PHEASANT SEASON ATTRACTS HUNTERS FROM THE CITIES Remove Coal in FROM THE CLIFIES THES poured their hunters into the country Sunday to share in the open pheasant sea-sen, and many blidde were im-molated on the altar of sports-manship. Pheasant meat has also contributed liberally to the daily diet. Many families take the occasion to invite their city friends to motor out for a visit and a hunt at the same time. Numerous birds were reported this year, but the humber will be greatly reduced by the time the season ends. Some farmers contend that pheasants pick seed corn out of the ground and are therefore destructive. Oth-ers maintain that they eat grass-hoppers and other harmful pesta. Anyway, the pheasant population is appreciably de-creased during the open season with enough left to repopulate the fields and byways. School Bins to Halt Smoldering

Smoldering of coal in Way

Smoldering of coal in Wayne city school bins, thought to have been caused by heat and water seepage, was halted Friday night after about 40 tons of fuel were removed from the 'storage room. Due to gas fumes, school was dis-missed friday afternoon. No dan-ger was incurred and the only damage way the loss of some coal. Fumes were first noticed Wed-nesday last week. Investigation re-vealed that fuel in the bin was hot. Some of the coal was then taken out and it was thought the trouble had stopped. Gas was noticed again Thursday and steam began appearing in another part of the bin. Developments were watched Friday ahd by afternoon became for the trouble was thought were sent home.

CORN HUSKING IS NOW IN PROGRESS WITH FAIR; YIELD WITH FAIR, YIELD CORNY picking is in progress and results are usually up, to expectations. Some fortunate fields average 50 bushels or more, while others, less favor-ably situated, are not turning out so well. The quality is re-ported good. Frost was delayed until the crop was free from danger. Now the recent light freque proves beneficial to the husking lask. The crop here-abouts is not what would be called a bumper one, but it is better than that realized in a number of recent years, giving assurance of plenty of feed. TELEPHONE 180 Roosevelt Performance Munism; others that it is leading us down the road to com-munism; others that it is leading in the direction of fascism. But whichever the road, the result would be equally abhorrent —totalitarianism and crippled fundamen-tals. When Prof. Wirt charged in the in-cipient days of the new deal's first term that the plan was to remodel America ac-cording to an alien pattern, he was dis-credited and blasted out of the way by Washington's satisfied majority. But was-n't Wirt right?

Tashington's satisfied majority. But was-t Wirt right? In 1936 when warnings were issued as new deal trends, people cast them aside s, mere political bunk. But didn't they appen — attempt to make over the su-teme! court, bassage of the one-sided fagner act and the wage and hour law, e obstructive restrictions on industry and inness and the steadily mounting debt indee?

burden? The Lincoln Journal touches this sub-ject by asking how many would have sup-ported Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 if he had then forecast what his administration had in prospect. The Journal is specific thus: iect rospect. The Journal is specific thus: "Suppose he had said that he would do all the dould to concentrate power in the president; that he would try to pack the supreme court so that its opinions would support his acts; that he would spend an average of 2 or 3 billion dollars every year more than he took in; that He would add 25 billions to the public debt in 7 years; that he would spend billions for public works that were unnecessary and which would cost millions to maintain in the future; that he would engage in excessive borrowing and pile up huge deficits for the coming generations to pay. Where would he have emerged from the election?

election? "And suppose that in addition he had said that government would hereafter be by decree; that he 'would' double' the number of públic employes; that he would increase taxes to the limits; that he would set up a permanent WPA organization in which men could draw enough bay to live on and no more; that he would dis-courage the investment of money in private enterprives; that he would do his best to create donflicts between classes; that communists and ther subversives would be into m the public conflicts between classes; that communists and ther subversives would be put on the public, payroll; that fairmers would be paid not to raise. foodstuffs, land that in the windup he would conscript for war purposes every man between 21 and 35, how many votes would he have secured in 1932?"

All and 30; now many votes would be have secured in 1932?" Will people take warning now or will they accept meagre helps, while democ-racy darkens and war looms? The Sioux City Journal warns that the election of Roosevelt for a third term will mean vir-tual dictatorship regardless of what the president or his lieutenants may say. "The United States is headed for one-man rule in the event of a Roosevelt victory," de-clares the Journal, which adds: "If a ma-jority of the voters wanted that, if they were willing to put all their trust in one man to do with the nation what he willed, then America, too, would be totalitarian."

Norris' THE GOVERNMENT franking proting from Washington to new deal headquarters in Eincoln thirty or more mail bags containing copies of Sena-tor Norris' speech attacking Wendell Will-kle, republican presidential nominee. For many years the senator rode the republican vehicle to get into office, and all through the years he spent much effort in trying to wreck the party that served him. In his latest election, running as an independent, he won in a three-cornered contest. Now he is a full-filedged new dealer, fawning before the Roosevelt collection of fallacies and favoring a third presidential term which he had previously denounced as inmical to free institutions. He is pleased to try again and again to use Nebraska to further his personal whims in defiance of reasonable beeway to indispensable private enterprise. The senator is just as wrong in paying' obsequious court to new deal dreams as he is wrong in reversing himself on the two-term tradition. In employing government machinery at the expense of tars contrary to expetience and judgment, his infiluence in the state should sink to nothing. Norris' THE GOVERNMENT franking

To make farmers believe they are better f than they were even in the peak years the post-war depression, they would ye to be blindfolded to the largely re-ieved value of their lands and the tre-endously increased public indebtedness hith they and their descendants must are. In trying to blild recovery, captains the new deal have substituted quicksand r solid ground, and as a consequence, rmers and others, reviewing returns and rveying present conditions, find them-lives worse off. You can't fool a farmer to thinking a practical leader is not edd at this time to reconstruct sub-antially. To make farmers believe they are bette itially.

A veteran of the World war, writing m a Kentucky hospital where he has ant eighteen months, his communication roduced in the World-Herald, calls at-tion to a picture of the president laugh-while, he signed the draft bill in conpicture of the president laugh-to signed the draft bill in con-President William McKinley who, recalling his Civil war service, laid his head on his table and wept when he signed the order for enlistment of young men to fight in the Spanish-American war. The soldier said he had been a life-long democrat, registered as a democrat at Lex-ington, Ky., but that he would not support Roosevelt.

The Christian Science Monitor empha-sizes the importance of every qualified voter going to the polls to express prefer-ence for presidential or other candidates. As that newspaper points out, the ones who defeat good government are the ones who do not vote. Over 27,000,000 eligible vot-ers did not vote in 1936. It is most regret-table abandonment of duty to neglect to go to the polls and register convictions. Fail-ure to vote shares responsibility for what-ever unfavorable turn in government fol-lows. Every ballot counts, and no one can justly shirk an evident obligation to society. can jus society.

The fact that Willkie and Roosevelt were scheduled to appear in Baltimore at the same time led the republican candidate to renew his request for a joint discussion of public questions. Would the president accept and subject himself to the gruelling he would receive against a man he could not match in either facts or logic? Of course not! The president's secretary said such a debate would be undignified, and anyway he had changed his schedule. But the debate would be exciting and wonder-fully revealing. fully revealing.

We like the filial devotion of Franklin Roosevelt, jr., 26-year-old son of the presi-dent, even though mature judgment would suggest that he keep his magnified estima-tion of his pa to himself. If he could avoid a blowout of youthful exuberance, we could admire his dutiful exultation. We could admire his dutiful exultation. We could pat him on the head affectionately for his loyalty to the family circle, but at the same time advise him to leave to Ickes and other sycophants the flinging of ex-aggerated appraisals. aggerated appraisals.

State Senator Frank Brady of Atkinson, is up for reelection, and his experience as a leader in past sessions will be a powerful argument in his behalf. Appreciating his knowledge of state affairs and his efforts for economy in public service, other parts of the state will look to his district with hope for his return to the senatorial re-sponsibility.

It is said a senate committee is going to investigate why relief rolls increase dur-ing the few months just before election. We hope money is spent sparingly in an effort to ascertain reasons which most spectators have clearly in mind.

Billions were spent by Roosevelt to relieve unemployment but manifestly they did not cure unemployment. We have reached a point where a cure is imperative.

The Governorship. 1 k

The Governorship. (Lincoln. Journal) "If Terry Carpenter is elected," says the World-Herald, "the legislative council can put its economy studies in the nearest convenient ash can." The council has been giving attention to proposed changes to promote efficiency in departments of state government. It has considered a, proposal to put a budget director, in charge of ex-penditures of tax funds and fees and to provide for a comptroller to enforce proper use of legislative appropriations. It has given attention to safeguards in the use of state income. While it is doing this Mr. Carpenter romps up and down the state promsing greater expenditures, bigger salaries and more highway money to match federal funds. He hasn't shown any incli-nation to favor economy in the expenditure of moneys paid into the treasury by the people of the state. Democrats have been indulging in covert sneers over the fact that Dwight Griswold, republican dug up the record, and says that in the last six years Terry. Carpenter has run for seven different offices in the last six lections. This would seem to stamp Mr. Griswold as the more stable and consistent character. He has confined his running to governor, while Terry has run for congress, governor, senat tor, lieutenant governor, national commit-teeman.

The Inspector's Vacation. (Omaha World-Herald)

The Inspector's Vacation. (Omaha World-Herald) The Old Subscriber kicked his heels up on a convenient table. "I see," he said, "where the inspector is going back to his old line of work." The inspector? "Yes," he said, "the inspector-in-chief of our national defenses. He is going to quit inspecting and he is going to make political speeches instead. Five of them, in the next 16 days." The Old Subscriber chuckled – a deep, throaty chuckle. Then his face took on an expression of deep solemnity. "I don't like it," he said. "I don't like to have our defenses ignored in such cru-cial times. I believe there should be more and bigger inspections, with plenty of con-fetti, banks and microphones. "There's nothing," he said, "like a coast-to-coast hook-up to increase the production of gunpowder and 30-millimeter guns." Once more the Old Subscriber chuckled, then once more the stern lines set in his face. "Isuppose," in esaid with a severe glance face. "I suppose," he said with a severe glance "I suppose," he said with a severe glance at his listener, 'I suppose you are going to say that some substitute could take care of inspections for a couple of weeks while the chief is out on the road trying to persuade the people to draft him for a third term. If so, that just shows how little you know, about it. Only one man—only the presi-dent of the United States—is qualified to inspect our national defenses!" "Shucks," said the Old Subscriber after the briefest of pauses, "nobody else could even find 'em."

ELECTION.

THE WAYNE HERALD, WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1940

ELECTION. The political compaign has ten more days to run, and then the election will decide the fate of candidates and issues. The lapproaching battle of the bal-lots is generally considered the most important in the history of the country. Leaders on both sides will put forth their best efforts to persuade the elector-te. Candidates and supporters will spend remaining days in feverish eagerness. During the time, many straw yotes will be taken in the hope of showing how the political wind is blow-ting, but polis are often in such conflict that no forecast is ac-cepted as conclusive. Many who have watched with disappoint-ment the impractical new deal experiments and unprecedented financial waste and now, with suspicion, the proposed tradi-tion-breaking third term, will vote for Wilkic. Only the elec-tion returns can determine whether practical forces, set aghast at nearly eight years of bungling economics, can over-throw the new deal's intrenched bungling economics, can over-throw the new deal's intrenched political machine.

THIRD TERM. A contributor to the Chris-tian Science Monitor quotes the, record to show the indefensible position taken by those who fa-vor a third presidential term. Washington established the t two-term precedent, and Jef-ferson was the most ardent sup-porter of it. Limiting the presi-dential tenure was left to the 'wisdom of the people rather than to constitutional restric-tions. Often a six or seven-year term with ineligibility for re-election was urged. Recently Senator Burke introduced a measure fixing one term of six senator Burke introduced a measure fixing one term of six years. Grant was inclined to ac-cept a third term, but the demo-crats called him a Caesar and the republican convention cast bin aside without brainfill crats called him a Caesar and the republican convention cast him aside without hesitating. Garfield, Cleveland, Theodore Robsevelt and Wilson spoke out vigorously against a third term. By a vote of 36 to 3 the senate in 1824 resolved to make a president ineligible for reelec-tion. Fifty years later the house by a vote of 234 to 18 passed a resolution favoring ineligibility of a president for more than two terms. National conventions of both political parties have condemned the third-term idea. In 1898 and again in 1912 demo-cratic national conventions re-solved that limiting a president to two terms was "the unwrit-ten law of the republic," But in the year 1940 we have a presi-dent who would set aside the two-term tradition and continue Jimiself in power, and it is up to voters to see that his ambition and that of his howerson it is up to self in power, and it is up to rs to see that his ambition that of his hangers-on is

Questions have come to thi th asking if es under gressional

Questions have come to this congressional office asking if the army will buy horses under the new appropriations. The answer to that is that $3,366,340 is provided for horses in the third supplemen-tal defense appropriation bill. When the army budget officers came before the committee, they asked for 19,802 horses at $170 per head. Of these 2,972 are for the national guard and 16,830 are for organizations being brought into the service under the conscription program. The army officers say these horses will be bought from farmers and horse breeders who have good stallions. The animals will be used mostly as riding horses, although some will be draft animals. The committee was as-sured that farmers would receive priority in these purchases and that army biyers' would visit various localities looking for these ani-mals. as our first air attact as one the chief of mor Mae spent Sunday evening in the William A. and all of the domestic issues allied with the new deal. It is reported that Mr. Michelson is creditid with the first place in the ranks of the democratic machine, second only to the president himself. He is having more to do and to say than any other individual, including leven the national chairman, Boss Flynn. Those who recall the 1932 campaign will realize the force and effect of the Michelson technique. In that year Mr. Michelson made many people believe that Herbert Hoover was actually the arch ehemy of mankind, and that every failure of government was due to bis efforts. One of his notable achievements was the smear-ing of the Liberty league when Al Smith made his famous "take a walk" speech. It is the conclusion of the New York writer that no 'small part of Michelson's success is due to the fact that the republican party has not produced, or did not desire to pro-duce a master smearing craftsman to match this democrafic war horse. For Willkie. son were subday dinner guests in the Roy S. with the federal government in every way. Should Conserve Water. Mr. Griswold believes that Ne-brasks should make all possible use of the water resources of this state. Irrigation, both from dams and by pumps, must be developed. Also, he stated that rural electri-fication must be further extended and that the public utility com-panies should cooperate with the public power districts to make lower electrical rates available for the people. Is the only county in middle west ern states having the distinction of winning three grand champion-ships in the Ak-Sar-Ben baby beef show. Leland Herman took, this honor this year and Lester Lutt, two years. Helen and Esther Schroeder this year took the Ne-braska championship as a demon-stration team and will represent the state at the national contest in Chicago in December. On this subject he is in disagreement with his opponent who is strongly advocating placing the state in the liqudr business. Mr. Griswold knows the prob-lems of Nebraska, as his experi-ence has been wide and varied. He pays taxes and realizes that the matter of tax assessments and the cost of government must be approached seriously from the standpoint of the ability of the people to pay.

Extabilish-ment of the soil district in Wayne county was one of the bureau's services. Those in the district are provided free service in planning soil practices and they may have the help of CCC men if they de-sire. In other parts of the county the county agent has run contour lipes and helped plan soil conser-vation practices. The county fair, at which Agent-Chet Walters served as one of the managers, was an important serv-ice of the bureau. THE WAYNE HERALD, WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1940

The Farmer and His Wife.

The Farmer and His Wife. Only after Ivan, ten years old, had been brought before the juvenile court, was the condi-tion of his home known. His teacher had complained that the boy was a denstant truant and was going from bad to worse. A "Big Brother," from a civic group, found that Ivan's father and mother, were hab it ual drunkards, who regularly on Fridby went on a drunken "spree" and remained so until Monday or Tuesday. Mean-while neglected Ivan often had nothing to eut at home. Because this was such a baffling problem, the court sug-gested that "Big Brother" en-list the aid of his wire in work-ing the asolution. Their joint attempts to re-hubitate the home were un-successful, but "Big Brother" and the solution.

the wrong source at the wrong time. As a consequence, drouth-stricken farmers will have to stick to the rules of the new deal and accept less satisfactory aids from itext-book theorists. Heed will doubtless be given to the Butler plan if he is elected, and his candidacy no longer inter-feres with the glory required to bolster new deal ambition. He merely requested a loan-not a gitt-of the crop in storage, and likely to be spoiled in consider-able degree by too long keeping. Secretary Henry Wallace, new deal kice presidential candidate, looked on the Butler candidate, looked on sorn loaning plan with suspicion. Cows with empty stomachs may not know where to place responsibility, but their helplæs owners understand and will be justly incensed. Selfish politics is thus permitted to cause the sacrifice of Nebraska If he is elected United States senator November 5. That is the rugged spirit that has insured equal opportunities — that has made America igreat and kept it free and indegreadent. Hugh Butler's life of courage, hard work and frugal habits express-es the mid-west's idee of a mary who is capable of undertaking and solving grave problems— not adding new ones — who knows how to meet and get rid of emergencies rather than al-low one emergency to develop another and greater one. If Hugh Butler lands in the United. States senate, as how reagonably States senate, as now reasonably assured, he will help put an end to the new deal's emergency succession. He will employ the succession, ne will employ the same practical judgment in handling public affairs that he has used in managing his own Hugh Butler started with nothing but pluck and ambition. While attending Doane college, from which he was graduated, he lived by clerking in a store and doing odd jobs. Then he farmed, helped build a railroad, and engaged in the grain būši-ness in Ornaha. farm products with revival of industry. He would have differ-ent branches of human endeavor pull together, rather than in conflict. Each would thus serve the advantage of all. Election of men like Hugh Butter will stop the flood of costly and futile new deal ex-periphents—reconstruct the coun-try's economics on a sound basis i—the better to serve both na-tional and international re-quirements. Mr. Butter will stop wasteful pump priming that doesn't prime — stop trying to buy prosperity that refuses to be bought. His aid to the farm in-dustry will be practical and effective. ming Dast April. Hugh Butler has made genregis fuller has had be gen-erous contributions to institu-tions and individuals needing help. He is not rich in doffars-just moderately successful-but he is rich in memory of good deeds and warm friendships. Hugh Butler has never held deeds and warm rienamps. Hugh Butler has never held an office that paid him a cent. He cannot profit financially from a seat in the United States senate, but he can profit from senate, but he can profit from the knowledge of serving a state in which his loft was cast, and in which his alfections are in-trenched. He can serve a gov-ernment whose guarantee of free enterprise lenabled him to get along without a silver spoon or an inherited title.

bought. His aid to the farm in-dustry will be practical and effective. Vigwing the ruins of past new deal performance and the blast-ed hopes of helpless onlookers, it would seem all the eager third-terms could now rationally promise are bigger debts, higher taxes, continued unemployment and preserved relief rolls, more war threats and more feverish war hysteria and a deepcr night-mare. Mr. Butter is the answer to the popular yearning for more sanity and sense in gov-ernment. Let us drive back the longlhening shadow of fear by electing sound leaders. Vote for Mr. Butter, the man who began at the botom, the man who knows what you want and need, the man who will serve you faithfully and sympathetically. or an inherited title. A very practical help to farm-ers in Nebraska areas, devastat-ed by drouth, is his plan to loan the government's stored corn to tide them over until a crop can be raised — thus, to enable them to preserve their herds, maintain their foundation stock. The agri-mutured department of Washing. ton frowned on the plan. It is obviously too practical, too easy to handle, too certain to solve a serious problem to be allowed
