

Day at the University of Nebraska Stressed the Ideals of Democracy and the Proposition of Perpetuating a Free Press

The service a free press renders in a democracy was the theme of the first annual journalism day held at the University of Nebraska last Friday, dedicated to the late Prof. M. M. Fogg, founder of the school in this state, and in view of our official relationship with the Nebraska Press association at this time, we were asked to contribute to the occasion, and we did so in a mild way.

J. E. Lawrence, editor of the Lincoln Star, and George Grimes, managing editor of the Omaha World Herald, were among those on the program, and it is interesting to note that Lawrence was a protégé of this writer 35 years ago on a Beatrice newspaper, and that Grimes years later was a protégé of Lawrence in Lincoln. We have to look into a mirror to verify the experience. Both Lawrence and Grimes have made notably good and both well exemplify what intensive training will do in contact with talent and resolution.

We think Miss Norma Carpenter, for a few years in the employ of the Herald, was a quietly moving spirit in shaping plans for Nebraska's first journalism day, and the manner in which details were fashioned and worked out, reflected due credit on Miss Carpenter and others.

The Herald has employed journalism school graduates for 25 years, and we have learned more from them than we have learned from us. We exchanged warning mistakes of judgment for college lore and technique—technique in defining word symphonies—and we told our listeners we expect by a process of slow absorption to be able to complete the four years' course by the end of another quarter of a century.

College training and inspiration help one find an early outlet for his talent. No doubt everybody has special talents—perhaps to saw a board straight, judge the qualities of farm animals, figure out the constellations or ring up the curtain on a perfectly forged poem—but talents must be fired from without and within to hasten desired goals.

As emphasized in journalism day speeches, freedom of the press, guaranteed by the constitution, is a precious heritage that must be preserved to insure continuance of democracy, and that will be preserved by the alert and patriotic men and women engaged in meeting America's multiplying newspaper responsibilities. In this world crisis no editor will be found shirking his duty to safeguard free institutions.

We were speaking particularly of the rural newspaper field where we gained most of our experience. In the course of our remarks we called attention to these recollections:

The primitive country newspaper was an impetuous community indispensable issued from a Washington hand press with other equipment correspondingly inadequate. The editor often possessed rare talent to write with little practical knowledge. His meagre product was especially patronized as the mouthpiece of a political or business faction, and cultivated differences kept him eternally at war with rival publications. Business methods and circulation coverage were soft-pedaled.

Altogether the primitive rural newspaper field was not attractive from the standpoint of pecuniary rewards. Those who engaged in it were chronically hard up as a rule. The banker and leading merchant customarily regarded it with a sort of tolerant contempt. The old editor thought wistfully of money because what he had would not stretch far enough to make ends meet. His needs made him obsequious. He often bowed to dictum that did not make sense. He praised indolence to be agreeable.

What a change came in the rural press as the country sprung out of dull provincialism! Typing machines and automatic presses were introduced to meet a rapidly expanding demand for more service and less factional baffle. News treatment of the area shined because impartially generous. Circulations grew from hundreds to thousands. The barter stage disappeared with the horse and buggy. Cash relations with subscribers and advertisers were established and developed.

The country weekly with a real service to perform and with a determination to shoulder its responsibilities does not play second fiddle to other community institutions. Service will bring sufficient material rewards without having money as the sole objective. If the newspaper stands for what it

Budget Is Fixed For City School

Amount to Be Raised for Institution Is Same As Past Year

Wayne city school budget will be the same for the coming year as for the past, $28,000, according to action of the school board Monday evening. This is the sum the board asks the city to raise by taxation for maintaining the school.

Dr. Walter Bentback was re-elected chairman at the reorganization. Paul Mines is vice chairman and Ed. Seymour secretary. P. L. March and Joe Smolski, newly elected members, assumed their duties.

Mr. Mines was appointed to act for the board on matters pertaining to the building when decisions are necessary between board sessions.

Mr. Clements of the state vocational education department, explained proposed defense training units. As the state department has no funds available at present, action was deferred. Since 60 per cent of those taking such training would come from rural areas and work on farms in keeping young men busy now, the matter is to come up in August or later.

The board has not yet taken action to fill the staff vacancies caused by the resignation of Miss Doris Patterson and Miss Loren Lindburg.

Unusual Record Shown in Report

Loss Is Unusually Small in Six Calls Answered Last Year in Wayne

Wayne fire department has answered 13 calls which have resulted in property loss estimated at $430 for the year ending May 1, according to report made at the department meeting Tuesday.

Remarkable is the fact that in the six city calls the loss was only $49 whereas valuation of the property involved was $39,000. The heaviest city loss was $20 at J. N. Eimung's. The next was the Grant machine shop with $15 and Fuelbert station with $10. No loss resulted in the calls to the Ed. Seymour car, Savidge railroad cars and McAllister house.

The seven rural fires totaled $385 loss. The largest was the broader house at Fred Peperkorn's, this being $225. The next was the Holdcroft transport truck with a loss of $150. The only other loss was $10 at Hubert Auker's chicken house. Calls were also answered at Dan Hightool's grain field, Aug. Fuoss straw stack, Nels Granquist corn field and A. T. Claycomb field.

Though the Leonard Pospishil farm home fire Sunday night was not in the year's report, the firemen estimate the loss at $325.

The firemen selected officers Tuesday as follows: President, L. B. McClure; chief, J. M. Linger; assistant chief, E. L. Fleetwood; secretary, N. H. Brugger; treasurer, H. E. Ley; foreman and assistant, truck 2, W. S. Bressler and Geo. Bornholt; fireman, truck 3, A. E. Davison; steward, Frank Griess; chaplain, Earl Merchant; fire police, Harry Barnett; Gen. Bornholt, J. Three Wayne Men in Car Involved in Accident Friday Evening. C. A. Shirley, about 65, of Norfolk was instantly killed and 14 others escaped with minor injuries Friday evening when four cars and a truck were involved in an accident two miles east of Randolph on highway No. 20.

Shirley's car collided with a truck driven by Joe Lange, Coffeyville, after the truck and car driven by Vernon Schultz, Laurel, had been involved in a crash. The cars were traveling west and the truck was going east. Accompanying Shirley was his daughter, Miss Gwelda Shirley, teacher at Ober, who was enroute home for the week-end. With Schultz were two Laurel girls, Bernice Carlson, and Wilma Johnson. Lange, the truck driver, was accompanied by his wife and two small children. In the crash the men were uninjured.

The three drivers and Miss Shirley got out of their cars and were examining the wreckage when two other machines approached from the east and ran into the vehicles before the drivers were able to stop. Shirley, standing between the wrecked cars, could not escape and was killed. The others jumped to safety.

One of the cars crashing into the wreckage was driven by Kermit Graft of Belden, who was accompanied by Robert Gifford and Laverne Bluggeman, also of Belden. The other contained the three Wayne men in the car driven by Miss Shirley, who was standing in a ditch after the first collision, saw the two cars coming down the highway. She screamed to her father to jump but, being partially deaf, Shirley did not hear her. Deceased operated a cream station in Norfolk. He leaves his wife and daughter.

Sum Is Awarded In Damage Case

In the damage action filed by George Bressler against John Michel, district court jury last Friday found for the plaintiff and ruled that Bressler is entitled to recover the sum of $3,491.50 with interest at 6 per cent from date and costs.

R. W. Bartels represented the plaintiff, and the defendant failed to appear. The court found that Michel was owner and driver of a car involved in an accident in which Bressler was injured south of Wakefield. The court further found that Michel was driving at an excessive rate of speed so that when the car in which the plaintiff was riding came in view he was unable to avoid hitting said car, resulting in injury of the plaintiff, injury of his wife and children and damage to the car owned by Mr. Bressler's brother.

Charles A. Haselden Taken Seriously Ill Monday—When on Highway. Charles A. Haselden, nearly 58, who was taken very ill when driving Monday morning to Carroll where he served as depot agent, died Monday evening about 9:30 in a local hospital where he was brought for care. Mr. Haselden had suffered with diabetes for several years. He realized that he was having an attack, stopped his car at the side of the highway and got out of the machine. He had fallen into a diabetic coma when the highway patrolman and others found him and brought him to Wayne.

Funeral rites will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the Beckenhauer parlors with Rev. W. E. Dierking in charge. Burial will be in Wayne cemetery.

Charles A. Haselden, son of John Burr and Sarah McCulley Haselden, was born at Louisville, Ill., May 30, 1883. There he spent his boyhood. He entered the Baltimore & Ohio railroad service at the age of 19 and continued for this company until 1915 when he came to Omaha to be with the C. St. P. M. & O. He was first stationed at Emerson where he remained 14 years before coming to Wayne 12 years ago to take up duties in the local station.

After an absence of several months due to a serious illness, Mr. Haselden reentered the work as agent at Concord where he remained three years before taking up such duties at Carroll nearly three years ago. His record of service with the railroad covers 39 years. Mr. Haselden was a member of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, holding a gold medal for honorable service.

Mr. Haselden was a quiet, unassuming man, strong in his convictions, a staunch believer in honor and justice. Not caring for the usual social amenities, he was a lover of nature and preferred the great outdoors. He was a devoted son and brother and a loyal friend.

Surviving Mr. Haselden are his mother, Mrs. Sarah Haselden, and sister, Mrs. Minnie Kagy, of Wayne. His father and a brother, David, preceded him in death. He leaves a niece, Christine Haselden in California, and nephew, John Haselden in Idaho. They are unable to be here. A sister of Mrs. Haselden may come from Illinois.

Sustains Injury In Truck Mishap

Tom Dunn Forced to Drive Big Oil Transport Off Road Early Monday.

Tom Dunn sustained injuries and one of the C. C. Stirtz transport trucks was badly damaged a mile west of Beemer Monday morning about 5:30 when Mr. Dunn was obliged to drive off the pavement to avoid collision with another truck the driver of which crowded him. Mr. Dunn's left leg was sprained and cut, a deep gash cut in his left arm and his chest bruised. The trucker whom he met did not stop, but another passing car took Mr. Dunn to Beemer where he called for help.

Mr. Dunn was alone in the transport, bringing a load of about 3,100 gallons of gasoline from Kansas City. Realizing that a collision would be disastrous, Mr. Dunn, when he saw the truck coming toward him, drove onto the dirt shoulder along the paving. The shoulder was so soft that the transport turned. The gasoline truck made one complete revolution and started to turn a second time, landing in water standing along the highway.

After Mr. Dunn notified the local station, a transport from Homer, in Wayne at the time, went to the scene of the accident and siphoned the gasoline from the tank, saving practically all of the fuel.

The engine and front part of the transport truck are practically destroyed. The tank and trailer are not badly damaged. They were brought to Wayne Monday by a wrecking crew.

FARMERS LABORED OVERTIME TO GET GRAIN IN FIELDS

BETWEEN showers of the past week farmers have speeded the task of getting in their small grain. Delay forced by moisture caused some farmers to run tractors all night in preparing and seeding their fields. Soon the click of corn planters will be heard, and the soaked, melting soil gives promise that this year's task will be properly rewarded. The 7 of an inch of rainfall Saturday afternoon did not prevent farmers from coming to Wayne that day and especially at night to get supplies and exchange ideas and viewpoints. And a feeling of satisfaction over crop prospects was evident.

Fire Loss Heavy In Nearby Home

Leonard Pospishil House Is Badly Damaged by Sunday Blaze.

Fire thought to have started from a cracked chimney damaged the Leonard Pospishil home six miles northwest of Wayne Sunday evening about 7:30 with a loss estimated at several hundred dollars. The property belongs to Mr. Pospishil and insurance covers the damage.

The Pospishils had had a fire in the kitchen stove to prepare their evening meal. Afterward they went to the Harry Hofeldt home to spend the evening. The Will Keepers, neighbors to the north, noticed flames on the roof of the Pospishil home and called the Wayne fire department.

A room above the kitchen, an addition to the rest of the house, was badly burned. The entire roof and rafters of the whole house are charred. Plaster has fallen in the kitchen and some in other rooms. Furniture was saved from the room which burned, but much bedding and many clothes kept there were damaged. Smoke has resulted in considerable loss throughout the house.

The Pospishils learned about the fire when a neighbor girl stopped at Hofeldt's and told them. The family is able to live in the property and will have repairs made as soon as possible. An insurance adjuster was to come this week.

Fretful Harold
TO the public, Secretary Harold L. Ickes contributed, in a childish mood, an almost perfectly pointless description of his share in the president's late fishing excursion. Ickes explained how wits were matched with the unsuspecting fish, and how joy reigned supreme when the chief executive proudly captured a struggling denizen from the ocean's murky depths. But before close of his story Harold slipped back into his accustomed groove of fault-finding by deploring the utter inadequacy of the boat allotted to the president for cruising and fishing. He said in effect that people of the United States would be thrown into a fever of resentment if they knew what kind of a boat the president was using. In view of the wild spending habits of the administration, it is surprising, indeed, that a proper sailing vessel for the executive has been overlooked.

Ickes is the fellow whose choleric nature often expresses itself violently against the country's newspapers. He does not like the way they are run and he thinks they have no influence and serve no useful purpose. Therefore, we would suggest that all editors and reporters adopt a self-imposed censorship to the extent of omitting from their publications all reference to the secretary. Let him be carefully ignored—permitted to lapse into deep and permanent oblivion. That would be one way to show the power of the press.

Unwillingly Accepts Plan
VICE President Henry Wallace, former secretary of agriculture and erstwhile farm publisher, who in late years has been following the dual role of increasing and decreasing corn production—advocating use of hybrid seed corn and a policy of curtailed corn acreage—has recently taken time off from official duties to treat United States senators to samples of hybrid sweet corn—product of his own experience. On receipt of the gift, Senator Hugh Butler of Nebraska made this acknowledgment:

"Thank you very much for the box of choice hybrid seed corn of the yellow banlam variety of your own raising which I have just received from you.

"It would appear that at last, in principle at least, my 'corn loan plan' has been adopted! How delighted I am to be one of the early recipients.

"Risking a possible infraction of the A.A.A. regulations, I have decided to plant some of this choice seed on a rented tract here in the district in hopes that I may return to you some of the crop at its most juicy stage.

"The balance I shall have planted on my farm in the rich valley of the Republican river in southwest Nebraska, all in strict compliance with my allotment. Barring floods, hail, hot winds, and insects, I hope to repay you 'in kind' this fall.

"This, in fact, is my corn loan plan in miniature, and I hope it illustrates what a grand program it would be if applied to every needy farmer over the entire drought area."

If the average newspaper published a fraction of the contributions received from government agencies and other sources, it would overflow without any of its own efforts. These literary effusions often contain some worthwhile information, but they are carefully prepared to boost and not to hurt the subjects with which they deal. They are designed to make a favorable impression, and anything that might be offered in conflict is tactfully avoided. Most of the contributions suggested could be justly classed as propaganda. The editor or reporter must use his judgment in what to publish in the public interest and what to omit as overdrawn and one-sided. In these hectic days, stories pour from many sources into newspaper offices, having the appearance of news, but in reality intended to bolster one public or private cause or another. The editor is therefore on the alert, and necessarily makes liberal use of his wastebasket.

With rare exceptions—exceptions due to communist or other alien taints—the American people are solidly behind the movement to build adequate defense for democracy. A mixture of nationalities came here to get away from autocratic restraints and to enjoy greater freedom of opportunities. Few are so crazy that they would fasten on the country of their adoption a system from which they were glad to escape. Regardless of nationality or station, the rank and file of Americans are for the American way of life and would make any needed sacrifice to uphold and perpetuate it.

Schools and colleges are getting ready to wind up the year's work. Following commencement days, many students will enroll in the college for the summer session, and many others will find vacation jobs. Teachers will join the student body for summer study, to review branches needed in their professional work.

Every Sunday morning when Christian peoples everywhere are called to acknowledge the peaceful Nazarine and worship the Giver of all good gifts, rival European capitals broadcast conflicting interpretations of war news. Stories of slaughter and ruin are given with a feeling of high achievement that would characterize reporting a horse race or a ball game. Every point gained or lost on sanguinary battle fields means suffering, devastation and death. News commentators in European capitals are necessarily hardened to their jobs.

It would seem the sensible thing for the government to allow its latest and greatest emergency—national defense—to absorb all other emergencies—dissolve numerous bureaus that are costly and that, in view of conditions, would appear no longer necessary. Getting ride of multiplied bureaus, as the president once advised, would strengthen defense plans and, by decreased spending, would decrease threats of dangerous inflation. We offer this tip freely, but with feeble hope that it will be considered favorably.

The camping and picnicking season is just around the corner. Touring and seeing America—the lakes and mountains and numerous other scenic beauties—will soon be in order. A night in the open with lightning bugs vying with twinkling stars and nothing worse than an occasional mosquito or jigger out trying to make a living, is a delightful and reinvigorating experience. The hard terra as a bed and the blue firmament as a covering quite negate tendency to human softness.

It is reported that Iowa has twice as many persons over 65 years of age as Nebraska. Perhaps more of our elders have moved to California. Anyway, the south-west will have to be surveyed before determining the relative qualities of the elixir of life used in the two states.

If the United States has to straighten out the world again, it should have something to say about establishing ways to keep it straight. After paying the price to disarm mad dictators, we should, in support of true democracy, have a decisive voice in peace-terms.

People will have to be carefully discriminating in order to eat less to help national defense and more to consume surplus products. In regulating diet in behalf of greatest possible service, one must know what's what and what isn't what in the field of edibles.

Farmers are asked to grow more as a contribution to national defense, and their knowledge of surplus will likely lead them to stress production of what is in greatest demand without becoming amenable to government regulation.

Supply and Demand Still Work.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

In spite of all the devices to control prices it is significant that there are many times when those devices do not work out as planned. There is one law, however, that cannot fail to be depended on and that is the old law of supply and demand.

A leading eastern bank in its business survey points out that price advances because of the war seem to differ from those of 1914-18. In the 1914-18 period expansion of credit was one of the factors in skyrocketing values. In the present instance there has been very little credit expansion but prices have gone up rather sharply in some countries.

The first year of the present war saw American wholesale commodity averages gain 3 points; with the advance so far this year the figure is now 10 per cent above pre-war. In England the first year advance was 43 per cent but it is now up to 54 per cent. Canada has had gains of 18 per cent; Japan, 18 per cent; Switzerland, more than 50 per cent.

The reason for all this, suggests the survey, is that actual supply and demand conditions for commodities is now setting the price. In other periods of advances credit expansion wagged the dog. If this theory is correct the nation capable of the greatest production will suffer less in the way of inflation than the nation with limited output. This applies to the war period itself. What will happen as a result of the increased capacity after the war is ended is, of course, a bridge to cross when we get to it.

American Citizenship.
(Industrial Press Service)

Not since the rights of citizenship in this country of ours were first established has there been so much cause as there is today for pride and thankfulness as each of us utters the words: "I am an American."

We enjoy precious rights in the United States, ones to be found in few other lands. Freedom of speech, freedom of religion, (even the right to follow any religion except state-worship) has been lost in some foreign lands, the right to move freely from place to place, the right to engage in the occupation of your choice, the right to start your own business and take your own chances—we Americans are so used to these and other principles that we seldom give a thought.

But there is an opportunity this month to pause and remember the above considerations. For Congress has set Sunday, May 18, aside as Citizenship Recognition Day, in recognition of the 2,500,000 young men and women who have reached the estate of American citizenship during the past year. Posts of the American Legion throughout the country and many other groups and individuals will co-operate in giving this occasion its full meaning.

And not just the 21-year-olds should celebrate their citizenship at that time. In the midst of a troubled world, all Americans, young and old, can profit by re-dedicating themselves to the meaning and importance of American citizenship, and to their rights and duties in this society of free and enterprising men and women. Citizenship Recognition Day belongs to all Americans.

MUSIC WEEK.

Most people are music lovers whether they understand its technique or not, and therefore they appreciate special programs prepared for Music Week. Music is a source of joy. It soothes disturbed emotions, and it fortifies courage. It lifts thoughts above a coldly calculating world—for a time at least leading them away from cruel war to contemplation of unfeigned friendships and noble virtues. Leaving the gloom of human miseries, music sweeps the soul into supernal heights. It furnishes happy interludes in the march of tragedy and sorrow. Music week encourages more and better music.

think is right—if it has a fairly clear idea of what is right—it will help mold the fine, sturdy character so much needed in this troubled world. It will have enough kickers to renew stimuli, and revivify resolution. It will be approved by most people even if they seldom express themselves.

The editor and printer who used to flirt frequently and intimately with Bacchus, the Greek god of wine, are quite passe. They exist only in memory. Modern demands require unimpaired faculties. Nature did not do the job of creating the body and putting a modicum of brains into it with the idea that the product could be long abused without destroying its usefulness. And a survey of present-day editors and their helpers will reveal as a rule strong, courageous, earnest, unflinching men and women. Almost uniformly such survey will show exemplary support of life's best values.

MOTHER'S DAY.

Approach of Mother's day reminds one anew of the maternal love that is entrenched in every human heart. When a child suffers injury or fright, mother is sought for relief. Through life mother is embraced as the embodiment of everything that is true or noble. Even the oldest whose step has become unsteady from the weight of years, still nurses tenderest memories of his mother. He still thinks of her earnest solicitude and help in solving youthful problems—little problems as viewed by maturity, but big ones in the mind of a child. Mother anxiety was never more intense than it is now with boys amidst the blaze of battle abroad and other boys in training camps in America—all uncertain and fearful of the future. Boys called to the colors anywhere do not forget their mothers. In all kinds of trouble, mother love comes to the rescue. Such love—purest in the world—is ever a comforting, sustaining force. Living or departed, mother is remembered with warmest affection, and her indelible impress endures as a constantly uplifting influence. Heaven would not be heaven without her.

Legislative News Letter

William A. Crossland
State Senator

One of the high lights of the legislative week was the passage of L. B. 130 over the governor's veto. The bill provides for cancellation of interest on real and personal property taxes, delinquent as of March 8, 1939. A principal amount is paid, with interest from March 8, 1939, on or before March 1, 1942. It is an interest moratorium bill. While most of the senators agree that this measure will never be reenacted, they wished to give citizens in many drought-stricken counties in Nebraska the relief which they were unable to take advantage of in past years. Everyone says, "This is the last time."

L. B. 470, the gas tax exemption bill, after many attempts to weaken it by numerous amendments, was passed to enrollment and review. Among the many amendments offered was one to include other non-highway users such as railroads, aviation lines and others within the exemption accruing to the farmers under the proposed law. The proponents of the bill were able to show enough strength to dispose of any amendment which would weaken the bill. The measure now stands an excellent chance of passage.

L. B. 282 and 289, small loan measures raised by the legislature to serve as a basis upon which to build a small loan measure, after the committee on banking and commerce had killed all small loan measures in committee, are in process of being revised and amended. It is almost certain that when these two bills are combined and amended, the resulting measure will provide for the following: Material reduction in interest rates and abolition of all extra charges or brokerage fees, provision for much stricter supervision, enforcement of truthful advertising relative to loan costs. Enforcement of the law will be lodged in the department of banking rather than in the secretary of state. One of the amendments allows banks, building and loan associations and trust companies to take out a small loan license if they so desire. All small loan companies may be examined and supervised by the department of banking much the same as are other financial institutions and the cost will be borne by these companies. Nebraska is certain to have a better small loan law with added protection to borrowers at lower rates and necessary supervision over the lenders. Many well managed and conservative companies welcome the proposed changes.

The appropriations bill L. B. 222 was considered this week and very few changes made. This committee performed a very important task in recommending appropriations for the various departments and branches of state government for the coming biennium. The members of the legislature were generally well satisfied with the able work of this committee. L. B. 222 was advanced to enrollment and review.

The legislature will consider the congressional re-districting bill this week. There are about 59 varieties of re-districting. We favor the following plan: All of the Third district should be north of the Platte river and any necessary territorial extensions should be to the west and not to the south.

We were happy to welcome the seniors and their sponsors of the Winside, Wayne and Sholes high schools. They were introduced to the legislature and had the opportunity and honor of personally meeting the governor. Your senator looks forward to meeting the seniors of the Schuyler high school and will extend them all courtesies when they come to Lincoln.

It was our keen pleasure to introduce to the legislature our predecessor, former State Senator Emil Brodecky, who briefly addressed the body. His many colleagues of former years gave him a hearty greeting.

While there is the usual talk about adjournment, the majority of senators believe that they should consider most of the important bills on general file. The sitting committee will probably be asked to recommend another list of bills for consideration. Your senator is against premature adjournment and believes that the legislature should remain in session until all important work is done. One night session was held this week and more are planned.

Christian Science Services

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, May 11.

The Golden Text is: "If by one man's offense death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:17).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil." Therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken" (Genesis 3:22, 23).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In the first chapter of Genesis, evil has no local habitation nor name. Creation is there represented as spiritual, entire, and good. . . . No one can reasonably doubt that the purpose of this allegory—is to depict the falsity of error and the effects of error. Subsequent Bible revelation is coordinate with the Science of creation recorded in the first chapter of Genesis. . . . Christian Science separates error from truth, and breathes through the sacred pages the spiritual sense of life, substance, and intelligence. In this Science, we discover man in the image and likeness of God. We see that man has never lost his spiritual estate and his eternal harmony" (pp. 537, 548).

To Ask Hearing On Weed District

More Than Sufficient Have Signed Petitions for Proposed Area.

Wayne county board will soon be asked to hold a hearing on the proposed organization of a weed eradication district. Petitions for a hearing had been signed by 259, more than the required number, last week. Several additional petitions to come in will increase this number substantially.

Men who calculated the petition will meet to set the date and make plans for the hearing. The board's recommendation in the matter will be presented to the state board.

Several hearings on bonded districts will be held in Nebraska within the next few weeks. According to W. J. Klatt, state weed expert, Madison, Dodge and Dakota counties are organizing weed districts, one of the first having a weed district will be an additional one.

Increased weed control in Wayne county is being urged as the county board here from R. and among the reasons that bond districts are interested in organizing to eradicate bonded areas is the following: Rapid spreading of old-tanned weeds and appearance of new ones, large acreage known by recent surveys, some state have taken such drastic measures as not allowing ground from uninfected farm to be marketed, through experiments and control work more effective methods have been found, many farm lands are being ruined by weed, it is not economically sound for the farmer to eradicate bonded if his land is to be infested from an adjoining one, with district organization systematic eradication could be launched to eradicate bonded along roads and railroads; accurate research in South Dakota and Nebraska have shown that a heavy infestation of bindweed will reduce crop yields approximately 50 per cent.

Characteristics of bindweed that make it so undesirable are the fact that it is a perennial plant, it spreads both by root stocks and seed, and the seed will stay in the ground often several years before germinating. Bindweed seed in feed for stock often goes through the digestive tract unharmed and is spread in this way.

Many small cabins dot the river bank, and these homes are in most cases owned by San Francisco people who spend week-ends there.

From Ponca Files.
From Ponca Journal for May 14, 1885: It is reported that the grand jury at Hartington indicted those who participated in a recent riot in Coleridge. When digging 90 feet below the surface to build a well at the Johns farm, Phil Beller found the jawbone of a curious animal now extinct. Farmers finally got their corn planted in between spells of bad weather. Six years ago this paper stated that land then bringing $5 an acre would soon sell for $10. Time has verified that statement and plenty of buyers want land at the $10 figure.

Wayne County Rural School News

Early Records of School Collected By E. J. Scheurich

So closely woven together are the lives of many in the vicinity and the history of the school in district 3 a mile and a half west of Hoskins that E. J. Scheurich has found it most interesting to collect early records. And his books tell a story of development from early beginnings in the prairies to modern times with numerous advantages.

Mr. Scheurich's mother, Mrs. Anna Scheurich, holds one of the outstanding records in the neighborhood. She has lived on her home place a mile south of the school more than 70 years.

Mrs. Scheurich's maiden name was Anna Maas. She was only a year and a half old when her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Maas, came to Nebraska in 1870 from Wisconsin and settled on the place which has been Mrs. Scheurich's home since.

The Maas farm was bought by Jacob Scheurich after he married Anna Maas. Mr. Scheurich died 30 years ago and Mrs. Scheurich stayed on the farm and raised her family of six children. Her son, Louis, still lives with her on the home place.

Mrs. Scheurich's recollections contrast the days when candles were made from oxen tallow and string with the present when rural homes have the advantages of electricity, the telephone, radio and car are a few of the other modern improvements which add so much to comfort and enjoyment. Friendly tribes of Indians often passed through the neighborhood, Mrs. Scheurich remembers, and stopped at the Maas home for food.

Mrs. Scheurich was a child of 10 in district 3 in 1879, according to the earliest records in the possession of E. J. Scheurich. Others of the Maas family attending the school were Mirtine, Ida and Amelia. Lena and Amanda were too young then to be in school. Others enrolled in the district which boasted an attendance of 83, were John Bernhardt, August, Rudolph and Herman Roken, Alvina Leoman, Herman and William Jochens, Rudolph, Herman and Henry Nagenfink, Charles Wendt, Hanna Nenow, Amelia, Ernest and Martha Behrner, Augusta Puls, Henry George, Carl, Anna, Robert, Minnie and Bertha Green, Mary, August, Herman, Michael and Minnie Brasch. G. E. Bernhardt was the teacher.

The early school term varied in length. The record shows that in 1887 the district had two terms, two months in the summer and four in the winter. The teacher was paid $28.75 a month in 1898. The teacher's contract made in the spring of 1888, when the memory of the January 12 blizzard of that year was fresh in mind, stipulated that in case of severe snowstorm the teacher was to keep children in school.

The books show that the school board prepared well for the term. One of the early day precautions was that of having a fire line plowed around the school in September to prevent any possible tragedy in case a prairie fire swept through the area. One record shows that the fire line was plowed for 65c. Another necessity was that of providing fuel. The board had a cord of kindling hauled to the school and neatly piled in the wood house for $3.75.

A few years later the board decided to buy a bell if the treasury had sufficient funds. The funds must have been on hand because the bell was added.

In 1898 the district voted 7 to 3 to build a new school on the site of the old one and also to split the district into two. The new building, to be 30 by 18 by 10, was to be completed by September, 1900, and was not to cost more than $700. Bids ranged from $588.50 to $607 and the structure took form. The district made a levy of 20 mills that year to care for the new building and the rest for other expenses.

The district has continued to improve and to serve an important niche in the community through the years.

Children at the Crossroads

A Self-Imposed Sentence.

In just another three weeks Matt would have been standing among his classmates on a public platform before his proud parents and friends to receive his diploma of graduation from high school. But how the fifteen-year-old, athletic lad had jeopardized that. Instead he was standing before the juvenile court, head bowed in shame, while the merchant beside him charged that Matt had come into his store, slipped a $5.50 rifle down his pant leg and attempted to walk out with it.

Matt's father had been the judge's chum in grade school; and as his son sobbed out a "guilty" to the offense as outlined, the official could not but recall the events of that boyhood companionship.

"Does your father know?" the judge asked Matt.

"No," Matt, still crying, replied. "Do anything you want to with me, but please don't let dad find out."

We made no immediate disposition of the case but had Matt return to court the next week. Meanwhile we investigated his school record and learned from his superintendent, who never knew why we were inquiring, that the boy had an excellent rating.

Matt made no comment when we told him that it was difficult to reach a decision in his case because we failed to find a motive for his wrong-doing. But he was startled at our suggestion: "Suppose you were the judge and I had committed the offense you have committed but realized my error, what would be your disposition of my case?"

He requested a week in which to ponder the decision, which he must put in writing. The next Wednesday he brought it to us: "You would have to go to the store-keeper and apologize and ask his forgiveness. You would have to find a steady job, even though jobs are scarce, regardless of how small the pay is. You would have to obey your parents and go to church regularly. You would have to stay away from bad company. If you made good for two years, I would never tell your dad and mother about the scrape you got into."

Thus Matt imposed his own sentence, and he lived up to all its requirements. Today he is afflicted with a large, nationally-known concern.

The other day when Matt's dad called for a friendly chat, he expressed pride in the boy's accomplishments and stated, "Matt has never caused us a minute of grief."

He will never know about that self-imposed sentence, unless his son eventually concludes to tell it. Matt's exact position cannot be stated without many readers, as well as his father, immediately recognizing his identity because of his prominence.

Your city is judged by its streets

CONCRETE rates 100%

From every standpoint, concrete is the ideal paving material. It saves taxpayers money by reducing original and upkeep costs... is safe in any weather, drains quickly and increases visibility... improves property values—lasts the longest.

Your driving costs are reduced by saving on gas, tires and car repair expense.

Concrete pavements give a clean, spick and span appearance to the community. Concrete's pleasing gray color reflects light, makes it easier to see—reduces accidents in every kind of weather.

Insist on concrete for safety, comfort and money-saving.

There are more than 140 Nebraska municipalities which have paved their streets with safe, money-saving concrete. Many cities are now making use of Federal funds and each year are continuing their street paving program, using concrete, the standard by which all pavements are measured.
