Unity of Effort THE MEETING Monday evening to organize a chamber of commerce encourages hope for constructive unity.

Fred S. Berry, one of the local speakers who followed, gave emphasis to the importance of building a long-range program of community development.

But Berry and Ahern and other speakers—all cognizant of present needs—regarded approvingly the proposed organization to make a Wayne a still better town.

Old Age OLDSTERS are piling up on society, due to advanced prophylactic means and methods, and the question often arises as to how they can be taken care of by a diminishing number of young birds to work and provide the wherewithal.

In Bad Shape NEW HAMPSHIRE shouts alarm over the state's drift towards financial disaster. Paying out more than is taken in during past years accounts for an unfortunate condition described by Author-Journalist Samuel Crowther who investigated, in part as follows:

Russia's unprovoked attack on Finland arouses doubt as to the wisdom of giving official recognition to the soviet union's government in 1933. Now the president's protest to communist invasion of a small, unoffending neighbor causes Dictator Stalin to lift his nose disdainfully.

As Chester Walters, Wayne county farm agent, explained before the Kiwanis club Monday, his different activities in behalf of agriculture, we concluded his services are just as important as those em- ployed in carrying on business or industrial

CAUTIONS. It is to the credit of farm communities and to the safety of the social order that farmers do not often fall for things offered them without thorough investigation and due thought.

Russia professes to feel hurt over the combined steps taken by American countries to force the soviet union out of the league of nations on account of its ruthless invasion of Finland.

Edgar Howard, Columbus editor, feels District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, is too critical of the new deal to succeed as a republican presidential candidate.

In considering a chamber of commerce, one cannot safely bank on immediate returns, or expect the organization to act as a substitute for individual responsibility or effort.

The Dies committee must know more about alien activities in this country than onlooking critics. There may be unsupported suspicions, though established facts are sufficient to justify safeguards.

Suicide is no remedy for anything. It is the impact of complete surrender. It is retreat to which one allows himself to be driven while in the depths of despair.

We are disposed to rely hopefully on the predictions of old settlers that the unseasonal spell of dry weather is the forerunner of a wet spring and an abundant harvest.

It is probable rural school consolidations would serve both economy and efficiency.

Financial Preparedness. Whether the shock comes during the war or after the war is over and the nations of Europe are bled white, there must be a settlement of the tangled world finances and this is bound to affect the United States. We cannot escape it.

Occasional spurts of business activity and fancied prosperity may lull us into a sense of satisfaction, but the December review issued by the First National Bank of Boston sounds a warning to which the nation will do well to give heed.

While the upturn that has taken place since last summer is encouraging, we should not lose sight of the pressing domestic problems," says the review. Among these government finance remains one of grave concern.

"On the other hand, it becomes highly essential that we economize rigidly in other lines and strive vigorously to remove barriers to a higher national income. Otherwise, we face the real danger that our burdens of government may become greater than our economic capacity."

CAUTIONS. It is to the credit of farm communities and to the safety of the social order that farmers do not often fall for things offered them without thorough investigation and due thought.

Double-dealing in reigning circles amazes people who have been grounded in truth and integrity. What a world if deception were the rule—if no one could be believed or depended on.

A Balanced Farm Program. (Omaha Journal-Stockman.) Here in the west the growing and feeding of live stock is as much a part of farming as plowing, seeding and harvesting.

"Did you ever stop to think where we as a nation would be if we did not have cattle and other live stock?" asks H. J. Gramlich, secretary of the National Short-horn Breeders' association.

Keep in mind and attend the series of pre-Christmas programs in Wayne. Work of decorating the business district is now in progress and the stores are replete with holiday goods.

The farmer's important problem here in the middle west is to balance his operations so that the products of the farm may be disposed of to the best advantage.

UP TO PARENTS. The Christian Science Monitor refers approvingly to what Roger Babson, economist, told a group of New England school superintendents recently in regard to youth training.

Both the Christian and the Jewish religions are social as well as personal. They teach the obligation of duty, to man as well as to God.

THE VOICE OF RELIGION

Current Questions and Answers About Religion, Morals and Personal Problems...

Dr. Weldon F. Crossland Rochester, New York

Is Japan's policy in Korea and China hostile to Christian missions? The recent experiences of Korean Christians who have refused to go to the Shinto shrines and do what they regard as worship there have been anything but pleasant.

Practically all the missionaries have stood by their posts during the present hostilities. They have won and deserved the affection in which the Chinese hold them.

personal. They teach the obligation of duty, to man as well as to God. "Thou shalt love the Lord Thy God with all thy soul and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength and (thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" show that Christianity and Judaism are more than a limited individual relation to God.

One of the sanest ways of judging the wisdom or folly of any action is to consider what would happen if everyone did it. What would happen to the church, to religion, to the church schools, to worship, to missions, to morals, yes, to religious faith as well, if everyone remained away from church? Would they not languish and then all but die?

Can a person become well educated without going to any school? Can a doctor become skilled without attending a medical school and engaging in practice? Can a football player become expert by practicing alone? Can a person be religious without associating in the church with others? In theory it is possible, in practice it is all but impossible.

Miss Laura Koepke Is Bride Of Latimer J. Richards Of Near Carroll.

Mr. Latimer J. Richards, son of Mrs. Ann Richards of Carroll, and Miss Laura I. Koepke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Koepke of Hoskins, were married Tuesday afternoon, November 28, at 2 o'clock at a quiet and informal ceremony performed by Rev. E. H. Boelling at Zion Lutheran church north of Hoskins. A reception for the immediate relatives and the Rev. Boelling family was held at the Koepke home Thanksgiving day. The young folks spent a few days visiting in Sioux City before returning to make their home on a farm near Carroll.

The bride was gowned in plum color street length dress with gold trimmings and she wore a yellow-gold cross to match at the wedding service. Her bouquet was of white carnations and red roses. Miss Clara Moeding of South Dakota, and Herman Koepke, brother of the bride, were attendants. Mrs. Richards has been employed in Denver for the past three years and Mr. Richards has been farming near Carroll.

Early Winter Was Mild. J. D. Boyce recalls that the winter of 1894-95 had only one light snow and that he hauled corn each month without having his horses shod. The following spring and summer brought plentiful rain and good crops. The same is predicted for this year by an old Indian at Winnebago.

Represent County At Omaha Meeting

Reserve feed supplies, adequate temporary pasture as a supplement for permanent pastures, well-kept livestock and balanced livestock and grass management practices were recognized Tuesday last week when farmers from all parts of the state met in Omaha for the closing of another pasture-forage-livestock program in which 1,600 cooperated. Special recognition, a trophy and $50, for outstanding work was given to each of six men, C. U. Cook of Washington county, L. D. Spence of Johnson, Harold Beins of Hamilton, Lester Hersh of Red Willow, Neal Barbour of Scotts Bluff, and F. G. and Wm. Beckhoff of Thomas. For honorable mention 48 others were presented certificates.

A new and interesting feature of the day was the morning livestock grading demonstration. W. J. Loeffel, Walter Tillman and Wm. Derry discussed what livestock buyers want in cattle, hogs and sheep. Following noon luncheon given by the Stock Yards company, the men heard Byron Demore of Omaha, H. C. Filley, M. L. Flack, Ivan Wood and W. H. Brakow of Lincoln, and Dean W. C. Coffey of Minnesota. Mr. Filley explained that he believed hog prices are about as low as they will go and thinks they should improve soon. Mr. Flack stressed the use of silage and told of new kinds. Mr. Wood presented a 65-year rain chart which showed that amounts of moisture had varied up and down in this time. Dean Coffey stressed the need of the pasture and forage emphasis, and Mr. Brakow showed pictures of such work in this state.
