistically arranged.

The points awarded each precinct were: Strahan, 5,153; Wilbur, 3,075; Plum Creek, 4,344; Hancock, 2,101; Sherman, 2,059; Brenna, 1,629.

Wayne Woman Is Honored at Halsey

Wayne Women's club is one of the clubs in the Nebraska Federation which is responsible for honoring a local member at the Memorial Forest two miles west of Halsey, Neb., at a public ceremony Sunday, September 17. The services will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Bessey picnic grounds. Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, past president of the Third district, is the local member honored by the local club dedicating an acre in which 1,000 trees are being planted. A plaque will be placed in the acre with Mrs. Lutgen's activities engraved on it. The Wayne club sponsored this tree planting along with improving rural school grounds.

FIFTYEIGHTH YEAR

To Attend Wayne Teachers College

Several members from the C. C. camp located near Winside, will attend Wayne Teachers college this fall. While it will be impossible for them to take a full course as their camp duties would hardly permit that, but the nature of their duties does make possible the taking of a light course.

Members who will attend, include Assistant Leader Dale Bell, Lincoln, who has attended the State University the past two years; Floyd Bjurstrom, Alma, who attended Kansas State college last year. Other members who will attend the college are Senior Leader Lawrence Butler, Beatrice; Company Clerk Lonnie Swartz, Beatrice; and members, James Garner, Walthill; Donald Boyill, Central City; and Eugene Hartnett, Hubbard.

Senator Edward R. Burke addressed a large crowd at the Cedar county fair last week.

Lester Lutt's Hereford Calf Wins Championship at Fair

Lester Lutt, who has had the grand champion calf for the past three years at the Wayne county fair, again received grand champion calf with a junior Hereford. Don Meyer's was reserve champion with a senior Hereford. Don Meyer's calf took this honor two years ago. The two high in each class competed for champion. Lester's calf is from the Hoffman herd at Winside. He plans to show it at the Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha in October.

Prizes in each class were as follows: Angus, first, Bob Meyer; second, Carl Bierman; third, Dean Meyer; fourth, Dorothy Bierman; fifth, Leland Herman. Others competing were Esther Bierman, Lester Lutt and Gordon Jorgensen. Junior Shorthorn, first, Gordon Jorgensen; second, Leland Herman; third, Marvin Baird; fourth, Dorothy Bierman, fifth, Roland Splitgaber.

Senior Shorthorn, first, Dean Meyer; second, Carl Bierman; third, Muriel Sydow; fourth, Homer Bierman; fifth, Kenneth Baird. Junior Hereford, first, Lester Lutt; second, Twila Herman; third, Muriel Albers; fourth, Wesley Plueger; fifth, Gene Baird. Others competing were Eugene Helgren, Warren Helgren, Jeanne Thompson, Homer Bierman, Woodrow Anderson and Vincent Walters.

Senior Hereford, first, Don Meyer; second, Leland Herman; third, Roland Splitgaber; fourth, Muriel Sydow; fifth, Margaret Anderson. Others competing in this class were Berneal Gustafson, Russell Thompson, Norman Anderson, Harris Plueger and Marvin Baird.

Measurements of Boulder dam are almost too immense for conception. Concrete in the dam, which is 726 feet high, 1,244 feet long at the crest, 45-feet wide at the top and 660 feet thick at the bottom, would have built a walk four feet wide and two and three-fourths inches thick around the world at the equator. Two replicas of the largest pyramid in Egypt could be built with all the material excavated to anchor the sides and base of Boulder dam.

To divert waters of the river while the dam was under construction, men blasted large tunnels through the solid rock. Two of the heavy steel pipes, 50 feet wide, are now spillways. The other two carry water from four intake towers to the generating plant. Each generator is large enough to supply electricity for a city of 500,000. By 1941 ten of these will be operating and five for power required. The power capacity is more than the combined capacity of Niagara falls, Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals and the great Russian dam.

Lake Mead, created by the dam, is now 115 miles long. All the battleships in the American, English, French, Japanese and Italian navies could ride at anchor 100 feet apart in the lower basin of the man-made lake which was named for Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation from 1924 to 1936.

The unequalled engineering achievement—the dam construction—was accomplished in five years. The cost was 120 millions. It is expected that the cost will be repaid in 50 years.

Belonging to the government, the dam is guarded continuously. Boulder City, a few miles from the site, is the residence of these officials and for workers.

Associate Editor Sees Pacific Southwest

After leaving the entrancing city of Salt Lake, riding for many miles around west Salt Lake with its mountainous islands rising out of the great expanse of blue water surrounded with glistening white salt flats, one travels for hours through desert waste. An occasional small hut injects life into the barren expanse. After a day of such sights one arrives at an oasis—the city of Las Vegas, Nev., and arriving at night in that city of 10,000 is a special treat, for one is greeted with a brilliance greater than that found in any other place of equal size in the world. Looking from the Spanish-style depot up main street, the visitor is greeted with hundreds of moving neon signs in brilliant reds, blues, yellows and greens. Spanish architecture prevails in the business houses and homes which are up-to-the-minute in every way.

A touch of the colorful old west is added by occasional Spanish and cowboy visitors, sometimes on their mountain burros. Also reminding one of earlier days are the numerous gambling places. Gambling is legalized in Nevada and the gambling houses are elaborate. Men and women of all types are seen there—dudes to paupers—and the women are said to be the most reckless in the games of chance. Huge buildings elaborately furnished with many varieties of gambling by means of roulette wheels, dice and slot machines are crowded all day and night. It is impossible to beat the machines. As one watches those trying to win, he cannot help but feel terribly sorry for the families whose heads are sure to lose money that should go into food and clothing.

Courtesy and friendliness, typical of the west, are noted by the visitor in Las Vegas. That city has no traffic signals. Car drivers show every courtesy to pedestrians and let them cross streets always first.

Boulder dam, about 20 miles from Las Vegas, is one of man's greatest engineering feats. The world's highest dam, built between the Nevada and Arizona walls of Black canyon, creates the world's largest reservoir and provides the world's largest power plant. Water for supply of cities, also for irrigation and power for a large area are provided.

Long Beach has restricted the oil drilling area so as to protect property owners and prevent what happened in Huntington Beach and points where the city had to abandon its site and move because derricks replaced it.

More of California's underground wealth comes from gold mined in the hills. A visit to one of these mines makes one realize the urge that led the "fortyniners" on their trek westward to find the gold in "them star hills." And this industry reminds one of middle western farming for it is adding new wealth to the world supply.

A 70-mile drive from Long Beach to the desert and mountains takes one to Ida Leona gold mine. This is about seven miles out of Perris near which is the government airplane field providing protection to southern California harbors. The history of Ida Leona mine reads like a story. An early prospector "panned" for gold on the site years ago. He knew the precious metal was there and staked out his claim, gaining title by complying with federal regulations. Something happened—as it so often does—to keep the owner from operating the mine. About eight years ago Mr. Nelson realized the possibilities in the gold field and bought 40 acres for his two sons, Frank and Edward. The sons began working the mine and progress has followed. Hand panning has been replaced by Deisel-operated machinery and the crew has grown to 16 working in Las Vegas, the latter a sister of F. W. Nyberg, were cordial hosts in that region.

After a night ride through desert country west of Las Vegas, morning finds the train winding through fertile, level valleys edged with picturesque mountains. Orange and walnut groves, also occasional olive groves, are as precisely check-rowed as Nebraska corn. Orange trees are small and bushy with golden fruit showing among the rich green leaves. Walnut trees are larger but very clean, their bark and leaves being as neat as the shelled fruit dotting the branches in abundance. Also in the valleys one sees trim vines hanging heavy with grapes—blue, red and white—also numerous varieties of vegetables in large acreages. A typical sight is such a valley flanked on one side by massive mountains and on the other by the blue Pacific splashing into white breakers on the sandy beach.

Such fertility and beauty with balmy weather and rich oil fields below ground, one realized that California has three-true advantages—climate, crops, oil.

Oil drilling would seem to be only in its beginning when one learns that the richest wells being "brought in" are in the ocean. One of the biggest and most productive fields is Signal hill on the slope rising above the beautiful seashore city of Long Beach. Derricks dot the hill as close together as they could be placed. On the very top of the hill is the smallest oil lease in the world. On an oblong piece of ground between paved roadways rises this one derrick. The space measures about 150 feet on the four sides. This and most of the other wells are pumped continually. Others are flowing wells and need no pumping. The steel rigging capping the wells—resembling a fancy water pump—is called a Christmas tree.

The well on the smallest lease is 2,500 feet deep and produces 30 barrels a day. Many wells are 3,000 to 5,000 feet deep. It has been found that oil beds lie between seven different sands in that region and the layers of sand vary from 500 to 1,000 feet. The oil flow is tapped at different levels to get the richest flow. Near Long Beach one sees a well with two pumps not over five feet apart on one derrick, these taking oil from two different levels. The cost of sinking one well is usually about $50,000. Seeing the hillside or seashore fields dotted with hundreds of derricks makes one realize the wealth tied up in the oil industry as well as the vast riches flowing from beneath the ground. The royalty of one field at Wilmington is a million a day. But this industry also has its "downs" and a loss in it is a real breaking.

Long Beach has restricted the oil drilling area so as to protect property owners and prevent what happened in Huntington Beach and points where the city had to abandon its site and move because derricks replaced it.

The sight of many navy men and of Japs and other foreigners in southern California brings closer the war situation. There one sees huge piles of scrap iron ready to be sent to Japan. For a time these piles were picketed by Chinese and shipping stopped temporarily.

The racial question bobs up again in the gardening industry. It is acknowledged that the Japs are the best gardeners and do much work for little pay. Those of the yellow race born abroad are not allowed to own property in this country, but their children are American citizens and cannot be kept from ownership. They are acquiring land and this may be a future problem.

Japs are the principal ones who operate stands at the Long Beach municipal market Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Small spaces around a downtown park are leased.

The club was awarded second place. "Happy Go Lucky" club received third place with a chart of styles old and new. The theme was "Styles may change but never does sewing."

Tasty Cooks' exhibit of a neatly laid table received fourth place.

Pleasant Valley club had an exhibit of a blue and white dressing table and chair.

ed for the market. Before daylight trucks take their places, light stands are put up and wares are ready for sale. Vegetables, fruits, meat, flowers and other articles are for sale until noon when all the stalls are removed.

Typical of American democracy is the "university by the sea" or "spit and argue" club of Long Beach. When new Rainbow pier was built, a platform was extended from this over the ocean. There all day long people gather to hear discussion of popular subjects, politics, religion, "ham and eggs," etc. ("Ham and eggs" is the new California proposal to provide every person over 50 years of age with scrip worth $30 each Thursday, this to be spent in the "spend to prosperity" plan.) Anyone may speak in the forum which is conducted according to regular rules of order.

Another big occasion was the all states picnic planned for Saturday, September 9. That date, anniversary of California statehood, was a holiday in that state. Huge recreation park in Long Beach was blocked out with states in their natural locations. Groups gathered in their native states for the world's largest picnic.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Fisher of Long Beach, were delightful hosts. Dr. Fisher attended the Lutheran academy in Wayne in 1887. After finishing medical college he spent a year at Ponca. Baseball was his sport interest in early days. He recalls that when Wakefield held a fair in 1892 the Ponca team hired him to pitch. Ponca defeated Coleridge in the first round and he carried $10 of the $50 purse. Then Ponca met Wakefield and won. Dr. Fisher earning $20 of the purse. When persuaded to play ball he was leaving Ponca for Ohio where he practiced at Portage until he retired and went to Long Beach. Now he and Mrs. Fisher are ardent boosters for Long Beach and a visitor realizes they can support their enthusiasm with facts. The Fishers enabled us to visit Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Fisher and W. M. Wheeler in Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Ingham in Alhambra. Mr. Wheeler is another early settler in Nebraska. He edited the Wakefield paper at one time. The Inghams are former Wayne folks and are nicely located in the west. Another former Wayne man met by chance in Los Angeles depot is E. W. Smith who sends greetings to friends.

Czechoslovakia Is Kiwanis Subject

Unhappy Country Discussed By Miss Vera Kalal, College Student

Miss Vera Kalal, Schuyler student in the Wayne State Teachers college, and who with her mother visited Czechoslovakia a year ago, was introduced by Prof. A. V. Teed and spoke to Kiwanians following their noonday luncheon at Hotel Stratton Monday. Miss Kalal referred to Czechoslovakia as peace-loving people who had been made unhappy by the Hitler invasion and the failure of England and France to come to the rescue. Czechoslovakia is called the treasure chest of Europe because of rich resources. Russia failed to keep its promise that it would take a German city for every Czech city taken by Hitler. Czech people were stunned when their government surrendered to Hitler in September.

Miss Kalal says she was advised by the American consul to leave the country, and she did so in the face of many difficulties. The pitiful plight of refugees was emphasized.

Miss Kalal says Czechoslovakia is a "small country that has been shipwrecked on the sea of international diplomacy."

The Kiwanis club agreed to sponsor presentation of "The Bad Man," by local talent, in the city auditorium Friday evening of this week for the benefit of the city library.

H. E. Sيمان was made responsible for next week's program, and A. V. Teed is to lead in giving Constitution week a proper send-off.

Project Clubs Show Exhibits

The project clubs, although they received no awards, had fine exhibits at the Wayne county fair last week. Clubs having exhibits were: Progressive Homemakers, Happy Workers, Rural Home Society, Wilbur Project, the Highland Women's club, B. C. club and the NU club.

Showing contrast between the appearance of a home with a neat yard and one that is not landscaped was done by the Progressive Homemakers' club, with an effective result. Happy Workers showed steps in tying Christmas packages. Similar to this was the exhibit by the Rural Home society showing the method of packing and wrapping candy for gifts.

Wilbur club showed a cleverly arranged reading project, "Around the World With Books." Highland club had an exhibit of company dinner table with prizes. B. C. and NU had similar exhibits of placards and table decorations for each month throughout the year.

In Local Hospital. Miss Elsie Warnock entered a local hospital last Wednesday for medical care.

Early Days In Wayne County

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for September 13, 1923:

'Round About This Funny World

A Navajo Indian is giving the social security officials the jitters. The man uses one name until he hears another. He likes better. Records show he has used 15 recently.

Harold Lloyd of Philadelphia caught a three and one-half pound flounder at Wildwood, N. J., and stuck to the scales was the label of the International Tobacco Workers' union, A. F. of L.

Tennessee players, presenting "Julius Caesar," made the play so real that the man playing the part of Caesar was actually stabbed by the portrayer of Brutus and several stitches were required to close the wound.

Friends at Hamilton, Mont., worried because Mrs. Mary Jane Patterson, 93, didn't appear at a party for the community's elderly women. They learned she was busy getting a license to marry J. W. Hayden, 72, of a nearby town.

Jokes concerning an expectant father are not funny to Lawrence Schoner of Omaha. As the man waited in a hospital corridor he fainted and was cut and bruised on the concrete floor. His wife and husky baby girl are doing fine.

Mrs. J. F. Little's young daughter was helping with the dishes in their Kannahs, N. C., home. "Peep, peep," she heard. Looking into a large bowl where the eggs were kept, the little girl found an infant chick, still damp but chirping cheerfully.

County jail prisoners at Logan, W. Va., have plenty of time on their hands, but they still like to watch it pass. So they wrote the editor of the Logan Banner, complaining the town clock hadn't been running for two weeks. The editor promised prompt action.

A man who stole a hog from his brother at Green Bay, Wis., heard this from Municipal Judge N. J. Monahan: "When a farmer has fed a hog morning, noon and night for months, only to have some loafer come along and steal it when it's nice and fat and juicy—one year in the reformatory."

For two hours Walter Jenkins tried frantically to halt motorists in California but none stopped. Every few minutes the elderly man ran to a nearby creek for water with which to revive his wife, stricken with a heart attack when a tire blew out. Then the old man stopped going for water and stopped trying to halt motorists. His wife had died.

Ernest Hall, 10-year-old Greenville, S. C., lad, got a death grip on a rafter when he fell into an elevator shaft while playing in a vacant building. He was found, dead, hanging by his elbows from the rafter. His physician said the boy had held himself so tightly against the rafter that the fourth left rib was pressed against his heart, causing it to stop.

Al Eggers of New Ulm, Minn., always liked baseball, but he's a redhot fan since the day he hicoughed all day long. Friends slapped his back, scared the daylight out of him, had him hold his breath, etc., but no dice. Finally he went to the ball game. There was a thrilling play and when Al relaxed the hicoughs were gone.

The pride Michael Bayron, 40, of New York City had in the fighting prowess of his two sons cost him his life. Bayron, a mechanic, was extolling merits of his sons, Peter, junior welter-weight champion of the Police Athletic league, and Charles, the bantam champion. A crowd gathered, among them one man who started to jeer. An altercation between Bayron and the man followed. The scoffer attacked Bayron with a knife and fled. Bayron died from a wound in the heart.

Millard Glowacki of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., has offered to pay the school board 27 cents for every ton of coal it allows him to haul to the schools. With eight thousand tons needed, that means more than two thousand dollars. Here's the reason: Two companies are competing for the coal contract. One underbid the other 25 cents a ton. Glowacki, hauling for the higher bidder, then made his offer, giving his boss a 2-cent advantage. The school board is inclined to accept his proposal.

John Maxfield, Wichita, Kan., war veteran, was bitten by a black widow spider last spring, entered the veterans' hospital for treatment. He told attendants he and his wife separated nearly 15 years ago, Mrs. Maxfield keeping their baby son, Robert. He had heard
