Lincoln Youth Takes Own Life Saturday Night

Ill Health and Despondency Over Finances Believed Causes for Act.

Harold Caspey, 22, formerly of Wayne, took his own life Saturday night with a small caliber rifle while in bed in his home at 335 north 28th street in Lincoln.

Harold was employed in the dairy department at the agricultural college while attending school and had gone there very early Saturday morning.

When Mrs. Caspey found Harold, the youth's right hand still rested on the gun stock. The bullet had entered his forehead above the left eye.

Youth Confesses To Burglarizing Business Firms

Arrest Is Made Following Entrance to Station Early Sunday.

A young man giving his name as Harry Johnson, his age as 18 and his home address as Sioux City confessed early Wednesday morning to five burglaries in Wayne.

Sheriff J. H. Pile arrested the youth and will file charges in county court where Johnson will face a hearing. As yet Johnson has not implicated others.

For a second time within a few months an attempt was made early Sunday morning to rob the Standard Oil service station, the intruder this week escaping through a window as a station attendant opened the door. The man made his get-away in such haste that he left his hat, shoes and socks.

Two Meadow Grov men teachers needed some gasoline about 2 Sunday morning and the marshal advised them where to find Harold Thorin, one of the attendants at the Standard Oil. As Thorin was unlocking the door, the intruder, who was evidently then working on the safe, jumped out the south window which he had pried open to gain entrance.

The only damage done is that to the safe and window. Some small change was taken from the cash register.

Sheriff Pile made the arrest of Johnson late Tuesday night and the young man confessed early yesterday. He admitted entering the Minnie jewelry store, Safeway, Standard Oil and Sala station February 12, taking jewelry and small amounts of cash.

Johnson had been in Wayne since February 1.

In paint, as in fence, there is test like the test of

Gannett Speaks
LAST Friday evening, Frank Gannett, republican presidential candidate, spoke at Lincoln, directing attention to farm problems. He said: "We must save agriculture to save America. We must stop farming the farmer and let the farmer farm." He sizes up the depression and farm situation in part as follows:

"Our unemployment nightmare did not begin, as many people imagine, on the sleepless pillows of city workers and employers. It began on the farm. Country markets dried up almost overnight. The farmer's income dwindled. He no longer could buy from the city. Merchandise stocks piled up, factory orders were cancelled, wage reductions and lay-offs in industry followed. Unemployment in industry had its roots in the earlier collapse of commodity prices.

"The cycle of deflation was set in motion when commodity prices fell so low that the farmer couldn't get back his cost of production and have any money left to spend. Farm prices, falling first, dragged down wages and industrial prices later. This sequence is important to keep in mind.

"Low prices caused American farmers' incomes to fall from a pre-depression average of 12 billion dollars a year to five and one-third billions. Our other basic producers' income dropped from five billions to two billions. No other groups lost so large a proportion of their income and buying power.

"What a hole that has made! Look at the total: $4 billion dollars! Nearly ten billions more than our staggering national debt!

"Thirty-eight billions of that lost income came out of the pockets of agriculture and 16 billions from other producers of basic commodities.

"If farm income were restored to its pre-depression average of 12 billion dollars, the yearly increased purchasing power would give each farm family, on the average, $666 a year more than they receive today. Farm benefit checks average only $133 per farm family.

"Exclusive of government payments, total farm income is now eight billion dollars. The annual shortage is four billions. Government payments are around one billion. In other words, a four-billion-dollar hole to be covered by a one-billion-dollar patch. Or one life preserver where four are needed.

"Of course, a life preserver looks good to anyone who has gone down a couple of times, as American agriculture has gone down. But no one wants to cling to a life preserver forever. He wants to get back into a safe ship, or onto dry land.

"A billion dollars a year for farm aid is a life preserver. I don't minimize its importance—as a life preserver.

"But I want to see American agriculture back on its own steam in its own safe ship, which is a price level high enough to make the farmer prosperous and independent. I would still keep the life preserver for emergencies. But I would use our brains to forestall future emergencies."

Primary Results
RUNNING for offices is a gamble, and those who enter for nominations and are overtaken by defeat in American contests, usually accept results philosophically. The nominations over; attention will be directed to the election in November. After a vacation and following the national conventions, the campaign will be intensified.

Defeat of Senator Burke for the democratic senatorial nomination seems an unfortunate repudiation of a man who served his state and country well, putting conscience ahead of trailing after a fanciful new deal program that sought to remodel the supreme court and control everything and everybody—a procession of dizzy experiments moving perilously in the direction of collectivism. Burke's valiant defense of the constitution and of the party platform on which he was elected deserved the popular approval of fellow-democrats.

The nomination of Hugh Butler, who is eminently sound and constructive, means a clear-cut contest between anti-new dealers and new dealers.

The preponderance of republican votes in the state encourages the belief that people are weary of costly fallacies and are ready to junk unworkable parts of the new deal and get back into the middle ground of rational public policies.

The best brains in the country will be needed to rehabilitate a battered and crippled economic system. Both Senator Vandenberg and Tom Dewey will be needed. Frank Gannett and Herbert Hoover and other known leaders will be needed. Time and patience, resourceful genius and dependable judgment will be required to redirect the course of public policies and rebuild on American fundamentals. But a change from fancy to sound sense—re-establishment of confidence—will at once magnetize the country out of the dumps, away from the miasma of fear and into mounting hope and stimulating assurance.

Even though Roosevelt carried Wisconsin against Garner, conservative, the latter's support in that normally radical state showed a definite split in the democratic party. It clearly indicates democratic cleavage that in the event of a third-term nomination would cause abandonment of the new deal—perhaps cause the launching of a third party. The tradition against a third term would evidently more than offset the pressure of new deal paternalism. Therefore, to enhance prospect for an anti-new deal victory in November, republicans should pray for the nomination of Roosevelt.

The happy realization of parity prices for agriculture does not depend so much on forced grounds that are not substantial as on a revival and resurgence of industry and business which would thereby employ more and more consumers of farm products. All strong links in the chain of human activities will reduce idleness, develop demand and restore prosperity to every group. All lines are interdependent, and if one fails, others fail. None can safely hug the delusion that he can hold aloof from other interests and do well with indifference to them.

Fiery General Hugh S. Johnson, who was the NRA administrator before that set-up collapsed under the supreme court's ruling, talked before a group of leading New York democrats, and belabored the new deal for its failure to meet expectations, advising democrats to name for president, James A. Farley, John Garner, Cordell Hull, or some other old-school democrat, and urging governmental economy and freedom of private enterprise as the way out of the valley of despair.

Prosperity of the farm area around Wayne is vital to Wayne, but in the same breath it may be said Wayne is important to surrounding agriculture. Farms would be far less valuable with no town here. Convenience in marketing and shipping is worth much. Mutual advantages encourage cooperation.

It is strange, indeed, that ministers of the gospel can cuddle up to communism or fascism in view of the way religious freedom is snuffed out in lands where alienisms have a strangle hold. Blasting cherished liberty of worship follows closely the triumph of totalitarian tyranny.

Hitler says he took possession of Denmark and Norway to protect them. Wasn't that sweet of him?

Labor Problem Is Hard to Solve in California Cities

What appears to be a real labor problem is reported in southern California by Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Christensen who arrived home March 29 after spending three months in the west. Mr. Christensen is a carpenter and had hoped to get winter work, but the building procedure there does not allow much opportunity, he found.

Contracts for 100 or 200 new homes, practically all financed by Federal Housing, are let to one company. This big contractor sublets the work, perhaps two or three houses to an individual contractor. Then the small contractor employs his family and friends or cheap foreign help to do the work. The Christensens saw women shingling roofs and doing other building jobs. They also saw many foreigners employed on the new houses.

Any who plan to stay in California surely use good judgment in buying a home. The Christensens were informed that it is possible to buy a two or three-room home all furnished for $1,200 to $1,500, and a new six-room home completely furnished for $4,000. The purchaser pays about $200 down and the balance monthly. The one purchasing the smaller home would pay about $12 a month and the other about $27.50. The tourists who stay for only a few months pay as high as $40 a month for a three-room apartment.

Another phase of the labor problem in the west is the use of foreign labor in building highways. Four-lane roads no longer care for the travel so many highways are being widened. Business blocks and houses have to give way to such thoroughfares if they happen to be located where the road is to be widened. The Los Angeles-Hollywood boulevard has become such a busy street that it is to be widened to 12 lanes.

California is discouraging arrival of elderly people who locate there to qualify for the $40 a month pension. After five years' residence, a person may qualify for such a pension, the Christensens were informed.

The Nebraskans enjoyed visiting the motion picture studios and new NBC broadcasting stations on the grounds at Hollywood. They were allowed to watch practices for pictures, but no one is permitted to witness the actual final filming. Voice recordings are made separately from the pictures and the two then perfectly timed. "Little Old Hollywood" was one of the radio broadcasts the Christensens visited at the attractive new studios. They found that the sound of frying eggs is produced by tearing paper, the noise of horses is made by pounding coconuts in sand, and the sound of marching men is made with sticks on a board.

The picture, "Gone with the Wind," is still having a record run in the west. The Christensens were especially impressed with the natural colors in the film. Another show they enjoyed was a Major Bowes unit.

The travelers found Mrs. V. G. Williams, Griffith and Sharon, formerly of Carroll, nicely located and happy at San Gabriel. Griffith is with an insurance company. Jean and her husband are living in San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Wessel, former Carroll residents, have a dress shop in Montebello. Their son and two daughters are home, the youngest daughter now being 7 years old. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Littleton are also in Montebello, the former in the lumber business. Floyd Cox, another former Carroll resident, operates a bungalow court at Los Angeles. He likes the west and is doing well. The Christensens also visited Mrs. A. E. Kortright, sister of Dr. J. T. Gillespie, at Santa Ana.

Weather was nice while the Christensens were away, rains falling only a few days. On their return they stopped in San Francisco where a five-inch rain fell March 26.

STRANGE STORY.

A story that should thrill Americans with gratitude that they are safe in a free, humane country comes from Pierce county. Adolph Rode left Russia for the United States in 1913, expecting to send for his wife and six children as soon as he was able to do so. The revolution that followed cut off communication with his family. The mother and children were driven from their home in 1914. One child died from smallpox and another from lack of food. Finally a camp of German soldiers gave the wanderers assistance. While reading her Bible, Mrs. Rode discovered a slip of paper on which appeared the name and address of the man who brought Mr. Rode to America. Soon followed the armistice which enabled Mrs. Rode to locate her husband. In 1922 the oldest son was sent to his father, and a year later the family was reunited in America. The hardships of Mr. and Mrs. Rode and children in getting out of Russia and finding refuge in the United States, have been reported to Mr. Ripley, and accordingly they have been scheduled to appear on his "Believe-it-or-not" program.

say-writing contest, we are deeply impressed by the apparent freedom from guile and falsehood on the part of such animals. If they possessed powers of speech, they would probably learn to lie. But they cannot talk, and therefore cannot lie if they otherwise would. A calf sees what it wants, and helps itself without employing any shady tricks. It exercises no stealth, no dark cunning. If it impatiently butts its head into a pile of milk which the owner holds, it makes no verbal outcry. Leaves that to the owner who has a way of expressing himself somewhat at variance with the decencies of polite society. The dairy calf is a noble animal, and all human beings could attain an equally high standard of respectability if they would not use their advantages of thinking and speech to lie and deceive.

Sixty Years Ago

Public officers must have been popular 60 years ago, according to the Northern Nebraska Journal published at Ponca by Wm. Huse. San Francisco had 817 names on the ballot at an election and 3,261 cast votes. As no counting machines were then available, the task of making the count kept a staff from sleeping several days. Quite in contrast to present day numbers, the early report stated that Omaha had 48 teachers and 2,150 pupils in its schools. Holt county boasted 800 voters.

Harlan county had 30,000 of its 400,000 acres under cultivation. Lincoln planned a real improvement 60 years ago when the city contracted for having its streets graded.

Antelopes were reported never more abundant than they were 60 years ago in Cheyenne county.

A survey showed that Nebraska had 2,200 varieties of plants, 60 varieties of forest trees and 72 of shrubs.

A bronze statue in memory of General Custer was unveiled at West Point, N. Y.

A white and a Mexican disputed their ability as ropers at Hay Springs. As a consequence the Mexican drew a knife and the white man drew a gun and shot. The Mexican was killed.

The new wing to Nebraska's state capitol was to cost $63,106.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Andrews arrived home Saturday from San Antonio, Texas, where they spent the winter.

COMPETITION.

New deal contradictions are handled at length on the editorial page of the Saturday Evening Post. The president is quoted as saying: "One of the primary causes of our present difficulties lies in the disappearance of price competition in many industrial fields, particularly in basic manufacture, where concentrated economic power is most evident—and where rigid prices and fluctuating pay rolls are general." If that reasoning is correct, as the Post concedes, then the NRA which set aside competition was wrong. It is pointed out that natural laws of supply and demand will cause prices to rise and fall, and without crippling interference, a proper level will be reached. But the new deal proposed to regulate industry and business and everything, and did so to the serious injury of the whole economic system. Unless we can move up to a sound, rational standard, with healthy competition maintained, with capital able to recreate itself, the talk of the more abundant life with security is utter nonsense, as the Post suggests. That publication concludes: "Always the new deal has believed in miracles. So many have failed, it believes in one more. It seems to think it has only to say to the grim natural principle that was and that did work: 'Lazarus, now chastened, come forth!'"

Easter Observance in Panama Canal Zone Is Described by Paul Bertson

Panamians celebrated Easter holidays on Thursday evening, March 21, until midnight Easter day, March 24. According to Paul Bertson in his letter to the Carl Berntons March 23, the several cathedrals in Balboa Heights Friday night held a huge procession, starting at Presidential cathedral and winding through the streets picking up more mourners and marchers from different cathedrals until it reached several blocks in length. When the group reached Cathedral plaza, priests and nuns chanted and marched. The priests were followed by black-draped hearses with coffins supposedly containing the bodies of Jesus and Mother Mary. Eight others supposedly containing saints and martyrs followed, then the nuns with large, stiffly starched headgear. Nuns were carrying their burning candles. Convent students were next in the procession and last the general public, most of them dressed in black and shawls of black, intricately designed lace. The followers were beating their chests and chanting prayers—all seemingly done in a trance.

A huge cross was placed on Ancon hill several days before Easter and four army searchlights played on it. Union churches of the zone placed the cross and held sunrise services on the hill Easter morning.

Beauty Spot of World.

"The most beautiful spot in the world—the land of the pineapple—the Panama canal health resort." These are common descriptive phrases for Taboga, a tiny isle lying in the expansive blue waters of Panama bay which Paul visited for the third time to witness the Saturday evening climaxing celebration of Passion week. "Certainly Taboga is a place of incomparable beauty; it is the land of the pineapple and of all tropical fruits; it is a wonderful place for convalescents; and it is there the Panama canal's sick employes recover their lost health. It is, therefore, not to be wondered at that the 'Bay-View' house should have printed on its stationery the first two phrases quoted above and that the third phrase should be found on a great many postcards of the island. With its sheer steep sides reaching down to the water's edge and the village proper nesting on a hillside terrace, the island is made up of volcanic hills now extinct.

Cross on Mt. Sinai.

"The hill to the extreme left of the Hotel Aspinwall was named Mt. Sinai, due to its great resemblance to the one of Biblical times. There is now an immense cross of concrete on the very topmost point of the hill and an interesting history is attached to its building. The original cross was built of wood (presumably cedar) by a very devout priest, but after being carried to the mountain top by the villagers and consecrated by the priest, it was struck by lightning as were others later erected. Then, at a conference of the village's devout, it was decided to put a permanent cross of concrete on the spot where the yearly pilgrimages are held and the prayers of the worshippers offered. About the last thing one can see as Taboga fades into the distance is this huge cross which can be reached after a long, hot climb over a winding trail leading from the rear of the hotel.

Is Named for Chief.

"From a monumental plaque in the public square or plaza one can learn that the island was discovered in 1513 by Balboa and was taken by the Spaniards after a most vigorous resistance on the part of the Indians who inhabited it, one of whose rulers or chiefs was Taboga for whom the island was named. Further, in 1671 Morgan and his buccaneers attacked the isle. Caves on the far side of the island are thought to have been the stronghold of Morgan, and many tales are told of the supposed buried pirate treasure in that vicinity.

"Taboga boasts of its exquisite scenic views. Due to the peculiar geographic location of the isthmus of Panama," Paul explains, "the sun rises in all its splendor and color in the Pacific ocean and sets in the Atlantic ocean, leaving its brilliance painted in the heavens for some time before night descends. As the moon comes up from the sea it reflects a silvery sheen across the still surface of the waters and reveals the village of Taboga with the hills silhouetted in the background.

"Because of the almost perfect climate, Taboga was used as a recuperative center for the Americans during construction days of the canal. What then served as a sanitarium is now the Hotel Aspinwall—a resort hotel ideally situated on one of the mountain terraces overlooking the bay. The agreeable temperature of the island and its continuous cool breezes attract many visitors from the mainland who spend weekends there, and many of the Panamanians have homes in Taboga so they can steal away to enjoy the wonderful swimming and peace of the village." Paul writes that he has bathed at the island's salt water beaches. Taboga also has its fresh water pools, one known as Bishop's pool up in the hills, where a noted priest and financier took his baths, and one known as El Ancon on the brow of Sinai mountain. The two most favored salt water beaches are Taboquilla and "The Sand Bar" which is a long narrow strip between the mainland and Morro island where all depths of water may be reached. Few if any beaches can compare with those of Taboga with their deeply sanded surfaces rivaling the resiliency of a heavily piled rug, writes the Wayne youth.

"Taboga has its legends and traditions which many of the older natives believe," according to Paul. "One of these, told to us by the proprietress of the hotel, is that at one time a destructive fire was raging and threatened completely to destroy the church which held the statue of San Pedro, the patron saint of the town. Efforts were made to save the statue but the woodwork was found to be too badly worm-eaten to remove it to a place of safety. Consequently, the statue was left a prey to the flames. As sometimes happens, the church building, by some miraculous state, was the only one saved. A short time later, in discussing the condition of the statue, it was decided to replace it with another. When the measurements of the niche were taken it was discovered that the statue was in a very good condition with the exception of a few holes in the back of it, and it was contended that these were made by the fingers of persons trying to save it from the wreck of the fire. The statue still stands, a miracle in its state of preservation.

"After we came to Nebraska, even though just a kid, I began to realize we were in a brand new world with people around us who seemed almost foolish in the way they trusted and helped their neighbors. Why, there was a man near Vesta, a kind of farmer and trader who, as far as I knew, had never heard of my father before, yet, when dad told him he needed stock and feed to get started, he told father to get what he needed. No note was signed and the bill was well over $100. And it was paid back, too. I'll bet he'd have a tough time collecting money under these conditions today. A grocery bill was almost a sacred thing in the 1880's.

"School was a hit and miss proposition then and everyone had different kinds of books. The scholars furnished their own and got the kind it was the hardest to obtain. The girls all sat together on one side and the boys on the other. We did this in Sunday school, too, like the Quakers in church, only we didn't wear our hats like the Quaker men did. I never hear of a Sunday school picnic anymore but it used to be the big thing of the year, something to look forward to for months before it took place.

"The boys, like the boys of today, didn't think some kinds of stealing were really stealing, such as taking watermelons and apples. To take a dollar's worth of melons out of a neighbor's patch would be nothing, but to steal even a penny in money would be terrible. Our folks thought, though one was as bad as another and were very strict about it.

"One day my mother and I were shucking corn along a field that belonged to a neighbor named West Richardson. We saw a squash patch across the fence. We argued a while about taking one. Finally we decided to take it and tell our folks Richardson had given it to us. It was a dandy one, and made our folks feel kindly toward Mr. Richardson for his generosity. Neighbors didn't have telephones or see each other every day, but we had a quilting bee a few days later and Mrs. Richardson was to be there. Now mother thought it would be nice to return the favor so she invited West and his wife over to dinner, which was always part of the bee. The women ate first; after they got through the men sat down to eat. At that time, when there was company, the children waited until the grown folks finished and then ate at the second table.

"Well, after we had all sat down, mother spoke up and said, 'Mr. Richardson, we sure thank you for the fine squash you gave the boys.' Richardson looked kind of confused at us but didn't say anything. I saw it was going to take some explaining, so said, 'Mother, you've gone and spilled the beans. We stole that squash.' 'You didn't either,' answered Richardson, 'don't you remember I told you to take some of them when you shucked that down row along the fence? And there's some more of them for you.' Everyone laughed and I guess they caught on, although Richardson stuck to his story."

Hold National Lottery.

In contrast to the religious commemoration of Easter is the national lottery in Panama City. In fact the drawings for the national lottery are held each Sunday morning at 11 there. A young man told Paul he bought $7 worth of chances in 50c and 15c denominations. As the result of an approximation on the third prize number the youth won $11. Horse races at San Franco track drew their share of gambling. Twelve races are run in an afternoon, one each half hour beginning at 1 o'clock.

The weather is the main topic of discussion in the canal zone, Paul states. Daily showers have resulted in high humidity and also a very high temperature. Even early mornings are very uncomfortable and a person gets very warm just walking leisurely to work. The crickets and locusts have been singing continuously night and day, and that means more rain, Paul explains.

Early Experience In Nebraska Is Told by Pioneer

A squash steal, as experienced by Rush Meyers who came to Johnson county in the early 80's, is related in Nebraska Folklore, prepared by the Writers' project under the sponsorship of the state superintendent. The story follows:

"After we came to Nebraska, even though just a kid, I began to realize we were in a brand new world with people around us who seemed almost foolish in the way they trusted and helped their neighbors. Why, there was a man near Vesta, a kind of farmer and trader who, as far as I knew, had never heard of my father before, yet, when dad told him he needed stock and feed to get started, he told father to get what he needed. "The boys, like the boys of today, didn't think some kinds of stealing were really stealing, such as taking watermelons and apples. To take a dollar's worth of melons out of a neighbor's patch would be nothing, but to steal even a penny in money would be terrible. Our folks thought, though one was as bad as another and were very strict about it.

"One day my mother and I were shucking corn along a field that belonged to a neighbor named West Richardson. We saw a squash patch across the fence. We argued a while about taking one. Finally we decided to take it and tell our folks Richardson had given it to us. It was a dandy one, and made our folks feel kindly toward Mr. Richardson for his generosity. Neighbors didn't have telephones or see each other every day, but we had a quilting bee a few days later and Mrs. Richardson was to be there. Now mother thought it would be nice to return the favor so she invited West and his wife over to dinner, which was always part of the bee. The women ate first; after they got through the men sat down to eat. At that time, when there was company, the children waited until the grown folks finished and then ate at the second table.

Nebraska Gives Arbor Day Plan

"Plant a Tree and Save it," the slogan for Arbor day observance April 22, Nebraska contributed Arbor day to the holidays of the nation, and as a result half the civilized world celebrates the occasion. Arbor day, on which millions of trees are planted yearly, is becoming the symbol for conservation of all natural resources. Without trees, water, soil and wildlife diminish.

The Legion, Izak Walton League and Women's clubs have joined with schools in stressing observance of Arbor day. This year again they plan an active campaign to encourage tree and shrub planting.

To arouse interest in trees and woodlands, to stimulate planting for beautification and protection, to replace trees lost during drought, to stress care for native and planted timberlands and to carry on an educational campaign, are the purposes of the movement.

Every child needs to be taught the love of nature, also to learn to conserve them for comfort, pleasure and security. In only 200 years this country has used up 80 per cent of its virgin forests and a third of the soil's fertility. Young folks need to think of wealth in deep, moist soils, verdant forests, abundant wildlife and a feeling of contentment and security.

J. Sterling Morton, founder of Arbor day, came from the east in 1854, just after his marriage, to the new country, locating near the site that is now Nebraska City. The seedlings planted in pioneer days still grace the grounds of Arbor lodge, their home which is now a state park.

On the memorial monument at Arbor lodge, erected in 1905 mainly through the contribution of children, is this inscription, "Other holidays repose upon the past. Arbor day proposes for the future."

MODERNIZE with a PERFECTION Oil Range and an Oil Burning Water Heater

COOKING with wood and coal and heating water with the old-fashioned "water-back" range are all right for those who travel by horse and buggy. But this is a modern era. Oil is the modern, convenient and economical fuel.

Running water without a means of heating it economically is only half the convenience it should be. And, remember, when you use kerosene for fuel you maintain your independence because you can buy it everywhere—you don't limit yourself to one source of supply.

Let us show you the latest Perfection Oil Ranges and Stoves (from one to five burners) and Water Heaters.

Washington, D. C., April 6, 1940. The Daughters of the American Revolution are in town again for their annual meeting. They are colorful ladies in their beautiful clothe, ribbons and medals. Members of congress try hard to accommodate the delegates from their respective districts and a great deal is done to make the D. A. R. visit to Washington a pleasant one.

Speaker Bankhead is sick. He has gone to Florida. He has lost 15 pounds in the past few months. A few years ago he stayed away from the house throughout the session on account of illness. Then former Speaker Joe Byrns passed away and Mr. Bankhead took over the job. It has been a hard grind for him and he shows it. "I want to be away from the crowds—some-where where I can't hear the telephone ring for a long time," he tells his intimate friends. Mr. Bankhead has heart trouble—an ailment affecting many other members right now.

When will congress adjourn? That's the question which comes in many letters from home. Sam Rayburn as majority leader and John Tabor, minority ranking member on the appropriations committee, figured that out the other day. It all depends on when the last appropriation bill is passed and whether or not the senate stages a filibuster on the anti-lynching bill. But chances are that adjournment can come any day during between June 8 and June 15. There are but two more appropriation bills to come up. The next is the relief bill which is scheduled to come up about May 7. Then comes the last deficiency bill, scheduled for May 21. It will take about two weeks from the passage of that bill until adjournment can be reached. The new relief bill will call for around a billion and a half dollars. The last deficiency bill will carry around a million and a half dollars. Total appropriations during this year will be close to 13 billion dollars compared to around 14 billions a year ago.

The new relief bill is expected from the bureau of the budget shortly. It calls for a billion dollars, which is under last year's total. Efforts will be made to increase the amount because of continued unemployment of large volume. So, a fight to do something about it has already started. One fight will be over lump sum restrictions. The F. S. A., which is out of funds, is coming in with a request for about $125,000,000. The C.C.C. got 50 million more than was asked, and the N.Y.A. got an increase of $15,000,000. So the farm bloc feels fairly sure that their parity payment and surplus commodity funds will stay in the agricultural bill. This gives the W. P. A. people hope for some increase and others are coming in for their share. Whether this means new taxes is uncertain. The treasury department indicates it has some funds not mentioned before and which may make it unnecessary for a tax bill this season.

The charge that our ambassador to France told somebody that we would join the allies in a war against Germany causes a lot of talk. If he said it, leaders say he did wrong and ought to be reprimanded because we are not going to get into any kind of foreign war. They don't believe he said it. News men are talking about dispatches coming in from England, indicating that the English are criticizing Uncle Sam because he is now making great fortunes out of the war. There are some people here who are afraid that peace might come soon. This kind of philosophy brings heated arguments on the part of those who come from farm districts which are hit so hard by the war. Demands are starting for peace talk instead of war talk. The demands are being made by farm district members who feel Uncle Sam should stop being the arsenal of

Summarize Work Accomplished Here

W. P. Canning Lists Work Done in Wayne County By WPA Group.

Improvement of streets and roads, building of bridges, curbing and sidewalks, construction of public buildings, providing outdoor parks and playgrounds, adding water mains and sewage facilities and making firebreaks are the main accomplishments of Wayne county WPA labor in the past four years, according to a report made by W. P. Canning.

Highways and streets improved totaled 48.47 miles. Included in this was 14.71 miles of work on streets, a half-mile of which was paving. Much of the street improvement consisted of graveling. To do this it was necessary to install 30,290 feet of curb and gutter, and 1,556 feet of gutter was built where the curb had been built previously.

New sidewalks measured 1,620 feet, and reconstructed sidewalks totaled 6,523 feet.

WPA workers constructed 33.76 miles of farm-to-market road. In this connection they built seven new bridges and rebuilt or improved 207. To provide drainage so that roads would not wash during heavy rains, the men installed 30 new culverts and rebuilt 12. They improved roadside landscaping for a distance of 11.2 miles. Five of the new bridges, measuring 160 feet in length, were of wood; and two, measuring 150 feet, were of steel. The 207 rebuilt bridges were of wood and measured 4,108 feet.

A new municipal auditorium and gymnasium was constructed at Winside, and six public buildings were reconstructed or improved. The projects included work on the Wayne court house.

Fair grounds in Wayne were improved, also the athletic field at the college. Grounds of the teachers college were landscaped and an outdoor theatre constructed. Seven tennis courts were built by WPA workers. The cemetery at Wayne was improved and a new fence installed.

Wayne and Winside improved water and sewage systems with 2,720 feet of new water main and 4,175 feet of sewer. The men built 300 feet of retaining wall, and 5,280 feet of firebreaks. A tunnel 42 feet in length was constructed.

In school libraries of the county 100 volumes were repaired or renovated.

A survey of the work shows that 87 per cent of money expended went for wages for workers, this providing them with necessities. While maintaining the morale of these people and increasing their skills has been the chief objective, State Administrator D. F. Felton also adds that another aim has been to provide improvements that will serve present and future generations.

Picnic for Wayne Countians Is Held

Second Gathering Planned At Long Beach for Former Residents.

Wayne county picnic in Long Beach, Cal., was planned for Sunday, March 31, but as rain fell Saturday night and early Sunday, Ben McEachen and Miss Laura Lyons, officers of the association, decided that likely no one would come and a later date would be chosen. After church Miss Lyons called the park caretaker to reserve tables for the future date, and the latter explained that a good crowd was already waiting at the park. Miss Lyons rushed to the park and she and Mrs. Frank Ulrich made coffee while Oscar Jonson called Ben McEachen who hurried over from Huntington Park. The group included 47 though the grounds were wet in spots. It was decided to convene again April 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jonson, newlyweds of a few months, took the honors for coming the greatest distance March 31. They went from San Bernardino to Hemet and picked up Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jonson and Ina Ruth. They reported clouds at Hemet but no rain fell until they reached Pomona. Ernest Sievers drove from Lancaster, about 100 miles, on the edge of the desert. He works in a grain, seed store. His sister, Mrs. Gertrude Fossum, who is employed in East Los Angeles, accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ley and their mothers, Mrs. Alice Ley and Mrs. I. J. Lane, and Alice Ley came from Encinitas. Alice is now in the office of the aircraft corporation and lives near her sister, Lulu, who is employed in a big bank in Los Angeles.

Among others present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thomsen (Emma Kugler) and Dorothy, William and Dickie from El Segundo, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Mattson (Dorothy Chapman) and Gilbert and Fay. The former had come from Hoskins and wore an American Legion badge and the latter formerly lived at Winside. Mrs. Charlotte Jensen of Long Beach, still misses her father, the late John Larison. A. B. Johnson of Hoskins, was present, also Maek and Joe Ellis who are in a cafe at 78th and South Broadway, Los Angeles.

Miss Coletta Hahlbeck, who attended the picnic, plans to visit in Wayne the last of this month. Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Ingraham and Dean, Mrs. Alice Hurlbert, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Hurlbert and family, Mr. and Mrs. John King and grandson, Jack Alderson, Mrs. Glenn McCay, Patty and Marilyn of Long Beach, were others present. Mr. McCay was busy at the service station and parking lot where he

Couple Married At Long Beach

Miss Ada Irene Callagy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Callagy of Long Beach, Cal., and Lester H. Rewinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Rewinkle of Emerson, were married Saturday evening, April 6, at St. Matthews rectory in Long Beach.

The young folks may come here for a visit before making their home in Long Beach.

Mr. Rewinkle is a grandson of Mrs. Minnie Lessman and a nephew of Mrs. Robert Roggenbach, Jr., Mrs. Anton Pflueger and Mrs. C. V. Agler of this place.

has been in business since the first of January. Mrs. Ann Roberts and mother, Mrs. Jensen, and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Jensen of Witten, S. D., were in the group.

Frank J. Klopping, Jr., who lives with his sister, Mrs. Hazel Jenkins, in Long Beach, did not look natural due to burns suffered three weeks earlier at the service station where he is employed. The youth spent some time in a hospital. His face, hands, arms and legs were enveloped in steam fumes and flames caused by an automatic heater which suddenly gushed flames when he turned boiling water into a three-gallon pail in which was about a cup of gasoline. His eyebrows and fingernails were yellow from the accident, and new skin was forming on his face and hands. One leg was still in bandages to the knee.

As has been her custom for three years, Mrs. Ley brought cherry pie for the group. Mrs. Anna McLeod was improving after an illness so was unable to be present. Mrs. May Chace Miller left Wednesday last week for a two months' vacation in New Orleans, Washington, D. C., Boston and Kansas City. Bert Evans has sold their home in Wilmington and moved to 623 west 3rd street in Long Beach.

Miss Lyons writes that her duties in caring for an ill lady have ceased after 16 months and she has had a rest.

The picnicers voted to return to the Long Beach park April 7 to continue the visit. A cloud that brought rain dispersed the group early last week.

Wayne County Rural School News

School Heads Meet To Discuss Tests

Wayne county pupils will take 8th grade examinations this Thursday in towns of the county. Plans for giving the tests were discussed by superintendents from 11 counties Tuesday last week at Norfolk. Supt. F. B. Decker attended from Wayne. Others were from Dixon, Madison, Antelope, Cedar, Stanton, Boone, Nance, Platte, Thurston and Cuming counties.

Most of the school leaders decided to have at least four of the examination questions reprinted as those sent by the state department were confusing, the four being on one sheet. The re-printing also lessens the time required for checking of papers.

The test papers will be corrected and grades sent to teachers within a few days after April 11. Pupils must have no grade below 60 and an average of 75 to pass.

The final examinations will be given May 10 and these will be in all towns excepting Sholes, where the school picnic is scheduled for that day.

Superintendents of Third district plan to meet with those of First district at Fremont June 3.

Children at the Crossroads

All Is Not Success.

So far we have not succeeded in unravelling the mystery of Edward's distressing behavior. A friendly, likable boy, restless, bubbling over with energy, the first came to the notice of the juvenile court because of the theft of a rifle from a neighbor's garage.

Also involved in the misdeed were a neighbor boy and Ed's brother. The mother of the two boys was very much alarmed at her sons' arrest inasmuch as she had never before experienced any difficulty with them.

Widowed when Ed was five years old, she had reared her three children on the income from a mother's pension and the wages from three days' work per week at the local laundry. She had trained them well, sent them to church regularly, and during her working hours left them in the care of their grandmother.

Ed's teacher reported that he was capable of being an excellent student but that occasionally he lost interest and became unruly.

Ed was in perfect physical condition except for defective vision in one eye, a trouble which Ed could alleviate if he would but wear the glasses that were provided for him at once when the imperfection was discovered.

Six months after being placed on probation Ed was charged with his second offense, similar to the first. More severe restrictions were set up for his probationary period, and he was placed in a foster-home, the supervision of which was careful and strict. He was transferred to another school.

Such is his story to date. Forbearance on the part of those who are interested in him has spared him institutional commitment. Although his foster-parents make encouraging reports about him, the problem of his behavior is not solved.

Meanwhile his brother has responded favorably to probation methods.

Like the physician, the juvenile court judge has patients whose disorders he cannot diagnose.

Christian Science Services

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the lesson- sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, April 14.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us" (Isaiah 33:22).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him" (James 5:15).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God—a spiritual, understanding of God, an unselfed love. Regardless of what another may say or think on this subject, I speak from experience. Prayer, watching, and working, combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been sincerely done for the Christumation and health of mankind" (p. 1).
