learn to enjoy others in the simple activities are sure to realize an abundant life.

To be courteous is one of the scout laws and Miss Schrottky stressed this as most important. A spoken word can never be taken back, so she urged that great care be taken in what one says. Miss Schrottky told of the experience of a youth and an echo. The lad called in the mountains and his voice came back. When he said unpleasant things, he did not like the echo. The speaker urged children to think how their voices would echo and advised being courteous always.

In concluding, Miss Schrottky urged girls to be like a clock that always has clean hands and clean face, is regular and minds its own business. The clock, by the position of its hands, shows it is religious and righteous.

Adventure exists in ordinary things. Anyone who believes that adventure is only in far-off places, has lost the essence of youth.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. P. A. Theobald who had known her in scouting some years ago. Miss Schrottky is a member of the New York Story Telling League and a past instructor of dramatics at Mt. Holyoke college.

Fifteen members of the council and leaders had covered dishes luncheon for Miss Schrottky Tuesday noon with Mrs. G. W. Costerian.

Federal Census Taking Starts

ed during the preceding week and how many weeks in 1939. He'll ask if anybody works for WPA, CCC, NYA and so on, how long they have been seeking work or have been on these emergency jobs up to March, 1940. Regarding those not working he'll make a record of whether they are keeping house, going to school, etc.

The type of work done by those employed will be listed. The kind of industry will be noted, also whether the person is a salaried employee or an employer. The employer will tell the amount of wages earned in 1939. The employer's earnings for the year are already in the hands of the government on income reports so this is not required.

To gain further information on a cross-section of the population, the enumerator will ask some further questions from each 14th and 29th person in every list of 40. From these the enumerator will inquire the place of birth of a person's father and mother and ask the language spoken in the home during childhood.

He will ask whether a person is a veteran of the United States military forces and what the service consisted of. If the person is not a veteran, he will tell whether or not he is related to a veteran.

The census taker will ask if the person has a social security number and whether social deductions were made in 1939.

For people over 14 years old there will be a question dealing with their usual occupation, the usual industry worked in and the usual class of work done.

Women who have been married will be asked whether they have been married more than once, their age at the first marriage and total number of children born.

Facts About Housing.

Every household head will answer questions on housing, giving the material, type of construction and modern features of the home. If the enumerator does not find anyone at a home he will inquire from a neighbor the number in the home, leave the proper number of lines in his book and return. If he fails to find the family home at other times, he will leave a self-addressed card on which the person will state what hour and day he is available.

April 8 is designated as the time when all enumerators will take a count on persons in hotels, tourist parks, hobnob joints and jails. This attempt is made to check the traveling population.

Persons in town with three or more acres of land and those receiving $250 or more from the soil in the past year will, in addition to the city census, answer a farm census report. One such farm was found on top a skyscraper in the heart of busy New York. A flower fancier was raising blooms for sale on the roof of a skyscraper and thus classified himself as a farmer.

Among census enumerators in Wayne county are: A. W. Ahern, for Logan and Leslie; Otto Lutz, for Hunter; Mrs. Earl Shinnah, Strahan; Mrs. B. M. McIntyre, Winside and Hancock; Otto Book, Chapin; John Dunklau, Wilbur. Mrs. Wade of Brenna, Mrs. Burnham of Sholes, and Dwight Davis are reported to be others.

Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Heckert arrived home Monday after spending the winter in San Diego, Cal.

New Bridge Work North Is Started

Construction of the new bridge about two miles north of Wayne started Monday. Another smaller bridge will be built in the third mile north. Contract for grading four miles north of Wayne has been let but work has not yet started. Traffic on 35 and 15 is being detoured temporarily, on 35 a mile east and on 15 two miles west.

Edwin Schultz Is Speaker for Club

Edwin Schultz of Elgin, who served in the unicameral legislature and who is recognized as a warm friend of Wayne college, addressed Wayne Men's club last evening at Hotel Stratton. Mr. Schultz is a republican candidate for state railway commissioner. Mr. Schultz, member of the committee on education in the legislature three years and chairman two years, quoted statistics estimating that the elementary school enrollment at the beginning of the school term near fall will be 30 per cent less than the enrollment 10 years ago. This decrease will reach high school in five to 10 years, and will affect colleges in about 15 years. Nebraska's record in rural and town schools follows much the same average decrease. The speaker reported on the findings of the state planning board which proposed consolidating the university board of regents and the state normal board. Mr. Schultz is opposed to this recommendation as he feels that such a board would become a political machine. Mr. Schultz also opposes the board's proposal to abolish two normals and establish vocational schools in their place, and he also is against making junior colleges of the other two normals. He feels that the normal schools are serving a good purpose and should be maintained as they are. Any changes that are needed can be made by the legislature.

Request Considered.

Wayne's request for midnight mail pickup has been sent to federal authorities for consideration. The bus company has entered a bid on the proposal.

In Business and on Farm

ADMITTING some progress by the new deal in making America socially-minded in the last seven years, Senator Vandenberg in his radio speech to Nebraskans Monday night emphasized that it had settled none of our fundamental problems. "On the contrary," he added, "it often has created more problems than it has solved. We still probably have as many unemployed as when the new deal started. Obviously it does not know how to put American business in gear. Successful, progressive, ambitious private enterprise is our sole means of producing real jobs at real prices. But the new deal has been at war with private enterprise, and often in direct competition with it."

Touching agriculture, Senator Vandenberg said among other things:

"Of course there are other things that concern the farmer. He is entitled to legitimate soil conservation payments applicable to all crops. He is entitled to encouragement in his sound co-operative movements. He is entitled to have every possible impulse put behind the new chemical developments which create new industrial markets for farm crops. He is entitled to reasonable crop loans in emergency. But what he wants is not a chance to get deeper into debt. What he wants is a chance to get out of debt and to stay out of debt and to enjoy his share of his country's prosperity. His best reliance is the control of his own American market and the two-price system which I have supported from the first hour when I entered the senate in 1928, despite two presidential vetoes. There will never be sustained prosperity for the rest of us, until there is sustained prosperity on the owner-operated family-size American farm. This is the core of our national economic problem."

School Plans

THE SCHUYLER SUN takes a sizable swipe at the proposed plan to build the university at the expense of the state's teachers colleges. It explains that those behind the idea want to have one board to look after the university and teachers colleges, reduce the latter to two-year institutions, build junior colleges at different points in the state and generally overhaul and remake the educational system of the state.

The Sun comments in part as follows: "Nebraska people have been proud of their educational system. They have made the fullest use of it. Every mother and father—no matter how rich or how poor they may be—knows that the state has provided educational facilities for their children reaching from the kindergarten to the graduate colleges.

"It is true that all of them cannot afford to attend the university because of the financial cost. For these the state has wisely provided four normal colleges— at Chadron, Kearney, Peru and Wayne— where it is possible for the boy or girl from the financially poorer families to get an education equal to that provided for the very rich at the university and private schools and at approximately one-third of the cost. Probably the larger share of the students in those four schools earn all or a substantial part of the cost of their schooling. And this particular group has supplied the state with some of its ablest teachers and business men."

If W. A. Crossland, candidate for the unicameral legislature, receives in Wayne county the support he expects and deserves, he will be one of the two nominated. His father, the late George W. Crossland, was a familiar and esteemed figure in northeast Nebraska for twentythree years as traveling representative for Marshall's Nurseries, Arlington, and through that experience the family became well and favorably known. The eldest son, now candidate for legislative service, thus finds acquaintance greatly facilitated. In addition to a friendly attitude, Mr. Crossland is able and sound, and he is considered generally well equipped for the task of leadership which he would undertake.

An essay contest involving the future home life of two comely calves is sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. The calves will be selected with due regard for heredity, tractability, individual charm and milk producing possibilities. The variety of ideas expressed rather than faultless diction will count, as we understand. One may split every infinitive that happens along and spell everything according to sound and still win. Why one likes Wayne is the subject to consider, and there are so many reasons that it should be easy to stir up literary inspiration. The prospect of becoming sole owner of one of two amiable and promising calves should also be an inspiration.

Walter Cozad, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state, accompanied Lieutenant-Governor W. E. Johnson to Wayne Tuesday when the latter spoke to students during the convocation period. Mr. Cozad retired January 1, 1939, from service as general manager for the Nebraska-South Dakota area of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, and he was virtually drafted to run for secretary of state on account of his broad business experience and successful executive leadership. He says: "More business in government; less government in business." Not a bad idea at this time of ultra government meddling and interference.

Assessors and census enumerators have launched their fact-finding campaign, the former to determine taxable possessions and the latter to propound questions prepared in Washington. Wayne county is anxious to have every person counted, and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce has a committee in the harness to help in the canvass. Non-resident college students cannot be listed, but to make a proper showing of practical fact for advertising purposes, the student enrollment should be unofficially added to the census returns.

In the democratic senatorial campaign in which Burke and Cochran are trying to capture the nomination, emphatic reference is made to platform pledges. We would hesitate to say anything about the violability or the continuing vitality of party platforms if we were thus trying to catch the favor of the new deal. Its reputation for consistency in that respect has been so completely shot to pieces that it seems sheer mockery to bring up the subject.

Lieutenant-Governor Wm. E. Johnson, who is in the field for renomination, is a Wayne young man, and he is actively loyal to Wayne and its teachers college. He appreciates the service the Wayne institution is giving to this part of the state, and he is ever on the alert to guard and advance its welfare. Johnson deserves reciprocal support.

City and school elections over, people will now center attention on the primaries next Tuesday. One happy condition in America— voters usually accept consequences philosophically even though results do not altogether agree with what they want.

John L. Lewis, CIO boss, threatens to start a new political party if the democrats do not nominate a satisfactory leader or adopt a satisfactory platform. We trust John L. will make good his threat, reducing his effervescence to actual practice.

Republicans who wish to get over into the middle road of sensible progress will support Hugh Butler for United States senator. He will add a wealth of common sense to Washington's public policies.

IN A CRISIS

In Nation's Business Merle Thorpe quotes an army officer to show why Russia's huge man force had such a tough time trying to conquer little Finland. The officer explains that the soviet dictatorship got rid of too many trained men to insure effective leadership. Skilled officers under suspicion were displaced by inexperienced members of the worker-peasant class. Thorpe offers as a sort of parallel the new deal's plan of too often substituting fanciful schemers for sound business heads. He says heretofore America has encouraged its business managers as a great asset. But he concludes: "The American business man in every field, from producer of raw materials to retailer, has been made to feel by his government that he is a dubious fellow with few or no rights, certainly an attitude not conducive to the fighting spirit necessary to lick a depression of sizable proportions. Add to this the uncertainty of a government by men against that of written law, the destruction of incentive as a fundamental of national planning, political patrons placed in positions of management, either in direct competition or in captious supervisory capacity, and you have a picture of America's industrial army with leaders as well-nigh liquidated as the leaders of the Russian army on the shores of Lake Ladoga."

offers as the basis of his campaign. We understand he has gained a lot of sympathetic, misguided ears in different parts of the state, but if he should happen to win the nomination he is still a long way from the governorship.

Refreshing Rain

The generous fall of rain in the closing week of March encouraged the hope that sufficient moisture in coming weeks would soak the ground to a depth needed to answer present requirements. Wayne county received more rain than some sections of the state and less than others. We look forward hopefully to April and to subsequent months. It seems high time for the elements to favor this state by giving it the moisture it needs and deserves. Uniformly big crop production would solve many vexing problems.

Improved Leases Are Being Sought

Improved tenure conditions through better written leases are being stressed by the farm security administration, Ray Verzal points out. A recent survey showed that 150 farm families moved in Wayne and Pierce counties this year and that the cost to each was estimated at $60. A national check puts the cost of moving at 54 per cent of the tenant's net worth. FSA is hoping to improve the tenure and also help borrowers arrange for farms of adequate size.

NEARING END

The pre-primary campaign is drawing to a close, less than a week remaining for candidates to put forth their final efforts for nominations. Senator Vandenberg who is pitted against Thomas E. Dewey in the republican presidential preference contest in Nebraska, spoke over a radio hook-up from Washington to people in this state Monday night. Dewey had previously visited Nebraska. The republican caravan which introduced a new plan in campaigning, concluded a 5,000-mile tour with a big rally at Falls City. For the republican senatorial nomination straw votes thus far taken show Hugh Butler in the lead followed by Arthur Weaver, former governor. The republicans are offered an unusually strong array of gubernatorial candidates. A good deal of head-scratching and value-matching will be required to determine a choice. The warmest contest in the primary race is that between Senator Burke and Governor Cochran for the democratic senatorial nomination, and the success of either will require the use of a lot of healing ointment on the friends of the vanquished candidate in order, if possible, to knit together a united front. Candidates will doubtless feel relieved when the present campaign is over and they can settle down for a respite before actively challenging opponents for the November finals.

For Republican Nomination NEBRASKA STATE Railway Commission

M. A. LARSON of Central City, Nebr. "THANKS A MILLION" FOR YOUR SUPPORT at the Primaries, April 9

To Taxpayers and Voters of the Second Commissioner District of Wayne County, Nebraska:

DID YOU KNOW—

- Wayne county's valuation is over $25,000,000, the highest it has been for several years!
- Wayne county has over 90 miles less road now because the state has taken them over, and the state is taking over more every year?
- My term of office expired January 1, 1937?
- In 1937 the road tax was raised 26%? In 1938 the road tax was raised another 20%, and it is now 40% or about $10,000 a year higher than it was for several years prior to 1937?
- Wayne county, in 1938, paid over $3,000 out of the relief fund for road machinery?
- Wayne county paid more money out of the general fund in the last three years for road machinery than any three years since Wayne county was organized?
- Someone has been telling the taxpayers of the district that the tax levy is lower now than it was when my term of office expired? If the above is economy, then my schooling and experience are all wrong. Your vote for me will be appreciated, but no matter how you vote, you should vote. Remember, people can't vote where they have dictators.

I BELIEVE IN RIGHT AND JUSTICE FOR ALL

Sixty Years Ago

"He who is not afflicted with a cold is out of fashion." This, taken from the Northern Nebraska Journal, published at Ponca by Wm. Huse 60 years ago, might well have been written now.

One of Ponca's early merchants, S. P. Mikessell, returned from Chicago with the "most magnificent stock of goods of all descriptions ever brought into northern Nebraska."

Dixon county commissioners heard many petitions for roads and bridges.

O'Neill had a good start as a city with two general stores, a hardware, implement house, drug store, blacksmith shop, county clerk's office, six dwellings.

A large section of Nebraska was supplied with springs. Among the most numerous were those along the Niobrara.

That Nebraska would be the future center of railroad lines of the United States was the speculation of many. The state's location in the center of the nation led the early speculators to figure that this state held the key to the travel situation.

The Northern Pacific lines were being constructed rapidly in Nebraska. A mile a day was laid. It also appeared then that the Covington, Columbus & Black Hills railroad would eventually be constructed.

August Gerkins, 86, died at his home south of Randolph March 21.

Rev. Wm. Fischer was a Tuesday dinner guest at Hugo Fischer's near Winside.

Aid to Children Is One Objective

"To inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation" is the objective of the child welfare division of the Legion Auxiliary. Child welfare is being emphasized by the Auxiliary's 9,200 units, according to Mrs. E. W. Huse, child welfare chairman of Irwin Seals unit. The Auxiliary organizes this department mainly to help children of veterans, but the goal is also to bring health, happiness and opportunity to a vast number of children outside veterans' families. "A square deal for every child" is the motto.

Last year aid was given to 500,000 children with about $4,000,000 spent for food, clothing and shelter for them. To locate children of veterans eligible for benefits, to establish a health record for each child and to inculcate community responsibility among children are the aims the Auxiliary has in its welfare work this month. The women hope to secure aid to collect physical defects of children of veterans.

Power of Women Is World Force

Birthdays of Federation And Wayne Club Are Observed Friday

Through united effort women can control destinies of the world. Lady Astor credits women with the power to stop war and maintain peace, and J. Edgar Hoover assures women that their united effort can stamp out crime. These statements quoted by Mrs. M. S. McDuffee of Norfolk, in addressing Wayne Women's club Friday at the club rooms, indicate the power of such organizations. The occasion honored the 50th anniversary of the General Federation and the 21st birthday of the Wayne club.

When Charles Dickens came from England to visit in this country only men were invited to the reception in New York. The women felt that they too should get together, so they did. They formed the Sorosis club. Such groups sprang up everywhere. Women saw the need for a central organization and soon formed the General Federation. This group, now having 2,000,000 members in 26 countries, is the largest such association in the world. The sun never sets on the club membership. Practically all the work is carried on by voluntary effort.

State, district and county federations followed the general. Community service came to be emphasized, the women banding together to do what could not be accomplished by individual effort. Nine major departments are now provided. Of the 50 cent membership fee for the federation, 10 cents goes to national work and 40 cents for state.

Mrs. Sadie H. Dunbar, national president, was left a widow when her son and daughter were in their teens. She did not feel she should devote time to the work but her son, threatened with tuberculosis, persuaded her to do so. She accepted to satisfy the youth, who has improved greatly since. The young man has traveled with her much in the past three years.

Mrs. McDuffee compared the past time to one year. Not until the last week of the year were crude implements made. Greek art was developed in the next to the last day in the comparison. The automobile was invented in the last 15 minutes of the year and the radio in the last 5 minutes. The example shows in what a comparatively short time

Is Aftermath of War.

Organization of the Wayne Women's club was an aftermath of the World War. Women had banded together to help during the war period. Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis, who was on the Defense Council, attended a meeting of this group at Lincoln and learned that these women workers were continuing their effort in the Women's club. Wayne women favored the suggestion and decided to continue their community service in this way.

Fairchild; auditor, Mrs. H. H. Hahn; civic chairman, Mrs. F. S. Berry; music, Mrs. Clyde Oman; art, Miss Martha Pierce; literature, Miss Jessie Jenks; home economics, Mrs. J. W. Forbes; program, Mrs. C. A. Chase, assisted by Mrs. E. Kostomlatsky and Mrs. S. A. Lutgen; membership, Mrs. E. E. Lacey; publicity, Mrs. E. W. Huse; legislation, Mrs. M. S. Davies; lookout, Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve; social, Mrs. C. W. Hixcox. The club membership June 5, 1919, was 94 and these were charter members.

Constitution for the Wayne club was drafted by Mrs. DeVillie, Mrs. F. G. Philleo and Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis. The women voted April 5, 1919, to federate with the Nebraska association. At a meeting of the board of directors between that date and April 19 it was decided that the club buy some property, and Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, Mrs. F. S. Berry and Mrs. Clyde Oman were appointed to investigate possibilities. The opera house and Dr. E. S. Blair's office corner were considered. By vote of 31 to 4 the women voted June 21 to buy the opera house.

Wanted Veterans' Memorial.
One of the club's objectives in having a building was to establish a memorial to war veterans. When it was learned that the property would revert to the state if the Legion organization should not continue, the women decided to keep the property in the club's name.

One of the first programs in the club's newly acquired opera house was a sketch, "A Neighborhood Conference," written and directed by Mrs. Lutgen. Parts were taken by Mrs. L. A. Fenske, Mrs. Berry and Mrs. H. B. Craven. On other early programs appeared Mrs. T. T. Jones, Miss Ardath Conn, Mrs. Gertrude Morris, Mrs. Maude Miller, Miss Ferne and Miss Frances Oman, Miss Virginia Bowen, Miss Elizabeth Mines, Miss Faith Philleo, Miss Jeanette Lewis and Miss Edith Huse.

Early in its history the club began to promote civic enterprises, one being the cleaning of alleys and improved yards. They urged the senator to help get the League of Nations accepted.

Is Community Enterprise.
A payment of $2,000 was to be made on the opera house property by October 1. Mrs. Henry Ley, secretary of the ways and means committee, proposed several affairs for the purpose. A community supper in charge of four country clubs and the Catholic Guild, a comedy directed by Mrs. E. Kostomlatsky and a community dance raised the starting fund. A bazaar netted $167.89 and sale of tickets for the firemen's ball brought $104.15. By November 15, 1919, the women had $1,721.77. The fund still needed a little boost so the board decided to hold a bazaar and supper December 10. This was the beginning of a series of bazaars held annually as long as the women had the opera house. As the town then had no hotel large enough for special dinners, the women took charge of these. At a fete day in February, 1920, the club realized $615.19; a bazaar in 1920 netted $372.09, one in 1921 in charge of Mrs. F. L. Blair brought $657.99 and one in 1922 directed by Mrs. C. Shultheis totalled $606.21. These enabled the women to pay for their building and keep up repairs. The women published a cook book to raise $400 for painting the building. The undertaking was truly a community one. Individuals donated as much as $100 each and most clubs gave toward the fund, helping the women realize their goal. A dish show provided an ample supply, though the variety was interesting.

The women had a total of about $8,500 in the opera house. They paid $4,500 for the building and lots, buying this from Mrs. Mary Brittain who was active in the club work. They paid about $1,500 for having $806 for new floor and other improvements and additional amounts for repairs, taxes and interest.

Besides earning money for the building, the women were helping with community affairs. They were active in helping with the county fair, Red Cross drives and other public enterprises. Mrs. G. W. Crossland instituted a system of service that is now used widely in the state.

The Women's club incorporated December 6, 1919, with the incorporation papers signed by women who had property in their own name. May B. Lewis, Mabel Olive Oman, Fairy B. Hixcox, Edna Davis and Alice V. Seace. The object of incorporating was to simplify business transactions and make the whole group responsible for actions taken. This and other legal advice, provided by F. S. Berry and the late A. R. Davis, helped the club decidedly in its business transactions.

Buy Auditorium Site.
The women worked diligently in the city election at which it was voted to build an auditorium. The women sold their opera house and site for $6,500 and gave $6,000 of the amount for the site of the new auditorium, this to provide the club with a room in the structure. The club spent about $1,500 for furniture, drapes, shades and other furnishings in their room.

Presidents of the club have been Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. E. W. Huse, Mrs. C. Shultheis, Mrs. E. E. Gailley, Mrs. E. J. Huntmer and Mrs. Robert Auker. Mrs. L. A. Fenske is the newly elected head. Mrs. Huse, who served 11 years in office, presided over the part of the program dealing with the local club history. Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Oman, Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh, Mrs. Crossland, Mrs. A. McEachon and Mrs. Huntmer spoke briefly, and messages were sent by Mrs. C. Shultheis and Mrs. Mary Brittain.

The birthday cake, for the 50th anniversary of the General Federation of the Wayne club, was in charge of Mrs. F. S. Berry and Mrs. J. G. Miller. On it was "Happy Birthday" and candles which were lighted at the time of serving.

Delores Peters, 12-year-old 7th grader from district 26, became Wayne county spelling champion in the contest held Saturday at the court house. This is the third year that the winner has been from district 26, south of Wayne. Delores' brother, Orville Peters, was champion two years ago, and Marjorie Cauwe took the honor last year. Wilma Dunklau, 12, 8th grader from district 61, placed second in the county contest. Betty Lou Weible of Winslow, was third.

Delores and Wilma will enter the interstate contest in Council Bluffs April 26, and Delores is entrant in the state contest at Omaha April 27. All expenses of both girls will be paid. They and Betty Lou compete in the district event in Wayne April 19. County Supt. F. B. Decker presented Delores and Wilma with medals with pin and guard attachments.

Cedar County Judge E. W. Hesse conducted the contest for students in 6th, 7th and 8th grades. ### Doubling a Talent.

Susan climbed down from the big bus, glad that the long, dusty journey was over, marveling that she could be so grateful to return to the small town from which she had so happily run away. Home to a good, square meal, then she would go to juvenile court that very afternoon and see if the judge would help her get back to school. Education, she had found out during the seven hectic days just passed, was one of the most valuable assets a career-girl could have. She had greatly over-estimated her musical talent. Those critics had been right, her ability was mediocre, yet a source of pleasure to herself and a few intimate friends. She bit her lip as she remembered how disrespectful she had been toward her mother in the court room that long-ago day last week, when mother had reported she would not go to school. Her mother was pretty good to her after all, though she and Susan disagreed on most things. A quiet, motherly woman, she was, who always chose the most unpretentious clothes, because she said it was better to look neat and have a sweet personality than to attract attention to one's dress. Susan thought just the opposite: clothes should be gay. She had come into court attired in the latest fashion, her flashy, cheap little dress pulling out at the seams, her party shoes making two painful lumps of feet on which she somehow must walk. Her hair was plastered over, her eyebrows carefully plucked, a cupid's bow painted on her generous lips, and each cheek brilliantly rouged in the inverted question mark of the moment. Atop her head perched a creation she styled a hat. When 1939 women's hats began to make their appearance, my mind wandered back through the years to the day when Susan wore one of the same sort of amusing little things on her head. Even then experience had given us the insight to see that underneath her colorful plumage Susan was a frightened little girl whose bluff had been called.

The Lynn canal in Alaska is not a canal but an estuary.
Manhattan island is not a true island.
East river is not a river, but a strait.

At the Valentine party games were played, and cup cakes and ice cream served. A farewell party was given February 28 for Betty and Darlene Martens who left March 1 for Sidney, Ia. A gift was presented to the girls and refreshments were served. Last week the Martens girls wrote to tell of their school in Iowa. Some are still enjoying hot lunches which are warmed on the stove. Lois and Norman Lubberstedt, who moved to the farm the Martens family left, enrolled March 4, the former in the 7th grade and the latter in the 5th. They came from Dixon county. Lower grades made Easter posters to decorate the room. Other art work, such as posters, drawings, wood work and paintings, has been made for the fair. Painting of silhouettes and colored parrots proved interesting during stormy days. Pupils enjoyed roller skating at the Wayne rink March 19. Students from 10 other schools also skated. Supt. F. B. Decker was a visitor March 18. Norman Peters, Merlin Saul, Bud Peters and Norman Lubberstedt planned the Easter party for March 22. Each pupil earns a star for polishing his shoes each week. Of 10 pupils seven have perfect scores. Letters were written to Darlene and Betty Martens in English last week Wednesday. Norman and Lois Lubberstedt wrote letters to their former schoolmates in district 58, Dixon county. Some of the boys are starting to make bird houses and kites.

January Accident Record New Low

Wayne was one of the Nebraska counties with lowest accident record for January, according to the state report. For the state as a whole there were 10 deaths in seven accidents and 665 non-fatal accidents for the month. The state's seven deaths in one month is a new low record. Two of these were in northeast Nebraska, one near Sioux City and the other on the Cedar-Knox line. The United States record for 1939 showed a reduction of 800 accidental deaths for the year but there were still 93,000 fatalities. Of the 1,150,000 persons injured last year, 90,000 were permanently disabled.

LET'S SMASH THE SHACKLES OF DEPRESSED AGRICULTURE

Depressed agriculture is Nebraska's biggest problem—the basis of every other economic problem. Only a man who knows the farm problem from the ground up—a farmer himself, can aid in the solution.

A lifelong farmer, and a successful businessman—meeting the rolls for 32 years, Hugh Butler has the background, the experience and the practical judgment for the job.

Hugh Butler offers a sound, sensible program for recovery through production—not scarcity. He feels that we must continue the present farm program until we build a better one—but a better one can and will be built. Be part of that program. Plan to vote for Hugh Butler.
