

With Sunshine and Green Fields Eagerly Anticipated - Putting Home Premises in Accord with Unfolding Season - Disagreeing Preferences - Destroying the Strong - King Business Passe.

Signs of spring are growing in evidence, much to the satisfaction of all mankind. The elements have been tempered, geese are traveling north, and farmers and townpeople are planning to delve into the ground and renew their fields and gardens. Plenty of moisture assures rich mellowness and an encouraging start.

The winter which began with a severe storm in early November, has seemed long, not because of extra burdens of snow, but because of the steady, five-months' grind with bad roads and little sunshine. More moisture than usual came in the shape of rain. Thus, warm sunshine, gentle showers and return of green foliage will be welcomed with deep relief.

This is the season when the farm will be enlivened by the addition of new chickens, pigs and calves. Multiplied animal life is a source of high satisfaction.

Attention now turns to cleaning up farm and town premises and getting rid of the winter's unsightly accumulations. Ashes, cans and all forms of rubbish will be hauled away, and everything will be put in harmony with the freshness of springtime.

Partial to Home. No matter how humble, there is no place like home. No matter how sequestered one's long-acquainted abode may be, no other place in the world breathes equal content. So thinks Mrs. Essie Davis who owns a ranch of 27 thousand acres in the sand hills of Cherry county. When she goes anywhere - especially to congested centers - she is anxious to get back to her wonted environment. When her husband died 26 years ago, he left her with indebtedness of $80,000. She met the obligation and now does not owe a dollar.

We asked a taxicab driver in Philadelphia if he had always lived in that city. He said he had, and he couldn't understand how one could be satisfied to live anywhere else. On the contrary, inhabitants of comparatively small communities are attacked by nostalgia in metropolitan cities where next-door neighbors are not acquainted, and where the top incessant quest for selfish gain often prevents the sympathetic human touch. Usually the farmer prefers the farm; the small town man, the small town, and the fellow used to the big city could not be lured away from it. We do not wonder the rich ranch woman of the sand hills prefers the broad expanse of her holdings to which she has become endeared through a lifetime of devotion.

Touching ties between an individual and his home community. Abraham Lincoln once said: "I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live so that his place will be proud of him. Be honest but hate no one; do not overturn him unless it must be done in the overturning of the wrong."

Inevitable Inequalities. Touching the folly of trying to tear down the well-to-do in order to help the unfortunate. Dr. Ruth Alexander, lecturer and economist, is quoted as saying: "Basically, there are tragic inequalities in ability - just as people are naturally endowed with differentials in eyesight. We remedy visual defects as much as we can, but we don't take eyesight from one who sees well and give it to one who does not so well." In order that those equipped by nature or training to help carry responsibilities that fall on the less fortunate, the former must be allowed to retain ground that he has gained. The weak cannot be helped by destroying the strong.

Society Levelled Off. England's social order is being democratized by the war, according to reports. Class distinctions have been wiped out. When an aristocrat of the old school meets a plebe, he forgets to be aristocratic. A snob no longer feels like being snobbish. The conflict has brought people together in a common cause, leading them to recognize merit rather than accidents of birth or advantages of inheritance. England's government really practices self-government, but if it would open the way for honorable retirement for its king and other members of the royalty - merely figureheads - it would have the appearance as well as the effect of a democracy. Though a king may be harmless, if not useful, his position is out of accord with the ideas of democracy.

Program at Norfolk. The Wayne college clinic band, string quartet, mixed octet and boys' quartet will give a program for the Norfolk Women's club next Monday afternoon at the municipal auditorium.

Wakefield Defeats Plan For New Building by Very Close Vote.

Wakefield voters, at the regular election Tuesday, defeated the proposal to issue bonds in the sum of $15,000 for a new city auditorium. The vote stood 165 for and 118 against the proposition. In Second ward 79 were for and 61 against the proposal. Wakefield elected Dr. G. W. Henton councilman in First ward for two-year term. His vote was 72. C. A. Sar, incumbent, polled 59 votes. KIWANIS SPEAKER REVEALS SERIOUS LACK IN SOCIETY

W. O. SAMUELSON, inspector for the Nebraska Funeral Directors' association, proved himself an orator before the Kiwanis club Monday noon when he was introduced as a former preacher by President William Beckenhauer of the association. Mr. Samuelson's subject was "The Lost Word - Concern." Helpful interest in other people's welfare is too often lost in cold unconcern. Opening ways for young or old to become self-expressive and useful is vital to all branches of the social order, as the speaker pointed out. Often all required to shape a young life to follow noble aims is a little concern. A backward, annoying student in school may through proper influences, excel as a constructive force in the world. Meeting obligations to young people - showing them that one means exactly what he says - is the way to fortify character and build outstanding citizenship. The speaker illustrated his points by relating a number of fitting observations.

Former Resident Dies in Norfolk

Rites for Peter Caauwe Will Be Conducted Today In City Chapel.

Peter Caauwe, resident of Wayne for some years, died in Norfolk March 31 at the age of 79 years, 4 months and 10 days. He had been active up until two weeks before his death when he contracted pneumonia and finally suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Improved Health Program Needed

Coach J. H. Morrison Gives Suggestions on School Plan in State.

Nebraska schools are urgently in need of an improved health and physical education program, Coach J. H. Morrison pointed out in speaking before a conference of school executives in Lincoln Friday. "Health Education and Common Defense" was his subject. The educators were keenly interested in Morrison's talk and directed many questions to him in a round table discussion.

The Wayne college physical education director suggested a health and physical education set-up in schools with the rest of the curriculum built around this. He favors complete health service in schools except for corrective work which should be the responsibility of parents. He suggested three ways of improving the health situation in Nebraska. One would be to appoint a state health director. A second would be legislation. The third is to set up a minimum health program. The last Mr. Morrison favors most if only one is used but he believes the problem should be met by a combination of the three.

A thorough physical health examination should be basic for all school children, Mr. Morrison added. Then the physical education program could be built on the findings of the examinations, giving the proper corrective work for those needing it.

Among others from Wayne at the meeting in Lincoln Friday and Saturday were Supt. N. F. Thorpe, Prof. Raymond Schreiner, Prof. M. C. Bloss, Prof. Raymond Cherry and Coach Frank Sullivan.

Ruling Is Given On Note Matter

Supreme Court Rules That Limitations Statute Holds in Case.

The fact that the First National bank of Wisner on its own motion applied $146 on a promissory note held by the bank and given by the late George J. McEachen did not remove the statute of limitations, according to a decision handed down this week by Chief Justice Simmons of the state supreme court. This was identical with rulings made by Wayne county and district courts.

McEachen gave the bank a note for $4,400 August 7, 1931. He also carried a checking account with the bank and March 10, 1932, there was a balance of $146 in this account. McEachen died August 13, 1938, and on September 16, 1938, James A. McEachen was named administrator. The bank on January 13, 1939, took the balance of $146 and applied it on the note. The bank then presented the note as a claim against the estate, contending that such payment had renewed the note and had removed the statute of limitations.

This action was barred by the statute of limitations and, because the payment was not voluntarily made, the bar was not removed. The high court ruled that a voluntary payment is one that is intentionally and consciously made. It cannot be successfully contended, said that court, that either debtor or creditor intended that this small balance was held as collateral to the note so as to constitute a pledge whose application to the note would avoid the bar of the statute.

Progress Made On Park Drive

Plat of Municipal Course And Picnic Grounds Is Being Prepared.

The drive to raise $4,720 by individual subscriptions for purchase of a municipal golf course and public recreation center is going forward this week. The finance committee of the County club feels confident that the amount can be realized before the option on the Henry Giese land expires.

The plan is to deed the land to the city whose officials will then apply for WPA grant of about $25,000 to improve the site. In addition to a nine-hole golf course, the plan is to have tennis and croquet courts and picnic grounds.

Sioux City professionals were here last week platting the golf course. E. J. Huntmer is drawing blueprints of the proposed park, these to be sent to Washington, D. C., with the request for the WPA project.

When the drive to buy the land is completed and approval of the WPA project assured, work on the proposed park starts.

District Meeting Will Be in Wayne

The Seventh district convention of the Farmers' Union will be held in Wayne at the city auditorium Tuesday, April 8. Austin Exleben of Hoskins, is county president. The meetings start at 10:30 in the morning.

FARM PRICES RISE IN ANSWER TO THE INCREASED DEMAND

PRICES for farm products are on the way up, and according to agricultural experts, will continue in the same direction with the expected demand for food supplies in Europe. Defense requirements have stimulated the market, and if the experience of 1914-1918 is repeated everything in connection with the farm will skyrocket to high levels. Price advances are in evidence despite an unusually bright outlook for production. Continuation of the conflict abroad and increased involvement of the United States will sharpen demand for things the farmer has to sell and accordingly will strengthen farm values. In this crisis it is wise to keep one's feet on the ground and resist the temptation to risk dangerously in speculating on the future.

Get Signatures On New District

Hoskins Precinct Is First To Complete Petition For Weed Work.

Good response is being received over Wayne county by those circulating petitions for the proposed weed eradication district. It is expected that signatures will soon be sufficient to ask a hearing on the request. When 51 per cent of the resident land owners or those holding 60 per cent of the land have signed, the county board and state weed control board ask a public hearing on the proposed district. Interest in the matter then determines the organization.

Wm. Riggert of Hoskins precinct, was first to complete his petitions. Other precinct chairmen are practically finished.

The revised law on weed districts has simplified procedure and reduced the costs. Use of sodium chlorate and deep cultivation are the suggested methods of ridding land of bindweed. It is expected that sufficient chlorate will be available, and buying in quantities should make the price reasonable.

State President Is Honored Here

P. E. O. Chapter Holds Tea In Club Room Tuesday For Mrs. Casper.

About 125 women were guests at the Women's club rooms Tuesday afternoon when Wayne chapter of P. E. O. entertained at a tea complimentary to Mrs. Edna Casper, state president. The six chapters which Mrs. Casper helped form when she was state organizer, Blair, Oakland, West Point, Wisney, Pender and Bloomfield, were represented, also Wakefield.

Distinguished guests present were Mrs. Alice H. Scott and Mrs. Bertha Hughes, both past supreme presidents, and Miss Rose M. Owens, supreme treasurer, all from Omaha. Mrs. Margaret Wright, chapter president who presided, introduced the distinguished visitors and Mrs. Casper each of whom was presented with a corsage. Mrs. Casper responded briefly and invited all to the state convention over which she presides in Fremont the last of April.

Mrs. Hughes of Omaha, spoke on "P. E. O. Sisterhood in Nebraska." She stressed the need for each one to do something creative, whether this be sculpturing or baking a cake. Mrs. Hughes contrasted the advantages today with those in 1889 when a group of girls founded the sisterhood. She mentioned the valuable work being carried on at Cotley college and in other P. E. O. enterprises.

Mrs. Wright introduced one of Wayne's charter members, Mrs. Clara Ellis, whose 81st birthday it was, and she also presented Mrs. Casper's mother, Mrs. Nettie Call. These two presided at the tea table.

Jean Mines, Amy Howe and Beryl Nelson, accompanied by Genevieve Lundak, sang "Two Little Maids from School" and "Tea for Two."

The tea table was attractive in the P. E. O. colors of yellow and white flowers, tapers and other appointments.

The Wayne chapter meets April 15 with Mrs. A. T. Claycomb.

THE KNOT-HOLE

Vol. 8 Wayne, Neb., Thur., Apr. 3, 1941 No. 16

"I want a reliable chaffer who takes no risks."
"I'll your man, sir. Can I have my salary in advance."

Take no chances this spring! Paint your house with Time-Tested Glidden paint. The best in paint, with twenty-seven of the most desirable colors from which to choose. Also, Glidden costs no more this year than it did last. Be sure you see that Time-Tested label on every can.

Water softener, just 75c for enough for the average cistern.

Truck Driver: "I ought to knock some sense into your head."
"Other Truck Drivers, 'Yeah? Neither you nor nobody else can do that, see?"

For that spring fencing, you can't beat Orange Banner steel posts and American fence. You want the best, so get the best—at no increase in price over others just as good."

Red cedar shingles are still low in price, so low that you cannot afford to let those leaky roofs get into the summer, without putting a new roof right over them. Now is the time to re-shingle.

"Thanks awfully, officer, but another policeman has already given me a ticket."

Who says you can't afford crossed posts? You've a!

When you start housecleaning you'll wish those floors were oak floors, because they're so much easier to care for. Why not put a new oak floor right over the old floor, before you start housecleaning? Let us tell you how cheaply it can be done.

Orator: "Who has done most to raise the working classes?"
Heckler: "The inventor of alarm clocks."

Get your housecleaning needs here: Everything from Solafox and Waxoff to yamish and wax. We've got what it takes!

Life in Denmark Told by Pastor An interesting Brotherhood gathering of the Concordia Lutheran church was held last Thursday evening at the Wymore Wallin home. Ivar Anderson, Ronald Anderson, Winton Wallin and Wymore Wallin entertained. Rev. Larsen of the Danish Lutheran church of Laurel, was the speaker. His address dealt with the condition of Denmark. Rev. Larsen visited there last summer and returned home after the war broke out. Nearly every person in Denmark has a background from the farm; 60 per cent of the national wealth belongs or goes to the agricultural industry. The farms are well developed, being highly productive and every weed is uprooted. Every farmer owns his own electric threshing machine. No one is poor or extremely wealthy. The average income of each adult person is $1,100 per year. At the age of 60 each person receives a pension sufficient for all needs. Each person belongs to a medical cooperative which pays for 80 per cent of the doctor's or hospital's bill. Some 70 per cent of the children go to higher schools of learning above the regular grades. The people are law abiding and love the king so that he needs no bodyguard. Ninetyeight per cent of the people belong to the Lutheran church. There is a devout religious spirit which has been deepened during the present war situation. No resistance was offered when Germany invaded. When the German flag was raised above the Danish, the king demanded before the officials it be taken down at once or he himself would climb the flag staff and remove it. The Germans did hoist it down even though they had threatened death to any Danish soldier who would attempt to remove it. The Danes are quiet during the present occupation of Germany in their land and pretend they don't notice the Germans who occupy. The Danish people have freedom of worship and the churches are well filled with eager listeners with evidences of staunch and deep Christian faith in God.

Help
A DAY is shockingly out of gear when some one does not break into the limelight with a new idea to take care of the aged. The current Nation's Business has this to say about uplift movements loaded on the government:

"From the Advisory Committee on Problems of Old Age of the National Institute of Health comes a proposal for old people's towns in the South, where folks past 65 could spend their last years and their Social Security checks.

"All the work would be performed by younger persons. Even the cooking would be done in communal kitchens. The elders would have nothing to do but cherish their memories and rust away.

"Altogether too much mental energy seems to be expended on how to be happy while somebody else does the work. By 1980, about ten per cent of the population will be on the Social Security shelf. Another 30 per cent or so will be dependent youth and children. Nearly 25 per cent of the total will be housewives. Unnumbered millions will be living on pensions. And there will be the horde of government retainers, the biggest unproductive load of all.

"Lawrence Sullivan, Washington journalist, has recently completed a itemized tabulation of the federal government's payroll and receivers of its various pecuniary benefits, showing that in October, 1940, the number reached the astounding total of 27,794,820.

"That doesn't include the Army or Navy, or the national defense workers nor the state city and county employees and their families. Nearly one-third of our people are now riding on government passes. The number increases with every new law or executive order.

"How many productive workers at this rate will be left in 1980 to support the rest of the population? And before they can begin supporting them, how much time will they have to devote to paying public debts and accumulated pensions piled up by their fathers?

"Trying to look ahead, one sees a new 'Man with the Hoe' — the last of the productive workers —

"And on his back the burden of the world."

When Peace Comes Back
MERLE THORPE, who writes constructively for Nation's Business, quotes four words from Napoleon's mother, who said: "If only it lasts!" Predicated on those words, Thorpe preaches reliance on fundamentals as a needed force to bring back the full-fledged republic bequeathed by valiant founders. Threats from within must not be overlooked in guarding against attacks from without. Stressing America's responsibility in behalf of representative government when peace is restored, Thorpe says:

"That day will come when exhausted nations seek a peace which only America can provide—a peace negotiated through a nation, strong within and without, feared and respected because it truly has the blessings of liberty secured for itself and its posterity.

"To that end American business may dedicate itself. It offers itself wholeheartedly to the job not only of meeting a national crisis but also of regaining, after the war clouds lift, the way of life the founders so greatly planned.

"One of those realistic founders had said, 'if only' when asked, 'What kind of government have you given us, Mr. Franklin?' he replied, 'A republic, if you can keep it!' In this time of bewilderment and discouragement, our answer should ring out, 'Yes, we must, we can, and we will keep it!'"

The CIO's obstructive actions in defense work outrage the public's sense of due service. The sooner the government passes and enforces laws stopping union labor's interference, the better satisfied will be those who send boys to army camps. Touching the bulldheaded CIO leadership, the Omaha Journal-Stockman concludes with this comment: "Labor leaders who have ordered strikes among those working on national defense contracts are in the wrong. The question of national security is above wages, hours or any other question that is being fought over. It is the labor leaders who are 'on the spot.'"

Author of "Out of the Night" is in trouble on a charge of illegal residence in the United States. It is said revelations in his book—revelations of mistreatment at the hands of totalitarian agents—were not true, or at least were exaggerated. How near or how far from the truth his story

Program at Albion.

Walter Steffen, of the employment service will be at the court house in Wayne alternate Fridays from 10 to 2 to interview applicants for work.

In Local Hospital.
Edgar Soderstrom entered a local hospital Wednesday as a pneumonia patient.

Recital Time Changed.
The piano recital to be given by pupils of Prof. and Mrs. Albert G. Carlson will be Friday at 7:30 at the college auditorium. Elsewhere in this issue the recital is scheduled for Saturday but the time had to be changed because of the rural school music festival.

Is Taken Ill Here.
Mrs. L. C. Lamberson has been quite ill at her home here since last Friday. The Lambersons' infant son is in the Harvey Meyer home.

Paints Service Station.
Earl Merchant is repainting the exterior of his service station.

may be, it is not out of line with the tyranny practiced in some official quarters abroad. The evils this country is mobilizing to fight are the very evils the writer seemed to expose. It would appear inconsistent with a merciful policy to ship him out to fall into the talons of those who would soon put an end to him.

Strikes in CIO circles engaged in defense production and defying the plea for unity in safeguarding American independence, give ground for suspicion of alien influences. A showdown between union forces and government authorities would be welcomed as a way to hurry solution of defense problems. A too lenient attitude toward the CIO in the past doubtless aggravates present troubles, encouraged by ambitious and egotistic labor agitators.

A plea to the appropriations committee of the legislature was made this week in support of adequate funds for the university to take care of apparent demands and keep the institution from slipping. The same argument applies in looking out for teachers' colleges. All state schools should be sufficiently financed to justify investments and permit the services required.

Churches are planning their annual Easter observances, and if there are any denominational differences, they are forgotten in the one great purpose, partaking of the spirit of the noble Nazarine whose life has been an inspiration to hope through the centuries. Efforts to overthrow the Christian religion in some foreign lands only strengthen it in this country.

Strange things happen. It is announced that Secretary Ickes has been cited by a group of churchmen as the most notable example of tolerance for the year 1940. If he had been named as using the most hateful invectives during the year, the award would have been accepted by the public as timely and apropos.

We are in favor of reforming the reformers—persuading them to say what they mean and mean what they say. We would like to see them plant their feet on ground they can defend, pursuing a course guided by reason and not swayed by passing whims.

Redistricting Task.
(Lincoln Journal)

Former Senator VonSeggern of Cumming county recalls that when the 1935 legislature was called upon to redistrict the state for the unicameral, the legislature spent months listening to plans advanced by those seeking a special advantage. From 133 senate and house members it was necessary to reduce the membership to somewhere between 30 and 50. He says many of the members of both houses wanted the redistricting done so that they could clinch the election for themselves. When 43 members was decided upon the redistricting was done along county lines and took into consideration contiguous territory. He says there were a few who actually believed that they had received a district where their re-election was a cinch, but it did not always work out that way at the ensuing election.

Theory of Scarcity Out.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Farmers never really accepted the theory that scarcity was a good thing for the country. Agricultural planners down in Washington insisted that the farmers' only salvation lay in reducing production but good farmers never believed it and it looks as if they were right about it.

This week, at the regional farm bureau meeting in Des Moines, Dr. Murray D. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio bureau, declared it was high time "to reverse this selfish policy of seeking agriculture's own good, regardless of what happens to the other fellow."

Suggesting "a right about face in our approach to the agricultural problem," he said, "We must stop subsidizing scarcity and gear our system to stimulate consumption or distribute the abundance that is present here in this land of plenty.

"The masses of our people want it, their health needs it, and the welfare of democracy demands it."

The Columbus, Ohio, man said that "no farm program that makes benefit payments to life insurance companies, banks and a landed aristocracy will ever solve the problem of human needs and democracy."

He contended that "low farm prices, unemployment, insecurity, reliance on government action—with resulting government debt—and finally war are all logical and inevitable consequences of restriction and artificial scarcity."

Producer groups, Lincoln said, "may justify their programs by claiming that they are necessary to hold their own with the others! But the blunt truth is that they are not working for anybody. The individual farmer, laborer, and white-collar worker do not have sufficient purchasing power to buy back the products of their own efforts."

IN RUSSIA.
Dr. M. S. Ginsburg, associate professor of the classics at the University of Nebraska, and a native of Russia, contributed an article to Sunday's Lincoln Journal concerning the injustices and oppressions of the soviet government. He shows that the rule in Russia is exactly the reverse of what it pretends to be. Communism is supposed to favor the peasants and proletarians. It does insure equal participation in the fruits of production on the lowest possible order. Meanness of what the laborer in the field or factory receives after the government has scooped out its excessive share keeps subjects in helpless slavery. The government sees that a day's work is long and arduous, and that the pay only permits a miserably impoverished existence. Penalties are unwarranted and ruthless. No labor union disagreements disturb smoothly flowing tyranny in Russia, and still communist agents are reported slyly at work to spread dissatisfaction among highly paid union workers in this country. It is quite inconceivable that union members can be so badly misled.

Early Resident of Wayne Marries

Miss Jennie Bayer of Pender, early resident of Wayne, and Dr. E. Grant Dennis of Berkeley, Cal., were married Wednesday, March 26, at the A. H. Heckendorf home near Pilger. The Heckendorfs took Dr. and Mrs. Dennis as far as Fremont that afternoon when the latter two left for their home in Berkeley.

Preceding the ceremony at noon, Mrs. Vern Miller, Omaha, cousin of the bride sang "Last Night a Nightingale Woke Me" and "Love's Old Sweet Song." Mrs. Ray Jones, Stanton, played Lohengrin's march as the bridal couple entered the living room where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Holub of Pender Presbyterian church. Dr. and Mrs. Leo Anderson of Council Bluffs, the latter a niece of the bride, were attendants.

Mrs. Dennis wore a navy blue suit and shoulder corsage of pink roses and sweetpeas.

A buffet luncheon was served after the ceremony.

In 1887 and 1888 Dr. and Mrs. Dennis taught school together in Pender. The former had practiced medicine in Pilger. His bride taught there in 1898 and she and a sister had operated a millinery store in Wayne in the early days.

When Dr. Dennis arrived for the wedding it was his first visit with his bride in 53 years.

Gives Suggestions On Chick Raising

Preventing cannibalism among brooder-age chicks is much easier than controlling or curing it after it occurs. J. R. Redditt, poultryman at the college of agriculture, suggests plenty of room, brooding at the rate of two and a half chicks per square foot of floor space. Something lacking in the diet may be a cause. One per cent salt may help. Plenty of feeders and waterers is also advised. Course feed is desirable as chicks eat more and grow faster. Early roosting should be encouraged with use of lath put in at the end of the first week and gradually raised. Avoid wire floors that break toenails; add a sun parlor if possible; and give chicks roughage in the way of sprouted oats or chopped grass.

Placements Made.
Wayne college placements so far are: Virginia Farr, kindergarten and 1st at Creighton; Harriet Relleke, 8th at Oakland; Mildred C. Nelson, 2nd and 3rd at Allen; Harold Thompson, coach and science at Page; Harold Hultman, high school and coach at Midland, Neb.

FEELING SUPERIOR.
We wonder if every race of people feels superior to every other race. Does each one think it is chosen and endowed by nature to direct the world? Members of each national group doubtless congratulate themselves over having inherited unequalled qualities of intelligence, and within a circumscribed circle, their boast of special divine favor may prevail unchallenged. The Ethiopians felt they were the chosen people, protected by powers above until they tried to match their bows and arrows against the Italians who came along with modern implements of warfare and with insatiable lust for conquest. The Ethiopians were easy victims of bombing planes and machine guns. Mussolini split his shirt over conquering helpless people, and in triumph, he told his subjects how heaven had favored them with prowess equal to that of the ancient Egyptians. Then Mussolini was prodded into the latest war, and the Greeks of inferior numbers have kept his soldiers running in reverse from the beginning. In Africa, on the sea and in the air, the Italians have flopped. Mussolini will have to pull in his chest. He will necessarily soft-pedal ideas of superiority. Humility is essential in fashioning sound racial development.

Birthday Observed By County Pioneer

Mrs. Emma Agler of Winside, Wayne county pioneer, observed her 88th birthday March 25 when relatives and friends helped her remember the occasion. Mrs. Agler, whose maiden name was Emma Roberts, moved to Wayne county from Paw Paw, Ill., in 1874, three years after her marriage to J. W. Agler. The couple came to Winside by train and drove from there by team to their home near LaPorte. The family lived in a dugout for several years and endured many hardships such as prairie fires, drouths and grasshopper pests. After leaving the farm, Mrs. Agler lived in Wakefield for some years and has been at Winside since 1917. Mr. Agler died in 1924.

Mrs. Agler is one of three sisters remaining out of a family of nine. She has three children, Ray Agler of Wakefield, Mrs. Sadie Longnecker who lives with her in Winside, and Mrs. Dudley Lockwood of Westfield, Ia.

Mrs. Agler is quite active and takes a keen interest in world affairs, keeping well posted on events.

Return to United States Is Greatest Thrill of All

"We're here! The United States of America, truly God's country!" So Kenneth Petersen, who has been with the Leigh exploration party along the northwest coast of Mexico, exclaims when March 17 the ship reached San Pedro harbor. "I've seen a lot, done a lot, learned a lot in the five months we've been to sea. I've gotten an idea of what some of the other countries are like—Jamaica, Panama and especially Mexico. They are OK, but give me the United States. One doesn't realize what a grand and glorious country we have here until one sees some of the others. Ours is a country of advancement and achievement, a country where one can enjoy life, a country to which one can look, a country all countries look up to and envy. I thank God and am overwhelmingly grateful that I am a citizen of the greatest, most colossal of all countries in the world, the United States of America, truly God's country!"

Visits in Los Angeles. Kenneth is spending a few days in Los Angeles with relatives before coming home. Mrs. C. C. Petersen and Paul received word that Kenneth failed to hear them talk to him by radio March 8. Kenneth had failed to get Gerald Wright's message the night before so he was not expecting the radioist. The party was just starting up the western side of the California peninsula that day and Kenneth thinks he could have heard the messages if he had only gotten word to be listening.

The last few days of the journey saw no let-up in thrills experienced by the party.

La Paz Is Pearl Center. LaPaz, writes Kenneth March 5, is the greatest pearl center in the world. Mr. Leigh hired a Mexican diving group so that "we could get some pictures of them in action, but at the last minute the union objected for some dizzy reason, so that left that out. The whole bay of LaPaz, about 40 by 20 miles, is the working grounds of pearl divers. Two distinct classes operate, the plain native diver who works with no diving equipment and the deep-water divers who work with diving suits. The plain native diver's ability is amazing. He sometimes works in depths of 9 and 10 fathoms (50 and 60 feet). It takes patient training to develop power to stay under water that long. Sometimes the natives are well rewarded, but so often they are not. The results of a dive is all luck. Pearls ranging in value from 75c to thousands of dollars are brought up. Many of the cheaper pearls are often peddled on the streets of La Paz to American tourists. These pearls are sometimes sold outright and are sometimes mounted."

Kenneth writes that on the following morning the party would sail for U. S. A.

The Leigh party hoisted anchor and started out of the harbor before whole length of line and the keg is tossed overboard. The keg having sufficient buoyancy, rises in a very short time showing the location of the harpooned fish.

Struggle With Fish.

"We maneuvered around and came close to the monster and drove the harpoon into him. We hit a soft spot and the harpoon stuck. The keg showed every movement of the fish. Mr. Leigh, Danny and myself, armed with a 32, an ax and the fish gaff, started after him in a large flat-bottomed motor boat. We worked for an hour, taking the line in inch by inch and then losing six or eight feet all at once with a dive of the Monterey. Now and then the fish would start to go in circles, and in circles we would go. Then changing his tactics he would head out to sea. For about 5 minutes we would be tearing through the water at about 4 knots, towed by an unseen Monterey. Suddenly the line grew slack and we began to take in on it as fast as possible. He was coming to the surface!

"The Monterey broke water about 10 feet from us and lay there bleeding. We thought we had him licked but we were certainly mistaken. We pulled him in closer and took some shots at what looked like his head. Then he went into action.

"He went under the boat and heaved upward as high as he could with a fin on each side of the small boat. He lifted us completely out of the water. He couldn't seem to throw us clear though. He couldn't toss the boat over far enough to make a flat-bottomed boat like this tip over. But I tell you we were all breathing a little uneasy there for a minute. He was tiring and finally a couple more shots from the 32 killed him.

"We ripped into what looked like his lower jaw with the gaff and got a firm hold with it. Captain came along with the ship and we proceeded with the task of getting him out of the water so we could look at him. That was a job, but we finally accomplished it.

Monster Is Described.

"He was 19 1/2 feet wide, two feet thick (in the middle), and 13 1/2 feet long. We figured that he weighed approximately 5,200 pounds. He was an ugly looking monster. He was black on his upper side and white on his underside. Two kinds of horns projected out in front of him on each side of his four-foot mouth. His two eyes, about four feet apart, were on his upper side on each side of his mouth. After pictures were completed we tossed him back into the briny deep and proceeded toward Santa Magdalena.

Kenneth tells that when they arrived at Santa Magdalena almost every person in the little village hopped in his dugout and rowed out to the yacht and gave the Leigh party the "once over." After the villagers had left the yacht the Leigh party went to Santa Magdalena to look over the village. It was very small, the whole town consisting of about 12 houses. There were no stores and apparently no one was doing anything. The village had two trees. The only other foliage was an occasional cactus here and there. Returning to the ship they passed a bar on which were perched about a hundred red-backed pelicans. "They sure are dizzy looking old birds."

Kenneth tells that he received Gerald Wright's radio messages daily and "it was swell to get first-hand news from home."

Investigate Bone File.

Leaving Santa Magdalena village March 10, the party motored toward the mouth of the bay once more. A couple miles from the entrance they spied what looked like a huge pile of bones so decided to investigate. Mr. and Mrs. Leigh, Danny and Kenneth went to shore in the "40 knots." They found their suspicions were correct. They had seen huge piles of whale bones. Two native fishermen soon told them the story of the bones. Some 20 years ago five Italian whaling boats made Magdalena bay their base for their whaling work in that vicinity. They captured the whales outside and returned to the bay to butcher them. All these bones are remains of the whales they had killed. The bones are really immense. Ribs are sometimes 10, 15 and 20 feet long and a foot in diameter. The two native fishermen who camped there had a little hut made of bones and there is where they live. After taking pictures the four returned to the ship.

With favorable winds, a nice temperature of 72 and 62 miles to reach San Pedro, the ship set sail March 11. Later in the day the winds gave way to a calm and the gasoline supply was diminishing, so traveling was slow. "Today we had rain for the first time in a week of a long period. It was a kind of come and go drizzle. About 4 this afternoon we ran into swarms of little crawfish, great long ribbons of them, so thick they looked like red ribbons about four feet wide. Suddenly they ceased as quickly as they began.

"Another cloudy, foggy, drizzly day with little or no winds. Four more valve springs broke in the engine today, making a total of 18 valve springs broken so far." So Kenneth describes March 12. "Just so the ole 'chug-chug' will hold out a week or so till we reach our final goal about 40 miles away now."

Ship Hits Storm.

San Benito Island was the goal for March 13. "About seven miles from it it came the rain like fury. The wind rose to gale velocity and there we were with light sails up. Good golly, they laid the ole Lascar

Popular Winter Playground Enjoyed by Wayne Couple

Miami is a great winter playground with thousands flocking there from all parts of the country to enjoy the beauties of nature and the pleasant climate. For those who can afford such respite during winter months in the north, Florida is ideal. For most of those who must earn a livelihood that winter playground is not the place to choose. However, this year the defense program has resulted in building that furnished some opportunity. A large naval air base is under construction, also many houses and new hotels. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barnett arrived home after spending the winter in the south. Mr. Barnett was fortunate in having work there with his son, Herbert, who is a master painter.

The principal season in Miami extends about four months. In December thousands come from all directions and fill the hotels, homes and camps. Then in March the exodus starts and rows and rows of buildings are vacant. But, during the winter season, Miami beach swarms each day with 30,000 to 40,000 people out to enjoy the temperature that hovers around 79 and seldom drops below 74.

Much Building Done.

On a basis of working 24 hours a day, Miami has a record of one new house every 104 minutes. The average record is 13.9 houses a day. In 1940 Miami built 5,038 homes which, allowing 50 feet for each, would stretch 4.7 miles. The 1939 total was 4,530. For some of these homes new island sites are made out in the water. Miami Beach, an island about seven miles long and three wide just off the coast, is also building fast. 200 hotels having gone up there the past year. Night clubs, theatres and pretty drives are numerous.

The tropical trees, shrubs and flowers delighted the Wayne folks. Citrus fruits with blossoms, green and ripe fruits on at the same time was a novel sight. The same is true of the Florida cherry which has a fruit that is ridged, has a large pit and poor taste. Some tropical trees shed all their leaves at once and others do so gradually. Banana trees with their clusters of purple blossoms which give way to tiny bananas, the dynamite tree with shiny seeds growing in sections like an orange and bursting when they ripen, the sausage tree with a pod that resembles a sausage and which is used for medicine and upholstery and the cactus tree with attractive flowers are among the unusual varieties seen.

Strawberries were ripening in Florida in December. The plants there must be set but new each year. They bear only about six months and then die.

Racing Favorite Sport.

Entertainment aplenty is provided in the winter playground. Racing seems to be the favorite. Miami alone has two horse race tracks and four dog race tracks. Each is a beautiful park. Hialeah is one of the big horse race tracks. In the center of this beautiful track is a small lake on which are large, pink flamingos. The Barnetts saw Jockey Irving Andersen and his father, Ivor Andersen of Hoskins. The youth is recovering nicely from a recent racing fall.

The dog tracks are just as attractive and the betting equally as active as for horse races. Unique to the dog racing is the mechanical

Project Assured By Vote of Club

Library Service Is Subject Of Program Given for Women's Group.

Wayne Woman's club voted Friday to furnish $5 a month toward the NYA project for young women, this assuring the undertaking to train girls and help them secure employment. The plan, as explained by Burr R. Davis, is to rent the property at 5th and Main for the training center. The government furnishes a trained economist, host and food. The city Chamber of Commerce and Woman's club will supply the rent, light, water and telephone.

About 15 girls will be housed in the home at a time. They will be trained and placed in jobs as fast as possible. A girl may stay a maximum of two weeks a month in the home and will clear $10 for the period. If she does not secure work she will be entitled to return for other periods.

Mrs. E. S. Blair presented Miss Clara Johnson, state superintendent of WPA library work, who explained library service in the state. Federated Women's clubs have done much in library work in Nebraska. Carnegie furnished the state with 75 of its total of about 500 libraries. Many institutions are having difficulty maintaining their reading rooms and books and are conducting various benefits. Only about 50 per cent library service is provided. California is one of the states giving complete county library service to all. The Nebraska Library commission is cooperating with the WPA in testing a plan to provide county libraries. In Phelps county, where such a project is being tried, 2,000 books were loaned in December and 1,000 a week since. Adams county has now voted to try the plan. The program seems to prove its worth in filling this library need.

Pride Remained in This Case

True, the dollar and 90 cents had disappeared from the teacher's purse, and the evidence that Alice had been the agent who had caused its disappearance was convincing beyond the shadow of a doubt. Yet it was all circumstantial.

The conscientious teacher, accompanying the 15-year-old culprit, left that for her pupil's own good she should appear before the juvenile court.

Tears, denials and outbursts bordering on hysteria were the only answers the judge received to his blunt questioning. An insight into the girl's character was necessary to determine whether she was likely to develop further tendencies toward delinquency.

The teacher's report, together with the girl's attitude, indicated that Alice was very proud, more concerned with what her friends might think of her because of her escapades than with the personal consequences of being sent to the girls' training school.

Active in school plays, athletics, and musical performances, she was exceedingly popular among her classmates. "She is the last pupil in our school," the teacher had said, "that I would suspect."

"Alice," the judge finally said, "if you were not so certain that you have not taken your teacher's money, I would say that you had from all indications of the

Events and Circumstances

Nevertheless, since you are so insistent, I am going to take your word for it, and we won't discuss the matter any more."

Manifestly relieved that she had not confessed, although she had seemed on the verge of doing so, humbled at the thought of the possible results of her wrong-doing yet grateful that her pride remained, Alice left the conference room never to return in the role of a transgressor.

To her teacher the judge explained his verdict: "There is no doubt of your pupil's guilt, but it appears more important to let her keep her self-respect than to prove her offense. This experience, in all probability, has taught her not to do anything of the sort again."

The past June Alice was graduated from the commercial department of the high school and now holds a position as a stenographer.

Should a child be condemned for trying to save his self-respect even after he has committed a minor offense? Should the truth always be wrung out of him by adults?

Retirement Plan Discussed Here

Wayne Students Take High Honors at State Art Fair in Kearney.

Teacher retirement legislation was discussed by Wayne city school faculty Monday evening.

Supt. N. F. Thorpe explained provisions of the proposed law which has been reported favorably by the education committee in the state legislature. The proposed bill provides that teachers pay 5 per cent of their salary into a fund which they can withdraw at any time on retirement by forfeiting the sum paid in the first two years. Voluntary retirement is set for the age of 60 and compulsory retirement at 65 unless a two-year-extension is given by special permission. After a teacher reaches the age of retirement the sum he has paid into the fund is matched by the state and the whole buys an annuity for the individual. Proponents of the bill say that the amount paid in by teachers would carry the retirement payments for 30 years.
