

For Farm Life in Nebraska - Former Wayne Man Here - In Trying to Correct Faults - Scarcity of Farm Help - As to Advancing Years - Conflict of Inharmonious Elements.

A Nebraskan, now employed in Washington City, is reported to have expressed the wish that he might be back on the Nebraska farm which he left some years ago. He doubtless recalls the comparative freedom which he enjoyed on the farm. When he went out to look after the sheep or other animals he was not met by scheming politicians or irked by an endless procession of eager faces. On his farm he felt the spirit of independence that is nowhere else guaranteed. Nowhere else does initiative find greater liberty or greater demand. On the farm one uses his own judgment, and has the courage to stand the consequences. When he goes forth in the morning he is obedient to no wage and hour law, and he is not required to spend time resisting pressure groups. He is his own boss, and the planner of his own life.

Emil Hansen who has been here a few weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Kabisch, just southeast of town, spent many years of his useful youth in this neighborhood. His home is now on a farm near Holstein, Ia. He says crop conditions there are about the same as they are here.

Mr. Hansen says in his past Wayne county farm endeavors to accumulate enough of the world's substance to carry through declining years, he gives large credit to the late Henry Ley, banker, who counseled him not to try to grow rich fast, but put the brakes on youthful ambition and move forward slowly and safely.

Mr. Hansen remembers the temptation during and following the World war to buy more and more land, envisioning a wealth of farm holdings, getting into debt up to one's ears and running the chance of losing everything. He not only listened to banker Ley, but he followed his advice.

In trying to correct faults in certain groups, the American people are inclined to yield to extremes, but they usually get back on sound footing before permitting irreparable damage. In regulating business and industry in past years, and giving more leash to organized labor, supposedly in response to popular demand, burdens that obstructed recovery were often imposed, and results were largely in conflict with objectives. Apparently, people have awakened to an appreciation of errors of judgment and propose to see that restraints are modified. Thus, a recent survey by Dr. George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion shows a large reverse trend in popular judgment. Sixtyseven per cent registered against increased federal regulation of business and seventyfive per cent for greater regulation of labor unions. Too many burdens on employing institutions and too few restraints on organized labor have thrown the economic system out of balance and in considerable measure defeated the purpose of absorbing idlers in private employment. A middle course in dealing with both industry and labor is evidently recognized by popular opinion as the surest way in which to gain permanent recovery. No group can long be favored above another without serious injury.

While farmers everywhere complain that they cannot hire sufficient help, many hopeful schemes are set afloat by idlers whose ambition is to work the worker. The one who never exudes a drop of perspiration in doing anything useful is an annoyance to those who think and toil constructively.

There is a demand for the talent and effort of those who put pride in achievement above mere quest for dollars. The fellow who wishes to produce gratifying results from his brain or muscle is not likely to lack opportunities. The fellow whose sole aim is to see how much he can get for the least work and fewest hours will not find jobs tagging his footsteps far or long. We need to be reeducated to the gospel of work—mental and physical.

When one of the ushers—a young rooster, at the Philadelphia convention—referred to us as an "old man," our young feelings were given a powerful jolt. As one is presumed to be no older than he feels, we were disposed to stop and argue the point, but the moving (Continued on Page Four)

Council Asked To Favor Reed For Two Bands

Matter of Leadership Is Referred by City to Special Group.

Wayne city council, meeting in regular session Tuesday evening, was visited by a band committee asking that Prof. F. C. Reed be leader for the city and school bands. Spokesmen were Dr. J. C. Johnson, Herbert Reese, W. D. Hall, Don Baker and Lorraine Johnson. The council took no action on the request and referred the matter to the special committee named to represent the city and school in the matter, this including W. H. Sweet, Harold West, C. E. Nicholasen, Dr. L. F. Perry and Clarence Wright.

A few weeks ago the council and school board voted to have one leader for the bands. The committee of Prof. Reed has asked in behalf of visiting the council that he be chosen for this work, basing their request on his record of leadership of the city band. Action taken after the joint leadership arrangement was decided upon provides that the music instructor have charge of both instrumental and vocal music.

The school board meets Monday when further consideration will be given the matter.

The council chose Ralph Carhart a member of the library board for five years.

Officers decided to bid $2,250 on the Jamieson property to be sold at sheriff auction August 12.

LATE RAINS CHECK DAMAGE TO FIELDS OF GROWING CORN

LATE rains and cooler weather have checked damage to corn and materially improved prospect for the crop. Sunday night's rainfall of about an inch here came none too soon to counteract the withering effect of that day's heat. Some observers who are inclined to be optimistic, estimate the corn yield at above a half of normal while others, disposed to be ultra-conservative, drop their guess below the half-way mark. This is the seventh year without what is termed a "bumper" corn crop in northeast Nebraska, and if the scriptural rule holds good we should now be out of the cycle of leanness. The History of Dixon county records a severe drought in 1864, and not another one until 30 years later. Many present settlers remember the blasting elements in 1894. In the early days a drought seems to have had mercy enough to restrict itself to one year. The grasshopper pest appears largely to have vanished. Devastating grasshopper excursions into this country were traced back as far as 1857. Another "hopper" raid came in 1873 with repeated invasions for a few years. The History of Dixon county which was published in 1890, says that the last "hopper" scourge up to that time happened in 1876.

Name Precinct Chairmen for Fair in County

Grounds and Buildings Are Being Put in Condition for Festival.

Precinct exhibits will be featured at Wayne county fair September 4 to 7. Chairmen chosen to date in Wayne county precincts are E. W. Lundahl for Hunter, Robert Roggenbach for Plum Creek, Luther Bard for Logan, Leonard Rospich for Strahan, Dave Hamer for Wilbur, J. M. Petersen for Chapin, Levi Roberts for Deer Creek. Others will likely be added. Ernest Brammer is chairman for Logan precinct in Dixon county, and it is hoped also to have a chairman for Wakefield precinct, Dixon county. Precinct awards will be based on number as well as quality of entries. Agent Chet Walters urges residents to save grains, etc., for displays and asks them to contact chairmen so they may know what is available. Premium lists will be ready within a few days and these will enable exhibitors to select displays.

Work on the fair grounds is progressing. Roof of the grandstand is being repaired. Weeds have been disced on the race track and other weeds about the grounds cut. Rest room facilities are being improved. The fair board has voted to offer premiums of $7.50, $5 and $2.50 for the three best window displays made by business firms and featuring the fair.

Renew Friendship After Long Period

The first visit in 58 years was enjoyed by Mrs. Alvina Korff of Wayne, and Miss Anna Anschutz of Tabitha home, Lincoln, Monday. The two were confirmed in the same class in Nebraska City when the former was 15 and the latter 13. Since then they had lost contact. Mrs. Korff noticed in a church paper that Miss Anschutz was in Tabitha home. She accompanied the Frank Korff family to Omaha Saturday and to Lincoln Monday, enjoying the renewal of an early friendship. In Omaha the Korffs visited Mrs. Alvina Korff's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ray.

In Summer School. Mrs. Clara Heylman and son, Robert, are in Minneapolis, the former attending summer school.

Prof. and Mrs. John R. Keith plan to spend August in East St. Louis with relatives.

Plan Features For Picnic to Be in Winside

Entertainment Is Arranged For Old Settlers' Day in Mid-August.

Winside and Wayne bands will furnish music during the day. The activities of the day will be started with a parade at 10 o'clock. Minor sports are arranged during the day. In the afternoon Winside and Haskins baseball teams will play. The winner will get the gate receipts. The free acts will be at intervals during the day. The fire department is sponsoring a water fight about 6 o'clock. The Pierce Gesundheit band plays at 7:30. The Norfolk drum and bugle corps also performs. The dance in the auditorium closes the day. The Royal Swingers will furnish music at the dance.

General Rains Are Great Boon To Crops Here

Corn-saving rains, the most general since early June, fell over northeast Nebraska Sunday night and Monday morning, bringing a brighter outlook for crop prospects in this area. Moisture varied from about .5 to 2 inches. Wayne received .98, Wakefield 1.91, Carroll 1.25 and west of there 2, Winside .45. Sioux City and Hooper reported rains of 2 inches, Norfolk 1.15, Madison 1.10, Scribner 1.50, Beecher 2.5, West Point, Stanton, Neff and Pierce each 1, Wisner 4.25, Pilger .75, Plainview .75, Albion .27, Hartington .32.

Prospects for Corn Brighten As Relief Follows Dry, Hot Spell.

Moisture in Wayne for the month of July, according to the gauge at the State National bank, amounts to 2.55 inches. This is more than last year's July total of 2.43, though rains this season were heavier earlier and much better crops have resulted. The dates and amount of rain in July this year are as follows: July 20, .65; July 21, .4; July 26, .35; July 27, .12; July 29, .98; July 31, .65. In July, 1939, the amounts came as follows: July 3, .52; July 4, .18; July 6, .35; July 14, .28; July 18, .38; July 20, .42; and July 24, .3.

Scattered showers Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday last week brought some relief from dry, hot weather. Territory toward Laurel and Hartington was especially favored then. Light rains also fell at Wisner, Pilger and Stanton. Amounts in Wayne county varied and showers were scattered. Heaviest amounts in this vicinity Friday were reported about eight miles north and in the west part of the county.

Storms in southeast Nebraska Monday, especially in the vicinity of Lincoln, were accompanied by damaging wind and lightning. Wayne county already has harvested a good small grain crop and the moisture this week has brought promise for corn. Early corn had suffered most before the refreshing rains fell.

Beatrice Citizen Reports on Crops

Dwight Dalbey of Beatrice, who motored here to look after land in this county, said the early morning rain yesterday was evident all the way from Cortland, Gage county, to Wayne. He reports an exceptionally good small grain crop in the south part of the state. Corn is badly damaged in Gage county and has suffered similarly from drought from there to Schuyler. From Schuyler north the crop is promising, according to his observation.

Slight Reduction Made In Nebraska Tax Levy

Wayne County Board Will Fix Figures Here in Early August.

Nebraska's state property tax levy, fixed at 2.57 mills Tuesday by the state board of equalization in session at Lincoln, is .4 of a mill less than last year's. The cut is possible because of reduction of the redemption levy from 2 to 1.1 of a mill and because $192,224 emergency appropriations made last year by the legislature were covered in the 1939 levy. Last year the redemption levy, to keep the general fund "out of the red," brought in $409,503. This year the .1 mill for this purpose will raise an estimated $192,227. Valuations this year total $1,922,271,788 against $2,047,519,591 in 1939. Farm lands represented the greatest reduction, $96,858,227 or 8.5 per cent. Town lots dropped $18,642,669 or 4.2 per cent, and personal property went down $9,746,857 or 2 per cent.

The 2.61 mills in 1939 produced $5,344,026. The 1940 levy of 2.57 mills will bring an estimated $4,940,238 or $403,788 less.

Wayne county board meets early in August to fix tax levies. Last year the county levy was set at 3 mills and the 1938 amount was 3.37 mills.

SWIMMING POOL IS THING NEEDED TO KEEP YOUNG HERE

IT IS hoped the local demand for a place in which to swim and refresh, will lead the city or some other enterprising group to repair and restore to use before another year the pool on the Perry ground at the south edge of Wayne. Most live communities have swimming pools, and do not compel their young and old to journey to other towns to swim. Everybody should know how to keep afloat in water. Besides, the exercise is wholesome. Wayne should not forever be without a swimming pool. It becomes more important in the absence of lakes or running streams hereabouts large enough to serve the purpose.

State Complies Partially to County's Request for Cut in Property Values.

Wayne county's request for a 20 per cent cut in land valuations was only partially met by the state board of equalization in Lincoln. The reduction here about equals the state average of 8.5 per cent taken off of land valuations. Improved lands in Wayne county were this year valued at $11,780,190, this being a 20 per cent cut over last year. They were equalized by the state board at $13,226,208 which is 12.275 per cent restoration after the 20 per cent cut. Unimproved land in Wayne county, with this year's cut, was valued at $3,012,735. The state board raised the amount to $3,349,076 or 11.1648 per cent. Lands and improvements, valued at $19,842,815 in 1939, reduced this year to $16,221,225, were raised by the state board to $18,093,584. The decrease was allowed a valuation decrease of $1,839,231.

Lots and improvements in Wayne county, valued at $1,880,215 a year ago, were fixed at $1,757,145 this year, a decrease of $123,070.

The state board of equalization fixed valuations in other northeast Nebraska counties as follows: Dixon, $14,239,055 valuation in 1939 and $12,769,090 in 1940, equalized by raising to $13,242,431; Cedar, $22,847,645 in 1939 and $20,546,575 in 1940, equalized by raising to $19,832,320; Dakota, $8,584,320 in 1939 and $8,245,170 in 1940, equalized by this year's figure of $8,745,170; Knox, $16,257,000 valuation in 1939 and $13,267,480 in 1940, equalized by raising to $14,306,164; Madison, $20,256,380 in 1939 and $18,341,135 in 1940, equalized at this year's figure of $18,341,135; Pierce, $16,420,860 in 1939 and $14,897,690 in 1940, equalized at this year's valuation of $14,899,690; Stanton, $16,574,425 in 1939 and $15,172,580 in 1940, equalized by reduction to $15,033,596; Thurston, $11,570,810 in 1939 and $10,433,630 in 1940, equalized by raising to $10,982,268; Cuming, $26,576,645 in 1939 and $23,644,785 in 1940, equalized by raising to $24,450,512; Cass county, $17,955,835 in 1939 and $16,395,280 in 1940, equalized at this year's valuation of $16,395,280.

Stanton County Wins Bridge Case

District Court Holds Valid Opinion of Board In Old Matter.

Stanton, Neb., July 21—District Judge Lightner, Columbus, entered judgment in favor of Stanton county this week in district court of Stanton county, in one of the most important cases tried in this territory in recent years. It was brought by Mervyn J. Warren, secretary of the Wachob-Bender company of Omaha, to compel a levy of taxes to pay bridge warrants. The bridge warrants were issued by Stanton county on bridge claims filed in 1919, 1920 and 1921, for more than $635,000. County Commissioners Ben P. Remm, Emil Raabe and J. E. Hake have for several years refused to levy any taxes to pay these warrants. Each warrant shows upon its face that it was issued for an amount greatly in excess of the fund upon which it was drawn. County Attorney Fay Pollock said. The court found, as the county had claimed, that more than a half million dollars worth of bridge work for those years was done under emergency resolutions, which were "false to a great extent and that the bridge company had charged prices in excess of contract prices." The court also found that there was a collusive effort by the bridge company and the county commissioners then in office to burden the county with an indebtedness far beyond the limitations provided by the statutes of Nebraska and the Nebraska constitution.

Judge Lightner ruled that there was "gross fraud" in the amount charged Stanton county by the bridge company. He held the warrants void, and that the judgment against Stanton county procured by the bridge company in 1922, did not effectively or conclusively determine the validity of the warrants, although it purported to find that the warrants were legal obligations of the county. In 1922, the county commissioners, then in office, filed an answer admitting the warrants were legal obligations of the county, but Judge Lightner held this was not binding upon the county.

He sustained the contentions of County Attorney Pollock and Robert R. Meadie, West Point, who represented Stanton county in the case. It was tried in May of this year. The warrant holders and the county both filed long briefs, which were considered by the judge prior to his decision. The effect of the decision is to relieve taxpayers of Stanton county from paying county warrants in the principal sum of $1,420,003, with interest for nearly 20 years at 7 per cent or a total of about $240,000. The attorneys for Warren announced he will appeal to the supreme court. County commissioners of Stanton county have promised this case against the county will be thoroughly defended.

THE KNOT-HOLE

Vol. 7 Wayne, Neb., Thur., Aug. 1, 1940 No. 38

You can keep dry under a tree if the shower isn't too big. A poor roof will do the same thing for you. But when you get a rain such as was had last Sunday night, then your roof should be covered with No. 1 Red Cedar shingles. They're the best and biggest bargain on the roofing market today.

"I want a skirt to wear around the house."
"How big is the house?"
"Now that we've had a rain, you'll want to fence off the stubble. American Fence and Orange Banner steel posts are the easiest to use for this and make the best fence. We have them both!

If you like creosoted posts, these have will take your eye. They're beautiful posts.

"How's your wife today?"
Now that threshing is pretty well out of the way, you're going to have time to do those repair jobs that have piled up on you. 4-Square lumber will do them quicker and cheaper. Take advantage of 4-Square and save yourself a lot of time and work.

Farmer: "What do you want?"
"Casey, do you like beer?"
"Not particularly."
"Then what are you carrying that mug around for?"

Hints Are Given On Jelly Making

At jelly-making time, women used to cross their fingers and hope they would have good luck. Today Miss Mabel Doremus of the Nebraska agricultural college, explains that there are definite rules to follow for each step in the jelly-making process.

Select good quality fruit that is fresh and firm. A mixture of ripe and slightly underripe fruit is usually best. Overripe fruits, especially raspberries and blackberries, are often low in acid. But they will make jelly if one tablespoon of strained lemon juice is added to each cup of fruit juice.

To know when the syrup forms jelly is important in cooking it the right length of time. The jelly test most commonly used is called "sheeting off." To make the test, dip a large spoon into the boiling syrup and lift the spoon so the syrup runs off the side. Stop cooking when the syrup no longer runs off the spoon in a steady stream, but separates into two distinct lines of drops which "sheet" together.

If the jelly is not cooked long enough, it will be soft and runny. And if it is cooked beyond the point of jelly formation, it will become a gummy mass.

Sterilized jars, a perfect paraffin seal, and a cool and dry storage space will keep the jelly from molding or fermenting.

Editorial Comments

Wendell L. Willkie.

(Lincoln Journal)

Wendell L. Willkie, republican nominee for the presidency, brought a clarion call of true Americanism to Cheyenne, says the Tribune of that city. "Denouncing the steady infringement of Rooseveltism upon the rights of a free people, he rallied Wyomingites to a crusade for the restoration of freedom of enterprise by taking back government from a regime at Washington bent upon totalitarian regimentation."

"All who saw and heard him were enlightened with his magnetic personality, impasses with his independent individualism, stirred by his 'dynamic leadership. Here, it was obvious, was a man with the ability and courage, the honesty and devotion essential to leadership of the quality to which American democracy is entitled and which it must have if it is to survive the boring of the Rooseveltian termites."

"In brief, none who saw him and heard him could avoid the impression that in him was 'the man of the hour' whom America always finds when its freedom and liberty are jeopardized. The majority of Americans will be perplexed indeed if he be not the next president of the United States."

Cuba Has a Plan.

(Omaha World-Herald)

Although it now appears that the Havana conference may not produce very much except high-flown palaver, one suggestion has been made there which seems likely to win general approval in Washington.

This plan comes from the Cuban delegation, and deals with the sugar problem in the western hemisphere. They call it a "heroic solution."

The plan provides that the United States government shall buy all the best sugar plants in this country, and destroy them. That would put all our beet farmers out of business, and leave a clear field for Cuba's cane sugar industry.

That should suit President Roosevelt's brain trusters right down to the ground, because it involves two principles which are very dear to their hearts. In the first place it would call for large appropriations and lavish expenditures, and in the second place it would greatly reduce the productive capacity of this country. Thus it would achieve, with one bold stroke, a result which the Bright Young Men have been striving for by various indirect methods with only partial success. And besides, it would gain the eternal friendship of Cuba.

Cuba, of course, is a small country, but the same policy of appeasement could be applied to the larger ones whose good will is even more important to Uncle Sam. To get on the good side of Argentina, for example, the government could buy up and close all our packing plants and so force our cattlemen out of business. Similarly we could stop growing cotton, wheat and the many other commodities which we now misguidedly produce in competition with our Latin-American sisters.

In the long run this would lead to an ideal situation. The South Americans would do all the work and grow all the food while we North Americans could sit around in the shade of our front porches, sipping Cuba libres and waiting for the mail man to bring us a bountiful check from the government.

We can't help thinking that these Cubans have a real idea.

Bryan on Official Tenure.

(Lincoln Journal)

William Jennings Bryan, once the idol of democracy of the nation and the nominee of the democratic party for the presidency in 1896, announced in that year that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself if elected for a second term. In his letter of acceptance of the nomination at the Chicago convention, written to the chairman of the notification committee on Sept. 9, 1896, he made the following statement:

"Human judgment is fallible enough when unbiased by selfish considerations, and, in order that I may not be tempted to use the patronage of the office to advance any personal ambitions, I hereby announce, with all the emphasis which words can express, my fixed determination not, under any circumstances, to be a candidate for re-election in case this campaign results in my election."

It will be noted that Mr. Bryan was not making an issue of the third term. He was denying his own right to try to succeed himself, even for a second term.

The statement quoted above will be found on page 409 of his book, "The First Battle." The letter was written from his home in Lincoln.

Cow and Calf.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Here is a man who has some beef cows from which he is raising calves. "You know," he said, "if you have something that is always growing into more money you don't have to worry too much about price swings." He raises calves. He aims to turn a cow with her calf on grass in the spring. There is nothing he has found that will make more profitable use of grass than a cow with calf at side. The lush grass makes plenty of milk. The calf makes fine growth. The cow is worth as much in the fall as she is worth in the spring. The calf is worth a lot more. The increase in the value of the calf is the return on grass. And that may be a return comparable to what could be earned by cropping, in the experience of this man. Incidentally, he supplements permanent pasture with temporary pastures that are at their best when bluegrass fades in late July and August. "There is no farm labor-saver to beat the cow and her calf," is his finding.

Getting away from too much work, and making it pay.

Ethics and Socialist Dogma.

(Nation's Business)

In between war and politics battling rapturously for precedence, we drank a cup of black coffee and settled beside a still radio for an evening with Max Hirsch's "Democracy vs. Socialism."

The book was written by an Australian single taxer in 1900 and reprinted recently by the Robert Schalkenbach Foundation.

It shows the socialists have learned precious little in these tremendous 40 years.

Factions are as abusive of one another as ever but all of them still stand on the monstrous fallacy that the individual has no natural rights in this world.

Now, as then, they hold that he exists for the State, that society is not bound to reward a man either in proportion to his services or his wants, but only as expediency dictates. To this says Hirsch:

"To the laborer belongs the fruits of his toil, is generally regarded as the only ethical standard of economic justice. Socialism utterly denies the truth of this proposition, and teaches that the fruits of individual labor belong, not to the laborer, but to the society of which he forms part, to be used by it in such manner as may, in its opinion, promise the best social result."

The nub of the whole issue of collectivism—embracing socialism, communism, fascism, nazism and every stripe of leveling creed—is moral. The elementary and indispensable ethic of a civilized society is respect for a man's right to enjoy that which he has labored to acquire. Neither an individual nor the whole society may take it from him by force or subterfuge.

Happy Change

IN Nation's Business, Merle Thorpe sounds a note of encouragement. He says business has been under attack for ten years. Now it is in better repute. While theorists were tampering with a disordered economic system, business and industry were bludgeoned and handicapped. Thorpe calls the indifferent disregard of tradition and sound practice as "iconoclasm" or a "frenzied Roman holiday." But fear of a foreign invader and demand for means of defense prompted change from dependence on speculative notions to dependence on proved business judgment. Therefore, in the matter of providing adequate defense, business leaders were "whistled from the dog-house and put in charge."

Thorpe says in effect that reverse action is expressed in the successful demand for a practical planner for president. Consequences of too much weakness in the French government over the years have aroused in this country fear of results that may follow dizzy and costly experimenting and careless indifference to hard facts. So-called "liberalism" may turn out to be dangerous "radicalism." Looking to the future, Thorpe concludes:

"A policy of plenty will supplant the theory of easy Marxian scarcity. This spirit will recognize that textbooks on arithmetic contain methods of addition and multiplication as well as subtraction and division. It will abandon revolutionary reform to make over America and adopt recovery with its proved evolutionary social progress. It will raise the American banner with its insignia 'Work.' It will remove the obstacles which are preventing workman and manager from joining hands, and in the good old-fashioned way, lick the production record of yesterday.

"It is late, but not too late, to give business a chance to do its old-time stuff for the American people."

The World-Herald thinks the Cuban delegation's suggestion expressed at the Havana conference, for the United States to buy up and suspend all its sugar factories, thus wiping out sugar beet growing, in order to give a clear field to the industry in Cuba, would dovetail perfectly with the economics of Washington's Bright Young Men. The World-Herald thinks the plan might be carried so far that we would have nothing to do in this country but accept government checks and watch the world whistle by.

A sound, healthy body is stressed as supremely important whether one is to make himself acceptable for a defense war or for peacetime pursuits. Quoting a health magazine, the Omaha Journal-Stockman comments: "A nation that is physically fit is a nation that is ready to perform the duties of peace as well as those of war. And, after all, the duty of keeping the body in the best possible condition is a duty everyone owes to himself as well as to his country."

In a conversation while here for the airport dedication Sunday, Governor Cochran did not give a very encouraging report of the self-sustaining powers of the state during recent drouth years. Until a fat period returns and government gratuities are no longer needed, it may be well to put the "White Spot" boast among moth balls and lay it aside until we can get back on our feet.

The president's abuse of democrats who have abandoned his third-term campaign, is welcomed as a source of strength for the Willie-McNary ticket. Democrats refuse to be straitjacketed into obedience to something contrary to conviction, and such resentful numbers will multiply.

Senators Taft, Vandenberg and Wheeler would ask for volunteers rather than enforce conscription at this time. The draft would follow if those offering their services were insufficient in numbers to meet requirements.

Conscience is a handy thing to have around for support. The president consulted his conscience before accepting a third term nomination. He resisted the idea until his conscience nagged him into submission.

The airport, base of the local aeronautics school, was given due send-off last Sunday with thousands braving the intense heat to attend. The school is one of many training young persons for an important field of service.

The misguided idea that obstructing industry and other sources of employment is the way to serve the public welfare still engrosses a narrowing circle.

The only way the president can stem the tide running against his third-term nomination would be to call off the election.

Response to a call for volunteers for military training would soon settle the question of conscription. If a plan for voluntary enlistments proved insufficient, then the draft could be employed. Why long congressional consideration over the way to meet a need that may be quickly disposed of by issuing a call and watching returns?

Argentine Corn

(Chicago Tribune)

Once again American farmers are threatened with the competition of imported grain on the domestic market. The other day an offer of Argentine corn was reported at 76 cents a bushel, landed in Boston with all charges paid. It is said that there are regions in northern New England where the imported corn could be sold below the American price.

This is not the result of a scarcity of American grain. Any one who has traveled through the middle west has seen the clusters of galvanized iron storage tanks at almost every railroad station. They are filled to overflowing with corn, the farmers' cribs are also filled, and within a few months another crop will be harvested. The immense accumulation of recent years presents a grave problem and it is likely to become a graver one. Thanks to his price-rigging schemes, Mr. Wallace has slowed the movement of American corn into consumption and his acreage reduction program has failed to reduce production.

On July 1 of this year the government reported that there were 862 million bushels of corn on the farms, about half of it grown in 1938 and previous years and held as security for government loans. In addition, there were something like 65 million bushels and perhaps more owned outright by the government. The carry-over on July 1 was just about double the normal amount as indicated by the 10-year average.

Despite the surplus, corn is being withheld from the market with the result that competition from abroad is now regarded as well within possibility. Mr. Wallace's attempts to solve the surplus problem have resulted, as it was confidently predicted they would, in aggravating the evil instead of curing it.

The Governor's Reasons

(Omaha World-Herald)

On Monday of this week Governor Cochran declined to tell how he stood on the third-term issue because, he said, he was too busy with "the tax and drouth situation" to pay any attention to politics.

But by Wednesday, it seems, the tax and drouth situations had lifted somewhat and the governor found time to declare himself. He favors a third term. He gives his reasons thus:

"Nebraska expressed its preference in the April primaries when the people voted in favor of President Roosevelt's renomination. The wish expressed at the Nebraska primaries was fulfilled at the Chicago convention. We democrats of Nebraska should feel gratified that our choice was recognized by the democrats of the nation."

Whoa, there, let's look at the record. There were 341,869 votes cast in Nebraska's primary. Of those, President Roosevelt received 111,902. Does that indicate that "Nebraska expressed its preference" for him?

The president was opposed for his party's "preference." Yet more than 25 per cent of the 167,705 democratic voters did not put a cross opposite his name.

If one were to try to draw a realistic conclusion from the Nebraska primary vote, it would be that there are 26 thousand more republicans than democrats—and that 25 per cent of the democrats do not care much for Candidate Roosevelt.

It is not even strictly accurate to say that Mr. Roosevelt was the choice of the democratic party. All the primary proved in that respect was that, faced by a choice between Roosevelt and nobody, 75 per cent of the voting democrats of this state chose Roosevelt.

Mr. Cochran should be complimented for finding the time to take a stand on the issue. But he would have won greater honor if he had given his personal reasons for favoring a third term, instead of the highly political reason which he gave.

Work, Hours and Wages

(Sam McKelvie in Nebraska Farmer)

Yes, sir, new deal objectives must be attained and preserved regardless of national security. With wages the highest in any nation in the world, and real wages the highest ever in this country, it's the 40-hour week and time and one-half for overtime whether school keeps or not.

Dependable labor on the farm is very hard to get. The fellow who cut our hay found when he was ready to start that he was two men short—he had hired them in good faith at good wages, but they didn't show up.

A rancher complained to me that he just couldn't get and keep a dependable man and wife. Said he paid forty dollars per month with everything furnished including a modern furnished home—the equivalent of one hundred dollars per month in town—but they just wouldn't stay, or would not do the work if they did stay.

We will not live long enough to overcome the damage that has been done this country by a national administration that has led people to disbelieve in the proverb, "Man shall eat bread in the sweat of his brow."

Work is a habit—a pleasantly useful habit when learned and practiced—but it is a lot easier to get into the habit of idleness or play, and a lot harder to overcome that habit. I haven't much heart in reforming the practiced idler.

So it follows that a democracy that supports any part of its effective population in idleness when there is work to be had in private industry at a living wage undermines its economic security.

Thus has our nation dumped its income when we should have been preparing against the inevitable storms of dictatorship.

RADICALS WON

Mark Sullivan, columnist, says the late Chicago convention's renomination of the president for a third term was a concession to the radical element. The executive likes to shatter people with surprises. He refuses attention. He naturally likes radicals and just as naturally shys away from conservatives. Radicals gain advantage through Mr. Roosevelt's favor. He likes something new and exciting. Left-wingers supply the need. Conservatives are comparatively dull and colorless. So, the battle line is drawn between those who would pull further to the left and those who would pull in the opposite direction. The main issue in the forthcoming campaign is Roosevelt and a third term.

War Is Savagery

War is a heartless consequence of savagely inharmonious human elements. Its product is death and ruin. It makes the world insecure and unhappy. Its brutalizing influence destroys a century of carefully developed civilization. The doctrine of absolutism, practiced by dictators and fomenting peacefully inclined nations to defend themselves, is an abhorrent attack on every Christian principle inculcated during the past two thousand years.

Demand For Farmers

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Farm land prices will soon feel the effect of the present war expansion in business and industry. If real estate men are to be believed, thousands of city men are already buying farms and ranches as an investment as is shown by the reports of land banks and other federal agencies. Opportunities to become land owners have never been greater than they are now and while returns from farming are not overly attractive, the permanent character of the investment carries a strong appeal in these unsettled times.

FAMINE AHEAD

In Sunday's Lincoln Journal and Star, J. E. Lawrence emphasizes the threatened European famine. War in some countries and mobilization of men for possible war in others have turned cultivable areas into battle fields and allowed others to remain uncultivated. Destroying food cargoes and creating blockades to prevent food shipments are chargeable to the inhumanities of war. The only nation capable of answering the demand for food in stricken countries abroad is the United States, and there is a question as to how far this nation will be able to go in that direction. The purpose of each country in conflict is to starve adversaries into submission. It is one of the cruel practices of mutual conflict, visiting untold hardships on combatants and non-combatants alike.

Test Tube Farming Foreseen for Future

The Third Term Draft

(Lincoln Journal)

President Roosevelt made it clear in his acceptance of the nomination of the convention at Chicago that only the people can "draft" any man for president. The convention might nominate, but only the people can elect.
A great deal was heard about the draft movement in Chicago. It was heard before the convention convened and was heard until after the nomination had been made. It came largely from the political leaders. It was a draft engineered by the Harry Hopkins board of strategy, aided and abetted by Hague of New Jersey, Flynn of New York, Crump of Memphis and the Kelly-Nash organization of Chicago. Votes controlled by these interests were very nearly enough to nominate a president. Their control went beyond the confines of the states represented.

It would be unfair to say that only those supported Roosevelt for a third term. There were others. Many appointees of the president were influential with their own delegations. It is probable that a few independent delegates believed that Roosevelt should be nominated, even though it became necessary to establish a new precedent. In spite of all this, however, there was opposition to the idea of any man accepting the office of president for a third term. That opposition was particularly strong in the south. It was voiced by the supporters of Farley. There were others who could not go along with the leaders.

Now we hear that at least one of the leaders in the movement may be rewarded. It is entirely probable that all of them will stand to gain from their attitude in the convention. The Chicago Herald-American has predicted that Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago will be the next postmaster general. After Kelly there will remain to be rewarded Hague and Cromwell of New Jersey, Flynn of New York, and Crump of Memphis, and a host of other political strategists.

Raising of Brome Grass Successful

A number of Wayne county farmers are having success in raising brome grass, according to report of Agent Chet Walters. While results are usually good from seeding brome in nearly all time of the year, there is less risk of failure when seeding is done in August or early September. Seed bed preparation is very important regardless of time of seeding. Ground should be firmly packed and free of weeds. When possible a drill is preferable for seeding. Otherwise seed should be broadcast by hand or with an endgate seeder. Rate of seeding varies from 12 to 15 pounds per acre. Light seedings of oats or barley will protect young brome grass.
Alfalfa and brome grass mixtures make a suitable pasture combination. Brome grass should be seeded at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre with four or five pounds of alfalfa. Alfalfa will return nitrogen to the soil while brome removes it.
The pasture season of the combination of crops is longer than when either crop is used alone. Bloating risk when pasturing alfalfa is practically eliminated when using the mixture.

Prepare Vegetables In Many New Ways
Cucumbers, radishes, green onions and celery cabbage seem to be perfect as they are usually served in salads or as relishes. But when vegetables are equally good when cooked and served hot, explains Miss Mabel Doremus, extension foods specialist at the Nebraska college of agriculture.
Cucumbers are especially versatile. You can fry them, boil them or scallop them. But one of the best ideas is to stuff and bake them. Pare the cucumbers and cut them in half lengthwise. Then scoop out the pulp to make cucumber shells. Parboil these shells, or boats, about 10 minutes. Meanwhile cook some chopped onion and parsley in fat, add the cucumber pulp, some chopped raw tomatoes or canned tomatoes, bread crumbs and seasonings. Cook about 5 minutes. Stuff the cucumbers with this hot mixture, place in a baking dish, add a little water to keep them from sticking, and bake about 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Or if you want a more substantial dish, add some chopped meat or flaked fish to the stuffing.
Celery cabbage is another vegetable that can be served either raw or cooked. Cut it crosswise, so there will be no long stringy fibers. Then cook it like cabbage, either in boiling water, or parned in a covered frying pan with a little fat.
If your garden furnishes more radishes and green onions than you think you can use, try cooking and serving them like any other vegetable. Peel the radishes, and cook them in a little salted water until they are just tender. You'll

LIFE with ELSIE A Day With The Purebred Jersey "Personality Cow"

UP before the milkman, and heard a camera click (1) while I was stretching in bed. Those shutter-bugs are everywhere. No privacy at all. A gossip columnist had me "infanticiding" in the morning paper. A celebrity can't even chew her cud in peace nowadays. Let's see, today I move for Hollywood to act, in the movies. I'm the cow Kay Francis is going to milk in Louisiana. Aicott's "Little Men" with Jack Oakie and Charles Winninger. Wonder if I'll find a four-leaf clover in my breakfast hay?
(2) Say, what's this? A new secretary? Well, dust my dewlap! Pretty, isn't she? What's your name? "Vera," eh? Read me my part in the movie, Vera. What's my stage name? O, yes—"Buttercup." M-m-m-m. Three times they've changed my name in my eight years. Over at the American Jersey Cattle Club they have me registered as "You'll Do Lobelia." That's my father's and mother's family names put together. Then, when the Borden people took me to the New York World's Fair to live in this bovine boudoir, so that city folks could see what a cow looks like, everybody started calling me "Elsie." So now it's "Buttercup." O, well, by any idder name my milk would be just as creamy.
(3) Take a letter to my fans, Vera. Put it on that new letterhead paper with my picture at the top, and always address them by their first names—nice and intimate, you know. "Dear So-and-So: Thank you for your note asking for my autograph. That isn't a smudge at the bottom of this picture. It's my autograph—my muzzelprint. My ancestors came here six generations ago, from the island of Jersey in the English Channel, and there are thousands of my relatives in America now, but we all have different muzzelprints. Just like your fingerprints are different from any other person's. Hoping that you are drinking lots of milk and, with love from moo to you, I am, Very truly yours, Elsie (nee You'll Do Lobelia)." Type that off and let's see what you've got, Vera.
(4) Got to hoof along, now. I'm the guest star at a war relief fund charity bazaar this afternoon. Why, whisk my withers, there's Lee Boyce, my old boss up at Elm Hill Farm in Brookfield, Mass., where I was born. Hello, Mr. Boyce! How are things back home? Please tell the other cows that all this publicity hasn't turned my head a bit. I can still fill up the milkpail twice a day. Just stick around 'til I finish this alfalfa salad, and see me do it. A little closer with that feed bucket, please. Say, if you see that 'husband of mine, tell him I'll write from Hollywood. 'Bye, now! See you in the movies.

Editor's Note — Elsie's current husband is Norman of Oakland, purebred Jersey sire whose great-grand, Brampton Bastian, will be remembered as the cow that produced 1315 pounds of butterfat (more than her own body weight) in a year, and by that feat became widely known as "The Cow that Jumped Over the Moon."

Christian Science Services
"Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, August 4.
The Golden Text is: "O God, thou art my God... Because thy loving kindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee" (Psalms 63:1,3).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God: for love is love" (1 John 4:7,8).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is Love." More than this we cannot ask, higher we cannot look, further we cannot go... The Christian Science God is universal, eternal, divine Love, which changeth not and causeth no evil, disease, nor death" (pp. 6, 140).

Wayne Is Leader Of 'Big Six' Loop

Pitching of Dale Alderson Is Feature of 8 to 1 Game Sunday Afternoon.

It was a case of just too much Dale Alderson here Sunday afternoon when Wayne moved into undisputed Big Six leadership by trouncing a disorganized Winside nine by an 8 to 1 count. Alderson had the visitors at his mercy throughout the entire game, whiffing 15 men and allowing but 6 safe blows. The smoothness and sparkle of his delivery were a pleasure to watch, and his offerings proved so puzzling that not once was he forced to put on pressure.

The Wayne lads started off with a bang by scoring four runs in the last half of the 1st inning on four hits and several wild pitches. They scored again in the 2nd on an error and a single, once more in the 4th on a hit batsman, an error and a fielder's choice, once in the 5th on an error and a double, and the last time in the 7th on a double and a sacrifice.

The visitors' only tally was chalked up in the 8th on a base on balls and a single.

Eckert opened the game on the mound for the visitors, but was wild and ineffective, being replaced in the 2nd by Lutt. He returned to pitch in the 5th and finished the game with a much greater degree of effectiveness.

The work of Alderson furnished the only bright spot in the entire game. In addition to his masterful mound work, he was also the big gun on the offensive, pounding out a triple, a double and a single in five trips to the plate. Heyne came through with two doubles, and Bornhoff and Cross each gathered two hits. Whitney was the best man for Winside, getting two safe blows.

Play at Winside Sunday.

Next Sunday Wayne goes to Winside where these same two teams will meet in the previously postponed league game. Should Winside win, the teams will be deadlocked for top position. However, if the local lads come out on top they will retain their undisputed leadership. So the game Sunday should really be a battle, according to dopsters.

Randolph Victor of 7-0 Game at Hoskins

Randolph's Big Six baseball team invaded Hoskins Sunday afternoon and tucked a 7 to 0 shut-out under their belt. Randolph's first counters came in the 4th, which was also their big inning. The visitors scored four times in this frame, once in the 8th and twice in the 9th. The home boys gathered a total of nine hits but were unable to bunch these sufficiently to push over any scores.

College Student Has Interesting Cruise of World

Beautiful scenery and luxuriant growth of trees and flowers are the most vivid recollections Miss Mildred Bacon has of her trip around the world last year. She, in company with her sister, Miss Glennie Bacon, who was once principal of Wayne high school, visited Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Singapore, Dutch East Indies and Hawaiian islands. Miss Mildred Bacon, who is attending Wayne State teachers college this summer, is a science teacher in New York. Miss Glennie is now teaching mathematics in Wyoming university.

The women visited Kruger national park in South Africa. This park is as big as the state of Nebraska and is a game refuge for specimens of all native animals. They saw zebras, tigers, lions, hippopotamuses, crocodiles and monkeys. While going through this park one cannot get out of the car in which he is riding because it is not safe. Victoria Falls, another natural beauty in South Africa, seemed to Miss Mildred wider, higher and more beautiful than Niagara Falls.

The Dutch East Indies were extremely beautiful and picturesque, with the natives working at their crafts of silver and wood carving. The natives seem to be especially fond of carving the human figure. Miss Bacon reports that locally made articles are sold much cheaper in the Dutch East Indies than they are in any other part of the world. One has to barter for everything one buys.

While in New Zealand the women saw an active volcano. They also visited the "glow worm cave." The underground river at this point has made a grotto which is pitch dark at the opening, but as one goes deeper into it glow worms, which are on the walls, light up the cave just as millions of tiny stars would do. Fern forests are not uncommon there and the ladies traveled one day in a fern forest. The ferns are taller than our pine trees and cover thousands of acres.

The natives in these southern countries are the dirtiest Miss Mildred Bacon has ever seen. They still stick to their ancient customs and old-fashioned interpretive dances, wearing old tribal costumes. There is a definite class distinction between the whites and the natives.

Mrs. Rehder, 68, a native of Hamburg, Germany, came with her folks to this country when she was 9 years old, also settling at Lincoln.

The Rehders lived in Wayne from 1908 until 1910, then going to Creighton. They returned here in 1917 and have made Wayne their home since.

Soap and Jelly Are Hobbies of Lady in Wayne

A story of Mrs. Anna Grunemeyer's hobby of making soap and jelly won a prize for Ruby Hanke of Madison, granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Hart of Wayne, in the Thursday "Kitchen Nuggets" section of the Norfolk News.

The story reads that a pantry in Mrs. Grunemeyer's home is filled with rows and rows of jelly on shelves. "Nearly every well known type is found there. Eye-filling, the jellies taste just as delicious when opened."

Mrs. Grunemeyer's soap is "that of a connoisseur. Not only do the fat and lye and other ingredients balance to make a fine blend of purest white soap but each bar is molded in its own private mold. The shape may not change the goodness of the soap but the enjoyment of the beautiful designs takes away the drudgery of dishes and washing. The principle is the same as that of putting soap in animal forms into the baby's bath water. Mrs. Grunemeyer's molds are not just plain ones but any beautiful or odd forms she can get her hands on."

"Both of these hobbies are just tiresome tasks to some but to Mrs. Grunemeyer they are a pastime. While doing this work the cares of the world are forgotten."

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Brown and children went to Holdrege Monday to spend a couple of weeks with relatives.

The United States civil service commission has announced an examination to fill the position of rural carrier at Ponca, Neb. The tests will be held at Wayne. Citizens, men and women, residing in the territory of the Ponca post office at least six months, may apply.

Governor and Others Speak At Dedication of Wayne Airport Sunday.

"The best guarantee for peace is preparedness." Legion men and all others who have the most reason to abhor war are united in this opinion, according to Governor R. L. Cochran who addressed a crowd estimated at 10,000 at dedication of Wayne's new airport Sunday afternoon. Some regard preparedness as a move toward war, commented the governor. "Having a police department does not promote crime. Rather it deters crime. Nor does a fire company increase fires. So, preparedness does not promote war but serves to discourage it."

The executive quoted a military authority's opinion that 20,000 trained men at the battle of Bull Run would have stopped in 60 days the war of the rebellion which dragged out four years.

Pilot training courses, such as Wayne has, in opinion of Governor Cochran, "offer the best guarantee against war and in event of war offer the best advantage of successful conclusion."

The speaker mentioned great progress being made in science. In transportation, for instance, he noted that a trip in Nebraska that required seven days by covered wagon when he was a child now takes but four and a half hours by car and an hour and 20 minutes by plane. This illustrates the advancement made in a single life span. Mr. Cochran also noted the improvement in aviation since the World war. One wonders if some developments in science are all for the best, but a nation must keep up with such changes, the speaker stated.

The governor commended the city and college on the airport and training course. "These are progressive steps and indirectly help the nation prepare."

Governor Cochran, who flew here with I. V. Packard from Omaha in 45 minutes, returned with the latter to Fort Crook for another Sunday afternoon engagement.

City Attorney J. E. Brittain spoke for Mayor M. L. Ringer in behalf of Wayne. He expressed the willingness of Wayne citizens to cooperate with the state and nation in discharging duties. The airport program was undertaken to perform a service, in the national preparedness program.

No Hyphenated Americans.

"There are no hyphenated Americans, no German-Americans, no Swedish-Americans, no French-Americans," added Mr. Brittain. "All here are Americans. In this age of great confusion, when much

THREE GOOD REASONS WHY you should own your own home

FIRST: If you are an average working or business man you have a wife, and two children and you can afford to live in a home that's your own.

SECOND: Do you know that you can give your family a home to live in for what you're now paying out month after month for rent?

THIRD: We are now completing some new homes that are modern and can be bought on monthly payments. The rate of interest is very low and on a long time basis. The monthly payments, including taxes and insurance, are less than we can rent these homes for.

Fighting Fires Strenuous Task For Young Men

"The cook started pounding the railroad rail viciously and we all hustled back to camp. It was a fire call. We ate supper at the base camp, then got into trucks and were taken to the scene of the fire. The fire had started about 2:30 p. m. and was the result of lightning. By the time (5:30 p. m.) we could commence fighting it had covered approximately three acres and was spreading slowly." Such was the experience of Wayne McMaster, who is stationed in a blister rust camp located on the Idaho-Montana state line. The men in this camp are employed by the government to fight a fungus growth on trees and bushes, but they are subject to fire call at any time.

Wayne goes on to say that they fought the fire from 5:30 p. m. until 11 p. m. "During those five and one-half hours we dug fire trenches, cooled hot spots with hundreds of shovels full of dirt and cut burning snags. We went back to the base camp for about four hours of sleep. At 4 the next morning five of us went back to relieve the two men who had watched the fire all night. The evening before we had 35 fighters at the scene of action but by Saturday morning fire calls had come in so rapidly that they could spare only five men for the Callahan creek fire.

"When we returned to the scene of the fire we found not a three-acre fire but about an eight-acre fire spreading rapidly along the side of the mountain. The five of us immediately set in to build a new line of fire trenches. Building these trenches in front of an advancing fire is slow, tedious, hot and very smoky work. Because there were only five of us working on about a mile and a half fire line we couldn't see each other and each man had to work desperately to hold his own ground. That is, dig a fire trench, put out fires that kept leaping the fire trench and cool the fire itself. We were holding our own until about 2 in the afternoon. Then the wind came up. All day we had been trying to get help and men arrived just in time to see the blaze leap the fire trench and race away. The 15 of us could do nothing. The fire was away. The five of us were exhausted.

"After about two hours the wind died down some and more help arrived. We all set in to build another fire trench (about the sixth on the windward side of the fire). This time we built the trench about 75 yards in front of the fire. We felled trees, cut out grass, put buckets of dirt on stumps and prepared our line in general. The fire had started leaping to the tops of trees and big pines were going up in smoke, sounding like a thousand firecrackers being set off. A big 50-foot pine, green and growing, can in three minutes become nothing but a charred, smoking hulk.

"We finally got the fire under control about 8 Saturday night and most of us went to the cabinet ranger station for about six hours of sleep. The next two days we spent patting the fire lines and cooling the fire."

Winner of Golf Meet in Islands

Mrs. C. F. Maynard, formerly Leila Mitchell of this place, recently captured the annual Fort William McKinley ladies' golf title by winning over Mrs. Porter 1 up in the 36-hole championship match in Manila, P. I. Mrs. Maynard was also medalist in the qualifying round.

The Manila paper states that Mrs. Maynard displayed accurate putting which enabled her to snatch the last hole and thus take the championship. Mrs. Porter had taken an early lead but Mrs. Maynard evened the score on the 4th hole. Later the lead changed back and forth.

Mrs. Maynard teaches mornings and enjoys golf as her afternoon recreation.

College Favors Progress.
In speaking for the college, Dr. J. T. Anderson expressed the school's desire to participate in any worthwhile progressive movement. "When the civil aeronautics authority announced a summer civil pilot training program, application was at once made for such a course to be given here in Wayne. There were a number of handicaps to be overcome. Wayne had no airport. After tentative approval had been given to the college, only a few days were left to qualify with an airport and hangar. Through wise and speedy action of the city council, assisted by the Chamber of Commerce, provision was made soon for these facilities. Special credit should be given Mayor M. L. Ringer, Russell Bartels and Secretary W. H. Swett as well as other members of the council and Chamber of Commerce for their leadership.

"The hangar was completed in six days and Wayne thus set a record in hangar construction that will be hard to equal," continued Dr. Anderson. "Wayne did a good job and did it in a hurry."

"Today 14 young men and one young lady are receiving flying instruction under the efficient leadership of Stanley Fuller, operator and instructor. Mr. Fuller is assisted by Mr. Seim. Ground courses are taught by Prof. A. F. Gulliver. Courses include history of aviation, civil air regulations, navigation, meteorology, parachutes, air crafts and theory of flights, engines, instruments, use of radio and radio forms.

Service Is Objective.
"We of the college are very happy to offer services to young people of Nebraska for only as we provide adequate training to youth can our country forestall or meet national emergencies. We hope that the young people taking this training are not only receiving a benefit for themselves individually, but that through it they will be better prepared to render greater service to their country and to their fellow men. This should be the aim of every American citizen," concluded Dr. Anderson.

Mr. Swett secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, presided and introduced speakers who were heard over an amplifying system. Rev. W. F. Most gave the invocation.

Hot, sultry weather all afternoon was followed by an evening storm. Sixteen planes were on the grounds for the day, and many passengers took rides. One of the planes was forced to land temporarily in a corn field Sunday evening when starting home.

Noon dinner at Hotel Stratton was attended by 80 special guests, aviators and Chamber of Commerce members.

Cuming County's Fair August 25-29

Word has been received from Ed. M. Baumann, secretary of the Cuming county fair, that plans are being made for the greatest fair in the 18 years under present management. It will start Sunday, August 25, with a ball game at 1 o'clock and continue through Thursday night, August 29.

Collective exhibits for the 16 townships should add a lot of interest. The idea was launched last year when two townships, Sherman and Wisner, had exhibits, despite a lean crop year. Indications are that all townships will be on hand with exhibits at the coming fair. The dairy division and 4-H club work will be on a larger scale than ever before.

Entertainment will, as usual, be high class. New ideas and new, thrilling acts will appear; Two games of baseball will be attractions every afternoon. Al Schacht, the clown prince of baseball, will entertain Monday and Tuesday.
