

Christmas Spirit of Good Will as Antidote to War Miasma—College Attendance Grows—At New York Fair—Not Licensed to Destroy—Way to Insure Peace up to Congress.

Christmas is not far off. With nations abroad torn by war, we in this country have enlarged reason to reemphasize the spirit of good will to which Christian people everywhere cling with renewed resolution. We may not have the material abundance that a more favorable growing season would have insured, but we do have spiritual freedom as well as comparative personal security, and we can do that sound basis to much with little in spreading content and hope. We can hold aloft the banner of liberty and sympathetic fellowship—tragically lacking in parts of the world at this time. We can talk peace and preserve peace as an example to lands where unskilled Mars presides over mutual human slaughter.

Locally, the spirit of Christmas should move early to enrich good feeling. Holiday festivities should be planned early not only to make Wayne the trade magnet for an enlarged area—merchandising headquarters for more shoppers—but to emphasize high and radiate everywhere the underlying intent of the season. The Business Men's club which has had charge of pre-Christmas activities for several years, may be expected to come forward in due time with new and elaborated plans. An appropriate program to center thought on the purpose of the season as well as to awaken interest in Wayne is more important at a time when practice of great inimicities terrorizes less fortunate sections of the world.

Comparative Enrollment. We do not wish to boast, but since Kearney state teachers college is inclined to protrude its chest when any conceivable reason exists for doing so, we may be pardoned for comparing the present enrollment of 939 in the Wayne college with that of 780 in the Kearney institution. This attendance which does not include the training school, is the largest fall term enrollment on record here, surpassing that of last year by twenty per cent.

Russia's Busy Propaganda. While visiting the Russian exhibit at the New York fair recently, Will Crossland of Wayne, brought a copy of Russia's constitution, well bound in a little book. The document, printed in English and circulated in this country for obvious reasons, reflects a strong Christian tone—the people apparently guaranteed every privilege that could be desired. Election, are secret and free, according to the constitution. Everybody has a right to work and to enjoy the fruits of what is earned. Women share with men in opportunities for both work and education. Everybody is insured the right to plenty of food.

But above the constitution understanding people see the mailed fist of Dictator Stalin. It is remembered that he arbitrarily appropriated to the state the earnings of the peasants and sent to cruel concentration camps any who breathed dissent. It is remembered that many out of step were ruthlessly shot. Freedom of religion guaranteed by the constitution is mocked by stifles of violence to the church. The constitution is evidently a pretense which the ruler of the soviet union snags aside indifferently if it interferes with his plan. Lack of liberty—after suppression of the individual—known to be the rule in Russia, makes its constitution—evidently a propaganda document—presume too much on American credulity. According to the evidence of the years, under dunningly fashioned veneer, rankles conscienceless brute force.

As to Free Speech. Some one contributes this, suggestive query: "Strange isn't it how the United States constitution guarantees free speech to those who preach doctrines which deny it? Personal liberty under the constitution does not mean that one may injure another or damage another's property. It is not reasonable that the constitution intends to protect those who would destroy such protection. Liberty of speech cannot reasonably guarantee license to tear down such liberty."

One Purpose in Mind. There is no disagreement in this country over the question of keeping out of the European war, but there is sharp disagreement over the way to do it. Able men agree over the law covering relationship with belligerents. Some contend the cash and carry system open to all countries, would keep us out of trouble. Others, equally in earnest, think the present neutrality law would preserve our peace. Differences of opinion will be thrashed out and settled by the extra session of congress which opens today.

Col. Lindbergh's radio talk was a strong appeal for non-interference. He urged that America (Continued on Page Four.)

Award Contract For Power Line To Substation

Wayne County District Will Serve Dixon and Thurston Territories with Energy.

The Loup River Public Power district last Thursday awarded contract to Humphreys and Thompson of Omaha, for construction of 15 miles of 69,000-volt transmission line from Norfolk to Winside and for the erection of an outdoor substation near Winside.

The substation will serve the Wayne county and northeast Nebraska public power districts. It will be located on the Hans Petersen farm one mile north and two and a half west of Winside.

Wire stringing on the first section of rural electrification line will be completed within the next week, and the hanging of transformers is progressing rapidly.

Staking was commenced Tuesday morning on a 33-mile addition to the first section. These lines are being built in Plum Creek and Leslie precincts with funds left over from the first allotment.

A large map is being kept in the REA office on which each customer is being given a large red star when his premises are completely wired.

A special meeting of the board of directors was held Tuesday evening to consider a wholesale energy contract under which the Wayne county district will supply the Dixon and Thurston county project with energy.

The budget has been set up and specifications are being made for the second allotment. The first step prior to the construction of the second section will be the securing of bond bids wiring contracts from each of the signed customers along the proposed line. This is to assure the district and REA that the farmers living on the proposed line will be ready to receive service as soon as the lines are built and energized.

As soon as the survey of wiring contracts is completed the location of corners and staking of lines for construction will commence.

SCHOOLS AND 4-H MEMBERS PLAN FOR FAIR DURING YEAR

THE SCHOOLS make the county fair a continuous performance. Under Superintendent F. B. Decker's inspiration, they have already commenced preparing for next year's exhibits. Keeping students interested in the annual showing stimulates the cause of education. Thus, with the schools the fair is in progress all the time with a suitable climax at the September exhibition. Four-H clubs plan ahead in about the same way. They no sooner see their exhibits on parade and disposed of than they begin figuring out their next year's work preliminary to their next year's fair entries. Members have learned by experience to do better. Every year they turn to their tasks with new determination to improve their products. The result is a better knowledge of live stock and more successful live stock growing.

Remodeling Is Nearly Complete On Second Floor

Expect to Finish Entire School Project Here In November.

With some exceptions, most facilities on the second floor of the remodeled Wayne high school were ready this morning for the opening of high school classes. The final coat will have to wait a week-end or other letup in high school classes.

Most of the plumbing is installed and in working order on the second floor, but faucets for the wash basins, due sometime this week, had not arrived by Wednesday afternoon. Fay L. Deines, plumbing-heating contractor, said it would be two or three weeks before heat would be available from the new heating plant. Light bulbs for the old building had not yet arrived.

Work is progressing nicely on the project as a whole, according to Dan Farrell, jr., resident engineer. He estimated that the first floor would be ready for limited use early next week and that the entire project would be completed by November 16. The stipulated PWA completion date is November 21.

INNUMERABLE BUGS LAND IN BUSINESS CENTER SATURDAY

AN INNUMERABLE host of bugs descended on Wayne Saturday night while the business district was congested by tarrying shoppers. The bugs, lifting themselves into the air somewhere, and flying with the wind, were evidently attracted by Wayne's lights, and decided to land and look around. The number caught under tramping feet and swept, dead, into gutters the next morning would indicate the journeying horde did not go any farther than here. Dr. R. R. Stuart of the science department at the college, says they are squash bugs, common throughout North America. The adult bug that manages to survive the winter, lays eggs on squash, pumpkin or melon vines, and when the little bugs are hatched, they proceed to eat their native quarters. They destroy or seriously injure such plant life. What they don't devour, they hurt with an organism with which they are equipped. The young bugs are pale green and the adults are grayish brown. Dr. Stuart says the way to make things unattractive to bugs is to clean up premises and burn refuse after harvest. He advises that young plants may be protected in the spring by net-covered frames.

Six Norfolks In Car Accident

Young Men Are Hurt When Car Goes into Ditch Near Carroll.

Returning to Norfolk about 10 o'clock Monday evening after playing kitchball at Carroll, six young men from Norfolk sustained injuries when their car plunged off a road four miles southeast of Carroll, landed in a creek bed and came to a stop on an embankment. The five were able to go home from a Norfolk hospital where they were treated. Levertt Ennis was in the hospital longer for observation.

Fauss' car, as it approached a bridge, struck a depression in the road, causing it to swerve. One of the other young men grabbed the steering wheel, causing Fauss to lose control of the machine. The car plunged down the embankment before it reached the bridge. The machine was considerably damaged.

Others of the team, who were close behind, and E. R. Jamey, Norfolk, assisted the injured men. The car was towed to Norfolk. The Norfolk team lost its game to Carroll by 20 to 4.

Tentative Lineup Picked for Game

Large Crowd Is Expected For Football Contest With Morningside.

Coach Jim Morrison has announced a tentative lineup for Wayne's opening football game with the strong Morningside eleven. In drills the past week Morrison has had Virgil "Joe" Lindahl, Tilden, and Dick Peterson, Norfolk, at ends. Allan Mitchell, Rogers, and Lyle Mullens, Cedar Rapids, will hold down the tackle posts, while Ted Farnier, Stuart, Bernard Splichal, Correctionville, Ia., will be at guards. The center job will be taken care of by either Fay Webb, Madison, or Al Killian, Wakefield. In the backfield Morrison will call upon Fred Murray, Essex, Ia., and Bob Garvin, Hartington, at the half back positions. Quil Fox, Randolph, will be at quarterback, and Dan Hungerford, Stuart, will start at fullback. Chuck Wehrer, Norfolk, another backfield regular, will probably not see action this first game because of a badly twisted knee.

The Morningside eleven will outweigh the Wildcat team about 10 pounds to the man, the Wayne eleven averaging about 168 while the visitors will tip the scale at 178 or 180. The visiting school will bring along its school band together with about 250 student followers. Together with the great many tickets sold here by Wayne merchants a record-breaking crowd is anticipated.

The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock Thursday evening the Wayne College Pep club is staging a giant pep rally and snake dance down town to be followed by talks by the coach and members of the Wayne team.

New Type Game Will Be Played

Develop Six-Man Football Team for College High This Season.

Six-man football is a new type of outdoor game being developed for smaller schools and for elimination of many dangers in regular football. Four years ago 20 teams were playing the game and now 3,000 are using it. This type of football will be first demonstrated in Wayne Friday afternoon, September 29, when Dakota City and Wayne college high meet at the college field here.

Coach M. C. Bloss thinks the public will like this new style as it is fast with lots of passes, kicks and punts. The game is much like outdoor basketball, and it is likely that in another year a ball similar to a football will be used.

The Northeastern Nebraska Six-Man football conference was formed in Coleridge Monday evening with a series of games scheduled. Coleridge, Wausa, Newcastle and Wayne college high are members. Supt. Letters from Home.

(Edgar Howard in Columbus Telegram)

Yesterday I encountered in the "safety box" department of the Central National bank a friend who carried a package, bound with tri-colored ribbon. After depositing the package in his "safety" box my friend said: "That package did not contain valuable stocks and bonds, and yet it is the most valuable thing in my box in the bank vault. It consists of many letters which my father wrote to me during my college days. When those letters came to me I did not prize them overly. Of course I was glad to hear from dad, who never neglected to enclose a little check. Always his letters were filled with advice and admonition. I didn't pay much attention to his advice at the time, but now, after I've had away on his final journey, I have been looking over those letters. Money could not buy them." And now a bit of my own advice to the boys and girls who are leaving home for a new life in college or university. You will receive many letters from father and mother. Do not destroy such letters. Save them. Yes, you will be glad to get the home news from father and mother, but perhaps you will laugh a little at the advice and admonition of parents whom you thoughtlessly regard as old-fashioned, and you will half way resent the way father or mother seems to regard you as a little child, well knowing that you are big and strong enough to get a place on your college football squad, or in a place of leadership among your sister freshmen in the sorority to which you have been pledged. One of my own great regrets of today is my failure to preserve the letters which father and mother wrote to me in the days of budding manhood. I write now in the hope that many of my boy and girl friends just entering college life may not commit the same grievous error which I committed in failing to preserve the wonderful letters from father and mother.

A Year in England

A winter teaching in a foreign school and vacations spent traveling provided an interesting year for Dr. Mary T. Honey, who returned recently after spending the past year in England as an exchange instructor with Miss Kathleen Staines of England who taught at Wayne State Teachers college.

Dr. Honey left last August and spent two weeks in Ireland and one in Wales before school started in Casterton school West Moorland. The school is located about 20 miles from Lancaster in the Fells region. The term was divided into three periods from September 21 to July 25 with a month's vacation at Christmas and again at Easter.

At the close of the first term Dr. Honey visited an old cathedral at York and heard the Arch Bishop of York give a talk. At the close of the second period she visited Mr. and Mrs. Ellis at Huddersfield. Mrs. Ellis is the former Miss Doris Palmer, who taught here two years ago. Mrs. Ellis is teaching in a commercial school. At the third term she went to Allemen.

During Christmas vacation Dr. Honey visited at Kent with one of the teachers from Casterton school. From there she went to France where she met a teacher from a normal school at New York who was studying at Geneva. They visited the old Roman section in France and attended an opera at Marseilles New Year's eve.

Dr. Honey went to north Africa where she visited at Algiers. She traveled 100 miles west to see two old Roman ruins and visited the lesser Atlas mountains where monkeys are wild. It was like occasionally one could see them along the side of the shelters.

Dr. Honey went to Colchester, the home of "Old King Cole," which is also an old Roman town. She visited at Yarmouth, a sea port, and Burch castle, an old Roman fort built to keep out the Saxons in the early days. Another historic spot which she saw was St. Albans, thought to be as far as Caesar reached in England.

One interesting spot seen during this Easter was the cathedral town of Exeter. Dorchester and Glastonbury, the latter place being the supposed burial spot of King Arthur. It is even believed that Christ lived there as a young man. The Wayne instructor visited for a week with a teacher at Gloucester. She tried to see the Magna Charta at Lincoln but at that time it was packed in bullet-proof material prior to sending it to the United States for the world's fair at New York. (Dr. Honey finally saw it in New York.)

King Arthur's Roundtable.
Following the close of school Dr. Honey went to Wales and Cornwall, then to Tintagil, where King Arthur was supposedly born. En route to London she came over a number of moors and stopped at Winchester where supposedly the roundtable of King Arthur is located. The table hangs in the town hall and looks like the rays of the sun which leads to the place where each knight sat. Each place was marked with the name of the knight.

From Canterbury Dr. Honey went to Denmark and Sweden and to Stockholm where she attended the international convention of A. A. U. W. Seventy American women attended; the total attendance was 500 from 26 countries. She went to Oslo, Norway, by automobile and from there to Bergen, a historic spot. The city is built around seven mountains. She sailed from Bergen to Newcastle and then to the highlands of Scotland to Inverness, built along the Caledonic canal. The heather was in blossom and everything was purple, presenting a very pretty picture.

Dr. Honey visited Burns' home at Ayr and then went to see the Antonine wall. This is a dirt wall, supposedly the farthest northern outpost of the Romans in Britain.

Enroute to America.
Dr. Honey's journey to America was an interesting adventure. The boat was supposed to sail August 25, but the day preceding that all British, French and German boats were taken off. She finally secured passage on a United States cargo boat leaving Glasgow. It took two days to load and twice as many passengers were on the boat as usually ride. Furniture was taken out of the bar to provide room, and cots were placed in the passageways. The vessel stopped again at Belfast to load which took another day. The boat docked at Boston and Dr. Honey took a bus from there to New York where she attended the world's fair.

Dr. Honey has been asked to speak to many Wayne clubs during the year about specific points of interest during her year in England.

E. Carlson of Winside, Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Fredricks and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Simmons, all of Randolph, the occasion being her birthday.

Reviving Memories IN TUESDAY'S World-Herald appeared a letter dated July, 1918, in France and written by Guy S. Williams, then an American soldier at the front, and now a special writer for the Omaha daily.

How events of subsequent years, the rise of dictatorships, the cruel suppression of nations, and now another conflagration in Europe must assail the memories of survivors who shared in the tremendous sacrifice for what was believed at the time a "just and lasting peace."

The American constitution has been explained and lauded over the land this week to emphasize its meaning to a free people. The constitution is a deterrent and a protection. It prevents government officials, high and low, and other individuals from interfering with human rights, and it is a safeguard to orderly individual processes.

President Roosevelt has invited former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, and Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, to a White House conference over the American attitude in view of the war situation abroad.

Congress meets today in special session to consider legislation made necessary by the war in Europe. The big question to settle is that of neutrality regarding which sharp differences of opinion exist.

People must feel overly fed up on ballyhoo and propaganda and they should learn—if they have not already done so—to rely on sources of known reliability for facts and unbiased judgment.

The college is now going forward under a full head of steam and with increased enrollment, and the city school will resume in a few days amidst some handicaps due to building operations.

Chairman Dies of the committee investigating un-American activities in this country, gave a radio speech Sunday night, warned that alien influences uncovered here are more to be feared than warlike threats from abroad.

The death of Charles M. Schwab, retired steel magnate, is another example of how a man in free America can start with nothing and become immensely rich.

Two Swansons promise to vie for the office of secretary of state. Two Johnsons should now file to show the relative popularity of the names.

Everybody from the president down is firmly in favor of keeping out of the foreign war. Then there is just one thing to do—keep out.

Forecasts of a hard winter will not terrify people until danger of heat prostrations disappears.

Hot in California. (Lincoln Journal) Very unusual indeed is the weather in California which brought a number of heat prostrations in the Los Angeles area and the movie colony.

The Miracle of Our Schools. (Omaha Journal-Stockman) In city and country the public schools have opened this month and seem to be functioning normally regardless of difficult economic conditions, unusual weather and a big European war.

Return from Trip To Points in West Mrs. W. C. Coryell and Miss Leone arrived home Thursday afternoon from the west coast where they had spent nearly four weeks.

Industry and War. (By Howard Cooney, President of National Association of Manufacturers) American industry hates war. War destroys lives. War wrecks homes. Economic chaos and years of crushing depression are its inevitable aftermath.

County Gets Share of Gasoline Tax Wayne county's share of the August gasoline tax was $2,633.57. This is divided as follows: County bridge, $526.71; county road, $1,843.50; and road district, $263.36.

Arrives in England. Miss Kathleen Staines who was exchange teacher at the college last year from England, arrived at Glasgow September 2. She traveled on the Andania ship as the one she was scheduled to go on left earlier than was planned.

Medievalism. War does not seem the way to settle anything. In the home and in the public school, children have been taught methods of peace. In church and in Sunday school people have learned the kindly ministrations of the Nazarene.

As manufacturers we recognize it to be our responsibility and moral obligation to conduct our businesses so that the prices of the products we produce and sell are related equitably to production costs.

The N. A. M. calls upon all its members to exercise vigilance against any price or profit policies not justified by actual cost and anticipated cost of replacement.

Months ago this Association said: "No sensible person believes that profit can come out of the wreckage of human life and economic dislocation."

In a world distraught by force the best way to preserve representative democracy is to practice it.

THIRD TERM. The fact that one new deal columnist expresses the belief that war in Europe justifies a third term for the president, prompts Mark Sullivan, columnist, to discuss the subject and to emphasize some objections.

Hurry Up (Continued from Page One.) should and could hold aloof from Europe's age-old conflict. People are unanimous in determination to stay home. They are also unanimous in determination to fight if necessary to guard these shores against foreign invasion.

Poultry Field Day Program Planned

Tips on how to make poultry pay will be given at the poultry field day in Lincoln September 28, states Agent Chester Walters. Some of the experiments to be expected are field feeding of grain sorghums, results of feeding sudan meal and alfalfa, turkey growth rate and testing of low-cost broiler ration. Field feeding seems to be a practical method of harvesting and feeding grain sorghums.

Rotation of growing range to control sanitation and disease, new roosting shed with novel waterproof roof and new type chicken house will be studied. Accurate culling and efficient feeding will be explained.

Among the speakers will be Mrs. C. W. Wiperman of Lincoln, who will give her observations gained at the world poultry congress last summer.

State's WPA Quota Is to Be Increased

Lincoln, Sept. 20—Dwight Felton, Nebraska WPA administrator, went into top speed today to allot to all counties their share of an increase of 5,000 in the state's WPA quota. He expected the new workers to be on the job within a week.

Felton received authorization late Tuesday to make the immediate increase. He said first attention would be given to drought counties, where practical.

At the time received the authorization he asserted Douglas county would get no increase "due to its failure to meet requirements." The principal requirement is that sponsors contribute at least 25 percent of the cost.

Douglas Wants Share. The Douglas county board was called into a special meeting for today to take action so the county could share in the increased quota, and the administrator explained that if the county meets the requirement it will share in the increase.

The number of workers each county will get will depend upon its certified caseload. The increase will raise the September quota from 18,020 to 23,020.

No Corn Quotas for 1940. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Apparently the AAA will not announce corn quotas for planting next year as it looks as if all the corn would be needed at home or abroad this year and next. In fact, the logic of the situation, with a long European war in prospect, would seem to call for increased acreages of this grain.

It is reported from Washington that officials of the AAA declare that this year's prospective yield of 2,523,902,000 bushels probably would not be large enough to require farmer referendums on marketing quotas. The 1938 crop control law requires a vote by farmers on marketing quotas aimed Today's Conference.

The fact that President Roosevelt has called a conference for today before the special session of congress begins tomorrow and has invited Alfred M. Landon and Col. Frank Knox to attend it, is proof enough that the chief executive wishes to set a nonpartisan example in approaching problems created by the war in Europe.

Mr. Roosevelt obviously was influenced to include Mr. Landon and Col. Knox, who headed the republican ticket in 1936, by the threat of a partisan bloc to defeat the administration's proposal for revision of the neutrality act.

It may be said here that Mr. Roosevelt is on the right road in seeking to amalgamate the differing political elements of the country in a time of national emergency. It also may be said that if and when the situation became more critical the creation of an out and out national government composed of both republicans and democrats would be a logical development.

How unfortunate it has been the last six years that, with the country facing a domestic enemy in an economic depression that has not yet been subdued, no such effort for a nonpartisan or bipartisan resistance to it was made. If in the first year of the Hoover administration when the depression began there had been a moratorium on politics, with democratic leaders forgetting the debacle of 1928 and foregoing their intense desire for revenge, the enemy would not have made such devastating raids from which all elements, political and economic, have suffered since.

Whether the special session of congress convening tomorrow will revise the neutrality act to permit the shipment of arms and munitions to belligerents abroad remains to be seen. There is a sharp division of opinion on the question. In fact throughout the country there is argument pro and con with a good deal of feeling on both sides. Obviously, the will of the people ought to prevail. The majority ought to have its way. What congress does, if sincere and honest in what it thinks and says and decides, depends upon its interpretation of majority public opinion.

Mrs. A. R. Wisco, Mrs. A. Seyl, Mrs. James Broderick, Mrs. F. P. Root and Mrs. Robert Harper were cut and bruised when the car in which they were riding turned over near Belden after the steering locked.

Dial Telephone System Planned

Automatic Method Will Be Installed in Winside By Close of Year.

Winside telephone exchange will be changed by the last of this year from the present system with central girls and switch board to an automatic dial system. The operation will be entirely altered with all new equipment. The local office will be eliminated.

The improvement will not mean a change in rate structure to the subscribers. Long distance calls will be taken at Wayne which will mean a saving in time for the party placing the call. Since every number will be different, new directories will be issued at the same time the change is made. Rural lines will still be owned by the farmers.

Dial system, which is an improvement in service, has been used in small exchanges since 1934. Tekamah was the first to install it. The service has proved very satisfactory.

District Judge Addresses Club

Observe Constitution Week When A. E. Wenke Speaks To Kiwanians.

Observing Constitution week, District Judge A. E. Wenke of Stanton, spoke to the Kiwanis club Monday. The federal constitution, guaranteeing to all people life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, was discussed. The United States' type of government is the oldest among the major nations. It has held up for the past 151 years and should be able to continue again as long.

No fundamental changes have been made by the amendments and all problems are met by the constitution's flexibility. The government has been good under all changes of progress in business, added the speaker. Each citizen's life is safeguarded in trial by court instead of being subject to politics. The right of habeas corpus is also a protection. Liberty is the right to freedom in living and in religion. Pursuit of happiness is placing the welfare of the people in the country first. The economic welfare of the government has to be remembered, but it is not the major issue.

The United States admits having unemployment but men are not put to work making armaments. A nation employing men in making military equipment must go to war to make its work of any use. This is self destruction. The war arms lay dormant if not used. The people of a country cannot eat and live off this product. Judge Wenke concludes that the totalitarian form of government cannot exist because so much attention is devoted to war preparation.

A country must have protection through preparedness, according to the speaker, but everyone should keep a clear head and not bed led on by hysteria.

Guests at the club meeting were Cliff Svyrud of Wayne, Wm. J. Rennie of Hollywood, Calif., Mr. Adams and Mr. Phillips of Fremont. The Fremont men invited the Wayne club to the Iowa-Nebraska convention at Omaha October 5, 6 and 7. The Fremont club is one of the host clubs. A board meeting was held last evening.

Former Wayne Resident Dies

E. C. Mahaffey Passes Away At Hot Springs Home First of Month.

Era C. Mahaffey, 63, died September 1 at his home at Hot Springs, S. D. Funeral services were held the following Tuesday at Hot Springs. The Mahaffey family formerly lived in Wayne and moved from here about 20 years ago.

Mr. Mahaffey was born June 24, 1876, at York, Neb., where he spent his early life with his parents. He was married to Tina Hansen June 12, 1915. Two children were born to this couple. Betty Lou died in infancy and June Arlene is now 8 years old.

Deceased served in the war with Spain, with the Third U. S. volunteer cavalry in the Philippine islands, in the national guard on the Mexican border in 1916 and was a first lieutenant in the World war.

(By Dorothy H. Nyberg) A daylight seashore train ride between Los Angeles and San Francisco presents many changing views of rugged rocky shores against which the blue ocean splashes incessantly into white caps. Looking inland one sees trim orchards and vegetable gardening plots with lofty mountains rising beyond.

But, after all, people inject the interest in any scene. Well-groomed groves laden with beautiful fruit on the level, irrigated valleys make one think surely he has found a near paradise. But by further questioning one learns of marketing problems, occasional water shortage, dangers of freezing, etc. Fruit associations control the purchase of crops, and one is obliged to sell to these concerns because fruit is so perishable. If the associations decide that the market does not warrant purchase of the fruit, many raisers are left stranded with a perishable crop, and with a heavy expenditure for cultivation, water, picking, boxing, etc. One young couple has been raising bumper fruit crops on a valley farm for several years without profit. But, like plucky mid-west farmers who are willing to stick to their tasks, these folks are hoping that by persistence they will eventually be able to realize a profit.

Life of movie stars is not altogether rosy, one learns in conversation. An attractive young blond enroute from Hollywood to San Francisco confided that being an "extra" in the movies is not a snap. She was hoping that in San Francisco she might find more pleasant work in the show business. The young lady is a dancer and related that she often dances all day long, working over, and over again a single scene to make for perfection. She has worked in as many as seven such dance scenes in a single day. When one realizes how many times a single dance must be rehearsed and the demand to change costumes and appear at different scenes, a strenuous day is the result. The star seeking greater opportunity in San Francisco had appeared in the Emerald Isle scene in the "Wizard of Oz."

From the glassed walls of the cliff house in San Francisco one gets good views of the ocean and bay. In the distance are steamers plying their course, and in the harbor are usually seen a few large vessels and many small sail and motor boats. On one of the rocky points may be seen parts of a ship that met disaster some months ago. At a distance one views the walled island of Alcatraz where are kept the country's hardened criminals. Nearer shore, jutting from the water, are jagged rocks on which are seen seals and birds. At times of great commotion on shore, like an Independence day celebration, the seals disappear and travel to islands farther out.

Near cliff house is the presidio, where are stationed about 3,000 soldiers. Since the outbreak of war abroad rules are very strict on admission to the quarters. San Francisco is a strategic point on the coast and war any place puts officers on their guard. A meeting of army men was called a week ago Sunday in San Francisco. The general feeling on the west coast is that this country will not be drawn into the present war. Many feel that internal revolution in Germany against Hitler's regime will end the present strife.

Besides representing marvelous engineering, bridges are friendly structures for they link groups of people. San Francisco bay district has its share of fine bridges, among them two new ones. The Golden Gate bridge, the world's largest single span, crosses the strait which is the entrance to the bay. This span between San Francisco and Marin county cost $35 million dollars. It permits travel up and down the coast. Previously this travel had to be routed around the bay or the water had to be ferried. The new San Francisco-Oakland bridge, costing $7.7 million, is a span nearly five miles long leading from San Francisco to Treasure Island and then on across the bay east to Oakland. It provides for travel that previously used the ferry. An old bridge, which is the longest in the world, crosses the bay from San Mateo, south of San Francisco, to Oakland. From this 15-mile bridge one loses sight of land unless the day happens to be very clear.

Entertain Guests At Football Game

Many Will See Morningside and Wayne Play Here Friday Night.

To stimulate good will and promote interest in Wayne college football activities, Wayne Business Men's club has provided for distribution of a number of complimentary tickets to the game here Friday night between Wayne and Morningside.

Business firms have bought from 25 to 100 tickets each and have been urged to send these out into the trade territory. The men's club has sent complimentary tickets for all members of the Lions and Commercial clubs in Stanton, Carroll, Wakefield, Laurel, Pender, Wisner, Pilger and Winfield.

Wayne team this season is light, but fast and scrappy so some excellent contests are in prospect. Sport fans look for the local men to win some and lose some games. They predict that every team meeting Wayne will realize the local players are trying hard.

Meet the Wildcats. The athletic department of Wayne State Teachers college desires to acquaint the readers of this paper with the new "Wildcats" who have enrolled this year.

Richard "Dick" Childs, graduate of Norfolk high school last year, is one of the best athletes to perform in, Norfolk for some years. "Dick" lettered three years in football and basketball, gaining a good position on the all-state second team in his senior year. His defensive play together with his ability to dribble and handle the ball makes him a likely candidate for this year's squad. In football "Dick" plays in the backfield and is the possessor of a good passing arm.

Another freshman you will hear about this year is Warren Best of Stanton. "Bud" was also a three letter winner in basketball and football at Stanton high school in '35, '36, '37.

In football Best plays halfback. He is shifty, fast and has plenty of drive. His passing arm will prove valuable before the year is far advanced. In basketball "Bud" was a guard, at which position his defensive play gained mention on several tournament teams.

"Skylark," by Samuel Raphaelson, gives the readers a streamlined story of a streamlined life and which will give pause as well as entertainment to all who have been victimized by the twentieth century psychology. Raphaelson also wrote the popular "Accent on Youth."

Max Long's "Murder Between Dark and Dark" is the story of a murder on the Hawaiian Islands. The detective is comparable to Mr. Moto and Charlie Chan. It is a colorful setting. The characterizations and swift pace combine to give an original mystery.

"All Concerned Notified," by Helen Reilly, is a Crime Club selection.

"The Gracie Allen Murder Case," by S. C. Van Dine, is a Philo Vance story with the popular George Burns and Gracie Allen providing an interesting combination for a murder mystery.

Sixty Years Ago

Northern Nebraska was proving its worth as the most desirable part of the state in 1879, according to the Ponca Journal published by Wm. Huse. The productive prairie, valuable timber and healthful climate were talking points. It was claimed (probably without ground) that Doc Middleton and his gang of robbers and outlaws were hired by land owners in the south part of the state to operate in Niobrara and Elk-horn valleys in the early days to keep settlers from this region. Nevertheless, the Niobrara land office was doing an immense business.

Dakota and Dixon counties had fair yields of grain in 1879, but a dispatch reported failure of crops in England.

Greeley county started to raise strawberries. Farmers of that section sold 13,000 quarts of the luxury and realized about $2,000, which they figured was more profit than on wheat.

Chattel mortgage sales advertised 60 years ago gave some picture of the different times. One sale at Ponca listed a breaking plow, also a cheese vat and press. Another mentioned a railroad tripod and chain and bob sleds. The sale of a furniture store stock even listed 19 coffins and 2,000 feet of black walnut lumber.

"Blessings of a melting community are bestowed on the man who invented ice and especially on him who invented ice cream."

Great mourning is reported among prairie chickens following a hunting trip taken by Counselor Gantt and Mr. Orr.

Iron rods were placed in all directions to brace the clerk's office in Ponca. The bracing was done in expectation of another zephyr.

The Skinner and McDonald market in Ponca was adorned with a new set of elk horns, gilded and varnished in fine style.

Stock cars for the new Covington railroad were under construction at Covington, 14 men being at work.

The tax levy for Dixon county was fixed in 1879 at 3 mills, this being to pay for road warrants. A labor and road tax of $3 was levied on each male citizen.

Dixon county census shows 1,640 pupils in 55 schools in 1879. Fifty of the schools held summer terms.

How many recall the Silver Ridge seminary in Dixon county? This school for boys and girls was operated by Rev. Walter Clark at Silver Ridge site. Fall, winter and spring terms of 11 weeks each are conducted with a fee of $30 providing board, washing and tuition in English, Latin, Greek and vocal music for a term. Instrumental music was extra.

Ferries were the only means of crossing rivers in the new country. The Ponca paper advertises that the Lonia steam ferry was ready to "haul teams across the Missouri."

The Lonia was acclaimed the "largest, best and fastest boat ferry on the river." A report from North Bend tells that the ferry at that place collapsed in a storm and sank.

The early edition advertises the Little Jokers churn which guarantees to "churn, wash and salt butter in three minutes."

Exchanges
Fred Westerhold, 64, formerly of Pender, died in Anaheim, Calif. Miss Frances Ahlers of Pender, and Alfred Harms of Mt. Clemens, Mich., were married September 9. Lorraine Will of West Point, took first prize on her costume at the 4-H contest at the state fair.

John Phelan, Dixon merchant who suffered injury in a fall at his store three months ago, died at the age of 80.

Connecticut's Ol' Man Mose, who is 110, had a serious operation. Second day he wanted a square meal. Third day he was sitting up and smoking. Now he is going again. Mose was born in slavery in Virginia, was married at 40 and had 22 children.

Scientist will this fall release balloons along the equator over unpeopled jungles to learn about cosmic rays at all altitudes. Radio signals from the balloons will give the information.

The two policemen in Columbia, S. C., spotted the man they wanted and from then on it was a zig-zag foot race for four blocks. Suddenly their quarry ducked into a building. It was the police station.

The radio in Junior Martin Moseley's auto at Baker, Ore., played "I'll Get Along Without You Very Well," while he fixed a tire. Then the car slipped from the jack, plunged seven hundred feet over the grade. The radio was wrong; the car was demolished.

From Wayne Herald for October 1, 1903: Miss Belle Temple established a millinery store here. Winside's new telephone exchange is complete. Magnus Hanson of Wakefield, arrived home from a visit in Sweden. Henry Glassmeyer went to South Dakota to look after land interests. The Rosebud Indians have raised the price of their land from $2.75 to $5 an acre. S. B. Seace, who was in Hay Springs buying sheep, has 1,000 head and will buy more. R. McBeth bought Miss Wilkinson's property in Wayne. Captain Alberti, famous Russian soldier, will speak in Wayne under auspices of the Masonic lodge. Farmers near Wakefield have met to organize for rural telephone service. Ponca capitalists are providing Martinsburg's first bank. Edward Janke of Winside, has gone to Germany for a visit after 15 years here. W. O. Sand of Illinois, and Miss Jennie Mettlen of Wayne, were married at Hoskins in October, 1903. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Johnson have gone to Chicago to buy furniture for the Fleetwood and Johnson store. Father Haley and Frank Gaertner are in Chicago buying new pews for the Catholic church which is being remodeled. Wm. Will, who was mail carrier here, has decided to go to Sioux City to be employed in the Northwestern machine shop. Edward Williams and Miss Mamie Hughes were married at Carroll September 30, 1903. The vault of the Ewing bank was blown open by dynamite and the blast wakened townspeople so that intruders had to escape before they got the money. A. F. Lane has succeeded L. P. Orth in the drug store, Fred Brown succeeds J. E. Ellis in the livery business, and Wm. Huse and son have bought the W. H. McNeal newspaper. W. E. Sweeney of Emerson, who has returned from Yellowstone park where he was doing civil engineering, reports snow already several feet deep there. Judge W. F. Norris, one of the federal judges in the Philippines, and his family, also Miss Leona Hunter and Mrs. Montgomery who taught in the islands, are expected home on furlough. H. G. Wilson of Utah, is head of the Winnebago agency, succeeding Mr. Mathewson who resigned. C. N. Dawson has been appointed pastor of Wayne Methodist church for another year.

From Ponca Journal for September 21, 1882: Frost was reported September 19. Fred Calvert, who has been driving the stage between this place and Yankton, met with a serious accident. A few miles from Newcastle the horses ran away, throwing Calvert out and injuring him terribly. By the way omnibuses and wagons carried people to and from the fair grounds here. It is estimated the amount not less than one hundred fifty (150) dollars.

Rural Teachers of County Will Get Instruction Here This Month.

Institute for Wayne county rural teachers will be held at the court house Saturday, September 30, with special instruction planned in music, art, penmanship, arithmetic, grammar and reading.

Instruction for the three morning hours will be given by Maybelle Thompson, Mason, Dorothy A. Tewell, and Fay Gordon of Norfolk schools. The first named, who is art supervisor in Norfolk schools, has studied art in Vienna, Austria, and she took training in San Francisco this summer. One of the courses being at the world's fair on Treasure Island. She will instruct here in modern school art work. Miss Tewell will give instruction in remedial reading. She is principal of the Norfolk grade schools and for the past two years has made intensive study of this subject. Miss Gordon, penmanship supervisor in Norfolk schools, will give instruction and demonstration in this line. She revised the penmanship division in the state course of study.

For the afternoon program Prof. A. V. Teed will speak on arithmetic instruction. Prof. Teed has devoted many years to improvement of rural school instruction and especially stressed arithmetic. He was instrumental in the revision of the state arithmetic course of study. A music demonstration with emphasis on teaching rural choir songs will be in charge of Prof. H. H. Hanscom, who has done much special work with rural school groups. Under supervision of Dean H. H. Hahn, instructors of the Wayne training school revised the English and grammar division of the state course and one from this department will give instruction and demonstration in these subjects for the institute.

Registration will be conducted from 8 to 9 in the morning. Sessions will be held from 9 promptly until 4 p. m. All rural teachers are required to attend. Each instructor is allowed one hour's time.

Wayne county rural teachers are also required to attend the state institute in Norfolk October 26 and 27 when schools will be dismissed. Reports on sessions visited there will be required.

STARTS TO VISIT SCHOOLS IN COUNTY

Supt. F. B. Decker will start visiting schools this week, planning to spend from a quarter to a half day in each district. Complete reports of conditions found will be available to teachers and school board members in Mr. Decker's office.

Library Exchange Ready for Schools

Books and Magazines Are Available in Districts of Wayne County.

To make more reading material available to rural schools, Supt. F. B. Decker has arranged a library book exchange in his office. Rural teachers are urged to bring to this table library books which they have used and which they wish to exchange with those belonging to other districts. The plan makes many more supplementary books accessible to the schools at no added expense.

Persons having books or magazines which they wish to give to rural schools may leave these with Mr. Decker and he will see that they reach readers.

Rural teachers may also secure magazines from Mrs. E. S. Blair at Wayne city library. These have been collected by University Women's association for the rural schools.

District 83. (Viola Swanson, teacher.) School began August 28. The room had been redecorated, the floors oiled and new shades and curtains hung at the windows.

Second graders are making booklets on farms. They have enjoyed study of poems in language.

School had a holiday September 8 for the fair.

District 59. (Arldth Lund, teacher.) School started September 4 with the room cleaned and papered, curtains laundered and part of the roof reshung. A new set of "World Books" has been purchased.

Publicity Good For Rural Schools

That rural schools need and deserve publicity is stressed in an article written by Wayne County Supt. F. B. Decker for the September issue of the Nebraska Educational Journal, at the request of the Nebraska Teachers association. The article follows:

"It pays to advertise" has been a better-business slogan from time immemorial. Since the business of our schools is to aid our young folks to become better citizens, it seems to me that what is good for business should be good for schools.

"Probably the most neglected of our schools is as far as advertising or publicity is concerned is our rural school. Our city and village schools have had the advantage of the fact that the local editor or news reporter calls at least once a week for the events of interest which have occurred in that school. But this has not been true, in the past, of our rural schools which are not so readily accessible.

"With the firm conviction in my own mind that nothing stimulates more pride in little Johnnie or Marie than to see his or her name in print for having done some fine bit of work, I am attempting in Wayne county to provide this stimulation and to advertise our rural schools through the medium of our county newspapers, which I have found to be more than willing to print any news about our schools that I may have for them.

"Today the happenings in the rural schools in this county are read about in nearly every home in the county every week through these newspapers which have almost a 100 percent coverage of this territory.

"I have found the Wayne Herald, the Wayne News and the Winside Tribune to be excellent weekly newspapers, and very willing to help by sending their news reporters to my office at least once a week for the rural school news of the county. The Wayne Herald prints a full page each week under very suitable headings. This news is gathered both by myself and by their own reporters, and when combined with other items of interest, makes a splendid page.

"The best and surest way to get the news, I have found, is to

Work Is Started On Fair Exhibits

Supt. F. B. Decker Hopes to Have Display at State Exhibit in Fall.

Plans are already started for Wayne county school exhibit for the 1940 fair. A completely revised school premium list will be made and sent to teachers as soon as possible. This will be based on the state fair premium list which is now undergoing slight revision. The state fair entries are compiled by a committee of county superintendents. As soon as this is complete for the state, Wayne county's list will be revised.

Supt. F. B. Decker hopes to have Wayne county schools represented in the state fair school exhibit at Lincoln next fall.

All schools are required to have exhibits at the county fair and only six were not represented this year. Wayne county has set the minimum at two cords and maximum at 10 for each rural school. Mr. Decker urges teachers to begin plans for their next fall's displays now.

Teachers to Attend Meeting at Norfolk

Third district counties whose teachers will attend the state convention in Norfolk in October rather than have county institutes are Antelope, Boone, Madison, Pierce and Wayne. A number of counties over the state are following this plan.

WILL GET SUPPLIES FOR FIRST AID KITS

Teachers are asked to report to Supt. F. B. Decker on the first aid supplies they need for their first aid kits. These will be distributed at institute September 30.

District 20. (Mrs. Elvira Sullivan, teacher.) School opened September 4 with 15 enrolled. John Finn and Jack Beale were visitors Wednesday last week.

Frances Willard Day Designated

Frances Willard day is being observed by schools September 28, the centennial of the birth of Miss Willard, according to word received by Supt. F. B. Decker from State Supt. C. W. Taylor.

Frances Willard was born at Churchville, N. Y., in 1839 and became one of the best loved and most widely celebrated of all American women in her work as Christian reformer and practical philanthropist. The growth of the W.C.T.U. and the prohibition movement was due largely to her devotion and ability.

Miss Willard went to Milwaukee to school at 17 and later attended the Woman's college in Evanston, Ill. She became dean of her alma mater and resigned in 1874 when the college was incorporated with Northwestern university. Without money or experience she and a little band of women in Chicago entered the temperance movement. She was elected head of the national movement in 1879 and held this office 20 years. She insisted that women have suffrage so they could use the ballot in the temperance drive. At the time of her death Miss Willard had organized the W.C.T.U. in 35 nations.

Of the 300 memorials erected to Miss Willard, Dr. Walter Scott, president of Northwestern, says the most significant are the lives of thousands of women who have been admitted to schools of higher learning because of Frances Willard's endeavors for further such advantages to women.

Funeral Rites Held Saturday

I. O. Jones Passes Away Here Early Thursday After Year's Illness.

I. O. Jones, resident of Wayne county 24 years, died early Thursday morning, September 14, at his home in Carroll following a year's illness, most of which time he had been confined to his bed. He reached the age of 83 years, 6 months and 14 days.

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday afternoon at the Baptist church in Carroll with Rev. R. L. Williams of Steele City, former Presbyterian minister here, and Gaebler & Neely in charge. Enos Davis, John Davis, Frank Griffith and M. I. Swihart sang. Burial was in Wayne cemetery.

Isaac O. Jones, son of Samuel and Jane Jones, was born in Llanellid, near Ruthin, North Wales, March 1, 1856. In 1870 he accompanied his parents, two brothers and three sisters to this country and the family settled near Dawn, Mo., where deceased grew to manhood. I. O. Jones married Miss Margaret A. Jones October 5, 1880, and two sons and five daughters were born to this union.

The Jones family moved in 1891 to Cherry county, Neb., where they resided 14 years. Mr. Jones had bought a farm near Sholes, in Wayne county, and he brought his family here in 1905. Since 1926 Mr. and Mrs. Jones had lived in Carroll and their daughter's family has been on the home farm.

Mr. Jones joined the Calvinistic Methodist church in childhood and remained a faithful member throughout his life. He had been a deacon and taught in the Sunday school. When living in the country he attended the Presbyterian church west of Carroll, and there served as deacon. After moving to Carroll it was more convenient for Mr. Jones to attend the Baptist church and here he was faithful at services as long as his health permitted. He taught the Bible class in the Baptist church also as long as he was able.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones observed their golden wedding anniversary at the Baptist church here in 1930, when many friends gathered to honor the devoted couple.

Surviving Mr. Jones are his wife, a faithful companion for 59 years, one son, David S. Jones, at home, one daughter, Alice, now Mrs. Arthur C. Williams of Sholes. There are two granddaughters, Mrs. Don L. Wilson of Pittsburg, Calif., and Ida Mae Williams. A son, Thomas I., died in 1918 at Pine Bluffs, Wyo., and four daughters died in infancy. Mr. Jones leaves one brother, Samuel J. Jones of Omaha. Another brother, three sisters and a grandson, Wilard C. Williams, preceded him in death. Mrs. John Jenkins of this vicinity, is a niece of deceased.

Besides many from Sholes vicinity, those here from out of town for the rites were Howard Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nielsen and Mrs. Roberts of Randolph. Pallbearers were D. R. Thomas, Ed. Morris, Griffith Edwards, Robert Gemmill, Wm. F. Roberts and John R. Hamer.

Baptist Aid served luncheon to relatives and friends after the services.

Writes of Coast

sents a $1,500,000 horticulture program. For months the black sand of the bay was piled up to create the land, and the sand was washed many times to take away the salt. Then 100,000 cubic yards of rich loam from Sacramento valley was spread over the area. Four thousand trees, many of them 70 feet high and weighing 40 tons each, were taken on barges to the island where they were moved by huge cranes and tractors to their locations. Forty thousand shrubs and small trees, also millions of flowers and many varieties of grass were planted. The new island was thus converted into a garden.

Huge windowless exhibit halls give the effect of an ancient walled city. Interior courts with long rows of square pilasters are reminiscent of early architecture. All buildings are of buff color. Thousands of colored floodlights; hidden under shrubs, in troughs and in tree baskets revivify the island, buildings and fountains at night into a riot of beautiful shades of blue, gold, green and violet. Buildings and grounds are immaculately clean; exhibits are high class; classical music peels from the towers; and the visitor is impressed with the dignity and high quality evident in the whole.

The art exhibit, an outstanding feature at the western fair, is acclaimed as the greatest collection of art ever assembled in the United States. Original masterpieces from every century back to the 14th are included. And one finds the larger groups admiring the old paintings more than the modern ones.

The science hall presents inventions that make one realize that almost anything must be possible. Demonstrations there show how one may see sound and hear color. The use of the radio beam, which can control airships without pilots, is shown. This power is demonstrated by the popping of corn in a dish which is sitting in cold water. Inventions for the modern kitchen make one almost wonder if a house will soon operate itself. Stoves are controlled electrically, dishes are washed and refuse is disposed of in an incinerator that decomposes the substance and carries it into the drain.

Television is another of the marvels in the world of science. Several radios are installed in the science display at Treasure island and on a screen about 10 by 15 inches the cover, which seems to lift like that of the talking machine, one sees the persons whom he hears over the radio. The studio is nearby and the operator there picks individuals from the audience. The crowd sees the person go to the studio and then sees and hears them on the screen.

The science hall also presents mechanical men. In one exhibit such a creation talks. In front of the "man" is a dial arrangement. The onlooker may select between several talks by dialing different numbers. If one chooses to hear a cowboy, he dials a number and hears a mechanical cowboy.

In another demonstration one sees latest news printed and coming out of the radio.

In the telephone exhibit visitors watch lights flash across a large map of the United States on calls placed. Numerous ear phones enable everyone to hear the conversation.

Refining of oil, making of chocolate bars from cocoa beans, making of various canned foods, etc., are educational. The federal building consists of 48 huge brown pillars with a state seal on each. State exhibits are elaborate, especially for the western area. Most of the beauties of various regions are reproduced in miniature. In Wyoming, for instance, Old Faithful geyser, in a reproduction of Yellowstone park, shoots out its fountain of water every two minutes. Canada, the Philippines, Hawaii, also several countries abroad have attractive displays of the beauties of their regions.

Those who love flowers and fruits enjoy that hall which is supplied with fresh exhibits every two days. Chrysanthemums and dahlias in bright and delicate shades measure at least 10 inches across. Another attracting visitor is the tuberous begonia with flowers that look like roses. One lady in Redwood City has been developing begonias as a hobby for 17 years and this year she has 25,000 new plants. The double flowers are in bright shades with a waxy sheen. This lady suggests that much of the difficulty in raising plants is that their breathing becomes hampered. She advises that plants be immersed in water occasionally and left until bubbles stop forming. This opens the plant pores and allows it to breathe again.

One part of Treasure island is devoted to concessions and there may be found every variety of carnival show one might desire.

A huge cash register high above the grounds records attendance at the fair. Though 80,000 registered one day, the grounds are so spacious that one would not know there was a crowd. But a glance at the auto parking grounds is proof that the number is correct.

An eight-motor clipper plane, also a bomber are on Treasure island for inspection of fair visitors. The clipper, with spacious berths and dining service, is housed in a huge building which is probably the only one that will remain on the site. The island is to be converted into a naval air base at close of the fair.

California is noted for its parades but a person scarcely realizes how elaborate a parade can be until he has seen one. The state observed Saturday, September 9, as a holiday because it was the 89th anniversary of its admission to the Union. For the occasion San Francisco staged an elaborate parade which began at 11 o'clock and continued more than three hours. Market street, one of the busiest thoroughfares in the world, was cleared and crowds packed either side for many blocks. Cities, towns and counties the full length of the state sent units for the parade sponsored by the Native Sons of the Golden West. Bands and drum and bugle corps in colorful uniforms usually headed by attractive "twirlers," led various sections of the array. Prancing horses, groups of men wearing gold silk blouses, overalls and spurred boots, women with colorful old-fashioned gowns and parasols, the fire and drum corps and others were among the paraders. Then followed elaborately decorated floats. On one a man and horse, covered with gold, rode on a background of green. A globe made of flowers was another. A tree with bright pink blossoms in a garden of green with white picket fence around formed another. Ahead of this huge letters spelling "Oakland," were on wheels, and the letters were covered with looking glasses in odd shapes. A log cabin and typical pioneer scene, the state's bear emblem, floats elaborate with flowers and fruits were others. At many junctures in the parade appeared the American flag to which men tipped their hats in respect.

A drive along the coast south of San Francisco brings one to progressive towns which seem to join. One of the most interesting is Palo Alto. There is located Leland Stanford university, established nearly 50 years ago by Mr. Stanford as a memorial to his only son. The spacious grounds of 5,600 acres are entered through a drive lined with palms. Brown stone buildings are well arranged with the beautiful memorial church at the head of the drive. The art work on the exterior, the stained glass windows, the wall inscriptions and the air of solemnity make this chapel a beauty spot in the west. The stadium seats 60,000. Student homes occupy part of the campus, and the residence of Herbert Hoover is in that section. The home, moderate sized Spanish-style buff colored residence, is enhanced with beautiful trees and flowers. Guards watch the place. The former president has been in the east; a friendly gardener informed Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hopkins on the trip.

Oakland, a city of 250,000 across the bay, is called the "bedroom" for San Francisco. Forty thousand people commute from there to San Francisco each day to their work. A pretty lake is located in the center of Oakland and there many water fowl are fed daily.

The most interesting person visited on the return trip from the west was a friendly little lady of about 75 years whose home is in Baltimore, Md. She had been in the west five weeks with her son who is an officer in the navy. This well-educated woman appreciated the beauties of the ocean and mountains but when she reached Nebraska she said she felt more at home because she likes the beauty of cultivated fields and many trees. She observed, "Home is the best place after all."
