Appropriations bill by the house of representatives already is an indication that it is going to become increasingly hard to finance the present program. However, I take the position at this time that so long as we have not yet found a better method of meeting present difficulties, sufficient funds should be provided to make the program workable. When I return to Washington I expect to join the fight to see that that is done. Nevertheless, farmers and all others interested in the prosperity of agriculture must be giving their constant thought to development of a program which will not be dependent on federal appropriations in the future.

With respect to his record in Washington Senator Burke said: "I have at all times attempted to determine what in my judgment is best for Nebraska and the nation. Once I have decided, I have not permitted myself to be swayed by any other consideration. In that I have believed I have acted as the people of Nebraska have wished me to act. You do not send a man to Washington to become a rubber stamp. It has been tradition that men chosen to represent Nebraska have been expected to do their own thinking—without fear of threats, without being influenced by patronage or the pressure of minority groups.

"If you nominate and elect me, I shall continue to give my best efforts to the interests of Nebraska and in doing so to exercise my own best judgment," pledged the senator.

In Hospital Here. Mrs. Wm. Watson, who was taken to a local hospital Sunday for medical care, remains about the same.

Miss Dorothy Heidenreich of Oshkosh, formerly of Wayne, has been reelected teacher at Inman.

Livestock and Feed Program Planned

To encourage balanced livestock and feed operations on Nebraska farms and to allow for a free exchange of ideas and experiences among farmers are the objectives of the statewide pasture-forage-livestock program which is again under way in the state. Everyone is eligible to cooperate and application blanks may be secured from Agent Chester Walters.

County, regional and state finish-ups will be arranged for fall. One of the regional meetings will be in northeast Nebraska, and the state finish-up will be in Omaha. Wayne county was represented last fall at the state meeting by Gep. Owens, C. H. Morris, L. C. Bauer, John Owens, Clare Buskirk, Irven Graves, Owen Jenkins, Emmet Erickson, C. A. Bard, Worely Benschoff, W. E. Ellis, T. P. Roberts and E. L. Pearson.

Cast Is Named For Play in April

Cast for the play, "Night of January 16," which will be presented by the Wayne Players the early part of April, has been named. Mrs. F. A. Milder is director.

The characters are taken by Supt. N. F. Thorpe, Mervin Feddersen, Mrs. Austin Craemer, Mrs. R. K. Kirkman, Ted Foust, Miss Ruth Ross, Vernon Cassel, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Wightman, Miss Hazel Reeve, H. E. Ley, Harold West, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wright, L. E. Brown, Mrs. Eva McIntosh, Miss Doris Patterson, Dr. L. F. Perry, Howard Witt and Miss Miriam Huse.

Twelve important members of the cast remain to be chosen but this selection is not made until the evening of the performance. These are the jury who will listen to the evidence and render a verdict on which will depend which of the two endings will be used. The cast is debating the question among themselves, was she guilty or not guilty. Such well known people as United States congressmen, and James Roosevelt, Jack Dempsey and Helen Keller have served on the jury at professional performances.

number of road signs and also to publicize Wayne in outside points. To promote more conventions, T. S. Hook's committee aims to call members of various groups to get in touch with possible meetings planned.

Two Major Objectives.

Soil conservation districts and grasshopper control are at present the two major objectives of the agricultural committee, with Herman Lundberg leader. It was reported that the south part of the county has asked for such work and other parts may be added in a soil district. A grasshopper control meeting will be called early this spring.

The food stamp plan, aimed to give more purchasing power to relief dollars and to reduce surplus commodities, is one of the objectives of the trade extension group, headed by L. E. Brown. A federal executive will be in northeast Nebraska within a few weeks to investigate feasibility of establishing the plan in this section. Mr. Swett and Frank Exleben were in Norfolk Monday for a food stamp meeting. The committee also plans special trade events each month. Dollar days were featured in February. Spring opening event is planned for March, spring cleanup for April, graduation feature for May, rooster day for June.

The athletic committee, headed by A. M. Kern, furnished a trophy for runner-up in the class B basketball tournament here this week. The group aims to line up other sports events with the objective being to make Wayne an athletic center.

Mr. Swett's talk on the general objectives of the Chamber of Commerce and the need for cooperation closed the series.

The entertainment committee, with C. E. Nicholaisen chairman, arranged for music by the college double quartet, and also for luncheon which closed the evening.

The board of directors will meet next Monday.

whose farms and chattels are mortgaged and attempting to solve farm problems by approaching them from the standpoint of a farmer, not a theorist.

Compete With Foreigners.

Mr. Jefferis quoted trade statistics to show that imports of farm products competing with Nebraska producers increased from 22 million dollars worth in 1932 to 136 millions in 1937, this being six times. This forces Nebraska farmers to compete with foreigners and floods the local market with products, thus reducing prices in this country. Mr. Jefferis further charged that the new "undetermined confidence in the American system."

Sound Business Needed.

Good judgment, patience and great care will be required to pull this nation through the cycle of troubles due to debts; relief rolls, unemployment and devaluated farms, according to Mr. McMullen. Improved conditions for business will restore buying power and provide a market for products. Farmers must not be forced to compete with impoverished labor abroad, and surpluses must be marketed. Let farmers work out their business as their good judgment sees fit, Mr. McMullen urged.

Mr. Wherry introduced other republican candidates who responded with brief remarks. The state candidates sponsoring the caravan are the following: For governor, C. E. Alter of Alma, Ed. Bauman of West Point, Charles J. Warner of Waverly, Dr. A. L. Miller of Kimball, Dwight Griswold of Gordon; for lieutenant governor, Wm. E. Johnson of Schuyler; for state auditor, Roy C. Johnson of Lincoln; for state treasurer, Dr. O. Olson of Lincoln; for railway commissioner, Edwin Schultz of Elgin, Charles E. Starr of Omaha, Richard H. Larson of Lincoln, John Knickreim of Grand Island; for national committeeman, Lyle Jackson of Neligh, G. E. "Bert" Carpenter of Omaha; for national committeewoman, Mrs. Edna Basten Donald of Grand Island; Mrs. Minnie Fried Watson of Lincoln; for secretary of state, Frank Marsh of Lincoln, Walter F. Cozad of Omaha.

E. W. Huse of Wayne, candidate for delegate to the national convention, Mrs. Charles Kuhle of Leigh, state committeewoman from 16th unicameral district, Mrs. Ella Wagner, vice chairman of the state committee, Joe Wisbart, chairman of the state finance committee, Miss Ann Evans, secretary at state headquarters, were introduced.

T. S. Hook, Wayne county chairman, presided at the banquet. He presented Mrs. L. B. McClure, vice chairman, Don Wightman, secretary-treasurer, Hadley Kelsey, secretary of Madison county, Louis Eby, chairman of Cedar county, Merle Kingsbury, chairman in Dixon county. Each member of the caravan was assigned a host or hostess who presented the candidate at the banquet. These hosts and hostesses were A. V. Teed, H. E. Siman, F. S. Berry, R. R. Larson, Wm. McEachen, J. T. Bressler, Jr., Dr. C. T. Ingham, C. A. Orr, Dr. T. T. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McClure, L. W. Hahlbeck was in charge of ushers; Don Wightman, Mrs. Walden Felber, Mrs. Lutgen and Mrs. McClure, banquet tickets.

The caravan, a new plan in taking candidates to the people, traveled 2,000 miles last week, stopping at 36 towns. Another such trip was held previously and a third is planned.

The state republican convention will be in Grand Island May 2 and the group at the rally expressed a desire to have Arthur H. Vandenberg brought there at that time.

Art Exhibit Is Sent to Kearney

Five of Basketball Team Closing Season Are In Senior Class

Wayne city school has entered junior and senior art work in the Kearney art fair sponsored by Kearney city school. Work will be judged and from the entries an exhibit will be compiled for sending to schools wishing it. Last year Wayne high school art work tied for first place in Kearney. This year, in addition to the Nebraska art work winning in the competition, the traveling exhibit will include art work from San Francisco, New York and other city schools.

The object of the art fair and traveling display is to improve the status of art, its production and appreciation in the schools and communities, to provide an incentive for developing artistic appreciation on the part of young people and to furnish an opportunity to observe and appreciate the efforts of other schools and student talents in this type of activity.

Art work of Patty and Rodney Love, Willis Lessman, Dopia and Bud Harder, Dick Lueders, Paul Petersen, Wilbur, Albert, John Berg, Carol, Nicholasen, Betty Ann Zepin, Marjorie Brugger and Marilyn Stratton was sent from here this year.

Wayne will probably have the Kearney exhibit here this spring or in early fall.

English Winter Is Typical of Nebraska Sort

"A snowstorm raging and the whole place white beneath a leaden sky." This scene could be in Nebraska but it happens to be the way Miss Kathleen Staines describes the view from her window in Casterton, England, January 28 when writing to Wayne friends. Miss Staines was exchange teacher at Wayne college last year. "We have had the coldest Christmas for years and even the Canadian soldiers who have come over here are complaining of the cold," continues Miss Staines. "This is in spite of the fact that our temperatures are nothing as low as yours, but ours is a damp cold and then we don't have our houses properly heated."

Miss Staines and her parents spent the holidays with Miss Staines' brother and wife and two children near London. The 3-year-old son in the family is chiefly interested in engines and naturally so for his father is an engineer. Miss Staines describes the 8-month-old daughter in her brother's family as a "merry little soul."

Miss Staines and her parents spent a week at the holiday time in their home at Gillingham, Kent, "to warm up the house." Gillingham is in one of the dangerous areas. There was a spot of anti-aircraft fire while they were there, though it was nothing to cause alarm.

Describes Blackout.
The "blackout" is truly an unusual experience, Miss Staines writes. "If you can imagine every light in Wayne extinguished—no street lamps, not a glimmer from shop windows or houses, and cars moving cautiously with dim blue lights, you get some idea of the effect. It is just weird and one thing that always strikes me is how you can hear the tramp of feet. I suppose it is partly because there is much less traffic noise, as nobody drives at night unless he has to, and also people are inclined to grope and shuffle along in case they bump into something. Of course when it is moonlight we feel it is almost like day."

"Our school is over-full at present, owing to the fact that we are in a safe area and girls from schools which have closed down have come to us. With a reduced staff and more girls we have plenty of work. Now we have a case of measles which means that one house has to be isolated and we have to run to and fro to give them lessons. We are hoping the measles won't spread but the doctor is very pessimistic and says it will go on all the time."

War Felt By All.
"I suppose there isn't anyone in the country whom the war hasn't affected in some way, even if they are not among those who have already lost their dear ones," states Miss Staines. "My brother, being an engineer, is in a reserved occupation and will not therefore be called up to serve in the army. In fact, as things are at present, you are not allowed to join the fighting forces if you are in one of the reserved occupations. This is due to experience in the last war when a lot of skilled men joined up and it was found afterwards that they would have been more useful where they were. My brother is, however, in the auxiliary fire service and has to be away from home every other night when he sleeps at his work in London with the rest of the crew, ready to be called on should there be an air raid."

"Father, who retired last year and was looking forward to having a nice little house by the sea, has volunteered to go back to the ship building if he is needed. Teachers have got to stick to their jobs."

Foods Are Rationed.
"Butter rationing started recently. The limit is four ounces each per week. Children are given theirs at tea each day in the form of a small pot each. For other meals they can have as much margarine as they want. Members of the staff are given their quarter pound for the week and each has a little glass pot to carry the ration around in and use it for whichever meal preferred. Some use an equal amount each day while others use margarine for two or three days and have a good feast of butter at the week-end. The situation allows a variety of treatments. Sugar is also rationed but the allowance is so liberal that we don't notice it and there is no need to have separate portions for each person. Bacon is the other rationed food at present and, as we are allowed half a pound each per week, this presents no difficulty. Everything is going up in price though not as rapidly as in the last war. The cost of living has advanced about 15 per cent."

Miss Staines' recollection of her year in Wayne is most pleasant. She enjoyed experiences here and values highly the friendships she made.

CONGRESSMAN Karl Stefan reports completion of a tremendously foolish government project in Chicago — counting the city's trees at a total cost of $321,286, or more than fifty cents per tree. How much better people would feel to do useful work and be paid accordingly? How much better to have a system by which necessary employment is stimulated, actual labor demand supplanting waste of time and taxpayers' money on fruitless endeavors?

Touching some useless federal projects, Nation's Business says:

"By way of encouraging some of our 'mute inglorious Miltons' on relief, WPA has published a tome somewhat thicker than Manhattan's telephone directory with the title, 'An Inventory of County and Borough Records of Richmond.' When the job is completed for the whole city it will run to 15 more such volumes. All city records will be catalogued and a compendium made of all laws and ordinances by every lawmaking body in New York since Peter Minuit's day. Records of all churches in the city will be inventoried.

"These 'creative' projects are considered so essential that they probably will be undertaken in all the 3,360 counties in the country, the New York survey supervisor announces. To date the cost in New York has been $1,200,000.

"If the Writers' Projects run out of 'made work' we have a few suggestions. Its literary artisans might be put to making bibliography of all press releases issued by Washington bureaus. That should keep all hands occupied for a good spell besides greatly stimulating the paper and pulp trade. Several thousand WPA researchers might be assigned to codifying all the orders (laws) promulgated by quasi-legislative boards in Washington. If any time remains it could be consumed in compiling a short digest in 20 volumes of the long-range federal planning since 1933."

EVERY WEEK the Herald is refreshed and stimulated by personal letters from widely scattered friends. One from J. S. Woodson, editorial writer for the Sioux City Journal, who spoke to Kiwanians and guests here recently, breathes so much our idea of Wayne's wholesome cordiality that we are going to reproduce one paragraph. It says:

"Be assured that I returned home that afternoon in a very happy frame of mind. I never met a more cordial, friendly group of people, and I know it did me a lot of good to get out of Sioux City and away from my desk if only for a part of the day."

People want to know that the good they reflect does not pass unobserved, and so we are pleased to spread this favorable impression.

Another letter this week — one from Rev. W. A. Mansur of Inavale, Neb., at one time pastor of the Methodist church at Winside — strikes a note of progress in referring to inconsequential strife over forms and ceremonies in religion. The harm in such contentions led him to observe:

"It's the vital truth! Much time is wasted — ability, organization — over the superficial so-called religious things. And the world of people, human lives by the millions, must live and die while religious leadership wastes precious time and life over forms and ceremonies. The good God must laugh at our follies when He sees people battle over forms and ceremonies."

The Herald will be pleased to publish in full letters intended for publication. We wish former Wayne county residents, now living elsewhere, would write us for Herald readers what they are doing and seeing and thinking.

THE Omaha Journal-Stockman expresses confidence in the sound thinking of American youth who reach the voting age this year. Touching the subject, it quotes this from the Atlantic News Telegraph:

"If a person wants to know just how good or how bad or how communistic or how revolutionary the youth of the land is, let him check up on the young people of his home community. We think they will be found to be a pretty sane and respectable group. They would like to have jobs and be getting ahead in the world, and they cannot be blamed if they grumble a bit about present economic conditions, because they are being seriously injured by these same conditions, but no one can honestly accuse them of being revolutionists. They are ambitious and anxious, but sane and patriotic in the best sense of the word."

Thomas E. Dewey of New York, republican presidential candidate, spoke to the Founders' day meeting in Lincoln last evening. It is understood Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Dewey's rival in Nebraska for the republican nomination, will appear in the state later. Many would fashion an acceptable national ticket by intrusting the task of leadership to each, placing Vandenberg at the head of the ticket and giving Dewey the vice presidency. Dewey has an abundance of vigor and personal charm, but he lacks the age and experience possessed by the Michigan man. Manifestly, if Dewey should refuse second place on the ticket he would prove the convention's wisdom in not placing him at the top. The most seasoned judgment is essential in the present crisis.

Merle Thorpe's contribution to the March edition of Nation's Business stresses growing nepotism in Washington. He suggests that hiring nephews and other relatives in the government service no longer disturbs anybody's sensibilities. One nephew, reputed worth $50 per month, captured a job with salary attachment of $2,800. "Whereas," Thorpe says, "ten years ago eleven citizens in gainful employment supported one government agent or ward, today these same eleven support three on the government pay roll."

A good deal of kicking is directed at the wide range of questions asked by census takers, but there is no way to sidestep the inquisitorial process. Numerous questions, some of which seem an undue invasion of privacy, will provide a lot of work in compiling returns, much of which may be worth little or nothing to the present generation or to posterity.

The Burt County Herald, published at Tekamah, resents the tendency of the new deal to sidetrack elderly individuals and intrust the reins of state largely to young "bloods." As a matter of fact, there should be an effective mingling of both age and youth — the former for judgment and the latter for steam. Each fares better by teaming with the other.

Unemployment Problem.

(The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor at Miami, Fla., January 31, 1940.)

"Unemployment still is the most acute domestic problem of the nation. No orderly and intelligent effort has yet been made to determine the facts with regard to its causes, its extent, its cure. As a nation we have not hesitated to spend billions for the relief of those who are unemployed, but we have neglected to take the necessary steps to reduce and end unemployment.

"At this time there are not enough jobs in private industry to go around. This is largely due, in our opinion, to the fact that lack of confidence has stunted business growth and expansion. We demand that those in authority take whatever steps may be necessary to restore business confidence.

"We urge that all government actions that tend unnecessarily to discourage business expansion cease and that a positive effort be made to encourage greater industrial activity. We have learned the lesson that when opportunities for profit diminish, opportunities for jobs likewise disappear."

Regimentation Agriculture.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman) We speak about the regimentation of agriculture in this country but the danger of such a radical change is not imminent. It may come in the distant future but such a possibility is not worrying American farmers today. Over in Europe it is different.

The dispatches tell us that the government of France has requisitioned the services of the republic's 7,000,000 farmers and put them under military control. This is not for fighting at the front but behind the lines in the necessary production of foodstuffs in as great quantity as possible. It distinctly is a war measure.

This will mean in France as intensive cultivation, perhaps, as ever has been attempted there. The soil will be made to yield to the limit of its productivity. There will be little waste space. Soil that will produce will be put to work in growing crops that the nation and army may be fed while the war goes on.

In England as well as in Germany the functions of farming are being taken over by the government and the tillers of the soil are being told what land to plow, what crops to produce and then the products are taken over by the state with no regard to farmers' wishes.

The picture is not a pretty one but it is one that can be studied with profit by us all.

Hook, H. D. Addison, Dr. C. T. Ingham, Russel Bartels and David Hamer.

HATCH LAW. The Hatch law, passed not long ago to prevent government employees from attempting to influence the course of political campaigns, restricts activities of farmer members of local AAA committees. The agricultural department's solicitor has made such an interpretation of the law and the warning has been issued accordingly by Secretary Wallace. Approximately 130,000 committed members and 70,000 other department employees will be affected by the order. But the president and cabinet members will use the radio to explain to farm groups how the triple A plan is working to their advantage, and how more time will be required to fatten results. The Hatch bill will not prevent talks from the White House throne, nor prevent farmers, from listening. If presentation of thoughts, believed timely, from the Washington fireside influences farmer committees thinking, how can the Hatch law or anything else interfere? It is presumed the law will keep WPA and other federal workers from mixing actively into politics. They will of course be permitted to vote, but in the meantime they cannot, as we understand, take off their coats and plug for or against candidates or party issues. They are expected to lay off active participation in political activities. Of course, they can listen, and finally go to the polls and exercise the electoral franchise.

publican caravan of candidates to gratifying success Friday evening. No vacant chairs yawned for takers when the banquet started at Hotel Stratton. The crowd at the auditorium after the banquet was not so large as it would have been if the walks and roads had not been icy and the sky threatening.

Introducing candidates by local participants following the banquet was a thoughtful arrangement by which to extend acquaintance. One state candidate, surveying the crowd, ventured the suggestion that he would not suffer in appearance by comparison. As a matter of fact, at the banquet and subsequently in the auditorium, the different competing candidates appeared uniformly well. To decide among them will often be a difficult task. It is doubtful if the republican party was ever able to submit a stronger, more appealing array of candidates.

It is assured that winners in the primary April 9 will have the active support of those who do not make the grade. All seem fully to realize there are other and more important objectives than capturing the offices. Delegations from neighboring counties showed revitalized interest in rebarring the course in public policies.

VANDENBERG.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, republican candidate for the presidency, made a constructive speech at St. Paul, Minn., February 10, and his background of experience enabled convincing observations in reference to farm and other problems which must harmonize in order to insure balanced progress. He said this in conclusion: "We are entirely surrounded by desperately vital problems. They affect not only the material well-being of 130,000,000 people. They threaten the very character of American life and institutions. They often menace individual freedom. They often hazard representative democracy. We cannot meet them in a spirit of numb reaction, as though the world was finished yesterday. But we dare not meet them in a spirit of contempt for history, tradition, and experience—as if there were no wisdom prior to 1932. We must put human rights ahead of property rights. Yet we must not forget that property rights are among the most precious and the most significant of human rights. Our call is to the high middle ground of realistic common sense, where liberalism and conservatism shall strike a happy balance for the common good. It is our assignment in the national destiny to restore the spirit of constitutional liberty to American institutions; to restore the genius of free enterprise to American commerce; to restore real jobs to American men and women and protect their maintenance; to restore hope and confidence to the American people who shall move forward in the American way of life. It is a desperately vital assignment. It must be accepted in the consciousness, to borrow Emerson's vivid phrase, that America is God's last chance to make a world."

- 1. By removing planting restrictions in drought-stricken areas like Nebraska until normal production is again reached. 2. By increasing farm benefit payments in hard-hit areas like Nebraska, and reducing them in states that are now up to or above normal in purchasing power of farm cash income.

- 3. By helping struggling feeders and farmers of Nebraska and like territory out of a tight situation through distribution to them, at a fair price, of Government corn now held in storage. 4. By prohibiting cotton and tobacco planters from planting corn on acreage taken out of cotton and tobacco under Government crop control schedules. 5. By increasing the market for Nebraska sugar at home through the establishment of research laboratories in our state agricultural college in order that new industrial uses for Nebraska farm products may be perfected.

- 6. By cancelling those portions of the reciprocal trade agreements that encourage the importation of farm commodities grown in the United States. 7. By adopting a fair attitude toward those whose farms and chattels are covered with Government loans. 8. By protecting the Nebraska sugar producer from foreign competition so that they may supply the domestic market to which they are entitled. 9. By developing all feasible irrigation projects in Nebraska. The National Government should render the same assistance to these projects as it has to others already in operation. 10. By sincerely attempting to solve farm problems through approaching them from the standpoint of the farmer—not the theorist.

TOUGH LUCK — You can't blame a man for growing poor crops if the rains don't come when they should... if the bugs swarm all over the farm... and if the hot wind burn the plants to living ash, That's tough luck. That's when a fellow needs ANOTHER CHANCE. The DeKalb Agricultural Association has made "special provisions" to give 1839's hard-hit Nebraska farmers ANOTHER CHANCE in 1940. These provisions are designed to lighten the hybrid seed corn cost at planting time, just when many Nebraska farmers need "a break" the most. Accession Books At Wayne Library

"Hearken Unto the Voice," by Franz Werfel, is among the new books recently received at the Wayne city library. In this magnificent heart-stirring novel, the author brings to full realization the many facets of a genius that has long been recognized as one of the great voices of modern literature. In particular, it is the story of Jeremiah.

"Murder in Shinbone Alley," by Helen Reilly, is an inspector McKee story of the crime club selection.

"A Smattering of Ignorance" is by Oscar Levant. The author is one of the most robust of modern wits and puts music in its place.

"Love in the Sun," by Leo Walmsley is a novel about a couple who rented an old army shack on the Colush coast. They had almost no money, but they had love and courage. Their experiences are related here.

"Head of the House," by Grace Livingston Hill, is a story in which a tragic airplane accident caused the death of both parents and left the seven young Graemes to be quarrelled over by their stodgy relatives.

Lida Larrimore always writes about the kind of people all of us would like to know. The same is true of her novel, "Midberry Square."

"Three's a Crew" is by Katherine Pinkerton. Members of the author's family are just ordinary people who bought a 30-foot motor cruiser in Seattle. Having had no previous knowledge of nautical life, they have interesting experiences.

"Fathers Are Funny," by Fredric F. Van de Water, is of a father of 20 years' experience who breaks down and tells all.

"Let the People Sing," by J. B. Priestly, is a tender, gay novel of adventure, a hopeful commentary on the human spirit.

"Sherrill Blandon's Call," by Zenobia Bird, takes the reader to the scenes of mission work in a great city.

"Moment in Peking," by Lin Yutang, is a Chinese novel written in English but in the authentic manner of the Chinese novelists, and is a literary event of the first order.

"The Car Belongs to Mother" is by Priscilla Hovey Wright. The world has waited vainly for an articulate presentation of the inner life of that often-mentioned, but never understood person, the woman driver of the automobile.

Observe Birthday Of Girl Scouting

In observing the 28th birthday of girl scouting March 12, the 572,000 girls of this organization will stress anew their responsibilities towards themselves, their homes, their communities, their country and their world.

The movement started back in 1912 when Juliette Gordon Low, a high-spirited, vivacious southern belle, returned to America from England. She was ill, and quite deaf. But she was an intrepid woman. She believed she had a great gift to bestow upon American girls. The gift of girl scouting adapted from the boy scout movement of her English friend, Lord Baden-Powell. And she was eager to get started.

In 1912 there was not much for young girls to do. There were sewing, tennis and tea parties. Consciousness of citizenship was left to develop from the hazy text of school books.

The girl scout movement helped to change all this. Juliette Low believed that a girl wanted to take an active part in her country's government. She believed they needed to be trained within the limits of their own understanding for the responsibilities that belong to those who live in a democracy.

And so the very first girl scouts, as are those of today, were taught to be aware of the needs of their communities, their states and their country.

Girl scouting was born shortly before the World war, and now the world is meeting another test of that principles shall survive. "The girl scout movement," according to the president, Mrs. Harvey Mudd of Beverly Hills, Cal., "must strive to become a more force so that it can join with others to combat those who recognize no other truth than justice. We can do this by teaching simple virtues, and defending what we know is right. By so doing, girl scouts can take a worthy part in meeting the jeopardous days of 1940."

The retiring officers were given a vote of thanks. Dr. R. R. Stuart, who is retiring president, presided at the meeting.

St. Patrick motif was used for table decorations. Song books from Iowa were used as placecards. The group went to the high school auditorium to see pictures of the Iowa-Notre Dame game. A large crowd attended.

Another gathering is planned for next year.

damaged his place and a large pane broke. Then a pedestrian stumbled and fell through the new pane. Later a truck threw a wheel and broke the pane for a third time. Still later the vibrations of a train engine broke the pane again. A resounding bang that lifted the ceiling in two rooms, shattered all windows in the 5-room house and tore doors from their hinges told an Oklahoma woman what was the matter with her new gas-line stove. It leaked. The stove was not working properly so the woman had a service man examine it. The explosion was the result. No one was hurt.

'Round About This Funny World Tawny, 22-year-old lion that died of old age, spent its entire life as a backyard pet of a Los Angeles woman. People kept asking why not name a North Carolina village after this or that hero. They finally compromised. The name is Wynth. A Wisconsin truck carrying a load of hay caught fire and burned. The only part left undamaged was the gasoline tank containing 23 gallons of gasoline. It cost a Salt Lake man 36c to pay a 37c tax. He paid 5c for money order, 3c postage, 3c return postage, 15c for registered mail and 10c for special delivery. Despite careful watch by police, mystery surrounded the cutting of three limbs and finally the trunk of a cherry tree in Salt Lake. Finally a beaver solved the problem. Two brothers were killed when they were returning home near Plattsburgh after consulting an undertaker about funeral rites for their sister who was killed in a car accident. Convicted of stealing two loaves of bread valued at 20c, a Boston man was fined $25. He promptly peeled the bills off a roll which contained $219 in cash and $50 in checks. When a man robbed a New York candy kitchen of $47, two girls employed in the shop grabbed back the money, disarmed the man and held him at the point of a gun until police came. A Baltimore judge asked a prisoner what sentence he thought he should have after pleading guilty to burglary. At least a year, the man stated. The judge gave him nine months in the house of correction. An artificial limb that "grows" has been provided for a Denver child whose leg had to be amputated because of a deformity. The artificial one is built so that it can be adjusted every few weeks to the child's growth. Snow and ice have been keeping Snow and Ice pretty busy at Kokomo, Ind. J. R. Hudgens, a plumber, has enjoyed a brisk business this winter because of frozen pipes. His two helpers are Carl Ice and Gordon Snow. An eastern man, Addison Shadd, separated from his brother and sister 50 years ago, has through the years been trying to locate them. Finally the man left and relatives have located the brother and sister but can't now find Addison. A Pennsylvania man slept soundly while his car bounded off a concrete bridge, broke a tree, struck a concrete sidewalk, tore part of the porch from a house and finally stalled after reversing its direction. He was uninjured. A roofing contractor felt himself fainting when working on the steep Christian church roof at

Wm. Loewenstein, New York leather importer, left $900,000 of his million and a half estate, to establish a chain of cafeterias in each of which is to be the sign, "If you are hungry and without means, come in and have a meal as my guest." A Los Angeles taxidermist was hauling a 600-pound bear he bought in a trailer when the trailer turned over and broke. The man pondered about what to do, then opened the door of his car, let the bear jump in and the two rode home together. As the mayor of a little town drove into a side street, a little girl in a snow suit held up her hand and stopped him. "You can't go this way—we have it blocked for sledding," the child explained. ## Tells of Rulings About Tuition

Regulations determining a school's eligibility for its share of the state school fund are explained in the February issue of the Nebraska Education Bulletin. The school must be in session 126 days for the term. Time spent at public programs such as those for fairs, Armistice day, etc., is counted as school time. State schools may make no provision for holidays, but each school board is authorized to specify such days. Schools shall be closed while teachers attend institute and teachers' work is paid for such time. The state superintendent allows for lost time due to inclement weather and highway conditions when notarized explanation accompanies the report, and the board pays the teacher for the days when school was closed. When school is closed a few days for repair of buildings done by a storm, the teacher is not bound to make up the time, providing he has been in readiness to serve.

Children at the Crossroads

A Woman Metes Out Justice.
Click! ut went a telephone receiver along a rural line. Click! click! click! others followed in rapid succession as the city dweller regaled her country sister with some spicy gossip. Her neighbor had just told her over the backyard fence, she said, that Mary was picked up by a married man on a certain street corner in front of a certain store every night after school from Monday through Friday. Hashed and re-hashed, the story grew apace, and more vicious falsehoods sprang up about Mary as the eavesdroppers talked in their turn. Soon Mary and her mother, both hysterical, came into court and related some of the tales that were being circulated. We tried to pacify them by saying that scandal-gossips are the types of persons who in olden days were burned at the stake as witches, that an untruth dies quickly, whereas truth lives on. Further, we advised them simply to ignore the matter; not even to deny the charges. The mountain of talk reached other heights. Then the wife of the man involved also appeared in court. With a look in her eye and a tone in her voice that she meant what she said, she informed us, "If the gossip-mongers are not immediately stopped, I will teach all gossips a lesson by making an example of those two sisters who have involved my husband. I know how to use my husband's service pistol, which he carried through the trenches of France. With her we could not reason. Quietly then, because of the seriousness and the possible tragedy that might ensue, we set about to find out the truth. We learned that the married man was Mary's uncle, who met her every night after school to take her to the home of a sister five miles in the country, where Mary helped care for a newborn baby whose mother was bedfast. For her work, Mary was paid $3.00 per week, a wage she needed badly for school clothes. When all the facts had been established, they were included in a typewritten report and presently delivered in person by the ex-serviceman's wife to the original gossips. Rumor has it that the erring ones apologized on bended knees while looking straight into the barrel of the pistol that knew the muddy trenches of France. At a Fourth of July celebration some months later, the judge asked the wife of the ex-serviceman if the incident of the pistol was true. She merely smiled and countered, "What do you think?"

WHY DO WOMEN LIKE Automatic GAS HOT WATER ?

It's convenient. No running up and down stairs to "light the tank," no boiler with a hand-operated tank heater, or the expense of "turncock coils." A survey made recently among owners of AUTOMATIC HOT WATER HEATERS shows that women place washing dishes as hot water's handiest use. Next comes bathing, laundry, housecleaning, and illness. Women appreciate hot water on tap 24 hours a day, ready for any emergency. It makes homework easier, your home happier.

TRIAL-RENTAL PLAN

For as little as $1 a month you can try an AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER for a year. At the end of this time if you want to keep the heater your payments will be applied on the purchase price. NO DOWN PAYMENT IS NECESSARY. Ask about this plan today.
