This area was gripped Armistice day with a typical old-fashioned blizzard. All communication stopped temporarily. Just five weeks later, December 16, a second blizzard struck but weather moderated within a few days. The year just closing has had its full share of joy and tragedy. Perhaps it has recorded a greater total of pioneers than many others. Early in the year the county's last Civil war veteran, A. J. Hyatt, was taken at the age of 93. W. A. Hunter, one of the original colony coming to this county from Illinois, died in July at the age of 89. Mrs. Mary Brittain, another pioneer, Assessor L. C. Gildersleeve, Councilmen Herman Miltner, Dr. G. J. Hess, early doctor, Henry Lessman, pioneer northeast, and Mrs. H. A. Sewell, early settler in Wayne, R. C. Rohrke, early banker at Hoskins, are only a few of those who live in memory. A review of the year shows that accidents have taken a heavy toll. On the other side of the picture many homes were brightened in 1940 by new faces to gladden fire-sides for years to come. Establishing an all-high record in Red Cross memberships, contributing toward purchase of iron lungs to be used for emergencies and contributing liberally to the holiday spirit dominated December. As the year closes this spirit of good-will predominates and shines as the world's hope for the future.

Former Resident Of Wayne Weds

Ben Ellis, formerly of Wayne, and Miss Lucia Vauroska were married November 30 in Boise, Idaho, where Mr. Ellis is a linotype operator with the Idaho Statesman. His bride is a graduate nurse. Mr. Ellis is a nephew of Mrs. Robert Auker of this place.

Refugees Taken To Philippines

British refugees were being brought into the Philippine islands when Captain Weldon Childs, brother of G. B. Childs of this place, left after a two-year commission in the orient. Captain Childs reports that the refugees were being brought from Hong Kong, China, and were a most sorry looking sight, many of them having inadequate clothing and no supplies whatever. Most of those brought into the islands were women and children. Captain Childs, graduate of West Point in '36, was in Wayne in September visiting his brother before going to his new post at Fort Brady located at Sault Ste Marie, Mich. The principal purpose of this fort is to guard the locks which connect Lake Superior and Lake Huron. As yet not a great amount of rearmament building is being done at this particular port. Captain Childs reports that it is very difficult to make the natives of the islands realize the necessity for cleanliness. Manila, even though a modern city, is one of the dirtiest cities Captain Childs had ever seen. Captain Childs spent two years in the Philippines doing foreign duty.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

The Third district member has returned from a three-weeks official inspection tour of the western coast where he visited federal prisons at McNeil, Alcatraz in San Francisco bay, Terminal island near Los Angeles and the federal prison near Denver. He was accompanied by the Congressmen Rabaut of Michigan and Carter of California who are also members of the committee which makes appropriations for all functions of the department of justice, state and commerce. The report of the findings of this committee is now being written and will be released for publication after it is submitted to the full committee on appropriations.

The Third district member left Norfolk, December 23 for Chicago, where he spent Christmas with his daughter. He will proceed from there to Washington where, as a member of the appropriations committee, he will be busy several days before the first of the year. Some of the sub-committees of which he is a member will also be meeting early on hearings for various departments.

The Norfolk office will remain open until January 3. The Washington office has been constantly open and will remain open in order that there be no delay in service to the people of the Third district. In addition to inspecting the federal prisons in the west, the Third district member inspected the offices of the various federal courts and also the offices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The entire western coast is as busy as a bee hive. National defense industries are frantically working in the construction of various types of national defense material. New naval bases, air-plane factories, and aluminum plants show great activity and managers say there is a shortage of skilled labor, much of which is now being drawn from our interior communities. Fort Lewis, near Tacoma, Wash., is growing like a mushroom. As far as the eye can see, there are hundreds of wooden barracks going up to house the new soldiers. It is reported that about 8,000 troops will be housed there eventually.

Old timers on the western coast who live near the various camps and industries, say it looks much like it did before the first World war. At Seattle, German released films are being shown to large crowds. The film is shown in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and now experimenting.

THE WAYNE HERALD E. W. Huse, Editor and Proprietor The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County National Editorial Association 1940 SUSTAINING MEMBER NEBRASKA PRESS 1940 Association Subscription, $2.00 per Year in Advance Published Every Thursday

ENCOURAGING news comes from Omaha, where, as announced by the World-Herald, plans for a new post-office building have been abandoned by the federal government on account of huge defense costs. It further explained that other similar projects will be laid on the shelf. The Omaha Chamber of Commerce quite agreed with the government's judgment. It is the way to retrench, the way to divert the tax load to unavoidable needs.

Speaking of the present building and the importance of deferring the proposed improvement, the World-Herald comments: "So Omahans can now forget the long squabble over demolition of the handsome old postoffice building. It won't be torn down after all. We will continue for some time to use it for the purpose for which it was built, and we may find, to our surprise, that it is a pretty satisfactory old building after all. At any rate, we will feel safer, as Americans, to see the government's money going into the airplane plant at Fort Crook."

THE CLASH between two violently antagonistic forms of government—dictatorship and democracy—is emphasized in a Sioux City Journal editorial which says in conclusion: "It is a struggle to the death between nazism, fascism and Japanese imperialism on the one side and free democracy on the other. It is not the same old grab for power. This war is not like any other war that ever has been fought in world history. If aggression won it would crush and grind into the earth without mercy the most treasured thing human beings have owned since the dawn of civilization, their freedom. That already has been done on the continents of Europe and Asia, and unless superior force is brought to bear upon these wholly evil movements to stop them, it will be done wherever human beings live, even in the western hemisphere and our own United States. That is what this war between ideological extremes really means."

Everybody is glad electric lighting and power have been taken into rural communities, and none fail to appreciate the needed and deserved convenience. But a motion picture contrasting old disadvantages without the improvement with advantages with it, showing at the local theatre the first of the week, revealed some incongruities. The buildings where feeding and milking were done by the aid of old-fashioned lanterns, were extraordinarily spacious and well kept. A long string of sleek dairy cattle occupied modern stanchions, and the fellow who was doing the milking did not look haggard. The housewife who was pictured over a wash-board doing the family washing could have been using a hand-power machine any time during the past forty years, and from appearances, the household could have well afforded it. The evident prosperity of the entire setup suggested that an individual electric unit could have been provided long ago to light and facilitate all kinds of farm activities. The author picked a too richly equipped farm and too many contented faces to make disadvantages adequately impressive.

Action of the state canvassing board in awarding the post of secretary of state to Harry Swanson has been reversed on receipt of complete returns, the result giving the job to Frank Marsh, republican nominee. A Knox county precinct was lacking when the original award was made. The board's presumption aroused sharp protests, but its members, including Swanson, quietly resigned to the inevitable when final facts were revealed. Both Swanson and Marsh would seem to have names of equal charm in Nebraska politics, and how Swanson happened to prove superior to other democrats in racing qualities, breaking down his opponent's majority to eight, has not been explained.

Small businesses and industries scattered through innumerable communities all over the county—usually satisfied with small margins of profit and often struggling to keep out of the red—are the ones really hard-hit by unfavorable conditions. They are so accustomed to forcing a contented look in the presence of slim picking that they are passed up unnoticed excepting by the tax collector. These fellows—exemplars of unlimited courage, vital forces in the cause of free institutions—may be properly slucked into the category sadly denominated: "The Forgotten Man."

Deaths due to war are evidently not restricted to war zones. Nervous strain has doubtless hastened the end of several important leaders. Former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, recently Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador to Washington and then Kyosti Kallio, whose ill health caused him to resign as president of Finland, Kallio led that country when it was invaded by Russia. War takes its horrible toll at the front, in high places, in humble abodes. It is an expression of the worst in mankind.

Purpose of the five hundred sanitary cups received by the local draft board is still unexplained. They are larger than drinking cups, but not large enough to hold a full meal. They have neatly fitting covers to keep the contents warm or cold or free from contaminating elements. It is presumed draft boards in all counties in the United States received installments of such receptacles, and it is hoped official Washington will get around before long to enlighten the subject.

Lincoln Journal: Only eight votes separated the winner from the loser in the election for secretary of state in Nebraska. This ought at least mildly to jolt the elector who figures that it is not worth while going to vote since all he has to cast is one vote.

Due defense planners will serve the country best by brushing aside the views of extreme isolationists on the one side and those of extreme interventionists on the other. What we need is a cool, well calculated drive for an adequate defense without inviting unnecessary involvement.

Trains going through here have been so late so often that one wonders what schedule they are trying to follow—the old one or the new one.

This is a good time to resolve against seeking grounds for complaint or imagining evils that do not exist.

Uncertain, so-called social gains should not be allowed to militate against the democratic way of life.

The daily broadcast that the Italians are retreating before the valiant Greeks is no longer news.

One of the encouraging developments in pump irrigation is the trend toward more pumping hours per farm per year, which means a larger irrigated acreage. Henry Schroder of Perkins county has irrigated 300 acres this year from a 1,100 gallon pump in a well more than 200 feet deep, with a lift of 140 feet. He operated the well the equivalent of 90 sixteen-hour days, pumping 300 acre feet of water. From a $6,000 investment in the well, pump and a Diesel power unit, Mr. Schroder has obtained increased yields sufficient to pay the total cost the first year of its use.

Other pump irrigators will find it pays to make the maximum use of their pumps rather than waiting for the emergency to arise before starting them. Seldom do we have seasons when additional water does not pay more than the cost of putting it on the land.

We quote the following from a letter received from an eastern beef cattle producer: "As a consumer of some 20 to 30 tons of corn on a small farm in New Hampshire, when, as and if we are able to raise it, for feeding to beef cattle, I have been interested in corn at a price at which I would have a chance to use it profitably. Corn at 65 cents, the reported AAA offer in the Midwest, plus a freight rate of 25 cents a bushel, does not give a farmer in the northeast who is shy of corn much of a chance. I contend that AAA is really interested in moving corn to market rather than just lifting itself up by its bootstraps to please somebody as long as the bootstraps hold, it would be more practical to subsidize lower freight rates to farmers in our section, so that corn would move into consumption in areas bare of corn. Such a subsidy would do quite a lot with taxpayers' money; it would put money into the pockets of the farmers who have corn to sell; it would put money into the hands of the railroads for moving corn; and it would give the farmers in areas short of corn a chance to make more money, even if that money were taken away from them again in more taxes. The point is to keep corn moving into production instead of storing it in bins and tying up barrels of money in corn loans with nobody really satisfied."

Well, why not? If grain can be subsidized for export, why not for domestic use, where it really could be used, with profitable use made of it? The questions are easier to ask than to answer.

CHRISTMAS. With the world violated by hates and wars, Christmas—the spirit of which is the very antithesis of what is happening abroad today—is more vital to survival of Christianity than at any time in two thousand years. In defiance of screaming guns and bombs, in defiance of the mockery of dictators who defy themselves above the Architect of the Universe, above the gentle, peaceful Nazarene, thoughts of Christmas thrill the souls of men and women and children everywhere—in torn Europe as well as in protected America. The mad clash between two antagonistic ideologies cannot crush the hope kindled in the Bethlehem manger—the spirit that has guided spotless and inspired faith for twenty centuries. "Peace on Earth," spurred by dictators and mocked by ghastly slaughter, will rise stronger than ever before. The spirit of Christmas, of good will, of noble aspirations, of belief in another and loftier existence cannot be snuffed out by imperial plugholes. Import of the yuletide will ascend unscathed from the world's shambles and wreckage. May the spirit of peace and fellowship, exemplified by the Man of Galilee, sink deeper and flame higher in this year of exceeding trial.

Custom (Continued from Page One) start he made, we are wondering if creation's noble purpose—which we assume has existed through the ages—hasn't seriously slipped of late in attaining expected results.

EDUCATION. F. J. Voglante, Colfax county superintendent of schools, has collected together in a printed leaflet many answers to the question: "What Is Education?" It is a stimulating symposium, generally stressing individual initiative above college training, stressing beauty and love above making money. One quotation which follows, is from The Watchman-Examiner and takes notably high ground: "When is a man educated? When he can look out upon the universe, now lucid and lovely, now dark and terrible, with a sense of his own littleness in the great scheme of things and yet have faith and courage. When he knows how to make friends and keep them, and above all when he loves flowers, can hunt the birds without a gun, and feel the stir of forgotten joy in the laugh of a child. When he can be happy alone and high-minded amid the meaner drudgeries of life. When he can look into a way-side puddle of the most forlorn mortal and see something beyond sin. When he knows how to live, how to love, how to hope, how to pray. When he carries a glad sword against evil, and in his heart a bit of a song."

Ask Applications For Farm Purchases

All applications for buying farms under the Bankhead-Jones act which provides 40-year loans at 3 per cent interest will be given due consideration, according to George Bruns, chairman of the county committee. A number of tenants have inquired about such loans, and the committee urges all interested in such to secure application blanks from Ray Verzal, secretary, at the court house.

The aim, according to the committee, is to give all applicants equal consideration. All owners of farms who want their land considered for purchase should leave farm descriptions with the supervisor.

The county committee includes Mr. Bruns, A. G. Sydow and J. H. Brugger. Wayne is one of 24 counties in the state having this tenant purchase set-up.

In a headon collision Friday evening about 7:30 between cars driven by B. B. Fowler of WeWoka, Okla., and Junior Straight of near Carroll, eight and a half miles south of Wayne, Mr. Fowler sustained a concussion, several fractured ribs and possible back injury, Roy Stubben of Hartington, had a bad gash on the head and suffered from shock and bruises, Mrs. Straight suffered from shock and others were bruised. Mr. Fowler was brought to a Wayne hospital. He was unconscious for some hours. Stubben was taken to Hartington and the others returned to their homes near Carroll.

Mr. Fowler and Mr. Stubben were going south in the former's car. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Straight and son, Junior, and Dwight French were returning from Omaha. After the impact the Fowler car went over a 20-foot embankment, turned over and lit on the wheels. The machine hit and broke an electric power line pole and shorted the lines. One of the wires was wrapped around the car but fortunately it was a "dead end." The auto also plunged through a fence. The Straight machine was about a foot from the steep embankment after the collision. It remained upright.

The Fowler car was practically wrecked and the Straight car was damaged.

Women's Groups Have Important Effect on Wayne
Women's activity has been responsible for many of the cultural advantages of Wayne, according to reminiscences given for Wayne Woman's club Friday at a meeting arranged by Mrs. E. W. Huse. The public library, study courses, introduction of home economics and kindergarten in schools, welfare work, auditorium building and many other worthy endeavors have been promoted by women's groups which have been active since the early years.

Mrs. A. A. Welch told of the Monday club and Mrs. E. S. Blair of the Acme club, the two being the first women's club organizations in Wayne. These groups have been active about 55 years. Each told of early club meetings which showed that the women organized for cultural advantages. They studied such courses as the Bay View and Chautauqua. They had scholarly speakers who brought them much valuable information.

The Monday club instituted the library and opened the first one in a building downtown. Later the library was moved to the court house. The club turned the library over to the city after getting it successfully started. Other worthwhile movements have followed through the years.

The clubs also provided sociability. In the early days when advantages were few the groups found great enjoyment in New Year's calls, boisterous rides, etc.

Mrs. Welch paid tribute to the many early workers whose chairs are now vacant.

Mrs. Jessie Hale of the U. D. club, and Mrs. L. W. Roe of the Minerva, told of early years in these two groups which organized in the nineties. Mrs. L. A. Fanske spoke for the Coterie club.

The Social Circle near Winside is probably the first rural club in Wayne county and Mrs. J. H. Brugger told of this group's organization at her home. Mrs. Irvie Reed gave a brief history of the Sunshine club, formerly the Helping Hand society. Mrs. A. McEachen told of the Central Social circle club formed when the late Rev. Alexander Corkey suggested that women of the neighborhood should have their organizations.

Mrs. H. D. Griffin expressed the opinion that the great amount of women's activity for better things in the community have had a most important influence in making Wayne the fine city it is.

Mrs. Ralph Berridge led singing of carols. Mrs. H. A. Welch was accompanist.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. A. Hecox, Mrs. C. C. Herndon, Mrs. C. Hagel, Mrs. J. J. Hook, Mrs. R. R. Larson and Mrs. Huse.

The club meets January 10 when Prof. Yale Kessler speaks. Mrs. T. T. Jones is serving chairman.

COUNTY BOARD

Wayne, Nebraska, December 17, 1940. Board met as per adjournment. All members present. Minutes of meetings held December 3, and December 9, 1940, read and approved.

Come, now Claude L. Wright, precinct assessor for the city of Wayne, Nebraska, and tenders his resignation as precinct assessor for the city of Wayne, Nebraska, to take effect as of December 17, 1940.

WHEREAS, on the 16th day of October, 1940, L. C. Gildersleeve, county assessor of Wayne county, Nebraska, departed this life and the office of county assessor is now vacant.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that Claude L. Wright be and hereby is appointed county assessor of said Wayne county, Nebraska, by the board of county commissioners of said county to fill such vacancy until his successor is elected and qualified.

The following official bond is on motion duly approved by the county board: J. M. Cherry as county judge.

The following claims are on motion audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown, warrants to be available and ready for delivery on Saturday, December 28, 1940.

Table with columns: No., Name, What for, Amount. Lists various county expenses and salaries for 1940, including items like 'L. W. Needham, salary as Co. Clerk', 'Izora Laughlin, deputy Co. Clerk', etc.

Page the Tax-Payers' League. Occasionally a boy needfully committed to our state industrial school, within a few days after his release, has been returned to the school as a parole violator. Some have been sentenced to the reformatory or penitentiary because of crimes more serious than those for which they were committed to the industrial school.

Usually the institution itself is not to blame, because lawmakers too often feel that the way to get votes and gain political popularity is to vote appropriations for roads and bridges, constant reminders to their constituents of their importance as public officials. Thus they fail to provide sufficient funds for adequate buildings and equipment, and qualified employees.

Our boys' industrial school is our most important state institution. Much is expected of it. It has a capable superintendent, who is doing the best he can with the equipment and force at his disposal.

When I visited the institution last, I found its cows, herd-bull, and cow barn the best equipment it possessed.

Cows and a good herd-bull should not be expected to serve the purpose of psychologists and psychiatrists, trained social workers, and attendants qualified to teach in the high schools of Nebraska.

Rather than pay a few additional dollars in an attempt to prevent delinquents from developing into hardened criminals, legislators appear to be willing to pay higher taxes in the future to punish criminals whom they themselves indirectly make. It costs approximately $3,500 to construct a cell block for a single youth who has developed into a hardened adult offender. Thereafter it costs approximately $440.72 to keep him confined a year in that cell block.

Stage Tradition Is Demonstrated

Bureau Bought at Auction For Forty Cents Yields Valuable Find.

The age-old tradition that the "show must go on" was unwittingly demonstrated in Centerville, Ia., Shirley Hall, 15, fell down a flight of stairs just before opening of the play in which she had a lead. The girl rested on a cot for a few minutes and then said she was all right and took her part. She went home, during the night developed a severe headache and died before she could be taken to a hospital. It was found she had suffered a fractured skull. The play title was "Mystery at World's End."

Tobe Catlett of Aurora, bought an old bureau at an estate auction for 40 cents. As the bureau was being trucked to his home a drawer fell out and in an envelope containing $165.

Jack Shull, Arizona miner, told a story of how one dog saved another. Gyp, a terrier, and Spot, a bird dog, disappeared from Shull's home. Gyp returned and wakened his master by barking. Shull obtained a lantern and followed Gyp who raced across country. Two miles from Shull's cabin Gyp turned into a small canyon. There Shull found Spot caught in a coyote trap.

A robin, hungry and injured, was cared for in St. Louis by Mrs. Black who made a pet of the bird and this winter sent him by plane to New Orleans. Rather than turn the bird loose to be the prey of city cats, the robin was taken to the wilds of Avery Island and released.

A doctor examined Charles Rodman after a car accident and closed a head laceration. Rodman complained of headache. The doctor looked again and found a part of a rear spring of the car inside Rodman's skull! The man recovered.

Of 33 pupils in a Kansas school, 21 belong to the Nisly families and nine to the Yoder families. The other three names are Miller, Glenn and White.

Student pilots now take a detour when they come to the chicken ranching district at Baldwin Park. A petition six feet long protested that planes frightened chickens and cut egg production in half.

A Kansas student pilot went through his maneuvers, landed safely and then learned that his back was broken. He had been pinned under the fuselage as he aided another student to wheel his plane from the hangar.

One black cat won't cause any more bad luck. A southern man stopped his steaming car and looked under the hood. He found a black cat whose battered body had stopped the fan, caused the engine to heat, cracked the cylinder head and broke the radiator.

A Chicago man whose car was stolen worried more about the thief than about the car. In the machine were two tarantulas and 50 black spiders which nine times out of 10 cause death when they bite. The man had them to use in experiments with new insect killers.

A Colorado man landed his plane in a field after it ran out of fuel but he had to take the wings off to get it to an airport where he could take off again. The plane had just missed a house on one side, passed between power lines and a fence on another side and cleared a fence on a third side.

A draft board allowed a Denver man a few extra days to fill out his conscription questionnaire. The report listed as dependents twin daughters born when the questionnaire arrived.

A New York seaman found that hazards of land are greater than those at sea. His left foot was smashed on a vessel but while enroute to a hospital the ambulance in which he was taken was in a collision and the man's leg was broken.

A Chicago barber does his farming in his wife's flower boxes but he does enough that he was able to exhibit 100 ears of unusual varieties of corn at the Chicago exposition.

"What have they got you for?" a police officer questioned a prisoner who staggered in at 3 a. m. "Reckless walking," was the reply.

Needy patients in debt to an Illinois doctor won't be embarrassed when they meet him on the street now. As a Christmas gift the doctor cancelled their debts. He also let those who are able to pay know that their debts are not cancelled.

What is thought to be the largest single group blood donation on record is the offer by 23 members of the Wallace Jacobs family of New York, to give blood to Britain. Only 17 were accepted.

Triplet daughters in the August Heldman family of St. Louis, had their 1st birthday Friday, the 13th.

A Kansas City hotel manager received a card from a Chicago man who apologized for having caused a disturbance when he found a shell in his oysters. "A jeweler friend," added the patron.

"pronounced the 'shell' a genuine pearl, appraised it at $100. I'll treat you the next time I'm in town."

Wm. Keller of Illinois, was killed in an auto collision when enroute to Iowa to his brother's funeral.

A young truck driver taking flowers to Washington was given a dollar for night's lodging. Wishing to buy a Christmas gift for his sweetheart and not having a cent for this, he asked permission to sleep in the truck and save the dollar. The next morning he was found suffocated. A small stove in the truck to keep the flowers warm had used all oxygen in the compartment. The dollar and a letter from the young woman were together in his pocket.

A young matron wandering along a New York street was evidently a victim of amnesia and could not think either of her name or address. Her little son, 3, came to the rescue and told police, "Our name is Kelly and we live at 116 Lynch street." He was right.
