Judges Favor Wightman In Wayne City Lot Case

District Judges C. H. Stewart and A. E. Wenke found in favor of D. S. Wightman and against C. R. Hendrickson here Tuesday in a ruling on the action in which Hendrickson sought to have set aside the city's sale of a lot to Wightman. The finding of the judges is as follows: "The court finds that Wightman in his dealings with the members of the city council and with the officers of the city of Wayne dealt with them openly and made an offer for the property herein involved which the court finds from the evidence and a view of the premises, was more than the fair and reasonable value thereof; and that the members of the city council and the city officers likewise dealt with the said Wightman openly, and that there was no fraud or conspiracy of any kind in the dealings between Wightman, the city council and the city officers, and that the city council had full knowledge of the offer made by Wightman, and also of the fact that a deed was being made from Bressler to Wightman for the premises Wightman was purchasing from the city, and that Wightman fully carried out his share of said agreement by paying for the lots as set forth in his bid; and that the deed from Bressler to Wightman was in consideration thereof; and that all of the dealings were approved by the council and made with their full knowledge and consent. The court further finds that in selling the property the city of Wayne did not follow the procedure provided by statute, and the method pursued by the city council is neither approved nor recommended by the court; but in this case no damage resulted to the city as a result..."

College Symphony To Open Program

College band members who will assist in this are Cyril Mill, Jean Mines, Lynn Paegge and Joe McCourt. From Wayne city school will be Catherine Cavanaugh, Lyle Seymour, Dorothy Casper, Margie Petch and Barbara Strahan. Wayne prep will be represented by Frances Ahern, Marian Johnson, Emory Griffith, John Bressler, Billie Orr and Finley Helleberg. Prof. Russell Anderson directs a clinic chorus of 105 from 35 towns Thursday morning and the group appears before the convention that afternoon. Wayne city school will be represented in this by Eugene Sals, Paul Petersen and Lyle Seymour, and Wayne prep by Ethel Jean Olson. Don Echtenkamp, Edwin Sprague and Jeanette Riley.

Threats of War Result in Uneasiness A Broad, Dr. Honey States.

"Recent Developments in England" was the subject of Dr. Mary T. Honey's address to Kiwanis club Monday. She told of the war preparations when she first arrived in England last fall. The making of shelters and purchasing of gas masks created anxiety, according to the Wayne instructor. Every means was used to make people war-minded. A bus driver asked Dr. Honey if she had ever been in America. He said that he would like to see those Americans who have never known war in their own country. The English driver thought the Americans must be stronger physically and more at ease in mind for this reason. The English had this war scare hovering over them all year. They would try to continue as usual with their harvest festivals but always there was the uneasiness present. By September, everyone had gas masks which were not very expensive but the possession of them did help to keep up the morale. In Sweden Dr. Honey saw no slums and no preparation for war. All was very peaceful. The Swedish people use their money for betterment of soul and body. It is still a question whether this is the last war among the European countries. The future of the countries is at stake.

Reorganize Staff In Welfare Work

The state assistance department has announced unification of all supervisory activities into a single agency with 13 field supervisors and a chief of staff. Previously the work was done by two staffs, 10 field representatives and nine child welfare consultants. Ava June Quigle of Norfolk, supervises the district composed of Madison, Pierce, Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston counties.

Three Contracts Near Completion

One principal contract has been completed and another was due to finish today on the addition to Connell hall, Wayne State Teachers' college. The third principal contract, the general, held by John L. Soderberg, still is several days from completion. The plumbing contract held by W. G. Volkman of Norfolk, was completed Tuesday and all his men have left the job. Andy Jacobsen, foreman for the Rapid Electric company of Rapid City, S. D., expected to have all his work completed today with the exception of the telephone outlet plates, which are being awaited. Meanwhile the application to the Public Works Administration for an extension of time to complete the project has been given favorable action and a new date has been set at October 28. Painting and varnishing, some hardware work and cleaning up of the premises remain on the general contract. However, some of the apartments already are occupied by faculty members. Employment on the site held up well last week, with 32 men working for the contractors. It was reported to P.W.A. The report showed that the docket was 99 per cent complete, based on the contracts already awarded, but only 89.7 per cent complete, based on contracts awarded and budgeted. The air conditioning machinery and equipment contracts are yet to be let.

District Court Decides on Belden Bank Case and Bartel-Meyer Suit.

District Judges C. H. Stewart and A. E. Wenke found in favor of D. S. Wightman and against C. R. Hendrickson here Tuesday in a ruling on the action in which Hendrickson sought to have set aside the city's sale of a lot to Wightman. Parents and Teachers A LOCAL club proposes a parent-teacher association for Wayne. Many communities, large and small, have such organizations, and they must consider them of sufficient merit to justify the time and effort involved. If the movement is to be earnestly considered, advantages should be ascertained, and objections, if any, should be carefully weighed.

We think too little sympathetic and helpful interest is taken in the schools by Wayne parents. They delegate the hiring of teachers to school boards, and too often pay no attention to the running of the schools until something they think deserves adverse criticism, turns up. They forget to get acquainted with the teachers unless they have some favor to ask or some kick to register.

It should be remembered that teachers are educated to the tasks they are employed to perform. More, they are trained to handle student problems and parent whims, and to humor school authorities. They are not automatons. Their opinions should be sought, and their leadership in different activities ought to be encouraged. Closer acquaintance would yield mutual advantages.

If a parent-teacher organization would bring better understanding and stronger cooperation, one should be started. If there are objections, they should be made known in advance. No one has reason to feel smug and indifferent.

Free Ham and Eggs AN ATTEMPT is to be made November 7 to vote into the constitution of California an amendment to establish the "Thirty-Dollar-Every-Thursday" plan. The proposition is manifestly unsound, and Californians, sensitive to the future, will vote against it. California is great in natural resources, and great in climatic advantages. The state has depended on imported genius to develop new wealth. It has looked to an influx of daring spirits with capital to combine water with soil in producing wonders, and to convert primal rawness into surpassing structural enterprise. Why adopt a fallacy that would change the inflowing stream from sturdy doers into helpless dependents? California has enough sense not to do it.

To Keep Out of War THE SUNDAY editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, who recently returned from Europe, believes Americans want peace badly enough to pay the price for it. He says the price of peace includes surrender of some foreign markets, and in some countries "the possible success of a type of political philosophy which we dislike and distrust." He makes this warning observation:

"If our real aim is to maintain some spark of democracy in the world, isn't our best bet to stay out of war? War means dictatorship for any democracy for the duration of the war, at least, and there is serious doubt in my mind if a democracy, drained of its men and resources, filled with hate and bestial passions, will overthrow the wartime dictatorship and return to a government faintly resembling what we now have."

Returning Wealth THE Omaha Journal-Stockman points out that the United States is finally showing material improvement. It says:

"Getting back our wealth, we Americans are. The latest figures available are for the close of 1937, when, according to the estimate of the national industrial conference board, national wealth reached $32,000,000,000. The total compared with a high of $333,000,000,000 in 1929, and a low of $267,000,000,000 in 1934. The gain has been principally in stock of goods, partly in the value of real estate and utility assets, and only slightly in the value of other productive assets. Per capita wealth, after the dip from the high of $2,910 in 1929, has worked back to $2,490, for 1937. That's not saying anything about debts, but let's not get into that until the next meeting!

There is really no place like home. No one satisfies the inner yearnings of the soul like an old acquaintance. Familiar faces make one feel secure and content. During the week we have received letters from persons who have removed from Wayne and from the state, but whose affections are still fastened to Nebraska. Our weather may not mesh with needs and our crops may be disappointing, but still, even in more favored lands, former Nebraskans stand up for this state and would return to it if they could. Time will modify nostalgia, but one never ceases to esteem wanted scenes and long-time friendships.

The award of Star Farmer of America to Norman W. Kruse, 18, of Loretto, Nebraska, made at Kansas City this week, brought out the fact that the young man profited most from raising pig. His experience, which showed greater net returns on pigs than on milk, sheep, corn, wheat, baby beef and heifers combined, verifies the old idea that pig production is the mortgage lifter. The fact that the young man's lot is cast in Boone county where devastating drouth has stalked for a long series of years, means that unusual feed problems had to be solved.

People returning to America from trips abroad — especially at this time of war dangers — are delighted at sight of the Goddess of Liberty. Their appreciation of liberty and security in a democracy is amazingly heightened. And anyone who is so dissatisfied with this country that he wants to leave it, feeling that communism, nazism or fascism would be better, ought to get aboard an outgoing ship.

We are glad to note that trade incidental to special attractions in Wayne Saturday was far above the ordinary, proving substantial appreciation of local stocks and local service. Many not accustomed to coming here regularly were among the multitude of shoppers, and it is hoped they were sufficiently satisfied to come often.

The Minnesota congressman's expressed desire to wrest the British West Indies from England while that country is engaged in war harks back to darkest medievalism and would be a discredit to the judgment of an eighth grader.

Damage to British ships and other possessions, as reported, would seem likely soon to make the Britons realize a war is on and stir them to defend themselves while they still have something left to defend.

The official executioner at Sing Sing prison, who died recently, and who had officiated in dispatching a total of 300 lives, expressed the belief that capital punishment is not a crime deterrent.

Charity is hard to accept by sensitive persons, and it loses much of its merit if it is bestowed in a grudging spirit.

Hitler invites Germans to return to the reich, but it is a safe bet none in America will heed his call.

JOB FINDING
A current magazine article explains how the National Youth Administration has sponsored a job-creation contest for boys and girls under 25 years of age. Youths are encouraged to find ways to give worthwhile service. They figure out needs and then set about to supply them. They are cultivating initiative. They start at small pay, and often work up a profitable business. One leader said: "I cannot conceive of American youth without the spirit of adventure. And that is what we hope the job-creation contest will inspire." Children are often discouraged before they get started by talks of hard times and insecurity. Youngsters are advised: "Study your neighborhood, the people who live there, and how they live. Note the gadgets or services that would add to the safety, comfort, or beauty of homes, stores, and streets. Outline your ideas, improve them through study. Then experiment with them. Thus you can think your way to your jobs. You'll be the boss, and nobody can fire you."

Crowds

abundant water supply. Thousands of logs in Klamath River testified to large-scale lumbering activities.

Klamath Falls had a population of around 600 when we lived there at the time of the turn of the century. It had no railroad, and as horseless vehicles had not been invented, shipments in and out were made on wagon trains. Two days were required for the trip. In that early time one could easily predict wonderful development on arrival of transportation, thus to market the products of rich timber and cultivated soil. Klamath Falls is now on the main line of the railroad between Portland and Sacramento. The railroad is doubtless aided in handling transportation by a plentiful supply of trucks and automobiles.

John Bressler was accompanied by his wife on a tour of the Pacific coast. En route home he stopped at San Francisco to interview the exposition. It was John's first visit to the big Bay city since the early time mentioned which was before the devastating earthquake. As noted, the city has made amazing improvement through the years.

THANKSGIVING.

In states whose governors have not conformed to the president's idea of changing Thanksgiving day, post offices and other federal branches will observe November 23, whereas others are likely to stick to the accustomed last Thursday. Nebraska is one of several states going contrary to the chief executive's plan, Governor Cochran having issued a statement in accordance with the traditional order. Two days for special thanksgiving will seem less necessary than usual in Nebraska this year in view of short crops and an unexpected toboggan away from needed abundance. In respect to the year's harvest, we can easily crowd everything we will wish to say into one day. In regard to worse trials now harrowing war-stricken Europe, we have reason to feel profound gratitude every day. We little realize the terror of living where attacks from the air, ground and water are constant perils, and we may well be thankful all the time for comparative security.

Conditions Good But War Anxiety Is Higher in East

Conditions seem good on the eastern coast, according to R. T. Jeffrey who arrived here Wednesday last week after being away since early May. Mr. Jeffrey spent most of the time in Baltimore with his sister, Mrs. Mary Kelley, who is ill following two strokes, but he also went to Washington, D. C., and to points in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware and Maryland. The seacoast region gets plenty of rain, Mr. Jeffrey reports, usually one good rain coming each week. Fruit crops are large there, and wheat, oats and corn did well. All farms are smaller in the east than here. Fields are not divided into sections and roads wind in and out with many curves. Houses are located to face the roads and to harmonize with the contour of the land.

Washington, D. C., is crowded, being only 13 miles square, and living costs are high there. As a result many people who are employed in Washington live in Baltimore, 38 miles away, and commute each day either by auto on the four-lane highway or by train. Mr. Jeffrey did not drive off of paving all the time he was in the east. Side roads and all are surfaced. Many roads have four or more lanes to aid traffic. Mr. Jeffrey prefers driving to riding the train and has made the trip 11 times.

One of the prettiest places Mr. Jeffrey visited while away this summer was the Dupont gardens on the Dupont estate near Wilmington, Delaware. There are gardens and greenhouses with gorgeous flowers of all varieties. Tropical trees and plants as well as native varieties are included. An outdoor amphitheatre with spacious seating capacity, numerous fountains on which colored lights play and attractive waterfalls make the place a favorite resort for the public. In the outdoor theatre are presented the best plays and music by highest class orchestras. Mr. Jeffrey saw the play, "Naughty Marietta," there. Mr. Dupont has provided the gardens as a beauty spot for whoever wishes to visit them.

Anxiety over the war situation abroad is more keen in the east than here, Mr. Jeffrey found, because of the seacoast. Visitors are not allowed in some of the airplane factories. The majority are certain this country will not be involved.

Mr. Jeffrey plans to spend the winter here with his brother, Alex Jeffrey, and other relatives.

Dress Up Dresses
4.95 5.95
Jeweled trimmings, flared and pleated skirts, styles copied from high priced dresses. Newest colors: grape, moss green, boy blue and, of course, black. No extra charge for alteration.

Blanket Seconds
We got $1 off on these splendid part wool blankets because they had small imperfections which the inspector at the mill would not pass but which you will hardly notice. We got just one case at this great reduction and they are already two thirds sold. They are a grand buy at $2.88. Six feet wide, seven feet long. Pretty plaids. Thick and warm.

Hosiery Musing Silks
48c
The greatest value in low priced silk hose. New fall colors. Choice of service. Hundreds of satisfied customers have used this splendid wearing silk hose for years. They are no experiment. You will get proven value in this musing silk hosiery.

Flares or Pleats
1.95 and 2.25
Black is exceptionally good. Flares are very popular. We have all the best liked colors, too.

Jap Trouble and Typhoon Furnish Much Excitement

In addition to the continual uncertainty due to the Jap-Chinese troubles, Mrs. W. W. Lippold, formerly Marian Ahern, writes her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ahern, that she experienced a typhoon in early September. Her letter of September 1 from Tsingto, China, tells that a typhoon had been raging for two days. "Radio reports say the center struck here," Mrs. Lippold continues, "though a flood was reported at Shanghai. Our radio, electricity and now water are all off. We hope not for much longer. It is romantic eating by our individual candles but a nuisance when going to bed. The first night the porch storm door was ripped off the hinges and the awning torn to shreds. "Japs are being nicer to the British here now about sailing schedules on British ships since the Russian agreement with Germany. Before they have done everything to force everyone to use their Jap passenger boats back to Shanghai and all other points. I have a definite promise now on the British line to go September 20 so will get my landing permit and photographs. The Japs also search us before we leave as we are allowed to take only a definite amount of money. "Wednesday, the first day of the typhoon, we of the Marblehead gave a party and buffet supper for about 50 women from other ships at the Castle, a house built like a castle and occupied by the bachelors and executive officers of the Marblehead. It was a very nice party but we were all glad to leave there as windows were blowing open and banging all over the place. We couldn't take nickshas home as they were not allowed out in the typhoon weather. We heard of three turning over in the high wind as the coolies have no control over them. A taxi man from the hotel sent a fleet of cars for us. "The baby is learning to walk. He stands up by chairs or end tables and pushes them around. "I can hardly wait until we get to Manila and start living in a house where I can cook. Others talk of the horrible expense of living there but I'll gladly take anything else. We are paying $27 gold for our monthly board and room. No wonder they howl when they get to Manila where the exchange is always two to one. Here we pay 16 to one. I bought an evening bag with green jade handle for $2.25 gold, a set of silver and turquoise studs for $1 and a set of hand-carved amethyst studs for 25c. So you can understand why the navy 'girls' hate to leave China. Since we have two more years in these ports, we are going easy on the buying. "The wreckage along the beach around us looks like a tornado had piled the beach houses up in match piles and on top of each other. The ocean side cafe where we dine is a wreck and the dance floor covered with two inches of sand. "Visit Chinese Temple. "The other day we rode out into the country to hear the Chinese monks conduct services at one of their native temples. We rode in a drosky and, between the smelly horses and the garlic odor of the driver, we floated out. One of the girls understands some Chinese and we got along well with her explanations. She went in first and made motions with her folded hands to inquire when the prayers would start. About that time a night came in the door and stood and bowed three times over his folded hands while the priest banged a cymbal three times. The Chinese girl thought we wanted to do the same so we all took turns at the ceremony and we couldn't keep from grinning when the priest banged us in. One of the girls took a picture of all of us kneeling behind the 20 young monks who were chanting in a sing-song voice, tapping drums and cymbals. The colors of the hangings and odor of incense were lovely. "Yesterday I learned to play mah jong which will give us something to do instead of the more brain-taxing bridge. "The typhoon is over," Mrs. Lippold writes two days later, "but another is reported on the way. "The Marblehead didn't come up from Shanghai. Instead it went right on past to Chin-Wang-Too to evacuate marines and take them to Shanghai. That will take another week. I will go to Shanghai and Manila as early as possible, probably by September 16, as the Marblehead may be cruising all over the China coast from now on, depending on war developments. "Marblehead Comes In. "The Marblehead came in Monday night," writes Mrs. Lippold September 6. "It stayed two hours to unload mail, supplies and officers for Asiatic duty and then pulled out again without our boys getting ashore. 'The Gallipoli Ghost of the China Coast' is off again and we don't expect to see much of her even after we get to Manila on account of the European situation. I imagine the six-week cruise from Manila to the southern islands will be cancelled and our ships will concentrate around Manila during the trouble. "Exchange is dropping so I went to the navy club and changed all the money I expect to need until I leave here which will probably be September 19 on a British steamer," writes Mrs. Lippold in another message. "We can't count on anything certain but I wouldn't have had this reservation if I hadn't gone to the British head office a month ago for it. I guess it pays to talk to the head man because some of the girls are still only on the waiting list. "Experience With Japs. "Yesterday morning I had an interesting experience. I wanted to change the date and name of my boat on my passport papers so was the first one into the Japanese consulate at 9 o'clock. All the office force were out in the yard doing setting-up exercises to music. I waited until they finished and then tended to my business. When I came out of the building my ricksha coolie had disappeared and there was no one on the streets but two Jap soldiers. One was pointing his gun with bayonet up the hill and snorting at me with a wild look in his eye. I walked up to him and asked in a calm way where my ricksha coolie was. He kept pointing and jabbering and getting more excited and I kept looking around and acting like I didn't understand him because I knew my boy would be near somewhere. Finally he got so excited he took hold of my elbow and gave me a little shove up the hill. By that time I started up the hill under my own power and called out for the coolie who was waiting in an alley and didn't see me! The Japs often clear the streets this way whenever an important Jap officer is visiting because they don't want anyone taking a shot at him. "I hear that Manila is hard to find living quarters in because of many refugees. "Leave for New Home. "Here we are in Shanghai," states Mrs. Lippold's letter of September 16. I kept going down to the ticket office until I packed up a cancellation and left in 24 hours. Jimmy and I had a very enjoyable trip. I will be the only Marblehead wife here until the others start coming down. The British ship was clean with good meals and nice officers. It was a little 'scary' at night as all deck lights were out. An officer closed every hatch and cabin window so that no ray of light could show outside. This was done so that in case a commercial raider was in those waters, it couldn't see our ship. There were two Russian armed guards peering over the Chinese gates. Our cabin was pretty hot with so many windows closed. Walk (Dr. Lippold) was waiting to meet us, also the navy purchasing officer who takes care through the customs without having to open things. We are staying down town at a hotel and may get two rooms. The plan is now that the Marblehead goes to Manila October 4 so I will get my reservation on the President Taft for September 30."

Crowds Join in Celebration Here

Ernest Bader and John Kyl as they appeared in Wayne Herald parade Saturday.

Mrs. E. E. Galley and Henry E. Ley, selected the Tasty Cooks for first place and the Pleasant Valley for second.

Girl scouts, with Mrs. R. W. Casper general chairman and Mrs. M. W. Feddersen, Miss Doris Paterson, Mrs. J. B. Carhart and Mrs. J. A. Moore troop leaders, costumed as they wished for the parade. A colored couple, bridal party, tramps and others were portrayed. The judges considered the troops of equal merit.

Boy scouts, with Prof. A. F. Gulliver and Rev. J. A. Whitman leaders, used their own ideas in costuming for the parade. An anti-aircraft gun symbolizing preparedness and costuming to show how different nationalities can live together peacefully in this country were included. Some scouts represented policemen, backwoodsman, etc. Judges also selected these troops as of equal merit.

John Kyl and Ernest Bader costumed as mountaineers of the '90's, urging votes for Bryan and free silver. Virgil Kimball and Harris Warner costumed and led Walter Lerner's little Dachshund. Winside German band rode a truck and furnished appropriate music. Callithumpians also entered the parade.

The Herald furnished prizes of $25 to the groups entering the parade.

An important part of the parade consisted of the new automobiles entered by Wayne dealers. The celebration fell on the day most of these new models were first shown, and attractive new cars were entered by the Central Garage, Coryell Auto Co., Wayne Motor Co., and Wm. Finn. M. L. Ringer, C. E. Nicholaisen, Chester Walters and D. S. Wightman directed the parade.

Wayne business firms had special trade advantages Saturday. Some served and others furnished souvenirs. Many new visitors joined the large number of regular customers in realizing special trade advantages in Wayne.

Northern Nebraska has many natural advantages over the south...

An Iowa wrote to a northeast Nebraskan in 1879 as follows: "I think there might be quite an immigration to your county and west if people of the outside world could but know what a beautiful country you have..."

An iron railroad bridge was constructed by the C. B. & Q. over the Missouri at Plattsmouth to avoid paying $10 per car toll over the U. P. bridge at Omaha.

Boone county, Nebraska, is to be favored with a colony of 600 Russians.

The Missouri and Niobrara Valley Railroad company was incorporated in 1879 "to construct the north branch of the Union Pacific railroad."

The route proposed was from Dixon City westward to the mouth of the Niobrara river, thence through the state to connect with the U. P. at Cheyenne or Rock Creek in the territory of Wyoming.

Travelers to the Black Hills reported no mosquitoes at Deadwood but they found the route there alive with them.

A new railroad from Minnesota to the Black Hills was under construction.

Horde thieves were reported active in the Black Hills.

Mrs. Thomas J. Meyer, nee Paxton, 25, died Sunday last week at San Diego, Calif.

Bobbie Breen is the star whom McGinn taught while he was making five pictures.

John Finn of Wayne, and Miss Frances Verzani of Newcastle, were married October 16, 1923.

J. H. Kemp has been elected one of six lieutenants for the Iowa-Nebraska Kiwanis district.

A white pelican of extra large variety was shot near Plainville by a Wayne college student and the bird will be mounted for the college biology department.

Mrs. Rosina Birlmeyer, mother of Mrs. Wm. Piepenstock, died here October 13, 1923, at the age of 89.

J. R. Rundell is building a large warehouse at the rear of his grocery.

Wayne's nerves suffered a series of earthquake shocks when reports came that two cars collided between Wayne and Wakefield and two persons were fatally injured.

Wayne Instructor Teaches Film Star Who Appears Here

"A sweet, intelligent child who reached stardom in her first picture," Thus Dean Clarence McGinn of Wayne college faculty, describes little Irene Dare, the marvelous skater, who was featured in the new film, "Everything's on Ice," shown Saturday at Wayne theatres in the public entertainment sponsored by the Wayne Herald.

Irene learned to skate on the ice rinks in the neighborhood of the movie colony at Hollywood. Her skill was recognized by Producer Sol Lesser who put her under contract at once.

The film shown in Wayne Saturday is her second and the producer predicts she is headed for a wonderful career.

Teachers are with them always, seeing that they have three hours of study and not more than four hours of picture work.

Stars Are Intelligent. Movie children who are successful are very intelligent.

Iron ore of good quality was found at Deadwood in the Black Hills. A locomotive was ordered sent to the hills to haul the ore from the mine to the Homestake mill.

Harry Brennen, jr., 5, begged his mother for a penny to buy a candy sucker. Because "he was a good boy" he got it, ran happily to the store and bought the candy. Running homeward he didn't see an approaching automobile. Bystanders who picked up his lifeless body said he still clutched the sucker in his hand.

An official of an Indianapolis amusement park gave an employee a $20 bill and asked him to get $20 worth of nickels at the corner store. The employee came back juggling several buckets of dill pickles. "I could only get $16 worth there and I'll have to go some other place for the other $4 worth," he explained.

A Los Angeles doctor testified he was going on an emergency call when police arrested him for going 65 miles an hour. But police testified the doctor kissed his wife as he was speeding by. The doctor shyly explained that he always kisses his wife after going under a bridge for "it means good luck." The doctor was dismissed.

When the government talks of making bomb-proof shelters on the Hawaiian island of Oahu, natives laugh. This and most of the Hawaiian islands are honeycombed with lava tubes which would make excellent shelters. The tubes are formed much as ice is formed above a moving river. When the crust of lava congeals and what is left underneath runs off, a tube is left running toward the sea. These tubes are cool and most of them have water.
