

Advantages Usually Most Appreciated by Those Who Have Come to America—To Retain American Defects—Looking for Amusement—Whiskers.

All nationalities are represented in liberty-loving America—great country in all respects in the world—and those who have come to these shores have done so voluntarily. Most of them become citizens as soon as possible to take part in the affairs of government.

John Kyl, local farm produce buyer, came from his native Holland in 1896. He did not leave his country because it was unjust, but because it lacked the opportunities guaranteed here.

Mr. Kyl mentions that in case of an attempt to invade Holland the dikes will be opened and a large area flooded.

Mr. Kyl says Holland which is very rich, has 8,500,000 inhabitants on its mainland with 61,000,000 in its distant insular possessions.

Barney Stark, in the clothing business here for a number of years, is another citizen who thanks the good fortune that led him to land in free America in 1907.

A young man who has a predilection to steal automobiles is to undergo a surgical operation to see if the weakness can be overcome.

For Crippled Children, Wayne city school pupils gave $9.10 to the fund for crippled children.

Wayne county farm bureau board, meeting Tuesday night, decided to conduct a membership campaign. Though the salary of the county agent is furnished through federal and state funds, local money must provide office expense in order that the county may continue getting the salary funds.

Our attention is called to the fact that untoward conditions have given people reasons to be sad so long that they now grab for sources of amusement. Some of humor is eager to be aroused. It has been hard to find ground for joy while suffering disappointment and trying to keep comfortably aloft.

Dr. G. L. Sandritter Gives Address at College Here Monday.

A child is a personality in his own right and the Golden Rule should be applied just as faithfully between parents and children as between adults. This advice was given by Dr. G. L. Sandritter of Norfolk, who was here for the second of a series of four addresses Monday evening at the college under sponsorship of the Parent-Teacher associations. Attendance was good.

Childhood, which may start any time from the age of 6 months to 2 years, is the most important period in life, the speaker stated, for it is then that habits are formed. Most of these habits are the result of trial and error method but they become unconscious reactions that are most important in life. If contacts with other children are made pleasant, the individual will meet others more easily in later years. Children like recognition and counsel which parents should provide rather than forcing them to go to other children where they may get misimpression.

Murder Trial Play Set for Wednesday

Did Karen Andre commit a murder? This question must be answered by the jury at Wayne auditorium next Wednesday night when the Wayne Players present "Night of January 16th." The curtain rises at 8:30 and the question will be answered about 10:30. No one knows the answer as yet, not even the cast or their director.

The most unusual feature of this play is the recruiting of 12 members of the audience to serve as jury. These members will not be "planted" in the audience, but chosen fairly. Two short endings are written for the play—to be used according to the jury's verdict.

Jurors will be selected on a professional basis, for they will be paid a refund amounting to the price of their tickets to the show.

The two parties opposed in the trial are as radically antagonistic as will be members of the audience and the men who will serve on the jury. The case will be a challenge bound to arouse arguments and discussion for its underlying conflict is the eternal conflict of two definite types of humanity. The audience is really put on trial. The play may be called a mystery, a comedy or a drama. It is everything.

Wayne Players feel they have something new and different to offer.

Paramount studios are going to film "Night of January 16th" and are trying to sign Don Ameche for a part in it. However, it is a play without a hero or heroine.

In Behalf of AS THE federal government spends more and more of the taxpayers' money—often wasted in useless projects—the fallacy of buying prosperity—it has frightened capital and enfeebled arteries of industry and business. It has destroyed initiative, lowered morale and increased dependence.

After seven years of the new deal's planned economy—creating so-called abundance by the queer anomaly of curtailment of acreage and causing scarcity—we find the farm problem still unsolved, industry fearful and hesitant, and the army of unemployed undiminished with a mounting public debt that mocks hope for a balanced budget.

What we need most to restore balanced values and a balanced budget is confidence—confidence that masters of the new deal laboratory will not bring forth new theoretical compounds tomorrow to supplant those that blew up as failures yesterday. We must have a program that encourages industry, business, employment and agriculture alike, because they are interdependent.

At this crossroad in American economics—this juncture where some are pulling still further to the left—still further in the direction of government paternalism—I wish to emphasize the sterling worth of a man who stands for the golden mean—a man who has the background of learning and experience for practical leadership. I refer to Hugh Butler, republican candidate for the United States senate.

Naturally, Hugh Butler would cure a sick economic structure by applying remedies at the source of the trouble. He would not take care of the flooded waters of a stream at the mouth. He would not burn down a house in order to get rid of some roach variety that had preempted quarters within the walled recesses. In removing a disease he would make certain to save the patient. He would not hamstring one group in the doubtful belief that he would thereby help some other group.

Hugh Butler would make adjustments beneficial to drouth-stricken farm settlements of Nebraska and reduce unnecessary government aid to states favored by climate in recent years. He would distribute stored corn needed to feed farm animals and rehabilitate the state's livestock industry. He justly frowns on the policy of allowing southern planters to grow corn on acres taken out of cotton and tobacco production, thus competing with the corn belt—further evidence of the new deal's futile farm planning.

After all, a lastingly prosperous nation depends on a prosperous agriculture. If agriculture prospers, it furnishes the best market in the world for manufactured goods. All lines of human effort must dovetail to insure a sustained upswing in the economic order. Hugh Butler is a practical farmer, stock grower and business man, and if he is chosen to represent Nebraska in the United States senate he will lend a lot of common sense to the solution of many national problems.

The coming census will build a ten-year record which, therefore, should be made complete. All organizations in the county are invited to cooperate with the Wayne Chamber of Commerce in seeing that everyone is counted. This central Wayne club is meeting coordinated efforts in its numerous worthy endeavors, and far from the least of these is getting every inhabitant of the county enumerated. We do not want to feel after the canvass has been finished that some have been overlooked. We want to make a showing exactly in accordance with the facts.

Marital Divergence MANY Hollywood stars and others who think they have the world by the tail, regard divorce with a nonchalance that seriously disturbs old-fashioned ideas of marital regularity. In conflict with the easy unconcern with which some modern society birds shift into and out of matrimonial traces comes evidence of the public service and seasoned convictions of Superior Judge Joseph Sabath of Chicago, who has just celebrated thirty years on the bench.

We understand a committee has been chosen to canvass for subscriptions to maintain the county farm bureau of which Chet Walters is the agent. Mr. Walters' salary is paid from state and federal funds, but additional revenues are needed to meet other local costs. Mr. Walters' salary is paid whether he is employed here or elsewhere. The agent's work has to do with furthering soil conservation, leading the battle against grasshoppers or other farm enemies, and promoting 4-H club and other useful activities.

Scientists agree that sunspots caused interference with communication systems on Easter Sunday. They think solar cyclones caused the sunspots, but they haven't figured out what caused the cyclones. If they examined connection, if any, between the world's cussedness and the outlying universe, they might find trace for reasoning in the direction of logical conclusions. If they know what caused the sunspots, they probably know what caused the sun and a great variety of planetary and stellar objects.

On account of his intense and uncompromising new deal constancy, it is not always possible to concede clarity of thinking to Edgar Howard, editor of the Columbus Telegram. But when he advocates—as he does—the economy of abolishing the state railway commission and turning its chores over to other state officers who have too little to do, we are disposed to hail him as having certain well defined periods of sound judgment.

It should be understood that not many WPA workers are such through choice. Undoubtedly most of them would prefer jobs in private industry, and are eagerly awaiting a swing back to normal to get such jobs. It is unjust to berate these workers as willing creatures of government paternalism. Usually they cannot help themselves, turning to the federal setup in the absence of healthy labor demands. The WPA cannot be peremptorily stopped. It must dissolve gradually in accordance with returning opportunities in the ranks of private capital.

We note James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president, has been reelected vestryman of St. James' Episcopal church at Hyde Park. We wonder if he doesn't find something in the canons of the church that frowns on excursions into the field of divorce.

A young girl jumped to her death from an airplane to escape what she called an "empty" life. It was a weak way to avoid responsibility. It was cruel disregard of her parents' feelings. Suicide is no justifiable remedy for anything.

Russia talks of its peace-loving policies toward Finland which it invaded and outraged. Under its thin disguise of benevolence, Russia reveals the evil purposes and cruel instincts of the worst jungle beasts.

According to reports, New York has had the worst blizzard since 1888. That is the year Nebraska had its last big blizzard. Scenes of weather severity seem to have shifted.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins is quoted as saying: "We need some common sense." Are you telling us, Frances? Here and Abroad. (Omaha Journal-Stockman). It was a cold, gloomy Easter day over the greater part of this country but we have little conception of the gloom that enshrouded the Easter celebrations over in Europe. As a matter of fact, Americans have more to be thankful for than they realize.

Keeping Listeners Corralled. (Lincoln Journal). A man who has been around a bit with the candidates with sound trucks says that he wondered at the fact that in most instances very few persons left during the speaking. He attributed it to public interest in the election issues, but later discovered that some of the candidates had learned, during the muddy season, how to place their trucks so as to make it almost impossible for the cornered listeners to drift away if they wanted to do so.

SOCRATES. Socrates was killed by the Greeks because he had some advanced ideas and dared to express them. He was charged with disrespect for the gods and for dissemination of thoughts that led youth of the day away from fundamental moorings. Socrates was a spade and he put his cards on the table, told what he believed in conflict with the popular notion and then was compelled to forfeit his life to the decree of be-nighted clamor. He drank fatal hemlock. Socrates was one we would now call a middle-of-the-roader. He clung to fundamentals that in his judgment were sound, and swept aside those he deemed irrational and ruinous. We think if he were here now he would appraise some current sophisms as perils to freedom, and would pull over to the right far enough to establish a defensible mean.

American

(Continued from Page One) a none too encouraging situation helps. Anyone who can drive away another's low spirits and make him feel happy and hopeful, is a benefactor.

We feel inconceivably grateful. We do not live where a golden jubilee or some other celebration makes pressing demand for the cultivation of whiskers. Hirsute ornaments conceal facial expression, furnish retreat for disease germs and remind one of the denizens of the jungle. Besides, whiskers arouse painfully sympathetic concern for persons who, secretly protesting, think they have to wear them.

NOT ALL BAD.

Granting that some capitalists are wholly selfish and apparently soulless, granting that some employers treat their workers as mere machines with no sympathy for them, does the fact justify overburdening or breaking down the great system of employment which is in the hands of individuals or corporation heads who are ever alert to ease the tasks of employees and safeguard their future? The fact that one ugly leader with no thought for others deserves to be straight-jacketed into rules of fairness does not mean that the great majority should be so treated—so penalized and handicapped. The generous employer may be stimulated to do more for his employees—expand activities and take more individuals out of the ranks of the idle if he is not made the victim of labor union and other restrictions that have been deemed necessary to curb those who are inconsiderate.

South Affords Abundant Variety in Winter Entertainment Features

Driving the overseas highway from Miami, Fla., to Key West is quite a thrill, especially when one gets out of the sight of land, according to Mrs. R. W. Ley. She and Mr. Ley arrived home Friday after spending a month in the south.

The overseas highway is a series of bridges joining numerous small islands from the coast of Florida southwest to the larger island on which is located the interesting old city of Key West, a place of about 8,000 inhabitants. The journey from Miami to Key West is 175 miles, 140 miles of the distance being on the bridges which vary from a mile to seven miles in length.

The marvelous concrete and steel spans follow a route winding somewhat to touch as many islands as possible. The islands are as a rule very small green patches of earth and the few people living on them are fishermen.

Visit Turtle Dock. The old city of Key West is an interesting place. Fishing there is the main industry. The Leys visited the turtle dock. Boats bring cargoes of turtles, each weighing about 300 pounds, from Honduras. These are unloaded at Key West where they are converted into food. Turtle steak is quite a delicacy and the meat is really juicy and tasty when prepared by experts in this art.

Much Time for Pleasure. A northerner is impressed with the amount of time and effort devoted to pleasure in the south. Of course the climate is the big factor in this, making tourist trade part of the business of that region.

Racing is one of the numerous entertainment features provided for pleasure seekers. Horse races are held each day and amphitheatres are packed with on-lookers. Miami has two racing parks, Hialeah and Tropical. The season for the former has closed, and Tropical garden is now open daily. Both are beautiful gardens with their excellent racing tracks and stadiums. One day it was reported that $800,000 went through the betting machines.

At Pensacola, Fla., the Wayne folks saw Dale Everton who wished to be remembered to Wayne friends. Dale is training at the naval air field. He is fascinated with his work and is very happy. Among his close friends are men from New York and Wisconsin. All work hard, but these young folks are most interested in their careers. Mr. and Mrs. Ley drove to New Orleans, then traveled the west side of the gulf to Florida, up through the Everglades to Miami where they spent 10 days, then to Palm Beach, through central Florida to Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana. They made a short stop in Armstrong, Ill., with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bennett, the latter formerly Peggy Morris.

Hollywood Seen As Melting Pot

That Hollywood is truly a melting pot within a melting pot, is the opinion of Miss Maxine Jones of that city, who was in Wayne last Friday for a short time. Miss Jones spent from Tuesday to Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jones of Belden, and the family visited the J. P. Douthitts at Winside Friday.

A great variety of people in all walks of life mingle in Hollywood. The unusual is common, Miss Jones finds. In that city, besides those who are successful, are many times the number of others who fail to realize their ambitions. These former stars and aspiring stars do various things to earn their way. Some are "stand-ins" for stars; others take minor parts in plays; some become booking agents for stars; and still others take up different lines of work.

Miss Jones has been informed that conditions as pictured in "Grapes of Wrath" are every bit as bad as shown. The former Wayne college girl, who has been in the west several months, is fascinated with that country and especially with its people. She has done publicity at studios for stars, sending interesting items all over the country. Now Miss Jones is doing advertising and news work in Los Angeles and likes both very much.

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C. March 22, 1940

The house passed a bill to continue for five more years the interest rates of three and a half per cent on federal land bank loans and four per cent on commissioner loans. The original measure was designed to make these interest rates permanent, but upon the appearance of serious opposition, friends of the measure saved it by accepting the five-year amendment. These reduced rates of interest on farm loans are presently effective because of previous acts of congress covering one and two-year periods. The last such act, in 1938, became effective only when passed over the president's veto. Congress has all along favored the lower interest rate legislation that the administration has resisted. The Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing bill is getting a little more attention. The petition has a few more names. Friends of this lower rate legislation are keeping up their activity.

Dr. Jan Bata, head of the gigantic international shoe manufacturing organization, has sailed for Brazil to open a new factory. Before leaving, he told a visiting group of congressmen that he will send a representative to Nebraska to make a survey to determine the practicability of establishing a factory in our state. In talking about Nebraska, Dr. Bata stressed the desirability of being close to raw materials supply, especially hides. Massachusetts shoe district members still fight Bata, who tells friends he is in the United States to stay and that he will hire American labor only and endeavor to buy American hides for the shoes he makes in America.

The 350 Americans who were laid off at the Bata shoe factory have gone back to work following a suit started by the company for the retention of about 50 Czech instructors said by the C. I. O. and Massachusetts shoe people not to be needed here to teach Americans the Bata method of making shoes. The guess is that Bata may win the suit because a year ago he was promised them here for that purpose. About 850 Americans are now working at the Bata plant at Belcamp, Md. Their weekly wage is from $12.60 to $30. Many of them told visiting congressmen that they were glad to get the job and that they are well treated and hope the plant will stay open so they can keep on earning wages.

Home papers say eggs are selling for 11 cents a dozen. Eggs bring up to 30 cents a dozen in some stores around here. Some sell as low as 18 cents, depending on size and quality. War is hitting the price of American eggs as well as the price of a lot of other American farm products. The war is forcing depreciation of the English pound, the French franc, the Mexican peso, and the money of a lot of other countries. The American dollar buys more pesos and more Japanese yen than it did before. Americans in foreign lands where war affected the value of money, tell

CHICK FACTS.
 Add fresh feed often. This encourages chicks to eat more feed which automatically helps growth and uniform development.
 A piece of white muslin tacked on the outside of the window frame of the brooder house will allow fresh air to enter, will prevent strong gusts of wind from fanning the fire, and will not shut out much light. It is recommended that the windows be hinged at the bottom, and that they swing in to open.
 Heat is important for baby chicks! Hang a thermometer about six inches from the hover and about four inches off the floor. Test the brooder stove carefully before chicks arrive. Operate it several days to be sure it is working in tip-top shape. Keep the temperature about 92 degrees for the first two or three days and gradually lower to 80 or 85 by the end of the second week.

 SOFTENS HARD WATER, REMOVES IRON AND DIRT AUTOMATICALLY

How Permutit makes hard water softer than rain — without adding chemicals.

- Permutit is easily installed—simply attached to water supply main. . . hard water flows in through one pipe and soft water out the other.
- A hard water passes downward through the unit, dirt and other foreign matter are trapped.
- Then hard water flows through this bed of zeolite. Zeolite is a Permutit mineral discovery that "absorbs" hardness. Zeolite also removes iron.
- Now completely soft, the water flows into your home plumbing system. You get soft, iron-free water at full pressure throughout your home.
- About once a week your Permutit unit automatically regenerates itself. All you do is dump in salt every few months. No taste of salt gets into the water.

For Easier, Cheaper Better Plowing

Find Out About Raydex
SUCCESSOR TO THE PLOW SHARE

HERE'S a plow base that will do a better plowing job at lower fuel cost—a base that puts forever the bother and expense of getting shares sharpened. It is the Raydex base—built and guaranteed by Oliver—the greatest name in plows.

Raydex is a general-purpose base. It does good plowing under a wide variety of soil conditions. It has lighter draft, cutting fuel costs. Its easily replaceable points come in economical packages of six. When a point gets dull, you throw it away and put on a new factory-sharp point at the cost of sharpening an old-fashioned share. And you save the time and expense of a trip to the blacksmith!

Remember this about Raydex: Plows bearing the name Oliver have been recognized leaders for over 84 years. Your father and grandfather knew Oliver plows—probably used them, because none could equal an Oliver plow. Oliver backs Raydex with the strongest guarantee that ever backed any implement. See us for details and a demonstration on your land.
